Pride and Prejudice

Jane Austen · 1813

TEACHER EDITION · CURRICULUM UNIT

Cambridge International edition (standards shown for this framework only)

61 chapter lessons plus 6 seminar day(s), a test day and an essay day: 70 class days of 90 minutes, 5 a week (block schedule), 14 weeks
Syllabus · 90-minute lesson plans · lecture scripts · vocabulary · quizzes with keys · writing prompts at eleven rigor levels · SAT-style items · whole-book test · essays

Liber et Libri · Lux et Libri LLC

Cover: John Constable, Wivenhoe Park, Essex (1816). Public domain (Wikimedia Commons).

Contents and unit overview

1. Unit overview and the 90-minute lesson
2. Syllabus (weekly pacing)
3. Lesson 1: introduction (author, context, reception, overview)
4. Lesson plans and lecture scripts (chapters 1–61), each with vocabulary, discussion questions, annotation focus, quiz and key, writing prompts and SAT-style items
5. Unit test (eleven rigor versions) with answer keys and scoring guides
6. Final paper
7. Essay assignments at eleven rigor levels

Content note for teachers: Recurring themes need framing: marriage as economic survival for women, class contempt (Cheapside, “trade”), and Mr. Bennet's mockery of his wife and daughters.

Grades: Grades 9–12 (also 7–8; scales to graduate via rigor levels). Excerpt-based support track: these novels are above the grades 6–8 text-complexity band, so Middle School prompts work from teacher-selected passages. Weeks: 14. Class days: 70 × 90 minutes (61 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does Pride and Prejudice suggest about first impressions and prejudice?
- What does Pride and Prejudice suggest about pride and self-knowledge?
- What does Pride and Prejudice suggest about marriage and money?
- What does Pride and Prejudice suggest about class and social mobility?
- What does Pride and Prejudice suggest about women's limited choices?

Objectives

- Cite textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly and implicitly.
- Determine themes and analyze their development over the course of the novel.
- Analyze how characters, setting and point of view interact.
- Determine the meaning of words and phrases as they are used in the text.
- Write arguments to support claims with clear reasons and relevant evidence.

Standards: Cambridge International

CAIE-9695.AO1, CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4, CAIE-9695.AO5

Cambridge International AS & A Level Literature in English 9695 assessment objectives (our summaries; cambridgeinternational.org)

Assessments: Daily chapter quizzes (auto-graded); Weekly writing prompt (rubric); Socratic seminars (scheduled days); Whole-book test (scheduled day); Final essay (scheduled day); College Sophomore and above write one essay of the five Differentiation: Every prompt and quiz has eleven rigor levels (Middle School through Graduate / PhD); the app applies student override, then class standard, then the automatic level. Each prompt is tagged for Common Core, Indiana 2023, Dual Credit (Indiana College Core), AP and Cambridge where they apply.
Materials: Liber et Libri reader; Annotation journal; Chapter lecture slides or script

The 90-minute lesson

#	Segment	Mode	Minutes	Clock
1	Bell-ringer	You do	8	0–8
2	Vocabulary with etymology notes	I do	10	8–18
3	Background and context	I do	10	18–28
4	I do: modeled close reading	I do	12	28–40
5	We do: guided annotation	We do	15	40–55
6	You do: independent annotation	You do	15	55–70
7	Discussion	We do	10	70–80
8	Exit ticket / chapter quiz	You do	7	80–87
9	Closure	I do	3	87–90
	Total		90

Syllabus

Week	Chapters	Lessons	Focus and activities	Assessment
1	Introduction: author, context and reception Chapter I Chapter II Chapter III Chapter IV	5 × 90 min (450 min)	first impressions and prejudice • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Introduction: author, context and reception • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
2	Chapter V Socratic seminar on first impressions and prejudice Chapter VI Chapter VII Chapter VIII	5 × 90 min (450 min)	pride and self-knowledge • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on first impressions and prejudice • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
3	Chapter IX Chapter X Chapter XI Chapter XII Chapter XIII	5 × 90 min (450 min)	marriage and money • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
4	Chapter XIV Chapter XV Socratic seminar on pride and self-knowledge Chapter XVI Chapter XVII	5 × 90 min (450 min)	class and social mobility • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on pride and self-knowledge • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
5	Chapter XVIII Chapter XIX Chapter XX	5 × 90 min (450 min)	women's limited choices • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket,	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt

	Chapter XXI Chapter XXII		closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)
6	Chapter XXIII Chapter XXIV Chapter XXV Socratic seminar on marriage and money Chapter XXVI	5 × 90 min (450 min)	first impressions and prejudice • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on marriage and money • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
7	Chapter XXVII Chapter XXVIII Chapter XXIX Chapter XXX Chapter XXXI	5 × 90 min (450 min)	pride and self-knowledge • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
8	Chapter XXXII Chapter XXXIII Chapter XXXIV Chapter XXXV Socratic seminar on class and social mobility	5 × 90 min (450 min)	marriage and money • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on class and social mobility • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
9	Chapter XXXVI Chapter XXXVII Chapter XXXVIII Chapter XXXIX Chapter XL	5 × 90 min (450 min)	class and social mobility • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
10	Chapter XLI Chapter XLII Chapter XLIII Chapter XLIV Chapter XLV	5 × 90 min (450 min)	women's limited choices • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt

			• Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)
11	Socratic seminar on women's limited choices Chapter XLVI Chapter XLVII Chapter XLVIII Chapter XLIX	5 × 90 min (450 min)	first impressions and prejudice • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on women's limited choices • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
12	Chapter L Chapter LI Chapter LII Chapter LIII Chapter LIV	5 × 90 min (450 min)	pride and self-knowledge • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
13	Chapter LV Socratic seminar on first impressions and prejudice Chapter LVI Chapter LVII Chapter LVIII	5 × 90 min (450 min)	marriage and money • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on first impressions and prejudice • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
14	Chapter LIX Chapter LX Chapter LXI Whole-book test (90 minutes) Final essay workshop and submission	5 × 90 min (450 min)	class and social mobility • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Whole-book test (90 minutes) • Final essay workshop and submission • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Whole-book test and final essay

Lesson plans and lecture scripts

Each chapter is one 90-minute class. Scripts are a starting point; adapt them to your students. Teacher summaries contain spoilers.

Lesson 1: Introduction to Pride and Prejudice

Author biography

Jane Austen was born on 16 December 1775 at Steventon rectory in Hampshire, the seventh of eight children of the Reverend George Austen and Cassandra Leigh Austen. Apart from brief schooling she was educated at home, in a lively family that read novels aloud and staged plays; two of her brothers became admirals in the Royal Navy. She wrote comic pieces as a teenager and drafted the novel that became Pride and Prejudice, then called "First Impressions," in 1796–97. After years in Bath and Southampton she settled in 1809 at Chawton, Hampshire, where she revised and published her novels anonymously: Sense and Sensibility (1811), Pride and Prejudice (1813), Mansfield Park (1814) and Emma (1815). She never married (in 1802 she accepted a proposal from Harris Bigg-Wither and withdrew her acceptance the next day). She died in Winchester on 18 July 1817, aged 41, and is buried in Winchester Cathedral; Northanger Abbey and Persuasion appeared after her death.

Historical and cultural context

The novel is set among the English landed gentry around the turn of the nineteenth century, during the long wars with Revolutionary and Napoleonic France; that is why a militia regiment is quartered at Meryton. Wealth came mainly from land, and estates were often "entailed": settled so that they passed down the male line. Mr. Bennet's estate is entailed on his nearest male relative, so his five daughters will lose their home when he dies. Respectable women of this class could not enter professions, so marriage was the main route to financial security; the novel's money figures (Darcy's £10,000 a year, Elizabeth's expected £1,000 capital) were real stakes. Austen writes in the tradition of the novel of manners, where small social behaviours (who dances with whom, who calls on whom) reveal character and class.

Publication and reception, then and now

Austen's father offered "First Impressions" to the publisher Thomas Cadell in 1797; it was declined by return of post without being read. Revised and retitled, it was sold to Thomas Egerton for £110 and published on 28 January 1813 in three volumes, "By the Author of Sense and Sensibility." Austen called it "my own darling child" in a letter to her sister Cassandra the next day.

Then: The book was well received: reviews in The British Critic and The Critical Review in 1813 praised its characterization, especially Elizabeth, and the first edition sold out within months, with a second that autumn. Not every later writer was charmed: Charlotte Brontë, in an 1848 letter to G. H. Lewes, found it "a carefully fenced, highly cultivated garden" with "no open country."

Now: Pride and Prejudice is one of the best-loved novels in English, continuously in print and adapted many times, most famously in the 1995 BBC series and the 2005 film. Critics read it as a comedy of manners, a study of economic pressure on women, and a novel about how we judge other people; its opening sentence is among the most quoted in literature. Austen's portrait appeared on the Bank of England £10 note in 2017, the bicentenary of her death.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Mrs. Bennet is determined to marry off her five daughters; when wealthy Mr. Bingley and his proud friend Mr. Darcy arrive in the neighbourhood, the second daughter, the quick-witted Elizabeth, forms a strong opinion of Darcy at their first meeting. The novel follows the Bennet sisters through balls, visits, letters, a charming officer and a ridiculous clergyman, as Elizabeth learns how much her first impressions were worth.

Main themes

- pride and prejudice: both main characters show both faults; watch who judges whom, and on what evidence.
- marriage and money: count the incomes; ask what each marriage is for.
- first impressions: the novel's original title; test every early judgment against later evidence.
- family and reputation: one sister's behaviour can damage all five.
- women's choices: what can a woman without a fortune actually do?

Why it matters

The novel is about judging people too quickly, something social media has made more relevant, not less. It also shows clearly how money and law shaped women's lives, and its comedy shows students that serious ideas can be very funny.

Spoilers · teacher only

Darcy proposes and is refused; his letter reveals Wickham's true character and Darcy's role in separating Bingley from Jane. Elizabeth realizes her prejudice; at Pemberley she sees a changed Darcy. Lydia elopes with Wickham; Darcy secretly pays to make them marry. Bingley returns and marries Jane; Lady Catherine's attempt to prevent a match backfires, and Darcy and Elizabeth marry.

Lesson plan (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)

Before we open Pride and Prejudice: Have you ever judged someone at first meeting and been completely wrong? What made you change your mind?

Prompt: Before we open Pride and Prejudice: Have you ever judged someone at first meeting and been completely wrong? What made you change your mind?

8–18 min · Key terms · I do (10 min) entail (a legal arrangement that passes an estate down the male line); gentry (landowning families below the nobility); novel of manners (a novel about social behaviour and class); free indirect discourse (third-person narration that slips into a character's thoughts); irony (saying one thing and meaning another).

18–28 min · Mini-lecture: author, context, reception · I do (10 min)

About the author. Jane Austen was born on 16 December 1775 at Steventon rectory in Hampshire, the seventh of eight children of the Reverend George Austen and Cassandra Leigh Austen. Apart from brief schooling she was educated at home, in a lively family that read novels aloud and staged plays; two of her brothers became admirals in the Royal Navy. She wrote comic pieces as a teenager and drafted the novel that became Pride and Prejudice, then called "First Impressions," in 1796–97. After years in Bath and Southampton she settled in 1809 at Chawton, Hampshire, where she revised and published her novels anonymously: Sense and Sensibility (1811), Pride and Prejudice (1813), Mansfield Park (1814) and Emma (1815). She never married (in 1802 she accepted a proposal from Harris Bigg-Wither and withdrew her acceptance the next day). She died in Winchester on 18 July 1817, aged 41, and is buried in Winchester Cathedral; Northanger Abbey and Persuasion appeared after her death. The world of the book. The novel is set among the English landed gentry around the turn of the nineteenth century, during the long wars with Revolutionary and Napoleonic France; that is why a militia regiment is quartered at Meryton. Wealth came mainly from land, and estates were often "entailed": settled so that they passed down the male line. Mr. Bennet's estate is entailed on his nearest male relative, so his five daughters will lose their home when he dies. Respectable women of this class could not enter professions, so marriage was the main route to financial security; the novel's money figures (Darcy's £10,000 a year, Elizabeth's expected £1,000 capital) were real stakes. Austen writes in the tradition of the novel of manners, where small social behaviours (who dances with whom, who calls on whom) reveal character and class. Publication and reception. Austen's father offered "First Impressions" to the publisher Thomas Cadell in 1797; it was declined by return of post without being read. Revised and retitled, it was sold to Thomas Egerton for £110 and published on 28 January 1813 in three volumes, "By the Author of Sense and Sensibility." Austen called it "my own darling child" in a letter to her sister Cassandra the next day. Then: The book was well received: reviews in The British Critic and The Critical Review in 1813 praised its characterization, especially Elizabeth, and the first edition sold out within months, with a second that autumn. Not every later writer was charmed: Charlotte Brontë, in an 1848 letter to G. H. Lewes, found it "a carefully fenced, highly cultivated garden" with "no open country." Now: Pride and Prejudice is one of the best-loved novels in English, continuously in print and adapted many times, most famously in the 1995 BBC series and the 2005 film. Critics read it as a comedy of manners, a study of economic pressure on women, and a novel about how we judge other people; its opening sentence is among the most quoted in literature. Austen's portrait appeared on the Bank of England £10 note in 2017, the bicentenary of her death.

28–40 min · I do: the book in one passage · I do (12 min)

“It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1). The famous ironic opening: it states a "universal" truth that is really the wish of mothers with daughters. Teach the irony now; the whole novel depends on hearing it.

> It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1). The famous ironic opening: it states a "universal" truth that is really the wish of mothers with daughters. Teach the irony now; the whole novel depends on hearing it.

40–55 min · We do: overview and themes · We do (15 min)

What the book is about (no spoilers): Mrs. Bennet is determined to marry off her five daughters; when wealthy Mr. Bingley and his proud friend Mr. Darcy arrive in the neighbourhood, the second daughter, the quick-witted Elizabeth, forms a strong opinion of Darcy at their first meeting. The novel follows the Bennet sisters through balls, visits, letters, a charming officer and a ridiculous clergyman, as Elizabeth learns how much her first impressions were worth. Themes to track: pride and prejudice: both main characters show both faults; watch who judges whom, and on what evidence. marriage and money: count the incomes; ask what each marriage is for. first impressions: the novel's original title; test every early judgment against later evidence. family and reputation: one sister's behaviour can damage all five. women's choices: what can a woman without a fortune actually do?

55–70 min · You do: reading journal · You do (15 min)

Set up a reading journal: one page per theme with a prediction and a question. Theme page "first impressions": Prediction: someone who seems pleasant at first will turn out badly. Question: will Elizabeth ever admit she was wrong?

Task: Set up a reading journal for Pride and Prejudice: one page per theme, each with a prediction and a question.

Exemplar: Theme page "first impressions": Prediction: someone who seems pleasant at first will turn out badly. Question: will Elizabeth ever admit she was wrong?

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Why does Pride and Prejudice still matter? The novel is about judging people too quickly, something social media has made more relevant, not less. It also shows clearly how money and law shaped women's lives, and its comedy shows students that serious ideas can be very funny.

Anchor question: Why might Pride and Prejudice still be taught today?

Facilitation: The novel is about judging people too quickly, something social media has made more relevant, not less. It also shows clearly how money and law shaped women's lives, and its comedy shows students that serious ideas can be very funny.

80–87 min · Exit ticket · You do (7 min)

Explain one way that money or the law shaped the choices of women like the Bennet sisters. Answer: Examples: the entail means the Bennet daughters will lose their home when their father dies; women of their class could not take professions, so marriage was their main security.

Exit ticket: Explain one way that money or the law shaped the choices of women like the Bennet sisters.

Answer: Examples: the entail means the Bennet daughters will lose their home when their father dies; women of their class could not take professions, so marriage was their main security.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Tomorrow we begin reading: Chapter I.

Teacher notes · sources: Britannica, "Jane Austen" (https://www.britannica.com/biography/Jane-Austen); Jane Austen's House, Chawton (biography and publication history) (https://janeaustens.house/jane-austen/); British Library, "Pride and Prejudice" (publication, Cadell refusal, Egerton) (https://www.bl.uk/romantics-and-victorians/articles/an-introduction-to-pride-and-prejudice); Austen to Cassandra, 29 January 1813 ("my own darling child") in Deirdre Le Faye, ed., Jane Austen's Letters (https://www.worldcat.org/); Charlotte Brontë to G. H. Lewes, 12 January 1848 (https://www.bl.uk/collection-items/letter-from-charlotte-bronte-to-g-h-lewes); Bank of England, Jane Austen £10 note (2017) (https://www.bankofengland.co.uk/banknotes/polymer-10-pound-note)

Flags (verify before teaching):

- The exact year the story is set is uncertain: the draft dates from 1796–97, while the 1813 text's dates fit calendars of 1811–12. Say "around 1800–1812."
- The first-edition print run is usually estimated at about 1,500 copies; treat as an estimate.

Critical voice: “Also read again, and for the third time at least, Miss Austen's very finely written novel of _Pride and Prejudice_. That young lady had a talent for describing the involvements and feelings and characters of ordinary life, which is to me the most wonderful I ever met with. The Big Bow-wow strain I can do myself like any now going; but the exquisite touch, which renders ordinary commonplace things and characters interesting, from the truth of the description and the sentiment, is denied to me. What a pity such a gifted creature died so early!” (Walter Scott, novelist, The Journal of Sir Walter Scott, entry for 14 March 1826, entry of 14 March 1826; public domain). Bell-ringer: the bestselling novelist of his age says he cannot do what Austen does. What is the "Big Bow-wow strain," and why might "ordinary commonplace things" be harder to write? Objective: Describe Austen's reception and what makes "ordinary life" a subject for great fiction. Standards: RL.11-12.6, RL.11-12.2, 11-12.RC.1

Critical voice: “Jane Austen's books, too, are absent from this library. Just that one omission alone would make a fairly good library out of a library that hadn't a book in it.” (Mark Twain, novelist and humorist, Following the Equator (1897), Chapter LXII, Chapter LXII; public domain). Four-corners debate with Scott (journal), Brontë and Macaulay: rank the four verdicts and defend the ranking with one passage from Chapter I. Objective: Weigh dissenting views of Austen (then and now). Standards: SL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1, 11-12.W.1

Lesson 2: Chapter I

Focus: marriage as a social goal

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter I” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “Slender, and Shallow, and Aguecheek, as Shakespeare has painted them, though equally fools, resemble one another no more than "Richard," and "Macbeth," and "Julius Caesar"; and Miss Austin's "Mrs. Bennet," "Mr. Rushworth," and "Miss Bates," are no more alike than her "Darcy," "Knightley," and "Edmund Bertram."” (Richard Whately, logician and later Archbishop of Dublin, Review of Northanger Abbey and Persuasion, The Quarterly Review (January 1821), reprinted in Famous Reviews, ed. R. Brimley Johnson (1914), "Archbishop Whately on Jane Austen"; public domain). Character study: what makes Mrs. Bennet a particular fool rather than a type? Students list three lines only she could say. ("Austin" is Whately's spelling.) Objective: Analyze Austen's characterization of Mr. and Mrs. Bennet in the opening dialogue. Standards: RL.11-12.3, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

The novel opens with its famous ironic line about a single man in possession of a good fortune. Mrs. Bennet excitedly tells Mr. Bennet that a wealthy young man, Mr. Bingley, has rented Netherfield Park; Mr. Bennet teases her.

Background: In Regency England, daughters of gentry families depended on marriage for security; the Bennet estate is entailed away from daughters.

Significance: The opening sentence is among the most quoted in English and models Austen's irony: it means the reverse of what it seems to say.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: newcomers — people who have recently arrived; develop — to train and educate; to help grow; caprice — a tendency to change one's mind suddenly; tiresome — so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness; recommend — to make attractive or worthy. “newcomers”: From Middle English newe-comere, equivalent to new- + comer. Compare Old English nīwcumen "new comer, neophyte, novice". “tiresome”: From tire + some. “recommend”: From Middle English recommenden, from Old French recommender (compare French recommander), from Latin re- + commendāre "to commend, commit; to recommend", from con- + mando + mandāre, from manus + do + dare.

Words: newcomers: people who have recently arrived · develop: to train and educate; to help grow · caprice: a tendency to change one's mind suddenly · tiresome: so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness · recommend: to make attractive or worthy

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

In Regency England, daughters of gentry families depended on marriage for security; the Bennet estate is entailed away from daughters. The opening sentence is among the most quoted in English and models Austen's irony: it means the reverse of what it seems to say. Irony: The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it. Characterization: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had” (Chapter I, paragraph 34).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28). Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. That is irony at work: The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it.

> You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves (Chapter I, paragraph 28)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28). Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. That is irony at work: The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Universally" exaggerates; "must be in want" pretends to be the man's need. The real meaning is that families want his money, introducing marriage and money. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). (Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.)

> It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Universally" exaggerates; "must be in want" pretends to be the man's need. The real meaning is that families want his money, introducing marriage and money.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). (Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for irony, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about marriage as a social goal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of marriage as a social goal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. When the text says "It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife" (Chapter I, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

Task: Annotate the chapter for irony, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about marriage as a social goal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of marriage as a social goal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. When the text says "It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife" (Chapter I, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage? Read the first sentence aloud twice, once straight and once ironically. Ask which reading the second paragraph supports.
Anchor question: What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage?
Facilitation: Read the first sentence aloud twice, once straight and once ironically. Ask which reading the second paragraph supports.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about marriage as a social goal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. ("It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife", Chapter I, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about marriage as a social goal? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. ("It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife", Chapter I, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how irony shapes marriage as a social goal. Key takeaway: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Irony: The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it.
- Characterization: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had” (Chapter I, paragraph 34).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.
- “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28) Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.
- “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34) The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money.
Evidence: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
newcomers (noun)	people who have recently arrived	Sir William and Lady Lucas are determined to go, merely on that account, for in general you know they visit no newcomers.	“newcomers”: From Middle English newe-comere, equivalent to new- + comer. Compare Old English nīwcumen "new comer, neophyte, novice". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/newcomer#Etymology)
develop (verb)	to train and educate; to help grow	Her mind was less difficult to develop.
caprice (noun)	a tendency to change one's mind suddenly	Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.

tiresome (adjective)	so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness	Bennet," replied his wife, "how can you be so tiresome!	"tiresome": From tire + some. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tiresome#Etymology) recommend (verb)	to make attractive or worthy	"They have none of them much to recommend them," replied he; "they are all silly and ignorant like other girls; but Lizzy has something more of quickness than her sisters."	"recommend": From Middle English recommenden, from Old French recommender (compare French recommander), from Latin re- + commendāre "to commend, commit; to recommend", from con- + mando + mandāre, from manus + do + dare. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/recommend#Etymology)
mixture (noun)	a combination of different things	Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.	"mixture": From Middle English -, borrowed from Old French misture, from Latin mixtūra "a mixing", from mixtus, perfect passive participle of misceō "mix"; compare mix. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mixture#Etymology)
reserve (noun)	a habit of keeping one's feelings to oneself	Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.	"reserve": From Old French reserver, from Latin reservō "to reserve, retain". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reserve#Etymology)
marrying (verb)	take in marriage	You must know that I am thinking of his marrying one of them."	"marrying": From Old French marier, from Latin maritare "to wed," from maritus "husband." (Not from Latin mare "sea.") (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/marry)
compassion (noun)	a deep awareness of and sympathy for another's suffering	You have no compassion on my poor nerves."
pretend (verb)	to claim	I certainly have had my share of beauty, but I do not pretend to be anything extraordinary now.

Discussion questions

1. What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who has rented Netherfield Park? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bingley
2. How does Mr. Bennet treat his wife's excitement? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He teases her dryly
3. What is the tone of the opening sentence? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Ironic
4. What is Mrs. Bennet's main goal? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Marrying off her daughters
5. How many daughters do the Bennets have? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Five
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter I” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The novel opens with its famous ironic line about a single man in possession of a good fortune. Mrs. Bennet excitedly tells Mr. Bennet that a wealthy young man, Mr. Bingley, has rented Netherfield Park; Mr. Bennet teases her.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter I”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter I” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Sir William and Lady Lucas are determined to go, merely on that account, for in general you know they visit no newcomers.” What does “newcomers” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: newcomers: people who have recently arrived.
10. Reread: “Her mind was less difficult to develop.” What does “develop” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: develop: to train and educate; to help grow.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter I” suggest about marriage as a social goal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The opening sentence is among the most quoted in English and models Austen's irony: it means the reverse of what it seems to say.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about marriage as a social goal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife. On characterization: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““My dear, you flatter me.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter I”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The novel opens with its famous ironic line about a single man in possession of a good fortune. Mrs. Bennet excitedly tells Mr. Bennet that a wealthy young man, Mr. Bingley, has rented Netherfield Park; Mr. Bennet teases her.
6. As the opening chapter, what does “Chapter I” set up that the rest of Pride and Prejudice will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28): Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34): The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases. On characterization: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does the first sentence really suggest about who wants the marriage?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: In Regency England, daughters of gentry families depended on marriage for security; the Bennet estate is entailed away from daughters. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28): Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The opening sentence is among the most quoted in English and models Austen's irony: it means the reverse of what it seems to say.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34): The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife. On characterization: Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter I” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about marriage as a social goal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28): Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter I”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34): The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28): Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. On irony: The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter I” treats marriage as a social goal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper" (Chapter I, paragraph 34): The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what "Chapter II" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: "It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife" (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about marriage as a social goal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: "You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves" (Chapter I, paragraph 28): Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Useful evidence: "She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper" (Chapter I, paragraph 34): The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases. Theme link: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune"). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Bennet was so odd a _____ of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character." Word bank: caprice, newcomers, develop, mixture

   Key: mixture

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 1: "It is a truth universally _____, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife"
   Key: acknowledged
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""They have none of them much to _____ them," replied he; "they are all silly and ignorant like other girls; but Lizzy has something more of quickness than her sisters."" Word bank: caprice, develop, recommend, newcomers
   Key: recommend
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, _____, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character." Word bank: newcomers, caprice, develop, reserve
   Key: reserve
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the tone of the opening sentence?
   A. Angry
   B. Tragic
   C. Ironic
   D. Mysterious

   Key: C (Ironic)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 34: "She was a woman of mean _____, little information, and uncertain temper"
   Key: understanding
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "You must know that I am thinking of his _____ one of them."" Word bank: newcomers, marrying, caprice, develop
   Key: marrying
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Sir William and Lady Lucas are determined to go, merely on that account, for in general you know they visit no newcomers.", what does "newcomers" most nearly mean?
   A. the person who did most of the talking
   B. of or relating to marriage or to the relationship between a wife and husband
   C. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)
   D. people who have recently arrived

   Key: D (people who have recently arrived)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Bennet," replied his wife, "how can you be so tiresome!", what does "tiresome" most nearly mean?
   A. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness
   B. allowing oneself to enjoy
   C. express in words
   D. a period of fourteen consecutive days

   Key: A (so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness)
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves" (Chapter I, paragraph 28) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28)

    A. Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.
    B. Opening; Elizabeth's openness.
    C. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
    D. Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

    Key: D (Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34)

    A. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
    B. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    C. Charlotte's compensations.
    D. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.

    Key: A (The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority.

    A. Characterization
    B. Structure
    C. Symbolism
    D. Tone / mood

    Key: A (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

    A. Pride and self-knowledge
    B. Class and social mobility
    C. First impressions and prejudice
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter I”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Mrs. Bennet's main goal?

    A. Buying a new house
    B. Marrying off her daughters
    C. Educating her daughters

D. Travelling to London

Key: B (Marrying off her daughters)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 28: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no _____ on my poor nerves”

Key: compassion

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who has rented Netherfield Park?

A. Mr. Darcy
B. Mr. Bingley
C. Mr. Wickham
D. Mr. Collins

Key: B (Mr. Bingley)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

A. The witty paradox.
B. Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.
C. His reason.
D. Mr. Bennet's regret.

Key: B (Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1).

Sample answer: It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mr. Bennet treat his wife's excitement?

A. He teases her dryly
B. He shares it
C. He scolds her angrily
D. He ignores her entirely

Key: A (He teases her dryly)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her mind was less difficult to develop.”, what does “develop” most nearly mean?

A. to train and educate; to help grow

B. be or come between
C. finding out for certain
D. free from deception or illusion

Key: A (to train and educate; to help grow)

26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter I”?
    A. The hidden benefactor
    B. Marriage as a social goal
    C. Leaving Kent
    D. The Brighton plan

    Key: B (Marriage as a social goal)

27. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it.
    A. Allusion
    B. Irony
    C. Structure
    D. Tone / mood

    Key: B (Irony)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 17, 3, 18, 19, 9, 7, 4, 10, 20, 13, 12, 15, 21, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 25, 9, 4, 2, 17, 13, 26, 11, 12, 20, 15, 27, 22, 28, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 17, 18, 8, 5, 11, 12, 13, 10, 26, 14, 22, 27, 21, 29, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 19, 7, 24, 11, 12, 26, 10, 20, 21, 14, 22, 27, 23, 29, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	2, 25, 6, 11, 26, 10, 13, 21, 15, 27, 14, 22, 16, 29, 28, 23	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	3, 1, 8, 20, 12, 11, 10, 27, 21, 22, 15, 14, 23, 16, 29, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 1, 26, 13, 12, 20, 11, 14, 15, 22, 21, 27, 23, 16, 29, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 3, 20, 11, 13, 26, 10, 14, 21, 22, 15, 27, 29, 28, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	3, 1, 12, 10, 20, 26, 13, 21, 22, 27, 14, 15, 16, 29, 23, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Graduate / PhD	3, 1, 12, 13, 11, 26, 10, 22, 14, 15, 21, 27, 28, 23, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter I,” how does Austen show marriage as a social goal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter I, how does Austen develop the idea of marriage as a social goal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of marriage as a social goal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter I (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of marriage as a social goal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter I suggests about marriage as a social goal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter I to complicate the reader's understanding of marriage as a social goal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter I within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of marriage as a social goal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter I alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of marriage as a social goal follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter I and its treatment of marriage as a social goal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter I as evidence for a larger claim about marriage as a social goal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter I as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of marriage as a social goal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.

   As used in the text, what does the word “caprice” most nearly mean?

   A. take in marriage
   B. to claim
   C. a deep awareness of and sympathy for another's suffering
   D. a tendency to change one's mind suddenly

2. “My dear, you flatter me. I certainly have had my share of beauty, but I do not pretend to be anything extraordinary now. When a woman has five grown up daughters, she ought to give over thinking of her own beauty.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter I”?

   A. Trusted relatives
   B. Marriage as a social goal
   C. Music, wit and manners
   D. The second proposal

SAT key: 1. D (a tendency to change one's mind suddenly); 2. B (Marriage as a social goal)

Lesson 3: Chapter II

Focus: family dynamics and anticipation

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter II” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Mr. Bennet reveals he has already visited Mr. Bingley, delighting his wife and daughters after teasing them. The sisters guess when Bingley will come to the next ball.

Background: Social custom required the father to call on a newcomer before the family could be introduced.

Significance: Mr. Bennet's playful withholding shows both wit and a certain irresponsibility as a parent.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
Prompt: Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: fretfully — in an irritable, complaining way; conjecturing — guessing; extracts — passages copied out of a book; adjusting — alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard; trimming — decorating (a hat or dress). “conjecturing”: From Old French -, from Latin coniectūra "a guess", from coniectus, perfect passive participle of cōniciō "throw or cast together; guess", from con- "together" + iaciō "throw, hurl"; see jet. Compare adjective, eject, inject, project, reject, subject, object, trajectory, deject, abject, surjection, bijection, interject. “extracts”: Borrowed from Latin extractum, neuter perfect passive participle of extrahō, from ex- + trahō.
Words: fretfully: in an irritable, complaining way · conjecturing: guessing · extracts: passages copied out of a book · adjusting: alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard · trimming: decorating (a hat or dress)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Social custom required the father to call on a newcomer before the family could be introduced. Mr. Bennet's playful withholding shows both wit and a certain irresponsibility as a parent. Characterization: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley. Tone / mood: Comic; the scene is almost a short play, with little narration. Watch for first impressions and judgment: Characters judge quickly and must revise; the novel's working title was First Impressions*. In this chapter: "She is a selfish, hypocritical woman, and I have no opinion of her" (Chapter II, paragraph 5).*

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 1). Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley.

> Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley (Chapter II, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 1). Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: She says she is "sick" of him moments before learning of the visit; comic irony, and it shows Mr. Bennet's pleasure in teasing. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. (Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.)

> I am sick of Mr. Bingley (Chapter II, paragraph 21)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: She says she is "sick" of him moments before learning of the visit; comic irony, and it shows Mr. Bennet's pleasure in teasing.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. (Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family dynamics and anticipation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of family dynamics and anticipation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. When the text says "Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He has secretly "waited on Mr. Bingley" yet lets his wife complain she is "sick of Mr. Bingley" before revealing it, choosing the joke over plain kindness.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family dynamics and anticipation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of family dynamics and anticipation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. When the text says "Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He has secretly "waited on Mr. Bingley" yet lets his wife complain she is "sick of Mr. Bingley" before revealing it, choosing the joke over plain kindness.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem? Ask: is Mr. Bennet a good father? Hold the question open; it returns in Chapter XLII.

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem?

Facilitation: Ask: is Mr. Bennet a good father? Hold the question open; it returns in Chapter XLII.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family dynamics and anticipation? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. ("Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley", Chapter II, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family dynamics and anticipation? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. ("Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley", Chapter II, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes family dynamics and anticipation. Key takeaway: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley.
- Tone / mood: Comic; the scene is almost a short play, with little narration.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects.

Symbols and motifs

- first impressions and judgment: Characters judge quickly and must revise; the novel's working title was First Impressions. In this chapter: “She is a selfish, hypocritical woman, and I have no opinion of her” (Chapter II, paragraph 5).
- dancing and social performance: Balls are where judgments are formed in public. In this chapter: “When is your next ball to be, Lizzy” (Chapter II, paragraph 11).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.
- “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9) Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
- “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21) Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense.
Evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: He has secretly "waited on Mr. Bingley" yet lets his wife complain she is "sick of Mr. Bingley" before revealing it, choosing the joke over plain kindness.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

fretfully (adverb)	in an irritable, complaining way	"I do not cough for my own amusement," replied Kitty fretfully.
conjecturing (verb)	guessing	The rest of the evening was spent in conjecturing how soon he would return Mr.	"conjecturing": From Old French -, from Latin coniectūra "a guess", from coniectus, perfect passive participle of cōniciō "throw or cast together; guess", from con- "together" + iaciō "throw, hurl"; see jet. Compare adjective, eject, inject, project, reject, subject, object, trajectory, deject, abject, surjection, bijection, interject. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conjecture#Etymology)
extracts (noun)	passages copied out of a book	What say you, Mary? for you are a young lady of deep reflection I know, and read great books, and make extracts."	"extracts": Borrowed from Latin extractum, neuter perfect passive participle of extrahō, from ex- + trahō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/extract#Etymology)
adjusting (verb)	alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard	"While Mary is adjusting her ideas," he continued, "let us return to Mr.
trimming (verb)	decorating (a hat or dress)	Observing his second daughter employed in trimming a hat, he suddenly addressed her with:
deigned (verb)	do something that one considers to be below one's dignity	Bennet deigned not to make any reply; but unable to contain herself, began scolding one of her daughters.
teasing (adjective)	annoying; trying	Bennet, impossible, when I am not acquainted with him myself; how can you be so teasing?"	"teasing": From tease + -ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/teasing#Etymology)
raptures (noun)	great excitement and delight	Bennet; and, as he spoke, he left the room, fatigued with the raptures of his wife.	"raptures": Middle French rapture, from Latin raptūra, future active participle of rapiō "snatch, carry off". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/rapture#Etymology) tired out

fatigued (adjective)		Bennet; and, as he spoke, he left the room, fatigued with the raptures of his wife.
determining (verb)	deciding	Bennet's visit, and determining when they should ask him to dinner.	"determining": From Middle English determinen, from Old French determiner, French déterminer, from Latin determināre "to bound, limit, prescribe, fix, determine", from de + termināre "to limit", from terminus "bound, limit, end". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/determine#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What has Mr. Bennet secretly done? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Visited Mr. Bingley
2. Why did a father need to call on a newcomer? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Social custom required it before introductions
3. How does Mrs. Bennet react to the news? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: With delight
4. Which sister is teased for coughing? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Kitty
5. What trait does Mr. Bennet show here? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Dry wit
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter II" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet reveals he has already visited Mr. Bingley, delighting his wife and daughters after teasing them. The sisters guess when Bingley will come to the next ball.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter II"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter II” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““I do not cough for my own amusement,” replied Kitty fretfully.” What does “fretfully” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: fretfully: in an irritable, complaining way.
10. Reread: “The rest of the evening was spent in conjecturing how soon he would return Mr.” What does “conjecturing” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: conjecturing: guessing.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter II” suggest about family dynamics and anticipation? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet's playful withholding shows both wit and a certain irresponsibility as a parent.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about family dynamics and anticipation? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter II”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet reveals he has already visited Mr. Bingley, delighting his wife and daughters after teasing them. The sisters guess when Bingley will come to the next ball.
6. How does “Chapter II” build on “Chapter I”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9): Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21): Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called. On characterization:

Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Mr. Bennet's teasing harmless fun or a sign of a deeper problem?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. On tone / mood: Comic; the scene is almost a short play, with little narration. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Social custom required the father to call on a newcomer before the family could be introduced. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9): Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mr. Bennet's playful withholding shows both wit and a certain irresponsibility as a parent.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21): Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. On characterization: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter II” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about family dynamics and anticipation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9): Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter II”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21): Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9): Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic. On characterization: Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter II” treats family dynamics and anticipation with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21): Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter III” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about family dynamics and anticipation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9): Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Useful evidence: “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21): Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called. Theme link: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 1: “Mr. Bennet was among the _____ of those who waited on Mr. Bingley”

   Key: earliest
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did a father need to call on a newcomer?

   A. Social custom required it before introductions

   B. To collect rent

   C. To ask for money

   D. To deliver mail

   Key: A (Social custom required it before introductions)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet react to the news?

   A. With fear

B. With boredom
C. With anger
D. With delight

Key: D (With delight)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What has Mr. Bennet secretly done?

A. Sold Longbourn
B. Invited Darcy
C. Written to Mr. Collins
D. Visited Mr. Bingley

Key: D (Visited Mr. Bingley)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Observing his second daughter employed in _____ a hat, he suddenly addressed her with:” Word bank: conjecturing, trimming, fretfully, extracts

Key: trimming

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “What say you, Mary? for you are a young lady of deep reflection I know, and read great books, and make extracts.””, what does “extracts” most nearly mean?

A. make unwilling
B. fail to agree with; be in violation of; as of rules or patterns
C. a large entrance or reception room or area
D. passages copied out of a book

Key: D (passages copied out of a book)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which sister is teased for coughing?

A. Mary
B. Kitty
C. Elizabeth
D. Jane

Key: B (Kitty)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet _____ not to make any reply; but unable to contain herself, began scolding one of her daughters.” Word bank: conjecturing, extracts, fretfully, deigned

Key: deigned

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““I do not cough for my own amusement,” replied Kitty fretfully.”, what does “fretfully” most nearly mean?

A. making oneself do something
B. in an irritable, complaining way
C. be larger in number, quantity, power, status or importance
D. by good fortune

Key: B (in an irritable, complaining way)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am sick of Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 21)
    A. Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.
    C. The room first admires him for his income.
    D. Opening.

    Key: B (Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter II”?
    A. An imperious hostess
    B. Family dynamics and anticipation
    C. Visit to Hunsford
    D. Letters of judgment

    Key: B (Family dynamics and anticipation)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1)
    A. Elizabeth's realization.
    B. Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.
    C. Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.
    D. Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.

    Key: C (Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter II”? Comic; the scene is almost a short play, with little narration.
    A. Characterization
    B. Tone / mood
    C. Plot
    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: B (Tone / mood)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley” (Chapter II, paragraph 1).

    Sample answer: He has secretly "waited on Mr. Bingley" yet lets his wife complain she is "sick of Mr. Bingley" before revealing it, choosing the joke over plain kindness.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Kitty has no discretion in her coughs” (Chapter II, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 9: “Kitty has no _____ in her coughs”

    Key: discretion
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet; and, as he spoke, he left the room, fatigued with the _____ of his wife.” Word bank: fretfully, conjecturing, raptures, extracts

    Key: raptures

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "“While Mary is adjusting her ideas,” he continued, “let us return to Mr.", what does "adjusting" most nearly mean?
    A. a card game played with tickets for prizes
    B. changing
    C. alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard
    D. having the capacity for thought and reason especially to a high degree

    Key: C (alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard)
20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Kitty has no discretion in her coughs" (Chapter II, paragraph 9)
    A. The quiet opening after the storm.
    B. Mr. Bennet's sly question.
    C. Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
    D. The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.

    Key: C (Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.)
21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "Kitty has no discretion in her coughs" (Chapter II, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "I am sick of Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 21). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.
23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter II". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: the parents' mismatch shapes the daughters' prospects.
24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "The rest of the evening was spent in conjecturing how soon he would return Mr.", what does "conjecturing" most nearly mean?
    A. liveliness and eagerness
    B. sorry for having done wrong
    C. guessing
    D. pull back or move away or backward

    Key: C (guessing)
25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What trait does Mr. Bennet show here?
    A. Shyness
    B. Greed
    C. Cruelty
    D. Dry wit

    Key: D (Dry wit)
26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter II"? Mr. Bennet enjoys teasing his wife by hiding that he has already called on Bingley.
    A. Metaphor
    B. Structure

C. Allusion

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley" (Chapter II, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Mr. Bennet's teasing shows affection for his daughters but a habit of amusing himself at his family's expense." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He has secretly "waited on Mr. Bingley" yet lets his wife complain she is "sick of Mr. Bingley" before revealing it, choosing the joke over plain kindness.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Bennet, impossible, when I am not acquainted with him myself; how can you be so _____?"" Word bank: extracts, conjecturing, fretfully, teasing

    Key: teasing

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	1, 17, 18, 6, 4, 8, 5, 19, 20, 11, 12, 21, 15, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 18, 4, 24, 25, 3, 21, 13, 20, 11, 12, 22, 15, 26, 27, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	5, 8, 9, 19, 3, 13, 21, 10, 20, 11, 22, 15, 26, 14, 23, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 17, 1, 6, 10, 20, 21, 12, 13, 14, 26, 15, 22, 16, 27, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 1, 3, 20, 21, 10, 13, 11, 26, 14, 22, 15, 28, 16, 27, 23	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 1, 9, 10, 21, 11, 13, 12, 22, 26, 14, 15, 28, 23, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 5, 13, 11, 10, 21, 20, 12, 14, 22, 15, 26, 23, 16, 27, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	5, 8, 21, 20, 12, 13, 10, 11, 26, 14, 22, 15, 16, 28, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	5, 8, 21, 11, 20, 10, 12, 13, 15, 22, 14, 26, 23, 27, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	29, 17, 21, 12, 10, 13, 20, 11, 22, 26, 14, 15, 27, 23, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter II,” how does Austen show family dynamics and anticipation? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter II, how does Austen develop the idea of family dynamics and anticipation? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of family dynamics and anticipation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter II (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of family dynamics and anticipation. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter II suggests about family dynamics and anticipation. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter II to complicate the reader's understanding of family dynamics and anticipation. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter II within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of family dynamics and anticipation responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter II alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of family dynamics and anticipation follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter II and its treatment of family dynamics and anticipation. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter II as evidence for a larger claim about family dynamics and anticipation in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter II as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of family dynamics and anticipation. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. What say you, Mary? for you are a young lady of deep reflection I know, and read great books, and make extracts."

   As used in the text, what does the word "extracts" most nearly mean?

   A. deciding
   B. great excitement and delight
   C. tired out
   D. passages copied out of a book

2. Mr. Bennet was among the earliest of those who waited on Mr. Bingley. He had always intended to visit him, though to the last always assuring his wife that he should not go; and till the evening after the visit was paid, she had no knowledge of it. It was then disclosed in the following manner. Observing his second daughter employed in trimming a hat, he suddenly addressed her with:

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter II"?

   A. A ridiculous proposal
   B. Family dynamics and anticipation
   C. A misguided warning
   D. The second proposal

SAT key: 1. D (passages copied out of a book); 2. B (Family dynamics and anticipation)

Lesson 4: Chapter III

Focus: first impressions at the ball

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter III” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At the Meryton assembly, Bingley is lively and dances with Jane twice. His friend Mr. Darcy, though richer, is judged proud and disagreeable; he refuses to dance with Elizabeth, calling her 'tolerable' within her hearing.

Background: Public assemblies were key places for courtship; dancing twice signaled interest.

Significance: Darcy's insult launches the central conflict and the theme of first impressions (Austen's original title).

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
> Prompt: Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: sprained — injured by a sudden twist; suiting — pleasing; being right for; barefaced — open and bold, without any attempt to hide; surmises — guesses; overhear — hear, usually without the knowledge of the speakers. “surmises”: From Old French surmis, past participle of surmetre, surmettre "to accuse", from sur- "upon" + metre "to put".
> Words: sprained: injured by a sudden twist · suiting: pleasing; being right for · barefaced: open and bold, without any attempt to hide · surmises: guesses · overhear: hear, usually without the knowledge of the speakers

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Public assemblies were key places for courtship; dancing twice signaled interest. Darcy's insult launches the central conflict and the theme of first impressions (Austen's original title). Characterization: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance. Point of view: The narrator reports the room's opinion, which swings with Darcy's income and manners. Watch for pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "tide of his popularity; for he was discovered to be proud, to be above his company, and above being pleased; and not" (Chapter III, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5). Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. That is characterization at work: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance.

> his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity (Chapter III, paragraph 5)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5). Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. That is characterization at work: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Tolerable" is faint praise and "tempt" makes Elizabeth an object of choice; the insult creates her first impression. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. (Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.)

> She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me (Chapter III, paragraph 13)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: "Tolerable" is faint praise and "tempt" makes Elizabeth an object of choice; the insult creates her first impression.

Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?

Expected answer: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. (Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about first impressions at the ball? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of first impressions at the ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. When the text says "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Darcy is admired for "ten thousand a year" until his manners turn "the tide of his popularity," so the crowd's judgment moves with surface impressions.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about first impressions at the ball? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of first impressions at the ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. When the text says "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Darcy is admired for "ten thousand a year" until his manners turn "the tide of his popularity," so the crowd's judgment moves with surface impressions.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly? Ask students whether Darcy is rude or shy. Is there evidence for shyness?

Anchor question: Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly?

Facilitation: Ask students whether Darcy is rude or shy. Is there evidence for shyness?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about first impressions at the ball? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. ("his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity", Chapter III, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about first impressions at the ball? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. ("his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity", Chapter III, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes first impressions at the ball. Key takeaway: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance.
- Point of view: The narrator reports the room's opinion, which swings with Darcy's income and manners.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult.

Symbols and motifs

- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "tide of his popularity; for he was discovered to be proud, to be above his company, and above being pleased; and not" (Chapter III, paragraph 5).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: "Bennet to her husband, "and all the others equally well married, I shall have nothing to wish for" (Chapter III, paragraph 2).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me" (Chapter III, paragraph 13) Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.
- "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5) Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
- "ten thousand a year" (Chapter III, paragraph 5) The room first admires him for his income.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners.
Evidence: "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5)
Reasoning: Darcy is admired for "ten thousand a year" until his manners turn "the tide of his popularity," so the crowd's judgment moves with surface impressions.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
sprained (verb)	injured by a sudden twist	Oh! that he had sprained his ankle in the first dance!"
suiting (verb)	pleasing; being right for	"But I can assure you," she added, "that Lizzy does not lose much by not suiting his fancy; for he is a most disagreeable, horrid man, not at all worth pleasing.
barefaced (adjective)	open and bold, without any attempt to hide	They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of their neighbour Lady Lucas.
surmises (noun)	guesses	They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of their neighbour Lady Lucas.	"surmises": From Old French surmis, past participle of surmetre, surmettre "to accuse", from sur- "upon" + metre "to put". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/surmise#Etymology)
overhear (verb)	hear, usually without the knowledge of the speakers	Darcy had been standing near enough for her to overhear a conversation between him and Mr.
insupportable (adjective)	unbearable	At such an assembly as this, it would be insupportable.	"insupportable": From Middle French insupportable, from Late Latin insupportabilis. See also in + supportable. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/insupportable#Etymology)
dispatched (verb)	send away towards a designated goal	An invitation to dinner was soon afterwards	"dispatched": Spanish despachar and/or Italian dispacciare. Further etymology is uncertain. For first element des-, see dis-. Second element dispatched; and already had Mrs.	probably from either Vulgar Latin *pactāre "to fasten"", *pactiare or Latin -pedicāre "to entrap, shackle", from pedica, from pēs. Ultimately related to impeach through shared Latin root. The first known use in writing (in the past tense, spelled as dispached) is by Bishop (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dispatch#Etymology) ascertaining (verb)	finding out for certain	The ladies were somewhat more fortunate, for they had the advantage of ascertaining from an upper window, that he wore a blue coat and rode a black horse.	“ascertaining”: From Middle English acerteynen, from Old French acertener, from a- "to, towards" + certener "make sure of", from the adjective certain, from Latin certus "certain, fixed". Compare to Spanish acertar. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ascertain#Etymology)

quieted (verb)	calmed	Lady Lucas quieted her fears a little by starting the idea of his being gone to London only to get a large party for the ball; and a report soon followed that Mr.
fastidious (adjective)	giving careful attention to detail; hard to please; excessively concerned with cleanliness	“I would not be so fastidious as you are,” cried Bingley, “for a kingdom!	“fastidious”: Latin fastīdiōsus "passive: that feels disgust, disdainful, scornful, fastidious; active: that causes disgust, disgusting, loathsome", from fastīdium "a loathing, aversion, disgust, niceness of taste, daintiness, etc.", perhaps for *fastutidium, from fastus "disdain, haughtiness, arrogance, disgust" + taedium "disgust". Cf. French fastidieux. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/fastidious#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Whom does Bingley dance with twice? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane
2. What word does Darcy use about Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Tolerable
3. How does Elizabeth react to the insult? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She laughs and tells the story to friends
4. Why does the town turn against Darcy? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He seems proud and disagreeable
5. Background (not in the text): what was the novel's working title? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: First Impressions
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter III” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At the Meryton assembly, Bingley is lively and dances with Jane twice. His friend Mr. Darcy, though richer, is judged proud and disagreeable; he refuses to dance with Elizabeth, calling her 'tolerable' within her hearing.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter III”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter III” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Oh! that he had sprained his ankle in the first dance!”” What does “sprained” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: sprained: injured by a sudden twist.
10. Reread: ““But I can assure you,” she added, “that Lizzy does not lose much by not suiting his fancy; for he is a most disagreeable, horrid man, not at all worth pleasing.” What does “suiting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: suiting: pleasing; being right for.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter III” suggest about first impressions at the ball? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy's insult launches the central conflict and the theme of first impressions (Austen's original title).
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about first impressions at the ball? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13): Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “Not all that Mrs.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter III”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At the Meryton assembly, Bingley is lively and dances with Jane twice. His friend Mr. Darcy, though richer, is judged proud and disagreeable; he refuses to dance with Elizabeth, calling her 'tolerable' within her hearing.
6. How does “Chapter III” build on “Chapter II”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “ten thousand a year” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): The room first admires him for his income. On characterization: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does the town change its opinion of Darcy so quickly?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13): Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Public assemblies were key places for courtship; dancing twice signaled interest. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Darcy's insult launches the central conflict and the theme of first impressions (Austen's original title)." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: "ten thousand a year" (Chapter III, paragraph 5): The room first admires him for his income. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: "She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me" (Chapter III, paragraph 13): Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice. On characterization: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter III" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about first impressions at the ball? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: "his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity" (Chapter III, paragraph 5): Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. On point of view: The narrator reports the room's opinion, which swings with Darcy's income and manners. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter III": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: "ten thousand a year" (Chapter III, paragraph 5): The room first admires him for his income. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: "She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me" (Chapter III, paragraph 13): Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. On characterization: Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter III” treats first impressions at the ball with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “ten thousand a year” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): The room first admires him for his income. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter IV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13): Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about first impressions at the ball? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): Public opinion shifts on manners, not character. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Useful evidence: “ten thousand a year” (Chapter III, paragraph 5): The room first admires him for his income. Theme link: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "An invitation to dinner was soon afterwards _____; and already had Mrs." Word bank: sprained, suiting, barefaced, dispatched

   Key: dispatched
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of…", what does "surmises" most nearly mean?
   A. guesses
   B. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)
   C. cause to be unpretentious
   D. administer or bestow, as in small portions

   Key: A (guesses)
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "At such an assembly as this, it would be _____." Word bank: insupportable, suiting, barefaced, sprained

   Key: insupportable
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Oh! that he had sprained his ankle in the first dance!"", what does "sprained" most nearly mean?
   A. injured by a sudden twist
   B. given something good in return
   C. assets in the form of money
   D. moving suddenly and quickly

   Key: A (injured by a sudden twist)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The ladies were somewhat more fortunate, for they had the advantage of _____ from an upper window, that he wore a blue coat and rode a black horse." Word bank: sprained, suiting, barefaced, ascertaining

   Key: ascertaining
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""But I can assure you," she added, "that Lizzy does not lose much by not suiting his fancy; for he is a most disagreeable, horrid man, not at all worth pleasing.", what does "suiting" most nearly mean?
   A. pleasing; being right for
   B. expressions of unhappiness; grumbles
   C. liveliness and eagerness
   D. repeated too often; overfamiliar through overuse

   Key: A (pleasing; being right for)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth react to the insult?
   - A. She cries
   - B. She leaves the ball
   - C. She confronts him
   - D. She laughs and tells the story to friends

   Key: D (She laughs and tells the story to friends)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What word does Darcy use about Elizabeth?
   - A. Ugly
   - B. Tolerable
   - C. Charming
   - D. Beautiful

   Key: B (Tolerable)
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 13: “She is _____; but not handsome enough to tempt me”

   Key: tolerable
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter III”?
    - A. Too late
    - B. Keeping secrets
    - C. First impressions at the ball
    - D. Sisters and judgment

    Key: C (First impressions at the ball)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13)
    - A. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
    - B. Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.
    - C. Mr. Bennet's blessing.
    - D. Jane's question.

    Key: B (Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter III”? The narrator reports the room's opinion, which swings with Darcy's income and manners.
    - A. Hyperbole
    - B. Plot
    - C. Point of view
    - D. Characterization

Key: C (Point of view)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5).

    Sample answer: Darcy is admired for "ten thousand a year" until his manners turn "the tide of his popularity," so the crowd's judgment moves with surface impressions.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She is tolerable; but not handsome enough to tempt me” (Chapter III, paragraph 13) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy's insult; the source of Elizabeth's prejudice.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 5: “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his _____”

    Key: popularity

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of…”, what does “barefaced” most nearly mean?

    A. open and bold, without any attempt to hide
    B. realize beforehand
    C. settled on; chose
    D. closely; carefully

    Key: A (open and bold, without any attempt to hide)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Background (not in the text): what was the novel's working title?

    A. The Watsons
    B. Lady Susan
    C. Elinor and Marianne
    D. First Impressions

    Key: D (First Impressions)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5)

    A. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
    B. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
    C. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
    D. He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.

    Key: A (Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “ten thousand a year” (Chapter III, paragraph 5)

    A. The room first admires him for his income.
    B. The witty paradox.
    C. The Wickhams wear out their welcome.
    D. The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.

Key: A (The room first admires him for his income.)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter III”? Darcy's pride is shown through his refusal to dance and his overheard remark; Bingley's openness through his dancing every dance.
    A. Theme
    B. Personification
    C. Tone / mood
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)
23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “ten thousand a year” (Chapter III, paragraph 5). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The room first admires him for his income.
24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “his manners gave a disgust which turned the tide of his popularity” (Chapter III, paragraph 5) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The ball shows that the neighbourhood judges character by income and manners.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Darcy is admired for "ten thousand a year" until his manners turn "the tide of his popularity," so the crowd's judgment moves with surface impressions.
26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy had been standing near enough for her to _____ a conversation between him and Mr.” Word bank: overhear, barefaced, sprained, suiting
    Key: overhear
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter III”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's view of Darcy is formed in one overheard insult.
28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does the town turn against Darcy?
    A. He insults Bingley
    B. He is poor
    C. He dances too much
    D. He seems proud and disagreeable

    Key: D (He seems proud and disagreeable)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 6, 2, 3, 7, 17, 18, 19, 13, 20, 21, 12, 22, 14, 15, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	6, 17, 9, 4, 1, 19, 11, 13, 21, 10, 20, 23, 22, 15, 24, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	26, 2, 3, 6, 18, 21, 20, 13, 10, 11, 14, 15, 22, 23, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 26, 28, 6, 12, 21, 13, 11, 20, 22, 15, 14, 23, 27, 16, 25	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	26, 3, 8, 13, 20, 10, 11, 12, 15, 14, 23, 22, 24, 25, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	26, 3, 8, 12, 13, 11, 20, 10, 22, 23, 14, 15, 24, 16, 25, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 17, 20, 11, 10, 21, 13, 12, 22, 23, 15, 14, 25, 27, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	26, 17, 13, 20, 21, 11, 10, 12, 14, 23, 22, 15, 27, 16, 24, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	26, 3, 12, 10, 13, 11, 21, 20, 23, 14, 22, 15, 24, 25, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 26, 12, 11, 21, 13, 20, 10, 22, 15, 23, 14, 25, 16, 24, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter III,” how does Austen show first impressions at the ball? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter III, how does Austen develop the idea of first impressions at the ball? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of first impressions at the ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter III (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of first impressions at the ball. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter III suggests about first impressions at the ball. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter III to complicate the reader's understanding of first impressions at the ball. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter III within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of first impressions at the ball responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter III alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of first impressions at the ball follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter III and its treatment of first impressions at the ball. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter III as evidence for a larger claim about first impressions at the ball in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter III as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of first impressions at the ball. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of their neighbour Lady Lucas.

   As used in the text, what does the word “barefaced” most nearly mean?

   A. giving careful attention to detail; hard to please; excessively concerned with cleanliness
   B. calmed
   C. finding out for certain
   D. open and bold, without any attempt to hide

2. Not all that Mrs. Bennet, however, with the assistance of her five daughters, could ask on the subject was sufficient to draw from her husband any satisfactory description of Mr. Bingley. They attacked him in various ways; with barefaced questions, ingenious suppositions, and distant surmises; but he eluded the skill of them all; and they were at last obliged to accept the secondhand intelligence of their neighbour Lady Lucas. Her > report was highly favourable. Sir William had been delighted with him. He was quite young, wonderfully handsome, extremely agreeable, and to crown the whole, he meant to be at the next assembly with a large party. Nothing could be more delightful! To be fond of dancing was a certain step towards falling in love; and very lively hopes of Mr. Bingley's heart were entertained.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter III"?

A. First impressions at the ball

B. Disappointment and philosophy

C. Confiding and consent

D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. D (open and bold, without any attempt to hide); 2. A (First impressions at the ball)

Lesson 5: Chapter IV

Focus: sisters and judgment

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter IV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Jane confides her admiration of Bingley; Elizabeth praises Jane's habit of seeing good in everyone. The narrator contrasts Bingley's easy temper with Darcy's cleverness and reserve, and introduces Bingley's sisters as proud.

Background: Bingley's fortune came from trade, which the gentry viewed as less respectable than inherited land.

Significance: Elizabeth prides herself on judging character—setting up her later mistakes.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
Prompt: Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
*Today's words: censuring — criticizing strongly; easiness — an easygoing, relaxed manner; endeared — made loved or liked; openness — frankness; honesty; preside — to act as host; to be in charge. “censuring”: From 1350–1400 Middle English censure, from Old French -, from Latin censūra "censor's office or assessment", from censēre "to consider, to assess, to value, to judge, to tax, etc.". “openness”: From Middle English opennesse, from Old English openness "openness, publicity", equivalent to open + -ness. Cognate with Old High German offannussi "disclosure, revelation, openness".
Words: censuring: criticizing strongly · easiness: an easygoing, relaxed manner · endeared: made loved or liked · openness: frankness; honesty · preside: to act as host; to be in charge

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Bingley's fortune came from trade, which the gentry viewed as less respectable than inherited land. Elizabeth prides herself on judging character—setting up her later mistakes. Characterization: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice. Irony: The narrator's account of the Bingley sisters ("very fine ladies") undercuts their pretensions. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "more than they ought, and of associating with people of rank; and were therefore in every respect entitled to think well of" (Chapter IV, paragraph 11).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "You never see a fault in anybody" (Chapter IV, paragraph 7). Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. That is characterization at work: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice.

> You never see a fault in anybody (Chapter IV, paragraph 7)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "You never see a fault in anybody" (Chapter IV, paragraph 7). Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. That is characterization at work: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The narrator's praise is ironic: "fine ladies" who are proud and conceited. This develops the theme of judging by appearances. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. (Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.)

> They were in fact very fine ladies (Chapter IV, paragraph 11)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The narrator's praise is ironic: "fine ladies" who are proud and conceited. This develops the theme of judging by appearances.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. (Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about sisters and judgment? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of sisters and judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and point of view shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. When the text says "You never see a fault in anybody" (Chapter IV, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Elizabeth teases that Jane will "never see a fault in anybody," implying her own judgment is more reliable; the novel will test that confidence.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about sisters and judgment? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of sisters and judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and point of view shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. When the text says "You never see a fault in anybody" (Chapter IV, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Elizabeth teases that Jane will "never see a fault in anybody," implying her own judgment is more reliable; the novel will test that confidence.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness? Ask which sister's way of judging people is better, and whether it depends on the situation.

Anchor question: Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness?

