Edition: Reading text: https://en.wikisource.org/wiki/The_Bet_and_Other_Stories/The_Bet (revision 7093575), cleaned for Liber et Libri.

Grades: Grades 9–12 (accessible text, well suited to the scaffolded-support track; scales to graduate via rigor levels). Short story: read whole in one 90-minute lesson (assign longer stories as pre-reading). The scaffolded-support track works from the full text with scaffolds. Weeks: 1. Class days: 2 × 90 minutes (1 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does The Bet suggest about the value of life?
- What does The Bet suggest about knowledge and renunciation?
- What does The Bet suggest about money and freedom?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Lesson 1: Introduction to The Bet

Author biography

Anton Chekhov was born on 29 January 1860 in Taganrog, Russia, the grandson of a serf. He trained as a doctor in Moscow and supported his family by writing comic sketches for magazines, then turned to serious stories and plays; he called medicine his wife and literature his mistress. His plays The Seagull, Uncle Vanya, Three Sisters and The Cherry Orchard changed modern drama. He died of tuberculosis in Badenweiler, Germany, on 15 July 1904.

Historical and cultural context

In 1880s Russia, educated people debated the death penalty and life imprisonment; Russia also exiled prisoners to Siberia. Chekhov was a doctor and visited the prison island of Sakhalin in 1890.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in the newspaper Novoye Vremya (New Times) in 1889 under the title "A Tale"; Chekhov later shortened the ending and retitled it "The Bet."

Then: A minor work in its day.

Now: A classic for discussing values, freedom and the meaning of life.

Overview (spoiler-free)

At a party, a banker bets a young lawyer two million rubles that he cannot endure fifteen years of solitary confinement. The lawyer accepts and is locked in a garden lodge with books.

Main themes

- the value of life and freedom.
- greed.
- knowledge and wisdom.

Why it matters

It asks what really matters in a life, and whether knowledge leads to happiness.

Spoilers · teacher only

On the eve of his release, the ruined banker plans to kill him but finds a letter renouncing the money and all worldly things. The lawyer escapes five minutes early, losing the bet deliberately.

Lesson 2: The Bet

Focus: what fifteen years of solitude teach

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in "The Bet" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (contemplated murder, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Contemplated murder. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. This section mentions drinking or a drug ("…l instrument, to read books, to write letters, to drink wine and smoke tobacco. By the agreemen…"). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes contemplated murder.
Suggested language: "Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?"

At a party a banker bets a young lawyer two million rubles that he cannot stay fifteen years in solitary confinement. The lawyer reads everything, from stories to languages and theology. On the eve of the end the ruined banker plans to kill him, but finds a letter renouncing the money and all worldly goods as vanity. The lawyer escapes five hours early, forfeiting; the banker locks the letter in his safe.

Background: Written 1889. Translation used: S. Koteliansky and J. M. Murry, The Bet and Other Stories (1915), public domain in the US.

Significance: Raises the capital punishment versus life imprisonment debate and the meaning of knowledge; on Glencoe grade 9 lesson plans.

The lawyer reads everything, from stories to languages and theology. On the eve of the end the ruined banker plans to kill him, but finds a letter renouncing the money and all…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Bet” set up that the rest of The Bet will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it. Useful evidence: “Two millions are nothing to me” (The Bet, paragraph 12): The banker's arrogance. On structure: A frame: the banker remembers the bet on the night before it ends. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it. Useful evidence: “Everything is void, frail, visionary and delusive like a mirage” (The Bet, paragraph 37): The lawyer's conclusion. On characterization: The banker grows from reckless to desperate; the lawyer changes through reading, from impulse to renunciation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is it better to die than to spend life in prison? Why?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with the value of life? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it. Useful evidence: “I despise freedom, life, health” (The Bet, paragraph 34): The letter. On characterization: The banker grows from reckless to desperate; the lawyer changes through reading, from impulse to renunciation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Written 1889. Translation used: S. Koteliansky and J. M. Murry, The Bet and Other Stories (1915), public domain in the US. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it. Useful evidence: “Two millions are nothing to me” (The Bet, paragraph 12): The banker's arrogance. Theme link: the lawyer comes to despise everything people value. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Raises the capital punishment versus life imprisonment debate and the meaning of knowledge; on Glencoe grade 9 lesson plans.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Bet,” how does Chekhov show what fifteen years of solitude teach? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In The Bet, how does Chekhov develop the idea of what fifteen years of solitude teach? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea. Read in the public-domain translation by S. S. Koteliansky and J. M. Murry.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how The Bet develops the idea of what fifteen years of solitude teach. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and structure shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim. Read in the public-domain translation by S. S. Koteliansky and J. M. Murry.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of The Bet (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of what fifteen years of solitude teach. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what The Bet suggests about what fifteen years of solitude teach. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and structure), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Anton Chekhov uses irony in The Bet to complicate the reader's understanding of what fifteen years of solitude teach. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: ICC-WC-1.3, ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.1): Situate The Bet within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of what fifteen years of solitude teach responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: LeL-C2-LIT-1, LeL-C2-W-1): Read The Bet alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of what fifteen years of solitude teach follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: LeL-C3-LIT-1, LeL-C3-W-1): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Bet and its treatment of what fifteen years of solitude teach. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and structure, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: LeL-C4-LIT-1, LeL-C4-W-1): Develop a research argument that reads The Bet as evidence for a larger claim about what fifteen years of solitude teach in The Bet. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: LeL-GR-LIT-1, LeL-GR-W-1): Develop an original argument that reads The Bet as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of what fifteen years of solitude teach. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Bet.