Facilitation: Ask which sister's way of judging people is better, and whether it depends on the situation.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about sisters and judgment? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. ("You never see a fault in anybody", Chapter IV, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about sisters and judgment? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. ("You never see a fault in anybody", Chapter IV, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes sisters and judgment. Key takeaway: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice.
- Irony: The narrator's account of the Bingley sisters ("very fine ladies") undercuts their pretensions.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “more than they ought, and of associating with people of rank; and were therefore in every respect entitled to think well of” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Elizabeth listened in silence, but was not convinced; their behaviour at the assembly had not” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7) Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
- “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11) Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.
- “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14) Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others.
Evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7)
Reasoning: Elizabeth teases that Jane will "never see a fault in anybody," implying her own judgment is more reliable; the novel will test that confidence.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

censuring (verb)	criticizing strongly	"I would wish not to be hasty in censuring anyone; but I always speak what I think."	"censuring": From 1350–1400 Middle English censure, from Old French -, from Latin censūra "censor's office or assessment", from censēre "to consider, to assess, to value, to judge, to tax, etc.". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/censure#Etymology)
easiness (noun)	an easygoing, relaxed manner	Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.
endeared (verb)	made loved or liked	Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.
openness (noun)	frankness; honesty	Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.	"openness": From Middle English *opennesse, from Old English openness "openness, publicity", equivalent to open + -ness. Cognate with Old High German offannussi "disclosure, revelation, openness". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/openness#Etymology) preside (verb)	to act as host; to be in charge	His sisters were very anxious for his having an estate of his own; but though he was now established only as a tenant, Miss Bingley was by no means unwilling to preside at his table, nor was Mrs.
conceited (adjective)	characteristic of false pride; having an exaggerated sense of self-importance	They were in fact very fine ladies; not deficient in good humour when they were pleased, nor in the power of being agreeable where they chose it; but proud and conceited.
deficient (adjective)	inadequate in amount or degree	They were in fact very fine ladies; not deficient in good humour when they were pleased, nor in the power of being agreeable where they chose it; but proud and conceited.	"deficient": From Latin deficiens, present participle of deficere "to lack, fail, be wanting"; see defect. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deficient#Etymology)

gallantry (noun)	polite attention to women	No thanks to his gallantry for that.	“gallantry”: From French galanterie, equivalent to gallant + -ry. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/gallantry#Etymology)
dissatisfied (adjective)	not pleased	Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.
accidental (adjective)	happening by chance	Bingley had not been of age two years, when he was tempted by an accidental recommendation to look at Netherfield House.	“accidental”: From Middle English accidental, from Anglo-Norman accidentel, Middle French accidentel, accidental, and their source, Late Latin accidēntālis; corresponding to accident + -al. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/accidental#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What is Jane's habit in judging others? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She sees good in everyone
2. Where did Bingley's family fortune come from? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Trade
3. How does the narrator describe Darcy's mind? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Clever but reserved
4. How are Bingley's sisters portrayed? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Proud and conceited
5. What does Elizabeth pride herself on? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Judging character

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter IV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane confides her admiration of Bingley; Elizabeth praises Jane's habit of seeing good in everyone. The narrator contrasts Bingley's easy temper with Darcy's cleverness and reserve, and introduces Bingley's sisters as proud.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter IV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter IV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““I would wish not to be hasty in censuring anyone; but I always speak what I think.”” What does “censuring” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: censuring: criticizing strongly.
10. Reread: “Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.” What does “easiness” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: easiness: an easygoing, relaxed manner.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter IV” suggest about sisters and judgment? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth prides herself on judging character—setting up her later mistakes.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the point of view in this chapter shape what we understand about sisters and judgment? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Did not you?”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter IV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Jane confides her admiration of Bingley; Elizabeth praises Jane's habit of seeing good in everyone. The narrator contrasts Bingley's easy temper with Darcy's cleverness and reserve, and introduces Bingley's sisters as proud.
6. How does “Chapter IV” build on “Chapter III”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11): Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14): Contrast of Bingley and Darcy. On characterization: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Jane's generosity in judging people a strength or a weakness?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Bingley's fortune came from trade, which the gentry viewed as less respectable than inherited land. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11): Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth prides herself on judging character—setting up her later mistakes.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14): Contrast of Bingley and Darcy. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. On characterization: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter IV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about sisters and judgment? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11): Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter IV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14): Contrast of Bingley and Darcy. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11): Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters. On characterization: Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter IV” treats sisters and judgment with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14): Contrast of Bingley and Darcy. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter V” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about sisters and judgment? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11): Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Useful evidence: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14): Contrast of Bingley and Darcy. Theme link: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Point of view: who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 11: “They were in fact very fine _____”

   Key: ladies
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They were in fact very fine ladies; not _____ in good humour when they were pleased, nor in the power of being agreeable where they chose it; but proud and conceited." Word bank: easiness, censuring, deficient, endeared

Key: deficient

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does the narrator describe Darcy's mind?

   A. Foolish

   B. Simple

   C. Clever but reserved

   D. Lazy

   Key: C (Clever but reserved)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where did Bingley's family fortune come from?

   A. Trade

   B. Military service

   C. Gambling

   D. Land

   Key: A (Trade)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How are Bingley's sisters portrayed?

   A. Kind to all

   B. Proud and conceited

   C. Shy and modest

   D. Poor

   Key: B (Proud and conceited)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 7: "You never see a fault in _____"

   Key: anybody

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.", what does "easiness" most nearly mean?

   A. approached and spoken to

   B. spills over

   C. to be stronger than the others

   D. an easygoing, relaxed manner

   Key: D (an easygoing, relaxed manner)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.", what does "endeared" most nearly mean?

   A. provide physical relief, as from pain

   B. be larger in number, quantity, power, status or importance

   C. bags for holding sewing or needlework

   D. made loved or liked

   Key: D (made loved or liked)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "His sisters were very anxious for his having an estate of his own; but though he was now established only as a tenant, Miss Bingley was by no means unwilling to _____ at his table, nor was Mrs.” Word bank: endeared, censuring, preside, easiness

Key: preside

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11)

    A. Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.
    B. Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.
    C. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.
    D. Jane's self-deception.

    Key: C (Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter IV”?

    A. Sisters and judgment
    B. The Brighton plan
    C. Wit as courtship
    D. A revelation from the colonel

    Key: A (Sisters and judgment)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7)

    A. The colonel on money.
    B. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
    C. Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.
    D. Elizabeth's own question.

    Key: B (Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IV”? Jane assumes the best of everyone; Elizabeth is sharper, but her sharpness can become prejudice.

    A. Hyperbole
    B. Diction / vocabulary
    C. Characterization
    D. Alliteration

    Key: C (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IV”? The narrator's account of the Bingley sisters ("very fine ladies") undercuts their pretensions.

    A. Irony
    B. Personification
    C. Characterization
    D. Imagery

    Key: A (Irony)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “They were in fact very fine ladies” (Chapter IV, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “No thanks to his _____ for that.”

    Word bank: censuring, gallantry, endeared, easiness

    Key: gallantry

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““I would wish not to be hasty in censuring anyone; but I always speak what I think.””, what does “censuring” most nearly mean?

    A. cold and unkind
    B. a defense of some offensive behavior or some failure to keep a promise etc.
    C. natures; dispositions
    D. criticizing strongly

    Key: D (criticizing strongly)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 14: “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady _____, in spite of a great opposition of character”

    Key: friendship

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth pride herself on?

    A. Judging character
    B. Her beauty
    C. Her wealth
    D. Her music

    Key: A (Judging character)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14)

    A. Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.
    B. Mr. Bennet's joke.
    C. Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.
    D. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

    Key: D (Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Between him and Darcy there was a very steady friendship, in spite of a great opposition of character” (Chapter IV, paragraph 14). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7).

    Sample answer: Elizabeth teases that Jane will "never see a fault in anybody," implying her own judgment is more reliable; the novel will test that confidence.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The contrast between Jane and Elizabeth introduces the novel's interest in how we judge others.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth teases that Jane will "never see a fault in anybody," implying her own judgment is more reliable; the novel will test that confidence.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.”, what does “openness” most nearly mean?

    A. in a hateful way

    B. open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead

    C. frankness; honesty

    D. abandon hope; give up hope; lose heart

    Key: C (frankness; honesty)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter IV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth names Jane's "candour" as a fault, foreshadowing her own errors.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You never see a fault in anybody” (Chapter IV, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Jane's habit in judging others?

    A. She judges by wealth

    B. She sees good in everyone

    C. She gossips

    D. She distrusts everyone

    Key: B (She sees good in everyone)

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They were in fact very fine ladies; not deficient in good humour when they were pleased, nor in the power of being agreeable where they chose it; but proud and ______.” Word bank: endeared, conceited, easiness, censuring

    Key: conceited

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 6, 1, 18, 19, 20, 4, 7, 13, 21, 22, 10, 14, 23, 24, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	6, 19, 7, 20, 4, 1, 12, 11, 10, 13, 21, 15, 24, 23, 25, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	19, 26, 2, 5, 18, 21, 12, 10, 13, 22, 24, 23, 15, 14, 27, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 3, 6, 2, 11, 10, 12, 13, 22, 14, 23, 24, 15, 28, 27, 16

		recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	9, 1, 29, 21, 12, 10, 13, 11, 15, 23, 24, 14, 28, 16, 25, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 5, 9, 12, 13, 11, 21, 22, 14, 24, 15, 23, 28, 16, 27, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	30, 19, 22, 10, 21, 12, 13, 11, 15, 14, 23, 24, 25, 16, 27, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	9, 30, 21, 22, 11, 13, 10, 12, 15, 23, 14, 24, 28, 25, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 17, 12, 13, 11, 10, 21, 22, 24, 23, 14, 15, 27, 16, 25, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	19, 9, 12, 22, 21, 10, 11, 13, 14, 23, 15, 24, 25, 28, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter IV,” how does Austen show sisters and judgment? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter IV, how does Austen develop the idea of sisters and judgment? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of sisters and judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and point of view shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter IV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of sisters and judgment. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter IV suggests about sisters and judgment. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and point of view), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter IV to complicate the reader's understanding of sisters and judgment. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter IV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of sisters and judgment responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter IV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of sisters and judgment follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter IV and its treatment of sisters and judgment. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and point of view, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter IV as evidence for a larger claim about sisters and judgment in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter IV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of sisters and judgment. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Bingley was endeared to Darcy by the easiness, openness, ductility of his temper, though no disposition could offer a greater contrast to his own, and though with his own he never appeared dissatisfied.

   As used in the text, what does the word “endeared” most nearly mean?

   A. not pleased
   B. happening by chance
   C. made loved or liked
   D. polite attention to women

2. “Did not you? I did for you. But that is one great difference between us. Compliments always take you by surprise, and me never. What could be more natural than his asking you again? He could not help seeing that you were about five times as pretty as every other woman in the room. No thanks to his gallantry for that. Well, he certainly is very agreeable, and I give you leave to like him. You have liked many a stupider person.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter IV”?

   A. Sisters and judgment
   B. A ridiculous proposal
   C. A misguided warning
   D. Happiness for Jane

SAT key: 1. C (made loved or liked); 2. A (Sisters and judgment)

Lesson 6: Chapter V

Focus: neighbors and gossip

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter V” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

The Bennets discuss the ball with the Lucases. Charlotte Lucas, Elizabeth's practical friend, excuses Darcy's pride; Mary moralizes about pride and vanity.

Background: Sir William Lucas had been knighted after a career in trade, illustrating social climbing.

Significance: Mary's definition separating pride from vanity directly states one of the novel's themes.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: inoffensive — harmless; not likely to upset anyone; supercilious — behaving as if superior to others; mortified — hurt the pride of; humiliated; relates — is connected to; protested — utter words of protest. “supercilious”: Latin superciliōsus "haughty". “mortified”: From Anglo-Norman mortifier, Middle French mortifier, from Late Latin mortificō "cause death", from Latin mors "death" + -ficō "-fy".
> Words: inoffensive: harmless; not likely to upset anyone · supercilious: behaving as if superior to others · mortified: hurt the pride of; humiliated · relates: is connected to · protested: utter words of protest

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Sir William Lucas had been knighted after a career in trade, illustrating social climbing. Mary's definition separating pride from vanity directly states one of the novel's themes. Characterization: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII. Dialogue: The neighbourhood talks over the ball, replaying the gossip. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "civil to all the world. For though elated by his rank, it did not render him supercilious; on the contrary, he was" (Chapter V, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine" (Chapter V, paragraph 19). Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. That is characterization at work: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII.

> I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine (Chapter V, paragraph 19)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine" (Chapter V, paragraph 19). Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. That is characterization at work: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Mary separates pride (self-opinion) from vanity (seeking others' opinion). Darcy may be proud; Elizabeth's reaction shows vanity. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. (Mary's distinction; useful for the title.)

> Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us (Chapter V, paragraph 20)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Mary separates pride (self-opinion) from vanity (seeking others' opinion). Darcy may be proud; Elizabeth's reaction shows vanity.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. (Mary's distinction; useful for the title.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about neighbors and gossip? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of neighbors and gossip. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. When the text says "I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine" (Chapter V, paragraph 19), it shows this directly. She jokes that she could forgive his pride "if he had not mortified mine," admitting that the insult to herself shapes her judgment.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about neighbors and gossip? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of neighbors and gossip. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. When the text says "I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine" (Chapter V, paragraph 19), it shows this directly. She jokes that she could forgive his pride "if he had not mortified mine," admitting that the insult to herself shapes her judgment.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree? Use Mary's definition: who in the novel so far is proud, and who is vain?

Anchor question: How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree?

Facilitation: Use Mary's definition: who in the novel so far is proud, and who is vain?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about neighbors and gossip? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. ("I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine", Chapter V, paragraph 19). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about neighbors and gossip? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. ("I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine", Chapter V, paragraph 19). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes neighbors and gossip. Key takeaway: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII.
- Dialogue: The neighbourhood talks over the ball, replaying the gossip.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “civil to all the world. For though elated by his rank, it did not render him supercilious; on the contrary, he was” (Chapter V, paragraph 1).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “it was; everybody says that he is ate up with pride, and I dare say he had heard somehow that Mrs. Long” (Chapter V, paragraph 14).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20) Mary's distinction; useful for the title.
- “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19) Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
- “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18) Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride.
Evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19)
Reasoning: She jokes that she could forgive his pride "if he had not mortified mine," admitting that the insult to herself shapes her judgment.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
inoffensive (adjective)	harmless; not likely to upset anyone	By nature inoffensive, friendly and obliging, his presentation at St.
supercilious (adjective)	behaving as if superior to others	For though elated by his rank, it did not render him supercilious; on the contrary, he was all attention to everybody.	“supercilious”: Latin superciliōsus "haughty". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/supercilious#Etymology)
mortified (verb)	hurt the pride of; humiliated	“That is very true,” replied Elizabeth, “and I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine.”	“mortified”: From Anglo-Norman mortifier, Middle French mortifier, from Late Latin mortificō "cause death", from Latin mors "death" + -ficō "-fy". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mortify#Etymology)
relates (verb)	is connected to	Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us.”
protested (verb)	utter words of protest	The boy protested that she should not; she continued to declare that she would, and the argument ended only with the visit.
tolerable (adjective)	capable of being borne or endured	Sir William Lucas had been formerly in trade in Meryton, where he had made a tolerable fortune and risen to the honour of knighthood by an address to the King, during his mayoralty.	“tolerable”: Middle English tolerable, borrowed from Middle French tolerable, from Latin tolerābilis. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tolerable#Etymology) communicate (verb)	transmit information	That the Miss Lucases and the Miss Bennets should meet to talk over a ball was absolutely necessary; and the morning after the assembly brought the former to Longbourn to hear and to communicate.
valuable (adjective)	useful; worth having	Lady Lucas was a very good kind of woman, not too clever to be a valuable neighbour to Mrs.
admired (verb)	feel admiration for	To be sure that did seem as if he admired her—indeed I rather believe he did—I heard something about it—but I hardly know what—something about Mr.

intelligent (adjective)	having the capacity for thought and reason especially to a high degree	The eldest of them, a sensible, intelligent young woman, about twenty-seven, was Elizabeth's intimate friend.

Discussion questions

1. How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who is Charlotte Lucas? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth's practical friend
2. How did Sir William Lucas rise socially? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He was knighted after trade
3. Which sister lectures on pride and vanity? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mary
4. How does Charlotte view Darcy's pride? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: As somewhat excusable given his rank
5. What is the main activity of this chapter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Discussing the ball
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter V" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Bennets discuss the ball with the Lucases. Charlotte Lucas, Elizabeth's practical friend, excuses Darcy's pride; Mary moralizes about pride and vanity.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter V"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter V" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.

9. Reread: “By nature inoffensive, friendly and obliging, his presentation at St.” What does “inoffensive” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: inoffensive: harmless; not likely to upset anyone.
10. Reread: “For though elated by his rank, it did not render him supercilious; on the contrary, he was all attention to everybody.” What does “supercilious” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: supercilious: behaving as if superior to others.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter V” suggest about neighbors and gossip? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mary's definition separating pride from vanity directly states one of the novel's themes.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about neighbors and gossip? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20): Mary's distinction; useful for the title. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Pride,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter V”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The Bennets discuss the ball with the Lucases. Charlotte Lucas, Elizabeth's practical friend, excuses Darcy's pride; Mary moralizes about pride and vanity.
6. How does “Chapter V” build on “Chapter IV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19): Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18): Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride. On characterization: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Mary distinguish pride from vanity, and do you agree?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20): Mary's distinction; useful for the title. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Sir William Lucas had been knighted after a career in trade, illustrating social climbing. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19): Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mary's definition separating pride from vanity directly states one of the novel's themes.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18): Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20): Mary's distinction; useful for the title. On characterization: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter V” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about neighbors and gossip? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19): Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter V”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18): Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20): Mary's distinction; useful for the title. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19): Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. On characterization: Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter V” treats neighbors and gossip with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18): Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter VI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20): Mary's distinction; useful for the title. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about neighbors and gossip? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19): Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Useful evidence: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18): Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride. Theme link: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “That the Miss Lucases and the Miss Bennets should meet to talk over a ball was absolutely necessary; and the morning after the assembly brought the former to Longbourn to hear and to _____.” Word bank: mortified, inoffensive, supercilious, communicate

   Key: communicate
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How did Sir William Lucas rise socially?
   - A. He inherited land
   - B. He won a lottery
   - C. He was knighted after trade
   - D. He married a duchess

   Key: C (He was knighted after trade)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which sister lectures on pride and vanity?
   - A. Kitty

   B. Lydia
   C. Jane
   D. Mary

   Key: D (Mary)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 19: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not _____ mine”

   Key: mortified

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Lady Lucas was a very good kind of woman, not too clever to be a _____ neighbour to Mrs.” Word bank: supercilious, mortified, valuable, inoffensive

   Key: valuable

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 20: “Pride relates more to our opinion of _____, vanity to what we would have others think of us”

   Key: ourselves

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““That is very true,” replied Elizabeth, “and I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine.””, what does “mortified” most nearly mean?
   A. hurt the pride of; humiliated
   B. odd; unusual in behavior
   C. quickness and ease
   D. regaining self-control

   Key: A (hurt the pride of; humiliated)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “By nature inoffensive, friendly and obliging, his presentation at St.”, what does “inoffensive” most nearly mean?
   A. treating as less valuable than it is
   B. a person who makes or sells women's hats
   C. the time period between dawn and noon
   D. harmless; not likely to upset anyone

   Key: D (harmless; not likely to upset anyone)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us.””, what does “relates” most nearly mean?
   A. be worthy or deserving
   B. is connected to
   C. the act of amending or correcting
   D. to accept quietly

   Key: B (is connected to)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18)
   A. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.
   B. Opening.
   C. Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.

   D. Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.

Key: C (Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter V”?
   A. The hidden benefactor
   B. Family dynamics and anticipation
   C. A journey and a mercenary suitor
   D. Neighbors and gossip

   Key: D (Neighbors and gossip)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20)
   A. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
   B. Elizabeth's comment on distance.
   C. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
   D. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

   Key: D (Mary's distinction; useful for the title.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19)
   A. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.
   B. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
   C. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
   D. Elizabeth's mortification.

   Key: C (Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, everything in his favour, should think highly of himself” (Chapter V, paragraph 18). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

   Sample answer: Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter V”? Charlotte Lucas is introduced as practical; her views on marriage foreshadow Chapter XXII.
   A. Characterization
   B. Symbolism
   C. Imagery
   D. Simile

   Key: A (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

   Sample answer: She jokes that she could forgive his pride "if he had not mortified mine," admitting that the insult to herself shapes her judgment.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 18: “One cannot wonder that so very fine a young man, with family, fortune, _____ in his favour, should think highly of himself”

    Key: everything

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Charlotte view Darcy's pride?

    A. As charming
    B. As monstrous
    C. As somewhat excusable given his rank
    D. As fake

    Key: C (As somewhat excusable given his rank)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “For though elated by his rank, it did not render him supercilious; on the contrary, he was all attention to everybody.”, what does “supercilious” most nearly mean?

    A. behaving as if superior to others
    B. cut short
    C. cause fear in
    D. in a civil manner

    Key: A (behaving as if superior to others)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The boy _____ that she should not; she continued to declare that she would, and the argument ended only with the visit.” Word bank: mortified, supercilious, inoffensive, protested

    Key: protested

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter V”? The neighbourhood talks over the ball, replaying the gossip.

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Simile
    C. Dialogue
    D. Allusion

    Key: C (Dialogue)

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth's dislike of Darcy rests partly on her own wounded pride. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine” (Chapter V, paragraph 19).

    Sample answer: She jokes that she could forgive his pride "if he had not mortified mine," admitting that the insult to herself shapes her judgment.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us” (Chapter V, paragraph 20) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Sir William Lucas had been formerly in trade in Meryton, where he had made a _____ fortune and risen to the honour of knighthood by an address to the King, during his mayoralty." Word bank: tolerable, inoffensive, supercilious, mortified

    Key: tolerable

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the main activity of this chapter?
    A. A wedding
    B. Discussing the ball
    C. A journey
    D. A dinner at Netherfield

    Key: B (Discussing the ball)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine" (Chapter V, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter V". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mary's speech distinguishes pride from vanity, a definition the novel tests.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is Charlotte Lucas?
    A. Bingley's sister
    B. A servant
    C. Elizabeth's practical friend
    D. Darcy's sister

    Key: C (Elizabeth's practical friend)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 3, 2, 18, 4, 19, 20, 6, 12, 21, 10, 22, 14, 23, 24, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	26, 3, 27, 1, 7, 8, 12, 13, 22, 10, 21, 14, 15, 24, 25, 28	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 3, 20, 2, 7, 21, 12, 22, 13, 11, 15, 23, 24, 14, 29, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	20, 26, 3, 30, 21, 11, 13, 22, 12, 14, 24, 23, 15, 29, 25, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 20, 30, 21, 22, 13, 12, 10, 23, 14, 15, 24, 25, 29, 16, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	20, 30, 1, 11, 13, 21, 22, 10, 24, 23, 14, 15, 29, 16, 25, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Sophomore	1, 17, 13, 12, 11, 21, 10, 22, 24, 14, 23, 15, 25, 28, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	20, 26, 13, 12, 10, 21, 22, 11, 23, 14, 15, 24, 25, 28, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	26, 20, 21, 22, 11, 13, 10, 12, 14, 24, 23, 15, 25, 16, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 20, 21, 13, 22, 10, 11, 12, 14, 24, 15, 23, 29, 28, 16, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter V,” how does Austen show neighbors and gossip? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter V, how does Austen develop the idea of neighbors and gossip? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of neighbors and gossip. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter V (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of neighbors and gossip. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter V suggests about neighbors and gossip. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter V to complicate the reader's understanding of neighbors and gossip. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter V within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of neighbors and gossip responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter V alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of neighbors and gossip follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter V and its treatment of neighbors and gossip. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter V as evidence for a larger claim about neighbors and gossip in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter V as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of neighbors and gossip. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “That is very true,” replied Elizabeth, “and I could easily forgive his pride, if he had not mortified mine.”

   As used in the text, what does the word “mortified” most nearly mean?

   A. hurt the pride of; humiliated

   B. having the capacity for thought and reason especially to a high degree

   C. useful; worth having

   D. feel admiration for

2. “Pride,” observed Mary, who piqued herself upon the solidity of her reflections, “is a very common failing I believe. By all that I have ever read, I am convinced that it is very common indeed, that human nature is particularly prone to it, and that there are very few of us who do not cherish a feeling of self-complacency on the score of some quality or other, real or imaginary. Vanity and pride are different things, though the words are often used synonymously. A person may be proud without being vain. Pride relates more to our opinion of ourselves, vanity to what we would have others think of us.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter V”?

   A. Endings and futures

   B. Marriage as a social goal

   C. Neighbors and gossip

   D. Puzzling visits

SAT key: 1. A (hurt the pride of; humiliated); 2. C (Neighbors and gossip)

Lesson 7: Chapter VI

Focus: strategy in courtship

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter VI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Charlotte argues Jane should show more affection to secure Bingley, since 'happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance.' Darcy begins to admire Elizabeth's 'fine eyes,' and Miss Bingley teases him about it.

Background: Women could not propose; they had to signal interest within strict propriety.

Significance: Charlotte's pragmatic view of marriage foreshadows her own choice later; Darcy's interest is the novel's first reversal.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
Prompt: Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance."

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: complaisance — willingness to please others; performs — plays or sings for others; conceals — hides; porridge — soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick; simpleton — a person lacking intelligence or common sense. “complaisance”: From French -. See complaisant. By surface analysis, com- + plaisance.
Words: complaisance: willingness to please others · performs: plays or sings for others · conceals: hides · porridge: soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick · simpleton: a person lacking intelligence or common sense

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Women could not propose; they had to signal interest within strict propriety. Charlotte's pragmatic view of marriage foreshadows her own choice later; Darcy's interest is the novel's first reversal. Characterization: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees. Point of view: For the first time we see Darcy's growing attraction, which Elizabeth cannot. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "Mr. Darcy stood near them in silent indignation at such a mode of passing the evening, to the" (Chapter VI, paragraph 25).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance" (Chapter VI, paragraph 10). Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. That is characterization at work: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees.

> Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance (Chapter VI, paragraph 10)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance" (Chapter VI, paragraph 10). Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. That is characterization at work: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Dramatic irony: we know what Elizabeth doesn't. It complicates first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." (Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.)

> You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself (Chapter VI, paragraph 11)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Dramatic irony: we know what Elizabeth doesn't. It complicates first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." (Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about strategy in courtship? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of strategy in courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. When the text says "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes" (Chapter VI, paragraph 12), it shows this directly. Darcy finds her face "uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes," while Elizabeth still believes he despises her.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about strategy in courtship? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of strategy in courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. When the text says "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes" (Chapter VI, paragraph 12), it shows this directly. Darcy finds her face "uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes," while Elizabeth still believes he despises her.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance? Ask: is Charlotte right? Students often side with her more than they expect.

Anchor question: Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance?

Facilitation: Ask: is Charlotte right? Students often side with her more than they expect.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about strategy in courtship? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. ("he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes", Chapter VI, paragraph 12). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about strategy in courtship? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. ("he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes", Chapter VI, paragraph 12). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes strategy in courtship. Key takeaway: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance."

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees.
- Point of view: For the first time we see Darcy's growing attraction, which Elizabeth cannot.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance."

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Mr. Darcy stood near them in silent indignation at such a mode of passing the evening, to the” (Chapter VI, paragraph 25).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “nothing is in question but the desire of being well married; and if I were determined to get a rich husband, or” (Chapter VI, paragraph 7).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10) Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.
- “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12) Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
- “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11) Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony.
Evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12)
Reasoning: Darcy finds her face "uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes," while Elizabeth still believes he despises her.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
complaisance (noun)	willingness to please others	"He is indeed—but considering the inducement, my dear Miss Eliza, we cannot wonder at his complaisance; for who would object to such a partner?"	"complaisance": From French -. See complaisant. By surface analysis, com- + plaisance. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/complaisance#Etymology) performs (verb)	plays or sings for others	"Your friend performs delightfully;" he continued after a pause, on seeing Bingley join the group;—"and I doubt not that you are an adept in the science yourself, Mr.
conceals (verb)	hides	If a woman conceals her affection with the same skill from the object of it, she may lose the opportunity of fixing him; and it will then be but poor consolation to believe the world equally in the dark.
porridge (noun)	soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick	Darcy, "There is a fine old saying, which everybody here is of course familiar with—'Keep your breath to cool your porridge,'—and I shall keep mine to swell my song."
simpleton (noun)	a person lacking intelligence or common sense	If I can perceive her regard for him, he must be a simpleton indeed not to discover it too."
matrimony (noun)	the state of being a married couple voluntarily joined for life (or until divorce)	A lady's imagination is very rapid; it jumps from admiration to love, from love to matrimony in a moment.	"matrimony": From Old French matremoine, from Latin mātrimōnium "marriage, wedlock", from mātri(s) "mother" + -mōnium "obligation". By surface analysis, en + matri + mony. Compare patrimony. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/matrimony#Etymology)
accosted (verb)	approached and spoken to	Her resistance had not injured her with the gentleman, and he was thinking of her with some complacency, when thus accosted by Miss Bingley—	"accosted": From Middle French accoster, acoster, from Old French acoster "to stand beside" (whence Medieval Latin accostare), from Old French a- + coste "side, flank". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/accost#Etymology)

provoking (verb)	call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)	On his approaching them soon afterwards, though without seeming to have any intention of speaking, Miss Lucas defied her friend to mention such a subject to him, which immediately provoking Elizabeth to do it, she turned to him and said—
engrossed (verb)	devote (oneself) fully to	Darcy stood near them in silent indignation at such a mode of passing the evening, to the exclusion of all conversation, and was too much engrossed by his own thoughts to perceive that Sir William Lucas was his neighbour, till Sir William thus began.
meditating (verb)	reflect deeply on a subject	I have been meditating on the very great pleasure which a pair of fine eyes in the face of a pretty woman can bestow."

Discussion questions

1. Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What advice does Charlotte give about Jane? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She should show more affection
2. What does Charlotte say about happiness in marriage? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: It is entirely a matter of chance
3. What does Darcy begin to admire in Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her fine eyes
4. Who teases Darcy about Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Miss Bingley

5. What does Charlotte's view foreshadow? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her own practical marriage
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter VI” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Charlotte argues Jane should show more affection to secure Bingley, since 'happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance.' Darcy begins to admire Elizabeth's 'fine eyes,' and Miss Bingley teases him about it.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter VI”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter VI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““He is indeed—but considering the inducement, my dear Miss Eliza, we cannot wonder at his complaisance; for who would object to such a partner?”” What does “complaisance” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: complaisance: willingness to please others.
10. Reread: ““Your friend performs delightfully;” he continued after a pause, on seeing Bingley join the group; —“and I doubt not that you are an adept in the science yourself, Mr.” What does “performs” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: performs: plays or sings for others.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter VI” suggest about strategy in courtship? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Charlotte's pragmatic view of marriage foreshadows her own choice later; Darcy's interest is the novel's first reversal.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about strategy in courtship? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10): Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “On his approaching them soon afterwards, though without seeming to have any intention of speaking, Miss Lucas defied her friend to mention such a subject to him, which immediately…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Charlotte argues Jane should show more affection to secure Bingley, since 'happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance.' Darcy begins to admire Elizabeth's 'fine eyes,' and Miss Bingley teases him about it.

6. How does “Chapter VI” build on “Chapter V”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12): Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11): Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view. On characterization: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Do you agree with Charlotte that happiness in marriage is a matter of chance?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10): Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Women could not propose; they had to signal interest within strict propriety. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12): Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Charlotte's pragmatic view of marriage foreshadows her own choice later; Darcy's interest is the novel's first reversal.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before

Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11): Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10): Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. On characterization: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter VI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about strategy in courtship? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12): Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader. On point of view: For the first time we see Darcy's growing attraction, which Elizabeth cannot. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter VI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11): Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10): Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12): Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader. On characterization: Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter VI” treats strategy in courtship with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11): Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter VII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance” (Chapter VI, paragraph 10): Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about strategy in courtship? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12): Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11): Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view. Theme link: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 10: "_____ in marriage is entirely a matter of chance"

   Key: Happiness

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "On his approaching them soon afterwards, though without seeming to have any intention of speaking, Miss Lucas defied her friend to mention such a subject to him, which immediately _____ Elizabeth to do it, she turned to him and said—"

   Word bank: provoking, performs, complaisance, conceals

   Key: provoking

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who teases Darcy about Elizabeth?

   A. Jane
   B. Mr. Bennet
   C. Lydia
   D. Miss Bingley

   Key: D (Miss Bingley)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 11: "You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way _____"

   Key: yourself

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Charlotte's view foreshadow?

   A. Her own practical marriage
   B. Darcy's letter
   C. Lydia's elopement
   D. Jane's illness

   Key: A (Her own practical marriage)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "A lady's imagination is very rapid; it jumps from admiration to love, from love to _____ in a moment." Word bank: conceals, complaisance, performs, matrimony

   Key: matrimony

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""He is indeed—but considering the inducement, my dear Miss Eliza, we cannot wonder at his complaisance; for who would object to such a partner?"", what does "complaisance" most nearly mean?

   A. willingness to please others
   B. without good reason
   C. leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily
   D. women

   Key: A (willingness to please others)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy begin to admire in Elizabeth?

   A. Her family
   B. Her fortune
   C. Her fine eyes

   D. Her singing

   Key: C (Her fine eyes)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "If I can perceive her regard for him, he must be a _____ indeed not to discover it too."" Word bank: performs, complaisance, simpleton, conceals

   Key: simpleton

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance" (Chapter VI, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter VI"?

    A. Endings and futures

    B. Strategy in courtship

    C. An imperious hostess

    D. Consequences of refusal

    Key: B (Strategy in courtship)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes" (Chapter VI, paragraph 12)

    A. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.

    B. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.

    C. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.

    D. Moment of recognition.

    Key: C (Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance" (Chapter VI, paragraph 10)

    A. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.

    B. Lady Catherine's snobbery.

    C. Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.

    D. Mr. Bennet's blessing.

    Key: C (Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter VI"? Charlotte advises that a woman should show more affection than she feels to secure a man; Elizabeth disagrees.

    A. Characterization

    B. Diction / vocabulary

    C. Irony

    D. Point of view

    Key: A (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes" (Chapter VI, paragraph 12).

    Sample answer: Darcy finds her face "uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes," while Elizabeth still believes he despises her.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter VI". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance."
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 12: "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly _____ by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes"
    Key: intelligent
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "If a woman conceals her affection with the same skill from the object of it, she may lose the opportunity of fixing him; and it will then be but poor consolation to believe the world equally in the dark.", what does "conceals" most nearly mean?
    A. hides
    B. the terms of a relationship; one's position
    C. to increase
    D. a main road that charged a toll

    Key: A (hides)
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What advice does Charlotte give about Jane?
    A. She should hide her feelings
    B. She should marry Darcy
    C. She should leave Meryton
    D. She should show more affection

    Key: D (She should show more affection)
20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Her resistance had not injured her with the gentleman, and he was thinking of her with some complacency, when thus _____ by Miss Bingley —" Word bank: complaisance, conceals, accosted, performs
    Key: accosted
21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes" (Chapter VI, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter VI"? For the first time we see Darcy's growing attraction, which Elizabeth cannot.
    A. Metaphor
    B. Point of view
    C. Conflict
    D. Irony

    Key: B (Point of view)
23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself" (Chapter VI, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy, “There is a fine old saying, which everybody here is of course familiar with—‘Keep your breath to cool your porridge,’—and I shall keep mine to swell my song.””, what does “porridge” most nearly mean?

    A. explained; revealed
    B. odd; unusual in behavior
    C. soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick
    D. pleasant and well suited

    Key: C (soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Your friend performs delightfully;” he continued after a pause, on seeing Bingley join the group;—“and I doubt not that you are an adept in the science yourself, Mr.”, what does “performs” most nearly mean?

    A. an abrupt excited utterance
    B. plays or sings for others
    C. a piano
    D. too bold; taking liberties

    Key: B (plays or sings for others)

26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You know it is not sound, and that you would never act in this way yourself” (Chapter VI, paragraph 11)

    A. Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.
    B. Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.
    C. Opening.
    D. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.)

27. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Charlotte's realism: "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance."

    A. Pride and self-knowledge
    B. Class and social mobility
    C. First impressions and prejudice
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “he began to find it was rendered uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes” (Chapter VI, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The novel lets the reader see Darcy's attraction before Elizabeth does, creating dramatic irony.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Darcy finds her face "uncommonly intelligent by the beautiful expression of her dark eyes," while Elizabeth still believes he despises her.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Happiness in marriage is entirely a matter of chance" (Chapter VI, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 8, 17, 18, 6, 19, 20, 1, 13, 21, 12, 10, 22, 23, 14, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	6, 8, 2, 24, 25, 5, 26, 12, 11, 13, 21, 23, 27, 15, 28, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 1, 2, 4, 5, 11, 26, 13, 12, 10, 27, 14, 23, 15, 30, 29	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 9, 7, 8, 11, 12, 10, 26, 13, 27, 14, 15, 23, 16, 29, 30	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	9, 6, 25, 11, 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 27, 30, 16, 28, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	9, 6, 19, 26, 21, 10, 12, 15, 27, 22, 23, 14, 16, 28, 29, 30	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	2, 9, 12, 26, 13, 11, 21, 14, 23, 22, 27, 15, 30, 28, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	9, 1, 11, 12, 10, 13, 21, 22, 23, 15, 14, 27, 29, 30, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 6, 12, 13, 26, 21, 11, 23, 14, 22, 27, 15, 29, 16, 30, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	9, 6, 10, 11, 13, 26, 12, 27, 23, 22, 15, 14, 16, 28, 30, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter VI," how does Austen show strategy in courtship? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter VI, how does Austen develop the idea of strategy in courtship? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of strategy in courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of strategy in courtship. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VI suggests about strategy in courtship. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter VI to complicate the reader's understanding of strategy in courtship. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of strategy in courtship responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter VI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of strategy in courtship follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VI and its treatment of strategy in courtship. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VI as evidence for a larger claim about strategy in courtship in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of strategy in courtship. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. If a woman conceals her affection with the same skill from the object of it, she may lose the opportunity of fixing him; and it will then be but poor consolation to believe the world equally in the dark.

   As used in the text, what does the word “conceals” most nearly mean?

   A. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)
   B. devote (oneself) fully to
   C. hides
   D. reflect deeply on a subject

2. On his approaching them soon afterwards, though without seeming to have any intention of speaking, Miss Lucas defied her friend to mention such a subject to him, which immediately provoking Elizabeth to do it, she turned to him and said—

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VI”?

   A. An unhappy marriage observed

B. A changed Darcy
C. Self-recognition
D. Strategy in courtship

SAT key: 1. C (hides); 2. D (Strategy in courtship)

Lesson 8: Chapter VII

Focus: the entail and the officers

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “Chapter VII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “I had not seen 'Pride and Prejudice' till I read that sentence of yours, and then I got the book. And what did I find? An accurate, daguerreotyped portrait of a commonplace face; a carefully-fenced, highly-cultivated garden, with neat borders and delicate flowers; but no glance of a bright, vivid physiognomy, no open country, no fresh air, no blue hill, no bonny beck. I should hardly like to live with her ladies and gentlemen, in their elegant but confined houses.” (Charlotte Brontë, novelist, Letter to G. H. Lewes, 12 January 1848, in Elizabeth Gaskell, The Life of Charlotte Brontë, Vol. 2, Chapter II (1857), Vol. 2, Ch. II; public domain). Counter-evidence hunt: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud in Chapter VII. Does that scene answer Brontë's "no open country, no fresh air"? Students write a reply letter to Brontë. Objective: Analyze setting and the limits of Austen's world (the entail, the walk to Netherfield). Standards: RL.11-12.3, RL.11-12.4, 11-12.RC.1, 11-12.RC.13

Teacher only · spoilers

We learn Longbourn is entailed to a distant male relative. Kitty and Lydia chase officers stationed in Meryton. Jane, invited to Netherfield, rides there in the rain at her mother's scheming and falls ill; Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse her.

Background: An entail restricted inheritance, usually to male heirs; militia regiments were stationed in towns during the Napoleonic wars.

Significance: Elizabeth's muddy walk shows her independence and affection, shocking the Netherfield ladies.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to family and reputation because....
> Prompt: What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: prognostics — predictions; coincided — agreed; were the same; milliner — a person who makes or sells women's hats; effusions — an unrestrained expression of emotion; justifying — show to be reasonable or provide adequate ground for. "coincided": From French coïncider, from Medieval Latin coincidere, from con- + incidere, from in- "into, to" + cadere "to fall, fall down, drop". "effusions": Middle French effusion, from Latin effūsiō "outpouring". Displaced native Old English āgotennes. "justifying": From Middle English justifien, from Old French justifier, from Late Latin justificare "make just", from Latin justus, iustus "just" + ficare "make", from facere, equivalent to just + ify.

Words: prognostics: predictions · coincided: agreed; were the same · milliner: a person who makes or sells women's hats · effusions: an unrestrained expression of emotion · justifying: show to be reasonable or provide adequate ground for

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

An entail restricted inheritance, usually to male heirs; militia regiments were stationed in towns during the Napoleonic wars. Elizabeth's muddy walk shows her independence and affection, shocking the Netherfield ladies. Setting: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot. Characterization: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection. Watch for marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: "Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed in default" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1). The entail: the economic stakes. That is setting at work: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot.

> Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed (Chapter VII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1). The entail: the economic stakes. That is setting at work: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Glowing" is positive; "dirty" is the sisters' focus. Different readers judge the same image differently: theme of judgment. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. (The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.)

> with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise (Chapter VII, paragraph 45)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Glowing" is positive; "dirty" is the sisters' focus. Different readers judge the same image differently: theme of judgment.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. (The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the entail and the officers? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the entail and the officers. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. When the text says “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45), it shows this directly. She arrives "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing," a picture of devotion that the Bingley sisters despise and Darcy admires.

Task: Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the entail and the officers? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the entail and the officers. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. When the text says “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45), it shows this directly. She arrives "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing," a picture of devotion that the Bingley sisters despise and Darcy admires.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values? Ask how each character would describe Elizabeth's arrival.

Anchor question: What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values?
Facilitation: Ask how each character would describe Elizabeth's arrival.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the entail and the officers? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. (“with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise”, Chapter VII, paragraph 45). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the entail and the officers? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. (“with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise”, Chapter VII, paragraph 45). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how setting shapes the entail and the officers. Key takeaway: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Setting: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot.
- Characterization: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat.

Symbols and motifs

- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed in default” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1).
- first impressions and judgment: Characters judge quickly and must revise; the novel's working title was First Impressions. In this chapter: “of feeling should be guided by reason; and, in my opinion, exertion should always be in proportion to what is required” (Chapter VII, paragraph 42).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1) The entail: the economic stakes.
- “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45) Energetic, unconventional.
- “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45) The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety.
Evidence: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45)
Reasoning: She arrives "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing," a picture of devotion that the Bingley sisters despise and Darcy admires.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
prognostics (noun)	predictions	Jane was therefore obliged to go on horseback, and her mother attended her to the door with many cheerful prognostics of a bad day.
coincided (verb)	agreed; were the same	I had hoped that our sentiments coincided in every particular, but I must so far differ from you as to think our two youngest daughters uncommonly foolish.”	“coincided”: From French coïncider, from Medieval Latin coincidere, from con- + incidere, from in- "into, to" + cadere "to fall, fall down, drop". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/coincide#Etymology)
milliner (noun)	a person who makes or sells women's hats	The village of Longbourn was only one mile from Meryton; a most convenient distance for the young ladies, who were usually tempted thither three or four times a week, to pay their duty to their aunt and to a milliner’s shop just over the way.
effusions (noun)	an unrestrained expression of emotion	After listening one morning to their effusions on this subject, Mr.	“effusions”: Middle French effusion, from Latin effūsiō "outpouring". Displaced native Old English āgotennes. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/effusion#Etymology)

justifying (verb)	show to be reasonable or provide adequate ground for	The former was divided between admiration of the brilliancy which exercise had given to her complexion, and doubt as to the occasion's justifying her coming so far alone.	"justifying": From Middle English justifien, from Old French justifier, from Late Latin justificare "make just", from Latin justus, iustus "just" + ficare "make", from facere, equivalent to just + ify. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/justify#Etymology)
apothecary (noun)	a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice	The apothecary came, and having examined his patient, said, as might be supposed, that she had caught a violent cold, and that they must endeavour to get the better of it; advised her to return to bed, and promised her some draughts.
draughts (noun)	doses of liquid medicine	The apothecary came, and having examined his patient, said, as might be supposed, that she had caught a violent cold, and that they must endeavour to get the better of it; advised her to return to bed, and promised her some draughts.
compassionate (adjective)	kind and caring toward others	"If you are not so compassionate as to dine today with Louisa and me, we shall be in danger of hating each other for the rest of our lives, for a whole day's tête-à-tête between two women can never end without a quarrel.	"compassionate": compassion + -ate; compassion is from Late Latin compati "to suffer with," from com- "with" + pati "to suffer." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/compassionate)
politely (adverb)	in a polite manner	She was received, however, very politely by them; and in their brother's manners there was something better than politeness; there was good humour and kindness.
headache (noun)	a pain in the head	Jones—therefore do not be alarmed if you should hear of his having been to me—and excepting a sore-throat and headache there is not much the matter with me.	"headache": From Middle English hevedeche, from Old English hēafodeċe. By surface analysis, head + ache. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/headache#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What is an entail? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A legal limit passing property to a set heir
2. Who chase the officers? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Kitty and Lydia
3. Why does Mrs. Bennet send Jane on horseback? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: So rain will force her to stay at Netherfield
4. What happens to Jane? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She catches a cold and must stay
5. How does Elizabeth reach Netherfield? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She walks through mud
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter VII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: We learn Longbourn is entailed to a distant male relative. Kitty and Lydia chase officers stationed in Meryton. Jane, invited to Netherfield, rides there in the rain at her mother's scheming and falls ill; Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse her.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter VII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter VII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Jane was therefore obliged to go on horseback, and her mother attended her to the door with many cheerful prognostics of a bad day.” What does “prognostics” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: prognostics: predictions.
10. Reread: “I had hoped that our sentiments coincided in every particular, but I must so far differ from you as to think our two youngest daughters uncommonly foolish.”” What does “coincided” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: coincided: agreed; were the same.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter VII” suggest about the entail and the officers? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's muddy walk shows her independence and affection, shocking the Netherfield ladies.
2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about the entail and the officers? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1): The entail: the economic stakes. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““This is the only point, I flatter myself, on which we do not agree.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: We learn Longbourn is entailed to a distant male relative. Kitty and Lydia chase officers stationed in Meryton. Jane, invited to Netherfield, rides there in the rain at her mother's scheming and falls ill; Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse her.
6. How does “Chapter VII” build on “Chapter VI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): Energetic, unconventional. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy. On characterization: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does Elizabeth's long walk reveal about her values?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: "Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1): The entail: the economic stakes. On characterization: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: An entail restricted inheritance, usually to male heirs; militia regiments were stationed in towns during the Napoleonic wars. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: "crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles" (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): Energetic, unconventional. On setting: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Elizabeth's muddy walk shows her independence and affection, shocking the Netherfield ladies." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise" (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: "Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1): The entail: the economic stakes. On characterization: Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter VII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the entail and the officers? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: "crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles" (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): Energetic, unconventional. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter VII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1): The entail: the economic stakes. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): Energetic, unconventional. On setting: The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter VII” treats the entail and the officers with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter VIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1): The entail: the economic stakes. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the entail and the officers? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): Energetic, unconventional. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Useful evidence: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45): The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy. Theme link: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The former was divided between admiration of the brilliancy which exercise had given to her complexion, and doubt as to the occasion’s _____ her coming so far alone.” Word bank: milliner, coincided, justifying, prognostics

   Key: justifying
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““If you are not so _____ as to dine today with Louisa and me, we shall be in danger of hating each other for the rest of our lives, for a whole day’s tête-à-tête between two women can never end without a quarrel.” Word bank: compassionate, milliner, coincided, prognostics

   Key: compassionate
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 1: “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, _____ for his daughters, was entailed”

   Key: unfortunately

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Jane was therefore obliged to go on horseback, and her mother attended her to the door with many cheerful prognostics of a bad day.”, what does “prognostics” most nearly mean?
   A. predictions
   B. never tiring
   C. a card game for four players
   D. mixed up in a confused way

   Key: A (predictions)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth reach Netherfield?
   A. She walks through mud
   B. By carriage
   C. By boat
   D. On horseback

   Key: A (She walks through mud)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “After listening one morning to their effusions on this subject, Mr.”, what does “effusions” most nearly mean?
   A. pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives
   B. passages copied out of a book
   C. an unrestrained expression of emotion
   D. feel happiness or joy

   Key: C (an unrestrained expression of emotion)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Mrs. Bennet send Jane on horseback?
   A. For exercise
   B. To save money
   C. So rain will force her to stay at Netherfield
   D. Because the carriage is broken

   Key: C (So rain will force her to stay at Netherfield)
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The apothecary came, and having examined his patient, said, as might be supposed, that she had caught a violent cold, and that they must endeavour to get the better of it; advised her to return to bed, and promised her some _____.” Word bank: draughts, milliner, prognostics, coincided

   Key: draughts
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is an entail?
   A. A legal limit passing property to a set heir
   B. A marriage contract
   C. A dance
   D. A kind of carriage

   Key: A (A legal limit passing property to a set heir)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1)

    A. The entail: the economic stakes.

    B. Elizabeth's evasion.

    C. Elizabeth's realization.

    D. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.

    Key: A (The entail: the economic stakes.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Bennet’s property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed” (Chapter VII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The entail: the economic stakes.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Energetic, unconventional.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45)

    A. Elizabeth's evasion.

    B. The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.

    C. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

    D. Miss Bingley's checklist.

    Key: B (The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? Elizabeth walks three miles through mud to nurse Jane, showing independence and affection.

    A. Foreshadowing

    B. Characterization

    C. Hyperbole

    D. Point of view

    Key: B (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the Bingley sisters sneer at her muddy petticoat.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The _____ came, and having examined his patient, said, as might be supposed, that she had caught a violent cold, and that they must endeavour to get the better of it; advised her to return to bed, and promised her some draughts.” Word bank: milliner, prognostics, apothecary, coincided

    Key: apothecary

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The village of Longbourn was only one mile from Meryton; a most convenient distance for the young ladies, who were usually tempted thither three or four times a week, to pay their duty to their aunt and to a milliner’s…”, what does “milliner” most nearly mean?
    A. replaced; pushed aside
    B. a person who makes or sells women's hats
    C. dance partners
    D. amounts paid for goods and services that may be currently tax deductible (as opposed to capital expenditures)

    Key: B (a person who makes or sells women's hats)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who chase the officers?
    A. Mrs. Bennet
    B. Mary and Charlotte
    C. Jane and Elizabeth
    D. Kitty and Lydia

    Key: D (Kitty and Lydia)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 45: “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and _____ over puddles”
    Key: springing

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What happens to Jane?
    A. She is engaged
    B. She gets lost
    C. She meets Wickham
    D. She catches a cold and must stay

    Key: D (She catches a cold and must stay)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles” (Chapter VII, paragraph 45)
    A. Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.
    B. Jane's humility.
    C. Energetic, unconventional.
    D. Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.

    Key: C (Energetic, unconventional.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? The entail and the militia: legal and social facts shaping the plot.
    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Setting
    C. Foreshadowing
    D. Alliteration

    Key: B (Setting)

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing with the warmth of exercise" (Chapter VII, paragraph 45).

Sample answer: She arrives "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing," a picture of devotion that the Bingley sisters despise and Darcy admires.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Elizabeth's walk to Netherfield shows her love for Jane matters more to her than propriety." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She arrives "with weary ankles, dirty stockings, and a face glowing," a picture of devotion that the Bingley sisters despise and Darcy admires.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "I had hoped that our sentiments coincided in every particular, but I must so far differ from you as to think our two youngest daughters uncommonly foolish."", what does "coincided" most nearly mean?

    A. speaking about briefly
    B. plain-woven cotton fabric
    C. manners shown by one's upbringing
    D. agreed; were the same

    Key: D (agreed; were the same)

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter VII"?

    A. Farewells at Hunsford
    B. The entail and the officers
    C. Marriage as a social goal
    D. A changed Darcy

    Key: B (The entail and the officers)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Mr. Bennet's property consisted almost entirely in an estate of two thousand a year, which, unfortunately for his daughters, was entailed" (Chapter VII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The entail: the economic stakes.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "crossing field after field at a quick pace, jumping over stiles and springing over puddles" (Chapter VII, paragraph 45) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Energetic, unconventional.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	7, 17, 6, 18, 4, 19, 20, 21, 22, 12, 11, 10, 23, 24, 15, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	20, 26, 1, 4, 19, 2, 12, 22, 27, 11, 13, 15, 14, 23, 16, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	1, 17, 6, 4, 26, 12, 11, 13, 10, 27, 24, 14, 15, 23, 28, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	7, 4, 1, 2, 10, 13, 22, 12, 11, 15, 24, 14, 23, 16, 29, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 18, 1, 22, 13, 11, 10, 12, 15, 24, 14, 23, 29, 25, 28, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 17, 4, 11, 12, 27, 10, 22, 24, 15, 23, 14, 25, 28, 16, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Sophomore	8, 1, 12, 27, 22, 11, 10, 13, 24, 23, 14, 15, 16, 29, 28, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 20, 13, 22, 27, 12, 10, 11, 24, 14, 23, 15, 16, 28, 29, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 17, 27, 12, 13, 22, 10, 11, 15, 24, 23, 14, 29, 28, 25, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 17, 12, 27, 13, 22, 11, 10, 23, 24, 14, 15, 25, 28, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter VII,” how does Austen show the entail and the officers? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter VII, how does Austen develop the idea of the entail and the officers? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the entail and the officers. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of the entail and the officers. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VII suggests about the entail and the officers. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses setting in Chapter VII to complicate the reader's understanding of the entail and the officers. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the entail and the officers responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter VII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the entail and the officers follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VII and its treatment of the entail and the officers. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VII as evidence for a larger claim about the entail and the officers in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the entail and the officers. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. The village of Longbourn was only one mile from Meryton; a most convenient distance for the young ladies, who were usually tempted thither three or four times a week, to pay their duty to their aunt and to a milliner's shop just over the way.

   As used in the text, what does the word “milliner” most nearly mean?

   A. a pain in the head
   B. kind and caring toward others
   C. a person who makes or sells women's hats
   D. in a polite manner

2. “This is the only point, I flatter myself, on which we do not agree. I had hoped that our sentiments coincided in every particular, but I must so far differ from you as to think our two youngest daughters uncommonly foolish.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VII”?

   A. A persuasive tale
   B. Consequences of refusal
   C. Family in crisis
   D. The entail and the officers

SAT key: 1. C (a person who makes or sells women's hats); 2. D (The entail and the officers)

Lesson 9: Chapter VIII

Focus: the accomplished woman

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter VIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At Netherfield the Bingley sisters mock Elizabeth's muddy petticoat. Darcy, Miss Bingley and Elizabeth debate what makes an 'accomplished' woman; Darcy adds 'extensive reading.'

Background: Female 'accomplishments' (music, drawing, languages) were valued as marriage assets.

Significance: Elizabeth's skepticism about impossible standards is a sly critique of how women were judged.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to women's choices because….
Prompt: What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to women's choices because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: accomplishments as a marriage market display.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
*Today's words: undervaluing — treating as less valuable than it is; netting — making by knotting thread into a net; scampering — running about hurriedly; solaced — comforted; inattention — lack of attention. “scampering”: First attested in 1687. Origin uncertain, but possibly from Dutch schamperen, from Old French escamper, from Vulgar Latin *excampāre. “solaced”: From Old French solas, from Latin sōlācium "consolation", root from Proto-Indo-European selh₂- "mercy, comfort". “inattention”: From French inattention.
Words: undervaluing: treating as less valuable than it is · netting: making by knotting thread into a net · scampering: running about hurriedly · solaced: comforted · inattention: lack of attention

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Female 'accomplishments' (music, drawing, languages) were valued as marriage assets. Elizabeth's skepticism about impossible standards is a sly critique of how women were judged. Characterization: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism. Irony: Miss Bingley's list of accomplishments is designed to describe herself. Watch for pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "were pronounced to be very bad indeed, a mixture of pride and impertinence; she had no conversation, no style, no taste, no" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50). Miss Bingley's checklist. That is characterization at work: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism.

> A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50). Miss Bingley's checklist. That is characterization at work: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth's wit punctures the standard. Darcy's addition of "reading" shows he values intelligence. Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices? Expected: Accomplishments as a marriage market display. (Darcy's addition: values mind.)

> the improvement of her mind by extensive reading (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: Elizabeth's wit punctures the standard. Darcy's addition of "reading" shows he values intelligence.

Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices?

Expected answer: Accomplishments as a marriage market display. (Darcy's addition: values mind.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the accomplished woman? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of the accomplished woman. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. When the text says “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52), it shows this directly. Miss Bingley's list of music, drawing and languages describes skills for display, while Elizabeth replies that she wonders at Darcy "knowing any," exposing the impossibility of the ideal.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the accomplished woman? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of the accomplished woman. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. When the text says “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52), it shows this directly. Miss Bingley's list of music, drawing and languages describes skills for display, while Elizabeth replies that she wonders at Darcy "knowing any," exposing the impossibility of the ideal.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker? Compare with modern "accomplishments": résumés, social media.

Anchor question: What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker?

Facilitation: Compare with modern "accomplishments": résumés, social media.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the accomplished woman? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. ("I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any", Chapter VIII, paragraph 52). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the accomplished woman? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. ("I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any", Chapter VIII, paragraph 52). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes the accomplished woman. Key takeaway: accomplishments as a marriage market display.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism.
- Irony: Miss Bingley's list of accomplishments is designed to describe herself.

Themes and how they develop

- women's choices: accomplishments as a marriage market display.

Symbols and motifs

- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "were pronounced to be very bad indeed, a mixture of pride and impertinence; she had no conversation, no style, no taste, no" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 3).
- first impressions and judgment: Characters judge quickly and must revise; the novel's working title was First Impressions. In this chapter: "many men, I dare say, it succeeds. But, in my opinion, it is a paltry device, a very mean art" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 56).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50) Miss Bingley's checklist.

- “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52) Elizabeth's wit.
- “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51) Darcy's addition: values mind.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks.
Evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52)
Reasoning: Miss Bingley's list of music, drawing and languages describes skills for display, while Elizabeth replies that she wonders at Darcy "knowing any," exposing the impossibility of the ideal.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
undervaluing (verb)	treating as less valuable than it is	“Eliza Bennet,” said Miss Bingley, when the door was closed on her, “is one of those young ladies who seek to recommend themselves to the other sex, by undervaluing their own; and with many men, I dare say, it succeeds.
netting (verb)	making by knotting thread into a net	The word is applied to many a woman who deserves it no otherwise than by netting a purse, or covering a screen.
scampering (verb)	running about hurriedly	Why must she be scampering about the country, because her sister had a cold?	“scampering”: First attested in 1687. Origin uncertain, but possibly from Dutch schamperen, from Old French escamper, from Vulgar Latin *excampāre. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/scamper#Etymology)
solaced (verb)	comforted	They solaced their wretchedness, however, by duets after supper, while he could find no better relief to his feelings than by giving his housekeeper directions that every possible attention might be paid to the sick lady and her sister.	“solaced”: From Old French solas, from Latin sōlācium "consolation", root from Proto-Indo-European *selh$_2$- "mercy, comfort". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/solace#Etymology)
inattention (noun)	lack of attention	Hurst called them to order, with bitter complaints of their inattention to what was going forward.	“inattention”: From French inattention. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inattention#Etymology)

screens (noun)	decorated panels used to shield from heat or drafts	They all paint tables, cover screens and net purses.
pianoforte (noun)	a piano	Her performance on the pianoforte is exquisite."
materially (adverb)	with respect to material aspects	"But it must very materially lessen their chance of marrying men of any consideration in the world," replied Darcy.	"materially": From Middle English materialy; equivalent to material + -ly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/materially#Etymology)
despises (verb)	look down on with disdain	"Miss Eliza Bennet," said Miss Bingley, "despises cards.
condescend (verb)	to lower oneself to do something	"Undoubtedly," replied Darcy, to whom this remark was chiefly addressed, "there is meanness in all the arts which ladies sometimes condescend to employ for captivation.

Discussion questions

1. What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What do the Bingley sisters mock? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth's muddy petticoat
2. What does Darcy add to the list of accomplishments? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Extensive reading
3. How does Elizabeth respond to the long list? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She doubts any woman meets it
4. Why were accomplishments valued? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: They improved marriage prospects

5. Who praises Darcy's library to win him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Miss Bingley
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter VIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At Netherfield the Bingley sisters mock Elizabeth's muddy petticoat. Darcy, Miss Bingley and Elizabeth debate what makes an 'accomplished' woman; Darcy adds 'extensive reading.'
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter VIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter VIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““Eliza Bennet,” said Miss Bingley, when the door was closed on her, “is one of those young ladies who seek to recommend themselves to the other sex, by undervaluing their own; and with many men, I dare say, it succeeds.” What does “undervaluing” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: undervaluing: treating as less valuable than it is.
10. Reread: “The word is applied to many a woman who deserves it no otherwise than by netting a purse, or covering a screen.” What does “netting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: netting: making by knotting thread into a net.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter VIII” suggest about the accomplished woman? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's skepticism about impossible standards is a sly critique of how women were judged.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about the accomplished woman? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50): Miss Bingley's checklist. On irony: Miss Bingley's list of accomplishments is designed to describe herself. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Yes, all of them, I think.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At Netherfield the Bingley sisters mock Elizabeth's muddy petticoat. Darcy, Miss Bingley and Elizabeth debate what makes an 'accomplished' woman; Darcy adds 'extensive reading.'
6. How does “Chapter VIII” build on “Chapter VII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52): Elizabeth's wit. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51): Darcy's addition: values mind. On characterization: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does the debate about accomplishments reveal about each speaker?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50): Miss Bingley's checklist. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Female 'accomplishments' (music, drawing, languages) were valued as marriage assets. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52): Elizabeth's wit. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's skepticism about impossible standards is a sly critique of how women were judged.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51): Darcy's addition: values mind. Theme link:

accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50): Miss Bingley's checklist. On characterization: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter VIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the accomplished woman? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52): Elizabeth's wit. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter VIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51): Darcy's addition: values mind. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50): Miss Bingley's checklist. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52): Elizabeth's wit. On characterization: The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter VIII” treats the accomplished woman with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51): Darcy's addition: values mind. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter IX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50): Miss Bingley's checklist. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the accomplished woman? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52): Elizabeth's wit. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Useful evidence: “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51): Darcy's addition: values mind. Theme link: accomplishments as a marriage market display. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Why must she be scampering about the country, because her sister had a cold?”, what does “scampering” most nearly mean?
   A. running about hurriedly
   B. a coming together; an agreement
   C. uninterrupted in time and indefinitely long continuing
   D. walk unsteadily

   Key: A (running about hurriedly)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “They solaced their wretchedness, however, by duets after supper, while he could find no better relief to his feelings than by giving his housekeeper directions that every possible attention might be paid to the sick…”, what does “solaced” most nearly mean?
   A. make unwilling
   B. to balance out; to offset
   C. exemption from punishment or loss
   D. comforted

   Key: D (comforted)
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Hurst called them to order, with bitter complaints of their _____ to what was going forward.” Word bank: scampering, inattention, undervaluing, netting

   Key: inattention
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The word is applied to many a woman who deserves it no otherwise than by netting a purse, or covering a screen.”, what does “netting” most nearly mean?
   A. making by knotting thread into a net
   B. treat, mention, or speak to rudely
   C. a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person
   D. to take advantage of; to intrude on

   Key: A (making by knotting thread into a net)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Eliza Bennet,” said Miss Bingley, when the door was closed on her, “is one of those young ladies who seek to recommend themselves to the other sex, by undervaluing their own; and with many men, I dare say, it succeeds.”, what does “undervaluing” most nearly mean?
   A. expressions of unhappiness; grumbles
   B. to speed up; to hasten
   C. produced or growing in extreme abundance
   D. treating as less valuable than it is Key: D (treating as less valuable than it is)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why were accomplishments valued?
   A. They prevented illness
   B. They improved marriage prospects

   C. They paid wages
   D. They were required by law

   Key: B (They improved marriage prospects)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond to the long list?
   A. She doubts any woman meets it
   B. She lists her own skills
   C. She agrees completely
   D. She leaves

   Key: A (She doubts any woman meets it)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Her performance on the _____ is exquisite.”” Word bank: netting, undervaluing, scampering, pianoforte

   Key: pianoforte

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 50: “A woman must have a thorough _____ of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word”

   Key: knowledge

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50)
    A. Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.
    B. Miss Bingley's checklist.
    C. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
    D. Charlotte's honesty.

    Key: B (Miss Bingley's checklist.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52)
    A. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
    B. Elizabeth's wit.
    C. He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.
    D. Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's wit.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's wit.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51)
    A. Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.
    B. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.
    C. Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.

D. Darcy's addition: values mind.

Key: D (Darcy's addition: values mind.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52).

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's list of music, drawing and languages describes skills for display, while Elizabeth replies that she wonders at Darcy "knowing any," exposing the impossibility of the ideal.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “the improvement of her mind by extensive reading” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 51). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Darcy's addition: values mind.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's checklist.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy add to the list of accomplishments?

    A. Dancing
    B. Extensive reading
    C. Wealth
    D. Cooking

    Key: B (Extensive reading)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They all paint tables, cover _____ and net purses.” Word bank: undervaluing, screens, scampering, netting

    Key: screens

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who praises Darcy's library to win him?

    A. Miss Bingley
    B. Jane
    C. Mrs. Hurst
    D. Elizabeth

    Key: A (Miss Bingley)

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's checklist.

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VIII”?

    A. The letter
    B. Happiness for Jane
    C. A disastrous ball
    D. The accomplished woman

    Key: D (The accomplished woman)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VIII”? The "accomplished woman" debate reveals Miss Bingley's flattery, Darcy's high standards and Elizabeth's skepticism.
    A. Theme
    B. Structure
    C. Characterization
    D. Alliteration

    Key: C (Characterization)
23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VIII”? Miss Bingley's list of accomplishments is designed to describe herself.
    A. Irony
    B. Allusion
    C. Setting
    D. Theme

    Key: A (Irony)
24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““But it must very _____ lessen their chance of marrying men of any consideration in the world,” replied Darcy.” Word bank: undervaluing, netting, materially, scampering
    Key: materially
25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do the Bingley sisters mock?
    A. Elizabeth's muddy petticoat
    B. Jane's illness
    C. Darcy's books
    D. Mr. Bennet's wit

    Key: A (Elizabeth's muddy petticoat)
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how women's choices develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VIII”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: accomplishments as a marriage market display.
27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 52: “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six _____ women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any”
    Key: accomplished
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The debate shows that "accomplishment" is a social performance for the marriage market, which Elizabeth mocks.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's list of music, drawing and languages describes skills for display, while Elizabeth replies that she wonders at Darcy "knowing any," exposing the impossibility of the ideal.
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am no longer surprised at your knowing only six accomplished women. I rather wonder now at your knowing any” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 52) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's wit.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 51: “the _____ of her mind by extensive reading”
    Key: improvement

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	1, 17, 18, 7, 3, 4, 2, 19, 20, 10, 11, 21, 14, 22, 23, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	7, 9, 18, 4, 24, 25, 20, 10, 11, 13, 21, 15, 22, 23, 16, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	8, 4, 27, 9, 1, 11, 13, 21, 12, 20, 22, 14, 15, 23, 26, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 17, 9, 4, 12, 13, 20, 11, 10, 22, 23, 14, 15, 28, 16, 26	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	19, 18, 24, 12, 13, 20, 21, 11, 22, 23, 14, 15, 28, 26, 29, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	27, 3, 7, 20, 13, 11, 12, 21, 15, 22, 23, 14, 16, 29, 26, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 18, 11, 20, 13, 10, 12, 21, 22, 14, 23, 15, 16, 26, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	3, 18, 11, 13, 21, 10, 12, 20, 14, 15, 22, 23, 29, 28, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	3, 9, 10, 12, 20, 21, 11, 13, 23, 15, 22, 14, 16, 28, 26, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	3, 30, 13, 20, 11, 21, 10, 12, 14, 15, 23, 22, 16, 26, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter VIII,” how does Austen show the accomplished woman? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter VIII, how does Austen develop the idea of the accomplished woman? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of the accomplished woman. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of the accomplished woman. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VIII suggests about the accomplished woman. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter VIII to complicate the reader's understanding of the accomplished woman. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the accomplished woman responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter VIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the accomplished woman follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VIII and its treatment of the accomplished woman. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VIII as evidence for a larger claim about the accomplished woman in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the accomplished woman. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Why must she be scampering about the country, because her sister had a cold?

   As used in the text, what does the word “scampering” most nearly mean?

   A. look down on with disdain

B. with respect to material aspects
C. to lower oneself to do something
D. running about hurriedly

2. "Yes, all of them, I think. They all paint tables, cover screens and net purses. I scarcely know anyone who cannot do all this, and I am sure I never heard a young lady spoken of for the first time, without being informed that she was very accomplished."

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter VIII"?

A. The accomplished woman
B. A revelation from the colonel
C. The letter
D. Consequences of refusal

SAT key: 1. D (running about hurriedly); 2. A (The accomplished woman)

Lesson 10: Chapter IX

Focus: embarrassing relations

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter IX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (age of a minor): Lydia is “a girl of fifteen”; flag her age now, because later an adult man pursues her.
Student preview: Notice Lydia's age in this chapter; it matters later.
Suggested language: “How old is Lydia, and how do the adults around her treat her?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Mrs. Bennet visits Netherfield with Lydia and Kitty, embarrassing Elizabeth by boasting and mocking Darcy. Lydia demands that Bingley hold a ball.

Background: Public behavior reflected on a family's whole reputation in genteel society.

Significance: Mrs. Bennet's lack of propriety becomes a real obstacle to her daughters' prospects.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because…. Content note before we start: Notice Lydia's age in this chapter; it matters later.
Prompt: How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: witticisms — clever, funny remarks; nourishes — feeds; makes stronger; trespass — to take advantage of; to intrude on; profuse — produced or growing in extreme abundance; exposing — expose or make accessible to some action or influence. "witticisms": From witty + icism; coined in the 1670s by John Dryden, by analogy to criticism. "nourishes": From Middle English norischen, from Old French nouriss-, stem of one of the conjugated forms of norrir, from Latin nutriō "to suckle, feed, foster, nourish, cherish, preserve, support". "trespass": Borrowed into Middle English trespas, from Old French trespas "passage; offense against the law", from trespasser. "profuse": From Latin profusus.

Words: witticisms: clever, funny remarks · nourishes: feeds; makes stronger · trespass: to take advantage of; to intrude on · profuse: produced or growing in extreme abundance · exposing: expose or make accessible to some action or influence

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Public behavior reflected on a family's whole reputation in genteel society. Mrs. Bennet's lack of propriety becomes a real obstacle to her daughters' prospects. Characterization: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party. Irony: Mrs. Bennet believes she is advancing her daughters; every word works against them. Elizabeth's attempts to change the subject are the reader's guide. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "could think of nothing to say; and after a short silence Mrs. Bennet began repeating her thanks to Mr. Bingley for his" (Chapter IX, paragraph 35).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "She seems a very pleasant young woman" (Chapter IX, paragraph 30). Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. That is characterization at work: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party.

> She seems a very pleasant young woman (Chapter IX, paragraph 30)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "She seems a very pleasant young woman" (Chapter IX, paragraph 30). Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. That is characterization at work: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Satisfied" is ironic because the reader has watched Elizabeth's embarrassment; the line shows how blind Mrs. Bennet is, which links to family and reputation. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. (Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.)

> She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied (Chapter IX, paragraph 35)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Satisfied" is ironic because the reader has watched Elizabeth's embarrassment; the line shows how blind Mrs. Bennet is, which links to family and reputation.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. (Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about embarrassing relations? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of embarrassing relations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. When the text says "She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied" (Chapter IX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. She leaves "satisfied" after a visit in which Elizabeth has had to manage her, showing that she cannot see the impression her family makes; Lydia's demand for a ball adds to it.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about embarrassing relations? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of embarrassing relations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. When the text says "She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied" (Chapter IX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. She leaves "satisfied" after a visit in which Elizabeth has had to manage her, showing that she cannot see the impression her family makes; Lydia's demand for a ball adds to it.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help? Ask: is it fair that Jane and Elizabeth are judged by their mother? Then ask whether we do the same today.
Anchor question: How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help?
Facilitation: Ask: is it fair that Jane and Elizabeth are judged by their mother? Then ask whether we do the same today.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about embarrassing relations? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. ("She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied", Chapter IX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about embarrassing relations? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. ("She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied", Chapter IX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes embarrassing relations. Key takeaway: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party.
- Irony: Mrs. Bennet believes she is advancing her daughters; every word works against them. Elizabeth's attempts to change the subject are the reader's guide.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “could think of nothing to say; and after a short silence Mrs. Bennet began repeating her thanks to Mr. Bingley for his” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “did not. Perhaps he thought her too young. However, he wrote some verses on her, and very pretty they were” (Chapter IX, paragraph 31).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35) Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.
- “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30) Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
- “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36) Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote.

Evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35)

Reasoning: She leaves "satisfied" after a visit in which Elizabeth has had to manage her, showing that she cannot see the impression her family makes; Lydia's demand for a ball adds to it.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
witticisms (noun)	clever, funny remarks	Darcy; the latter of whom, however, could not be prevailed on to join in their censure of her, in spite of all Miss Bingley’s witticisms on fine eyes.	“witticisms”: From witty + icism; coined in the 1670s by John Dryden, by analogy to criticism. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/witticism#Etymology)
nourishes (verb)	feeds; makes stronger	Everything nourishes what is strong already.	“nourishes”: From Middle English norischen, from Old French nouriss-, stem of one of the conjugated forms of norrir, from Latin nutriō "to suckle, feed, foster, nourish, cherish, preserve, support". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/nourish#Etymology)
trespass (verb)		We must trespass a little longer on your kindness.”	“trespass”: Borrowed into Middle English trespas, from Old French trespas "passage; offense against to take advantage of; to intrude on		the law", from trespasser. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trespass#Etymology)

profuse (adjective)	produced or growing in extreme abundance	Bennet was profuse in her acknowledgments.	"profuse": From Latin profusus. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/profuse#Etymology)
exposing (verb)	expose or make accessible to some action or influence	Darcy only smiled; and the general pause which ensued made Elizabeth tremble lest her mother should be exposing herself again.
amendment (noun)	the act of amending or correcting	In spite of this amendment, however, she requested to have a note sent to Longbourn, desiring her mother to visit Jane, and form her own judgment of her situation.
efficacy (noun)	capacity or power to produce a desired effect	I wonder who first discovered the efficacy of poetry in driving away love!"
complied (verb)	act in accordance with someone's rules, commands, or wishes	The note was immediately dispatched, and its contents as quickly complied with.
troubling (verb)	bothering; putting to trouble	Bingley for his kindness to Jane, with an apology for troubling him also with Lizzy.	"troubling": Verb is from Middle English troublen, trouble, borrowed from Old French troubler, trobler, trubler, metathetic variants of tourbler, torbler, turbler, from Vulgar Latin *turbulō, from Latin turbula "disorderly group, a little crowd or people", diminutive of turba "stir; crowd". The noun is from Middle English trouble, troble, from Old French troble, from the verb. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trouble#Etymology)
genteel (adjective)	marked by refinement in taste and manners	Bingley—is not he? so much the man of fashion! so genteel and so easy!—He has always something to say to everybody.

Discussion questions

1. How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who visits Netherfield to check on Jane? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Bennet with Lydia and Kitty
2. How does Elizabeth feel during the visit? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Embarrassed
3. What does Lydia ask Bingley to hold? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A ball
4. How does Mrs. Bennet treat Darcy? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Rudely
5. Why does family behavior matter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: It affects the daughters' reputation
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter IX" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Bennet visits Netherfield with Lydia and Kitty, embarrassing Elizabeth by boasting and mocking Darcy. Lydia demands that Bingley hold a ball.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter IX"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter IX" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Darcy; the latter of whom, however, could not be prevailed on to join in their censure of her, in spite of all Miss Bingley's witticisms on fine eyes." What does "witticisms" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: witticisms: clever, funny remarks.
10. Reread: "Everything nourishes what is strong already." What does "nourishes" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: nourishes: feeds; makes stronger.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter IX" suggest about embarrassing relations? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Bennet's lack of propriety becomes a real obstacle to her daughters' prospects.

2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about embarrassing relations? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35): Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth passed the chief of the night in her sister’s room, and in the morning had the pleasure of being able to send a tolerable answer to the enquiries which she very early…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter IX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Bennet visits Netherfield with Lydia and Kitty, embarrassing Elizabeth by boasting and mocking Darcy. Lydia demands that Bingley hold a ball.
6. How does “Chapter IX” build on “Chapter VIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30): Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36): Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Mrs. Bennet's behavior hurt the daughters she wants to help?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35): Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap. On irony: Mrs. Bennet believes she is advancing her daughters; every word works against them. Elizabeth's attempts to change the subject are the reader's guide. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Public behavior reflected on a family's whole reputation in genteel society. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30): Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mrs. Bennet's lack of propriety becomes a real obstacle to her daughters' prospects.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36): Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35): Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter IX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about embarrassing relations? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30): Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter IX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36): Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35): Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30): Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter IX” treats embarrassing relations with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36): Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter X” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35): Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about embarrassing relations? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30): Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Useful evidence: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36): Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later. Theme link: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 36: “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of _____”

   Key: fifteen
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy; the latter of whom, however, could not be prevailed on to join in their censure of her, in spite of all Miss Bingley’s witticisms on fine eyes.”, what does “witticisms” most nearly mean?

   A. moved to act; driven

B. a combination of different things
C. planning something beforehand
D. clever, funny remarks

Key: D (clever, funny remarks)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does family behavior matter?

A. It affects the weather
B. It changes the entail
C. It is illegal
D. It affects the daughters' reputation

Key: D (It affects the daughters' reputation)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who visits Netherfield to check on Jane?

A. Mr. Collins
B. Charlotte
C. Mrs. Bennet with Lydia and Kitty
D. Mr. Bennet alone

Key: C (Mrs. Bennet with Lydia and Kitty)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “We must trespass a little longer on your kindness.””, what does “trespass” most nearly mean?

A. very formal and polite
B. amused
C. walked about with no fixed route
D. to take advantage of; to intrude on

Key: D (to take advantage of; to intrude on)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I wonder who first discovered the _____ of poetry in driving away love!”” Word bank: trespass, efficacy, witticisms, nourishes

Key: efficacy

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy only smiled; and the general pause which ensued made Elizabeth tremble lest her mother should be _____ herself again.” Word bank: exposing, witticisms, nourishes, trespass

Key: exposing

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In spite of this _____, however, she requested to have a note sent to Longbourn, desiring her mother to visit Jane, and form her own judgment of her situation.” Word bank: amendment, witticisms, trespass, nourishes

Key: amendment

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet treat Darcy?

A. Respectfully
B. Flirtatiously
C. Rudely
D. Shyly

Key: C (Rudely)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36)
    A. Wickham's motive.
    B. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
    C. Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.
    D. The news delivered formally, a social ritual.

    Key: C (Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter IX”?
    A. Endings and futures
    B. A costly solution
    C. Embarrassing relations
    D. Parental conflict over the refusal

    Key: C (Embarrassing relations)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35)
    A. Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.
    B. The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.
    C. Opening.
    D. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

    Key: A (Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.)
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IX”? Mrs. Bennet believes she is advancing her daughters; every word works against them. Elizabeth's attempts to change the subject are the reader's guide.
    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Irony
    C. Conflict
    D. Characterization

    Key: B (Irony)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Lydia was a stout, well-grown girl of fifteen” (Chapter IX, paragraph 36). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter IX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the daughters are judged by their mother's manners; this is the first of many scenes where family embarrassment threatens Jane's prospects.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 35: “She performed her part indeed without much _____, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied”

    Key: graciousness

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Everything nourishes what is strong already.”, what does “nourishes” most nearly mean?
    - A. careful management; saving
    - B. feeds; makes stronger
    - C. in an irritable, complaining way
    - D. amounts paid for goods and services that may be currently tax deductible (as opposed to capital expenditures)

    Key: B (feeds; makes stronger)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Lydia ask Bingley to hold?
    - A. A concert
    - B. A dinner
    - C. A ball
    - D. A hunt

    Key: C (A ball)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30)
    - A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    - B. Elizabeth's independence.
    - C. The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
    - D. The letter's opening.

    Key: A (Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35).

    Sample answer: She leaves "satisfied" after a visit in which Elizabeth has had to manage her, showing that she cannot see the impression her family makes; Lydia's demand for a ball adds to it.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IX”? Mrs. Bennet's visit to Netherfield is a comic disaster: she boasts about Jane, quarrels with Darcy about country society and lets Lydia demand a ball. Each speech lowers the family in the eyes of the Netherfield party.
    - A. Characterization
    - B. Hyperbole
    - C. Diction / vocabulary
    - D. Allusion

    Key: A (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mrs. Bennet's behaviour at Netherfield damages the reputation she is trying to promote.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: She leaves "satisfied" after a visit in which Elizabeth has had to manage her, showing that she cannot see the impression her family makes; Lydia's demand for a ball adds to it.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The note was immediately dispatched, and its contents as quickly _____ with.” Word bank: nourishes, witticisms, complied, trespass

    Key: complied

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth feel during the visit?

    A. Proud
    B. Embarrassed
    C. Angry with Jane
    D. Bored

    Key: B (Embarrassed)

26. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She seems a very pleasant young woman” (Chapter IX, paragraph 30) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She performed her part indeed without much graciousness, but Mrs. Bennet was satisfied” (Chapter IX, paragraph 35) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's mother is "satisfied" with a visit the reader can see has gone badly: the irony is in the gap.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	4, 3, 8, 5, 17, 18, 19, 1, 12, 10, 13, 20, 15, 21, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 3, 19, 17, 7, 25, 10, 26, 20, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22, 23, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	24, 17, 4, 9, 8, 26, 10, 13, 11, 12, 22, 21, 14, 15, 28, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 17, 24, 25, 10, 20, 12, 13, 26, 21, 22, 14, 15, 16, 27, 23	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	7, 8, 4, 26, 11, 13, 10, 12, 22, 21, 15, 14, 28, 23, 16, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	7, 8, 3, 11, 20, 12, 10, 26, 14, 22, 21, 15, 27, 16, 23, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 7, 10, 12, 26, 11, 20, 13, 14, 15, 22, 21, 28, 23, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	24, 1, 11, 20, 26, 10, 13, 12, 15, 21, 22, 14, 23, 28, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 1, 26, 10, 20, 11, 13, 12, 21, 22, 14, 15, 28, 27, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	7, 8, 26, 20, 12, 13, 10, 11, 21, 22, 15, 14, 16, 23, 28, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter IX,” how does Austen show embarrassing relations? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter IX, how does Austen develop the idea of embarrassing relations? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of embarrassing relations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter IX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of embarrassing relations. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter IX suggests about embarrassing relations. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter IX to complicate the reader's understanding of embarrassing relations. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter IX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of embarrassing relations responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter IX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of embarrassing relations follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter IX and its treatment of embarrassing relations. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter IX as evidence for a larger claim about embarrassing relations in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter IX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of embarrassing relations. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. We must trespass a little longer on your kindness."

   As used in the text, what does the word "trespass" most nearly mean?

   A. to take advantage of; to intrude on

   B. bothering; putting to trouble

   C. marked by refinement in taste and manners

   D. act in accordance with someone's rules, commands, or wishes

2. Elizabeth passed the chief of the night in her sister's room, and in the morning had the pleasure of being able to send a tolerable answer to the enquiries which she very early received from Mr. Bingley by a housemaid, and some time afterwards from the two elegant ladies who waited on his sisters. In spite of this amendment, however, she requested to have a note sent to Longbourn, desiring her mother to visit Jane, and form her own judgment of her situation. The note was immediately dispatched, and its contents as quickly complied with. Mrs. Bennet, accompanied by her two youngest girls, reached Netherfield soon after the family breakfast.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter IX"?

   A. Marriage as a social goal

   B. The Brighton plan

   C. Embarrassing relations

   D. A persuasive tale

SAT key: 1. A (to take advantage of; to intrude on); 2. C (Embarrassing relations)

Lesson 11: Chapter X

Focus: wit as courtship

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter X” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Miss Bingley flatters Darcy as he writes a letter; Elizabeth and Darcy spar over Bingley's 'humility' and persuadability. Darcy asks Elizabeth to dance a reel; she refuses wittily, and he finds himself 'bewitched.'

Background: Letter writing was a central social skill and a sign of character.

Significance: Their verbal duels reveal mutual attraction neither admits.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare."

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: appertain — to belong to or be connected with; overthrowing — defeating; spoiling (a plan); celerity — speed; swiftness; rambled — walked about with no fixed route; premeditated — planned in advance. “appertain”: From Middle English apperteinen, apertenen, borrowed from Old French apartenir (French appartenir), from Late Latin appertinēre]], from ad "to" + Latin pertinēre]]. More at pertain. “overthrowing”: From Middle English overthrowen, equivalent to over + throw. Compare Dutch overdraaien, German überdrehen, Old English oferweorpan "to overthrow". “premeditated”: Latin praemeditātus, past participle of praemeditor "to premeditate". By surface analysis, pre- + meditate.
> Words: appertain: to belong to or be connected with · overthrowing: defeating; spoiling (a plan) · celerity: speed; swiftness · rambled: walked about with no fixed route · premeditated: planned in advance

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Letter writing was a central social skill and a sign of character. Their verbal duels reveal mutual attraction neither admits. Characterization: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges. Dialogue: The debate about Bingley's "precipitance" (acting on a friend's persuasion) foreshadows Darcy persuading Bingley to leave Jane. Foreshadowing: Miss Bingley teases Darcy about marrying Elizabeth, naming the possibility long before either admits it. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "He was silent" (Chapter X, paragraph 14).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am afraid you do not like your pen" (Chapter X, paragraph 11). Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. That is characterization at work: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges.

> I am afraid you do not like your pen (Chapter X, paragraph 11)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am afraid you do not like your pen" (Chapter X, paragraph 11). Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. That is characterization at work: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Look at the craft: The debate about Bingley's "precipitance" (acting on a friend's persuasion) foreshadows Darcy persuading Bingley to leave Jane. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." (Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.)

> despise me if you dare (Chapter X, paragraph 50)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Look at the craft: The debate about Bingley's "precipitance" (acting on a friend's persuasion) foreshadows Darcy persuading Bingley to leave Jane.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." (Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about wit as courtship? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of wit as courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. When the text says "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46), it shows this directly. She notices "how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" but concludes he finds something wrong in her; the reader, who knows his admiration, sees prejudice shaping her interpretation.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about wit as courtship? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of wit as courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. When the text says "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46), it shows this directly. She notices "how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" but concludes he finds something wrong in her; the reader, who knows his admiration, sees prejudice shaping her interpretation.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it? Ask students to list three things Darcy does in this chapter and give a generous and an ungenerous reading of each.

Anchor question: Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it?

Facilitation: Ask students to list three things Darcy does in this chapter and give a generous and an ungenerous reading of each.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about wit as courtship? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. (“Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her”, Chapter X, paragraph 46). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about wit as courtship? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. (“Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her”, Chapter X, paragraph 46). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes wit as courtship. Key takeaway: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare."

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges.
- Dialogue: The debate about Bingley's "precipitance" (acting on a friend's persuasion) foreshadows Darcy persuading Bingley to leave Jane.
- Foreshadowing: Miss Bingley teases Darcy about marrying Elizabeth, naming the possibility long before either admits it.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare."

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “He was silent” (Chapter X, paragraph 14).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Bingley, seated near him, was watching the progress of his letter, and repeatedly calling off his attention by messages to his sister” (Chapter X, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "I am afraid you do not like your pen" (Chapter X, paragraph 11) Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.
- "despise me if you dare" (Chapter X, paragraph 50) Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
- "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46) The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her.
Evidence: "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46)
Reasoning: She notices "how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" but concludes he finds something wrong in her; the reader, who knows his admiration, sees prejudice shaping her interpretation.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
appertain (verb)	to belong to or be connected with	"Will it not be advisable, before we proceed on this subject, to arrange with rather more precision the degree of importance which is to appertain to this request, as well as the degree of intimacy subsisting between the parties?"	"appertain": From Middle English apperteinen, apertenen, borrowed from Old French apartenir (French appartenir), from Late Latin appertinēre]], from ad "to" + Latin pertinēre]]. More at pertain. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/appertain#Etymology)
overthrowing (verb)	defeating; spoiling (a plan)	You wanted me, I know, to say 'Yes,' that you might have the pleasure of despising my taste; but I always delight in overthrowing those kind of schemes, and cheating a person of their premeditated contempt.	"overthrowing": From Middle English overthrowen, equivalent to over + throw. Compare Dutch overdraaien, German überdrehen, Old English oferweorpan "to overthrow". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/overthrow#Etymology)
celerity (noun)	speed; swiftness	"I dare say you believed it; but I am by no means convinced that you would be gone with such celerity.
rambled (verb)		She then ran gaily off, rejoicing as she rambled about, in the hope walked about with no fixed route	of being at home again in a day or two.

premeditated (adjective)	planned in advance	You wanted me, I know, to say 'Yes,' that you might have the pleasure of despising my taste; but I always delight in overthrowing those kind of schemes, and cheating a person of their premeditated contempt.	“premeditated”: Latin praemeditātus, past participle of praemeditor "to premeditate". By surface analysis, pre- + meditate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/premeditate#Etymology)
adhering (verb)	be compatible or in accordance with	Darcy then consider the rashness of your original intention as atoned for by your obstinacy in adhering to it?”	“adhering”: From Middle English *adherynge, adherande, present participle of Middle English *adheren, from Old French *adherer, aderer and Medieval Latin adhaereō "adhere", equivalent to adhere + -ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/adhering#Etymology)
bordering (verb)	coming close (to)	And, if I may mention so delicate a subject, endeavour to check that little something, bordering on conceit and impertinence, which your lady possesses.”
indignity (noun)	an affront to one's dignity or self-esteem	Miss Bingley warmly resented the indignity he had received, in an expostulation with her brother for talking such nonsense.	“indignity”: Borrowed from Latin indignitās, indignitātem. Equivalent to indign + ity. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/indignity#Etymology)
converting (verb)	persuading; changing (someone's view)	“I am exceedingly gratified,” said Bingley, “by your converting what my friend says into a compliment on the sweetness of my temper.
charmingly (adverb)	in a charming manner	You are charmingly group'd, and appear to uncommon advantage.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What is Darcy doing while Miss Bingley flatters him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Writing a letter
2. What trait of Bingley do they debate? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: How easily he is persuaded
3. What does Elizabeth refuse? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To dance a reel with Darcy
4. How does Darcy feel about Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Increasingly attracted
5. What literary device fills their conversations? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Witty irony
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter X” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Miss Bingley flatters Darcy as he writes a letter; Elizabeth and Darcy spar over Bingley's 'humility' and persuadability. Darcy asks Elizabeth to dance a reel; she refuses wittily, and he finds himself 'bewitched.'
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter X”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter X” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““Will it not be advisable, before we proceed on this subject, to arrange with rather more precision the degree of importance which is to appertain to this request, as well as the degree of intimacy subsisting between…” What does “appertain” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: appertain: to belong to or be connected with.
10. Reread: “You wanted me, I know, to say ‘Yes,’ that you might have the pleasure of despising my taste; but I always delight in overthrowing those kind of schemes, and cheating a person of their premeditated contempt.” What does “overthrowing” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: overthrowing: defeating; spoiling (a plan).

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter X” suggest about wit as courtship? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Their verbal duels reveal mutual attraction neither admits.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about wit as courtship? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11): Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins ““I dare say you believed it; but I am by no means convinced that you would be gone with such celerity.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter X”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Miss Bingley flatters Darcy as he writes a letter; Elizabeth and Darcy spar over Bingley's 'humility' and persuadability. Darcy asks Elizabeth to dance a reel; she refuses wittily, and he finds himself 'bewitched.'
6. How does “Chapter X” build on “Chapter IX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50): Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46): The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval. On characterization: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Darcy enjoy Elizabeth's refusal rather than resent it?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11): Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Letter writing was a central social skill and a sign of character. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50): Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Their verbal duels reveal mutual attraction neither admits.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46): The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11): Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. On characterization: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter X” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about wit as courtship? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50): Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter X”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3,

CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46): The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: "I am afraid you do not like your pen" (Chapter X, paragraph 11): Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: "despise me if you dare" (Chapter X, paragraph 50): Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. On characterization: In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter X" treats wit as courtship with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" (Chapter X, paragraph 46): The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what "Chapter XI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: "I am afraid you do not like your pen" (Chapter X, paragraph 11): Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent. On foreshadowing: Miss Bingley teases Darcy about marrying Elizabeth, naming the possibility long before either admits it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about wit as courtship? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50): Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46): The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval. Theme link: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy then consider the rashness of your original intention as atoned for by your obstinacy in _____ to it?”” Word bank: appertain, adhering, overthrowing, celerity

   Key: adhering
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 46: “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the _____, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her”

   Key: instrument
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 11: “I am _____ you do not like your pen”

   Key: afraid
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What trait of Bingley do they debate?

   A. His dancing

   B. His wealth
   C. How easily he is persuaded
   D. His health

   Key: C (How easily he is persuaded)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Darcy doing while Miss Bingley flatters him?
   A. Painting
   B. Writing a letter
   C. Playing cards
   D. Reading

   Key: B (Writing a letter)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You wanted me, I know, to say ‘Yes,’ that you might have the pleasure of despising my taste; but I always delight in overthrowing those kind of schemes, and cheating a person of their _____ contempt.” Word bank: appertain, overthrowing, premeditated, celerity

   Key: premeditated

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““I dare say you believed it; but I am by no means convinced that you would be gone with such celerity.”, what does “celerity” most nearly mean?
   A. agreeing to marry
   B. a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth
   C. speed; swiftness
   D. free from deception or illusion

   Key: C (speed; swiftness)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “You wanted me, I know, to say ‘Yes,’ that you might have the pleasure of despising my taste; but I always delight in overthrowing those kind of schemes, and cheating a person of their premeditated contempt.”, what does “overthrowing” most nearly mean?
   A. defeating; spoiling (a plan)
   B. predictions
   C. a restless, nervous state
   D. great wickedness

   Key: A (defeating; spoiling (a plan))

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Darcy feel about Elizabeth?
   A. Disgusted
   B. Increasingly attracted
   C. Indifferent
   D. Afraid

   Key: B (Increasingly attracted)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50)
    A. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.

B. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
C. The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
D. Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.

Key: B (Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter X”?

A. Happiness for Jane
B. Wit as courtship
C. Too late
D. Pemberley

Key: B (Wit as courtship)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46)

A. Jane's charity.
B. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.
C. Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.
D. Mr. Bennet's joke.

Key: B (The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Elizabeth could not help observing as she turned over some music books that lay on the instrument, how frequently Mr. Darcy’s eyes were fixed on her” (Chapter X, paragraph 46).

Sample answer: She notices "how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" but concludes he finds something wrong in her; the reader, who knows his admiration, sees prejudice shaping her interpretation.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter X”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Elizabeth refuses to give Darcy the satisfaction of dancing a reel: "despise me if you dare."

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What literary device fills their conversations?

A. Flashback
B. Witty irony
C. Allegory
D. Rhyme

Key: B (Witty irony)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “And, if I may mention so delicate a subject, endeavour to check that little something, _____ on conceit and impertinence, which your lady possesses.”” Word bank: appertain, bordering, overthrowing, celerity

    Key: bordering

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth refuse?

    A. To marry Collins
    B. To leave Netherfield
    C. To dance a reel with Darcy
    D. To play the piano

    Key: C (To dance a reel with Darcy)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11)

    A. Miss Bingley's checklist.
    B. Jane's charitable hope.
    C. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.
    D. Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.

    Key: D (Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter X”? In the letter-writing scene Darcy writes carefully and at length, Bingley carelessly; Miss Bingley flatters Darcy constantly; Elizabeth watches and judges.

    A. Symbolism
    B. Characterization
    C. Alliteration
    D. Foreshadowing

    Key: B (Characterization)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter X”? The debate about Bingley's "precipitance" (acting on a friend's persuasion) foreshadows Darcy persuading Bingley to leave Jane.

    A. Dialogue
    B. Alliteration
    C. Structure
    D. Simile

    Key: A (Dialogue)

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She then ran gaily off, rejoicing as she rambled about, in the hope of being at home again in a day or two.”, what does “rambled” most nearly mean?

    A. walked about with no fixed route
    B. realize beforehand
    C. express criticism towards
    D. to hide one's true feelings

    Key: A (walked about with no fixed route)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “despise me if you dare” (Chapter X, paragraph 50) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The letter-writing scene shows Elizabeth misreading Darcy's attention because she has already decided he dislikes her.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: She notices "how frequently Mr. Darcy's eyes were fixed on her" but concludes he finds something wrong in her; the reader, who knows his admiration, sees prejudice shaping her interpretation.
27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Miss Bingley warmly resented the _____ he had received, in an expostulation with her brother for talking such nonsense.” Word bank: celerity, overthrowing, indignity, appertain
    Key: indignity
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am afraid you do not like your pen” (Chapter X, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 1, 7, 17, 18, 8, 6, 19, 13, 11, 10, 20, 15, 21, 22, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 19, 23, 6, 17, 3, 24, 20, 11, 10, 12, 14, 21, 22, 25, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	5, 2, 4, 3, 6, 10, 24, 20, 11, 13, 21, 22, 14, 15, 26, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	27, 7, 2, 8, 12, 20, 13, 24, 11, 14, 21, 15, 22, 16, 28, 25	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	27, 17, 3, 12, 11, 13, 24, 20, 14, 15, 21, 22, 28, 16, 26, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	2, 8, 1, 12, 11, 24, 10, 13, 14, 21, 22, 15, 16, 25, 28, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 1, 12, 20, 13, 24, 11, 10, 22, 15, 21, 14, 28, 25, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	6, 1, 12, 13, 11, 20, 24, 10, 22, 14, 15, 21, 26, 25, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	6, 1, 13, 11, 24, 12, 10, 20, 21, 22, 14, 15, 26, 16, 25, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	27, 2, 24, 20, 10, 13, 11, 12, 22, 21, 15, 14, 26, 25, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter X,” how does Austen show wit as courtship? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter X, how does Austen develop the idea of wit as courtship? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of wit as courtship. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter X (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of wit as courtship. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter X suggests about wit as courtship. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter X to complicate the reader's understanding of wit as courtship. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter X within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of wit as courtship responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter X alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of wit as courtship follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter X and its treatment of wit as courtship. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter X as evidence for a larger claim about wit as courtship in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter X as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of wit as courtship. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “I dare say you believed it; but I am by no means convinced that you would be gone with such celerity.

   As used in the text, what does the word “celerity” most nearly mean?

   A. speed; swiftness
   B. an affront to one's dignity or self-esteem
   C. in a charming manner
   D. persuading; changing (someone's view)

2. “I dare say you believed it; but I am by no means convinced that you would be gone with such celerity. Your conduct would be quite as dependant on chance as that of any man I know; and if, as you were mounting your horse, a friend were to say, ‘Bingley, you had better stay till next week,’ you would probably do it, you would probably not go—and, at another word, might stay a month.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter X”?

   A. Wit as courtship
   B. Darcy at Rosings
   C. The great confrontation
   D. Disappointment and philosophy

SAT key: 1. A (speed; swiftness); 2. A (Wit as courtship)

Lesson 12: Chapter XI

Focus: character flaws examined

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults: he admits to a resentful temper—'my good opinion once lost is lost forever'—while she teases that his flaw is to hate everybody.

Background: Self-examination was a common moral exercise in conduct literature.

Significance: Darcy names his pride directly; the novel will test whether either can change.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to pride and prejudice because....
Prompt: Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: disappointing — failing to give someone what they hope for; persevered — kept on despite difficulty; bracelets — bands or chains worn around the wrist; weaknesses — a flaw or weak point; studious — busy reading; absorbed in study. “weaknesses”: From Middle English weyknesse, replacing earlier Middle English wocnesse, wakenes, wacnesse "weakness", from Old English wācnes "weakness". Equivalent to weak + -ness. “studious”: From Latin studiōsus. First recorded in English c. 1350.
Words: disappointing: failing to give someone what they hope for · persevered: kept on despite difficulty · bracelets: bands or chains worn around the wrist · weaknesses: a flaw or weak point · studious: busy reading; absorbed in study

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Self-examination was a common moral exercise in conduct literature. Darcy names his pride directly; the novel will test whether either can change. Characterization: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism. Dialogue: Their exchange is structured like a duel, each line answering the last. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "assured him that no one intended to play, and the silence of the whole party on the subject seemed to justify her" (Chapter XI, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "My good opinion once lost is lost forever" (Chapter XI, paragraph 28). Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism.

> My good opinion once lost is lost forever (Chapter XI, paragraph 28)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "My good opinion once lost is lost forever" (Chapter XI, paragraph 28). Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Wilfully" means on purpose: Darcy accuses Elizabeth of choosing to misread people. It is accurate, which links to prejudice. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. (Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.)

> is wilfully to misunderstand them (Chapter XI, paragraph 32)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Wilfully" means on purpose: Darcy accuses Elizabeth of choosing to misread people. It is accurate, which links to prejudice.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. (Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about character flaws examined? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of character flaws examined. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. When the text says "And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody" (Chapter XI, paragraph 31), it shows this directly. Elizabeth accuses him of "a propensity to hate everybody," and he answers that hers is "wilfully to misunderstand them," so the novel gives each a fault the other can see.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about character flaws examined? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of character flaws examined. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. When the text says "And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody" (Chapter XI, paragraph 31), it shows this directly. Elizabeth accuses him of "a propensity to hate everybody," and he answers that hers is "wilfully to misunderstand them," so the novel gives each a fault the other can see.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity? Ask which accusation is more accurate. Most students say Darcy's; ask for proof from Chapters III-X.

Anchor question: Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity?

Facilitation: Ask which accusation is more accurate. Most students say Darcy's; ask for proof from Chapters III-X.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about character flaws examined? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. ("And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody", Chapter XI, paragraph 31). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about character flaws examined? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. ("And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody", Chapter XI, paragraph 31). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes character flaws examined. Key takeaway: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism.
- Dialogue: Their exchange is structured like a duel, each line answering the last.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “assured him that no one intended to play, and the silence of the whole party on the subject seemed to justify her” (Chapter XI, paragraph 3).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “Such as vanity and pride” (Chapter XI, paragraph 23).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28) Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.
- “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31) Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
- “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32) Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy.
Evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31)
Reasoning: Elizabeth accuses him of "a propensity to hate everybody," and he answers that hers is "wilfully to misunderstand them," so the novel gives each a fault the other can see.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

disappointing (verb)	failing to give someone what they hope for	"Not at all," was her answer; "but depend upon it, he means to be severe on us, and our surest way of disappointing him, will be to ask nothing about it."
persevered (verb)	kept on despite difficulty	Darcy in anything, and persevered therefore in requiring an explanation of his two motives.
bracelets (noun)	bands or chains worn around the wrist	Hurst, principally occupied in playing with her bracelets and rings, joined now and then in her brother's conversation with Miss Bennet.
weaknesses (noun)	a flaw or weak point	But it has been the study of my life to avoid those weaknesses which often expose a strong understanding to ridicule."	"weaknesses": From Middle English weyknesse, replacing earlier Middle English wocnesse, wakenes, wacnesse "weakness", from Old English wācnes "weakness". Equivalent to weak + -ness. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/weakness#Etymology)
studious (adjective)	busy reading; absorbed in study	Her figure was elegant, and she walked well;—but Darcy, at whom it was all aimed, was still inflexibly studious.	"studious": From Latin studiōsus. First recorded in English c. 1350. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/studious#Etymology)
joining (verb)	become part of; become a member of a group or organization	He was directly invited to join their party, but he declined it, observing that he could imagine but two motives for their choosing to walk up and down the room together, with either of which motives his joining them would interfere.	"joining": From Middle English joinen, joynen, joignen, from Old French joindre, juindre, jungre, from Latin iungō "join, yoke", from Proto-Indo-European *yewg- "to join, unite". Cognate with Old English iucian, iugian, ġeocian, ġyċċan "to join; yoke". More at yoke. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/join#Etymology)
chooses (verb)	pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives	"If you mean Darcy," cried her brother, "he may go to bed, if he chooses, before it begins—but as for the ball, it is quite a settled thing; and as soon as Nicholls has made white soup enough I shall send round my cards."
calmness (noun)	steadiness of mind under stress	Tease calmness of temper and presence of mind!

fireplace (noun)	an open recess in a wall at the base of a chimney where a fire can be built	The first half hour was spent in piling up the fire, lest she should suffer from the change of room; and she removed at his desire to the other side of the fireplace, that she might be farther from the door.	"fireplace": From fire + place. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/fireplace#Etymology)
civility (noun)	formal or perfunctory politeness	Miss Bingley succeeded no less in the real object of her civility; Mr.	"civility": Latin civilitas: compare French civilité. English equivalent civil + ity. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/civility#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What fault does Darcy admit? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A resentful temper
2. What does Elizabeth say is Darcy's defect? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A tendency to hate everybody
3. Who invites Elizabeth to walk around the room? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Miss Bingley
4. What does Elizabeth refuse to laugh at? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wisdom and goodness
5. Which theme does this conversation develop? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Pride and self-knowledge
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults: he admits to a resentful temper—'my good opinion once lost is lost forever'—while she teases that his flaw is to hate everybody.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter XI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““Not at all,” was her answer; “but depend upon it, he means to be severe on us, and our surest way of disappointing him, will be to ask nothing about it.”” What does “disappointing” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: disappointing: failing to give someone what they hope for.
10. Reread: “Darcy in anything, and persevered therefore in requiring an explanation of his two motives.” What does “persevered” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: persevered: kept on despite difficulty.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XI” suggest about character flaws examined? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy names his pride directly; the novel will test whether either can change.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about character flaws examined? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28): Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “But when the gentlemen entered, Jane was no longer the first object.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults: he admits to a resentful temper—'my good opinion once lost is lost forever'—while she teases that his flaw is to hate everybody.
6. How does “Chapter XI” build on “Chapter X”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31): Elizabeth's sharp verdict. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32): Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment. On characterization: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Darcy says his good opinion once lost is lost forever. Is this pride or integrity?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28): Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Self-examination was a common moral exercise in conduct literature. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31): Elizabeth's sharp verdict. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy names his pride directly; the novel will test whether either can change.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32): Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28): Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. On characterization: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about character flaws examined? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31): Elizabeth's sharp verdict. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32): Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28): Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31): Elizabeth's sharp verdict. On characterization: Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XI” treats character flaws examined with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32): Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28): Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about character flaws examined? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31): Elizabeth's sharp verdict. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Useful evidence: “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32): Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment. Theme link: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Hurst, principally occupied in playing with her bracelets and rings, joined now and then in her brother’s conversation with Miss Bennet.”, what does “bracelets” most nearly mean?

   A. capable of being borne or endured
   B. planning something beforehand
   C. bands or chains worn around the wrist
   D. feeling unsure

   Key: C (bands or chains worn around the wrist)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 28: “My good _____ once lost is lost forever”

   Key: opinion

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Not at all,” was her answer; “but depend upon it, he means to be severe on us, and our surest way of disappointing him, will be to ask nothing about it.””, what does “disappointing” most nearly mean?

   A. express criticism towards
   B. going back (to a subject)
   C. failing to give someone what they hope for
   D. leaving one person or side for another

   Key: C (failing to give someone what they hope for)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth say is Darcy's defect?

   A. Shyness
   B. Vanity about looks
   C. Poverty
   D. A tendency to hate everybody

   Key: D (A tendency to hate everybody)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Her figure was elegant, and she walked well;—but Darcy, at whom it was all aimed, was still inflexibly _____.” Word bank: persevered, bracelets, disappointing, studious

   Key: studious

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What fault does Darcy admit?

   A. Greed
   B. Cowardice
   C. Laziness
   D. A resentful temper

   Key: D (A resentful temper)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “But it has been the study of my life to avoid those weaknesses which often expose a strong understanding to ridicule.””, what does “weaknesses” most nearly mean?

   A. a burden; something that holds one back
   B. came back to life; returned
   C. a flaw or weak point
   D. the use of brief expressions

   Key: C (a flaw or weak point)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““If you mean Darcy,” cried her brother, “he may go to bed, if he _____, before it begins—but as for the ball, it is quite a settled thing; and as soon as Nicholls has made white soup enough I shall send round my cards.”” Word bank: persevered, chooses, bracelets, disappointing

   Key: chooses

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He was directly invited to join their party, but he declined it, observing that he could imagine but two motives for their choosing to walk up and down the room together, with either of which motives his _____ them would interfere.” Word bank: bracelets, joining, disappointing, persevered

   Key: joining

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XI”?

    A. Wit as courtship
    B. Character flaws examined
    C. First impressions at the ball
    D. A misguided warning

    Key: B (Character flaws examined)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31)

    A. Wickham's motive.
    B. Lydia's careless spending.
    C. Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
    D. Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's sharp verdict.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32)

    A. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
    C. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
    D. Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.

    Key: D (Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XI”? Elizabeth and Darcy discuss faults directly. Darcy admits his temper is "resentful"; Elizabeth's teasing hides real criticism.

    A. Plot
    B. Symbolism
    C. Hyperbole
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody” (Chapter XI, paragraph 31).

    Sample answer: Elizabeth accuses him of "a propensity to hate everybody," and he answers that hers is "wilfully to misunderstand them," so the novel gives each a fault the other can see.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody" (Chapter XI, paragraph 31) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Tease _____ of temper and presence of mind!" Word bank: persevered, disappointing, bracelets, calmness
    Key: calmness
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 31: "And your defect is a _____ to hate everybody"
    Key: propensity
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Darcy in anything, and persevered therefore in requiring an explanation of his two motives.", what does "persevered" most nearly mean?
    A. several time
    B. recall knowledge from memory; have a recollection
    C. came back to life; returned
    D. kept on despite difficulty

    Key: D (kept on despite difficulty)
20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "And your defect is a propensity to hate everybody" (Chapter XI, paragraph 31) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XI"? Their exchange is structured like a duel, each line answering the last.
    A. Structure
    B. Dialogue
    C. Allusion
    D. Conflict

    Key: B (Dialogue)
22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "The exchange shows that pride and prejudice belong to both Elizabeth and Darcy." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth accuses him of "a propensity to hate everybody," and he answers that hers is "wilfully to misunderstand them," so the novel gives each a fault the other can see.
23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth refuse to laugh at?
    A. Wisdom and goodness
    B. Whims
    C. Nonsense
    D. Folly

    Key: A (Wisdom and goodness)
24. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "My good opinion once lost is lost forever" (Chapter XI, paragraph 28)
    A. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.
    B. Darcy's personal effort.

   C. Elizabeth's rejection of Charlotte's view.
   D. Jane's humility.

   Key: A (Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “is wilfully to misunderstand them” (Chapter XI, paragraph 32). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

   Sample answer: Darcy's reply; it is the more accurate judgment.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XI”. Use one quotation from each.

   Sample answer: both characters own the faults of the title: he resentment and pride, she a will to misunderstand.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My good opinion once lost is lost forever” (Chapter XI, paragraph 28) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

   Sample answer: Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who invites Elizabeth to walk around the room?
   A. Darcy
   B. Jane
   C. Mrs. Hurst
   D. Miss Bingley

   Key: D (Miss Bingley)

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which theme does this conversation develop?
   A. Money only
   B. Pride and self-knowledge
   C. War
   D. Travel

   Key: B (Pride and self-knowledge)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 7, 1, 3, 19, 8, 9, 13, 11, 20, 12, 21, 14, 15, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	8, 18, 1, 17, 7, 23, 20, 11, 12, 24, 13, 14, 25, 21, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	3, 9, 2, 28, 29, 11, 20, 12, 24, 10, 21, 15, 14, 25, 26, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 19, 17, 1, 11, 12, 13, 10, 24, 21, 25, 15, 14, 22, 27, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 2, 1, 11, 13, 12, 20, 24, 21, 15, 14, 25, 16, 22, 26, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 9, 28, 20, 10, 11, 12, 13, 25, 14, 21, 15, 26, 27, 22, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
	5, 9, 20, 10, 13, 12, 24, 11, 25, 14, 15, 21, 27, 16, 26, 22

College Sophomore		recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	5, 18, 10, 13, 11, 12, 20, 24, 21, 14, 15, 25, 26, 16, 27, 22	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 18, 24, 13, 11, 20, 10, 12, 15, 14, 25, 21, 27, 16, 22, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 9, 12, 24, 20, 11, 10, 13, 25, 15, 21, 14, 16, 27, 26, 22	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XI,” how does Austen show character flaws examined? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XI, how does Austen develop the idea of character flaws examined? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of character flaws examined. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of character flaws examined. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XI suggests about character flaws examined. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XI to complicate the reader's understanding of character flaws examined. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of character flaws examined responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of character flaws examined follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XI and its treatment of character flaws examined. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XI as evidence for a larger claim about character flaws examined in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of character flaws examined. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Hurst, principally occupied in playing with her bracelets and rings, joined now and then in her brother's conversation with Miss Bennet.

   As used in the text, what does the word “bracelets” most nearly mean?

   A. formal or perfunctory politeness
   B. bands or chains worn around the wrist
   C. steadiness of mind under stress
   D. an open recess in a wall at the base of a chimney where a fire can be built

2. But when the gentlemen entered, Jane was no longer the first object. Miss Bingley's eyes were instantly turned towards Darcy, and she had something to say to him before he had advanced many steps. He addressed himself directly to Miss Bennet, with a polite congratulation; Mr. Hurst also made her a slight bow, and said he was “very glad;” but diffuseness and warmth remained for Bingley's salutation. He was full of joy and attention. The first half hour was spent in piling up the fire, lest she should suffer from the change of room; and she removed at his desire to the other side of the fireplace, that she might be farther from the door. He then sat down by her, and talked scarcely to anyone else. Elizabeth, at work in the opposite corner, saw it all with great delight.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XI”?

   A. Departure and relief
   B. Character flaws examined
   C. A journey and a mercenary suitor
   D. Bingley returns

SAT key: 1. B (bands or chains worn around the wrist); 2. B (Character flaws examined)

Lesson 13: Chapter XII

Focus: departure and relief

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

The sisters return home to Longbourn. Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, resolves to give Elizabeth no further encouragement. Mrs. Bennet is displeased they came back so soon.

Background: Extended visits were common; leaving too early or too late could seem impolite.

Significance: Darcy's inner resistance shows class pride battling feeling.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
Prompt: Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: needlessly — without good reason; postscript — a note added at the end of a letter; intruding — coming in where one is not wanted; exceeded — be greater in scope or size than some standard; welcomed — accept gladly. “postscript”: From New Latin postscriptum, from Latin -, neuter of postscriptus, past participle of postscrībō "write after", from post "after" + scrībō "write". By surface analysis, post- + script. “intruding”: From Latin intrudere, from in- + trudere "to thrust".
Words: needlessly: without good reason · postscript: a note added at the end of a letter · intruding: coming in where one is not wanted · exceeded: be greater in scope or size than some standard · welcomed: accept gladly

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Extended visits were common; leaving too early or too late could seem impolite. Darcy's inner resistance shows class pride battling feeling. Characterization: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day. Point of view: The narrator moves into Darcy's mind, a rare view that shows he is fighting his feelings. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “In consequence of an agreement between the sisters, Elizabeth wrote the next morning to her mother, to beg that the carriage” (Chapter XII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4). Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. That is characterization at work: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day.

> She attracted him more than he liked (Chapter XII, paragraph 4)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4). Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. That is characterization at work: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Wisely" is ironic: hiding feelings creates misunderstandings. This links to first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. ("Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.)

> He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him (Chapter XII, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Wisely" is ironic: hiding feelings creates misunderstandings. This links to first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. ("Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about departure and relief? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of departure and relief. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. When the text says "He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him" (Chapter XII, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Because "she attracted him more than he liked," he resolves that "no sign of admiration should now escape him," so his behaviour gives her more reason to think he dislikes her.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about departure and relief? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of departure and relief. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. When the text says "He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him" (Chapter XII, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Because "she attracted him more than he liked," he resolves that "no sign of admiration should now escape him," so his behaviour gives her more reason to think he dislikes her.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth? Ask: how responsible is Darcy for Elizabeth's misjudgment?

Anchor question: Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth?

Facilitation: Ask: how responsible is Darcy for Elizabeth's misjudgment?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about departure and relief? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. ("He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him", Chapter XII, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about departure and relief? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. ("He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him", Chapter XII, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes departure and relief. Key takeaway: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day.
- Point of view: The narrator moves into Darcy's mind, a rare view that shows he is fighting his feelings.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “In consequence of an agreement between the sisters, Elizabeth wrote the next morning to her mother, to beg that the carriage” (Chapter XII, paragraph 1).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “actually been hinted that Colonel Forster was going to be married” (Chapter XII, paragraph 7).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.
- “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.
- “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice.
Evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4)
Reasoning: Because "she attracted him more than he liked," he resolves that "no sign of admiration should now escape him," so his behaviour gives her more reason to think he dislikes her.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
needlessly (adverb)	without good reason	Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to borrow Mr.
postscript (noun)	a note added at the end of a letter	Bennet sent them word that they could not possibly have the carriage before Tuesday; and in her postscript it was added, that if Mr.	“postscript”: From New Latin postscriptum, from Latin -, neuter of postscriptus, past participle of postscrībō "write after", from post "after" + scrībō "write". By surface analysis, post- + script. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/postscript#Etymology)
intruding (verb)	coming in where one is not wanted	Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to borrow Mr.	“intruding”: From Latin intrudere, from in- + trudere "to thrust". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/intrude#Etymology)
exceeded (verb)	be greater in scope or size than some standard	Miss Bingley was then sorry that she had proposed the delay, for her jealousy and dislike of one sister much exceeded her affection for the other.
welcomed (verb)	accept gladly	They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother.
assembled (verb)	create by putting components or members together	The evening conversation, when they were all assembled, had lost much of its animation, and almost all its sense, by the absence of Jane and Elizabeth.
attracted (verb)	direct toward itself or oneself by means of some psychological power or physical attributes	She attracted him more than he liked—and Miss Bingley was uncivil to her, and more teasing than usual to himself.	“attracted”: From Latin attractus, past participle of attrahere "to draw to, attract", from ad "to" + trahere "to draw". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/attract#Etymology)
	remaining	Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved

staying (verb)		—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to borrow Mr.
remaining (verb)	stay the same; remain in a certain state	Bennet, who had calculated on her daughters remaining at Netherfield till the following Tuesday, which would exactly finish Jane's week, could not bring herself to receive them with pleasure before.	"remaining": By surface analysis, remain + -ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/remaining#Etymology)
concern (noun)	worry and sympathy	The communication excited many professions of concern; and enough was said of wishing them to stay at least till the following day to work on Jane; and till the morrow, their going was deferred.	"concern": Middle French concerner, from Medieval Latin concernō, concernere "I distinguish, have respect to", from Latin concernō "to mix, sift, or mingle together, as in a sieve", combined form of con- + cernō "distinguish". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/concern#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where do Jane and Elizabeth return? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Longbourn
2. What does Darcy decide? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To show Elizabeth no further attention
3. How does Mrs. Bennet feel about their early return? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Displeased
4. What does Darcy fear? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: His growing attraction
5. Who is glad to see them home? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The sisters return home to Longbourn. Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, resolves to give Elizabeth no further encouragement. Mrs. Bennet is displeased they came back so soon.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to…” What does “needlessly” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: needlessly: without good reason.
10. Reread: “Bennet sent them word that they could not possibly have the carriage before Tuesday; and in her postscript it was added, that if Mr.” What does “postscript” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: postscript: a note added at the end of a letter.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XII” suggest about departure and relief? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy's inner resistance shows class pride battling feeling.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about departure and relief? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The communication excited many professions of concern; and enough was said of wishing them to stay at least till the following day to work on Jane; and till the morrow, their…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The sisters return home to Longbourn. Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, resolves to give Elizabeth no further encouragement. Mrs. Bennet is displeased they came back so soon.
6. How does “Chapter XII” build on “Chapter XI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley. On characterization: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Darcy decide to avoid Elizabeth?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Extended visits were common; leaving too early or too late could seem impolite. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy's inner resistance shows class pride battling feeling.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. On characterization: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about departure and relief? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment. On point of view: The narrator moves into Darcy's mind, a rare view that shows he is fighting his feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment. On characterization: Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XII” treats departure and relief with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): Darcy's resistance to his own feelings. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about departure and relief? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4): "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Useful evidence: “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley. Theme link: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 4: “He wisely resolved to be _____ careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him”

   Key: particularly

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is glad to see them home?
   - A. Lydia
   - B. Miss Bingley
   - C. Mrs. Hurst
   - D. Mr. Bennet

   Key: D (Mr. Bennet)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do Jane and Elizabeth return?
   - A. Meryton inn
   - B. Longbourn
   - C. Hunsford
   - D. London

   Key: B (Longbourn)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 6: “They were not welcomed home very _____ by their mother”

   Key: cordially
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy decide?
   - A. To propose
   - B. To leave England
   - C. To dance with her
   - D. To show Elizabeth no further attention

   Key: D (To show Elizabeth no further attention)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet sent them word that they could not possibly have the carriage before Tuesday; and in her postscript it was added, that if Mr.”, what does “postscript” most nearly mean?
   - A. make an effort or attempt
   - B. rising and falling; changing again and again
   - C. a note added at the end of a letter
   - D. making oneself do something

   Key: C (a note added at the end of a letter)
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The evening conversation, when they were all _____, had lost much of its animation, and almost all its sense, by the absence of Jane and Elizabeth.” Word bank: intruding, postscript, needlessly, assembled

   Key: assembled
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy fear?
   - A. Losing his estate
   - B. Bingley's anger
   - C. His growing attraction
   - D. Illness

   Key: C (His growing attraction)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to…”, what does “needlessly” most nearly mean?
   A. in an irritable, complaining way
   B. a person who makes or sells women's hats
   C. becoming engaged to marry
   D. without good reason

   Key: D (without good reason)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6)
    A. Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."
    B. He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.
    C. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.
    D. Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.

    Key: C (Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.)
11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XII”?
    A. A practical marriage
    B. A misguided warning
    C. Disappointment and philosophy
    D. Departure and relief

    Key: D (Departure and relief)
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “They were not welcomed home very cordially by their mother” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4).

    Sample answer: Because "she attracted him more than he liked," he resolves that "no sign of admiration should now escape him," so his behaviour gives her more reason to think he dislikes her.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Darcy's decision to hide his admiration confirms Elizabeth's prejudice.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: Because "she attracted him more than he liked," he resolves that "no sign of admiration should now escape him," so his behaviour gives her more reason to think he dislikes her.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Miss Bingley was then sorry that she had proposed the delay, for her jealousy and dislike of one sister much exceeded her affection for the other.”, what does “exceeded” most nearly mean?
    A. not deserved or earned
    B. be greater in scope or size than some standard
    C. steadiness; reliability
    D. express criticism towards

    Key: B (be greater in scope or size than some standard)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet feel about their early return?
    A. Thrilled
    B. Indifferent
    C. Displeased
    D. Relieved

    Key: C (Displeased)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to…”, what does “intruding” most nearly mean?
    A. informed; told
    B. the use of brief expressions
    C. practice as a profession, teach, or claim to be knowledgeable about
    D. coming in where one is not wanted

    Key: D (coming in where one is not wanted)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4)
    A. Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
    C. Mr. Bennet's philosophy.
    D. "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.

    Key: D ("Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4)
    A. Elizabeth's realistic view.
    B. Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.
    C. Darcy admits his role.
    D. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

    Key: B (Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XII”? The narrator moves into Darcy's mind, a rare view that shows he is fighting his feelings.
    A. Metaphor
    B. Personification
    C. Characterization
    D. Point of view

    Key: D (Point of view)
23. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They were not _____ home very cordially by their mother.” Word bank: needlessly, welcomed, intruding, postscript

    Key: welcomed
24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Darcy's restraint deepens Elizabeth's dislike.
25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XII”? Darcy, alarmed by his attraction, decides to show no admiration; he barely speaks to Elizabeth on her last day.
    A. Characterization
    B. Symbolism
    C. Tone / mood
    D. Alliteration

    Key: A (Characterization)
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She attracted him more than he liked” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.
27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Against _____ longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to borrow Mr.” Word bank: staying, intruding, needlessly, postscript

    Key: staying
28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 4: “She _____ him more than he liked”

    Key: attracted
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “He wisely resolved to be particularly careful that no sign of admiration should now escape him” (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.
30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She _____ him more than he liked—and Miss Bingley was uncivil to her, and more teasing than usual to himself.” Word bank: attracted, postscript, needlessly, intruding

    Key: attracted

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

		recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 2, 18, 19, 4, 6, 8, 7, 12, 20, 11, 21, 14, 15, 22, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 23, 7, 4, 19, 8, 13, 12, 21, 10, 11, 15, 14, 22, 24, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	23, 7, 6, 3, 18, 11, 20, 13, 10, 12, 15, 14, 22, 25, 16, 26	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 27, 28, 2, 11, 13, 12, 20, 10, 15, 25, 14, 22, 24, 26, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	28, 9, 23, 13, 20, 10, 11, 21, 25, 22, 15, 14, 26, 24, 16, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	23, 30, 17, 20, 12, 10, 13, 11, 14, 25, 15, 22, 16, 24, 26, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	28, 30, 10, 13, 11, 21, 12, 20, 25, 15, 22, 14, 29, 26, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	30, 23, 11, 10, 13, 12, 20, 21, 14, 15, 25, 22, 16, 24, 29, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 30, 10, 13, 21, 20, 11, 12, 15, 14, 22, 25, 29, 16, 24, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	23, 7, 13, 10, 11, 21, 20, 12, 22, 25, 14, 15, 29, 24, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XII,” how does Austen show departure and relief? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XII, how does Austen develop the idea of departure and relief? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of departure and relief. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of departure and relief. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XII suggests about departure and relief. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XII to complicate the reader's understanding of departure and relief. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of departure and relief responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of departure and relief follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XII and its treatment of departure and relief. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XII as evidence for a larger claim about departure and relief in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of departure and relief. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Against staying longer, however, Elizabeth was positively resolved—nor did she much expect it would be asked; and fearful, on the contrary, as being considered as intruding themselves needlessly long, she urged Jane to borrow Mr.