SAT-style questions

1. So do I marvel at you, who have bartered heaven for earth.

   As used in the text, what does the word “bartered” most nearly mean?

   A. a tendency to change one's mind suddenly

   B. traded goods or things of value instead of using money

   C. set down as a required condition of an agreement

D. without order or plan

2. "Why did I make this bet? What's the good? The lawyer loses fifteen years of his life and I throw away two millions. Will it convince people that capital punishment is worse or better than imprisonment for life. No, No! All stuff and rubbish. On my part, it was the caprice of a well-fed man; on the lawyer's, pure greed of gold."

Which choice best states a central concern of "The Bet"?

A. Greed that grasps more than a person needs

B. A story so convincing it becomes real

C. What fifteen years of solitude teach

D. Confinement driving a woman into madness

SAT key: 1. B (traded goods or things of value instead of using money); 2. C (What fifteen years of solitude teach)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Bet, paragraph 12: “Two _____ are nothing to me”

   Key: millions

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How long must the lawyer stay confined?

    A. Fifteen years

    B. Five years

    C. Ten years

    D. Twenty years

    Key: A (Fifteen years)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “During the last two years of his confinement the prisoner read an extraordinary amount, quite _____.” Word bank: haphazard, emaciation, bartered, unwearying

    Key: haphazard

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I despise freedom, life, health” (The Bet, paragraph 34) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The letter.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Two millions are nothing to me” (The Bet, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The banker's arrogance.

14. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Bet”?

    A. Self-destruction and the urge to do wrong

    B. What fifteen years of solitude teach

    C. The mind's final escape at the moment of death

    D. A reversal that punishes a change of heart

    Key: B (What fifteen years of solitude teach)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Everything is void, frail, visionary and delusive like a mirage” (The Bet, paragraph 37).

    Sample answer: The banker begins by saying "Two millions are nothing to me" and ends ruined and ready to kill, while the lawyer concludes that "Everything is void, frail, visionary and delusive like a mirage" and gives up the money.

16. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “The Bet”? A frame: the banker remembers the bet on the night before it ends.

    A. Hyperbole

    B. Conflict

    C. Imagery

    D. Structure

    Key: D (Structure)

17. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “The Bet”? The banker grows from reckless to desperate; the lawyer changes through reading, from impulse to renunciation.

    A. Theme

    B. Characterization

    C. Simile

    D. Tone / mood

    Key: B (Characterization)

18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Two millions are nothing to me” (The Bet, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The banker's arrogance.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Everything is void, frail, visionary and delusive like a mirage” (The Bet, paragraph 37). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The lawyer's conclusion.

20. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how the value of life and freedom develops from an earlier story to “The Bet”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the lawyer comes to despise everything people value.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the story: “Both men are changed by the bet, but only the lawyer learns from it.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The banker begins by saying "Two millions are nothing to me" and ends ruined and ready to kill, while the lawyer concludes that "Everything is void, frail, visionary and delusive like a mirage" and gives up the money.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I despise freedom, life, health” (The Bet, paragraph 34) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The letter.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The banker found it strange that a man who in four years had mastered six hundred erudite volumes, should have spent nearly a year in reading one book, easy to understand and by no means thick.”, what does “erudite” most nearly mean?

    A. never tiring

    B. having or showing great learning

    C. traded goods or things of value instead of using money

    D. extreme thinness caused by illness or lack of food

    Key: B (having or showing great learning)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His hair was already silvering with grey, and no one who glanced at the senile emaciation of the face would have believed that he was only forty years old.”, what does “emaciation” most nearly mean?

    A. traded goods or things of value instead of using money

    B. extreme thinness caused by illness or lack of food

    C. never tiring

    D. having or showing great learning

    Key: B (extreme thinness caused by illness or lack of food)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “All that unwearying human thought created in the centuries is compressed to a little lump in my skull.”, what does “unwearying” most nearly mean?

    A. never tiring

    B. traded goods or things of value instead of using money

    C. having or showing great learning

    D. extreme thinness caused by illness or lack of food

    Key: A (never tiring)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “So do I marvel at you, who have bartered heaven for earth.”, what does “bartered” most nearly mean?

Final paper

The Bet: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Anton Chekhov develops the value of life across The Bet. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Bet and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to knowledge and renunciation.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Bet. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Bet finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of money and freedom. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words

Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.
Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.

Essay assignments

Essay: The value of life

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what The Bet teaches about the value of life. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Anton Chekhov develops the value of life in The Bet. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Anton Chekhov develops the value of life across The Bet. Trace the idea through at least three parts of the story and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of The Bet (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of the value of life. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of the value of life in The Bet. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Anton Chekhov's choices in The Bet (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of the value of life, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.4, ICC-WC-1.7): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places The Bet's treatment of the value of life in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: LeL-C2-W-1, LeL-C2-LIT-1): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on the value of life in The Bet that reads the story against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: LeL-C3-W-1, LeL-C3-LIT-1): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on the value of life in The Bet. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: LeL-C4-W-1, LeL-C4-LIT-1): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about the value of life in The Bet, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: LeL-GR-W-1, LeL-GR-LIT-1): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on the value of life in The Bet, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.