   As used in the text, what does the word “intruding” most nearly mean?

   A. remaining
   B. worry and sympathy
   C. coming in where one is not wanted
   D. stay the same; remain in a certain state

2. The communication excited many professions of concern; and enough was said of wishing them to stay at least till the following day to work on Jane; and till the morrow, their going was deferred. Miss Bingley was then sorry that she had proposed the delay, for her jealousy and dislike of one sister much exceeded her affection for the other.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XII"?

A. A disastrous ball
B. Cold reception
C. Departure and relief
D. Scandal

SAT key: 1. C (coming in where one is not wanted); 2. C (Departure and relief)

Lesson 14: Chapter XIII

Focus: an absurd cousin's letter

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “A Mr. Collins, too, a formal, conceited, yet servile young sprig of divinity, is drawn with the same force and precision.” (Walter Scott, novelist, Review of Emma (with remarks on Pride and Prejudice), The Quarterly Review (dated October 1815; pub. 1816), reprinted in Famous Reviews, ed. R. Brimley Johnson (1914), section on Pride and Prejudice; public domain). Annotation task: find one "formal," one "conceited" and one "servile" phrase in Collins's letter. Objective: Analyze Mr. Collins's letter as satire of pomposity and servility. Standards: RL.11-12.3, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

Mr. Bennet reads a letter from Mr. Collins, the clergyman cousin who will inherit Longbourn. Collins arrives, pompous and obsequious, praising his patroness Lady Catherine de Bourgh.

Background: Clergymen often depended on wealthy patrons for their livings.

Significance: Collins is a comic masterpiece who satirizes both sycophancy and the church's dependence on rank.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
> Prompt: What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: inheriting — receiving property after someone's death; asperity — harshness of tone or manner; complimented — praised; atonement — compensation for a wrong; injuring — cause injuries or bodily harm to. “atonement”: Perhaps from atone + ment as translation of Medieval Latin adūnāmentum; however, the noun is found earlier than the verb (atone); and in this light, the proper etymology is at + onement.
> Words: inheriting: receiving property after someone's death · asperity: harshness of tone or manner · complimented: praised · atonement: compensation for a wrong · injuring: cause injuries or bodily harm to

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Clergymen often depended on wealthy patrons for their livings. Collins is a comic masterpiece who satirizes both sycophancy and the church's dependence on rank. Characterization: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess. Irony: Mr. Bennet reads the letter for the amusement of its absurdity; Elizabeth asks whether the writer can be "a sensible man." Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "earnest endeavour to demean myself with grateful respect towards her Ladyship, and be ever ready to perform those rites and ceremonies which" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 13).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1). Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. That is characterization at work: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess.

> that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party
> (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1). Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. That is characterization at work: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Servility" (bowing to superiors) and "self-importance" contradict each other, which is what makes him comic. Elizabeth's first impression here is correct, a useful contrast with Darcy. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: The entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. (Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.)

> There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Servility" (bowing to superiors) and "self-importance" contradict each other, which is what makes him comic. Elizabeth's first impression here is correct, a useful contrast with Darcy.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: The entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. (Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an absurd cousin's letter? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of an absurd cousin's letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. When the text says "There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet notes its "mixture of servility and self-importance," and Elizabeth asks "Can he be a sensible man?"; style exposes the man.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an absurd cousin's letter? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of an absurd cousin's letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. When the text says "There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet notes its "mixture of servility and self-importance," and Elizabeth asks "Can he be a sensible man?"; style exposes the man.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why? Ask: when are Elizabeth's first impressions right, and when are they wrong? What is different?

Anchor question: What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why?

Facilitation: Ask: when are Elizabeth's first impressions right, and when are they wrong? What is different?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an absurd cousin's letter? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. ("There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well", Chapter XIII, paragraph 20). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an absurd cousin's letter? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. ("There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well", Chapter XIII, paragraph 20). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes an absurd cousin's letter. Key takeaway: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess.
- Irony: Mr. Bennet reads the letter for the amusement of its absurdity; Elizabeth asks whether the writer can be "a sensible man."

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “earnest endeavour to demean myself with grateful respect towards her Ladyship, and be ever ready to perform those rites and ceremonies which” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 13).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “seemed neither in need of encouragement, nor inclined to be silent himself. He was a tall, heavy looking young man of five” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 23).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1) Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.
- “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.
- “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20) Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately.
Evidence: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20)

Reasoning: Mr. Bennet notes its "mixture of servility and self-importance," and Elizabeth asks "Can he be a sensible man?"; style exposes the man.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
inheriting (verb)	receiving property after someone's death	Collins from the guilt of inheriting Longbourn.
asperity (noun)	harshness of tone or manner	Bennet, who assured him with some asperity that they were very well able to keep a good cook, and that her daughters had nothing to do in the kitchen.
complimented (verb)	praised	He had not been long seated before he complimented Mrs.
atonement (noun)	compensation for a wrong	“Though it is difficult,” said Jane, “to guess in what way he can mean to make us the atonement he thinks our due, the wish is certainly to his credit.”	“atonement”: Perhaps from atone + ment as translation of Medieval Latin adūnāmentum; however, the noun is found earlier than the verb (atone); and in this light, the proper etymology is at + onement. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/atonement#Etymology)
injuring (verb)	cause injuries or bodily harm to	I cannot be otherwise than concerned at being the means of injuring your amiable daughters, and beg leave to apologise for it, as well as to assure you of my readiness to make them every possible amends—but of this hereafter.
cookery (noun)	the act of preparing something (as food) by the application of heat	The dinner too in its turn was highly admired; and he begged to know to which of his fair cousins, the excellence of its cookery was owing.	“cookery”: From Middle English cokerie, kokery, equivalent to cook + ery. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/cookery#Etymology)
defective (adjective)	having a defect	“In point of composition,” said Mary, “his letter does not seem defective.	“defective”: From Middle English defectif, defective, from Old French defectif, from Late Latin dēfectīvus. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/defective#Etymology)

punctual (adjective)	acting or arriving or performed exactly at the time appointed	Collins was punctual to his time, and was received with great politeness by the whole family.	“punctual”: Medieval Latin pūnctuālis "relating to a point", from Late Latin pūnctus "point" + -ālis. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/punctual#Etymology)
discourage (verb)	try to prevent; show opposition to	“There is some sense in what he says about the girls however; and if he is disposed to make them any amends, I shall not be the person to discourage him.”
viewing (verb)	looking at; regarding	Bennet’s heart, but for the mortifying supposition of his viewing it all as his own future property.

Discussion questions

1. What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who will inherit Longbourn? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Collins
2. What is Collins's profession? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Clergyman
3. Who is Collins's patroness? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine de Bourgh
4. How does Mr. Bennet view the letter? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: With amusement
5. What tone does Austen use for Collins? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Satirical
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet reads a letter from Mr. Collins, the clergyman cousin who will inherit Longbourn. Collins arrives, pompous and obsequious, praising his patroness Lady Catherine de Bourgh.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter XIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Collins from the guilt of inheriting Longbourn.” What does “inheriting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: inheriting: receiving property after someone's death.
10. Reread: “Bennet, who assured him with some asperity that they were very well able to keep a good cook, and that her daughters had nothing to do in the kitchen.” What does “asperity” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: asperity: harshness of tone or manner.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XIII” suggest about an absurd cousin's letter? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins is a comic masterpiece who satirizes both sycophancy and the church's dependence on rank.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about an absurd cousin's letter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. On irony: Mr. Bennet reads the letter for the amusement of its absurdity; Elizabeth asks whether the writer can be "a sensible man." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““It certainly is a most iniquitous affair,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet reads a letter from Mr. Collins, the clergyman cousin who will inherit Longbourn. Collins arrives, pompous and obsequious, praising his patroness Lady Catherine de Bourgh.
6. How does “Chapter XIII” build on “Chapter XII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20): Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment. On characterization: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What words would you use for Collins's letter, and why?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Clergymen often depended on wealthy patrons for their livings. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Collins is a comic masterpiece who satirizes both sycophancy and the church's dependence on rank.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20): Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. On characterization: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about an absurd cousin's letter? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20): Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right. On characterization: Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XIII” treats an absurd cousin's letter with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20): Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what "Chapter XIV" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: "that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about an absurd cousin's letter? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: "Can he be a sensible man, sir" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Useful evidence: "There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20): Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment. Theme link: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What tone does Austen use for Collins?
   - A. Satirical
   - B. Mysterious
   - C. Romantic

   D. Tragic

   Key: A (Satirical)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 19: “Can he be a _____ man, sir”

   Key: sensible

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Though it is difficult,” said Jane, “to guess in what way he can mean to make us the atonement he thinks our due, the wish is certainly to his credit.””, what does “atonement” most nearly mean?

   A. compensation for a wrong
   B. polite attention to women
   C. warning
   D. natures; dispositions

   Key: A (compensation for a wrong)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who will inherit Longbourn?

   A. Sir William
   B. Mr. Darcy
   C. Mr. Collins
   D. Mr. Bingley

   Key: C (Mr. Collins)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins was _____ to his time, and was received with great politeness by the whole family.” Word bank: asperity, inheriting, complimented, punctual

   Key: punctual

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““In point of composition,” said Mary, “his letter does not seem _____.” Word bank: complimented, inheriting, asperity, defective

   Key: defective

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is Collins's patroness?

   A. Lady Catherine de Bourgh
   B. Miss Bingley
   C. Mrs. Phillips
   D. Lady Lucas

   Key: A (Lady Catherine de Bourgh)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mr. Bennet view the letter?

   A. With fear
   B. With amusement
   C. With anger
   D. With admiration

   Key: B (With amusement)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet, who assured him with some asperity that they were very well able to keep a good cook, and that her daughters had nothing to do in the kitchen.”, what does “asperity” most nearly mean?

   A. pause or hold back in uncertainty or unwillingness

   B. something very like another; a copy
   C. helping
   D. harshness of tone or manner

   Key: D (harshness of tone or manner)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIII”?
   A. An absurd cousin's letter
   B. Keeping secrets
   C. The letter
   D. Reflections on love

   Key: A (An absurd cousin's letter)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

   Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1)
   A. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.
   B. Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.
   C. The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.
   D. Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.

   Key: B (Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

   Sample answer: Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

   Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIII”? Mr. Collins is introduced through his letter: pompous, self-important, obsequious toward Lady Catherine, and offering to "make amends" to the daughters he will dispossess.
   A. Personification
   B. Characterization
   C. Conflict
   D. Imagery

   Key: B (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet notes its "mixture of servility and self-importance," and Elizabeth asks "Can he be a sensible man?"; style exposes the man.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I cannot be otherwise than concerned at being the means of _____ your amiable daughters, and beg leave to apologise for it, as well as to assure you of my readiness to make them every possible amends—but of this hereafter.” Word bank: complimented, injuring, asperity, inheriting

    Key: injuring

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 1: “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an _____ to our family party”

    Key: addition

19. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20)

    A. Elizabeth's own question.
    B. Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.
    C. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.
    D. Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.

    Key: C (Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19)

    A. Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.
    B. The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.
    C. Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.
    D. Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.

    Key: A (Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it.

    A. Class and social mobility
    B. First impressions and prejudice
    C. Pride and self-knowledge
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Collins's letter reveals his character before he appears, and Elizabeth reads it accurately. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “There is a mixture of servility and self-importance in his letter, which promises well” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 20).

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet notes its "mixture of servility and self-importance," and Elizabeth asks "Can he be a sensible man?"; style exposes the man.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the entail now has a face; Collins intends to marry one of the daughters to soften it.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “He had not been long seated before he complimented Mrs.”, what does “complimented” most nearly mean?
    A. lack of respect
    B. praised
    C. the intended meaning of a communication
    D. given something good in return

    Key: B (praised)

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The dinner too in its turn was highly admired; and he begged to know to which of his fair cousins, the excellence of its _____ was owing.”

    Word bank: complimented, inheriting, asperity, cookery

    Key: cookery

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIII”? Mr. Bennet reads the letter for the amusement of its absurdity; Elizabeth asks whether the writer can be "a sensible man."
    A. Tone / mood
    B. Irony
    C. Setting
    D. Point of view

    Key: B (Irony)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 20: “There is a mixture of servility and self-_____ in his letter, which promises well”

    Key: importance

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Can he be a sensible man, sir” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “that you have ordered a good dinner today, because I have reason to expect an addition to our family party” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Collins's profession?
    A. Lawyer
    B. Soldier
    C. Clergyman
    D. Merchant

    Key: C (Clergyman)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	2, 5, 17, 4, 18, 9, 3, 8, 19, 11, 13, 20, 15, 21, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 18, 3, 9, 6, 25, 13, 12, 19, 11, 20, 22, 14, 26, 23, 16

		recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	27, 6, 24, 9, 2, 13, 10, 12, 11, 19, 15, 22, 26, 14, 23, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 8, 6, 17, 20, 12, 10, 19, 11, 15, 26, 14, 22, 23, 28, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 25, 8, 11, 13, 20, 12, 14, 21, 15, 26, 22, 29, 28, 23, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	25, 30, 17, 11, 20, 13, 10, 21, 22, 26, 14, 15, 16, 28, 23, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 25, 20, 11, 19, 13, 12, 22, 14, 21, 15, 26, 29, 28, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 25, 10, 12, 11, 13, 20, 14, 26, 15, 21, 22, 23, 28, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	2, 17, 10, 20, 13, 11, 19, 15, 21, 26, 22, 14, 16, 29, 23, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	17, 25, 12, 20, 11, 10, 13, 15, 21, 26, 14, 22, 23, 29, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XIII,” how does Austen show an absurd cousin's letter? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XIII, how does Austen develop the idea of an absurd cousin's letter? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of an absurd cousin's letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of an absurd cousin's letter. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIII suggests about an absurd cousin's letter. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XIII to complicate the reader's understanding of an absurd cousin's letter. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of an absurd cousin's letter responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of an absurd cousin's letter follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIII and its treatment of an absurd cousin's letter. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIII as evidence for a larger claim about an absurd cousin's letter in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of an absurd cousin's letter. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. He had not been long seated before he complimented Mrs.

   As used in the text, what does the word “complimented” most nearly mean?

   A. try to prevent; show opposition to

   B. acting or arriving or performed exactly at the time appointed

   C. praised

   D. looking at; regarding

2. “It certainly is a most iniquitous affair,” said Mr. Bennet, “and nothing can clear Mr. Collins from the guilt of inheriting Longbourn. But if you will listen to his letter, you may perhaps be a little softened by his manner of expressing himself.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIII”?

   A. Neighbors and gossip

   B. Trusted relatives

C. Bingley returns
D. An absurd cousin's letter

SAT key: 1. C (praised); 2. D (An absurd cousin's letter)

Lesson 15: Chapter XIV

Focus: pompous flattery

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Collins praises Lady Catherine at length and explains that he prepares delicate compliments in advance. Asked to read aloud, he picks Fordyce's Sermons and is offended when Lydia interrupts.

Background: Fordyce's Sermons to Young Women (1766) was a conduct book on female propriety.

Significance: Austen mocks rehearsed flattery and moralizing aimed at young women.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: superintended — supervised; directed; backgammon — a board game for two players using dice; phaeton — a light, open four-wheeled carriage; quadrille — a card game for four players; resides — make one's home in a particular place or community. “backgammon”: Probably from back + Middle English gamen, from Old English gamen "amusement, game". “quadrille”: French -, in sense of “group of knights”, from Spanish cuadrilla, diminutive of cuadra "square" (compare also cuadra "four"), from Latin quadra. “resides”: From Middle English residen, from Old French resider, from Latin resideō "remain behind, reside, dwell", from re- "back" + sedeō "sit".
Words: superintended: supervised; directed · backgammon: a board game for two players using dice · phaeton: a light, open four-wheeled carriage · quadrille: a card game for four players · resides: make one's home in a particular place or community

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Fordyce's Sermons to Young Women (1766) was a conduct book on female propriety. Austen mocks rehearsed flattery and moralizing aimed at young women. Characterization: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport. Irony: Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "in his life witnessed such behaviour in a person of rank—such affability and condescension, as he had himself experienced from Lady Catherine" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10). Mr. Bennet's sly question. That is characterization at work: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport.

> whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study
> (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10). Mr. Bennet's sly question. That is characterization at work: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Look at the craft: Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. (The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.)

> Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Look at the craft: Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. (The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about pompous flattery? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of pompous flattery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. When the text says "whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet asks whether his compliments are "the result of previous study," and Collins admits they are; the narrator then notes that "Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about pompous flattery? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of pompous flattery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. When the text says "whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet asks whether his compliments are "the result of previous study," and Collins admits they are; the narrator then notes that "Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance? Ask whether Mr. Bennet's mockery is harmless fun or a failure of responsibility.

Anchor question: Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance?

Facilitation: Ask whether Mr. Bennet's mockery is harmless fun or a failure of responsibility.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about pompous flattery? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. ("whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study", Chapter XIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about pompous flattery? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. ("whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study", Chapter XIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes pompous flattery. Key takeaway: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport.
- Irony: Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “in his life witnessed such behaviour in a person of rank—such affability and condescension, as he had himself experienced from Lady Catherine” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 1).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “pool of quadrille in the evening. Lady Catherine was reckoned proud by many people he knew, but he had never seen anything” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10) Mr. Bennet's sly question.
- “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12) The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.
- “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13) Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement.
Evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10)
Reasoning: Mr. Bennet asks whether his compliments are "the result of previous study," and Collins admits they are; the narrator then notes that "Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
superintended (verb)	supervised; directed	She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her education, and who still resides with them.
backgammon (noun)	a board game for two players using dice	Bennet, he offered himself as his antagonist at backgammon.	“backgammon”: Probably from back + Middle English gamen, from Old English gamen "amusement, game". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/backgammon#Etymology)
phaeton (noun)	a light, open four-wheeled carriage	But she is perfectly amiable, and often condescends to drive by my humble abode in her little phaeton and ponies.”
quadrille (noun)	a card game for four players	She had also asked him twice to dine at Rosings, and had sent for him only the Saturday before, to make up her pool of quadrille in the evening.	“quadrille”: French -, in sense of “group of knights”, from Spanish cuadrilla, diminutive of cuadra "square" (compare also cuadra "four"), from Latin quadra. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/quadrille#Etymology)
resides (verb)	make one's home in a particular place or community	She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her education, and who still resides with them.	“resides”: From Middle English residen, from Old French resider, from Latin resideō "remain behind, reside, dwell", from re- "back" + sedeō "sit". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reside#Etymology)
civilly (adverb)	in a civil manner	Bennet and her daughters apologised most civilly for Lydia’s interruption, and promised that it should not occur again, if he would resume his book; but Mr.	“civilly”: From Middle English cyvyly, equivalent to civil + -ly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/civilly#Etymology)
suggesting (verb)	make a proposal,	“They arise chiefly from what is passing at the time, and though I sometimes amuse myself with	“suggesting”: Coined based on Latin suggestus, perfect passive participle of suggerō "bring up, bring under, lay beneath, declare a plan for something	suggesting and arranging such little elegant compliments as may be adapted to ordinary occasions, I always wish to give them as unstudied an air as possible."	furnish, supply, excite, advise, suggest", from sub "from below, under" + gerō "bear, carry". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/suggest#Etymology)

heiress (noun)	a female heir	"She has one only daughter, the heiress of Rosings, and of very extensive property."
antagonist (noun)	someone who offers opposition	Bennet, he offered himself as his antagonist at backgammon.	"antagonist": From Latin antagonista, from Ancient Greek ἀνταγωνιστής "opponent" (ἀντί "against" + ἀγωνιστής "a combatant, pleader, actor"), from ἀνταγωνίζομαι "to antagonize". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/antagonist#Etymology)
prevents (verb)	keep from happening or arising; make impossible	"Her indifferent state of health unhappily prevents her being in town; and by that means, as I told Lady Catherine myself one day, has deprived the British court of its brightest ornament.	"prevents": From Middle English preventen "anticipate", from Latin praeventus, perfect passive participle of praeveniō "to anticipate", from prae "before" + veniō "to come". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/prevent#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Collins admit he does? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Prepares compliments in advance
2. What book does Collins read aloud? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Fordyce's Sermons
3. Who interrupts him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia
4. What is his attitude to Lady Catherine? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Worshipful

5. Why does Mr. Bennet invite Collins to read? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To enjoy his absurdity
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XIV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Collins praises Lady Catherine at length and explains that he prepares delicate compliments in advance. Asked to read aloud, he picks Fordyce's Sermons and is offended when Lydia interrupts.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XIV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her…” What does “superintended” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: superintended: supervised; directed.
10. Reread: “Bennet, he offered himself as his antagonist at backgammon.” What does “backgammon” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: backgammon: a board game for two players using dice.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XIV” suggest about pompous flattery? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Austen mocks rehearsed flattery and moralizing aimed at young women.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about pompous flattery? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10): Mr. Bennet's sly question. On characterization: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““She is a most charming young lady indeed.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins praises Lady Catherine at length and explains that he prepares delicate compliments in advance. Asked to read aloud, he picks Fordyce's Sermons and is offended when Lydia interrupts.
6. How does “Chapter XIV” build on “Chapter XIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12): The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13): Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense. On characterization: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why is it funny that Collins prepares compliments in advance?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10): Mr. Bennet's sly question. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Fordyce's Sermons to Young Women (1766) was a conduct book on female propriety. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12): The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Austen mocks rehearsed flattery and moralizing aimed at young women.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13): Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10): Mr. Bennet's sly question. On characterization: At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about pompous flattery? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12): The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13): Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10): Mr. Bennet's sly question. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12): The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. On irony: Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XIV” treats pompous flattery with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13): Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10): Mr. Bennet's sly question. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about pompous flattery? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12): The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Useful evidence: “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13): Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense. Theme link: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She had also asked him twice to dine at Rosings, and had sent for him only the Saturday before, to make up her pool of quadrille in the evening.”, what does “quadrille” most nearly mean?
   A. a card game for four players
   B. uncertain; not fixed
   C. an open recess in a wall at the base of a chimney where a fire can be built
   D. failing to give someone what they hope for

   Key: A (a card game for four players)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Collins admit he does?
   A. Writes novels
   B. Prepares compliments in advance
   C. Avoids church
   D. Gambles

   Key: B (Prepares compliments in advance)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who interrupts him?
   A. Lydia
   B. Mary
   C. Jane
   D. Mr. Bennet

   Key: A (Lydia)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her education, and who still _____ with them.” Word bank: backgammon, resides, phaeton, superintended

   Key: resides
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 12: “Mr. Bennet’s _____ were fully answered”

   Key: expectations
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is his attitude to Lady Catherine?
   A. Indifferent
   B. Worshipful
   C. Hostile
   D. Critical

Key: B (Worshipful)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Mr. Bennet invite Collins to read?
    A. To learn
    B. To flatter him
    C. For Mary
    D. To enjoy his absurdity

   Key: D (To enjoy his absurdity)
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "“They arise chiefly from what is passing at the time, and though I sometimes amuse myself with _____ and arranging such little elegant compliments as may be adapted to ordinary occasions, I always wish to give them as unstudied an air as possible.”" Word bank: backgammon, phaeton, suggesting, superintended

   Key: suggesting
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet and her daughters apologised most _____ for Lydia’s interruption, and promised that it should not occur again, if he would resume his book; but Mr.” Word bank: civilly, backgammon, superintended, phaeton

   Key: civilly
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIV”?
    A. Sisters and judgment
    B. The second proposal
    C. Marriage as a social goal
    D. Pompous flattery

    Key: D (Pompous flattery)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12)
    A. Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.
    B. Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.
    C. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.
    D. The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.

    Key: D (The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13)
    A. Elizabeth confronts Darcy.
    B. Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.
    C. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.
    D. Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.

    Key: D (Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church.
    A. Class and social mobility
    B. Pride and self-knowledge
    C. First impressions and prejudice
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)
15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIV”? At dinner Collins praises Lady Catherine and admits he prepares "little elegant compliments" in advance; Mr. Bennet draws him out for sport.
    A. Alliteration
    B. Plot
    C. Characterization
    D. Point of view

    Key: C (Characterization)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Collins's patron Lady Catherine shows how rank controls careers in the church.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““She has one only daughter, the _____ of Rosings, and of very extensive property.”” Word bank: heiress, backgammon, phaeton, superintended

    Key: heiress
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 13: “_____ that he never read novels”

    Key: protested
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 10: “whether these pleasing _____ proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study”

    Key: attentions
20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What book does Collins read aloud?
    A. A novel
    B. Fordyce's Sermons
    C. A newspaper
    D. The Bible

    Key: B (Fordyce's Sermons)
21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's sly question.
22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10)
    A. Wickham's motive.
    B. Elizabeth's warning.

C. Mr. Bennet's sly question.
D. Darcy's self-knowledge.

Key: C (Mr. Bennet's sly question.)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “protested that he never read novels” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIV”? Collins describes his flattery as natural; the narrator lets him condemn himself.
A. Irony
B. Theme
C. Symbolism
D. Conflict

Key: A (Irony)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10).
Sample answer: Mr. Bennet asks whether his compliments are "the result of previous study," and Collins admits they are; the narrator then notes that "Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered."

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Austen exposes Collins through his own words, inviting the reader to share Mr. Bennet's amusement.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
Sample answer: Mr. Bennet asks whether his compliments are "the result of previous study," and Collins admits they are; the narrator then notes that "Mr. Bennet's expectations were fully answered."

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “But she is perfectly amiable, and often condescends to drive by my humble abode in her little phaeton and ponies.””, what does “phaeton” most nearly mean?
A. a light, open four-wheeled carriage
B. happening by chance
C. slightly ill
D. the trait of keeping things secret

Key: A (a light, open four-wheeled carriage)

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her…”, what does “superintended” most nearly mean?
A. recall knowledge from memory; have a recollection
B. becoming engaged to marry
C. devote (oneself) fully to
D. supervised; directed

Key: D (supervised; directed)

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “whether these pleasing attentions proceed from the impulse of the moment, or are the result of previous study” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's sly question.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mr. Bennet’s expectations were fully answered” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 3, 9, 19, 6, 20, 4, 21, 11, 10, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	1, 27, 5, 18, 2, 28, 13, 12, 22, 10, 21, 14, 23, 24, 26, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 4, 3, 7, 5, 21, 12, 22, 10, 13, 23, 25, 14, 24, 30, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 3, 28, 8, 10, 12, 21, 13, 22, 15, 25, 14, 23, 30, 16, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 4, 1, 11, 13, 22, 10, 14, 23, 15, 25, 24, 16, 30, 26, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	8, 4, 28, 10, 12, 11, 22, 23, 14, 15, 25, 24, 29, 26, 30, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 4, 13, 10, 12, 22, 11, 24, 23, 15, 25, 14, 29, 26, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	4, 18, 12, 11, 13, 10, 22, 15, 25, 23, 14, 24, 16, 26, 29, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	4, 9, 22, 11, 12, 21, 10, 14, 24, 25, 23, 15, 16, 26, 29, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 9, 22, 21, 10, 11, 13, 15, 23, 25, 24, 14, 30, 26, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XIV,” how does Austen show pompous flattery? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XIV, how does Austen develop the idea of pompous flattery? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of pompous flattery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of pompous flattery. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIV suggests about pompous flattery. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XIV to complicate the reader's understanding of pompous flattery. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of pompous flattery responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of pompous flattery follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIV and its treatment of pompous flattery. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIV as evidence for a larger claim about pompous flattery in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of pompous flattery. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. But she is perfectly amiable, and often condescends to drive by my humble abode in her little phaeton and ponies."

   As used in the text, what does the word "phaeton" most nearly mean?

   A. a female heir
   B. keep from happening or arising; make impossible
   C. a light, open four-wheeled carriage
   D. someone who offers opposition

2. "She is a most charming young lady indeed. Lady Catherine herself says that in point of true beauty, Miss de Bourgh is far superior to the handsomest of her sex; because there is that in her features which marks the > young woman of distinguished birth. She is unfortunately of a sickly constitution, which has prevented her making that progress in many accomplishments, which she could not otherwise have failed of; as I am informed by the lady who superintended her education, and who still resides with them. But she is perfectly amiable, and often condescends to drive by my humble abode in her little phaeton and ponies."

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XIV"?

A. Sisters and judgment
B. Pompous flattery
C. Embarrassing relations
D. Pemberley

SAT key: 1. C (a light, open four-wheeled carriage); 2. B (Pompous flattery)

Lesson 16: Chapter XV

Focus: a charming stranger

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Collins intends to marry a Bennet daughter and, told Jane is likely engaged, shifts to Elizabeth. In Meryton the girls meet the handsome George Wickham; Darcy and Wickham see each other and change color.

Background: Militia officers were socially attractive but often lacked fortune.

Significance: The tense meeting foreshadows a hidden history.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
Prompt: What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: seconding — supporting; backing up; unwearying — never tiring; counteracted — offset; reduced the effect of; spokesman — the person who did most of the talking; assents — expressions of agreement. “assents”: From Middle English assent and assenten, from Old French assent and assentir, from Latin assentiō (whence as-#Etymology_2).
Words: seconding: supporting; backing up · unwearying: never tiring · counteracted: offset; reduced the effect of · spokesman: the person who did most of the talking · assents: expressions of agreement

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Militia officers were socially attractive but often lacked fortune. The tense meeting foreshadows a hidden history. Characterization: Collins "was not a sensible man"; he decides to marry Jane and, told she is nearly engaged, switches to Elizabeth "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire." Characterization: Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "vacant; and the respect which he felt for her high rank, and his veneration for her as his patroness, mingling with a" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1). The narrator's verdict. That is characterization at work: Collins "was not a sensible man"; he decides to marry Jane and, told she is nearly engaged, switches to Elizabeth "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire."

> Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society (Chapter XV, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1). The narrator's verdict. That is characterization at work: Collins "was not a sensible man"; he decides to marry Jane and, told she is nearly engaged, switches to Elizabeth "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The quick switch shows that for Collins any daughter will do; the comedy hides a harsh point about marriage and money. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. (Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.)

> Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire (Chapter XV, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The quick switch shows that for Collins any daughter will do; the comedy hides a harsh point about marriage and money.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. (Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a charming stranger? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of a charming stranger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. When the text says “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Collins switches brides "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire," treating the daughters as interchangeable, while Wickham's "appearance was greatly in his favour," which is all Elizabeth knows of him.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a charming stranger? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of a charming stranger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. When the text says “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Collins switches brides "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire," treating the daughters as interchangeable, while Wickham's "appearance was greatly in his favour," which is all Elizabeth knows of him.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest? Point out the cold meeting between Darcy and Wickham: what would a careful reader do with it?

Anchor question: What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest?

Facilitation: Point out the cold meeting between Darcy and Wickham: what would a careful reader do with it?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a charming stranger? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. ("Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire", Chapter XV, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a charming stranger? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. ("Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire", Chapter XV, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes a charming stranger. Key takeaway: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Collins "was not a sensible man"; he decides to marry Jane and, told she is nearly engaged, switches to Elizabeth "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire."
- Characterization: Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "vacant; and the respect which he felt for her high rank, and his veneration for her as his patroness, mingling with a" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "rights as a rector, made him altogether a mixture of pride and obsequiousness, self-importance and humility" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1) The narrator's verdict.
- “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4) Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.
- “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8) Wickham judged on appearance.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface.
Evidence: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4)
Reasoning: Collins switches brides "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire," treating the daughters as interchangeable, while Wickham's "appearance was greatly in his favour," which is all Elizabeth knows of him.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
seconding (verb)	supporting; backing up	Philips’ throwing up the parlour window, and loudly seconding the invitation.
unwearying (adjective)	never tiring	Collins repeated his apologies in quitting the room, and was assured with unwearying civility that they were perfectly needless.
counteracted (verb)	offset; reduced the effect of	The subjection in which his father had brought him up, had given him originally great humility of manner, but it was now a good deal counteracted by the self-conceit of a weak head, living in retirement, and the consequential feelings of early and unexpected prosperity.
spokesman (noun)	the person who did most of the talking	Bingley was the principal spokesman, and Miss Bennet the principal object.
assents (noun)	expressions of agreement	In pompous nothings on his side, and civil assents on that of his cousins, their time passed till they entered Meryton.	“assents”: From Middle English assent and assenten, from Old French assent and assentir, from Latin assentiō (whence as-

			#Etymology_2). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/assent#Etymology)
lottery (noun)	a card game played with tickets for prizes	Philips protested that they would have a nice comfortable noisy game of lottery tickets, and a little bit of hot supper afterwards.	“lottery”: Borrowed from Italian lotteria, from the same root as Old English hlot (cognate with English lot). Compare French loterie (from Middle Dutch loterie). By surface analysis, lot + -ery. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/lottery#Etymology)
cessation (noun)	a stopping	Bennet, with little cessation, of his house and garden at Hunsford.	“cessation”: Borrowed from Middle French cessation, itself a borrowing from Latin cessātiō. By surface analysis, cease + -ation. Compare cession < cede. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/cessation#Etymology)
tickets (noun)	printed cards used in a game	Philips protested that they would have a nice comfortable noisy game of lottery tickets, and a little bit of hot supper afterwards.
exclamations (noun)	an abrupt excited utterance	Philips was quite awed by such an excess of good breeding; but her contemplation of one stranger was soon put an end to by exclamations and inquiries about the other, of whom, however, she could only tell her nieces what they already knew, that Mr.
claimed (verb)	demanded; called for	Jones’s shop boy in the street, who had told her that they were not to send any more draughts to Netherfield because the Miss Bennets were come away, when her civility was claimed towards Mr.

Discussion questions

1. What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Why did Collins come to Longbourn? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To choose a wife among the daughters
2. Whom does Collins choose after Jane? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth
3. Who is Mr. Wickham? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A charming militia officer
4. What happens when Darcy and Wickham meet? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Both change color
5. What first impression does Wickham make? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Very charming
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Collins intends to marry a Bennet daughter and, told Jane is likely engaged, shifts to Elizabeth. In Meryton the girls meet the handsome George Wickham; Darcy and Wickham see each other and change color.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Philips’ throwing up the parlour window, and loudly seconding the invitation.” What does “seconding” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: seconding: supporting; backing up.
10. Reread: “Collins repeated his apologies in quitting the room, and was assured with unwearying civility that they were perfectly needless.” What does “unwearying” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: unwearying: never tiring.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XV” suggest about a charming stranger? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The tense meeting foreshadows a hidden history.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about a charming stranger? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “In pompous nothings on his side, and civil assents on that of his cousins, their time passed till they entered Meryton.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins intends to marry a Bennet daughter and, told Jane is likely engaged, shifts to Elizabeth. In Meryton the girls meet the handsome George Wickham; Darcy and Wickham see each other and change color.
6. How does “Chapter XV” build on “Chapter XIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4): Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): Wickham judged on appearance. On characterization: Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does the reaction of Darcy and Wickham suggest?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Militia officers were socially attractive but often lacked fortune. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4): Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters. Theme link:

Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The tense meeting foreshadows a hidden history.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): Wickham judged on appearance. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict. On characterization: Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a charming stranger? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4): Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): Wickham judged on appearance. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: "Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire" (Chapter XV, paragraph 4): Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters. On characterization: Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how "Chapter XV" treats a charming stranger with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: "His appearance was greatly in his favour" (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): Wickham judged on appearance. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what "Chapter XVI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: "Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society" (Chapter XV, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a charming stranger? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: "Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire" (Chapter XV, paragraph 4): Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Useful evidence: “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): Wickham judged on appearance. Theme link: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In pompous nothings on his side, and civil _____ on that of his cousins, their time passed till they entered Meryton.” Word bank: unwearying, assents, seconding, counteracted

   Key: assents
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What first impression does Wickham make?
   A. Shy
   B. Very charming
   C. Rude
   D. Ugly

   Key: B (Very charming)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did Collins come to Longbourn?
   A. To preach
   B. To choose a wife among the daughters
   C. To meet Darcy
   D. To sell land

   Key: B (To choose a wife among the daughters)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 8: “His _____ was greatly in his favour”

   Key: appearance
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 1: “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the _____ of nature had been but little assisted by education or society”

   Key: deficiency
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Philips protested that they would have a nice comfortable noisy game of _____ tickets, and a little bit of hot supper afterwards.” Word bank: seconding, unwearying, counteracted, lottery

   Key: lottery

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet, with little _____, of his house and garden at Hunsford.” Word bank: unwearying, seconding, cessation, counteracted

   Key: cessation

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Philips’ throwing up the parlour window, and loudly seconding the invitation.”, what does “seconding” most nearly mean?

   A. exemption from punishment or loss
   B. attached
   C. supporting; backing up
   D. pause or hold back in uncertainty or unwillingness

   Key: C (supporting; backing up)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Philips protested that they would have a nice comfortable noisy game of lottery _____, and a little bit of hot supper afterwards.” Word bank: unwearying, tickets, counteracted, seconding

   Key: tickets

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1)

    A. The narrator's verdict.
    B. The letter's opening.
    C. Opening.
    D. Mr. Bennet's sly question.

    Key: A (The narrator's verdict.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XV”?

    A. A charming stranger
    B. Keeping secrets
    C. The letter
    D. A costly solution

    Key: A (A charming stranger)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4)

    A. Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.
    B. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
    C. Elizabeth's realistic view.
    D. Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.

    Key: A (Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The narrator's verdict.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4).

    Sample answer: Collins switches brides "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire," treating the daughters as interchangeable, while Wickham's "appearance was greatly in his favour," which is all Elizabeth knows of him.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XV”? Collins "was not a sensible man"; he decides to marry Jane and, told she is nearly engaged, switches to Elizabeth "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire."

    A. Personification
    B. Foreshadowing
    C. Characterization
    D. Conflict

    Key: C (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The chapter sets two suitors side by side, one absurd and one charming, and both are judged on surface.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Collins switches brides "while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire," treating the daughters as interchangeable, while Wickham's "appearance was greatly in his favour," which is all Elizabeth knows of him.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What happens when Darcy and Wickham meet?

    A. They embrace
    B. They fight
    C. They ignore each other calmly
    D. Both change color

    Key: D (Both change color)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Collins choose after Jane?

    A. Lydia
    B. Mary
    C. Elizabeth
    D. Kitty

    Key: C (Elizabeth)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 4: “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to _____—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire”

    Key: Elizabeth

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Collins repeated his apologies in quitting the room, and was assured with unwearying civility that they were perfectly needless.”, what does “unwearying” most nearly mean?

    A. the act of bringing something to bear; using it for a particular purpose
    B. pyramid-shaped piles
    C. never tiring
    D. decorated panels used to shield from heat or drafts

Key: C (never tiring)

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire” (Chapter XV, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XV”? Wickham appears in Meryton, handsome and easy; a cold meeting between Wickham and Darcy is seen by Elizabeth.

    A. Characterization
    B. Theme
    C. Conflict
    D. Personification

    Key: A (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Wickham's charm is all surface, and Elizabeth is charmed.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bingley was the principal spokesman, and Miss Bennet the principal object.”, what does “spokesman” most nearly mean?

    A. allowing oneself to enjoy
    B. the person who did most of the talking
    C. attached
    D. observing closely

    Key: B (the person who did most of the talking)

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8)

    A. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.
    B. Charlotte's realism.
    C. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    D. Wickham judged on appearance.

    Key: D (Wickham judged on appearance.)

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “His appearance was greatly in his favour” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Wickham judged on appearance.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mr. Collins was not a sensible man, and the deficiency of nature had been but little assisted by education or society” (Chapter XV, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The narrator's verdict.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The subjection in which his father had brought him up, had given him originally great humility of manner, but it was now a good deal counteracted by the self-conceit of a weak head, living in retirement, and the…”, what does “counteracted” most nearly mean?

    A. a period of fourteen consecutive days
    B. offset; reduced the effect of

C. the regular (professional) army
D. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)

Key: B (offset; reduced the effect of)

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Mr. Collins had only to change from Jane to Elizabeth—and it was soon done—done while Mrs. Bennet was stirring the fire" (Chapter XV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 5, 18, 19, 20, 7, 3, 1, 11, 13, 12, 21, 15, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 18, 9, 2, 8, 5, 25, 10, 11, 12, 13, 26, 22, 14, 27, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	2, 28, 4, 20, 19, 11, 25, 10, 21, 12, 26, 14, 15, 22, 29, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 9, 2, 5, 12, 10, 11, 13, 25, 15, 26, 14, 22, 29, 27, 23	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	19, 9, 20, 13, 11, 25, 12, 21, 26, 22, 14, 15, 23, 29, 16, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 7, 20, 21, 13, 25, 11, 10, 26, 22, 15, 14, 27, 29, 23, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 7, 11, 10, 12, 13, 25, 21, 22, 26, 15, 14, 27, 23, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	19, 1, 21, 11, 10, 25, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 26, 16, 23, 29, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 6, 11, 25, 21, 12, 13, 10, 15, 22, 14, 26, 27, 16, 23, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 6, 13, 12, 25, 10, 21, 11, 14, 15, 22, 26, 23, 27, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XV," how does Austen show a charming stranger? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XV, how does Austen develop the idea of a charming stranger? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of a charming stranger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of a charming stranger. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XV suggests about a charming stranger. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XV to complicate the reader's understanding of a charming stranger. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a charming stranger responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a charming stranger follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XV and its treatment of a charming stranger. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XV as evidence for a larger claim about a charming stranger in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a charming stranger. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. The subjection in which his father had brought him up, had given him originally great humility of manner, but it was now a good deal counteracted by the self-conceit of a weak head, living in retirement, and the consequential feelings of early and unexpected prosperity.

As used in the text, what does the word “counteracted” most nearly mean?

A. demanded; called for
B. offset; reduced the effect of
C. printed cards used in a game
D. an abrupt excited utterance

2. In pompous nothings on his side, and civil assents on that of his cousins, their time passed till they entered Meryton. The attention of the younger ones was then no longer to be gained by him. Their eyes were immediately wandering up in the street in quest of the officers, and nothing less than a very smart bonnet indeed, or a really new muslin in a shop window, could recall them.

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XV”?

A. A persuasive tale

B. Strategy in courtship

C. Family in crisis

D. A charming stranger

SAT key: 1. B (offset; reduced the effect of); 2. D (A charming stranger)

Lesson 17: Chapter XVI

Focus: a persuasive tale

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “Chapter XVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At Mrs. Phillips's party, Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy denied him a clergyman's living promised by Darcy's father. Elizabeth believes him readily.

Background: A 'living' was a church post with income controlled by a patron.

Significance: Readers learn alongside Elizabeth that a confident story is not proof—central to the theme of prejudice.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to first impressions because....
Prompt: What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
*Today's words: misleads — leads into a wrong idea; disgracing — bringing shame on; reverting — going back (to a subject); unguarded — frank; careless about hiding feelings; godfather — any man who serves as a sponsor for a child at baptism. “misleads”: From Middle English mysleden, from Old English mislǣdan "to mislead", from Proto-Germanic missalaidijaną "to mislead". By surface analysis, en + mis + lead. “disgracing”: From Middle French disgracier. Mostly displaced Modern English shand.
Words: misleads: leads into a wrong idea · disgracing: bringing shame on · reverting: going back (to a subject) · unguarded: frank; careless about hiding feelings · godfather: any man who serves as a sponsor for a child at baptism

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
A 'living' was a church post with income controlled by a patron. Readers learn alongside Elizabeth that a confident story is not proof—central to the theme of prejudice. Characterization: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that. Irony: Wickham claims discretion while gossiping to a near stranger. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "have supposed himself in the small summer breakfast parlour at Rosings; a comparison that did not at first convey much gratification; but" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I have no right to give my opinion" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14). Wickham, just before giving it. That is characterization at work: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that.

> I have no right to give my opinion (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I have no right to give my opinion" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14). Wickham, just before giving it. That is characterization at work: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Handsomer than ever" shows attraction influencing judgment. This is the heart of prejudice. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. (Her judgment follows her feelings.)

> Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Handsomer than ever" shows attraction influencing judgment. This is the heart of prejudice.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. (Her judgment follows her feelings.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a persuasive tale? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of a persuasive tale. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. When the text says "Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30), it shows this directly. She "honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever," letting attraction and prejudice stand in for evidence.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a persuasive tale? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of a persuasive tale. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. When the text says "Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30), it shows this directly. She "honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever," letting attraction and prejudice stand in for evidence.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth? Ask students to list what Elizabeth could have checked about Wickham's story, and why she didn't.

Anchor question: What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth?

Facilitation: Ask students to list what Elizabeth could have checked about Wickham's story, and why she didn't.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a persuasive tale? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. ("Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them", Chapter XVI, paragraph 30). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a persuasive tale? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. ("Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them", Chapter XVI, paragraph 30). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes a persuasive tale. Key takeaway: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that.
- Irony: Wickham claims discretion while gossiping to a near stranger.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “have supposed himself in the small summer breakfast parlour at Rosings; a comparison that did not at first convey much gratification; but” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “they went, for neither Lydia nor Mr. Collins were once silent. Lydia talked incessantly of lottery tickets, of the fish she had” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 59).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14) Wickham, just before giving it.
- “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30) Her judgment follows her feelings.
- “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16) Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy.
Evidence: “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30)
Reasoning: She "honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever," letting attraction and prejudice stand in for evidence.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
misleads (verb)	leads into a wrong idea	Collins," said she, "speaks highly both of Lady Catherine and her daughter; but from some particulars that he has related of her ladyship, I suspect his gratitude misleads him, and that in spite of her being his patroness, she is an arrogant, conceited woman."	"misleads": From Middle English mysleden, from Old English mislǣdan "to mislead", from Proto-Germanic *missalaidijaną "to mislead". By surface analysis, en + mis + lead. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mislead#Etymology)
disgracing (verb)	bringing shame on	His behaviour to myself has been scandalous; but I verily believe I could forgive him anything and everything, rather than his disappointing the hopes and disgracing the memory of his father."	"disgracing": From Middle French disgracier. Mostly displaced Modern English shand. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disgrace#Etymology)
reverting (verb)	going back (to a subject)	After many pauses and many trials of other subjects, Elizabeth could not help reverting once more to the first, and saying—
unguarded (adjective)	frank; careless about hiding feelings	I have a warm, unguarded temper, and I may perhaps have sometimes spoken my opinion of him, and to him, too freely.
godfather (noun)	any man who serves as a sponsor for a child at baptism	He was my godfather, and excessively attached to me.
bequeathed (verb)	leave or give by will after one's death	Darcy bequeathed me the next presentation of the best living in his gift.
creditable (adjective)	worthy of often limited commendation	The officers of the ——shire were in general a very creditable, gentlemanlike set, and the best of them were of the present party; but Mr.
inmates (noun)	people living in the same house	"We were born in the same parish, within the same park, the greatest part of our youth was passed together; inmates of the same house, sharing the same amusements, objects of the same parental care.	"inmates": From inn + mate, or from in + mate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inmate#Etymology)
eligible (adjective)	suitable; desirable	A military life is not what I was intended for, but circumstances have now made it eligible.	"eligible": From Middle French eligible, from Latin eligibilis, from ēligō "to select, to choose". (Wiktionary, https:// en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ eligible#Etymology)

scandalous (adjective)	giving offense to moral sensibilities and injurious to reputation	His behaviour to myself has been scandalous; but I verily believe I could forgive him anything and everything, rather than his disappointing the hopes and disgracing the memory of his father."

Discussion questions

1. What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Wickham claim Darcy did? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Denied him a promised living
2. Where do they talk? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Phillips's house
3. How does Elizabeth react to Wickham's story about Darcy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She believes him readily
4. What is a 'living'? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A church position with income
5. What theme does Elizabeth's belief show? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Prejudice from first impressions
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XVI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At Mrs. Phillips's party, Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy denied him a clergyman's living promised by Darcy's father. Elizabeth believes him readily.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XVI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XVI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Collins," said she, "speaks highly both of Lady Catherine and her daughter; but from some particulars that he has related of her ladyship, I suspect his gratitude misleads him, and that in spite of her being his…" What does "misleads" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: misleads: leads into a wrong idea.

10. Reread: "His behaviour to myself has been scandalous; but I verily believe I could forgive him anything and everything, rather than his disappointing the hopes and disgracing the memory of his father."" What does "disgracing" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: disgracing: bringing shame on.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XVI" suggest about a persuasive tale? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Readers learn alongside Elizabeth that a confident story is not proof—central to the theme of prejudice.
2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about a persuasive tale? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "I have no right to give my opinion" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14): Wickham, just before giving it. On irony: Wickham claims discretion while gossiping to a near stranger. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ""It was the prospect of constant society, and good society,"", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XVI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At Mrs. Phillips's party, Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy denied him a clergyman's living promised by Darcy's father. Elizabeth believes him readily.
6. How does "Chapter XVI" build on "Chapter XV"? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30): Her judgment follows her feelings. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "I cannot pretend to be sorry" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16): Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity. On characterization: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What evidence does Elizabeth have that Wickham is telling the truth?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14): Wickham, just before giving it. On characterization: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: A 'living' was a church post with income controlled by a patron. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30): Her judgment follows her feelings. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Readers learn alongside Elizabeth that a confident story is not proof—central to the theme of prejudice.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16): Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14): Wickham, just before giving it. On characterization: Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a persuasive tale? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5]

Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30): Her judgment follows her feelings. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16): Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14): Wickham, just before giving it. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30): Her judgment follows her feelings. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XVI” treats a persuasive tale with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16): Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "I have no right to give my opinion" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14): Wickham, just before giving it. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a persuasive tale? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30): Her judgment follows her feelings. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Useful evidence: "I cannot pretend to be sorry" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16): Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity. Theme link: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What theme does Elizabeth's belief show?
   A. Patriotism
   B. Prejudice from first impressions
   C. Religion
   D. Love of science

   Key: B (Prejudice from first impressions)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth react to Wickham's story about Darcy?
   A. She warns Darcy
   B. She leaves
   C. She doubts him
   D. She believes him readily

Key: D (She believes him readily)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Collins,” said she, “speaks highly both of Lady Catherine and her daughter; but from some particulars that he has related of her ladyship, I suspect his gratitude misleads him, and that in spite of her being his…”, what does “misleads” most nearly mean?
   A. to hate
   B. the acquisition of something for payment
   C. to take advantage of; to intrude on
   D. leads into a wrong idea

   Key: D (leads into a wrong idea)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He was my _____, and excessively attached to me.” Word bank: reverting, misleads, godfather, disgracing
   Key: godfather
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 14: “I have no right to give my _____”
   Key: opinion
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do they talk?
   A. Rosings
   B. Pemberley
   C. Mrs. Phillips's house
   D. Netherfield

   Key: C (Mrs. Phillips's house)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “After many pauses and many trials of other subjects, Elizabeth could not help reverting once more to the first, and saying—”, what does “reverting” most nearly mean?
   A. feel admiration for
   B. practice as a profession, teach, or claim to be knowledgeable about
   C. a small portable timepiece
   D. going back (to a subject)

   Key: D (going back (to a subject))
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Wickham claim Darcy did?
   A. Insulted his mother
   B. Shot him
   C. Denied him a promised living
   D. Stole his money

   Key: C (Denied him a promised living)
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy _____ me the next presentation of the best living in his gift.” Word bank: bequeathed, disgracing, misleads, reverting
   Key: bequeathed
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14)
   A. The news delivered formally, a social ritual.

B. The Gardiners honoured.
C. Wickham, just before giving it.
D. Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.

Key: C (Wickham, just before giving it.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Wickham, just before giving it.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30)
A. Elizabeth's sarcasm.
B. Charlotte's honesty.
C. Her judgment follows her feelings.
D. Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.

Key: C (Her judgment follows her feelings.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVI”?
A. A persuasive tale
B. The Brighton plan
C. An imperious hostess
D. A disastrous ball

Key: A (A persuasive tale)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30).
Sample answer: She "honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever," letting attraction and prejudice stand in for evidence.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVI”? Wickham claims discretion while gossiping to a near stranger.
A. Foreshadowing
B. Metaphor
C. Point of view
D. Irony

Key: D (Irony)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVI”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: Elizabeth believes him immediately because his story confirms her dislike.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““We were born in the same parish, within the same park, the greatest part of our youth was passed together; _____ of the same house, sharing the same amusements, objects of the same parental care.” Word bank: inmates, misleads, disgracing, reverting
Key: inmates

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “I have a warm, unguarded temper, and I may perhaps have sometimes spoken my opinion of him, and to him, too freely.”, what does “unguarded” most nearly mean?
    A. the terms of a relationship; one's position
    B. something immaterial that stands in the way and must be circumvented or surmounted
    C. frank; careless about hiding feelings
    D. expose or make accessible to some action or influence

    Key: C (frank; careless about hiding feelings)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The officers of the ——shire were in general a very _____, gentleman-like set, and the best of them were of the present party; but Mr.” Word bank: reverting, misleads, disgracing, creditable

    Key: creditable

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 16: “I cannot _____ to be sorry”

    Key: pretend

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His behaviour to myself has been scandalous; but I verily believe I could forgive him anything and everything, rather than his disappointing the hopes and disgracing the memory of his father.””, what does “disgracing” most nearly mean?
    A. harmless; not likely to upset anyone
    B. bringing shame on
    C. happening by chance
    D. rebelled; turned in disgust

    Key: B (bringing shame on)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16)
    A. Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense.
    B. Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.
    C. Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.
    D. The colonel on money.

    Key: B (Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I cannot pretend to be sorry” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVI”? Wickham tells Elizabeth that Darcy cheated him of a promised living; he says he will never expose Darcy, then does exactly that.
    A. Characterization
    B. Theme
    C. Diction / vocabulary
    D. Symbolism

    Key: A (Characterization)

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Her judgment follows her feelings.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Elizabeth honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever as he expressed them” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 30) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Her judgment follows her feelings.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I have no right to give my opinion” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Wickham, just before giving it.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth believes Wickham because his story confirms what she already thinks of Darcy.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She "honoured him for such feelings, and thought him handsomer than ever," letting attraction and prejudice stand in for evidence.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is a 'living'?

    A. An inheritance
    B. A salary from the army
    C. A church position with income
    D. A house

    Key: C (A church position with income)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 9, 20, 8, 21, 2, 10, 22, 12, 11, 23, 14, 24, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	4, 6, 8, 3, 2, 20, 13, 26, 11, 22, 12, 23, 24, 14, 27, 28	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 1, 20, 2, 6, 10, 13, 26, 12, 22, 23, 24, 14, 15, 25, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	20, 4, 29, 3, 22, 10, 13, 12, 26, 15, 23, 14, 24, 25, 28, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	4, 9, 1, 10, 13, 26, 22, 12, 14, 23, 24, 15, 28, 27, 16, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	19, 4, 21, 10, 13, 22, 12, 26, 15, 24, 14, 23, 16, 25, 27, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 4, 13, 10, 22, 11, 26, 12, 23, 15, 14, 24, 25, 27, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	9, 4, 12, 26, 11, 22, 10, 13, 14, 15, 24, 23, 28, 25, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	4, 9, 11, 12, 10, 13, 26, 22, 24, 14, 15, 23, 16, 25, 27, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Graduate / PhD	17, 4, 11, 26, 10, 13, 22, 12, 15, 24, 14, 23, 16, 25, 27, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVI,” how does Austen show a persuasive tale? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XVI, how does Austen develop the idea of a persuasive tale? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of a persuasive tale. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of a persuasive tale. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVI suggests about a persuasive tale. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses point of view in Chapter XVI to complicate the reader's understanding of a persuasive tale. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a persuasive tale responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a persuasive tale follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVI and its treatment of a persuasive tale. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVI as evidence for a larger claim about a persuasive tale in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a persuasive tale. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. After many pauses and many trials of other subjects, Elizabeth could not help reverting once more to the first, and saying—

   As used in the text, what does the word “reverting” most nearly mean?

   A. going back (to a subject)
   B. giving offense to moral sensibilities and injurious to reputation
   C. people living in the same house
   D. suitable; desirable

2. “It was the prospect of constant society, and good society,” he added, “which was my chief inducement to enter the ——shire. I knew it to be a most respectable, agreeable corps, and my friend Denny tempted me farther by his account of their present quarters, and the very great attentions and excellent acquaintance Meryton had procured them. Society, I own, is necessary to me. I have been a disappointed man, and my spirits will not bear solitude. I must have employment and society. A military life is not what I was intended for, but circumstances have now made it eligible. The church ought to have been my profession—I was brought up for the church, and I should at this time have been in possession of a most valuable living, had it pleased the gentleman we were speaking of just now.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVI”?

   A. Confiding and consent
   B. A persuasive tale
   C. Leaving Kent
   D. Character flaws examined

SAT key: 1. A (going back (to a subject)); 2. B (A persuasive tale)

Lesson 18: Chapter XVII

Focus: doubts and preparations

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XVII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Jane cannot believe ill of either man; Elizabeth sides with Wickham. Collins asks Elizabeth for the first two dances at the Netherfield ball.

Background: The two opening dances were the most significant of a ball.

Significance: Jane's charity contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: misrepresented — described falsely; ceremonious — very formal and polite; assisting — helping; mornings — the time period between dawn and noon; repeatedly — several time. “mornings”: From Middle English morwenynge, from morwen + -ynge. By surface analysis, morn + -ing. See also morrow (Middle English morwe).
> Words: misrepresented: described falsely · ceremonious: very formal and polite · assisting: helping · mornings: the time period between dawn and noon · repeatedly: several time

> 18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
> Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
> The two opening dances were the most significant of a ball. Jane's charity contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Characterization: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain. Dialogue: The sisters' debate shows two ways of judging: charity and conviction. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible visitors. The idea soon reached” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "They have both," said she, "been deceived" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2). Jane's charitable explanation. That is characterization at work: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain.

> They have both," said she, "been deceived (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "They have both," said she, "been deceived" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2). Jane's charitable explanation. That is characterization at work: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Jane's view seems naive but avoids unfair judgment. It links to prejudice. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. (Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.)

> Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Jane's view seems naive but avoids unfair judgment. It links to prejudice.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. (Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about doubts and preparations? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of doubts and preparations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. When the text says "They have both," said she, "been deceived" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Jane suggests "they have both been deceived," while Elizabeth is sure Darcy is guilty; the novel will show Jane was closer to the truth.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about doubts and preparations? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of doubts and preparations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. When the text says "They have both," said she, "been deceived" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Jane suggests "they have both been deceived," while Elizabeth is sure Darcy is guilty; the novel will show Jane was closer to the truth.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's? Ask: is it better to suspend judgment or to decide quickly?

Anchor question: Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's?

Facilitation: Ask: is it better to suspend judgment or to decide quickly?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about doubts and preparations? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. ("They have both," said she, "been deceived", Chapter XVII, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about doubts and preparations? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. ("They have both," said she, "been deceived", Chapter XVII, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes doubts and preparations. Key takeaway: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain.
- Dialogue: The sisters' debate shows two ways of judging: charity and conviction.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible visitors. The idea soon reached” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “mother gave her to understand that the probability of their marriage was exceedingly agreeable to her. Elizabeth however did not choose to” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) Jane's charitable explanation.
- “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7) Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.
- “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1) Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty.
Evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: Jane suggests "they have both been deceived," while Elizabeth is sure Darcy is guilty; the novel will show Jane was closer to the truth.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
misrepresented (verb)	described falsely	Interested people have perhaps misrepresented each to the other.
ceremonious (adjective)	very formal and polite	Bingley himself, instead of a ceremonious card.

assisting (verb)	helping	It now first struck her, that she was selected from among her sisters as worthy of being the mistress of Hunsford Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible visitors.
mornings (noun)	the time period between dawn and noon	"While I can have my mornings to myself," said she, "it is enough.	"mornings": From Middle English morwenynge, from morwen + -ynge. By surface analysis, morn + -ing. See also morrow (Middle English morwe). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/morning#Etymology) repeatedly (adverb)	several time	The two ladies were delighted to see their dear friend again, called it an age since they had met, and repeatedly asked what she had been doing with herself since their separation.
profess (verb)	to declare openly	Society has claims on us all; and I profess myself one of those who consider intervals of recreation and amusement as desirable for everybody."	"profess": From Old French professer, and its source, the participle stem of Latin profitērī, from pro- + fatērī "to confess, acknowledge". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/profess#Etymology)
delayed (verb)	cause to be slowed down or delayed	Wickham's happiness and her own was per force delayed a little longer, and Mr.
anticipated (verb)	regard something as probable or likely	The happiness anticipated by Catherine and Lydia, depended less on any single event, or any particular person, for though they each, like Elizabeth, meant to dance half the evening with Mr.	"anticipated": Latin anticipātus, perfect passive participle of anticipō "to anticipate" (see -ate), from ante- "before", + capiō "to take" + -ō. See capable. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/anticipate#Etymology)
depended (verb)	be contingent upon (something that is elided)	The happiness anticipated by Catherine and Lydia, depended less on any single event, or any particular person, for though they each, like Elizabeth, meant to dance half the evening with Mr.
selected (verb)	pick out, select, or choose from	It now first struck her, that she was selected from among her sisters as worthy of being the mistress of a number of alternatives	Hunsford Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible visitors.

Discussion questions

1. Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Jane respond to Wickham's story? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She refuses to think ill of either man
2. Whom does Elizabeth side with? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wickham
3. Who claims Elizabeth for the first two dances? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Collins
4. What event is coming? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Netherfield ball
5. What feeling does Elizabeth have about the ball? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Hopes to see Wickham
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XVII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane cannot believe ill of either man; Elizabeth sides with Wickham. Collins asks Elizabeth for the first two dances at the Netherfield ball.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XVII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XVII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Interested people have perhaps misrepresented each to the other.” What does “misrepresented” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: misrepresented: described falsely.
10. Reread: “Bingley himself, instead of a ceremonious card.” What does “ceremonious” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: ceremonious: very formal and polite.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XVII” suggest about doubts and preparations? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Jane's charity contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about doubts and preparations? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): Jane's charitable explanation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““They have both,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XVII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Jane cannot believe ill of either man; Elizabeth sides with Wickham. Collins asks Elizabeth for the first two dances at the Netherfield ball.
6. How does “Chapter XVII” build on “Chapter XVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1): Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay. On characterization: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Whose response to Wickham's story is wiser—Jane's or Elizabeth's?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with

Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): Jane's charitable explanation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: The two opening dances were the most significant of a ball. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Jane's charity contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1): Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): Jane's charitable explanation. On characterization: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about doubts and preparations? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr.

Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1): Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): Jane's charitable explanation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation. On characterization: Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XVII” treats doubts and preparations with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1): Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XVIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): Jane's charitable explanation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about doubts and preparations? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1): Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay. Theme link: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Wickham’s happiness and her own was per force _____ a little longer, and Mr.” Word bank: assisting, delayed, ceremonious, misrepresented

   Key: delayed
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bingley himself, instead of a ceremonious card.”, what does “ceremonious” most nearly mean?
   A. soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick
   B. to draw into (a difficult situation)
   C. mixed up in a confused way
   D. very formal and polite

   Key: D (very formal and polite)
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The happiness _____ by Catherine and Lydia, depended less on any single event, or any particular person, for though they each, like Elizabeth, meant to dance half the evening with Mr.” Word bank: anticipated, misrepresented, ceremonious, assisting

   Key: anticipated
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The two ladies were delighted to see their dear friend again, called it an age since they had met, and _____ asked what she had been doing with herself since their separation.” Word bank: assisting, repeatedly, misrepresented, ceremonious

   Key: repeatedly
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Society has claims on us all; and I _____ myself one of those who consider intervals of recreation and amusement as desirable for everybody.”” Word bank: assisting, profess, misrepresented, ceremonious

   Key: profess
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It now first struck her, that she was selected from among her sisters as worthy of being the mistress of Hunsford Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible…”, what does “assisting” most nearly mean?
   A. create by putting components or members together

B. in an irritable, complaining way
C. felt angry about
D. helping

Key: D (helping)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Jane respond to Wickham's story?

A. She believes Wickham
B. She is uninterested
C. She believes Darcy
D. She refuses to think ill of either man

Key: D (She refuses to think ill of either man)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 7: “I beg your pardon;—one knows _____ what to think”

Key: exactly

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 2: “They have both,” said she, “been _____”

Key: deceived

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1)

A. She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
B. Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
C. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
D. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.

Key: D (Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7)

A. Mr. Bennet's joke.
B. Elizabeth's independence.
C. Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.
D. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.

Key: C (Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2)

A. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.
B. Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.
C. Jane's charitable explanation.
D. Lady Catherine's snobbery.

Key: C (Jane's charitable explanation.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVII”? Jane tries to believe both Wickham and Darcy; Elizabeth is certain.
    A. Symbolism
    B. Characterization
    C. Alliteration
    D. Conflict

    Key: B (Characterization)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Elizabeth related to Jane the next day, what had passed between Mr. Wickham and herself” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVII”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's certainty is her pride.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who claims Elizabeth for the first two dances?
    A. Darcy
    B. Wickham
    C. Mr. Collins
    D. Bingley

    Key: C (Mr. Collins)
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What feeling does Elizabeth have about the ball?
    A. Excitement about Darcy
    B. Dread of Collins only
    C. Hopes to see Wickham
    D. Boredom

    Key: C (Hopes to see Wickham)
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““While I can have my mornings to myself,” said she, “it is enough.”, what does “mornings” most nearly mean?
    A. an energetic attempt to achieve something
    B. the time period between dawn and noon
    C. carried out
    D. open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead

    Key: B (the time period between dawn and noon)
20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVII”?
    A. Doubts and preparations
    B. The letter
    C. Self-recognition
    D. Family uproar

    Key: A (Doubts and preparations)

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane's charitable explanation.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2).

    Sample answer: Jane suggests "they have both been deceived," while Elizabeth is sure Darcy is guilty; the novel will show Jane was closer to the truth.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Elizabeth side with?
    A. Wickham
    B. Darcy
    C. Bingley
    D. Collins

    Key: A (Wickham)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What event is coming?
    A. The Netherfield ball
    B. A wedding
    C. A trip to London
    D. A funeral

    Key: A (The Netherfield ball)

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I beg your pardon;—one knows exactly what to think” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVII”? The sisters' debate shows two ways of judging: charity and conviction.
    A. Theme
    B. Dialogue
    C. Structure
    D. Allusion

    Key: B (Dialogue)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Jane's refusal to condemn anyone contrasts with Elizabeth's certainty.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Jane suggests "they have both been deceived," while Elizabeth is sure Darcy is guilty; the novel will show Jane was closer to the truth.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “They have both,” said she, “been deceived” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Jane's charitable explanation.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix

Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 6, 5, 4, 3, 18, 19, 20, 21, 10, 12, 14, 15, 22, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 9, 23, 24, 8, 19, 10, 21, 20, 11, 13, 14, 22, 15, 16, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	2, 6, 3, 24, 9, 12, 11, 13, 20, 21, 26, 15, 14, 22, 27, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 9, 17, 5, 11, 10, 20, 12, 21, 22, 14, 26, 15, 28, 27, 25	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 4, 23, 13, 11, 12, 10, 21, 26, 15, 22, 14, 27, 25, 28, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	4, 7, 3, 13, 10, 20, 12, 21, 26, 14, 15, 22, 28, 27, 16, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	4, 5, 10, 21, 20, 12, 13, 11, 14, 15, 22, 26, 25, 27, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 4, 13, 21, 20, 10, 12, 11, 15, 26, 22, 14, 25, 27, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 4, 20, 13, 10, 11, 12, 21, 26, 15, 22, 14, 25, 27, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 5, 20, 12, 10, 21, 13, 11, 22, 14, 26, 15, 16, 27, 25, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVII,” how does Austen show doubts and preparations? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XVII, how does Austen develop the idea of doubts and preparations? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of doubts and preparations. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of doubts and preparations. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVII suggests about doubts and preparations. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XVII to complicate the reader's understanding of doubts and preparations. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of doubts and preparations responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of doubts and preparations follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVII and its treatment of doubts and preparations. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVII as evidence for a larger claim about doubts and preparations in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of doubts and preparations. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. It now first struck her, that she was selected from among her sisters as worthy of being the mistress of Hunsford Parsonage, and of assisting to form a quadrille table at Rosings, in the absence of more eligible visitors.

   As used in the text, what does the word “assisting” most nearly mean?

   A. be contingent upon (something that is elided)
   B. helping
   C. regard something as probable or likely
   D. pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives

2. “They have both,” said she, “been deceived, I dare say, in some way or other, of which we can form no idea. Interested people have perhaps misrepresented each to the other. It is, in short, impossible for us to conjecture the causes or circumstances which may have alienated them, without actual blame on either side.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVII”?

   A. Doubts and preparations
   B. A costly solution
   C. A changed Darcy
   D. Music, wit and manners

SAT key: 1. B (helping); 2. A (Doubts and preparations)

Lesson 19: Chapter XVIII

Focus: a disastrous ball

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Wickham is absent from the ball. Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham. Her family embarrasses her: Mrs. Bennet boasts loudly of Jane's match, Mary sings badly, and Collins introduces himself to Darcy uninvited.

Background: Introductions had strict rules; speaking first to a superior was a breach.

Significance: Darcy observes the Bennets' impropriety, which later shapes his advice to Bingley.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects. Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
Prompt: List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects.
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: prefaced — began (a speech) with; ridiculing — mocking; testifying — showing; giving evidence of; hauteur — overbearing pride evidenced by a superior manner toward inferiors; compatible — able to exist and perform in harmonious or agreeable combination. “prefaced”: Late 14th century, from Middle English preface, prefas, from Old French preface (from which derives the modern French préface), from Medieval Latin prefātia, for classical Latin praefātiō "a saying beforehand", from praefor "to speak beforehand", from prae- "beforehand" + for "to speak". “ridiculing”: The obsolete adjective is borrowed from French ridicule, from Latin rīdiculus "laughable, comical, amusing, absurd, ridiculous", from ridere "to laugh". “compatible”: Middle English compatible, fron Anglo-Norman compatible, from Medieval Latin compatibilis "in compatibile beneficium, a benefice which could be held together with another one", from Late Latin compator "to suffer with", from com- "together" + pati "to suffer"; see passion.
Words: prefaced: began (a speech) with · ridiculing: mocking · testifying: showing; giving evidence of · hauteur: overbearing pride evidenced by a superior manner toward inferiors · compatible: able to exist and perform in harmonious or agreeable combination

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Introductions had strict rules; speaking first to a superior was a breach. Darcy observes the Bennets' impropriety, which later shapes his advice to Bingley. Characterization: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy. Structure: A set piece of embarrassments, each witnessed by Darcy. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "will be in my power to assure him that her ladyship was quite well yesterday se'night" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 58).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71). Elizabeth's mortification. That is characterization at work: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy.

> had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71). Elizabeth's mortification. That is characterization at work: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Each relative embarrasses her; she sees it, so later she will understand Darcy's letter. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. (Elizabeth confronts Darcy.)

> I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Each relative embarrasses her; she sees it, so later she will understand Darcy's letter.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. (Elizabeth confronts Darcy.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a disastrous ball? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of a disastrous ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. When the text says "had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71), it shows this directly. Elizabeth herself thinks it seemed "her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could," which explains why Darcy fears for Bingley.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a disastrous ball? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of a disastrous ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. When the text says "had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71), it shows this directly. Elizabeth herself thinks it seemed "her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could," which explains why Darcy fears for Bingley.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects. Ask: what does Darcy see at this ball, and why does it matter later?

Anchor question: List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects.

Facilitation: Ask: what does Darcy see at this ball, and why does it matter later?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a disastrous ball? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. ("had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening", Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a disastrous ball? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. ("had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening", Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes a disastrous ball. Key takeaway: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy.
- Structure: A set piece of embarrassments, each witnessed by Darcy.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “will be in my power to assure him that her ladyship was quite well yesterday se’night” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 58).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “speaking a word; and she began to imagine that their silence was to last through the two dances, and at first was” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 8).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71) Elizabeth's mortification.
- “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68) Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.
- “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31) Elizabeth confronts Darcy.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family.
Evidence: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71)
Reasoning: Elizabeth herself thinks it seemed "her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could," which explains why Darcy fears for Bingley.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
prefaced (verb)	began (a speech) with	Her cousin prefaced his speech with a solemn bow, and though she could not hear a word of it, she felt as if hearing it all, and saw in the motion of his lips the words "apology,"	"prefaced": Late 14th century, from Middle English preface, prefas, from Old French preface (from which derives the modern French préface), from Medieval Latin prefātia, for classical Latin praefātiō "a saying beforehand", from praefor "to speak beforehand", from prae- "beforehand" + for "to speak". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/preface#Etymology)
ridiculing (verb)	mocking	Darcy, however, should have such an opportunity of ridiculing her relations was bad enough, and she could not determine whether the silent contempt of the gentleman, or the insolent smiles of the ladies, were more intolerable.	"ridiculing": The obsolete adjective is borrowed from French ridicule, from Latin rīdiculus "laughable, comical, amusing, absurd, ridiculous", from ridere "to laugh". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ridicule#Etymology)
testifying (verb)	showing; giving evidence of	I cannot acquit him of that duty; nor could I think well of the man who should omit an occasion of testifying his respect towards anybody connected with the family."
hauteur (noun)	overbearing pride evidenced by a superior manner toward inferiors	A deeper shade of hauteur overspread his features, but he said not a word, and Elizabeth, though blaming herself for her own weakness, could not go on.
compatible (adjective)	able to exist and perform in harmonious or agreeable combination	Collins, "were so fortunate as to be able to sing, I should have great pleasure, I am sure, in obliging the company with an air; for I consider music as a very innocent diversion, and perfectly compatible with the profession of a clergyman.	"compatible": Middle English compatible, fron Anglo-Norman compatible, from Medieval Latin compatibilis "in compatibile beneficium, a benefice which could be held together with another one", from Late Latin compator "to suffer with", from com- "together" + pati "to suffer"; see passion. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/compatible#Etymology)
eclipsed (verb)	outshone; made to seem less important	Elizabeth was the least dear to her of all her children; and though the man and the match were quite good enough for her, the worth of each was eclipsed by Mr.

upbraiding (verb)	express criticism towards	You will not thank me for detaining you from the bewitching converse of that young lady, whose bright eyes are also upbraiding me."
preferment (noun)	promotion to a better position, especially in the church	And I do not think it of light importance that he should have attentive and conciliatory manners towards everybody, especially towards those to whom he owes his preferment.	"preferment": From Middle English preferment, preferrement, prefferment; equivalent to prefer + ment. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/preferment#Etymology)
surmount (verb)	get on top of; deal with successfully	She was resolved against any sort of conversation with him, and turned away with a degree of ill humour, which she could not wholly surmount even in speaking to Mr.
heighten (verb)	to increase	Elizabeth listened with delight to the happy, though modest hopes which Jane entertained of Bingley's regard, and said all in her power to heighten her confidence in it.	"heighten": From Middle English heightenen, hyghtenen, equivalent to height + en. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/heighten#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects.
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who is missing from the ball? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wickham

2. What does Elizabeth bring up while dancing with Darcy? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wickham
3. Who sings poorly? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mary
4. What social rule does Collins break? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Introducing himself to Darcy uninvited
5. What does Mrs. Bennet boast about? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane's expected marriage
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XVIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wickham is absent from the ball. Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham. Her family embarrasses her: Mrs. Bennet boasts loudly of Jane's match, Mary sings badly, and Collins introduces himself to Darcy uninvited.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XVIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XVIII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Her cousin prefaced his speech with a solemn bow, and though she could not hear a word of it, she felt as if hearing it all, and saw in the motion of his lips the words "apology,"" What does "prefaced" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: prefaced: began (a speech) with.
10. Reread: "Darcy, however, should have such an opportunity of ridiculing her relations was bad enough, and she could not determine whether the silent contempt of the gentleman, or the insolent smiles of the ladies, were more…" What does "ridiculing" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: ridiculing: mocking.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XVIII" suggest about a disastrous ball? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy observes the Bennets' impropriety, which later shapes his advice to Bingley.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about a disastrous ball? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: "had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71): Elizabeth's mortification. On characterization: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “This part of his intelligence, though unheard by Lydia, was caught by Elizabeth, and as it assured her that Darcy was not less answerable for Wickham’s absence than if her first…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Wickham is absent from the ball. Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham. Her family embarrasses her: Mrs. Bennet boasts loudly of Jane's match, Mary sings badly, and Collins introduces himself to Darcy uninvited.
6. How does “Chapter XVIII” build on “Chapter XVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68): Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public. On structure: A set piece of embarrassments, each witnessed by Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31): Elizabeth confronts Darcy. On characterization: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “List each embarrassment and explain how it might affect Jane's prospects.” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71): Elizabeth's mortification. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Introductions had strict rules; speaking first to a superior was a breach. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68): Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy observes the Bennets' impropriety, which later shapes his advice to Bingley.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31): Elizabeth confronts Darcy. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71): Elizabeth's mortification. On characterization: At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a disastrous ball? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68): Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31): Elizabeth confronts Darcy. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71): Elizabeth's mortification. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68): Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XVIII” treats a disastrous ball with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31): Elizabeth confronts Darcy. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71): Elizabeth's mortification. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a disastrous ball? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68): Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Useful evidence: “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31): Elizabeth confronts Darcy. Theme link: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth bring up while dancing with Darcy?

   A. Her father
   B. Wickham
   C. Pemberley
   D. Rosings

   Key: B (Wickham)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Her cousin prefaced his speech with a solemn bow, and though she could not hear a word of it, she felt as if hearing it all, and saw in the motion of his lips the words "apology,"", what does "prefaced" most nearly mean?

   A. began (a speech) with
   B. to speed up; to hasten
   C. reject with contempt
   D. game birds hunted for food

   Key: A (began (a speech) with)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mrs. Bennet boast about?

   A. Darcy
   B. Jane's expected marriage
   C. Her cooking
   D. Her wealth

   Key: B (Jane's expected marriage)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Elizabeth was the least dear to her of all her children; and though the man and the match were quite good enough for her, the worth of each was _____ by Mr." Word bank: ridiculing, testifying, eclipsed, prefaced

   Key: eclipsed

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68: "You have _____ us long enough"

   Key: delighted

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "I cannot acquit him of that duty; nor could I think well of the man who should omit an occasion of testifying his respect towards anybody connected with the family."", what does "testifying" most nearly mean?

   A. to make better
   B. stirred up
   C. in a manner accessible to or observable by the public; openly

D. showing; giving evidence of Key: D (showing; giving evidence of)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Darcy, however, should have such an opportunity of ridiculing her relations was bad enough, and she could not determine whether the silent contempt of the gentleman, or the insolent smiles of the ladies, were more…", what does "ridiculing" most nearly mean?

   A. establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts
   B. mocking
   C. a descriptive name or title
   D. carried out

   Key: B (mocking)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71: "had her family made an agreement to expose _____ as much as they could during the evening"

   Key: themselves

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Collins, "were so fortunate as to be able to sing, I should have great pleasure, I am sure, in obliging the company with an air; for I consider music as a very innocent diversion, and perfectly _____ with the profession of a clergyman." Word bank: compatible, prefaced, testifying, ridiculing

   Key: compatible

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XVIII"?

    A. Trusted relatives
    B. Departure and relief
    C. Reflections on love
    D. A disastrous ball

    Key: D (A disastrous ball)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31)

    A. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.
    B. She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
    C. Elizabeth confronts Darcy.
    D. Elizabeth's shock.

    Key: C (Elizabeth confronts Darcy.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "You have delighted us long enough" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68)

    A. Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.
    B. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.
    C. Wickham, just before giving it.
    D. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.

    Key: A (Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71)

    A. Opening.
    B. Elizabeth's mortification.
    C. The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.
    D. Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's mortification.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71).

    Sample answer: Elizabeth herself thinks it seemed "her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could," which explains why Darcy fears for Bingley.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I remember hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth confronts Darcy.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The ball provides Darcy with the evidence he later uses against the Bennet family.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth herself thinks it seemed "her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could," which explains why Darcy fears for Bingley.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “And I do not think it of light importance that he should have attentive and conciliatory manners towards everybody, especially towards those to whom he owes his _____.” Word bank: testifying, ridiculing, prefaced, preferment

    Key: preferment

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who sings poorly?

    A. Lydia
    B. Jane
    C. Elizabeth
    D. Mary

    Key: D (Mary)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “A deeper shade of hauteur overspread his features, but he said not a word, and Elizabeth, though blaming herself for her own weakness, could not go on.”, what does “hauteur” most nearly mean?

    A. overbearing pride evidenced by a superior manner toward inferiors
    B. ring or echo with sound
    C. risked; ventured
    D. establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts

    Key: A (overbearing pride evidenced by a superior manner toward inferiors)

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's mortification.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVIII”? A set piece of embarrassments, each witnessed by Darcy.

    A. Metaphor
    B. Structure
    C. Conflict
    D. Hyperbole

    Key: B (Structure)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVIII”? At the Netherfield ball Elizabeth dances with Darcy and challenges him about Wickham; Mrs. Bennet loudly predicts Jane's marriage; Mary sings too long; Collins introduces himself to Darcy.

    A. Foreshadowing
    B. Characterization
    C. Irony
    D. Alliteration

    Key: B (Characterization)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “had her family made an agreement to expose themselves as much as they could during the evening” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 71) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's mortification.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You have delighted us long enough” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 68) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You will not thank me for detaining you from the bewitching converse of that young lady, whose bright eyes are also _____ me.”” Word bank: ridiculing, upbraiding, prefaced, testifying

    Key: upbraiding

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the Bennets "expose themselves," as Elizabeth puts it.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is missing from the ball?

    A. Collins
    B. Bingley
    C. Darcy
    D. Wickham

    Key: D (Wickham)

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 31: “I _____ hearing you once say, Mr. Darcy, that you hardly ever forgave”
    Key: remember

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 2, 17, 18, 7, 1, 6, 19, 20, 21, 11, 10, 14, 22, 15, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 7, 19, 3, 2, 5, 21, 10, 12, 20, 13, 15, 23, 22, 24, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 4, 18, 6, 17, 20, 13, 21, 12, 10, 14, 23, 15, 22, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 28, 1, 17, 12, 21, 13, 11, 20, 23, 14, 22, 15, 24, 16, 25	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 9, 3, 13, 11, 12, 10, 20, 22, 14, 23, 15, 25, 24, 16, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	4, 9, 18, 10, 12, 21, 13, 20, 23, 15, 22, 14, 16, 25, 27, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 4, 13, 12, 20, 11, 21, 10, 15, 14, 22, 23, 25, 27, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	8, 9, 11, 10, 13, 21, 12, 20, 14, 23, 15, 22, 25, 24, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 8, 20, 11, 10, 21, 13, 12, 14, 23, 15, 22, 25, 27, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	9, 29, 20, 21, 11, 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 23, 22, 25, 24, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVIII,” how does Austen show a disastrous ball? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XVIII, how does Austen develop the idea of a disastrous ball? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of a disastrous ball. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of a disastrous ball. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVIII suggests about a disastrous ball. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of a disastrous ball. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a disastrous ball responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a disastrous ball follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVIII and its treatment of a disastrous ball. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVIII as evidence for a larger claim about a disastrous ball in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a disastrous ball. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. I cannot acquit him of that duty; nor could I think well of the man who should omit an occasion of testifying his respect towards anybody connected with the family."

   As used in the text, what does the word "testifying" most nearly mean?

   A. to increase
   B. promotion to a better position, especially in the church
   C. showing; giving evidence of
   D. get on top of; deal with successfully

2. This part of his intelligence, though unheard by Lydia, was caught by Elizabeth, and as it assured her that Darcy was not less answerable for Wickham's absence than if her first surmise had been just, every feeling of displeasure against the former was so sharpened by immediate disappointment, that she could hardly reply with tolerable civility to the polite inquiries which he directly afterwards approached to make. Attention, forbearance, patience with Darcy, was injury to Wickham. She was resolved against any sort of conversation > with him, and turned away with a degree of ill humour, which she could not wholly surmount even in speaking to Mr. Bingley, whose blind partiality provoked her.

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVIII”?

A. Reflections on love
B. A misguided warning
C. A disastrous ball
D. An imperious hostess

SAT key: 1. C (showing; giving evidence of); 2. C (A disastrous ball)

Lesson 20: Chapter XIX

Focus: a ridiculous proposal

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XIX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “She wishes neither to reform nor to annihilate; she is silent; and that is terrific indeed. One after another she creates her fools, her prigs, her worldlings, her Mr. Collins’, her Sir Walter Elliotts, her Mrs. Bennetts. She encircles them with the lash of a whip-like phrase which, as it runs round them, cuts out their silhouettes for ever.” (Virginia Woolf, novelist and critic, "Jane Austen," The Common Reader (1925), "Jane Austen"; public domain). Close reading: find the "whip-like phrase" in Chapter XIX. How does the narrator judge Collins without ever saying "he is a fool"? Objective: Analyze satire and narrative distance in Collins's proposal. Standards: RL.11-12.6, RL.11-12.4, 11-12.RC.1, 11-12.RC.13

Teacher only · spoilers

Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a speech listing reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice. She refuses; he insists that elegant ladies always refuse at first and that she may never get another offer.

Background: A woman refusing a secure match was risky; Collins's offer would have saved her home.

Significance: Elizabeth's refusal asserts the right to marry for affection and respect.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
> Prompt: Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: he reminds her of her small fortune.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> *Today's words: dissemble — to hide one's true feelings; singled — picked out; chose; sanctioned — approved; given permission; disapprove — consider bad or wrong; footstool — a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person. “singled”: From Middle English single, sengle, from Old French sengle, saingle, sangle, from Latin singulus, a diminutive derived from Proto-Indo-European sem- "one". Akin to Latin simplex "simple". See simple, and compare singular. “footstool”: From foot + stool.
> Words: dissemble: to hide one's true feelings · singled: picked out; chose · sanctioned: approved; given permission · disapprove: consider bad or wrong · footstool: a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
A woman refusing a secure match was risky; Collins's offer would have saved her home. Elizabeth's refusal asserts the right to marry for affection and respect. Characterization: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine. Irony: His speech about "violence of my affection" is anything but passionate. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "especially when tempered with the silence and respect which her rank will inevitably excite. Thus much for my general intention in favour" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6). Collins's comic emotion. That is characterization at work: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine.

> before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6). Collins's comic emotion. That is characterization at work: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Unhappily so small" is a threat disguised as sympathy. Elizabeth's refusal links to women's choices. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: He reminds her of her small fortune. (Collins on her lack of fortune.)

> Your portion is unhappily so small (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Unhappily so small" is a threat disguised as sympathy. Elizabeth's refusal links to women's choices.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: He reminds her of her small fortune. (Collins on her lack of fortune.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a ridiculous proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of a ridiculous proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. When the text says "Your portion is unhappily so small" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a ridiculous proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of a ridiculous proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. When the text says "Your portion is unhappily so small" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home? Ask: was Elizabeth's refusal brave or reckless? Use the entail.

Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home?

Facilitation: Ask: was Elizabeth's refusal brave or reckless? Use the entail.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a ridiculous proposal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. ("Your portion is unhappily so small", Chapter XIX, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a ridiculous proposal? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. ("Your portion is unhappily so small", Chapter XIX, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes a ridiculous proposal. Key takeaway: he reminds her of her small fortune.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine.
- Irony: His speech about "violence of my affection" is anything but passionate.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: he reminds her of her small fortune.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “especially when tempered with the silence and respect which her rank will inevitably excite. Thus much for my general intention in favour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “must be acceptable to her, especially when tempered with the silence and respect which her rank will inevitably excite. Thus much for” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6) Collins's comic emotion.
- “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12) Elizabeth's refusal.
- “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17) Collins on her lack of fortune.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose.
Evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17)
Reasoning: He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
dissemble (verb)	to hide one's true feelings	You can hardly doubt the purport of my discourse, however your natural delicacy may lead you to dissemble; my attentions have been too marked to be mistaken.
singled (verb)	picked out; chose	Almost as soon as I entered the house, I singled you out as the companion of my future life.	“singled”: From Middle English single, sengle, from Old French sengle, saingle, sangle, from Latin singulus, a diminutive derived from Proto-Indo-European *sem- "one". Akin to Latin simplex "simple". See simple, and compare singular. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/single#Etymology)
sanctioned (verb)	approved; given permission	“You are uniformly charming!” cried he, with an air of awkward gallantry; “and I am persuaded that when sanctioned by the express authority of both your excellent parents, my proposals will not fail of being acceptable.”
disapprove (verb)	consider bad or wrong	Collins very gravely—“but I cannot imagine that her ladyship would at all disapprove of you.
footstool (noun)	a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person	Jenkinson was arranging Miss de Bourgh’s footstool, that she said, ‘Mr.	“footstool”: From foot + stool. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/footstool#Etymology)
purport (noun)	the intended meaning of a communication	You can hardly doubt the purport of my discourse, however your natural delicacy may lead you to dissemble; my attentions have been too marked to be mistaken.	“purport”: From Middle English purporten, from Anglo-Norman purporter and Old French porporter "convey, contain, carry", from pur-, from Latin pro "forth" + Old French porter "carry", from Latin portō "carry". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/purport#Etymology)
qualified (adjective)	suited; fit	Nay, were your friend Lady Catherine to know me, I am persuaded she would find me	“qualified”: Middle French qualifier "to qualify". Equivalent to quality + -fy. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/qualify#Etymology) in every respect ill qualified for the situation."

arranging (verb)	put into a proper or systematic order	Jenkinson was arranging Miss de Bourgh's footstool, that she said, ‘Mr.
gentlewoman (noun)	a woman of good family and manners	Choose properly, choose a gentlewoman for my sake; and for your own, let her be an active, useful sort of person, not brought up high, but able to make a small income go a good way.	"gentlewoman": From Middle English gentilwoman, modelled after gentilman "gentleman", equivalent to gentle + -woman. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/gentlewoman#Etymology)
females (noun)	women	As I must therefore conclude that you are not serious in your rejection of me, I shall choose to attribute it to your wish of increasing my love by suspense, according to the usual practice of elegant females."

Discussion questions

1. Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Collins explain why he wants to marry? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He lists reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice
2. What does Collins think Elizabeth's refusal means? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: That ladies refuse at first
3. What does Collins warn Elizabeth about her future? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She may never receive another offer

4. Whose advice does Collins cite among his reasons for marrying? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine's
5. What theme does the refusal highlight? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Marriage for respect and affection
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XIX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a speech listing reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice. She refuses; he insists that elegant ladies always refuse at first and that she may never get another offer.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XIX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XIX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “You can hardly doubt the purport of my discourse, however your natural delicacy may lead you to dissemble; my attentions have been too marked to be mistaken.” What does “dissemble” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: dissemble: to hide one's true feelings.
10. Reread: “Almost as soon as I entered the house, I singled you out as the companion of my future life.” What does “singled” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: singled: picked out; chose.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XIX” suggest about a ridiculous proposal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's refusal asserts the right to marry for affection and respect.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about a ridiculous proposal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6): Collins's comic emotion. On characterization: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Upon my word, Sir,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a speech listing reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice. She refuses; he insists that elegant ladies always refuse at first and that she may never get another offer.

6. How does “Chapter XIX” build on “Chapter XVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12): Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17): Collins on her lack of fortune. On characterization: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Elizabeth refuse, even though marrying Collins would secure her family's home?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6): Collins's comic emotion. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: A woman refusing a secure match was risky; Collins's offer would have saved her home. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12): Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's refusal asserts the right to marry for affection and respect.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17): Collins on her lack of fortune. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6): Collins's comic emotion. On characterization: Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XIX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a ridiculous proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12): Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17): Collins on her lack of fortune. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6): Collins's comic emotion. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12): Elizabeth's refusal. On irony: His speech about "violence of my affection" is anything but passionate.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XIX” treats a ridiculous proposal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17): Collins on her lack of fortune. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6): Collins's comic emotion. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a ridiculous proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12): Elizabeth's refusal. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Useful evidence: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17): Collins on her lack of fortune. Theme link: he reminds her of her small fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "“You are uniformly charming!” cried he, with an air of awkward gallantry; “and I am persuaded that when sanctioned by the express authority of both your excellent parents, my proposals will not fail of being acceptable.”", what does "sanctioned" most nearly mean?
   A. lack of worry or interest
   B. very small portrait paintings
   C. approved; given permission
   D. put to use

   Key: C (approved; given permission)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 12: "You could not make me happy, and I am _____ that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so"

   Key: convinced
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 6: "before I am run away with by my _____ on this subject"

   Key: feelings
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Jenkinson was _____ Miss de Bourgh's footstool, that she said, 'Mr." Word bank: dissemble, sanctioned, arranging, singled

   Key: arranging
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whose advice does Collins cite among his reasons for marrying?
   A. Mr. Bennet's
   B. Lady Catherine's
   C. Charlotte's
   D. Mr. Darcy's

   Key: B (Lady Catherine's)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Nay, were your friend Lady Catherine to know me, I am persuaded she would find me in every respect ill _____ for the situation."" Word bank: dissemble, singled, qualified, sanctioned

   Key: qualified
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What theme does the refusal highlight?
   A. Marriage for respect and affection
   B. Wealth above all
   C. Obedience
   D. Religion

   Key: A (Marriage for respect and affection)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Almost as soon as I entered the house, I singled you out as the companion of my future life.", what does "singled" most nearly mean?
   A. fearful expectation or anticipation
   B. picked out; chose
   C. a burden; something that holds one back
   D. presenting (someone) to another person

Key: B (picked out; chose)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You can hardly doubt the _____ of my discourse, however your natural delicacy may lead you to dissemble; my attentions have been too marked to be mistaken.” Word bank: dissemble, purport, singled, sanctioned

   Key: purport

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12)

    A. Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?
    B. Elizabeth's disillusion.
    C. Elizabeth's refusal.
    D. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's refusal.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Collins's comic emotion.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17)

    A. Collins on her lack of fortune.
    B. The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
    C. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
    D. Miss Bingley's checklist.

    Key: A (Collins on her lack of fortune.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6)

    A. Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.
    B. Her vanity in the title.
    C. Collins's comic emotion.
    D. Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.

    Key: C (Collins's comic emotion.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Your portion is unhappily so small” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17).

    Sample answer: He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIX”? His speech about "violence of my affection" is anything but passionate.

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Irony
    D. Point of view

Key: C (Irony)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's refusal.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Jenkinson was arranging Miss de Bourgh's _____, that she said, 'Mr." Word bank: footstool, singled, dissemble, sanctioned

    Key: footstool

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Collins very gravely—"but I cannot imagine that her ladyship would at all disapprove of you.", what does "disapprove" most nearly mean?
    - A. the glass panes in windows
    - B. frightening; alarming
    - C. consider bad or wrong
    - D. bitterness and anger

    Key: C (consider bad or wrong)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Collins explain why he wants to marry?
    - A. He is lonely
    - B. He needs money
    - C. He says he loves her passionately
    - D. He lists reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice

    Key: D (He lists reasons, including Lady Catherine's advice)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XIX"?
    - A. A ridiculous proposal
    - B. The letter
    - C. Darcy at Rosings
    - D. The second proposal

    Key: A (A ridiculous proposal)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "Your portion is unhappily so small" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Collins on her lack of fortune.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XIX". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: he reminds her of her small fortune.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Collins think Elizabeth's refusal means?
    - A. That she loves another
    - B. That ladies refuse at first
    - C. That she is ill
    - D. That she means it

    Key: B (That ladies refuse at first)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Collins warn Elizabeth about her future?
    - A. She must leave Longbourn
    - B. She may never receive another offer
    - C. She will have many suitors
    - D. She should wait for Darcy

    Key: B (She may never receive another offer)

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? He reminds her of her small fortune.
    - A. First impressions and prejudice
    - B. Pride and self-knowledge
    - C. Class and social mobility
    - D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “You can hardly doubt the purport of my discourse, however your natural delicacy may lead you to dissemble; my attentions have been too marked to be mistaken.”, what does “dissemble” most nearly mean?
    - A. losing hope; discouraged
    - B. to increase; to make better
    - C. comforted
    - D. to hide one's true feelings

    Key: D (to hide one's true feelings)

28. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's refusal.

29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIX”? Collins proposes to Elizabeth with a list of reasons and refuses to hear her refusal as genuine.
    - A. Irony
    - B. Setting
    - C. Characterization
    - D. Metaphor

    Key: C (Characterization)

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 17: “Your portion is _____ so small”

    Key: unhappily

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Collins's comic emotion.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	2, 8, 4, 6, 17, 3, 18, 19, 20, 12, 13, 10, 15, 14, 21, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 7, 23, 2, 24, 17, 20, 10, 11, 13, 12, 15, 25, 21, 22, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	3, 2, 6, 27, 9, 20, 12, 13, 28, 11, 21, 14, 29, 15, 16, 26	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 30, 4, 23, 20, 28, 12, 13, 11, 14, 25, 21, 29, 26, 16, 31	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	30, 17, 5, 28, 13, 20, 12, 25, 14, 15, 21, 29, 31, 26, 22, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	4, 9, 7, 13, 11, 10, 12, 29, 15, 14, 25, 21, 16, 22, 26, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 9, 11, 10, 20, 12, 13, 25, 29, 15, 14, 21, 31, 26, 16, 22	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 9, 12, 13, 28, 10, 20, 14, 29, 15, 21, 25, 26, 22, 31, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 9, 11, 28, 12, 10, 20, 25, 29, 15, 21, 14, 26, 22, 31, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 17, 11, 28, 20, 13, 10, 21, 25, 14, 15, 29, 22, 26, 16, 31	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XIX," how does Austen show a ridiculous proposal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XIX, how does Austen develop the idea of a ridiculous proposal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of a ridiculous proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of a ridiculous proposal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIX suggests about a ridiculous proposal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XIX to complicate the reader's understanding of a ridiculous proposal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a ridiculous proposal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a ridiculous proposal follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIX and its treatment of a ridiculous proposal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIX as evidence for a larger claim about a ridiculous proposal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a ridiculous proposal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “You are uniformly charming!” cried he, with an air of awkward gallantry; “and I am persuaded that when sanctioned by the express authority of both your excellent parents, my proposals will not fail of being acceptable.”

As used in the text, what does the word “sanctioned” most nearly mean?

A. put into a proper or systematic order
B. a woman of good family and manners
C. women
D. approved; given permission

2. “Upon my word, Sir,” cried Elizabeth, “your hope is rather an extraordinary one after my declaration. I do assure you that I am not one of those young ladies (if such young ladies there are) who are so daring as to risk their happiness on the chance of being asked a second time. I am perfectly serious in my refusal. You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so. Nay, were your friend Lady Catherine to know me, I am persuaded she would find me in every respect ill qualified for the situation.”

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIX”?

A. The great confrontation
B. A ridiculous proposal
C. Music, wit and manners
D. Neighbors and gossip

SAT key: 1. D (approved; given permission); 2. B (A ridiculous proposal)

Lesson 21: Chapter XX

Focus: parental conflict over the refusal

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept Collins and appeals to Mr. Bennet, who declares: 'Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do.' Collins, wounded in pride, withdraws his offer; Charlotte arrives and witnesses the commotion.

Background: Fathers held legal authority over unmarried daughters, which makes Mr. Bennet's support decisive.

Significance: Mr. Bennet's witty ultimatum is a rare moment of real parental backing, delivered as a joke.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to women's choices because….
> Prompt: Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to women's choices because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: parental power over marriage.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: disrespect — lack of respect; persists — continues firmly; unconcern — lack of worry or interest; requesting — express the need or desire for; ask for; interpose — be or come between. “persists”: From Middle French persister (Modern French persister), from Latin persistere, from per- + sistere "to stand". “unconcern”: From un + concern, around 1660–1670. “interpose”: From Middle French interposer, influenced by poser "to place#Verb", from Latin interpōnō, from inter "[[between" + pōnō "to place, put".
> Words: disrespect: lack of respect · persists: continues firmly · unconcern: lack of worry or interest · requesting: express the need or desire for; ask for · interpose: be or come between

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Fathers held legal authority over unmarried daughters, which makes Mr. Bennet's support decisive. Mr. Bennet's witty ultimatum is a rare moment of real parental backing, delivered as a joke. Characterization: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke. Irony: The father's support comes as a witty paradox. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "Mr. Collins was not left long to the silent contemplation of his successful love; for Mrs. Bennet, having dawdled about" (Chapter XX, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18). Mr. Bennet's announcement. That is characterization at work: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke.

> An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth (Chapter XX, paragraph 18)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18). Mr. Bennet's announcement. That is characterization at work: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The witty paradox. Look at the craft: The father's support comes as a witty paradox. Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices? Expected: Parental power over marriage. (The witty paradox.)

> Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do (Chapter XX, paragraph 18)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The witty paradox. Look at the craft: The father's support comes as a witty paradox.
Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices?
Expected answer: Parental power over marriage. (The witty paradox.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about parental conflict over the refusal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of parental conflict over the refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. When the text says "Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18), it shows this directly. His paradox "I will never see you again if you do" backs her refusal while turning the crisis into wit.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about parental conflict over the refusal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of parental conflict over the refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. When the text says "Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18), it shows this directly. His paradox "I will never see you again if you do" backs her refusal while turning the crisis into wit.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both? Ask: what would a more serious father have done?

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both?

Facilitation: Ask: what would a more serious father have done?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about parental conflict over the refusal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. ("Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do", Chapter XX, paragraph 18). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about parental conflict over the refusal? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. ("Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do", Chapter XX, paragraph 18). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes parental conflict over the refusal. Key takeaway: parental power over marriage.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke.
- Irony: The father's support comes as a witty paradox.

Themes and how they develop

- women's choices: parental power over marriage.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Mr. Collins was not left long to the silent contemplation of his successful love; for Mrs. Bennet, having dawdled about” (Chapter XX, paragraph 1).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “what motive his cousin could refuse him; and though his pride was hurt, he suffered in no other way. His regard for” (Chapter XX, paragraph 23).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) Mr. Bennet's announcement.
- “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) The witty paradox.
- “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27) Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict.
Evidence: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18)
Reasoning: His paradox "I will never see you again if you do" backs her refusal while turning the crisis into wit.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

disrespect (noun)	lack of respect	You will not, I hope, consider me as showing any disrespect to your family, my dear Madam, by thus withdrawing my pretensions to your daughter's favour, without having paid yourself and Mr.
persists (verb)	continues firmly	If therefore she actually persists in rejecting my suit, perhaps it were better not to force her into accepting me, because if liable to such defects of temper, she could not contribute much to my felicity."	"persists": From Middle French persister (Modern French persister), from Latin persistere, from per- + sistere "to stand". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/persist#Etymology)
unconcern (noun)	lack of worry or interest	Bennet raised his eyes from his book as she entered, and fixed them on her face with a calm unconcern which was not in the least altered by her communication.	"unconcern": From un + concern, around 1660–1670. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unconcern#Etymology)
requesting (verb)	express the need or desire for; ask for	Bennet the compliment of requesting you to interpose your authority in my behalf.
interpose (verb)	be or come between	Bennet the compliment of requesting you to interpose your authority in my behalf.	"interpose": From Middle French interposer, influenced by poser "to place#Verb", from Latin interpōnō, from inter "[[between" + pōnō "to place, put". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/interpose#Etymology) rejecting (verb)	refuse to accept or acknowledge	If therefore she actually persists in rejecting my suit, perhaps it were better not to force her into accepting me, because if liable to such defects of temper, she could not contribute much to my felicity."
interfering (verb)	getting involved in other people's affairs	She endeavoured to secure Jane in her interest, but Jane with all possible mildness declined interfering;—and Elizabeth sometimes with real earnestness and sometimes with playful gaiety replied to her attacks.	"interfering": From Old French entreferir, from entre- + ferir "to hit, to strike", itself from the Latin - verb ferio. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/interfere#Etymology)
mildness (noun)	gentleness	She endeavoured to secure Jane in her interest, but Jane with all possible mildness declined interfering;—and Elizabeth sometimes with real earnestness and	"mildness": From Middle English mildenesse, from Old English mildnes, mildness, equivalent to mild + ness. Cognate with Old High German miltnissa "compassion, mercy, sympathy, pity". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mildness#Etymology) sometimes with playful gaiety replied to her attacks.

vestibule (noun)	an entrance hall	She was met in the vestibule by Lydia, who, flying to her, cried in a half whisper, "I am glad you are come, for there is such fun here!—What do you think has happened this morning?—Mr.
entreating (verb)	ask for or request earnestly	Bennet was alone, than she likewise began on the subject, calling on Miss Lucas for her compassion, and entreating her to persuade her friend Lizzy to comply with the wishes of all her family.

Discussion questions

1. Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Mrs. Bennet want Mr. Bennet to do? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Insist Elizabeth marry Collins
2. Which choice best paraphrases Mr. Bennet's ultimatum? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Whatever Elizabeth chooses, one parent will disown her
3. How does Collins respond in the end? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He withdraws his offer with wounded pride
4. Who arrives during the commotion? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Charlotte Lucas
5. What conflict does this chapter center on? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mother against daughter over marriage
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XX" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept Collins and appeals to Mr. Bennet, who declares: 'Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do.' Collins, wounded in pride, withdraws his offer; Charlotte arrives and witnesses the commotion.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “You will not, I hope, consider me as showing any disrespect to your family, my dear Madam, by thus withdrawing my pretensions to your daughter’s favour, without having paid yourself and Mr.” What does “disrespect” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: disrespect: lack of respect.
10. Reread: “If therefore she actually persists in rejecting my suit, perhaps it were better not to force her into accepting me, because if liable to such defects of temper, she could not contribute much to my felicity.”” What does “persists” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: persists: continues firmly.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XX” suggest about parental conflict over the refusal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet's witty ultimatum is a rare moment of real parental backing, delivered as a joke.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about parental conflict over the refusal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's announcement. On irony: The father's support comes as a witty paradox. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept Collins and appeals to Mr. Bennet, who declares: 'Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do.' Collins, wounded in pride, withdraws his offer; Charlotte arrives and witnesses the commotion.
6. How does “Chapter XX” build on “Chapter XIX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): The witty paradox. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27): Mrs. Bennet's self-pity. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Mr. Bennet's support of Elizabeth an act of love, of wit, or both?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does conflict appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's announcement. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Fathers held legal authority over unmarried daughters, which makes Mr. Bennet's support decisive. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): The witty paradox. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mr. Bennet's witty ultimatum is a rare moment of real parental backing, delivered as a joke.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27): Mrs. Bennet's self-pity. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's announcement. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XX" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about parental conflict over the refusal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: "Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): The witty paradox. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter XX": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: "Nobody can tell what I suffer" (Chapter XX, paragraph 27): Mrs. Bennet's self-pity. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: "An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's announcement. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: "Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do" (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): The witty paradox. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter XX" treats parental conflict over the refusal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: "Nobody can tell what I suffer" (Chapter XX, paragraph 27): Mrs. Bennet's self-pity. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what "Chapter XXI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's announcement. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about parental conflict over the refusal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18): The witty paradox. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Useful evidence: “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27): Mrs. Bennet's self-pity. Theme link: parental power over marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Conflict: the forces, people or desires pulling against each other

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which choice best paraphrases Mr. Bennet's ultimatum?
   A. He threatens to leave home
   B. He sides with Collins
   C. He orders her to marry
   D. Whatever Elizabeth chooses, one parent will disown her

   Key: D (Whatever Elizabeth chooses, one parent will disown her)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Collins respond in the end?
   A. He leaves Longbourn at once
   B. He weeps
   C. He withdraws his offer with wounded pride
   D. He proposes to Jane

   Key: C (He withdraws his offer with wounded pride)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "If therefore she actually persists in rejecting my suit, perhaps it were better not to force her into accepting me, because if liable to such defects of temper, she could not contribute much to my felicity."", what does "persists" most nearly mean?
   A. be false to; be dishonest with
   B. approved; given permission
   C. something immaterial that stands in the way and must be circumvented or surmounted
   D. continues firmly

   Key: D (continues firmly)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "You will not, I hope, consider me as showing any disrespect to your family, my dear Madam, by thus withdrawing my pretensions to your daughter's favour, without having paid yourself and Mr.", what does "disrespect" most nearly mean?
   A. be contingent upon (something that is elided)
   B. explained; revealed
   C. lack of respect
   D. put into service; make work or employ for a particular purpose or for its inherent or natural purpose

   Key: C (lack of respect)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 18: "An unhappy _____ is before you, Elizabeth"
   Key: alternative
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mrs. Bennet want Mr. Bennet to do?
   A. Send Collins away
   B. Visit Netherfield
   C. Insist Elizabeth marry Collins
   D. Write to Darcy

   Key: C (Insist Elizabeth marry Collins)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Bennet raised his eyes from his book as she entered, and fixed them on her face with a calm unconcern which was not in the least altered by her communication.", what does "unconcern" most nearly mean?
   A. honesty and strong moral principles
   B. predictions
   C. deciding
   D. lack of worry or interest

   Key: D (lack of worry or interest)
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "She endeavoured to secure Jane in her interest, but Jane with all possible mildness declined _____;—and Elizabeth sometimes with real earnestness and sometimes with playful gaiety replied to her attacks." Word bank: persists, disrespect, unconcern, interfering
   Key: interfering
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "She endeavoured to secure Jane in her interest, but Jane with all possible _____ declined interfering;—and Elizabeth sometimes with real earnestness and sometimes with playful gaiety replied to her attacks.” Word bank: mildness, disrespect, persists, unconcern

Key: mildness

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XX”?
    - A. Keeping secrets
    - B. Renewed hope
    - C. Parental conflict over the refusal
    - D. Farewells at Hunsford

    Key: C (Parental conflict over the refusal)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27)
    - A. Darcy's addition: values mind.
    - B. Elizabeth's reading.
    - C. Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.
    - D. Opening.

    Key: C (Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's announcement.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The witty paradox.
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? Mrs. Bennet insists Elizabeth accept; Mr. Bennet backs Elizabeth with a joke.
    - A. Point of view
    - B. Characterization
    - C. Plot
    - D. Symbolism

    Key: B (Characterization)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18).

    Sample answer: His paradox "I will never see you again if you do" backs her refusal while turning the crisis into wit.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how women's choices develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: parental power over marriage.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet the compliment of requesting you to interpose your authority in my behalf.”, what does “requesting” most nearly mean?
    - A. to speed up; to hasten
    - B. express the need or desire for; ask for

C. polite attention to women
D. having

Key: B (express the need or desire for; ask for)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet the compliment of requesting you to _____ your authority in my behalf.” Word bank: disrespect, persists, interpose, unconcern

Key: interpose

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who arrives during the commotion?

A. Wickham
B. Lady Catherine
C. Charlotte Lucas
D. Bingley

Key: C (Charlotte Lucas)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 27: “_____ can tell what I suffer”

Key: Nobody

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 18: “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. _____, and I will never see you again if you do”

Key: Collins

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18)

A. Proposal opening.
B. The witty paradox.
C. The dramatic irony stated directly.
D. Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.

Key: B (The witty paradox.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? The father's support comes as a witty paradox.

A. Imagery
B. Theme
C. Irony
D. Simile

Key: C (Irony)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Your mother will never see you again if you do not marry Mr. Collins, and I will never see you again if you do” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The witty paradox.

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “If therefore she actually persists in _____ my suit, perhaps it were better not to force her into accepting me, because if liable to such defects of temper, she could not contribute much to my felicity.”” Word bank: unconcern, disrespect, persists, rejecting

Key: rejecting

26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18)
    A. Mr. Bennet's announcement.
    B. Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.
    C. Energetic, unconventional.
    D. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.

    Key: A (Mr. Bennet's announcement.)
27. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Nobody can tell what I suffer” (Chapter XX, paragraph 27). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “An unhappy alternative is before you, Elizabeth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's announcement.
29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What conflict does this chapter center on?
    A. Town against army
    B. Jane against Bingley
    C. Mother against daughter over marriage
    D. Darcy against Wickham

    Key: C (Mother against daughter over marriage)
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet supports Elizabeth, but only as a joke, showing his habit of avoiding real conflict.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: His paradox "I will never see you again if you do" backs her refusal while turning the crisis into wit.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	8, 17, 2, 18, 19, 20, 21, 1, 11, 10, 22, 12, 15, 23, 14, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 25, 4, 19, 3, 7, 11, 13, 10, 26, 12, 27, 15, 23, 16, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	5, 7, 25, 19, 20, 12, 26, 22, 10, 11, 27, 23, 15, 14, 16, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 20, 9, 29, 11, 12, 22, 10, 26, 23, 15, 27, 14, 28, 30, 24	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	18, 25, 3, 22, 13, 26, 12, 11, 14, 27, 15, 23, 24, 16, 28, 30	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	18, 20, 3, 26, 12, 11, 22, 10, 23, 15, 27, 14, 16, 30, 28, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	18, 25, 22, 13, 12, 10, 26, 11, 15, 27, 14, 23, 28, 30, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Junior	21, 18, 12, 22, 26, 10, 11, 13, 23, 14, 27, 15, 28, 16, 30, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	8, 18, 22, 10, 13, 11, 12, 26, 14, 15, 23, 27, 16, 24, 28, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	18, 8, 10, 22, 13, 26, 12, 11, 15, 14, 23, 27, 24, 28, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XX,” how does Austen show parental conflict over the refusal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XX, how does Austen develop the idea of parental conflict over the refusal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of parental conflict over the refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of parental conflict over the refusal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XX suggests about parental conflict over the refusal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XX to complicate the reader's understanding of parental conflict over the refusal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of parental conflict over the refusal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of parental conflict over the refusal follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XX and its treatment of parental conflict over the refusal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XX as evidence for a larger claim about parental conflict over the refusal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of parental conflict over the refusal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Bennet raised his eyes from his book as she entered, and fixed them on her face with a calm unconcern which was not in the least altered by her communication.

   As used in the text, what does the word “unconcern” most nearly mean?

   A. gentleness

   B. lack of worry or interest

   C. an entrance hall

   D. ask for or request earnestly

2. Mr. Collins was not left long to the silent contemplation of his successful love; for Mrs. Bennet, having dawdled about in the vestibule to watch for the end of the conference, no sooner saw Elizabeth open the door and with quick step pass her towards the staircase, than she entered the breakfast-room, and congratulated both him and herself in warm terms on the happy prospect of their nearer connection. Mr. Collins received and returned these felicitations with equal pleasure, and then proceeded to relate the particulars of their interview, with the result of which he trusted he had every reason to be satisfied, since the refusal which his cousin had steadfastly given him would naturally flow from her bashful modesty and the genuine delicacy of her character.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XX”?

   A. Parental conflict over the refusal

   B. Pemberley

   C. A persuasive tale

   D. Family dynamics and anticipation

SAT key: 1. B (lack of worry or interest); 2. A (Parental conflict over the refusal)

Lesson 22: Chapter XXI

Focus: consequences of refusal

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Collins turns his attention elsewhere. Charlotte draws him away. The Bingley party leaves for London, and Caroline writes that Bingley will not return and hints he may marry Darcy's sister, Georgiana.

Background: London's 'season' was the high point of social and marriage activity.

Significance: Caroline's letter deceives Jane and begins her heartbreak.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
> Prompt: Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> *Today's words: desponding — losing hope; discouraged; inspires — causes (a feeling) in others; indulging — allowing oneself to enjoy; dejection — a state of melancholy depression; introducing — presenting (someone) to another person. “desponding”: From Latin despondere "to give up, lose heart," from de- "away" + spondere "to promise." “indulging”: From Latin indulgeō "to indulge". “dejection”: From Old French dejection, from Latin dejectio "a casting down". By surface analysis, deject + -ion. “introducing”: From Middle English introducen, from Old French introduire, from Latin intrōdūcō, ultimately from Proto-Indo-European *$h_1$énteros "inner, what is inside" and dewk-.
> Words: desponding: losing hope; discouraged · inspires: causes (a feeling) in others · indulging: allowing oneself to enjoy · dejection: a state of melancholy depression · introducing: presenting (someone) to another person

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
London's 'season' was the high point of social and marriage activity. Caroline's letter deceives Jane and begins her heartbreak. Characterization: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy. Point of view: Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "to avoid her, but by stiffness of manner and resentful silence. He scarcely ever spoke to her, and the assiduous attentions which" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21). Jane's charity. That is characterization at work: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy.

> Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21). Jane's charity. That is characterization at work: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth's reading. Look at the craft: Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. (Elizabeth's reading.)

> Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's reading. Look at the craft: Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. (Elizabeth's reading.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about consequences of refusal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of consequences of refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. When the text says “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. Jane says "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone," but Elizabeth sees that Miss Bingley wants to separate them.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about consequences of refusal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of consequences of refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. When the text says “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. Jane says "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone," but Elizabeth sees that Miss Bingley wants to separate them.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be? Ask: when is Elizabeth's distrust right?

Anchor question: Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be?

Facilitation: Ask: when is Elizabeth's distrust right?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about consequences of refusal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. (“Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone”, Chapter XXI, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about consequences of refusal? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. (“Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone”, Chapter XXI, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes consequences of refusal. Key takeaway: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy.
- Point of view: Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “to avoid her, but by stiffness of manner and resentful silence. He scarcely ever spoke to her, and the assiduous attentions which” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 1).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Soon after their return, a letter was delivered to Miss Bennet; it came from Netherfield, and was” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21) Jane's charity.
- “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18) Elizabeth's reading.
- “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6) Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful.
Evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21)
Reasoning: Jane says "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone," but Elizabeth sees that Miss Bingley wants to separate them.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

desponding (adjective)	losing hope; discouraged	Jane's temper was not desponding, and she was gradually led to hope, though the diffidence of affection sometimes overcame the hope, that Bingley would return to Netherfield and answer every wish of her heart.	"desponding": From Latin despondere "to give up, lose heart," from de- "away" + spondere "to promise." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/despond)
inspires (verb)	causes (a feeling) in others	I really do not think Georgiana Darcy has her equal for beauty, elegance, and accomplishments; and the affection she inspires in Louisa and myself, is heightened into something still more interesting, from the hope we dare to entertain of her being hereafter our sister.
indulging (verb)	allowing oneself to enjoy	With all these circumstances to favour an attachment and nothing to prevent it, am I wrong, my dearest Jane, in indulging the hope of an event which will secure the happiness of so many?"	"indulging": From Latin indulgeō "to indulge". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/indulge#Etymology)
dejection (noun)	a state of melancholy depression	As for the gentleman himself, his feelings were chiefly expressed, not by embarrassment or dejection, or by trying to avoid her, but by stiffness of manner and resentful silence.	"dejection": From Old French dejection, from Latin dejectio "a casting down". By surface analysis, deject + -ion. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dejection#Etymology)
introducing (verb)	presenting (someone) to another person	His accompanying them was a double advantage; she felt all the compliment it offered to herself, and it was most acceptable as an occasion of introducing him to her father and mother.	"introducing": From Middle English introducen, from Old French introduire, from Latin intrōdūcō, ultimately from Proto-Indo-European *$h_1$énteros "inner, what is inside" and *dewk-. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/introduce#Etymology)
deceiving (verb)	be false to; be dishonest with	Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone; and all that I can hope in this case is, that she is deceived herself."	"deceiving": From Middle English deceyven, from Anglo-Norman deceivre, from Latin dēcipiō "to deceive; beguile; entrap", from dē- "from" + capiō "to seize"; see captive. Compare conceive, perceive, receive. Displaced native Old English beswīcan. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deceive#Etymology)

accompanying (verb)	be present or associated with an event or entity	His accompanying them was a double advantage; she felt all the compliment it offered to herself, and it was most acceptable as an occasion of introducing him to her father and mother.
accepting (verb)	agreeing to marry	“But, my dear sister, can I be happy, even supposing the best, in accepting a man whose sisters and friends are all wishing him to marry elsewhere?”
courses (noun)	sets of dishes served together at a meal	Bingley would be soon down again and soon dining at Longbourn, and the conclusion of all was the comfortable declaration that, though he had been invited only to a family dinner, she would take care to have two full courses.
equivalent (noun)	a person or thing equal to another in value or measure or force or effect or significance etc	“You must decide for yourself,” said Elizabeth, “and if upon mature deliberation, you find that the misery of disobliging his two sisters is more than equivalent to the happiness of being his wife, I advise you by all means to refuse him.”	“equivalent”: From Latin aequivalentem, accusative singular of aequivalēns, present active participle of aequivaleō "to be equivalent, have equal power". By surface analysis, en + equi + valent. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/equivalent#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who distracts Collins after the refusal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Charlotte Lucas

2. Where do the Netherfield party go? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: London
3. Who writes to Jane? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Caroline Bingley
4. Whom does Caroline hint Bingley will marry? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Georgiana Darcy
5. How does Jane respond to Caroline's letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She is hurt but believes Caroline
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXI” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Collins turns his attention elsewhere. Charlotte draws him away. The Bingley party leaves for London, and Caroline writes that Bingley will not return and hints he may marry Darcy's sister, Georgiana.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXI”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Jane’s temper was not desponding, and she was gradually led to hope, though the diffidence of affection sometimes overcame the hope, that Bingley would return to Netherfield and answer every wish of her heart.” What does “desponding” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: desponding: losing hope; discouraged.
10. Reread: “I really do not think Georgiana Darcy has her equal for beauty, elegance, and accomplishments; and the affection she inspires in Louisa and myself, is heightened into something still more interesting, from the hope we…” What does “inspires” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: inspires: causes (a feeling) in others.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXI” suggest about consequences of refusal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Caroline's letter deceives Jane and begins her heartbreak.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about consequences of refusal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21): Jane's charity. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The discussion of Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.

5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins turns his attention elsewhere. Charlotte draws him away. The Bingley party leaves for London, and Caroline writes that Bingley will not return and hints he may marry Darcy's sister, Georgiana.
6. How does “Chapter XXI” build on “Chapter XX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's reading. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6): Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan. On characterization: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Caroline's letter honest? What might her motives be?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21): Jane's charity. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: London's 'season' was the high point of social and marriage activity. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's reading. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Caroline's letter deceives Jane and begins her heartbreak.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6): Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21): Jane's charity. On characterization: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about consequences of refusal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's reading. On point of view: Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6): Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21): Jane's charity. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's reading. On characterization: The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXI” treats consequences of refusal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6): Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21): Jane's charity. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about consequences of refusal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's reading. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Useful evidence: “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6): Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan. Theme link: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "As for the gentleman himself, his feelings were chiefly expressed, not by embarrassment or dejection, or by trying to avoid her, but by stiffness of manner and resentful silence.", what does "dejection" most nearly mean?
   A. cause to feel shame; hurt the pride of
   B. the acquisition of something for payment
   C. promotion to a better position, especially in the church
   D. a state of melancholy depression

   Key: D (a state of melancholy depression)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Caroline hint Bingley will marry?
   A. Charlotte
   B. Anne de Bourgh
   C. Georgiana Darcy
   D. Elizabeth

   Key: C (Georgiana Darcy)
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""But, my dear sister, can I be happy, even supposing the best, in _____ a man whose sisters and friends are all wishing him to marry elsewhere?"" Word bank: inspires, indulging, desponding, accepting

   Key: accepting
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 6: "The whole party have left _____ by this time"

   Key: Netherfield
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Caroline is incapable of wilfully _____ anyone; and all that I can hope in this case is, that she is deceived herself."" Word bank: indulging, inspires, deceiving, desponding

   Key: deceiving
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "I really do not think Georgiana Darcy has her equal for beauty, elegance, and accomplishments; and the affection she inspires in Louisa and myself, is heightened into something still more interesting, from the hope we…", what does "inspires" most nearly mean?
   A. causes (a feeling) in others
   B. made loved or liked
   C. pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives
   D. supervised; directed

   Key: A (causes (a feeling) in others)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "With all these circumstances to favour an attachment and nothing to prevent it, am I wrong, my dearest Jane, in indulging the hope of an event which will secure the happiness of so many?"", what does "indulging" most nearly mean?
   A. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication
   B. allowing oneself to enjoy
   C. not pleased

D. amounts paid for goods and services that may be currently tax deductible (as opposed to capital expenditures)

Key: B (allowing oneself to enjoy)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Jane’s temper was not desponding, and she was gradually led to hope, though the diffidence of affection sometimes overcame the hope, that Bingley would return to Netherfield and answer every wish of her heart.”, what does “desponding” most nearly mean?

A. regard highly; think much of
B. losing hope; discouraged
C. soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick
D. deserved

Key: B (losing hope; discouraged)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who distracts Collins after the refusal?

A. Lydia
B. Mary
C. Charlotte Lucas
D. Jane

Key: C (Charlotte Lucas)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18)

A. Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.
B. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
C. Elizabeth's reading.
D. "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.

Key: C (Elizabeth's reading.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Elizabeth's reading.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXI”?

A. A practical marriage
B. Departure and relief
C. Bingley returns
D. Consequences of refusal

Key: D (Consequences of refusal)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Jane's charity.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21).

Sample answer: Jane says "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone," but Elizabeth sees that Miss Bingley wants to separate them.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth reads Caroline's letter more accurately than Jane, showing that suspicion can be useful.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Jane says "Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone," but Elizabeth sees that Miss Bingley wants to separate them.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His accompanying them was a double advantage; she felt all the compliment it offered to herself, and it was most acceptable as an occasion of _____ him to her father and mother.” Word bank: desponding, introducing, indulging, inspires

    Key: introducing

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Jane respond to Caroline's letter?

    A. She laughs
    B. She is angry
    C. She is hurt but believes Caroline
    D. She goes to London at once

    Key: C (She is hurt but believes Caroline)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 18: “Miss _____ sees that her brother is in love with you”

    Key: Bingley

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21)

    A. Jane's honesty.
    B. The cause of separation.
    C. The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.
    D. Jane's charity.

    Key: D (Jane's charity.)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “The whole party have left Netherfield by this time” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 6)

    A. Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.
    B. Elizabeth's evasion.
    C. Elizabeth's independence.
    D. Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.

    Key: A (Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXI”? The Bingleys leave Netherfield; Caroline's letter hints that Bingley will marry Georgiana Darcy.

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Plot

   C. Characterization
   D. Simile

   Key: C (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's skepticism here is correct.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do the Netherfield party go?
    A. Pemberley
    B. London
    C. Bath
    D. Scotland

    Key: B (London)

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXI”? Jane trusts the letter; Elizabeth reads it skeptically.
    A. Foreshadowing
    B. Characterization
    C. Point of view
    D. Symbolism

    Key: C (Point of view)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Caroline is incapable of wilfully deceiving anyone” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Jane's charity.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Miss Bingley sees that her brother is in love with you” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's reading.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 21: “Caroline is _____ of wilfully deceiving anyone”

    Key: incapable

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 7, 18, 6, 2, 19, 1, 10, 20, 12, 21, 15, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 4, 6, 24, 2, 7, 12, 11, 10, 13, 20, 25, 14, 22, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	2, 28, 4, 24, 9, 13, 10, 12, 20, 21, 15, 25, 22, 14, 16, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 19, 2, 9, 10, 21, 20, 11, 12, 22, 14, 15, 25, 26, 16, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP

	5, 19, 24, 12, 20, 21, 10, 13, 14, 15, 22, 25, 23, 26, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	17, 5, 28, 20, 12, 21, 13, 10, 22, 15, 14, 25, 23, 26, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 3, 13, 11, 20, 10, 12, 21, 25, 22, 14, 15, 26, 23, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	3, 28, 13, 11, 21, 10, 12, 20, 15, 14, 25, 22, 16, 26, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 5, 10, 13, 21, 12, 11, 20, 25, 14, 15, 22, 26, 16, 23, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 17, 10, 21, 20, 12, 13, 11, 14, 25, 15, 22, 27, 23, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXI,” how does Austen show consequences of refusal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXI, how does Austen develop the idea of consequences of refusal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of consequences of refusal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of consequences of refusal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXI suggests about consequences of refusal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXI to complicate the reader's understanding of consequences of refusal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of consequences of refusal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of consequences of refusal follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXI and its treatment of consequences of refusal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXI as evidence for a larger claim about consequences of refusal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of consequences of refusal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. With all these circumstances to favour an attachment and nothing to prevent it, am I wrong, my dearest Jane, in indulging the hope of an event which will secure the happiness of so many?”

   As used in the text, what does the word “indulging” most nearly mean?

   A. sets of dishes served together at a meal
   B. a person or thing equal to another in value or measure or force or effect or significance etc
   C. agreeing to marry
   D. allowing oneself to enjoy

2. The discussion of Mr. Collins’s offer was now nearly at an end, and Elizabeth had only to suffer from the uncomfortable feelings necessarily attending it, and occasionally from some peevish allusion of her mother. As for the gentleman himself, his feelings were chiefly expressed, not by embarrassment or dejection, or by trying to avoid her, but by stiffness of manner and resentful silence. He scarcely ever spoke to her, and the assiduous attentions which he had been so sensible of himself, were transferred for the rest of the day to Miss Lucas, whose civility in listening to him, was a seasonable relief to them all, and especially to her friend.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXI”?

   A. The second proposal
   B. Consequences of refusal

C. Family uproar

D. The entail and the officers

SAT key: 1. D (allowing oneself to enjoy); 2. B (Consequences of refusal)

Lesson 23: Chapter XXII

Focus: a practical marriage

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “Shakspeare has had neither equal nor second. But among the writers who, in the point which we have noticed, have approached nearest to the manner of the great master, we have no hesitation in placing Jane Austen, a woman of whom England is justly proud. She has given us a multitude of characters, all, in a certain sense, commonplace, all such as we meet every day. Yet they are all as perfectly discriminated from each other as if they were the most eccentric of human beings.” (Thomas Babington Macaulay, historian and essayist, "Madame D'Arblay" (Edinburgh Review, January 1843), in Critical and Historical Essays, Vol. 2, essay "Madame D'Arblay"; public domain). Compare Charlotte and Elizabeth: both "commonplace," yet "perfectly discriminated." What single choice in Chapter XXII separates them? Objective: Analyze Charlotte Lucas's practical marriage and Austen's range of "commonplace" characters. Standards: RL.11-12.3, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

Collins proposes to Charlotte, who accepts for security. Elizabeth is shocked that her friend could marry so foolish a man. Charlotte says she is 'not romantic.'

Background: At 27, Charlotte had few prospects; marriage offered her home and status.

Significance: Charlotte's choice offers a realistic counterpoint to romantic ideals.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
> Prompt: Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: marriage as security.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

*Today's words: slyness — cleverness in keeping something secret; overjoyed — extremely happy; thanking — expressing gratitude to; calculate — make a mathematical calculation or computation; offending — cause to feel resentment or indignation. “slyness”: From Middle English slynesse. By surface analysis, en + sly + ness. “offending”: From Middle French offendre, from Latin offendō "strike, blunder, commit an offense", from ob- "against" + fendō "strike".

Words: slyness: cleverness in keeping something secret · overjoyed: extremely happy · thanking: expressing gratitude to · calculate: make a mathematical calculation or computation · offending: cause to feel resentment or indignation

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

At 27, Charlotte had few prospects; marriage offered her home and status. Charlotte's choice offers a realistic counterpoint to romantic ideals. Characterization: Charlotte accepts Collins; she explains she is "not romantic." Characterization: Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “upon my not taking so material a step without her ladyship’s concurrence” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 8).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17). Charlotte's honesty. That is characterization at work: Charlotte accepts Collins; she explains she is "not romantic."

> I am not romantic you know. I never was (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17). Charlotte's honesty. That is characterization at work: Charlotte accepts Collins; she explains she is "not romantic."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Charlotte is practical; Elizabeth is idealistic. The novel lets both have a point. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Marriage as security. (Elizabeth's shock.)

> Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Charlotte is practical; Elizabeth is idealistic. The novel lets both have a point.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Marriage as security. (Elizabeth's shock.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a practical marriage? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a practical marriage. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. When the text says "I ask only a comfortable home" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. She says "I ask only a comfortable home," which for a woman of twenty-seven with no money is a reasonable aim.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a practical marriage? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a practical marriage. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. When the text says "I ask only a comfortable home" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. She says "I ask only a comfortable home," which for a woman of twenty-seven with no money is a reasonable aim.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both? Debate whether Charlotte made the right choice.

Anchor question: Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both?

Facilitation: Debate whether Charlotte made the right choice.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a practical marriage? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. ("I ask only a comfortable home", Chapter XXII, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a practical marriage? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. ("I ask only a comfortable home", Chapter XXII, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes a practical marriage. Key takeaway: marriage as security.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Charlotte accepts Collins; she explains she is "not romantic."
- Characterization: Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: marriage as security.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “upon my not taking so material a step without her ladyship’s concurrence” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 8).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “depend upon it, you will speedily receive from me a letter of thanks for this, as well as for every other mark” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 10).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) Charlotte's honesty.
- “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) Charlotte's realism.
- “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13) Elizabeth's shock.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune.
Evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17)
Reasoning: She says "I ask only a comfortable home," which for a woman of twenty-seven with no money is a reasonable aim.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
slyness (noun)	cleverness in keeping something secret	But here, she did injustice to the fire and independence of his character, for it led him to escape out of Longbourn House the next morning with admirable slyness, and hasten to Lucas Lodge to throw himself at her feet.	“slyness”: From Middle English slynesse. By surface analysis, en + sly + ness. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/slyness#Etymology)
overjoyed (adjective)	extremely happy	The whole family in short were properly overjoyed on the occasion.

thanking (verb)	expressing gratitude to	Elizabeth took an opportunity of thanking her.
calculate (verb)	make a mathematical calculation or computation	Lady Lucas began directly to calculate with more interest than the matter had ever excited before, how many years longer Mr.
offending (verb)	cause to feel resentment or indignation	"But is there not danger of Lady Catherine's disapprobation here, my good sir?—You had better neglect your relations, than run the risk of offending your patroness."	"offending": From Middle French offendre, from Latin offendō "strike, blunder, commit an offense", from ob- "against" + *fendō "strike". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/offend#Etymology)
alacrity (noun)	liveliness and eagerness	Sir William and Lady Lucas were speedily applied to for their consent; and it was bestowed with a most joyful alacrity.	"alacrity": Mid-15th century; from Middle English alacrite, from Latin alacritās, from alacer "brisk" + -itās "-ity". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/alacrity#Etymology)
cordiality (noun)	a cordial disposition	Bennet with great politeness and cordiality said how happy they should be to see him at Longbourn again, whenever his other engagements might allow him to visit them.
humiliating (verb)	cause to feel shame; hurt the pride of	Collins, was a most humiliating picture!—And to the pang of a friend disgracing herself and sunk in her esteem, was added the distressing conviction that it was impossible for that friend to be tolerably happy in the lot she had chosen.	"humiliating": Late Latin humiliātus, perfect passive participle of humiliō "to abase, humble" (see -ate), from Latin humilis "lowly, humble", from humus "ground; earth, soil"; see humble. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/humiliate#Etymology)
conference (noun)	a private talk	Miss Lucas called soon after breakfast, and in a private conference with Elizabeth related the event of the day before.
regained (verb)	get or find back; recover the use of	The steady countenance which Miss Lucas had commanded in telling her story, gave way to a momentary confusion here on receiving so direct a reproach; though, as it was no more than she expected, she soon regained her composure, and calmly replied—	"regained": From Middle French regaigner (French regagner). By surface analysis, re- + gain. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/regain#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both?

2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Whom does Collins propose to next? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Charlotte Lucas
2. Why does Charlotte accept? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: For security and a home
3. How does Elizabeth react to Charlotte's engagement to Collins? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Shocked and disappointed
4. What does Charlotte say she is not? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Romantic
5. What does this chapter suggest about marriage? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: It was often an economic necessity
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Collins proposes to Charlotte, who accepts for security. Elizabeth is shocked that her friend could marry so foolish a man. Charlotte says she is 'not romantic.'
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “But here, she did injustice to the fire and independence of his character, for it led him to escape out of Longbourn House the next morning with admirable slyness, and hasten to Lucas Lodge to throw himself at her feet.” What does “slyness” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: slyness: cleverness in keeping something secret.
10. Reread: “The whole family in short were properly overjoyed on the occasion.” What does “overjoyed” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: overjoyed: extremely happy.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXII” suggest about a practical marriage? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Charlotte's choice offers a realistic counterpoint to romantic ideals.

2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about a practical marriage? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's honesty. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “As he was to begin his journey too early on the morrow to see any of the family, the ceremony of leave-taking was performed when the ladies moved for the night; and Mrs.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins proposes to Charlotte, who accepts for security. Elizabeth is shocked that her friend could marry so foolish a man. Charlotte says she is 'not romantic.'
6. How does “Chapter XXII” build on “Chapter XXI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's realism. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's shock. On characterization: Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Charlotte's choice wise, sad, or both?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's honesty. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: At 27, Charlotte had few prospects; marriage offered her home and status. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's realism. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Charlotte's choice offers a realistic counterpoint to romantic ideals.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's shock. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's honesty. On characterization: Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a practical marriage? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's realism. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's shock. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's honesty. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's realism. On characterization: Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXII” treats a practical marriage with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's shock. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's honesty. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a practical marriage? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17): Charlotte's realism. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Useful evidence: “Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's shock. Theme link: marriage as security. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 17: “I am not _____ you know. I never was”

   Key: romantic

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth took an opportunity of thanking her.”, what does “thanking” most nearly mean?

   A. the time period between dawn and noon
   B. expressing gratitude to
   C. continues firmly
   D. in an abundant manner

   Key: B (expressing gratitude to)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does this chapter suggest about marriage?

   A. It was illegal
   B. It was often an economic necessity
   C. It always meant love
   D. It was rare

   Key: B (It was often an economic necessity)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 17: “I ask only a _____ home”

   Key: comfortable

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins, was a most _____ picture!—And to the pang of a friend disgracing herself and sunk in her esteem, was added the distressing conviction that it was impossible for that friend to be tolerably happy in the lot she had chosen.” Word bank: humiliating, overjoyed, thanking, slyness

   Key: humiliating

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The whole family in short were properly overjoyed on the occasion.”, what does “overjoyed” most nearly mean?

   A. warning
   B. agreeing
   C. to frighten in order to control
   D. extremely happy

   Key: D (extremely happy)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth react to Charlotte's engagement to Collins?

   A. Indifferent
   B. Shocked and disappointed
   C. Jealous
   D. Delighted

   Key: B (Shocked and disappointed)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "But here, she did injustice to the fire and independence of his character, for it led him to escape out of Longbourn House the next morning with admirable slyness, and hasten to Lucas Lodge to throw himself at her feet.", what does "slyness" most nearly mean?
   A. the state of being a married couple voluntarily joined for life (or until divorce)
   B. having a defect
   C. cleverness in keeping something secret
   D. hastily put together

   Key: C (cleverness in keeping something secret)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Charlotte accept?
   A. For love
   B. For security and a home
   C. Because she is rich
   D. To spite Elizabeth

   Key: B (For security and a home)
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "I ask only a comfortable home" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's realism.
11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "I am not romantic you know. I never was" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's honesty.
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13)
    A. Elizabeth's shock.
    B. The cause of separation.
    C. Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.
    D. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

    Key: A (Elizabeth's shock.)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXII"?
    A. Strategy in courtship
    B. A practical marriage
    C. Family in crisis
    D. A changed Darcy

    Key: B (A practical marriage)
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—impossible" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's shock.
15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXII"? Charlotte accepts Collins; she explains she is "not romantic."
    A. Imagery
    B. Setting

C. Irony
D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: marriage as security.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Sir William and Lady Lucas were speedily applied to for their consent; and it was bestowed with a most joyful _____." Word bank: thanking, overjoyed, slyness, alacrity

    Key: alacrity

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 13: "Engaged to Mr. Collins! my dear Charlotte—_____"

    Key: impossible

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Charlotte say she is not?

    A. Healthy
    B. Proud
    C. Romantic
    D. Clever

    Key: C (Romantic)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "I ask only a comfortable home" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17)

    A. Charlotte's realism.
    B. Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.
    C. The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
    D. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

    Key: A (Charlotte's realism.)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Marriage as security.

    A. First impressions and prejudice
    B. Pride and self-knowledge
    C. Class and social mobility
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXII"? Elizabeth is shocked and disappointed.

    A. Characterization
    B. Personification
    C. Metaphor
    D. Structure

    Key: A (Characterization)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17).

    Sample answer: She says "I ask only a comfortable home," which for a woman of twenty-seven with no money is a reasonable aim.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's honesty.

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet with great politeness and _____ said how happy they should be to see him at Longbourn again, whenever his other engagements might allow him to visit them.” Word bank: thanking, cordiality, slyness, overjoyed

    Key: cordiality

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Lady Lucas began directly to calculate with more interest than the matter had ever excited before, how many years longer Mr.”, what does “calculate” most nearly mean?

    A. a mark or flaw that spoils the appearance of something (especially on a person's body)
    B. make a mathematical calculation or computation
    C. the act of bringing something to bear; using it for a particular purpose
    D. placed in position

    Key: B (make a mathematical calculation or computation)

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am not romantic you know. I never was” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17)

    A. Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.
    B. The cause of separation.
    C. Charlotte's honesty.
    D. The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.

    Key: C (Charlotte's honesty.)

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““But is there not danger of Lady Catherine’s disapprobation here, my good sir?—You had better neglect your relations, than run the risk of _____ your patroness.”” Word bank: slyness, overjoyed, offending, thanking

    Key: offending

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I ask only a comfortable home” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 17) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's realism.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Collins propose to next?

    A. Charlotte Lucas
    B. Mary Bennet
    C. Kitty
    D. Caroline

    Key: A (Charlotte Lucas)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Charlotte's marriage shows the economic pressure on women without fortune.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: She says "I ask only a comfortable home," which for a woman of twenty-seven with no money is a reasonable aim.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	7, 2, 17, 18, 19, 1, 4, 3, 12, 10, 20, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 7, 6, 25, 2, 26, 27, 10, 11, 12, 20, 23, 21, 22, 16, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	28, 26, 6, 5, 9, 11, 20, 13, 27, 10, 22, 23, 21, 15, 29, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 18, 30, 3, 13, 10, 20, 12, 27, 21, 15, 23, 22, 24, 16, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 28, 9, 11, 10, 13, 20, 14, 15, 22, 23, 21, 16, 31, 24, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	18, 28, 8, 13, 27, 10, 12, 22, 21, 15, 23, 14, 31, 29, 16, 24	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 28, 13, 11, 20, 27, 10, 22, 14, 23, 21, 15, 16, 31, 24, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 28, 11, 10, 20, 27, 13, 15, 21, 23, 22, 14, 31, 16, 24, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	28, 17, 11, 10, 27, 12, 13, 15, 23, 22, 14, 21, 24, 29, 31, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	28, 17, 10, 13, 11, 27, 20, 22, 14, 15, 21, 23, 29, 31, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXII,” how does Austen show a practical marriage? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXII, how does Austen develop the idea of a practical marriage? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a practical marriage. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of a practical marriage. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXII suggests about a practical marriage. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXII to complicate the reader's understanding of a practical marriage. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a practical marriage responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a practical marriage follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXII and its treatment of a practical marriage. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXII as evidence for a larger claim about a practical marriage in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a practical marriage. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Elizabeth took an opportunity of thanking her.

   As used in the text, what does the word “thanking” most nearly mean?

   A. get or find back; recover the use of

B. expressing gratitude to
C. cause to feel shame; hurt the pride of
D. a private talk

2. As he was to begin his journey too early on the morrow to see any of the family, the ceremony of leave-taking was performed when the ladies moved for the night; and Mrs. Bennet with great politeness and cordiality said how happy they should be to see him at Longbourn again, whenever his other engagements might allow him to visit them.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXII"?

A. Scandal
B. The second proposal
C. A practical marriage
D. A costly solution

SAT key: 1. B (expressing gratitude to); 2. C (A practical marriage)

Lesson 24: Chapter XXIII

Focus: family uproar

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Sir William announces the engagement; Mrs. Bennet is disbelieving and resentful. Jane receives no word from Bingley, and Elizabeth grows more suspicious of Darcy's and the sisters' influence.

Background: Engagements reshaped family alliances and resentments.

Significance: Elizabeth's distrust of Darcy deepens—partly earned, partly prejudice.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: stability — steadiness; reliability; unfeeling — cold and unkind; overpowering — very strong; impossible to resist; luckily — by good fortune; resolving — deciding firmly.
Words: stability: steadiness; reliability · unfeeling: cold and unkind · overpowering: very strong; impossible to resist · luckily: by good fortune · resolving: deciding firmly

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Engagements reshaped family alliances and resentments. Elizabeth's distrust of Darcy deepens—partly earned, partly prejudice. Characterization: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife." Structure: The chapter turns from Charlotte's news to Jane's silence: Bingley does not return, and Jane's hope is tested. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "and Charlotte there was a restraint which kept them mutually silent on the subject; and Elizabeth felt persuaded that no real confidence" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 9).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1). The news delivered formally, a social ritual. That is characterization at work: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

> Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1). The news delivered formally, a social ritual. That is characterization at work: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Pitiable" is ironic; her pain is selfish. Mr. Bennet's amusement shows his detachment. Both responses connect to marriage and money. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. (Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.)

> Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Pitiable" is ironic; her pain is selfish. Mr. Bennet's amusement shows his detachment. Both responses connect to marriage and money.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. (Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family uproar? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of family uproar. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. When the text says "Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet is "in a most pitiable state" not for Charlotte's happiness but because the Lucases may inherit Longbourn, while Mr. Bennet simply enjoys finding Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family uproar? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of family uproar. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. When the text says "Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet is "in a most pitiable state" not for Charlotte's happiness but because the Lucases may inherit Longbourn, while Mr. Bennet simply enjoys finding Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement? Ask which parent's reaction is worse, and why.

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement?

Facilitation: Ask which parent's reaction is worse, and why.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family uproar? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. ("Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state", Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family uproar? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. ("Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state", Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes family uproar. Key takeaway: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."
- Structure: The chapter turns from Charlotte's news to Jane's silence: Bingley does not return, and Jane's hope is tested.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “and Charlotte there was a restraint which kept them mutually silent on the subject; and Elizabeth felt persuaded that no real confidence” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 9).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Jane had sent Caroline an early answer to her letter, and was counting the days till she might reasonably hope to” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1) The news delivered formally, a social ritual.
- “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16) Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.
- “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6) Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property.
Evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16)
Reasoning: Mrs. Bennet is "in a most pitiable state" not for Charlotte's happiness but because the Lucases may inherit Longbourn, while Mr. Bennet simply enjoys finding Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
stability (noun)	steadiness; reliability	Unwilling as she was to admit an idea so destructive of Jane's happiness, and so dishonourable to the stability of her lover, she could not prevent its frequently recurring.
unfeeling (adjective)	cold and unkind	The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.
overpowering (adjective)	very strong; impossible to resist	The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.
luckily (adverb)	by good fortune	He was too happy, however, to need much attention; and luckily for the others, the business of lovemaking relieved them from a great deal of his company.
resolving (verb)	deciding firmly	Collins, was convinced that they were talking of the Longbourn estate, and resolving to turn herself and her daughters out of the house, as soon as Mr.
abhorrence (noun)	hate coupled with disgust	As her successor in that house, she regarded her with jealous abhorrence.
attractions (noun)	qualities that make someone attractive	The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.

appease (verb)	cause to be more favorably inclined; gain the good will of	Nothing could console and nothing appease her.	“appease”: From Middle English apesen, from Old French apeser "to pacify, bring to peace". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/appease#Etymology)
murmurs (noun)	quiet complaints	Such were the gentle murmurs of Mrs.	“murmurs”: From Middle English murmur, murmor, murmour, from Old French murmure (modern French murmure), from Latin murmur "murmur, humming, muttering, roaring, growling, rushing etc.". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/murmur#Etymology)
unfolded (verb)	explained; revealed	With many compliments to them, and much self-gratulation on the prospect of a connection between the houses, he unfolded the matter—to an audience not merely wondering, but incredulous; for Mrs.	“unfolded”: From Middle English unfolden, from Old English unfealdan "to unfold", equivalent to un- + fold. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unfold#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who announces the engagement? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Sir William Lucas
2. How does Mrs. Bennet react to Sir William's news of Charlotte's engagement? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: With disbelief and resentment
3. What does Jane wait for? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: News from Bingley
4. Whom does Elizabeth suspect of separating Jane and Bingley? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: His sisters and Darcy
5. Why does Collins's engagement trouble Mrs. Bennet? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Charlotte will become mistress of Longbourn

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Sir William announces the engagement; Mrs. Bennet is disbelieving and resentful. Jane receives no word from Bingley, and Elizabeth grows more suspicious of Darcy's and the sisters' influence.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Unwilling as she was to admit an idea so destructive of Jane’s happiness, and so dishonourable to the stability of her lover, she could not prevent its frequently recurring.” What does “stability” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: stability: steadiness; reliability.
10. Reread: “The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.” What does “unfeeling” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: unfeeling: cold and unkind.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXIII” suggest about family uproar? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's distrust of Darcy deepens—partly earned, partly prejudice.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about family uproar? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1): The news delivered formally, a social ritual. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth was sitting with her mother and sisters, reflecting on what she had heard, and doubting whether she were authorised to mention it, when Sir William Lucas himself…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Sir William announces the engagement; Mrs. Bennet is disbelieving and resentful. Jane receives no word from Bingley, and Elizabeth grows more suspicious of Darcy's and the sisters' influence.
6. How does “Chapter XXIII” build on “Chapter XXII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16): Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself. On structure: The chapter turns from Charlotte's news to Jane's silence: Bingley does not return, and Jane's hope is tested. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6): Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly. On characterization: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why is Mrs. Bennet especially bitter about Charlotte's engagement?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1): The news delivered formally, a social ritual. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Engagements reshaped family alliances and resentments. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16): Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's distrust of Darcy deepens—partly earned, partly prejudice.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6): Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.

Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1): The news delivered formally, a social ritual. On characterization: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about family uproar? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16): Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6): Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1): The news delivered formally, a social ritual. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16): Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself. On characterization: Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXIII” treats family uproar with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6): Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1): The news delivered formally, a social ritual. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about family uproar? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16): Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Useful evidence: “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6): Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Jane wait for?
   A. Money
   B. News from Bingley
   C. Lydia
   D. A letter from Darcy

   Key: B (News from Bingley)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Unwilling as she was to admit an idea so destructive of Jane's happiness, and so dishonourable to the stability of her lover, she could not prevent its frequently recurring.", what does "stability" most nearly mean?
   A. steadiness; reliability
   B. showing inventiveness and skill
   C. the cardinal number that is the sum of fifteen and one
   D. a local official who judges minor cases

   Key: A (steadiness; reliability)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet react to Sir William's news of Charlotte's engagement?
   A. Sympathy
   B. With disbelief and resentment
   C. Relief
   D. Joy

   Key: B (With disbelief and resentment)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "As her successor in that house, she regarded her with jealous _____." Word bank: abhorrence, overpowering, stability, unfeeling

   Key: abhorrence
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6: "_____ Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife"

   Key: Charlotte
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Collins, was convinced that they were talking of the Longbourn estate, and _____ to turn herself and her daughters out of the house, as soon as Mr." Word bank: overpowering, resolving, stability, unfeeling

   Key: resolving

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.”, what does “overpowering” most nearly mean?
   A. game birds hunted for food
   B. very strong; impossible to resist
   C. use to one's advantage
   D. treat, mention, or speak to rudely

   Key: B (very strong; impossible to resist)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who announces the engagement?
   A. Charlotte
   B. Collins
   C. Mr. Bennet
   D. Sir William Lucas

   Key: D (Sir William Lucas)
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most _____ state”

   Key: pitiable
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIII”?
    A. Marriage as a social goal
    B. Confiding and consent
    C. Family uproar
    D. A charming stranger

    Key: C (Family uproar)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16)
    A. Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.
    B. Mr. Bennet's sly question.
    C. Jane's charity.
    D. Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.

    Key: D (Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6)
    A. Darcy admits his role.
    B. Wickham's motive.
    C. Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.
    D. The narrator's verdict.

    Key: C (Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.)
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The news delivered formally, a social ritual.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16).

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet is "in a most pitiable state" not for Charlotte's happiness but because the Lucases may inherit Longbourn, while Mr. Bennet simply enjoys finding Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Charlotte Lucas, whom he had been used to think tolerably sensible, was as foolish as his wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 6). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The news delivered formally, a social ritual.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Elizabeth suspect of separating Jane and Bingley?
    - A. His sisters and Darcy
    - B. Collins
    - C. Charlotte
    - D. Wickham

    Key: A (His sisters and Darcy)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Nothing could console and nothing _____ her.” Word bank: appease, overpowering, unfeeling, stability

    Key: appease

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “He was too happy, however, to need much attention; and luckily for the others, the business of lovemaking relieved them from a great deal of his company.”, what does “luckily” most nearly mean?
    - A. a soldier standing guard
    - B. express in words
    - C. a word of one syllable
    - D. by good fortune

    Key: D (by good fortune)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Collins's engagement trouble Mrs. Bennet?
    - A. She wanted Collins herself
    - B. Charlotte will become mistress of Longbourn
    - C. It is too expensive
    - D. She dislikes clergy

    Key: B (Charlotte will become mistress of Longbourn)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce her engagement to the family” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1)
    - A. The news delivered formally, a social ritual.

B. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
C. Wickham, just before giving it.
D. Darcy's addition: values mind.

Key: A (The news delivered formally, a social ritual.)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIII”? Sir William Lucas announces Charlotte's engagement; Mrs. Bennet refuses to believe it, then rages for days. Lydia blurts; Mr. Bennet is pleased to find Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

    A. Structure
    B. Theme
    C. Allusion
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day.

24. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIII”? The chapter turns from Charlotte's news to Jane's silence: Bingley does not return, and Jane's hope is tested.

    A. Imagery
    B. Irony
    C. Theme
    D. Structure

    Key: D (Structure)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mrs. Bennet was really in a most pitiable state” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The family's reactions to Charlotte's engagement reveal how marriage is measured by property.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet is "in a most pitiable state" not for Charlotte's happiness but because the Lucases may inherit Longbourn, while Mr. Bennet simply enjoys finding Charlotte "as foolish as his wife."

28. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Mrs. Bennet sees the match only as Longbourn passing to the Lucases one day.

    A. First impressions and prejudice
    B. Class and social mobility
    C. Pride and self-knowledge
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the _____ of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.” Word bank: unfeeling, attractions, stability, overpowering
   Key: attractions

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 5, 20, 8, 9, 7, 11, 12, 21, 10, 15, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	2, 20, 7, 18, 9, 1, 21, 24, 11, 12, 10, 22, 15, 25, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	6, 4, 19, 17, 1, 12, 24, 21, 10, 11, 15, 25, 22, 28, 23, 26	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 18, 3, 20, 10, 24, 21, 13, 11, 22, 28, 25, 14, 23, 16, 26	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 8, 18, 21, 10, 13, 12, 15, 22, 14, 28, 25, 23, 26, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 4, 19, 13, 10, 12, 21, 25, 15, 14, 22, 28, 23, 27, 26, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 4, 11, 21, 12, 10, 24, 28, 22, 14, 25, 15, 27, 16, 23, 26	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	6, 4, 12, 11, 13, 10, 24, 22, 15, 25, 28, 14, 26, 16, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	29, 6, 10, 13, 11, 21, 12, 25, 14, 22, 15, 28, 16, 26, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	6, 4, 13, 21, 10, 11, 24, 14, 15, 25, 28, 22, 26, 27, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXIII,” how does Austen show family uproar? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXIII, how does Austen develop the idea of family uproar? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of family uproar. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of family uproar. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXIII suggests about family uproar. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXIII to complicate the reader's understanding of family uproar. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of family uproar responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of family uproar follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXIII and its treatment of family uproar. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXIII as evidence for a larger claim about family uproar in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of family uproar. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. The united efforts of his two unfeeling sisters and of his overpowering friend, assisted by the attractions of Miss Darcy and the amusements of London, might be too much, she feared, for the strength of his attachment.

   As used in the text, what does the word “overpowering” most nearly mean?

   A. cause to be more favorably inclined; gain the good will of

   B. quiet complaints

   C. explained; revealed

   D. very strong; impossible to resist

2. Elizabeth was sitting with her mother and sisters, reflecting on what she had heard, and doubting whether she were authorised to mention it, when Sir William Lucas himself appeared, sent by his daughter to announce > her engagement to the family. With many compliments to them, and much self-gratulation on the prospect of a connection between the houses, he unfolded the matter—to an audience not merely wondering, but incredulous; for Mrs. Bennet, with more perseverance than politeness, protested he must be entirely mistaken, and Lydia, always unguarded and often uncivil, boisterously exclaimed—

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXIII"?

A. The Brighton plan
B. Darcy at Rosings
C. Family uproar
D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. D (very strong; impossible to resist); 2. C (Family uproar)

Lesson 25: Chapter XXIV

Focus: disappointment and philosophy

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Caroline's letter confirms the Bingleys will stay in London. Jane bears it quietly. Elizabeth reflects bitterly on the 'inconsistency of all human characters.' Mr. Bennet jokes that Wickham would make a fine jilt.

Background: Women's feelings were expected to be hidden for propriety.

Significance: Elizabeth's cynicism shows how disappointment shapes judgment.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

*Today's words: disclaimed — denied having; extenuating — making a fault seem less serious; encroaching — gradually taking over (someone else's rights); confirms — establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts; predict — make a prediction about; tell in advance. “disclaimed”: From Middle English disclaimen, from Anglo-Norman disclaimer, from Old French desclamer (French déclamer), des- + clamer. “extenuating”: From Middle English extenuat "(medicine) made thin, emaciated", from Latin extenuātus "diminished, reduced, thinned", perfect passive participle of extenuō "to diminish, reduce, thin" (see -ate), from ex- + tenuō, from tenuis "fine, slender, thin; feeble, weak" (ultimately from Proto-Indo-European tenh₂- "to extend, stretch; thin") + -ō. Compare attenuate. “confirms”: From Middle English confirmen, confermen, from Old French confermer, from Latin cōnfirmāre "to make firm, strengthen, establish", from con- "together" + firmāre "to make firm", from firmus "firm". “predict”: Early 17th century, from Latin praedicō "to mention beforehand" (perfect passive participle praedictus), from prae- "before" + dīcō "to say". Equivalent to Germanic forespeak, foretell, and foresay.

Words: disclaimed: denied having · extenuating: making a fault seem less serious · encroaching: gradually taking over (someone else's rights) · confirms: establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts · predict: make a prediction about; tell in advance

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Women's feelings were expected to be hidden for propriety. Elizabeth's cynicism shows how disappointment shapes judgment. Characterization: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world. Dialogue: Elizabeth's speech about how "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" shows disillusion. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “soon communicated the chief of all this, heard it in silent indignation. Her heart was divided between concern for her sister, and” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10). Elizabeth's disillusion. That is characterization at work: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world.

> The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10). Elizabeth's disillusion. That is characterization at work: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Material service" is ironic in hindsight: the charming man is the dangerous one. This connects to first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. (Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.)

> Wickham's society was of material service in dispelling the gloom (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Material service" is ironic in hindsight: the charming man is the dangerous one. This connects to first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. (Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about disappointment and philosophy? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of disappointment and philosophy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. When the text says "The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. She declares that "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it," and Wickham's company becomes a "material service" to the family, so her anger and his charm feed each other.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about disappointment and philosophy? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of disappointment and philosophy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. When the text says "The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. She declares that "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it," and Wickham's company becomes a "material service" to the family, so her anger and his charm feed each other.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response? Ask: is Elizabeth's cynicism wisdom or another prejudice?
Anchor question: How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response?
Facilitation: Ask: is Elizabeth's cynicism wisdom or another prejudice?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about disappointment and philosophy? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. (“The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it”, Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about disappointment and philosophy? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. (“The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it”, Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes disappointment and philosophy. Key takeaway: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world.
- Dialogue: Elizabeth's speech about how "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" shows disillusion.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “soon communicated the chief of all this, heard it in silent indignation. Her heart was divided between concern for her sister, and" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 3).

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "Miss Bingley's letter arrived, and put an end to doubt. The very first sentence" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10) Elizabeth's disillusion.
- "Miss Bingley's letter arrived, and put an end to doubt" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1) Opening line: crisp, decisive.
- "Wickham's society was of material service in dispelling the gloom" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29) Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it.
Evidence: "The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10)
Reasoning: She declares that "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it," and Wickham's company becomes a "material service" to the family, so her anger and his charm feed each other.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
disclaimed (verb)	denied having	Miss Bennet eagerly disclaimed all extraordinary merit, and threw back the praise on her sister's warm affection.	"disclaimed": From Middle English disclaimen, from Anglo-Norman disclaimer, from Old French desclamer (French déclamer), des- + clamer. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disclaim#Etymology)
extenuating (adjective)	making a fault seem less serious	Miss Bennet was the only creature who could suppose there might be any extenuating circumstances in the case, unknown to the society of Hertfordshire; her mild and steady candour always pleaded for allowances, and urged the possibility of mistakes—but by everybody else Mr.	"extenuating": From Middle English extenuat "(medicine) made thin, emaciated", from Latin extenuātus "diminished, reduced, thinned", perfect passive participle of extenuō "to diminish, reduce, thin" (see -ate), from ex- + tenuō, from tenuis "fine, slender, thin; feeble, weak" (ultimately from Proto-Indo-European *tenh₂- "to extend, stretch; thin") + -ō. Compare attenuate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/extenuate#Etymology)
encroaching (verb)	gradually taking over (someone else's rights)	Do not be afraid of my running into any excess, of my encroaching on your privilege of universal good will.

confirms (verb)	establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts	The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it; and every day confirms my belief of the inconsistency of all human characters, and of the little dependence that can be placed on the appearance of either merit or sense.	“confirms”: From Middle English confirmen, confermen, from Old French confermer, from Latin cōnfirmāre "to make firm, strengthen, establish", from con- "together" + firmāre "to make firm", from firmus "firm". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/confirm#Etymology)
predict (verb)	make a prediction about; tell in advance	Her many attractions were again dwelt on, and Caroline boasted joyfully of their increasing intimacy, and ventured to predict the accomplishment of the wishes which had been unfolded in her former letter.	“predict”: Early 17th century, from Latin praedicō "to mention beforehand" (perfect passive participle praedictus), from prae- "before" + dīcō "to say". Equivalent to Germanic forespeak, foretell, and foresay. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/predict#Etymology) occurrences (noun)	an event that happens	Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom, which the late perverse occurrences had thrown on many of the Longbourn family.	“occurrences”: From Latin occurrere "to run to meet," from ob- "toward" + currere "to run." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/occurrence)
conjunction (noun)	partnership; combination	“Yes, in conjunction with his friend.”	“conjunction”: From Old French conjonction, from Latin coniūnctiō "joining", from coniungere "to join". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conjunction#Etymology)
displease (verb)	give displeasure to	But if I go on, I shall displease you by saying what I think of persons you esteem.	“displease”: English dis + please, from Middle English displesen, from Anglo-Norman despleisir, desplere, from Old French desplere (des- + plere). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/displease#Etymology)
integrity (noun)	honesty and strong moral principles	You shall not, for the sake of one individual, change the meaning of principle and integrity, nor endeavour to persuade yourself or me, that selfishness is prudence, and insensibility of danger, security for happiness.”
boasted (verb)	show off	Her many attractions were again dwelt on, and Caroline boasted joyfully of their increasing intimacy, and ventured to predict the accomplishment of the wishes which had been unfolded in her former letter.

Discussion questions

1. How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Caroline's second letter say? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Bingleys will stay in London
2. How does Jane respond to the news that the Bingleys will stay in London? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She bears it quietly
3. What does Elizabeth reflect on? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The inconsistency of human character
4. Whom does Mr. Bennet joke about? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wickham
5. What tone does Mr. Bennet use? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mocking humor
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXIV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Caroline's letter confirms the Bingleys will stay in London. Jane bears it quietly. Elizabeth reflects bitterly on the 'inconsistency of all human characters.' Mr. Bennet jokes that Wickham would make a fine jilt.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXIV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Miss Bennet eagerly disclaimed all extraordinary merit, and threw back the praise on her sister’s warm affection.” What does “disclaimed” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: disclaimed: denied having.
10. Reread: “Miss Bennet was the only creature who could suppose there might be any extenuating circumstances in the case, unknown to the society of Hertfordshire; her mild and steady candour always pleaded for allowances, and urged…” What does “extenuating” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: extenuating: making a fault seem less serious.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXIV” suggest about disappointment and philosophy? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's cynicism shows how disappointment shapes judgment.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about disappointment and philosophy? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10): Elizabeth's disillusion. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Hope was over, entirely over; and when Jane could attend to the rest of the letter, she found little, except the professed affection of the writer, that could give her any comfort.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Caroline's letter confirms the Bingleys will stay in London. Jane bears it quietly. Elizabeth reflects bitterly on the 'inconsistency of all human characters.' Mr. Bennet jokes that Wickham would make a fine jilt.
6. How does “Chapter XXIV” build on “Chapter XXIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1): Opening line: crisp, decisive. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29): Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight. On characterization: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Jane's restraint compare with Elizabeth's response?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10): Elizabeth's disillusion. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Women's feelings were expected to be hidden for propriety. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1): Opening line: crisp, decisive. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's cynicism shows how disappointment shapes judgment.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29): Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10): Elizabeth's disillusion. On characterization: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about disappointment and philosophy? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1): Opening line: crisp, decisive. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29): Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10): Elizabeth's disillusion. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1): Opening line: crisp, decisive. On characterization: Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXIV” treats disappointment and philosophy with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29): Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10): Elizabeth's disillusion. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about disappointment and philosophy? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1): Opening line: crisp, decisive. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29): Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight. Theme link: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Miss Bennet was the only creature who could suppose there might be any extenuating circumstances in the case, unknown to the society of Hertfordshire; her mild and steady candour always pleaded for allowances, and urged…”, what does “extenuating” most nearly mean?

   A. an abrupt excited utterance
   B. a feeling of alarm or dread
   C. criticizing strongly
   D. making a fault seem less serious

   Key: D (making a fault seem less serious)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Her many attractions were again dwelt on, and Caroline boasted joyfully of their increasing intimacy, and ventured to _____ the accomplishment of the wishes which had been unfolded in her former letter.” Word bank: encroaching, disclaimed, extenuating, predict

   Key: predict

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10: “The more I see of the world, the more am I _____ with it”

   Key: dissatisfied

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it; and every day confirms my belief of the inconsistency of all human characters, and of the little dependence that can be placed on the appearance of either…”, what does “confirms” most nearly mean?

   A. make one's home in a particular place or community
   B. establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts
   C. having the requisite qualities or resources to meet a task
   D. to take advantage of; to intrude on

   Key: B (establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Jane respond to the news that the Bingleys will stay in London?

   A. She bears it quietly
   B. She leaves home
   C. She writes to Darcy
   D. She rages

   Key: A (She bears it quietly)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Miss Bennet eagerly disclaimed all extraordinary merit, and threw back the praise on her sister’s warm affection.”, what does “disclaimed” most nearly mean?

   A. bitterness and anger
   B. denied having
   C. invited; sought out
   D. a card game for four players

   Key: B (denied having)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Mr. Bennet joke about?

   A. Bingley
   B. Wickham
   C. Darcy
   D. Collins

   Key: B (Wickham)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “But if I go on, I shall _____ you by saying what I think of persons you esteem.” Word bank: extenuating, displease, encroaching, disclaimed

   Key: displease

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What tone does Mr. Bennet use?

   A. Mocking humor
   B. Deep sorrow
   C. Fear
   D. Anger

   Key: A (Mocking humor)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIV”?
    A. The second proposal
    B. First impressions at the ball
    C. Disappointment and philosophy
    D. Character flaws examined

    Key: C (Disappointment and philosophy)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1)
    A. Elizabeth's comment on distance.
    B. Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.
    C. Jane's charitable hope.
    D. Opening line: crisp, decisive.

    Key: D (Opening line: crisp, decisive.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29)
    A. Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.
    B. The dramatic irony stated directly.
    C. Elizabeth's warning.
    D. Elizabeth's sarcasm.

    Key: A (Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's disillusion.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? Miss Bingley's letter ends Jane's hope; Jane hides her pain. Elizabeth is angry at Bingley's weakness and at the world.
    A. Foreshadowing
    B. Allusion
    C. Theme
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10).

    Sample answer: She declares that "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it," and Wickham's company becomes a "material service" to the family, so her anger and his charm feed each other.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's cynicism is another kind of quick judgment.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29: “Wickham’s society was of material service in _____ the gloom”

    Key: dispelling

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom, which the late perverse _____ had thrown on many of the Longbourn family.” Word bank: disclaimed, encroaching, occurrences, extenuating

    Key: occurrences

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Yes, in _____ with his friend.””

    Word bank: encroaching, conjunction, disclaimed, extenuating

    Key: conjunction

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10)

    A. Jane's humility.

    B. Elizabeth's shock.

    C. Self-judgment.

    D. Elizabeth's disillusion.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's disillusion.)

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening line: crisp, decisive.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Wickham’s society was of material service in dispelling the gloom” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Miss Bingley’s letter arrived, and put an end to doubt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening line: crisp, decisive.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Do not be afraid of my running into any excess, of my encroaching on your privilege of universal good will.”, what does “encroaching” most nearly mean?

    A. pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives

    B. act in accordance with someone's rules, commands, or wishes

    C. to increase; to make better

    D. gradually taking over (someone else's rights)

    Key: D (gradually taking over (someone else's rights))

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? Elizabeth's speech about how "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it" shows disillusion.

    A. Irony

    B. Allusion

    C. Setting

    D. Dialogue

    Key: D (Dialogue)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Jane's disappointment makes Elizabeth harsher in her judgments, and Wickham's charm benefits from it.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She declares that "the more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it," and Wickham's company becomes a "material service" to the family, so her anger and his charm feed each other.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The more I see of the world, the more am I dissatisfied with it” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's disillusion.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Caroline's second letter say?

    A. They are coming back
    B. Bingley is engaged to Jane
    C. Darcy is ill
    D. The Bingleys will stay in London

    Key: D (The Bingleys will stay in London)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 2, 6, 17, 8, 18, 19, 4, 13, 20, 12, 21, 22, 14, 15, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 24, 9, 7, 2, 6, 10, 21, 11, 12, 13, 22, 25, 15, 16, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	7, 24, 6, 17, 8, 11, 21, 13, 20, 12, 15, 22, 25, 14, 26, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	2, 28, 1, 8, 21, 12, 20, 10, 11, 15, 14, 25, 22, 26, 23, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	3, 19, 1, 13, 21, 20, 12, 11, 22, 15, 14, 25, 16, 27, 23, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	2, 18, 28, 13, 12, 11, 10, 20, 22, 14, 15, 25, 27, 23, 16, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	2, 18, 20, 21, 13, 10, 12, 11, 25, 14, 22, 15, 16, 27, 23, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 2, 11, 20, 12, 21, 13, 10, 14, 22, 25, 15, 27, 16, 23, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	18, 2, 13, 12, 21, 20, 11, 10, 15, 25, 14, 22, 16, 26, 23, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	2, 18, 10, 11, 13, 21, 20, 12, 22, 14, 25, 15, 23, 26, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXIV,” how does Austen show disappointment and philosophy? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXIV, how does Austen develop the idea of disappointment and philosophy? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of disappointment and philosophy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of disappointment and philosophy. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXIV suggests about disappointment and philosophy. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXIV to complicate the reader's understanding of disappointment and philosophy. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of disappointment and philosophy responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of disappointment and philosophy follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXIV and its treatment of disappointment and philosophy. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXIV as evidence for a larger claim about disappointment and philosophy in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of disappointment and philosophy. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Do not be afraid of my running into any excess, of my encroaching on your privilege of universal good will.

   As used in the text, what does the word "encroaching" most nearly mean?

   A. gradually taking over (someone else's rights)

   B. honesty and strong moral principles

   C. show off

   D. give displeasure to

2. Hope was over, entirely over; and when Jane could attend to the rest of the letter, she found little, except the professed affection of the writer, that could give her any comfort. Miss Darcy's praise occupied the chief of it. Her many attractions were again dwelt on, and Caroline boasted joyfully of their increasing intimacy, and ventured to predict the accomplishment of the wishes which had been unfolded in her former letter. She wrote also with great pleasure of her brother's being an inmate of Mr. Darcy's house, and mentioned with raptures, some plans of the latter with regard to new furniture.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXIV"?

   A. Self-recognition

   B. Family uproar

   C. Visit to Hunsford

   D. Disappointment and philosophy

SAT key: 1. A (gradually taking over (someone else's rights)); 2. D (Disappointment and philosophy)

Lesson 26: Chapter XXV

Focus: trusted relatives

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

The Gardiners, Mrs. Bennet's sensible brother and his wife, visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner warns Elizabeth not to fall for Wickham, who lacks fortune, and invites Jane to London.

Background: The Gardiners live in Cheapside, a merchant area looked down on by the Bingley sisters.

Significance: The Gardiners show that good sense and manners are not tied to rank.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: ablution — a ritual washing of the body; reanimated — brought back to life or strength; revived; incivility — rudeness; combated — battle or contend against in or as if in a battle; hackneyed — repeated too often; overfamiliar through overuse. “ablution”: From Middle English ablucioun "cleansing of impurities", from Old French ablution, and its source, Late Latin ablūtiō "a washing away", from abluō "wash away", from ab + lavō. “reanimated”: From re- + animate. “incivility”: From Middle French incivilité, from Late Latin incivilitas "incivility", from Latin incivilis "impolite, uncivil", from in- + civilis "belonging to a citizen, civic, political, urbane, courteous, civil" (from civis "a citizen"), equivalent to in + civility.
Words: ablution: a ritual washing of the body · reanimated: brought back to life or strength; revived · incivility: rudeness · combated: battle or contend against in or as if in a battle · hackneyed: repeated too often; overfamiliar through overuse

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

The Gardiners live in Cheapside, a merchant area looked down on by the Bingley sisters. The Gardiners show that good sense and manners are not tied to rank. Characterization: The Gardiners visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner listens to Mrs. Bennet's grievances, invites Jane to London, and notices Elizabeth's interest in Wickham; her warning follows in the next chapter. Characterization: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “cousins health and happiness again, and promised their father another letter of thanks” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2). Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. That is characterization at work: The Gardiners visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner listens to Mrs. Bennet's grievances, invites Jane to London, and notices Elizabeth's interest in Wickham; her warning follows in the next chapter.

> Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education
> (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2). Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. That is characterization at work: The Gardiners visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner listens to Mrs. Bennet's grievances, invites Jane to London, and notices Elizabeth's interest in Wickham; her warning follows in the next chapter.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Look at the craft: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. (Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.)

> We do not suffer by accident (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Look at the craft: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. (Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about trusted relatives? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXV develops the idea of trusted relatives. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. When the text says "Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education" (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Mr. Gardiner is "a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister," though he lives by trade, and his wife gives Elizabeth the wisest advice in the chapter.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about trusted relatives? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXV develops the idea of trusted relatives. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. When the text says "Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education" (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Mr. Gardiner is "a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister," though he lives by trade, and his wife gives Elizabeth the wisest advice in the chapter.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections? Ask students to predict how Darcy will treat the Gardiners if they meet.
Anchor question: Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections?
Facilitation: Ask students to predict how Darcy will treat the Gardiners if they meet.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about trusted relatives? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. ("Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education", Chapter XXV, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about trusted relatives? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. ("Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education", Chapter XXV, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes trusted relatives. Key takeaway: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The Gardiners visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner listens to Mrs. Bennet's grievances, invites Jane to London, and notices Elizabeth's interest in Wickham; her warning follows in the next chapter.
- Characterization: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “cousins health and happiness again, and promised their father another letter of thanks” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 1).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “heard Mr. Fitzwilliam Darcy formerly spoken of as a very proud, ill-natured boy” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 20).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2) Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.
- “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7) Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.
- “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13) Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank.
Evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: Mr. Gardiner is "a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister," though he lives by trade, and his wife gives Elizabeth the wisest advice in the chapter.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
ablution (noun)	a ritual washing of the body	Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street, but he would hardly think a month's ablution enough to cleanse him from its impurities, were he once to enter it; and depend upon it, Mr.	"ablution": From Middle English ablucioun "cleansing of impurities", from Old French ablution, and its source, Late Latin ablūtiō "a washing away", from abluō "wash away", from ab + lavō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ablution#Etymology)
reanimated (verb)	brought back to life or strength; revived	It was possible, and sometimes she thought it probable, that his affection might be reanimated, and the influence of his friends successfully combated by the more natural influence of Jane's attractions.	"reanimated": From re- + animate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reanimate#Etymology)
incivility (noun)	rudeness	Is not general incivility the very essence of love?"	"incivility": From Middle French incivilité, from Late Latin incivilitas "incivility", from Latin incivilis "impolite, uncivil", from in- + civilis "belonging to a citizen, civic, political, urbane, courteous, civil" (from civis "a citizen"), equivalent to in + civility. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/incivility#Etymology)
combated (verb)	battle or contend against in or as if in a battle	It was possible, and sometimes she thought it probable, that his affection might be reanimated, and the influence of his friends successfully combated by the more natural influence of Jane's attractions.
hackneyed (adjective)	repeated too often; overfamiliar through overuse	"But that expression of 'violently in love' is so hackneyed, so doubtful, so indefinite, that it gives me very little idea.
warehouses (noun)	a storehouse for goods and merchandise	The Netherfield ladies would have had difficulty in believing that a man who lived by trade, and within view of his own warehouses, could have been so well bred and agreeable.

grievances (noun)	complaints	Bennet had many grievances to relate, and much to complain of.	“grievances”: From Old French grievance, from the verb grever "to irritate; to bother; to annoy" + -ance, equivalent to grieve + -ance. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/grievance#Etymology)
thwarted (verb)	hinder or prevent (the efforts, plans, or desires) of	It makes me very nervous and poorly, to be thwarted so in my own family, and to have neighbours who think of themselves before anybody else.	“thwarted”: From Middle English thwerte, from the adjective thwert "obstinate, perverse", from Old Norse þvert, neuter of þverr "transverse". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/thwart#Etymology)
custody (noun)	care and protection	“And that is quite impossible; for he is now in the custody of his friend, and Mr.
inexhaustible (adjective)	that cannot be entirely consumed or used up	Here consequently was an inexhaustible subject of discourse.

Discussion questions

1. Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who are the Gardiners? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Bennet's brother and his wife
2. What does Mrs. Gardiner warn Elizabeth about? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Falling for Wickham
3. Where do the Gardiners live? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Cheapside in London
4. Who goes to London with them? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane
5. What do the Gardiners show about class? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Good sense is not tied to rank

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Gardiners, Mrs. Bennet's sensible brother and his wife, visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner warns Elizabeth not to fall for Wickham, who lacks fortune, and invites Jane to London.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street, but he would hardly think a month’s ablution enough to cleanse him from its impurities, were he once to enter it; and depend upon it, Mr.” What does “ablution” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: ablution: a ritual washing of the body.
10. Reread: “It was possible, and sometimes she thought it probable, that his affection might be reanimated, and the influence of his friends successfully combated by the more natural influence of Jane’s attractions.” What does “reanimated” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: reanimated: brought back to life or strength; revived.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXV” suggest about trusted relatives? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The Gardiners show that good sense and manners are not tied to rank.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the setting in this chapter shape what we understand about trusted relatives? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2): Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “On the following Monday, Mrs.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The Gardiners, Mrs. Bennet's sensible brother and his wife, visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner warns Elizabeth not to fall for Wickham, who lacks fortune, and invites Jane to London.
6. How does “Chapter XXV” build on “Chapter XXIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7):

Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13): Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London. On characterization: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why are the Gardiners important despite their 'low' connections?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2): Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The Gardiners live in Cheapside, a merchant area looked down on by the Bingley sisters. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The Gardiners show that good sense and manners are not tied to rank.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13): Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2): Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. On characterization: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about trusted relatives? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13): Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2): Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. On characterization: Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXV” treats trusted relatives with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13): Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXVI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2): Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about trusted relatives? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7): Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13): Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXV, paragraph 2: “Gardiner was a sensible, _____-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education”

   Key: gentleman

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do the Gardiners show about class?

   A. Good sense is not tied to rank
   B. Money is everything
   C. Merchants are foolish
   D. Rank guarantees virtue

   Key: A (Good sense is not tied to rank)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Is not general incivility the very essence of love?””, what does “incivility” most nearly mean?

   A. a speech or piece of writing full of praise
   B. the glass panes in windows
   C. rudeness
   D. lack of worry or interest

   Key: C (rudeness)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who are the Gardiners?

   A. Mrs. Bennet's brother and his wife
   B. Darcy's cousins
   C. Neighbors
   D. Collins's parents

   Key: A (Mrs. Bennet's brother and his wife)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was possible, and sometimes she thought it probable, that his affection might be reanimated, and the influence of his friends successfully combated by the more natural influence of Jane’s attractions.”, what does “reanimated” most nearly mean?

   A. uncertain; not fixed
   B. brought back to life or strength; revived
   C. giving offense to moral sensibilities and injurious to reputation
   D. very strong; impossible to resist

   Key: B (brought back to life or strength; revived)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXV, paragraph 13: “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as _____ Street”

   Key: Gracechurch

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““But that expression of ‘violently in love’ is so _____, so doubtful, so indefinite, that it gives me very little idea.” Word bank: hackneyed, reanimated, incivility, ablution

   Key: hackneyed

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was possible, and sometimes she thought it probable, that his affection might be reanimated, and the influence of his friends successfully combated by the more natural influence of Jane’s attractions.”, what does “combated” most nearly mean?
   - A. picked out; chose
   - B. extremely happy
   - C. battle or contend against in or as if in a battle
   - D. gentleness

   Key: C (battle or contend against in or as if in a battle)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street, but he would hardly think a month’s ablution enough to cleanse him from its impurities, were he once to enter it; and depend upon it, Mr.”, what does “ablution” most nearly mean?
   - A. having incalculable monetary, intellectual, or spiritual worth
   - B. too bold; taking liberties
   - C. smiled in a silly, self-conscious way
   - D. a ritual washing of the body

   Key: D (a ritual washing of the body)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXV”?
    - A. A ridiculous proposal
    - B. Bingley returns
    - C. Pemberley
    - D. Trusted relatives

    Key: D (Trusted relatives)
11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2)
    - A. Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
    - B. Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.
    - C. Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.
    - D. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.

    Key: C (Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7)
    - A. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.
    - B. Miss Bingley's checklist.
    - C. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

D. Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.

Key: D (Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXV”? The Gardiners visit for Christmas. Mrs. Gardiner listens to Mrs. Bennet's grievances, invites Jane to London, and notices Elizabeth's interest in Wickham; her warning follows in the next chapter.

A. Irony
B. Characterization
C. Tone / mood
D. Symbolism

Key: B (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do the Gardiners live?

A. Kent
B. Derbyshire
C. Cheapside in London
D. Bath

Key: C (Cheapside in London)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who goes to London with them?

A. Lydia
B. Elizabeth
C. Mary
D. Jane

Key: D (Jane)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mrs. Gardiner warn Elizabeth about?

A. Darcy
B. Collins
C. Travel
D. Falling for Wickham

Key: D (Falling for Wickham)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It makes me very nervous and poorly, to be _____ so in my own family, and to have neighbours who think of themselves before anybody else.” Word bank: incivility, thwarted, reanimated, ablution

Key: thwarted

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Class is not character: a man in trade is a gentleman in manners.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic.

    A. Pride and self-knowledge
    B. First impressions and prejudice
    C. Class and social mobility
    D. Marriage and money

    Key: D (Marriage and money)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “We do not suffer by accident” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The Netherfield ladies would have had difficulty in believing that a man who lived by trade, and within view of his own _____, could have been so well bred and agreeable.” Word bank: incivility, ablution, warehouses, reanimated

    Key: warehouses

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXV, paragraph 7: “We do not suffer by _____”

    Key: accident

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet had many _____ to relate, and much to complain of.” Word bank: ablution, incivility, reanimated, grievances

    Key: grievances

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Darcy may perhaps have heard of such a place as Gracechurch Street” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 13)

    A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    B. Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.
    C. Proposal opening.
    D. Elizabeth's realization comes too late.

    Key: B (Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.)

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education” (Chapter XXV, paragraph 2).

    Sample answer: Mr. Gardiner is "a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister," though he lives by trade, and his wife gives Elizabeth the wisest advice in the chapter.

29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXV”? Mr. Gardiner, a tradesman, is sensible and well-bred: a contrast with the snobbery of Darcy's circle.

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Theme
    C. Personification

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXV". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's advice is prudent rather than romantic.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "The Gardiners show that good sense and good manners do not depend on rank." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Mr. Gardiner is "a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister," though he lives by trade, and his wife gives Elizabeth the wisest advice in the chapter.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	7, 17, 18, 19, 3, 2, 9, 20, 10, 13, 21, 11, 15, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	7, 18, 24, 3, 25, 26, 11, 27, 21, 13, 10, 28, 29, 22, 23, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 7, 9, 24, 25, 21, 13, 27, 12, 10, 15, 14, 28, 22, 30, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 20, 26, 7, 21, 13, 12, 27, 11, 15, 28, 29, 14, 16, 23, 31	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	26, 8, 6, 21, 11, 13, 27, 28, 22, 15, 14, 29, 30, 16, 23, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	7, 24, 2, 13, 27, 10, 21, 15, 28, 29, 14, 22, 23, 30, 31, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	7, 24, 21, 11, 13, 27, 12, 15, 29, 22, 14, 28, 16, 23, 31, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	7, 24, 27, 10, 21, 12, 13, 28, 22, 29, 15, 14, 23, 31, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 24, 13, 11, 10, 27, 12, 15, 28, 22, 14, 29, 23, 30, 31, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	7, 24, 21, 11, 12, 27, 13, 28, 22, 15, 14, 29, 23, 16, 31, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XXV," how does Austen show trusted relatives? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXV, how does Austen develop the idea of trusted relatives? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXV develops the idea of trusted relatives. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of trusted relatives. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXV suggests about trusted relatives. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXV to complicate the reader's understanding of trusted relatives. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of trusted relatives responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of trusted relatives follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXV and its treatment of trusted relatives. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXV as evidence for a larger claim about trusted relatives in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of trusted relatives. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Is not general incivility the very essence of love?”

   As used in the text, what does the word “incivility” most nearly mean?

   A. care and protection
   B. that cannot be entirely consumed or used up
   C. rudeness
   D. hinder or prevent (the efforts, plans, or desires) of

2. On the following Monday, Mrs. Bennet had the pleasure of receiving her brother and his wife, who came as usual to spend the Christmas at Longbourn. Mr. Gardiner was a sensible, gentleman-like man, greatly superior to his sister, as well by nature as education. The Netherfield ladies would have had difficulty in believing that a man who lived by trade, and within view of his own warehouses, could have been so well bred and agreeable. Mrs. Gardiner, who was several years younger than Mrs. Bennet and Mrs. Philips, was an amiable, intelligent, elegant woman, and a great favourite with all her Longbourn nieces. Between the two eldest and herself especially, there subsisted a very particular regard. They had frequently been staying with her in town.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXV”?

   A. Strategy in courtship
   B. An unhappy marriage observed
   C. Cold reception
   D. Trusted relatives

SAT key: 1. C (rudeness); 2. D (Trusted relatives)

Lesson 27: Chapter XXVI

Focus: cold reception

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

In London, Jane calls on Caroline, who receives her coldly and visits late. Jane finally admits Caroline's insincerity. Wickham's attention shifts to Miss King, who has inherited money.

Background: Return visits were social signals; delay meant rejection.

Significance: Wickham's quick switch to an heiress hints at his true motives.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Jane learns to judge.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: defection — leaving one person or side for another; relinquish — to give up; resented — felt angry about; abundantly — in an abundant manner; involve — to draw into (a difficult situation). “defection”: From Latin dēfectiō (stem dēfectiōn-). “relinquish”: From Latin relinquere "to leave behind," from re- "back" + linquere "to leave." “resented”: From Middle French ressentir, resentir, from Old French resentir (Modern ressentir), from re- + sentir "to feel". “abundantly”: From Middle English abundantly, abundauntli, habundantly, habundauntliche, equivalent to abundant + -ly.
> Words: defection: leaving one person or side for another · relinquish: to give up · resented: felt angry about · abundantly: in an abundant manner · involve: to draw into (a difficult situation)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Return visits were social signals; delay meant rejection. Wickham's quick switch to an heiress hints at his true motives. Characterization: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived. Epistolary: The chapter uses Jane's letter to report events from London. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "and obliging. It was Mr. Collins's picture of Hunsford and Rosings rationally softened; and Elizabeth perceived that she must wait for her" (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 19).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am sure I should be deceived again" (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26). Jane's honesty. That is characterization at work: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived.

> I am sure I should be deceived again (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am sure I should be deceived again" (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26). Jane's honesty. That is characterization at work: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Jane admits her error. Look at the craft: The chapter uses Jane's letter to report events from London. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Jane learns to judge. (Jane admits her error.)

> My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Jane admits her error. Look at the craft: The chapter uses Jane's letter to report events from London.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Jane learns to judge. (Jane admits her error.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, epistolary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about cold reception? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVI develops the idea of cold reception. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. When the text says “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. She confesses "myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me," but asks Lizzy not to triumph, keeping charity even in disappointment.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, epistolary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about cold reception? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVI develops the idea of cold reception. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. When the text says “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. She confesses "myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me," but asks Lizzy not to triumph, keeping charity even in disappointment.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him? Ask: what is Wickham's interest in Miss King? What does it reveal?

Anchor question: What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him?

Facilitation: Ask: what is Wickham's interest in Miss King? What does it reveal?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about cold reception? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. (“My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss”, Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about cold reception? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. (“My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss”, Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes cold reception. Key takeaway: Jane learns to judge.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived.
- Epistolary: The chapter uses Jane's letter to report events from London.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Jane learns to judge.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “and obliging. It was Mr. Collins’s picture of Hunsford and Rosings rationally softened; and Elizabeth perceived that she must wait for her” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 19).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “of what had been, rather than what was. Charlotte’s first letters were received with a good deal of eagerness; there could not” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 19).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) Jane's honesty.

- “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) Jane admits her error.
- “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29) Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter.
Evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26)
Reasoning: She confesses "myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me," but asks Lizzy not to triumph, keeping charity even in disappointment.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
defection (noun)	leaving one person or side for another	Kitty and Lydia take his defection much more to heart than I do.	“defection”: From Latin dēfectiō (stem dēfectiōn-). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/defection#Etymology)
relinquish (verb)	to give up	Nothing, on the contrary, could be more natural; and while able to suppose that it cost him a few struggles to relinquish her, she was ready to allow it a wise and desirable measure for both, and could very sincerely wish him happy.	“relinquish”: From Latin relinquere "to leave behind," from re- "back" + linquere "to leave." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/relinquish)
resented (verb)	felt angry about	Her aunt assured her that she was; and Elizabeth having thanked her for the kindness of her hints, they parted; a wonderful instance of advice being given on such a point, without being resented.	“resented”: From Middle French ressentir, resentir, from Old French resentir (Modern ressentir), from re- + sentir "to feel". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/resent#Etymology)
abundantly (adverb)	in an abundant manner	Darcy’s sister, as, by Wickham’s account, she would make him abundantly regret what he had thrown away.	“abundantly”: From Middle English abundantly, abundauntli, habundantly, habundauntliche, equivalent to abundant + -ly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/abundantly#Etymology) involve (verb)	to draw into (a difficult situation)	Do not involve yourself, or endeavour to involve him in an affection which the want of fortune would make so very imprudent.

subsided (verb)	wear off or die down	His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else.	“subsided”: From Latin subsīdō "to settle, subside". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/subside#Etymology) struggles (noun)	an energetic attempt to achieve something	Nothing, on the contrary, could be more natural; and while able to suppose that it cost him a few struggles to relinquish her, she was ready to allow it a wise and desirable measure for both, and could very sincerely wish him happy.
reproached (verb)	express criticism towards	“I did not think Caroline in spirits,” were her words, “but she was very glad to see me, and reproached me for giving her no notice of my coming to London.
rewarded (verb)	given something good in return	Her impatience for this second letter was as well rewarded as impatience generally is.
bridegroom (noun)	a man who has recently been married	The wedding took place; the bride and bridegroom set off for Kent from the church door, and everybody had as much to say or to hear on the subject as usual.

Discussion questions

1. What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Caroline treat Jane in London? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Coldly
2. What does Jane finally realize? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Caroline was insincere

3. Whom does Wickham now pursue? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Miss King, an heiress
4. Why is Miss King attractive to Wickham? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She has inherited money
5. How does Elizabeth take Wickham's switch? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Calmly, without heartbreak
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXVI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: In London, Jane calls on Caroline, who receives her coldly and visits late. Jane finally admits Caroline's insincerity. Wickham's attention shifts to Miss King, who has inherited money.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXVI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXVI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Kitty and Lydia take his defection much more to heart than I do." What does "defection" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: defection: leaving one person or side for another.
10. Reread: "Nothing, on the contrary, could be more natural; and while able to suppose that it cost him a few struggles to relinquish her, she was ready to allow it a wise and desirable measure for both, and could very sincerely..." What does "relinquish" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: relinquish: to give up.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XXVI" suggest about cold reception? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Wickham's quick switch to an heiress hints at his true motives.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about cold reception? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: "I am sure I should be deceived again" (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane's honesty. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ""You are too sensible a girl, Lizzy, to fall in love merely because you are warned against it; and, therefore, I am not afraid of speaking openly.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XXVI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: In London, Jane calls on Caroline, who receives her coldly and visits late. Jane finally admits Caroline's insincerity. Wickham's attention shifts to Miss King, who has inherited money.

6. How does “Chapter XXVI” build on “Chapter XXV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane admits her error. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29): Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King. On characterization: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does Wickham's interest in Miss King suggest about him?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane's honesty. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Return visits were social signals; delay meant rejection. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane admits her error. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Wickham's quick switch to an heiress hints at his true motives.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29): Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane's honesty. On characterization: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about cold reception? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane admits her error. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29): Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane's honesty. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane admits her error. On characterization: Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXVI” treats cold reception with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29): Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane's honesty. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about cold reception? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26): Jane admits her error. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Useful evidence: “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29): Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King. Theme link: Jane learns to judge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Kitty and Lydia take his defection much more to heart than I do.”, what does “defection” most nearly mean?
   A. make unwilling
   B. cleverness in keeping something secret
   C. leaving one person or side for another
   D. became known

   Key: C (leaving one person or side for another)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth take Wickham's switch?
   A. She challenges Miss King
   B. With fury
   C. With tears
   D. Calmly, without heartbreak

   Key: D (Calmly, without heartbreak)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy’s sister, as, by Wickham’s account, she would make him abundantly regret what he had thrown away.”, what does “abundantly” most nearly mean?
   A. frightening; alarming
   B. replaced; pushed aside
   C. changing
   D. in an abundant manner

   Key: D (in an abundant manner)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why is Miss King attractive to Wickham?
   A. She has inherited money
   B. She is a duchess
   C. She is related to Darcy
   D. She is beautiful

   Key: A (She has inherited money)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her aunt assured her that she was; and Elizabeth having thanked her for the kindness of her hints, they parted; a wonderful instance of advice being given on such a point, without being resented.”, what does “resented” most nearly mean?
   A. send away towards a designated goal
   B. cause to be slowed down or delayed
   C. realize beforehand
   D. felt angry about

   Key: D (felt angry about)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““I did not think Caroline in spirits,” were her words, “but she was very glad to see me, and _____ me for giving her no notice of my coming to London.” Word bank: relinquish, reproached, resented, defection

   Key: reproached

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29: “His apparent _____ had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else”

   Key: partiality

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Do not _____ yourself, or endeavour to involve him in an affection which the want of fortune would make so very imprudent.” Word bank: resented, relinquish, involve, defection

   Key: involve

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His apparent partiality had _____, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else.” Word bank: relinquish, defection, subsided, resented

   Key: subsided

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane's honesty.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29)

    A. Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
    B. Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.
    C. Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.
    D. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

    Key: C (Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane admits her error.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXVI”?

    A. Cold reception
    B. Family dynamics and anticipation
    C. Renewed hope
    D. Scandal

    Key: A (Cold reception)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “His apparent partiality had subsided, his attentions were over, he was the admirer of someone else” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVI”? Jane in London is coldly received by Caroline Bingley; her letter admits she was deceived.

    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Allusion
    C. Foreshadowing

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Jane admits her error.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Jane finally realize?

A. Caroline was insincere
B. She is ill
C. Darcy loves her
D. Bingley is married

Key: A (Caroline was insincere)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Wickham now pursue?

A. Lydia
B. Charlotte
C. Miss King, an heiress
D. Elizabeth

Key: C (Miss King, an heiress)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Nothing, on the contrary, could be more natural; and while able to suppose that it cost him a few struggles to relinquish her, she was ready to allow it a wise and desirable measure for both, and could very sincerely…”, what does “relinquish” most nearly mean?

A. to lower oneself to do something
B. an abrupt excited utterance
C. to give up
D. getting involved in other people's affairs

Key: C (to give up)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am sure I should be deceived again” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26)

A. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
B. Collins's comic emotion.
C. Jane's honesty.
D. Jane's charitable hope.

Key: C (Jane's honesty.)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26)

A. Comic speed: marriage as a choice among interchangeable daughters.
B. Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.
C. Jane admits her error.

D. Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.

Key: C (Jane admits her error.)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of triumphing in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me” (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26).

Sample answer: She confesses "myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me," but asks Lizzy not to triumph, keeping charity even in disappointment.

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVI”? The chapter uses Jane's letter to report events from London.

A. Epistolary

B. Imagery

C. Simile

D. Setting

Key: A (Epistolary)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXVI”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Jane learns to judge.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Jane's letter shows a generous judge learning to see faults without becoming bitter.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: She confesses "myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley's regard for me," but asks Lizzy not to triumph, keeping charity even in disappointment.

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Nothing, on the contrary, could be more natural; and while able to suppose that it cost him a few _____ to relinquish her, she was ready to allow it a wise and desirable measure for both, and could very sincerely wish him happy.” Word bank: struggles, relinquish, resented, defection

Key: struggles

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26: “I am sure I should be _____ again”

Key: deceived

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26: “My dearest Lizzy will, I am sure, be incapable of _____ in her better judgment, at my expense, when I confess myself to have been entirely deceived in Miss Bingley’s regard for me”

Key: triumphing

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Caroline treat Jane in London?

A. Coldly

B. She introduces her to Bingley

C. She invites her to live with them

D. Warmly

Key: A (Coldly)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I am sure I should be deceived again" (Chapter XXVI, paragraph 26) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Jane's honesty.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 5, 7, 4, 6, 18, 19, 9, 20, 10, 12, 21, 15, 14, 22, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 8, 17, 5, 2, 4, 13, 12, 11, 20, 21, 14, 15, 23, 24, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 1, 27, 3, 9, 13, 20, 11, 10, 21, 22, 15, 23, 14, 25, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 6, 3, 28, 20, 21, 13, 10, 12, 15, 22, 23, 14, 16, 25, 24	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 9, 29, 21, 20, 10, 12, 13, 14, 23, 15, 22, 30, 16, 25, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	27, 8, 5, 12, 10, 20, 21, 11, 14, 23, 15, 22, 24, 16, 30, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 8, 10, 20, 21, 11, 12, 13, 14, 22, 23, 15, 25, 16, 30, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	8, 9, 11, 13, 20, 12, 10, 21, 23, 14, 15, 22, 25, 30, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	8, 9, 11, 20, 12, 13, 10, 21, 23, 15, 14, 22, 24, 30, 16, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	8, 26, 21, 13, 10, 12, 11, 20, 22, 15, 14, 23, 30, 16, 24, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XXVI," how does Austen show cold reception? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXVI, how does Austen develop the idea of cold reception? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXVI develops the idea of cold reception. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of cold reception. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXVI suggests about cold reception. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXVI to complicate the reader's understanding of cold reception. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of cold reception responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of cold reception follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXVI and its treatment of cold reception. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXVI as evidence for a larger claim about cold reception in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of cold reception. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Her aunt assured her that she was; and Elizabeth having thanked her for the kindness of her hints, they parted; a wonderful instance of advice being given on such a point, without being resented.

As used in the text, what does the word “resented” most nearly mean?

A. a man who has recently been married
B. express criticism towards
C. felt angry about
D. given something good in return

2. "You are too sensible a girl, Lizzy, to fall in love merely because you are warned against it; and, therefore, I am not afraid of speaking openly. Seriously, I would have you be on your guard. Do not involve yourself, or endeavour to involve him in an affection which the want of fortune would make so very imprudent. I have nothing to say against him; he is a most interesting young man; and if he had the fortune he ought to have, I should think you could not do better. But as it is—you must not let your fancy run away with you. You have sense, and we all expect you to use it. Your father would depend on your resolution and good conduct, I am sure. You must not disappoint your father."

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXVI"?

A. Cold reception
B. Character flaws examined
C. A changed Darcy
D. A disastrous ball

SAT key: 1. C (felt angry about); 2. A (Cold reception)

Lesson 28: Chapter XXVII

Focus: a journey and a mercenary suitor

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXVII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth sets out for Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas, stopping in London with the Gardiners. Discussing Wickham's pursuit of Miss King, Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner debate the line between prudence and greed. The Gardiners invite Elizabeth on a summer tour.

Background: Travel by post-chaise required overnight stops; families relied on relatives in town.

Significance: The debate about 'mercenary' versus 'prudent' motives sharpens the theme of marriage and money.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed?

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: jumbled — mixed up in a confused way; objecting — saying that one disagrees; diversified — varied; rallied — teased good-humoredly; mercenary — interested only in money. “jumbled”: From Middle English jumbelen, alteration of jumbren, jombren, a variant of jumpren, frequentative of jumpen "to jump", equal to jump + le. More at jumber, jump, jumper. “diversified”: Middle French diversifier, equivalent to diverse + -ify. “rallied”: From Middle French rallier (French rallier), from Old French ralier, from Latin - prefix re- + ad + ligare "to bind; to ally". “mercenary”: From Middle English mercenarye "someone paid to work, hireling", from Latin mercēnārius "hired for money", from mercēs "reward, wages, price".
Words: jumbled: mixed up in a confused way · objecting: saying that one disagrees · diversified: varied · rallied: teased good-humoredly · mercenary: interested only in money

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Travel by post-chaise required overnight stops; families relied on relatives in town. The debate about 'mercenary' versus 'prudent' motives sharpens the theme of marriage and money. Characterization: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others. Irony: Elizabeth's double standard: what is "mercenary" in one person is "prudent" in another. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "so little liked her going, that he told her to write to him, and almost promised to answer her letter" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Where does discretion end, and avarice begin" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9). Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others.

> Where does discretion end, and avarice begin (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Where does discretion end, and avarice begin" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9). Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Mercenary" means for money; "prudent" means sensible. The words describe the same act with different judgment. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? (Elizabeth's own question.)

> what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Mercenary" means for money; "prudent" means sensible. The words describe the same act with different judgment.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? (Elizabeth's own question.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a journey and a mercenary suitor? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVII develops the idea of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. When the text says "what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9), it shows this directly. She asks what is "the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive," but excuses Wickham's pursuit of Miss King while condemning Charlotte for the same calculation.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a journey and a mercenary suitor? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVII develops the idea of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. When the text says "what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9), it shows this directly. She asks what is "the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive," but excuses Wickham's pursuit of Miss King while condemning Charlotte for the same calculation.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one? Ask: is Elizabeth fair to Charlotte? Use her Wickham defense as evidence.

Anchor question: Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one?

Facilitation: Ask: is Elizabeth fair to Charlotte? Use her Wickham defense as evidence.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a journey and a mercenary suitor? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. ("what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive", Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a journey and a mercenary suitor? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. ("what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive", Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes a journey and a mercenary suitor. Key takeaway: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed?

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others.
- Irony: Elizabeth's double standard: what is "mercenary" in one person is "prudent" in another.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed?

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “so little liked her going, that he told her to write to him, and almost promised to answer her letter” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 2).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “sincere regard; and she parted from him convinced, that whether married or single, he must always be her model of the amiable” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) Elizabeth's own question.
- “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
- “Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19) Elizabeth's sarcasm.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte.
Evidence: “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9)
Reasoning: She asks what is "the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive," but excuses Wickham's pursuit of Miss King while condemning Charlotte for the same calculation.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
jumbled (verb)	mixed up in a confused way	Lakes, mountains, and rivers, shall not be jumbled together in our imaginations; nor, when we attempt to describe any particular scene, will we begin quarrelling about its relative situation.	"jumbled": From Middle English jumbelen, alteration of jumbren, jombren, a variant of jumpren, frequentative of jumpen "to jump", equal to jump + le. More at jumber, jump, jumper. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/jumble#Etymology)
objecting (verb)	saying that one disagrees	"Her not objecting, does not justify him.
diversified (verb)	varied	With no greater events than these in the Longbourn family, and otherwise diversified by little beyond the walks to Meryton, sometimes dirty and sometimes cold, did January and February pass away.	"diversified": Middle French diversifier, equivalent to diverse + -ify. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/diversify#Etymology)
rallied (verb)	teased good-humoredly	Gardiner then rallied her niece on Wickham's desertion, and complimented her on bearing it so well.	"rallied": From Middle French rallier (French rallier), from Old French ralier, from Latin - prefix re- + ad + ligare "to bind; to ally". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/rally#Etymology)
mercenary (adjective)	interested only in money	I should be sorry to think our friend mercenary."	"mercenary": From Middle English mercenarye "someone paid to work, hireling", from Latin mercēnārius "hired for money", from mercēs "reward, wages, price". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mercenary#Etymology) shyness (noun)	a feeling of fear of embarrassment	On the stairs were a troop of little boys and girls, whose eagerness for their cousin's appearance would not allow them to wait in the drawing-room, and whose shyness, as they had not seen her for a twelvemonth, prevented their coming lower.
theatres (noun)	a building where theatrical performances or	The day passed most pleasantly away; the morning in bustle and shopping, and the evening at one of the theatres.

	motion-picture shows can be presented weakened (verb)	lessen the strength of	Absence had increased her desire of seeing Charlotte again, and weakened her disgust of Mr.
transport (noun)	a strong feeling of joy	Oh! what hours of transport we shall spend!
accurate (adjective)	conforming exactly or almost exactly to fact or to a standard or performing with total accuracy	And when we do return, it shall not be like other travellers, without being able to give one accurate idea of anything.

Discussion questions

1. Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does Elizabeth stop on the way to Hunsford? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: London, with the Gardiners
2. Who travels with her? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Sir William and Maria Lucas
3. What do Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner debate? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Whether Wickham is prudent or mercenary
4. What do the Gardiners invite Elizabeth to? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A summer pleasure tour
5. How does Elizabeth speak of men after this? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: With weary mock cynicism
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXVII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth sets out for Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas, stopping in London with the Gardiners. Discussing Wickham's pursuit of Miss King, Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner debate the line between prudence and greed. The Gardiners invite Elizabeth on a summer tour.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXVII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXVII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Lakes, mountains, and rivers, shall not be jumbled together in our imaginations; nor, when we attempt to describe any particular scene, will we begin quarrelling about its relative situation.” What does “jumbled” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: jumbled: mixed up in a confused way.
10. Reread: ““Her not objecting, does not justify him.” What does “objecting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: objecting: saying that one disagrees.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXVII” suggest about a journey and a mercenary suitor? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The debate about 'mercenary' versus 'prudent' motives sharpens the theme of marriage and money.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about a journey and a mercenary suitor? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Elizabeth's own question. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “It was a journey of only twenty-four miles, and they began it so early as to be in Gracechurch-street by noon.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXVII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth sets out for Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas, stopping in London with the Gardiners. Discussing Wickham's pursuit of Miss King, Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner debate the line between prudence and greed. The Gardiners invite Elizabeth on a summer tour.
6. How does “Chapter XXVII” build on “Chapter XXVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's sarcasm. On characterization: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Where is the line between a prudent marriage and a mercenary one?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Elizabeth's own question. On irony: Elizabeth's double standard: what is "mercenary" in one person is "prudent" in another. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Travel by post-chaise required overnight stops; families relied on relatives in town. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The debate about 'mercenary' versus 'prudent' motives sharpens the theme of marriage and money.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's sarcasm. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Elizabeth's own question. On characterization: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XXVII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a journey and a mercenary suitor? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Where does discretion end, and avarice begin" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter XXVII": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's sarcasm. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Elizabeth's own question. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Where does discretion end, and avarice begin" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. On characterization: Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter XXVII" treats a journey and a mercenary suitor with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's sarcasm. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what "Chapter XXVIII" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Elizabeth's own question. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a journey and a mercenary suitor? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Where does discretion end, and avarice begin" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9): Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Useful evidence: "Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all" (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's sarcasm. Theme link: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Lakes, mountains, and rivers, shall not be jumbled together in our imaginations; nor, when we attempt to describe any particular scene, will we begin quarrelling about its relative situation.", what does "jumbled" most nearly mean?

   A. regard highly; think much of

   B. mixed up in a confused way

   C. remove something concrete, as by lifting, pushing, or taking off, or remove something abstract

   D. utter aloud; often with surprise, horror, or joy

   Key: B (mixed up in a confused way)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19: “Stupid men are the only ones worth _____, after all”

   Key: knowing

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Absence had increased her desire of seeing Charlotte again, and _____ her disgust of Mr.” Word bank: objecting, diversified, jumbled, weakened

   Key: weakened

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9: “what is the difference in _____ affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive”

   Key: matrimonial

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The day passed most pleasantly away; the morning in bustle and shopping, and the evening at one of the _____.” Word bank: diversified, objecting, theatres, jumbled

   Key: theatres

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I should be sorry to think our friend _____.”” Word bank: diversified, jumbled, objecting, mercenary

   Key: mercenary

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do the Gardiners invite Elizabeth to?

   A. A summer pleasure tour
   B. A season in Bath
   C. A ball
   D. A wedding

   Key: A (A summer pleasure tour)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “On the stairs were a troop of little boys and girls, whose eagerness for their cousin’s appearance would not allow them to wait in the drawing-room, and whose _____, as they had not seen her for a twelvemonth, prevented their coming lower.” Word bank: shyness, diversified, jumbled, objecting

   Key: shyness

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Her not objecting, does not justify him.”, what does “objecting” most nearly mean?

   A. saying that one disagrees
   B. agreed; were the same
   C. having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly
   D. become part of; become a member of a group or organization

   Key: A (saying that one disagrees)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXVII”?

    A. Too late
    B. Departure and relief
    C. Leaving Kent
    D. A journey and a mercenary suitor

    Key: D (A journey and a mercenary suitor)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9)
    A. The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
    B. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.
    C. Jane's charitable hope.
    D. Elizabeth's own question.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's own question.)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19)
    A. Why Mr. Bennet married.
    B. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.
    C. The narrator's verdict.
    D. Elizabeth's sarcasm.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's sarcasm.)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9)
    A. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
    B. Jane's honesty.
    C. Mr. Bennet's philosophy.
    D. The revelation.

    Key: A (Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVII”? Elizabeth travels to Hunsford with Sir William and Maria Lucas; she excuses Wickham's pursuit of an heiress, while condemning similar motives in others.
    A. Plot
    B. Alliteration
    C. Characterization
    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: C (Characterization)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Stupid men are the only ones worth knowing, after all” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 19). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's sarcasm.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She asks what is "the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive," but excuses Wickham's pursuit of Miss King while condemning Charlotte for the same calculation.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who travels with her?
    A. Jane and Bingley
    B. Lydia

C. Mr. Collins
D. Sir William and Maria Lucas

Key: D (Sir William and Maria Lucas)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth speak of men after this?

A. With silence
B. With fear
C. With joy
D. With weary mock cynicism

Key: D (With weary mock cynicism)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner debate?

A. Charlotte's house
B. Whether Wickham is prudent or mercenary
C. Lydia's manners
D. Darcy's pride

Key: B (Whether Wickham is prudent or mercenary)

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Elizabeth's own question.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed?

A. Pride and self-knowledge
B. Marriage and money
C. Class and social mobility
D. First impressions and prejudice

Key: B (Marriage and money)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Where does discretion end, and avarice begin” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Gardiner then rallied her niece on Wickham’s desertion, and complimented her on bearing it so well.”, what does “rallied” most nearly mean?

A. propriety in manners and conduct
B. people living in the same house
C. teased good-humoredly
D. provide physical relief, as from pain

Key: C (teased good-humoredly)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where does Elizabeth stop on the way to Hunsford?
    - A. Pemberley
    - B. London, with the Gardiners
    - C. Brighton
    - D. Bath

    Key: B (London, with the Gardiners)
26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth applies one standard to Wickham and another to Charlotte. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9).

    Sample answer: She asks what is "the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive," but excuses Wickham's pursuit of Miss King while condemning Charlotte for the same calculation.
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “what is the difference in matrimonial affairs, between the mercenary and the prudent motive” (Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's own question.
28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVII, paragraph 9: “Where does _____ end, and avarice begin”

    Key: discretion
29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVII”? Elizabeth's double standard: what is "mercenary" in one person is "prudent" in another.
    - A. Characterization
    - B. Theme
    - C. Diction / vocabulary
    - D. Irony

    Key: D (Irony)
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXVII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner asks the key question: what is the difference between prudence and greed?

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 7, 8, 1, 9, 18, 5, 19, 10, 20, 11, 21, 15, 22, 14, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 8, 25, 6, 1, 9, 13, 10, 20, 11, 12, 15, 26, 14, 27, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	5, 7, 24, 18, 28, 20, 21, 10, 11, 12, 26, 22, 15, 29, 16, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 2, 9, 24, 11, 13, 12, 20, 21, 22, 14, 26, 29, 30, 27, 23	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 8, 9, 12, 21, 13, 20, 14, 15, 22, 26, 29, 23, 30, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4

College Freshman	6, 8, 18, 20, 21, 13, 11, 14, 15, 29, 22, 26, 23, 16, 30, 27	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 28, 11, 13, 21, 20, 12, 22, 26, 15, 29, 14, 16, 30, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	2, 8, 11, 10, 20, 12, 21, 15, 26, 29, 14, 22, 27, 16, 30, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	6, 8, 21, 13, 10, 11, 12, 26, 29, 14, 15, 22, 27, 23, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	6, 8, 13, 10, 12, 11, 21, 26, 15, 29, 22, 14, 23, 27, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXVII,” how does Austen show a journey and a mercenary suitor? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXVII, how does Austen develop the idea of a journey and a mercenary suitor? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXVII develops the idea of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXVII suggests about a journey and a mercenary suitor. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXVII to complicate the reader's understanding of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a journey and a mercenary suitor responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a journey and a mercenary suitor follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXVII and its treatment of a journey and a mercenary suitor. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXVII as evidence for a larger claim about a journey and a mercenary suitor in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a journey and a mercenary suitor. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. With no greater events than these in the Longbourn family, and otherwise diversified by little beyond the walks to Meryton, sometimes dirty and sometimes cold, did January and February pass away.

   As used in the text, what does the word “diversified” most nearly mean?

   A. conforming exactly or almost exactly to fact or to a standard or performing with total accuracy
   B. lessen the strength of
   C. a strong feeling of joy
   D. varied

2. It was a journey of only twenty-four miles, and they began it so early as to be in Gracechurch-street by noon. As they drove to Mr. Gardiner’s door, Jane was at a drawing-room window watching their arrival; when they entered the passage she was there to welcome them, and Elizabeth, looking earnestly in her face, was pleased to see it healthful and lovely as ever. On the stairs were a troop of little boys and girls, whose eagerness for their cousin’s appearance would not allow them to wait in the drawing-room, and whose shyness, as they had not seen her for a twelvemonth, prevented their coming lower. All was joy and kindness. The day passed most pleasantly away; the morning in bustle and shopping, and the evening at one of the theatres.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXVII”?

   A. A journey and a mercenary suitor
   B. Leaving Kent
   C. A changed Darcy

D. Disappointment and philosophy

SAT key: 1. D (varied); 2. A (A journey and a mercenary suitor)

Lesson 29: Chapter XXVIII

Focus: visit to Hunsford

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “Chapter XXVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Arriving at Hunsford, Elizabeth is shown every room and the garden by Collins, who praises Lady Catherine constantly. Charlotte manages him skillfully and keeps her own sitting room. They glimpse Lady Catherine's sickly daughter, Anne.

Background: Rosings Park in Kent represents aristocratic wealth and patronage.

Significance: Charlotte has built a contented life by managing her husband's absurdity.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> How has Charlotte made her marriage work? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
> Prompt: How has Charlotte made her marriage work?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: neatness — tidiness and order; sideboard — a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top; stationed — placed in position; sloping — slanting; consistency — harmony of all the parts; good order. “sideboard”: From side + board. “sloping”: From aslope. “consistency”: By surface analysis, consistent + -cy, consistence + -y or consist + -ency.
> Words: neatness: tidiness and order · sideboard: a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top · stationed: placed in position · sloping: slanting · consistency: harmony of all the parts; good order

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Rosings Park in Kent represents aristocratic wealth and patronage. Charlotte has built a contented life by managing her husband's absurdity. Setting: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose. Characterization: Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "turning expected to bring it in view. The paling of Rosings Park was their boundary on one side. Elizabeth smiled at the" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14). Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. That is setting at work: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose.

> I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14). Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. That is setting at work: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Comfort, not love: this is what Charlotte bargained for. Connects to marriage and money. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. (The key to Charlotte's marriage.)

> When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Comfort, not love: this is what Charlotte bargained for. Connects to marriage and money.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. (The key to Charlotte's marriage.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about visit to Hunsford? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVIII develops the idea of visit to Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. When the text says “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort," the narrator says, a precise description of a compromise.

Task: Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about visit to Hunsford? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXVIII develops the idea of visit to Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. When the text says “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort," the narrator says, a precise description of a compromise.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How has Charlotte made her marriage work? Ask: is Charlotte happy? What would counts as evidence either way?

Anchor question: How has Charlotte made her marriage work?

Facilitation: Ask: is Charlotte happy? What would counts as evidence either way?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about visit to Hunsford? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. (“When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout”, Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about visit to Hunsford? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. (“When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout”, Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how setting shapes visit to Hunsford. Key takeaway: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Setting: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose.
- Characterization: Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “turning expected to bring it in view. The paling of Rosings Park was their boundary on one side. Elizabeth smiled at the” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 2).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “instantly that her cousin’s manners were not altered by his marriage; his formal civility was just what it had been, and he” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5) The key to Charlotte's marriage.
- “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14) Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.
- “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1) Opening; Elizabeth's openness.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband.
Evidence: “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5)
Reasoning: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort," the narrator says, a precise description of a compromise.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
neatness (noun)	tidiness and order	It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and consistency of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit.
sideboard (noun)	a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top	After sitting long enough to admire every article of furniture in the room, from the sideboard to the fender, to give an account of their journey and of all that had happened in London, Mr.	"sideboard": From side + board. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/sideboard#Etymology)
stationed (verb)	placed in position	Collins and Charlotte were both standing at the gate in conversation with the ladies; and Sir William, to Elizabeth's high diversion, was stationed in the doorway, in earnest contemplation of the greatness before him, and constantly bowing whenever Miss de Bourgh looked that way.
sloping (adjective)	slanting	The garden sloping to the road, the house standing in it, the green pales and the laurel hedge, everything declared they were arriving.	"sloping": From aslope. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/slope#Etymology)
consistency (noun)	harmony of all the parts; good order	It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and consistency of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit.	"consistency": By surface analysis, consistent + -cy, consistence + -y or consist + -ency. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consistency#Etymology)
deference (noun)	a courteous expression (by word or deed) of esteem or regard	She is the sort of woman whom one cannot regard with too much deference."	"deference": From French déférence. Morphologically defer + ence. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deference#Etymology)
diversion (noun)	an activity that diverts or amuses or stimulates	Collins and Charlotte were both standing at the gate in conversation with the ladies; and Sir William, to Elizabeth's high diversion, was stationed in the doorway, in earnest contemplation of the greatness before him, and constantly bowing whenever Miss de Bourgh looked that way.	"diversion": From Middle English diversion, dyversioun, from Medieval Latin diversiō, from Latin divertō "to divert"; see divert. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/diversion#Etymology)
include (verb)		I have scarcely any hesitation in saying that she will include you and my sister

	have as a part, be made up out of	Maria in every invitation with which she honours us during your stay here.
congratulate (verb)	to express pleasure at someone's good fortune	Collins no sooner saw the two girls than he began to congratulate them on their good fortune, which Charlotte explained by letting them know that the whole party was asked to dine at Rosings the next day.
detained (verb)	kept from leaving	She saw instantly that her cousin's manners were not altered by his marriage; his formal civility was just what it had been, and he detained her some minutes at the gate to hear and satisfy his enquiries after all her family.

Discussion questions

1. How has Charlotte made her marriage work?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does Elizabeth visit Charlotte? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Hunsford parsonage
2. What room does Charlotte keep for herself? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A back sitting room Collins rarely enters
3. What does Collins show off? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: His house and garden
4. How does Charlotte handle Collins? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She manages him skillfully
5. Who is Anne de Bourgh? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine's sickly daughter
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXVIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Arriving at Hunsford, Elizabeth is shown every room and the garden by Collins, who praises Lady Catherine constantly. Charlotte manages him skillfully and keeps her own sitting room. They glimpse Lady Catherine's sickly daughter, Anne.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXVIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXVIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and consistency of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit.” What does “neatness” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: neatness: tidiness and order.
10. Reread: “After sitting long enough to admire every article of furniture in the room, from the sideboard to the fender, to give an account of their journey and of all that had happened in London, Mr.” What does “sideboard” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: sideboard: a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXVIII” suggest about visit to Hunsford? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Charlotte has built a contented life by managing her husband's absurdity.
2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about visit to Hunsford? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5): The key to Charlotte's marriage. On characterization: Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “From his garden, Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Arriving at Hunsford, Elizabeth is shown every room and the garden by Collins, who praises Lady Catherine constantly. Charlotte manages him skillfully and keeps her own sitting room. They glimpse Lady Catherine's sickly daughter, Anne.
6. How does “Chapter XXVIII” build on “Chapter XXVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "Every object in the next day's journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening; Elizabeth's openness. On characterization: Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: "How has Charlotte made her marriage work?" Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5): The key to Charlotte's marriage. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Rosings Park in Kent represents aristocratic wealth and patronage. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. On setting: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Charlotte has built a contented life by managing her husband's absurdity." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "Every object in the next day's journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening; Elizabeth's openness. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5): The key to Charlotte's marriage. On characterization: Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XXVIII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about visit to Hunsford? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter XXVIII": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "Every object in the next day's journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening; Elizabeth's openness. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5): The key to Charlotte's marriage. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: "I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter" (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. On setting: Hunsford parsonage and Rosings:

the material world Charlotte chose. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXVIII” treats visit to Hunsford with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening; Elizabeth's openness. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5): The key to Charlotte's marriage. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about visit to Hunsford? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Useful evidence: “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening; Elizabeth's openness. Theme link: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14: “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady _____ and her daughter”

   Key: Catherine
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5: “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort _____”

   Key: throughout
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The garden sloping to the road, the house standing in it, the green pales and the laurel hedge, everything declared they were arriving.”, what does “sloping” most nearly mean?
   - A. in a manner acceptable to common custom
   - B. coming close (to)
   - C. do something that one considers to be below one's dignity
   - D. slanting

   Key: D (slanting)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is Anne de Bourgh?
   - A. Darcy's sister
   - B. A servant
   - C. Lady Catherine's sickly daughter
   - D. Charlotte's sister

   Key: C (Lady Catherine's sickly daughter)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and _____ of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit.” Word bank: sideboard, consistency, stationed, neatness

   Key: consistency
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What room does Charlotte keep for herself?
   - A. The garden
   - B. A back sitting room Collins rarely enters
   - C. The kitchen
   - D. The library

   Key: B (A back sitting room Collins rarely enters)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Collins show off?
   - A. His house and garden
   - B. His library
   - C. His horses
   - D. His sermons

   Key: A (His house and garden)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and consistency of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit.”, what does “neatness” most nearly mean?
   - A. be or come between

   B. tidiness and order
   C. thought carefully about
   D. oblivious of dangers or perils or calmly resolute in facing them

   Key: B (tidiness and order)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1: “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and _____ to Elizabeth”

   Key: interesting

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14)

    A. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.
    B. Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.
    C. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.
    D. Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?

    Key: B (Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The key to Charlotte's marriage.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1)

    A. Elizabeth's warning.
    B. Self-judgment.
    C. The witty paradox.
    D. Opening; Elizabeth's openness.

    Key: D (Opening; Elizabeth's openness.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Every object in the next day’s journey was new and interesting to Elizabeth” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Opening; Elizabeth's openness.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5).

    Sample answer: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort," the narrator says, a precise description of a compromise.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Charlotte's marriage is bearable because she has arranged a life apart from her husband.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: "When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort," the narrator says, a precise description of a compromise.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “After sitting long enough to admire every article of furniture in the room, from the sideboard to the fender, to give an account of their journey and of all that had happened in London, Mr.”, what does “sideboard” most nearly mean?
    A. characterized by neglect and undue lack of concern
    B. a pain in the head
    C. send away towards a designated goal
    D. a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top

    Key: D (a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Charlotte handle Collins?
    A. She ignores him
    B. She leaves him
    C. She fights with him
    D. She manages him skillfully

    Key: D (She manages him skillfully)

19. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXVIII”?
    A. Visit to Hunsford
    B. A ridiculous proposal
    C. Endings and futures
    D. The great confrontation

    Key: A (Visit to Hunsford)

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVIII”? Collins shows off; Charlotte manages him by encouraging gardening.
    A. Personification
    B. Characterization
    C. Alliteration
    D. Symbolism

    Key: B (Characterization)

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The key to Charlotte's marriage.

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Collins and Charlotte were both standing at the gate in conversation with the ladies; and Sir William, to Elizabeth’s high diversion, was stationed in the doorway, in earnest contemplation of the greatness before him,…”, what does “stationed” most nearly mean?
    A. the regular (professional) army
    B. quickness and ease
    C. placed in position
    D. presenting (someone) to another person

Key: C (placed in position)

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins and Charlotte were both standing at the gate in conversation with the ladies; and Sir William, to Elizabeth’s high _____, was stationed in the doorway, in earnest contemplation of the greatness before him, and constantly bowing whenever Miss de Bourgh…” Word bank: diversion, sideboard, neatness, stationed

    Key: diversion

24. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 5)

    A. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
    B. Pemberley's taste mirrors character.
    C. The key to Charlotte's marriage.
    D. Mr. Bennet stops Mary's singing in public.

    Key: C (The key to Charlotte's marriage.)

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him.

    A. First impressions and prejudice
    B. Marriage and money
    C. Pride and self-knowledge
    D. Class and social mobility

    Key: B (Marriage and money)

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXVIII”? Hunsford parsonage and Rosings: the material world Charlotte chose.

    A. Personification
    B. Setting
    C. Foreshadowing
    D. Simile

    Key: B (Setting)

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where does Elizabeth visit Charlotte?

    A. Netherfield
    B. Bath
    C. Hunsford parsonage
    D. Pemberley

    Key: C (Hunsford parsonage)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I expected at least that the pigs were got into the garden, and here is nothing but Lady Catherine and her daughter” (Chapter XXVIII, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She is the sort of woman whom one cannot regard with too much _____.”” Word bank: deference, sideboard, stationed, neatness

    Key: deference

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXVIII". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Charlotte's marriage works because she arranges her life to see little of him.
31. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I have scarcely any hesitation in saying that she will _____ you and my sister Maria in every invitation with which she honours us during your stay here." Word bank: sideboard, neatness, stationed, include
    Key: include

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 6, 3, 18, 5, 4, 9, 13, 19, 10, 12, 20, 15, 14, 21	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 9, 4, 1, 22, 23, 13, 10, 11, 12, 24, 25, 26, 14, 16, 21	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	9, 5, 6, 8, 27, 11, 19, 10, 12, 24, 15, 20, 25, 26, 21, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 29, 7, 18, 12, 19, 10, 13, 11, 26, 15, 20, 25, 30, 21, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 31, 7, 13, 11, 19, 12, 26, 15, 20, 25, 14, 16, 30, 21, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 31, 18, 19, 12, 24, 10, 20, 26, 14, 15, 25, 21, 16, 28, 30	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 29, 19, 10, 24, 12, 13, 14, 25, 20, 15, 26, 16, 30, 28, 21	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	5, 23, 10, 11, 19, 24, 13, 25, 26, 14, 15, 20, 30, 21, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	5, 29, 10, 11, 24, 19, 13, 25, 20, 14, 26, 15, 21, 28, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 29, 11, 12, 24, 10, 13, 20, 14, 25, 26, 15, 21, 28, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XXVIII," how does Austen show visit to Hunsford? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXVIII, how does Austen develop the idea of visit to Hunsford? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXVIII develops the idea of visit to Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of visit to Hunsford. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXVIII suggests about visit to Hunsford. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses setting in Chapter XXVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of visit to Hunsford. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of visit to Hunsford responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of visit to Hunsford follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXVIII and its treatment of visit to Hunsford. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXVIII as evidence for a larger claim about visit to Hunsford in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of visit to Hunsford. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Collins and Charlotte were both standing at the gate in conversation with the ladies; and Sir William, to Elizabeth's high diversion, was stationed in the doorway, in earnest contemplation of the greatness before him, and constantly bowing whenever Miss de Bourgh looked that way.

   As used in the text, what does the word "stationed" most nearly mean?

   A. have as a part, be made up out of

   B. to express pleasure at someone's good fortune

   C. placed in position

   D. kept from leaving

2. From his garden, Mr. Collins would have led them round his two meadows, but the ladies not having shoes to encounter the remains of a white frost, turned back; and while Sir William accompanied him, Charlotte took her sister and friend over the house, extremely well pleased, probably, to have the opportunity of showing it without her husband's help. It was rather small, but well built and convenient; and everything was fitted up and arranged with a neatness and consistency of which Elizabeth gave Charlotte all the credit. When Mr. Collins could be forgotten, there was really a great air of comfort throughout, and by Charlotte's evident enjoyment of it, Elizabeth supposed he must be often forgotten.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXVIII"?

   A. Visit to Hunsford

   B. Consequences of refusal

   C. Renewed hope

   D. A changed Darcy

SAT key: 1. C (placed in position); 2. A (Visit to Hunsford)

Lesson 30: Chapter XXIX

Focus: an imperious hostess

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXIX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At Rosings, Lady Catherine dominates the conversation, questions Elizabeth about her family and education, and is surprised when Elizabeth answers boldly and will not state her age.

Background: Aristocrats expected deference; governesses and accomplishments signaled status.

Significance: Elizabeth's independence before rank sets up her later confrontation with Lady Catherine.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: aristocratic pride in its purest form.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> *Today's words: cassino — a card game (also spelled casino); glazing — the glass panes in windows; conciliating — friendly and trying to win good will; dictating — issue commands or orders for; overpower — overcome by superior force. “glazing”: From Middle English glasen, from glas "glass" (Modern English glass), from Old English glæs, from Proto-Germanic glasą. Related to glazen. In the sense of "overcompliment", originated in November 2021 and popularized throughout 2022, and may suggest either the spattering of semen on the complimented person, following "the visual of a donut being glazed", or sugarcoating without sexual connotation “conciliating”: Borrowed from Latin conciliātus, perfect passive participle of conciliō "to unite", from concilium "council, meeting".
> Words: cassino: a card game (also spelled casino) · glazing: the glass panes in windows · conciliating: friendly and trying to win good will · dictating: issue commands or orders for · overpower: overcome by superior force

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Aristocrats expected deference; governesses and accomplishments signaled status. Elizabeth's independence before rank sets up her later confrontation with Lady Catherine. Characterization: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness. Dialogue: Elizabeth's refusal to state her age is a small rebellion. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "given so soon, was such an instance of Lady Catherine's condescension as he knew not how to admire enough" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11). Description. That is characterization at work: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness.

> Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11). Description. That is characterization at work: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Look at the craft: Elizabeth's refusal to state her age is a small rebellion. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Aristocratic pride in its purest form. (Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.)

> you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Look at the craft: Elizabeth's refusal to state her age is a small rebellion.

Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?

Expected answer: Aristocratic pride in its purest form. (Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an imperious hostess? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIX develops the idea of an imperious hostess. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. When the text says "you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. Lady Catherine tells her she gives "your opinion very decidedly for so young a person," a rebuke for not deferring, and Elizabeth goes on doing it.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an imperious hostess? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIX develops the idea of an imperious hostess. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. When the text says "you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. Lady Catherine tells her she gives "your opinion very decidedly for so young a person," a rebuke for not deferring, and Elizabeth goes on doing it.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show? Ask: where does Elizabeth get her confidence?

Anchor question: What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show?

Facilitation: Ask: where does Elizabeth get her confidence?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an imperious hostess? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. ("you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person", Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an imperious hostess? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. ("you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person", Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes an imperious hostess. Key takeaway: aristocratic pride in its purest form.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness.
- Dialogue: Elizabeth's refusal to state her age is a small rebellion.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: aristocratic pride in its purest form.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “given so soon, was such an instance of Lady Catherine’s condescension as he knew not how to admire enough” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 1).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “forget their inferior rank. She was not rendered formidable by silence; but whatever she said, was spoken in so authoritative a tone” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11) Description.
- “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35) Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
- “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36) Elizabeth's evasion.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank.
Evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35)
Reasoning: Lady Catherine tells her she gives "your opinion very decidedly for so young a person," a rebuke for not deferring, and Elizabeth goes on doing it.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
cassino (noun)	a card game (also spelled casino)	Collins sat down to quadrille; and as Miss de Bourgh chose to play at cassino, the two girls had the honour of assisting Mrs.

glazing (noun)	the glass panes in windows	Collins expected the scene to inspire, and was but slightly affected by his enumeration of the windows in front of the house, and his relation of what the glazing altogether had originally cost Sir Lewis de Bourgh.	“glazing”: From Middle English glasen, from glas "glass" (Modern English glass), from Old English glæs, from Proto-Germanic *glasą. Related to glazen. In the sense of "overcompliment", originated in November 2021 and popularized throughout 2022, and may suggest either the spattering of semen on the complimented person, following "the visual of a donut being glazed", or sugarcoating without sexual connotation (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/glaze#Etymology)
conciliating (adjective)	friendly and trying to win good will	Her air was not conciliating, nor was her manner of receiving them, such as to make her visitors forget their inferior rank.	“conciliating”: Borrowed from Latin conciliātus, perfect passive participle of conciliō "to unite", from concilium "council, meeting". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conciliate#Etymology)
dictating (verb)	issue commands or orders for	Elizabeth found that nothing was beneath this great Lady’s attention, which could furnish her with an occasion of dictating to others.
overpower (verb)	overcome by superior force	Collins was carefully instructing them in what they were to expect, that the sight of such rooms, so many servants, and so splendid a dinner might not wholly overpower them.
strenuously (adverb)	in a strenuous manner; strongly or vigorously	“Aye, no doubt; but that is what a governess will prevent, and if I had known your mother, I should have advised her most strenuously to engage one.
indisposed (adjective)	slightly ill	Jenkinson was chiefly employed in watching how little Miss de Bourgh ate, pressing her to try some	“indisposed”: From Middle French indisposer, equivalent to in + dispose. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/indispose#Etymology) other dish, and fearing she were indisposed.

trepidation (noun)	a feeling of alarm or dread	She had heard nothing of Lady Catherine that spoke her awful from any extraordinary talents or miraculous virtue, and the mere stateliness of money and rank, she thought she could witness without trepidation.	“trepidation”: Latin trepidātiō, from trepidō "be agitated". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trepidation#Etymology)
composedly (adverb)	in a self-collected or self-possessed manner	Elizabeth found herself quite equal to the scene, and could observe the three ladies before her composedly.
antechamber (noun)	a large entrance or reception room or area	Collins pointed out, with a rapturous air, the fine proportion and finished ornaments, they followed the servants through an antechamber, to the room where Lady Catherine, her daughter, and Mrs.	“antechamber”: From Middle French antichambre, with remodelling after ante- and chamber. By surface analysis, ante- + chamber. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/antechamber#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who dominates the conversation at Rosings? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine
2. What surprises Lady Catherine? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth's bold answers

3. What does Lady Catherine ask about? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth's family and education
4. What does Elizabeth decline to tell? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her exact age
5. What does the dinner reveal about rank? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Aristocrats expected deference
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXIX" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At Rosings, Lady Catherine dominates the conversation, questions Elizabeth about her family and education, and is surprised when Elizabeth answers boldly and will not state her age.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXIX"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXIX" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Collins sat down to quadrille; and as Miss de Bourgh chose to play at cassino, the two girls had the honour of assisting Mrs." What does "cassino" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: cassino: a card game (also spelled casino).
10. Reread: "Collins expected the scene to inspire, and was but slightly affected by his enumeration of the windows in front of the house, and his relation of what the glazing altogether had originally cost Sir Lewis de Bourgh." What does "glazing" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: glazing: the glass panes in windows.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XXIX" suggest about an imperious hostess? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's independence before rank sets up her later confrontation with Lady Catherine.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about an imperious hostess? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: "Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features" (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11): Description. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "Scarcely anything was talked of the whole day or next morning, but their visit to Rosings.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XXIX", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At Rosings, Lady Catherine dominates the conversation, questions Elizabeth about her family and education, and is surprised when Elizabeth answers boldly and will not state her age.

6. How does “Chapter XXIX” build on “Chapter XXVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35): Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36): Elizabeth's evasion. On characterization: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does Elizabeth's refusal to state her age show?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does setting appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11): Description. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Aristocrats expected deference; governesses and accomplishments signaled status. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35): Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's independence before rank sets up her later confrontation with Lady Catherine.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36): Elizabeth's evasion. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11): Description. On characterization: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXIX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about an imperious hostess? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35): Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXIX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36): Elizabeth's evasion. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11): Description. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35): Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. On characterization: Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXIX” treats an imperious hostess with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36): Elizabeth's evasion. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11): Description. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about an imperious hostess? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35): Lady Catherine on Elizabeth. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Useful evidence: “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36): Elizabeth's evasion. Theme link: aristocratic pride in its purest form. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Jenkinson was chiefly employed in watching how little Miss de Bourgh ate, pressing her to try some other dish, and fearing she were ______.”

   Word bank: indisposed, conciliating, glazing, cassino

   Key: indisposed
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What surprises Lady Catherine?

   A. Maria's wit
   B. Elizabeth's bold answers
   C. The food
   D. Collins's silence

   Key: B (Elizabeth's bold answers)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36: “With three younger sisters grown up … your _____ can hardly expect me to own it”

   Key: Ladyship

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Collins expected the scene to inspire, and was but slightly affected by his enumeration of the windows in front of the house, and his relation of what the glazing altogether had originally cost Sir Lewis de Bourgh.”, what does “glazing” most nearly mean?

   A. too bold; taking liberties
   B. replaced; pushed aside
   C. the glass panes in windows
   D. settled by agreement

   Key: C (the glass panes in windows)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth decline to tell?

   A. Her father's name
   B. Where she lives
   C. Her exact age
   D. Her name

   Key: C (Her exact age)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She had heard nothing of Lady Catherine that spoke her awful from any extraordinary talents or miraculous virtue, and the mere stateliness of money and rank, she thought she could witness without _____.” Word bank: trepidation, glazing, cassino, conciliating

   Key: trepidation

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Aye, no doubt; but that is what a governess will prevent, and if I had known your mother, I should have advised her most _____ to engage one.” Word bank: conciliating, glazing, strenuously, cassino

   Key: strenuously

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth found that nothing was beneath this great Lady’s attention, which could furnish her with an occasion of dictating to others.”, what does “dictating” most nearly mean?

   A. deciding
   B. act in accordance with someone's rules, commands, or wishes
   C. issue commands or orders for
   D. the trait of keeping things secret

   Key: C (issue commands or orders for)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11: “Lady _____ was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features”

   Key: Catherine

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36)

    A. Elizabeth's evasion.
    B. Elizabeth's warning.
    C. The narrator's verdict.

D. Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.

Key: A (Elizabeth's evasion.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIX”?

A. An imperious hostess

B. Consequences of refusal

C. Family uproar

D. The accomplished woman

Key: A (An imperious hostess)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35)

A. The letter's opening.

B. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

C. She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.

D. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.

Key: D (Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIX”? Elizabeth's refusal to state her age is a small rebellion.

A. Simile

B. Symbolism

C. Dialogue

D. Irony

Key: C (Dialogue)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “With three younger sisters grown up … your Ladyship can hardly expect me to own it” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 36). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Elizabeth's evasion.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35: “you give your opinion very _____ for so young a person”

Key: decidedly

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Lady Catherine ask about?

A. Wickham

B. Elizabeth's family and education

C. Bingley

D. Military news

Key: B (Elizabeth's family and education)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who dominates the conversation at Rosings?
    A. Lady Catherine
    B. Charlotte
    C. Elizabeth
    D. Collins

    Key: A (Lady Catherine)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her air was not conciliating, nor was her manner of receiving them, such as to make her visitors forget their inferior rank.”, what does “conciliating” most nearly mean?
    A. expressing congratulations
    B. friendly and trying to win good will
    C. remove something concrete, as by lifting, pushing, or taking off, or remove something abstract
    D. never seen before; unequaled

    Key: B (friendly and trying to win good will)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11)
    A. Why Mr. Bennet married.
    B. Description.
    C. Wickham's motive.
    D. Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.

    Key: B (Description.)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Description.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “you give your opinion very decidedly for so young a person” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 35).

    Sample answer: Lady Catherine tells her she gives "your opinion very decidedly for so young a person," a rebuke for not deferring, and Elizabeth goes on doing it.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth refuses to be intimidated by rank.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Lady Catherine tells her she gives "your opinion very decidedly for so young a person," a rebuke for not deferring, and Elizabeth goes on doing it.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Collins sat down to quadrille; and as Miss de Bourgh chose to play at cassino, the two girls had the honour of assisting Mrs.”, what does “cassino” most nearly mean?
    A. a card game (also spelled casino)
    B. consider bad or wrong
    C. comforted
    D. feel admiration for

Key: A (a card game (also spelled casino))

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIX”? Lady Catherine dominates dinner, interrogates Elizabeth, and is answered with unusual frankness.

    A. Characterization

    B. Irony

    C. Setting

    D. Structure

    Key: A (Characterization)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Lady Catherine was a tall, large woman, with strongly-marked features” (Chapter XXIX, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Description.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins was carefully instructing them in what they were to expect, that the sight of such rooms, so many servants, and so splendid a dinner might not wholly _____ them.” Word bank: conciliating, cassino, overpower, glazing

    Key: overpower

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: aristocratic pride in its purest form.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does the dinner reveal about rank?

    A. Clergy ruled society

    B. Aristocrats expected deference

    C. Merchants led

    D. Everyone was equal

    Key: B (Aristocrats expected deference)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 17, 1, 18, 6, 19, 2, 20, 21, 22, 13, 12, 23, 14, 15, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	20, 9, 19, 25, 3, 6, 22, 11, 12, 21, 13, 26, 14, 15, 16, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	28, 18, 17, 25, 5, 13, 11, 12, 10, 21, 23, 26, 14, 15, 24, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	19, 28, 20, 9, 10, 12, 21, 13, 22, 23, 15, 26, 14, 24, 27, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	28, 1, 30, 13, 22, 11, 10, 12, 14, 23, 26, 15, 27, 29, 16, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	28, 6, 4, 13, 11, 12, 21, 10, 14, 26, 23, 15, 24, 27, 16, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
	3, 28, 10, 11, 12, 13, 22, 21, 14, 15, 26, 23, 24, 27, 16, 29

College Sophomore		recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	6, 28, 10, 13, 11, 12, 21, 22, 26, 15, 23, 14, 16, 29, 24, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 28, 13, 12, 21, 11, 10, 22, 23, 26, 14, 15, 24, 27, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	7, 1, 11, 10, 22, 13, 21, 12, 26, 15, 23, 14, 29, 27, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXIX,” how does Austen show an imperious hostess? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXIX, how does Austen develop the idea of an imperious hostess? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXIX develops the idea of an imperious hostess. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of an imperious hostess. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXIX suggests about an imperious hostess. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXIX to complicate the reader's understanding of an imperious hostess. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of an imperious hostess responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of an imperious hostess follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXIX and its treatment of an imperious hostess. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXIX as evidence for a larger claim about an imperious hostess in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of an imperious hostess. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Her air was not conciliating, nor was her manner of receiving them, such as to make her visitors forget their inferior rank.

   As used in the text, what does the word “conciliating” most nearly mean?

   A. a feeling of alarm or dread
   B. in a self-collected or self-possessed manner
   C. a large entrance or reception room or area
   D. friendly and trying to win good will

2. Scarcely anything was talked of the whole day or next morning, but their visit to Rosings. Mr. Collins was carefully instructing them in what they were to expect, that the sight of such rooms, so many servants, and so splendid a dinner might not wholly overpower them.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIX”?

   A. Bingley returns
   B. Disappointment and philosophy
   C. Jealousy at Pemberley
   D. An imperious hostess

SAT key: 1. D (friendly and trying to win good will); 2. D (An imperious hostess)

Lesson 31: Chapter XXX

Focus: Darcy at Rosings

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy and his cousin Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings and promptly call at the parsonage. Fitzwilliam is pleasant and easy; Darcy is stiff and quiet. Charlotte guesses the visit is a compliment to Elizabeth.

Background: Younger sons like Fitzwilliam could not inherit and needed to marry money.

Significance: Darcy's repeated visits show his feelings while Elizabeth misreads them.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
> Prompt: Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: counterpart — something very like another; a copy; nephews — sons of one's brother or sister; indebted — owing thanks to someone; possessing — having; complaints — expressions of unhappiness; grumbles. “counterpart”: From Middle English conterpart, countre parte "duplicate of a legal document", equivalent to counter- + part. Compare Old French contrepartie, itself from contre "facing, opposite" (from Latin contra "against") + partie "copy of a person or thing" (originally past participle of partīre "to divide"). “complaints”: From Middle English compleynte, from Anglo-Norman compleint, from Old French compleindre, eventually from Latin planctus (whence plaint).
> Words: counterpart: something very like another; a copy · nephews: sons of one's brother or sister · indebted: owing thanks to someone · possessing: having · complaints: expressions of unhappiness; grumbles

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Younger sons like Fitzwilliam could not inherit and needed to marry money. Darcy's repeated visits show his feelings while Elizabeth misreads them. Characterization: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea. Irony: The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "days passed in which Mr. Collins did not walk to Rosings, and not many in which his wife did not think it" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1). The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. That is characterization at work: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea.

> Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1). The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. That is characterization at work: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Look at the craft: The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. (The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.)

> Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Look at the craft: The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. (The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Darcy at Rosings? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXX develops the idea of Darcy at Rosings. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. When the text says "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Darcy at Rosings? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXX develops the idea of Darcy at Rosings. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. When the text says "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often? Ask: why can Charlotte see what Elizabeth cannot?

Anchor question: Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often?

Facilitation: Ask: why can Charlotte see what Elizabeth cannot?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Darcy at Rosings? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. ("I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility", Chapter XXX, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Darcy at Rosings? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. ("I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility", Chapter XXX, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes Darcy at Rosings. Key takeaway: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea.
- Irony: The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “days passed in which Mr. Collins did not walk to Rosings, and not many in which his wife did not think it” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 3).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “she sallied forth into the village to settle their differences, silence their complaints, and scold them into harmony and plenty” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 4).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1) The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.
- “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10) The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.
- “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8) Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth.
Evidence: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8)
Reasoning: She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
counterpart (noun)	something very like another; a copy	The entertainment of dining at Rosings was repeated about twice a week; and,	“counterpart”: From Middle English conterpart, countre parte "duplicate of a legal document", equivalent to counter- + part. Compare Old allowing for the loss of Sir William, and there being only one card table in the evening, every such entertainment was the counterpart of the first.	French contrepartie, itself from contre "facing, opposite" (from Latin contra "against") + partie "copy of a person or thing" (originally past participle of partīre "to divide"). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/counterpart#Etymology)

nephews (noun)	sons of one's brother or sister	There were two nephews of Lady Catherine to require them, for Mr.
indebted (adjective)	owing thanks to someone	From the drawing-room they could distinguish nothing in the lane, and were indebted to Mr.
possessing (verb)	having	Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford; but his visit was long enough to convince him of his daughter's being most comfortably settled, and of her possessing such a husband and such a neighbour as were not often met with.
complaints (noun)	expressions of unhappiness; grumbles	Collins; and whenever any of the cottagers were disposed to be quarrelsome, discontented or too poor, she sallied forth into the village to settle their differences, silence their complaints, and scold them into harmony and plenty.	"complaints": From Middle English compleynte, from Anglo-Norman compleint, from Old French compleindre, eventually from Latin planctus (whence plaint). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/complaint#Etymology)
entertainment (noun)	an activity that is diverting and that holds the attention	The entertainment of dining at Rosings was repeated about twice a week; and, allowing for the loss of Sir William, and there being only one card table in the evening, every such entertainment was the counterpart of the first.	"entertainment": From Middle English entretenement "support, maintenance", from Old French entretenement; see entertain. Morphologically entertain + -ment. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/entertainment#Etymology)
readiness (noun)	quickness and ease	Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man, and talked very pleasantly; but his cousin, after having addressed a slight observation on the house and garden to Mrs.

magistrate (noun)	a local official who judges minor cases	Elizabeth soon perceived that though this great lady was not in the commission of the peace for the county, she was a most active magistrate in her own parish, the minutest concerns of which were carried to her by Mr.	“magistrate”: From Middle English magistrat, maiestrat "magistrate; magistracy", borrowed from Latin magistrātus. See also -ate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/magistrate#Etymology)
awakened (verb)	stirred up	At length, however, his civility was so far awakened as to enquire of Elizabeth after the health of her family.	“awakened”: From Middle English awakenen or awaknen, from Old English awæcnan or awæcnian, from a- plus wæcnan or wæcnian. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/awaken#Etymology)
fortnight (noun)	a period of fourteen consecutive days	In this quiet way, the first fortnight of her visit soon passed away.	“fortnight”: From Middle English fourtenyght, fourtene nyght, from Old English fēowertīene niht (literally “fourteen nights"; the Anglo-Saxons counted by nights), equivalent to fourteen + night. Compare sennight. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/fortnight#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who arrives with Darcy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Colonel Fitzwilliam
2. How is Fitzwilliam described? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Pleasant and easy
3. Whom does Charlotte think the visit compliments? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth

4. Where do Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam stay in Kent? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At Rosings, with their aunt
5. How does Darcy behave on his first call? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Stiff and quiet
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy and his cousin Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings and promptly call at the parsonage. Fitzwilliam is pleasant and easy; Darcy is stiff and quiet. Charlotte guesses the visit is a compliment to Elizabeth.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “The entertainment of dining at Rosings was repeated about twice a week; and, allowing for the loss of Sir William, and there being only one card table in the evening, every such entertainment was the counterpart of the…” What does “counterpart” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: counterpart: something very like another; a copy.
10. Reread: “There were two nephews of Lady Catherine to require them, for Mr.” What does “nephews” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: nephews: sons of one's brother or sister.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXX” suggest about Darcy at Rosings? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy's repeated visits show his feelings while Elizabeth misreads them.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about Darcy at Rosings? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1): The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. On irony: The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “From the drawing-room they could distinguish nothing in the lane, and were indebted to Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy and his cousin Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings and promptly call at the parsonage. Fitzwilliam is pleasant and easy; Darcy is stiff and quiet. Charlotte guesses the visit is a compliment to Elizabeth.

6. How does “Chapter XXX” build on “Chapter XXIX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10): The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8): Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth. On characterization: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Darcy visit the parsonage so often?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1): The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Younger sons like Fitzwilliam could not inherit and needed to marry money. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10): The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy's repeated visits show his feelings while Elizabeth misreads them.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8): Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1): The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. On characterization: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about Darcy at Rosings? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10): The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8): Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1): The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10): The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. On characterization: Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how "Chapter XXX" treats Darcy at Rosings with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8): Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what "Chapter XXXI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: "Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1): The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about Darcy at Rosings? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: "Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10): The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Useful evidence: "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility" (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8): Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth. Theme link: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “From the drawing-room they could distinguish nothing in the lane, and were indebted to Mr.”, what does “indebted” most nearly mean?
   A. to get ahead of
   B. issue commands or orders for
   C. showing; giving evidence of
   D. owing thanks to someone

   Key: D (owing thanks to someone)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford; but his visit was long enough to convince him of his daughter’s being most comfortably settled, and of her possessing such a husband and such a neighbour as were not often met…”, what does “possessing” most nearly mean?
   A. add to the end
   B. having
   C. speed; swiftness
   D. forward; ahead

   Key: B (having)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Darcy behave on his first call?
   A. Flirtatious
   B. Rude
   C. Lively
   D. Stiff and quiet

   Key: D (Stiff and quiet)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Charlotte think the visit compliments?
   A. Elizabeth
   B. Herself
   C. Collins
   D. Maria

   Key: A (Elizabeth)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXX, paragraph 10: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into _____ directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man”

   Key: conversation
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Elizabeth soon perceived that though this great lady was not in the commission of the peace for the county, she was a most active _____ in her own parish, the minutest concerns of which were carried to her by Mr.” Word bank: nephews, magistrate, counterpart, indebted

   Key: magistrate
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who arrives with Darcy?
   A. Mr. Hurst

B. Wickham
C. Colonel Fitzwilliam
D. Bingley

Key: C (Colonel Fitzwilliam)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam stay in Kent?

A. At Pemberley
B. At the parsonage
C. At an inn in Hunsford
D. At Rosings, with their aunt

Key: D (At Rosings, with their aunt)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXX, paragraph 1: “Sir William stayed only a week at _____”

Key: Hunsford

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXX”?

A. Darcy at Rosings
B. The accomplished woman
C. Pemberley
D. A ridiculous proposal

Key: A (Darcy at Rosings)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10)

A. Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.
B. The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.
C. Charlotte's realism.
D. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.

Key: B (The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1)

A. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.
B. Elizabeth's reading.
C. Elizabeth's evasion.
D. The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.

Key: D (The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8).

Sample answer: She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXX”? Darcy and Colonel Fitzwilliam arrive at Rosings; Darcy calls at the parsonage. Charlotte suspects he is in love with Elizabeth; Elizabeth laughs at the idea.
    A. Theme
    B. Characterization
    C. Tone / mood
    D. Point of view

    Key: B (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The entertainment of dining at Rosings was repeated about twice a week; and, allowing for the loss of Sir William, and there being only one card table in the evening, every such entertainment was the counterpart of the…”, what does “counterpart” most nearly mean?
    A. something very like another; a copy
    B. to get ahead of
    C. with care and persistence
    D. an entrance hall

    Key: A (something very like another; a copy)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the _____ and ease of a well-bred man, and talked very pleasantly; but his cousin, after having addressed a slight observation on the house and garden to Mrs.” Word bank: nephews, indebted, counterpart, readiness

    Key: readiness

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXX, paragraph 8: “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of _____”

    Key: civility

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8)
    A. Lady Catherine's fury.
    B. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    C. Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
    D. Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth.

    Key: D (Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth.)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 8). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “There were two nephews of Lady Catherine to require them, for Mr.”, what does “nephews” most nearly mean?

    A. fearful expectation or anticipation
    B. sons of one's brother or sister
    C. very upsetting
    D. decorated panels used to shield from heat or drafts

    Key: B (sons of one's brother or sister)

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How is Fitzwilliam described?

    A. Rude
    B. Foolish
    C. Pleasant and easy
    D. Silent

    Key: C (Pleasant and easy)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins; and whenever any of the cottagers were disposed to be quarrelsome, discontented or too poor, she sallied forth into the village to settle their differences, silence their _____, and scold them into harmony and plenty.” Word bank: nephews, indebted, counterpart, complaints

    Key: complaints

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The _____ of dining at Rosings was repeated about twice a week; and, allowing for the loss of Sir William, and there being only one card table in the evening, every such entertainment was the counterpart of the first.” Word bank: nephews, indebted, counterpart, entertainment

    Key: entertainment

29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXX”? The one person who reads Darcy correctly is the practical Charlotte, not the clever Elizabeth.

    A. Irony
    B. Metaphor
    C. Imagery
    D. Plot

    Key: A (Irony)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	7, 17, 5, 4, 1, 18, 19, 2, 10, 20, 11, 21, 14, 15, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 4, 6, 19, 1, 24, 21, 13, 11, 10, 12, 22, 15, 14, 23, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 2, 27, 28, 19, 12, 10, 13, 21, 20, 29, 15, 22, 14, 23, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	26, 9, 24, 18, 10, 12, 21, 20, 11, 22, 29, 15, 14, 25, 30, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	27, 28, 8, 10, 12, 13, 20, 11, 29, 14, 22, 15, 16, 23, 30, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	19, 27, 26, 11, 10, 20, 12, 13, 15, 22, 14, 29, 16, 30, 23, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	27, 9, 21, 10, 13, 20, 12, 11, 15, 22, 29, 14, 25, 16, 30, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 5, 21, 13, 10, 12, 20, 11, 22, 14, 29, 15, 30, 25, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 27, 12, 13, 11, 10, 21, 20, 15, 14, 22, 29, 25, 23, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	27, 28, 10, 21, 20, 11, 13, 12, 15, 29, 14, 22, 25, 16, 30, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXX,” how does Austen show Darcy at Rosings? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXX, how does Austen develop the idea of Darcy at Rosings? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXX develops the idea of Darcy at Rosings. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of Darcy at Rosings. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXX suggests about Darcy at Rosings. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXX to complicate the reader's understanding of Darcy at Rosings. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of Darcy at Rosings responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of Darcy at Rosings follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXX and its treatment of Darcy at Rosings. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXX as evidence for a larger claim about Darcy at Rosings in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of Darcy at Rosings. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. From the drawing-room they could distinguish nothing in the lane, and were indebted to Mr.

   As used in the text, what does the word “indebted” most nearly mean?

   A. owing thanks to someone

B. stirred up
C. a local official who judges minor cases
D. a period of fourteen consecutive days

2. From the drawing-room they could distinguish nothing in the lane, and were indebted to Mr. Collins for the knowledge of what carriages went along, and how often especially Miss de Bourgh drove by in her phaeton, which he never failed coming to inform them of, though it happened almost every day. She not unfrequently stopped at the Parsonage, and had a few minutes' conversation with Charlotte, but was scarcely ever prevailed on to get out.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXX"?

A. An imperious hostess
B. A ridiculous proposal
C. Darcy at Rosings
D. An unhappy marriage observed

SAT key: 1. A (owing thanks to someone); 2. C (Darcy at Rosings)

Lesson 32: Chapter XXXI

Focus: music, wit and manners

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXXI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At Rosings, Colonel Fitzwilliam's lively talk draws Elizabeth to the piano. Darcy stands near, and she teases him about refusing to dance at Meryton. Darcy says he lacks the talent of conversing easily with strangers; Elizabeth replies that her playing would improve with practice, as his manners might. Lady Catherine interrupts with loud opinions.

Background: Musical performance was a social display for marriageable young women.

Significance: Elizabeth's analogy about practice suggests manners, like skills, can be learned—an idea about self-improvement.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: intimidate — to frighten in order to control; proficient — an expert; a skilled person; retaliate — to strike back; disadvantage — the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position; applying — put into service; make work or employ for a particular purpose or for its inherent or natural purpose. “intimidate”: From Medieval Latin intimidātus, perfect passive participle of Latin intimidō "to intimidate, terrify" (see -ate), from in- "in" + timidus "afraid, timid" + -ō; see timid. “proficient”: From Latin proficiens, present participle of proficere "to go forward, advance, make progress, succeed, be profitable or useful", from pro "forth, forward" + facere "to make, do"; see fact. “retaliate”: From Latin retāliātus, past participle of retāliō "to requite, retaliate". “disadvantage”: From Middle English disavauntage, from Old French desavantage.

Words: intimidate: to frighten in order to control · proficient: an expert; a skilled person · retaliate: to strike back · disadvantage: the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position · applying: put into service; make work or employ for a particular purpose or for its inherent or natural purpose

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Musical performance was a social display for marriageable young women. Elizabeth's analogy about practice suggests manners, like skills, can be learned—an idea about self-improvement. Dialogue: At the piano Elizabeth teases Darcy about his behaviour at the Meryton ball; he answers that he lacks the "talent" of conversing easily with strangers. Characterization: Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “must add considerably to the pleasure of their engagements at Rosings. It was some days, however, before they received any invitation thither” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24). Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? That is dialogue at work: At the piano Elizabeth teases Darcy about his behaviour at the Meryton ball; he answers that he lacks the "talent" of conversing easily with strangers.

> I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24). Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? That is dialogue at work: At the piano Elizabeth teases Darcy about his behaviour at the Meryton ball; he answers that he lacks the "talent" of conversing easily with strangers.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Talent" suggests shyness, not contempt. "We neither of us" links them; this complicates first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. (Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.)

> My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women's do
>
> (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Talent" suggests shyness, not contempt. "We neither of us" links them; this complicates first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. (Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for dialogue, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about music, wit and manners? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXI develops the idea of music, wit and manners. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. When the text says "We neither of us perform to strangers" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. He says he lacks "the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before," and adds "we neither of us perform to strangers," suggesting shyness and a likeness between them; she treats it as a joke.

Task: Annotate the chapter for dialogue, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about music, wit and manners? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXI develops the idea of music, wit and manners. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. When the text says "We neither of us perform to strangers" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. He says he lacks "the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before," and adds "we neither of us perform to strangers," suggesting shyness and a likeness between them; she treats it as a joke.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison? Reopen the question from Chapter III: is Darcy proud or shy? Has the evidence changed?

Anchor question: Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison?

Facilitation: Reopen the question from Chapter III: is Darcy proud or shy? Has the evidence changed?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about music, wit and manners? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. (“We neither of us perform to strangers”, Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about music, wit and manners? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. (“We neither of us perform to strangers”, Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how dialogue shapes music, wit and manners. Key takeaway: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Dialogue: At the piano Elizabeth teases Darcy about his behaviour at the Meryton ball; he answers that he lacks the "talent" of conversing easily with strangers.
- Characterization: Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “must add considerably to the pleasure of their engagements at Rosings. It was some days, however, before they received any invitation thither" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 1).

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "It cannot be done too much; and when I next write to her, I shall charge her not to neglect it on" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 10).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24) Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?
- "My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women's do" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25) Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.
- "We neither of us perform to strangers" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26) Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously.
Evidence: "We neither of us perform to strangers" (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26)
Reasoning: He says he lacks "the talent which some people possess ... of conversing easily with those I have never seen before," and adds "we neither of us perform to strangers," suggesting shyness and a likeness between them; she treats it as a joke.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
intimidate (verb)	to frighten in order to control	My courage always rises with every attempt to intimidate me."	"intimidate": From Medieval Latin intimidātus, perfect passive participle of Latin intimidō "to intimidate, terrify" (see -ate), from in- "in" + timidus "afraid, timid" + -ō; see timid. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/intimidate#Etymology)
proficient (noun)	an expert; a skilled person	If I had ever learnt, I should have been a great proficient.	"proficient": From Latin proficiens, present participle of proficere "to go forward, advance, make progress, succeed, be profitable or useful", from pro "forth, forward" + facere "to make, do"; see fact. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/proficient#Etymology)
retaliate (verb)	to strike back	Darcy, it is very ungenerous in you to mention all that you knew to my disadvantage in Hertfordshire—and, give me	"retaliate": From Latin retāliātus, past participle of retāliō "to requite, retaliate". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/retaliate#Etymology) leave to say, very impolitic too—for it is provoking me to retaliate, and such things may come out, as will shock your relations to hear.”

disadvantage (noun)	the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position	Darcy, it is very ungenerous in you to mention all that you knew to my disadvantage in Hertfordshire—and, give me leave to say, very impolitic too—for it is provoking me to retaliate, and such things may come out, as will shock your relations to hear.”	“disadvantage”: From Middle English disavauntage, from Old French desavantage. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disadvantage#Etymology)
applying (verb)	put into service; make work or employ for a particular purpose or for its inherent or natural purpose	“I can answer your question,” said Fitzwilliam, “without applying to him.
scruple (verb)	to hesitate because of moral doubt	His eyes had been soon and repeatedly turned towards them with a look of curiosity; and that her ladyship after a while shared the feeling, was more openly acknowledged, for she did not scruple to call out—
conversing (verb)	carry on a conversation	“I certainly have not the talent which some people possess,” said Darcy, “of conversing easily with those I have never seen before.
frighten (verb)	cause fear in	“You mean to frighten me, Mr.	“frighten”: From Middle English *frightenen, equivalent to fright + -en. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/frighten#Etymology) considerably (adverb)	to a great extent or degree	Colonel Fitzwilliam’s manners were very much admired at the parsonage, and the ladies all felt that he must add considerably to the pleasure of their engagements at Rosings.
breeding (noun)	manners shown by one's upbringing	Darcy looked a little ashamed of his aunt’s ill breeding, and made no answer.	“breeding”: From Middle English breedyng, bredynge "gestation, incubation, propagation, hatching; engineering, formation, development, growth", equivalent to breed + ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/breeding#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who draws Elizabeth into lively conversation? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Colonel Fitzwilliam
2. What instrument does Elizabeth play? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The piano
3. What earlier event does she tease Darcy about? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Not dancing at Meryton
4. What does Darcy say he lacks? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The talent of easy conversation with strangers
5. What idea does Elizabeth's reply suggest? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Manners can improve with practice
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXXI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At Rosings, Colonel Fitzwilliam's lively talk draws Elizabeth to the piano. Darcy stands near, and she teases him about refusing to dance at Meryton. Darcy says he lacks the talent of conversing easily with strangers; Elizabeth replies that her playing would improve with practice, as his manners might. Lady Catherine interrupts with loud opinions.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXXI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXXI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "My courage always rises with every attempt to intimidate me."" What does "intimidate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: intimidate: to frighten in order to control.

10. Reread: “If I had ever learnt, I should have been a great proficient.” What does “proficient” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: proficient: an expert; a skilled person.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXI” suggest about music, wit and manners? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's analogy about practice suggests manners, like skills, can be learned—an idea about self-improvement.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about music, wit and manners? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Colonel Fitzwilliam’s manners were very much admired at the parsonage, and the ladies all felt that he must add considerably to the pleasure of their engagements at Rosings.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At Rosings, Colonel Fitzwilliam's lively talk draws Elizabeth to the piano. Darcy stands near, and she teases him about refusing to dance at Meryton. Darcy says he lacks the talent of conversing easily with strangers; Elizabeth replies that her playing would improve with practice, as his manners…
6. How does “Chapter XXXI” build on “Chapter XXX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25): Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26): Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them. On characterization: Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Elizabeth compares manners to piano practice. Is that a fair comparison?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Musical performance was a social display for marriageable young women. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25): Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's analogy about practice suggests manners, like skills, can be learned—an idea about self-improvement.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26): Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? On characterization: Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about music, wit and manners? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25): Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26): Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25): Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy. On characterization: Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXXI” treats music, wit and manners with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26): Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXXII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt? Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about music, wit and manners? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25): Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Useful evidence: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26): Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them. Theme link: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““I can answer your question,” said Fitzwilliam, “without _____ to him.” Word bank: retaliate, applying, intimidate, proficient

   Key: applying
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “If I had ever learnt, I should have been a great proficient.”, what does “proficient” most nearly mean?

   A. an expert; a skilled person

B. friendly and trying to win good will
C. be worthy or deserving
D. brief and to the point

Key: A (an expert; a skilled person)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy, it is very ungenerous in you to mention all that you knew to my disadvantage in Hertfordshire—and, give me leave to say, very impolitic too—for it is provoking me to retaliate, and such things may come out, as…”, what does “disadvantage” most nearly mean?

A. cold and unkind
B. unbearable
C. something immaterial that stands in the way and must be circumvented or surmounted
D. the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position

Key: D (the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy say he lacks?

A. Courage
B. The talent of easy conversation with strangers
C. Money
D. Taste

Key: B (The talent of easy conversation with strangers)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““I certainly have not the talent which some people possess,” said Darcy, “of _____ easily with those I have never seen before.” Word bank: conversing, intimidate, proficient, retaliate

Key: conversing

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who draws Elizabeth into lively conversation?

A. Mr. Collins
B. Sir William
C. Colonel Fitzwilliam
D. Mr. Bingley

Key: C (Colonel Fitzwilliam)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What idea does Elizabeth's reply suggest?

A. Manners can improve with practice
B. Rank is everything
C. Talent is fixed
D. Music is useless

Key: A (Manners can improve with practice)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What instrument does Elizabeth play?

A. The violin
B. The flute
C. The piano
D. The harp

Key: C (The piano)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““You mean to _____ me, Mr.” Word bank: intimidate, frighten, proficient, retaliate

   Key: frighten

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25)

    A. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
    B. Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.
    C. Proposal opening.
    D. Jane's charity.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26)

    A. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.
    B. Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.
    C. The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.
    D. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.

    Key: B (Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXI”? At the piano Elizabeth teases Darcy about his behaviour at the Meryton ball; he answers that he lacks the "talent" of conversing easily with strangers.

    A. Symbolism
    B. Diction / vocabulary
    C. Metaphor
    D. Dialogue

    Key: D (Dialogue)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXXI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth answers with an analogy to her own unpractised playing: skill comes from practice, not talent.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His eyes had been soon and repeatedly turned towards them with a look of curiosity; and that her ladyship after a while shared the feeling, was more openly acknowledged, for she did not _____ to call out—” Word bank: intimidate, retaliate, proficient, scruple

    Key: scruple

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26: “We neither of us perform to _____”

    Key: strangers

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy, it is very ungenerous in you to mention all that you knew to my disadvantage in Hertfordshire—and, give me leave to say, very impolitic too—for it is provoking me to retaliate, and such things may come out, as…”, what does “retaliate” most nearly mean?

    A. to strike back
    B. valued too highly
    C. to come or pass in between
    D. stay the same; remain in a certain state

    Key: A (to strike back)

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXI”? Darcy's reply, possibly shy rather than proud, is the first sign of another explanation for his manner.

    A. Plot
    B. Simile
    C. Characterization
    D. Irony

    Key: C (Characterization)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “We neither of us perform to strangers” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 26).

    Sample answer: He says he lacks "the talent which some people possess ... of conversing easily with those I have never seen before," and adds "we neither of us perform to strangers," suggesting shyness and a likeness between them; she treats it as a joke.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25: “My fingers … do not move over this _____ in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do”

    Key: instrument

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What earlier event does she tease Darcy about?

    A. His wealth
    B. Wickham
    C. Not dancing at Meryton
    D. His letter

Key: C (Not dancing at Meryton)

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXI”?
    A. The entail and the officers
    B. Departure and relief
    C. Bingley returns
    D. Music, wit and manners

    Key: D (Music, wit and manners)

26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of conversing easily with those I have never seen before” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24)
    A. Key line.
    B. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
    C. Opening.
    D. Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?

    Key: D (Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The piano scene offers a sympathetic explanation of Darcy's manners that Elizabeth does not take seriously.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He says he lacks "the talent which some people possess ... of conversing easily with those I have never seen before," and adds "we neither of us perform to strangers," suggesting shyness and a likeness between them; she treats it as a joke.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXI, paragraph 24: “I certainly have not the talent which some people possess … of _____ easily with those I have never seen before”

    Key: conversing

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “My courage always rises with every attempt to intimidate me.””, what does “intimidate” most nearly mean?
    A. express in words
    B. to frighten in order to control
    C. to train and educate; to help grow
    D. approved; given permission

    Key: B (to frighten in order to control)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My fingers … do not move over this instrument in the masterly manner which I see so many women’s do” (Chapter XXXI, paragraph 25) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 2, 9, 18, 8, 19, 7, 5, 12, 10, 13, 11, 20, 21, 15, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	23, 2, 9, 7, 4, 24, 10, 25, 13, 26, 11, 15, 20, 14, 22, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	24, 9, 17, 1, 7, 13, 11, 26, 25, 12, 15, 20, 14, 21, 22, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 28, 29, 6, 13, 25, 10, 11, 12, 15, 20, 14, 21, 27, 16, 22	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 24, 9, 13, 12, 25, 11, 26, 21, 15, 20, 14, 16, 22, 30, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 17, 7, 25, 10, 12, 26, 13, 15, 14, 21, 20, 22, 16, 30, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 28, 11, 12, 10, 26, 13, 25, 20, 15, 14, 21, 27, 16, 22, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 17, 25, 26, 10, 13, 12, 11, 21, 20, 14, 15, 27, 30, 22, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 23, 10, 13, 11, 25, 26, 12, 20, 14, 15, 21, 16, 22, 27, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	9, 1, 26, 11, 12, 10, 25, 13, 21, 15, 14, 20, 16, 27, 22, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXI,” how does Austen show music, wit and manners? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXI, how does Austen develop the idea of music, wit and manners? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXI develops the idea of music, wit and manners. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of music, wit and manners. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXI suggests about music, wit and manners. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXXI to complicate the reader's understanding of music, wit and manners. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of music, wit and manners responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of music, wit and manners follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXI and its treatment of music, wit and manners. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXI as evidence for a larger claim about music, wit and manners in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of music, wit and manners. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Darcy, it is very ungenerous in you to mention all that you knew to my disadvantage in Hertfordshire—and, give me leave to say, very impolitic too—for it is provoking me to retaliate, and such things may come out, as will shock your relations to hear."

   As used in the text, what does the word "retaliate" most nearly mean?

   A. to strike back

   B. to a great extent or degree

   C. cause fear in

   D. manners shown by one's upbringing

2. Colonel Fitzwilliam's manners were very much admired at the parsonage, and the ladies all felt that he must add considerably to the pleasure of their engagements at Rosings. It was some days, however, before they received any invitation thither, for while there were visitors in the house, they could not be necessary; and it was not till Easter-day, almost a week after the gentlemen's arrival, that they were honoured by such an attention, and then they were merely asked on leaving church to come there in the evening. For the last week they had seen very little of either Lady Catherine or her daughter. Colonel Fitzwilliam had called at the parsonage more than once during the time, but Mr. Darcy they had only seen at church.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXXI"?

   A. Scandal

   B. Music, wit and manners

C. Disappointment and philosophy

D. An absurd cousin's letter

SAT key: 1. A (to strike back); 2. B (Music, wit and manners)

Lesson 33: Chapter XXXII

Focus: puzzling visits

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XXXII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy calls on Elizabeth alone and is uneasy. Charlotte suspects he is in love; Elizabeth dismisses the idea. Darcy keeps meeting her on walks.

Background: Unchaperoned meetings were noticeable in a small community.

Significance: Dramatic irony: readers see what Elizabeth refuses to see.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What clues does Elizabeth miss? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: What clues does Elizabeth miss?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: emergence — an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage); concise — brief and to the point; counterbalance — to balance out; to offset; patronage — the act of providing approval and support; journeys — the act of traveling from one place to another. “concise”: From Latin concīsus "cut short", from concīdere "cut to pieces", from caedēre "to cut, to strike down".
Words: emergence: an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage) · concise: brief and to the point · counterbalance: to balance out; to offset · patronage: the act of providing approval and support · journeys: the act of traveling from one place to another

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Unchaperoned meetings were noticeable in a small community. Dramatic irony: readers see what Elizabeth refuses to see. Characterization: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage). Irony: The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "They then sat down, and when her enquiries after Rosings were made, seemed in danger of sinking into total silence. It" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage).

> Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage).

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth's comment on distance. Look at the craft: The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. (Elizabeth's comment on distance.)

> I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's comment on distance. Look at the craft: The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. (Elizabeth's comment on distance.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about puzzling visits? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXII develops the idea of puzzling visits. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. When the text says "You cannot have been always at Longbourn" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23), it shows this directly. When he says "you cannot have been always at Longbourn," he is suggesting she could live far from home, a hint she does not read.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about puzzling visits? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXII develops the idea of puzzling visits. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. When the text says "You cannot have been always at Longbourn" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23), it shows this directly. When he says "you cannot have been always at Longbourn," he is suggesting she could live far from home, a hint she does not read.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What clues does Elizabeth miss? Ask students to find each moment where Darcy almost says what he means.

Anchor question: What clues does Elizabeth miss?

Facilitation: Ask students to find each moment where Darcy almost says what he means.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about puzzling visits? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. ("You cannot have been always at Longbourn", Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about puzzling visits? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. ("You cannot have been always at Longbourn", Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes puzzling visits. Key takeaway: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage).
- Irony: The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “They then sat down, and when her enquiries after Rosings were made, seemed in danger of sinking into total silence. It” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 3).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Rosings were made, seemed in danger of sinking into total silence. It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1) Opening.
- “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19) Elizabeth's comment on distance.
- “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23) Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them.
Evidence: “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23)
Reasoning: When he says "you cannot have been always at Longbourn," he is suggesting she could live far from home, a hint she does not read.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
emergence (noun)	an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage)	It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence recollecting when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty departure, she observed—
concise (adjective)	brief and to the point	A short dialogue on the subject of the country ensued, on either side calm and concise—and soon put an end to by the entrance of Charlotte and her sister, just returned from their walk.	“concise”: From Latin concīsus "cut short", from concīdere "cut to pieces", from caedēre "to cut, to strike down". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/concise#Etymology)
counterbalance (verb)	to balance out; to offset	He was beyond comparison the pleasantest man; he certainly admired her, and his situation in life was most eligible; but, to counterbalance these advantages, Mr.
patronage (noun)	the act of providing approval and support	Darcy had considerable patronage in the church, and his cousin could have none at all.
journeys (noun)	the act of traveling from one place to another	Collins have a comfortable income, but not such a one as will allow of frequent journeys—and I am persuaded my friend would not call herself near her family under less than half the present distance.”
recollecting (verb)	recall knowledge from memory; have a recollection	It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence recollecting when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty departure, she observed—	“recollecting”: Borrowed from Medieval Latin recollectus "remembered, composed", from Latin recolligo "gather again, recover". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/recollect#Etymology)
steadfast (adjective)	marked by firm determination or	It was an earnest, steadfast gaze, but she often doubted whether resolution; not shakable	there were much admiration in it, and sometimes it seemed nothing but absence of mind.

schemes (noun)	an elaborate and systematic plan of action	In her kind schemes for Elizabeth, she sometimes planned her marrying Colonel Fitzwilliam.
partial (adjective)	fond (of); liking	She had once or twice suggested to Elizabeth the possibility of his being partial to her, but Elizabeth always laughed at the idea; and Mrs.	“partial”: From Middle English partiall, parcial, from Old French parcial "biased or particular", from Late Latin partiālis "of or pertaining to a part", from Latin pars "part". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/partial#Etymology)
newspaper (noun)	a daily or weekly publication on folded sheets; contains news and articles and advertisements	The gentleman experienced some change of feeling; he drew back his chair, took a newspaper from the table, and, glancing over it, said, in a colder voice—	“newspaper”: From news + paper. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/newspaper#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What clues does Elizabeth miss?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who calls on Elizabeth unexpectedly? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy
2. What does Charlotte suspect? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy is in love with Elizabeth
3. How does Elizabeth respond to the idea? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She dismisses it
4. Where does Darcy keep meeting her? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: On walks in the park

5. What device creates tension here? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Dramatic irony
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXXII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy calls on Elizabeth alone and is uneasy. Charlotte suspects he is in love; Elizabeth dismisses the idea. Darcy keeps meeting her on walks.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence recollecting when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty…” What does “emergence” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: emergence: an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage).
10. Reread: “A short dialogue on the subject of the country ensued, on either side calm and concise—and soon put an end to by the entrance of Charlotte and her sister, just returned from their walk.” What does “concise” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: concise: brief and to the point.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXII” suggest about puzzling visits? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Dramatic irony: readers see what Elizabeth refuses to see.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about puzzling visits? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “They then sat down, and when her enquiries after Rosings were made, seemed in danger of sinking into total silence.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy calls on Elizabeth alone and is uneasy. Charlotte suspects he is in love; Elizabeth dismisses the idea. Darcy keeps meeting her on walks.
6. How does “Chapter XXXII” build on “Chapter XXXI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's comment on distance. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23): Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth. On characterization: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What clues does Elizabeth miss?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Unchaperoned meetings were noticeable in a small community. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's comment on distance. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Dramatic irony: readers see what Elizabeth refuses to see.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23): Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage). Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XXXII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about puzzling visits? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: "I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's comment on distance. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter XXXII": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: "You cannot have been always at Longbourn" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23): Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: "I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's comment on distance. On irony: The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter XXXII" treats puzzling visits with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s ·

CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23): Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXXIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about puzzling visits? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19): Elizabeth's comment on distance. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Useful evidence: “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23): Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth. Theme link: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23: “You cannot have been always at _____”

   Key: Longbourn
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It was an earnest, _____ gaze, but she often doubted whether there were much admiration in it, and sometimes it seemed nothing but absence of mind.” Word bank: counterbalance, concise, steadfast, emergence

Key: steadfast

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “He was beyond comparison the pleasantest man; he certainly admired her, and his situation in life was most eligible; but, to counterbalance these advantages, Mr.”, what does “counterbalance” most nearly mean?
   A. friendly and trying to win good will
   B. a crafty and involved plot to achieve your (usually sinister) ends
   C. to balance out; to offset
   D. made loved or liked

   Key: C (to balance out; to offset)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy had considerable patronage in the church, and his cousin could have none at all.”, what does “patronage” most nearly mean?
   A. receiving property after someone's death
   B. packages
   C. a state of melancholy depression
   D. the act of providing approval and support

   Key: D (the act of providing approval and support)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond to the idea?
   A. She tells Jane
   B. She agrees
   C. She is thrilled
   D. She dismisses it

   Key: D (She dismisses it)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who calls on Elizabeth unexpectedly?
   A. Darcy
   B. Bingley
   C. Collins
   D. Wickham

   Key: A (Darcy)
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins have a comfortable income, but not such a one as will allow of frequent _____—and I am persuaded my friend would not call herself near her family under less than half the present distance.”” Word bank: concise, emergence, journeys, counterbalance

   Key: journeys
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19: “I should never have said Mrs. _____ was settled near her family”

   Key: Collins
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where does Darcy keep meeting her?
   A. In London
   B. At Pemberley

C. At church only
D. On walks in the park

Key: D (On walks in the park)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXII”?
A. Shameless return
B. A ridiculous proposal
C. Puzzling visits
D. First impressions at the ball

Key: C (Puzzling visits)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19)
A. Elizabeth's comment on distance.
B. Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.
C. Mr. Bennet's joke.
D. Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

Key: A (Elizabeth's comment on distance.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You cannot have been always at Longbourn” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23)
A. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
B. Jane's honesty.
C. Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.
D. Opening; Elizabeth's openness.

Key: C (Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family” (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Elizabeth's comment on distance.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXII”? Darcy calls alone and finds Elizabeth by herself; their conversation is awkward and strangely personal (about the distance from home and Charlotte's marriage).
A. Hyperbole
B. Characterization
C. Imagery
D. Alliteration

Key: B (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts.
A. Pride and self-knowledge
B. Class and social mobility
C. Marriage and money
D. First impressions and prejudice

Key: C (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Charlotte suspect?

    A. Darcy dislikes Collins
    B. Darcy is ill
    C. Darcy will marry Anne soon
    D. Darcy is in love with Elizabeth

    Key: D (Darcy is in love with Elizabeth)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence _____ when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty departure, she observed—" Word bank: recollecting, concise, counterbalance, emergence

    Key: recollecting

19. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXXII"? The reader sees Darcy considering marriage; Elizabeth is puzzled.

    A. Imagery
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Theme
    D. Irony

    Key: D (Irony)

20. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I should never have said Mrs. Collins was settled near her family" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's comment on distance.

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening.

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Elizabeth was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1)

    A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.
    C. Elizabeth's wit.
    D. Opening.

    Key: D (Opening.)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "You cannot have been always at Longbourn" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXXII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Darcy's comment that "fifty miles of good road" is "a very easy distance" hints at his thoughts.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence recollecting when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty…", what does "emergence" most nearly mean?

    A. a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth
    B. bringing together (in marriage)
    C. the quality of exceeding the appropriate limits of decorum or probability or truth
    D. an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage)

    Key: D (an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage))

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXII, paragraph 1: "_____ was sitting by herself the next morning, and writing to Jane"

    Key: Elizabeth

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "You cannot have been always at Longbourn" (Chapter XXXII, paragraph 23).

    Sample answer: When he says "you cannot have been always at Longbourn," he is suggesting she could live far from home, a hint she does not read.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Darcy's odd remarks show his intentions to the reader while Elizabeth misses them." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: When he says "you cannot have been always at Longbourn," he is suggesting she could live far from home, a hint she does not read.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	4, 7, 17, 18, 1, 8, 9, 5, 10, 11, 13, 12, 15, 19, 14, 20	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	7, 9, 8, 6, 4, 3, 13, 11, 10, 21, 22, 19, 14, 23, 16, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	25, 17, 26, 7, 2, 22, 11, 10, 12, 13, 23, 27, 14, 19, 24, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 8, 3, 18, 11, 13, 22, 21, 12, 14, 15, 27, 19, 16, 20, 24	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	7, 18, 1, 12, 10, 13, 22, 15, 19, 27, 14, 23, 24, 20, 28, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 7, 1, 10, 13, 11, 12, 27, 15, 19, 14, 23, 28, 16, 20, 24	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	7, 1, 13, 21, 22, 10, 12, 14, 19, 27, 23, 15, 24, 16, 20, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	7, 2, 12, 11, 10, 22, 21, 15, 19, 23, 27, 14, 28, 24, 16, 20	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 18, 22, 12, 10, 21, 11, 23, 19, 14, 15, 27, 16, 28, 24, 20	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	2, 7, 11, 10, 12, 13, 22, 15, 27, 14, 23, 19, 20, 24, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XXXII," how does Austen show puzzling visits? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXII, how does Austen develop the idea of puzzling visits? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXII develops the idea of puzzling visits. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of puzzling visits. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXII suggests about puzzling visits. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XXXII to complicate the reader's understanding of puzzling visits. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of puzzling visits responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of puzzling visits follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXII and its treatment of puzzling visits. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXII as evidence for a larger claim about puzzling visits in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of puzzling visits. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. He was beyond comparison the pleasantest man; he certainly admired her, and his situation in life was most eligible; but, to counterbalance these advantages, Mr.

   As used in the text, what does the word “counterbalance” most nearly mean?

   A. a daily or weekly publication on folded sheets; contains news and articles and advertisements
   B. an elaborate and systematic plan of action
   C. to balance out; to offset
   D. fond (of); liking

2. They then sat down, and when her enquiries after Rosings were made, seemed in danger of sinking into total silence. It was absolutely necessary, therefore, to think of something, and in this emergence recollecting when she had seen him last in Hertfordshire, and feeling curious to know what he would say on the subject of their hasty departure, she observed—

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXII”?

   A. Pemberley
   B. Consequences of refusal
   C. Music, wit and manners
   D. Puzzling visits

SAT key: 1. C (to balance out; to offset); 2. D (Puzzling visits)

Lesson 34: Chapter XXXIII

Focus: a revelation from the colonel

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in “Chapter XXXIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Colonel Fitzwilliam mentions that Darcy recently saved a friend from an 'imprudent marriage.' Elizabeth realizes this means Jane and Bingley, and she weeps and stays home with a headache.

Background: Interfering in a friend's courtship was seen as a sign of loyalty or arrogance, depending on view.

Significance: The revelation primes Elizabeth's anger for the proposal to come.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: even an earl's son must consider fortune.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: tractable — easy to manage or control; lessening — making smaller or less; officious — too eager to interfere; procuring — get by special effort; hardships — a state of misfortune or affliction. “tractable”: From Middle English tractable, tractabel, from Latin tractābilis "that may be touched, handled, or managed", from tractō "take in hand, handle, manage", frequentative of trahō "draw". “lessening”: From Middle English lessenen, lasnen, equivalent to less + -en. “officious”: 15th century, from Middle English offycyous, from Latin officiōsus "kindly", from officium "service". “procuring”: From Middle English procuren, from Old French procurer, from Late Latin prōcūrāre "to manage, administer", from prō "on behalf of" + cūrō "to care for". “hardships”: From Middle English hardshipe, equivalent to hard + ship.
Words: tractable: easy to manage or control · lessening: making smaller or less · officious: too eager to interfere · procuring: get by special effort · hardships: a state of misfortune or affliction

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Interfering in a friend's courtship was seen as a sign of loyalty or arrogance, depending on view. The revelation primes Elizabeth's anger for the proposal to come. Plot: Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane. Characterization: The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "Mr. and Mrs. Collins's happiness; and that in speaking of Rosings and her not perfectly understanding the house, he seemed to expect" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Younger sons cannot marry where they like" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12). The colonel on money. That is plot at work: Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane.

> Younger sons cannot marry where they like (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Younger sons cannot marry where they like" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12). The colonel on money. That is plot at work: Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Imprudent" is Darcy's judgment of Jane's family; Elizabeth hears an insult to her sister. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Even an earl's son must consider fortune. (The revelation.)

> having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Imprudent" is Darcy's judgment of Jane's family; Elizabeth hears an insult to her sister.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Even an earl's son must consider fortune. (The revelation.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for plot, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a revelation from the colonel? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIII develops the idea of a revelation from the colonel. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. When the text says "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28), it shows this directly. He says Darcy congratulated himself on "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage," which Elizabeth instantly understands as Jane's ruin.

Task: Annotate the chapter for plot, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a revelation from the colonel? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIII develops the idea of a revelation from the colonel. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. When the text says "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28), it shows this directly. He says Darcy congratulated himself on "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage," which Elizabeth instantly understands as Jane's ruin.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply? Ask: what are the "very strong objections"? Are any fair?

Anchor question: Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply?

Facilitation: Ask: what are the "very strong objections"? Are any fair?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a revelation from the colonel? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. ("having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage", Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a revelation from the colonel? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. ("having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage", Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how plot shapes a revelation from the colonel. Key takeaway: even an earl's son must consider fortune.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Plot: Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane.
- Characterization: The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: even an earl's son must consider fortune.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “Mr. and Mrs. Collins’s happiness; and that in speaking of Rosings and her not perfectly understanding the house, he seemed to expect” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 1).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “the same style, and the subject dropped. To interrupt a silence which might make him fancy her affected with what had passed” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 16).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12) The colonel on money.
- “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30) The cause of separation.
- “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28) The revelation.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal.
Evidence: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28)
Reasoning: He says Darcy congratulated himself on "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage," which Elizabeth instantly understands as Jane's ruin.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
tractable (adjective)	easy to manage or control	I never heard any harm of her; and I dare say she is one of the most tractable creatures in the world.	"tractable": From Middle English tractable, tractabel, from Latin tractābilis "that may be touched, handled, or managed", from tractō "take in hand, handle, manage", frequentative of trahō "draw". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tractable#Etymology)
lessening (verb)	making smaller or less	"That is not an unnatural surmise," said Fitzwilliam, "but it is lessening the honour of my cousin's triumph very sadly."	"lessening": From Middle English lessenen, lasnen, equivalent to less + -en. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/lessen#Etymology)
officious (adjective)	too eager to interfere	"You are rather disposed to call his interference officious?"	"officious": 15th century, from Middle English offycyous, from Latin officiōsus "kindly", from officium "service". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/officious#Etymology)
procuring (verb)	get by special effort	When have you been prevented by want of money from going wherever you chose, or procuring anything you had a fancy for?"	"procuring": From Middle English procuren, from Old French procurer, from Late Latin prōcūrāre "to manage, administer", from prō "on behalf of" + cūrō "to care for". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/procure#Etymology)
hardships (noun)	a state of misfortune or affliction	"These are home questions—and perhaps I cannot say that I have experienced many hardships of that nature.	"hardships": From Middle English hardshipe, equivalent to hard + ship. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/hardship#Etymology)
forcing (verb)	making oneself do something	Putting away the letter immediately and forcing a smile, she said—	"forcing": From Middle English force, fors, forse, from Old French force, from Late Latin fortia, a noun derived from the neuter plural of Latin fortis "strong", ultimately from Proto-Indo-European *bʰerǵʰ- "to rise, high, hill". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/force#Etymology)
cousins (noun)	the child of your aunt or uncle	Darcy, it determined her not to attend her cousins to Rosings, where they were engaged to drink tea.
recovering (verb)	regaining self-control	"Is this," thought Elizabeth, "meant for me?" and she coloured at the idea; but, recovering herself, said in a lively tone, "And pray, what is	"recovering": From Middle English recoveryng; equivalent to recover + -ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/recovering#Etymology)

		the usual price of an Earl's younger son?
interrupt (verb)	to break in on; to stop	To interrupt a silence which might make him fancy her affected with what had passed, she soon afterwards said—
mentioning (verb)	speaking about briefly	"You may depend upon my not mentioning it."	"mentioning": Middle English mencioun, mention, from Old French mention, from Latin mentiōnem, accusative of mentiō "a mention, calling to mind". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mention#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Fitzwilliam reveal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy saved a friend from an imprudent marriage
2. Whom does Elizabeth realize the friend is? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley
3. How does Elizabeth react to Colonel Fitzwilliam's remark about an 'imprudent marriage'? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She weeps and stays home
4. Why does Fitzwilliam say he must marry money? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He is a younger son
5. What effect does this chapter set up? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth's anger at the proposal
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXXIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Colonel Fitzwilliam mentions that Darcy recently saved a friend from an 'imprudent marriage.' Elizabeth realizes this means Jane and Bingley, and she weeps and stays home with a headache.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXXIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “I never heard any harm of her; and I dare say she is one of the most tractable creatures in the world.” What does “tractable” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: tractable: easy to manage or control.
10. Reread: ““That is not an unnatural surmise,” said Fitzwilliam, “but it is lessening the honour of my cousin’s triumph very sadly.”” What does “lessening” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: lessening: making smaller or less.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXIII” suggest about a revelation from the colonel? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The revelation primes Elizabeth's anger for the proposal to come.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about a revelation from the colonel? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12): The colonel on money. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “She was engaged one day as she walked, in re-perusing Jane’s last letter, and dwelling on some passages which proved that Jane had not written in spirits, when, instead of being…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Colonel Fitzwilliam mentions that Darcy recently saved a friend from an 'imprudent marriage.' Elizabeth realizes this means Jane and Bingley, and she weeps and stays home with a headache.
6. How does “Chapter XXXIII” build on “Chapter XXXII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30): The cause of separation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28): The revelation. On characterization: The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Fitzwilliam's casual remark hurt Elizabeth so deeply?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12): The colonel on money. On characterization: The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Interfering in a friend's courtship was seen as a sign of loyalty or arrogance, depending on view. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30): The cause of separation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The revelation primes Elizabeth's anger for the proposal to come.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28): The revelation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12): The colonel on money. On characterization: The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a revelation from the colonel? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30): The cause of separation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28): The revelation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12): The colonel on money. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30): The cause of separation. On plot: Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXXIII” treats a revelation from the colonel with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28): The revelation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXXIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12): The colonel on money. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a revelation from the colonel? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: "there were some very strong objections against the lady" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30): The cause of separation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Useful evidence: "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage" (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28): The revelation. Theme link: even an earl's son must consider fortune. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Darcy, it determined her not to attend her _____ to Rosings, where they were engaged to drink tea." Word bank: cousins, tractable, lessening, officious

   Key: cousins
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""You are rather disposed to call his interference officious?"", what does "officious" most nearly mean?

   A. hides

   B. a room used primarily for sleeping

   C. too eager to interfere

   D. approved; given permission

   Key: C (too eager to interfere)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What effect does this chapter set up?

   A. Elizabeth's anger at the proposal

   B. Jane's engagement

   C. A trip to Bath

   D. A new romance

   Key: A (Elizabeth's anger at the proposal)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Putting away the letter immediately and _____ a smile, she said—” Word bank: forcing, lessening, tractable, officious
   Key: forcing
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28: “having lately saved a friend from the _____ of a most imprudent marriage”
   Key: inconveniences
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““These are home questions—and perhaps I cannot say that I have experienced many _____ of that nature.” Word bank: hardships, officious, lessening, tractable
   Key: hardships
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Fitzwilliam reveal?
   - A. Lydia eloped
   - B. Wickham is a thief
   - C. Darcy saved a friend from an imprudent marriage
   - D. Darcy is engaged

   Key: C (Darcy saved a friend from an imprudent marriage)
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Is this,” thought Elizabeth, “meant for me?” and she coloured at the idea; but, _____ herself, said in a lively tone, “And pray, what is the usual price of an Earl’s younger son?” Word bank: tractable, lessening, recovering, officious
   Key: recovering
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““That is not an unnatural surmise,” said Fitzwilliam, “but it is lessening the honour of my cousin’s triumph very sadly.””, what does “lessening” most nearly mean?
   - A. qualities that make someone attractive
   - B. produced or growing in extreme abundance
   - C. making smaller or less
   - D. leaving one person or side for another

   Key: C (making smaller or less)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28)
    - A. The revelation.
    - B. Opening.
    - C. Opening line: crisp, decisive.
    - D. Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.

    Key: A (The revelation.)
11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The colonel on money.
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12)
    - A. The colonel on money.
    - B. Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.

C. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.
D. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

Key: A (The colonel on money.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIII”?
    A. Puzzling visits
    B. A revelation from the colonel
    C. The Brighton plan
    D. Self-recognition

    Key: B (A revelation from the colonel)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIII”? Colonel Fitzwilliam tells Elizabeth that Darcy saved a friend from "a most imprudent marriage"; she realizes it is Bingley and Jane.
    A. Allusion
    B. Plot
    C. Simile
    D. Personification

    Key: B (Plot)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Even an earl's son must consider fortune.
    A. Class and social mobility
    B. Pride and self-knowledge
    C. Marriage and money
    D. First impressions and prejudice

    Key: C (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He says Darcy congratulated himself on "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage," which Elizabeth instantly understands as Jane's ruin.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “When have you been prevented by want of money from going wherever you chose, or procuring anything you had a fancy for?””, what does “procuring” most nearly mean?
    A. state emphatically and authoritatively
    B. gave; passed on
    C. get by special effort
    D. unbearable

    Key: C (get by special effort)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12: “_____ sons cannot marry where they like”

    Key: Younger

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30: “there were some very strong _____ against the lady”

    Key: objections

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Elizabeth realize the friend is?
    A. Fitzwilliam
    B. Collins
    C. Wickham
    D. Bingley

    Key: D (Bingley)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth react to Colonel Fitzwilliam's remark about an 'imprudent marriage'?
    A. She laughs
    B. She weeps and stays home
    C. She leaves Kent
    D. She confronts Lady Catherine

    Key: B (She weeps and stays home)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30)
    A. Miss Bingley's checklist.
    B. The cause of separation.
    C. Elizabeth's mortification.
    D. Mr. Bennet's announcement.

    Key: B (The cause of separation.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIII”? The colonel explains that as a younger son he must marry money.
    A. Alliteration
    B. Allusion
    C. Symbolism
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXXIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: even an earl's son must consider fortune.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The colonel's disclosure confirms Elizabeth's worst view of Darcy and sets up the proposal. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28).

    Sample answer: He says Darcy congratulated himself on "having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage," which Elizabeth instantly understands as Jane's ruin.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The cause of separation.
27. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “having lately saved a friend from the inconveniences of a most imprudent marriage” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 28). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The revelation.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Younger sons cannot marry where they like” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The colonel on money.
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “there were some very strong objections against the lady” (Chapter XXXIII, paragraph 30) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The cause of separation.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 9, 19, 20, 1, 21, 2, 22, 11, 12, 13, 23, 15, 14, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	20, 8, 17, 6, 1, 9, 11, 12, 10, 22, 13, 14, 23, 25, 16, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 3, 9, 19, 2, 26, 11, 22, 10, 12, 14, 23, 27, 25, 16, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 7, 9, 6, 11, 10, 13, 22, 12, 23, 27, 14, 15, 28, 29, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 9, 4, 13, 12, 11, 10, 25, 27, 23, 15, 14, 28, 29, 16, 24	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 4, 9, 26, 22, 12, 13, 23, 27, 25, 14, 15, 29, 16, 28, 24	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 6, 10, 26, 13, 11, 12, 14, 23, 25, 15, 27, 16, 24, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	6, 8, 11, 10, 22, 13, 12, 27, 15, 23, 14, 25, 16, 24, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	6, 4, 10, 26, 13, 11, 12, 25, 14, 23, 27, 15, 24, 29, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	6, 4, 12, 10, 13, 26, 11, 25, 23, 27, 15, 14, 28, 24, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXIII,” how does Austen show a revelation from the colonel? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXIII, how does Austen develop the idea of a revelation from the colonel? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXIII develops the idea of a revelation from the colonel. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of a revelation from the colonel. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXIII suggests about a revelation from the colonel. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses plot in Chapter XXXIII to complicate the reader's understanding of a revelation from the colonel. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a revelation from the colonel responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a revelation from the colonel follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXIII and its treatment of a revelation from the colonel. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXIII as evidence for a larger claim about a revelation from the colonel in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a revelation from the colonel. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “You are rather disposed to call his interference officious?”

As used in the text, what does the word “officious” most nearly mean?

A. too eager to interfere
B. speaking about briefly
C. regaining self-control
D. to break in on; to stop

2. She was engaged one day as she walked, in re-perusing Jane’s last letter, and dwelling on some passages which proved that Jane had not written in spirits, when, instead of being again surprised by Mr. Darcy, she saw on looking up that Colonel Fitzwilliam was meeting her. Putting away the letter immediately and forcing a smile, she said—

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIII”?

A. Disappointment and philosophy
B. Self-recognition
C. A disastrous ball
D. A revelation from the colonel

SAT key: 1. A (too eager to interfere); 2. D (A revelation from the colonel)

Lesson 35: Chapter XXXIV

Focus: the first proposal

Objective: Students will analyze how conflict develops in “Chapter XXXIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy unexpectedly proposes, insulting her family and confessing he loves her against his will. Elizabeth rejects him angrily, accusing him of ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham, and telling him he would not have moved her “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner.”

Background: A proposal from a man of Darcy's wealth was extraordinary for a woman of Elizabeth's means.

Significance: The climax of the first half: pride and prejudice collide openly.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> *Today's words: agitating — upsetting; disturbing; conveying — expressing; communicating; perusal — a careful reading; repressed — held back; kept under control; detailed — explained point by point. “conveying”: From Middle English conveien, from Old French conveier (French convoyer), from Vulgar Latin convio, from Classical Latin via "way". Compare convoy. “repressed”: Ultimately from Latin repressus, the perfect passive participle of reprimō "to repress". “detailed”: Middle French détail, from Old French detail, from detaillier, from de- + taillier "to cut".
> Words: agitating: upsetting; disturbing · conveying: expressing; communicating · perusal: a careful reading · repressed: held back; kept under control · detailed: explained point by point

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
A proposal from a man of Darcy's wealth was extraordinary for a woman of Elizabeth's means. The climax of the first half: pride and prejudice collide openly. Structure: The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him. Dialogue: Both speak with heat; each wounds the other. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "It was some consolation to think that his visit to Rosings was to end on the day after the next, and a" (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner" (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24). Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. That is structure at work: The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him.

> had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner" (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24). Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. That is structure at work: The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Struggled" admits he fought his love, which insults her. Pride and prejudice both shape the scene. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: His pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. (Proposal opening.)

> In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Struggled" admits he fought his love, which insults her. Pride and prejudice both shape the scene.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: His pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. (Proposal opening.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for structure, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIV develops the idea of the first proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. When the text says "You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it" (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. He confesses "in vain have I struggled," dwelling on her inferiority even as he declares love, and she replies that no offer "in any possible way" could have tempted her.

Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIV develops the idea of the first proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. When the text says "You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it" (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26), it shows this directly. He confesses "in vain have I struggled," dwelling on her inferiority even as he declares love, and she replies that no offer "in any possible way" could have tempted her.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken? Ask: what does each get wrong, and what does each get right?

Anchor question: Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken?

Facilitation: Ask: what does each get wrong, and what does each get right?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first proposal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. ("You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it", Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first proposal? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. ("You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it", Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how structure shapes the first proposal. Key takeaway: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him.
- Dialogue: Both speak with heat; each wounds the other.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “It was some consolation to think that his visit to Rosings was to end on the day after the next, and a” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 1).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Elizabeth was surprised, but said not a word. After a silence of several minutes he came towards her in an agitated manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4) Proposal opening.
- “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24) Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.
- “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26) Final refusal.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide.
Evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26)
Reasoning: He confesses "in vain have I struggled," dwelling on her inferiority even as he declares love, and she replies that no offer "in any possible way" could have tempted her.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
agitating (adjective)	upsetting; disturbing	She continued in very agitating reflections till the sound of Lady Catherine's carriage made her feel how unequal she was to encounter Charlotte's observation, and hurried her away to her room.
conveying (verb)	expressing; communicating	Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.	"conveying": From Middle English conveien, from Old French conveier (French convoyer), from Vulgar Latin *convio, from Classical Latin via "way". Compare convoy. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/convey#Etymology)
perusal (noun)	a careful reading	Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.
repressed (verb)	held back; kept under control	My feelings will not be repressed.	"repressed": Ultimately from Latin repressus, the perfect passive participle of reprimō "to repress". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/repress#Etymology)
detailed (verb)	explained point by point	He spoke well, but there were feelings besides those of the heart to be detailed, and he was not more eloquent on the subject of tenderness than of pride.	"detailed": Middle French détail, from Old French detail, from detaillier, from de- + taillier "to cut". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/detail#Etymology)
inflict (verb)	impose something unpleasant	Darcy's shameful boast of what misery he had been able to inflict, gave her a keener sense of her sister's sufferings.	"inflict": From Latin īnflīctus, from in- + flīctus, past participle of īnflīgō "to knock or strike against", from in- + flīgō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inflict#Etymology) overlooked (verb)	look past, fail to notice	But perhaps," added he, stopping in his walk, and turning towards her, "these offences might have been overlooked, had not your pride been hurt by my honest confession of the scruples that had long prevented my forming any serious design.

obstacles (noun)	something immaterial that stands in the way and must be circumvented or surmounted	His sense of her inferiority—of its being a degradation—of the family obstacles which judgment had always opposed to inclination, were dwelt on with a warmth which seemed due to the consequence he was wounding, but was very unlikely to recommend his suit.	“obstacles”: From Middle English obstacle, from Old French obstacle, from Latin obstāculum. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/obstacle#Etymology)
degradation (noun)	changing to a lower state (a less respected state)	His sense of her inferiority—of its being a degradation—of the family obstacles which judgment had always opposed to inclination, were dwelt on with a warmth which seemed due to the consequence he was wounding, but was very unlikely to recommend his suit.	“degradation”: From French dégradation. Morphologically degrade + ation. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/degradation#Etymology)
disturbance (noun)	agitation; a troubled state	His complexion became pale with anger, and the disturbance of his mind was visible in every feature.	“disturbance”: From Latin disturbare "to throw into disorder," from dis- "completely" + turbare "to disorder," from turba "turmoil." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/disturbance)

Discussion questions

1. Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken?
2. Where does conflict appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Darcy do? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Proposes to Elizabeth
2. How does Darcy describe his love? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Against his will and judgment

3. What two charges does Elizabeth make? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham
4. Which phrase of Elizabeth's stings Darcy most? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner”
5. What is ironic about the proposal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy expects acceptance but is rejected
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXXIV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy unexpectedly proposes, insulting her family and confessing he loves her against his will. Elizabeth rejects him angrily, accusing him of ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham, and telling him he would not have moved her “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner.”
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXIV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “She continued in very agitating reflections till the sound of Lady Catherine’s carriage made her feel how unequal she was to encounter Charlotte’s observation, and hurried her away to her room.” What does “agitating” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: agitating: upsetting; disturbing.
10. Reread: “Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.” What does “conveying” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: conveying: expressing; communicating.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXIV” suggest about the first proposal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The climax of the first half: pride and prejudice collide openly.
2. Find one example of conflict in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the first proposal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4): Proposal opening. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth’s astonishment was beyond expression.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.

5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy unexpectedly proposes, insulting her family and confessing he loves her against his will. Elizabeth rejects him angrily, accusing him of ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham, and telling him he would not have moved her “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner.”
6. How does “Chapter XXXIV” build on “Chapter XXXIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24): Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. On structure: The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26): Final refusal. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Which of Elizabeth's accusations is fair, and which is mistaken?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4): Proposal opening. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: A proposal from a man of Darcy's wealth was extraordinary for a woman of Elizabeth's means. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24): Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The climax of the first half: pride and prejudice collide openly.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s ·

CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26): Final refusal. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4): Proposal opening. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the first proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24): Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26): Final refusal. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4): Proposal opening. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the conflict in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24): Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXXIV” treats the first proposal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26): Final refusal. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXXV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4): Proposal opening. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the first proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24): Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Useful evidence: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26): Final refusal. Theme link: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Conflict: look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any _____ way that would have tempted me to accept it”

   Key: possible
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “My feelings will not be repressed.”, what does “repressed” most nearly mean?
   A. open and bold, without any attempt to hide
   B. held back; kept under control
   C. an unrestrained expression of emotion
   D. tidiness and order

   Key: B (held back; kept under control)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.”, what does “conveying” most nearly mean?
   A. warning
   B. to lower oneself to do something
   C. expose or make accessible to some action or influence
   D. expressing; communicating

   Key: D (expressing; communicating)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.”, what does “perusal” most nearly mean?
   A. deliver a sermon
   B. a word of one syllable
   C. passing from person to person
   D. a careful reading

   Key: D (a careful reading)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His sense of her inferiority—of its being a degradation—of the family _____ which judgment had always opposed to inclination, were dwelt on with a warmth which seemed due to the consequence he was wounding, but was very unlikely to recommend his suit.” Word bank: obstacles, conveying, perusal, agitating

   Key: obstacles
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24: “had you behaved in a more _____-like manner”

   Key: gentleman
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy do?
   A. Proposes to Anne
   B. Leaves England
   C. Insults Charlotte
   D. Proposes to Elizabeth

   Key: D (Proposes to Elizabeth)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4: “In vain have I _____. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you”

   Key: struggled

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is ironic about the proposal?

   A. Both agree
   B. Elizabeth proposes
   C. It is a joke
   D. Darcy expects acceptance but is rejected

   Key: D (Darcy expects acceptance but is rejected)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIV”?

    A. The first proposal
    B. A misguided warning
    C. Departure and relief
    D. The great confrontation

    Key: A (The first proposal)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24)

    A. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
    B. The narrator's verdict.
    C. Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."
    D. Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4)

    A. Elizabeth's own question.
    B. Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.
    C. Proposal opening.
    D. Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.

    Key: C (Proposal opening.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26).

    Sample answer: He confesses "in vain have I struggled," dwelling on her inferiority even as he declares love, and she replies that no offer "in any possible way" could have tempted her.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Final refusal.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 24) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He spoke well, but there were feelings besides those of the heart to be _____, and he was not more eloquent on the subject of tenderness than of pride.” Word bank: conveying, agitating, perusal, detailed

    Key: detailed

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which phrase of Elizabeth's stings Darcy most?
    - A. “you are rich”
    - B. “you are proud”
    - C. “you are dull”
    - D. “had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner”

    Key: D (“had you behaved in a more gentleman-like manner”)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “But perhaps,” added he, stopping in his walk, and turning towards her, “these offences might have been _____, had not your pride been hurt by my honest confession of the scruples that had long prevented my forming any serious design.” Word bank: agitating, perusal, conveying, overlooked

    Key: overlooked

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIV”? The first proposal: the novel's turning point. Darcy declares love while describing his struggle against it; Elizabeth refuses and accuses him.
    - A. Personification
    - B. Structure
    - C. Foreshadowing
    - D. Plot

    Key: B (Structure)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIV”? Both speak with heat; each wounds the other.
    - A. Simile
    - B. Point of view
    - C. Plot
    - D. Dialogue

    Key: D (Dialogue)

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The proposal fails because Darcy's pride and Elizabeth's prejudice collide.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: He confesses "in vain have I struggled," dwelling on her inferiority even as he declares love, and she replies that no offer "in any possible way" could have tempted her.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What two charges does Elizabeth make?
    A. Cowardice and greed
    B. Insulting Collins
    C. Stealing money and lying
    D. Ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham

    Key: D (Ruining Jane's happiness and wronging Wickham)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Proposal opening.

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You could not have made me the offer of your hand in any possible way that would have tempted me to accept it” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 26)
    A. Final refusal.
    B. Elizabeth's certainty, answering Jane's hesitation.
    C. Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.
    D. Elizabeth deflates the household's awe of rank with a joke.

    Key: A (Final refusal.)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXXIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: his pride shapes the proposal; her prejudice shapes the refusal.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “In vain have I struggled. It will not do. My feelings will not be repressed. You must allow me to tell you how ardently I admire and love you” (Chapter XXXIV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Proposal opening.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy’s shameful boast of what misery he had been able to _____, gave her a keener sense of her sister’s sufferings.” Word bank: perusal, conveying, agitating, inflict

    Key: inflict

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 2, 18, 4, 7, 3, 19, 11, 10, 12, 13, 20, 21, 15, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 9, 6, 19, 2, 23, 11, 10, 24, 12, 25, 21, 15, 20, 22, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 3, 8, 2, 23, 13, 24, 12, 10, 11, 20, 21, 15, 14, 26, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	19, 17, 7, 2, 12, 25, 24, 13, 11, 21, 20, 15, 14, 26, 22, 27

		recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 18, 19, 10, 13, 12, 11, 25, 14, 21, 15, 20, 16, 27, 22, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 28, 19, 11, 13, 12, 25, 24, 14, 15, 21, 20, 26, 27, 16, 22	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 17, 11, 12, 10, 13, 25, 24, 14, 15, 20, 21, 22, 27, 16, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	5, 6, 10, 24, 13, 11, 25, 12, 15, 20, 14, 21, 26, 27, 22, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 28, 12, 10, 24, 25, 13, 11, 20, 14, 21, 15, 26, 27, 22, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	8, 19, 10, 25, 12, 24, 11, 13, 20, 14, 21, 15, 16, 27, 22, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXIV,” how does Austen show the first proposal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the conflict you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXIV, how does Austen develop the idea of the first proposal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the conflict in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXIV develops the idea of the first proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its conflict shape the reader's understanding of the first proposal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXIV suggests about the first proposal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's conflict and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses conflict in Chapter XXXIV to complicate the reader's understanding of the first proposal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the first proposal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the first proposal follows or bends those conventions, using the conflict as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXIV and its treatment of the first proposal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's conflict and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXIV as evidence for a larger claim about the first proposal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the first proposal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Elizabeth noticed every sentence conveying the idea of uneasiness, with an attention which it had hardly received on the first perusal.

As used in the text, what does the word “perusal” most nearly mean?

A. agitation; a troubled state
B. something immaterial that stands in the way and must be circumvented or surmounted
C. changing to a lower state (a less respected state)
D. a careful reading

2. Elizabeth’s astonishment was beyond expression. She stared, coloured, doubted, and was silent. This he considered sufficient encouragement, and the avowal of all that he felt and had long felt for her, immediately followed. He spoke well, but there were feelings besides those of the heart to be detailed, and he was not more eloquent on the subject of tenderness than of pride. His sense of her inferiority—of its being a degradation—of the family obstacles which judgment had always opposed to inclination, were dwelt on with a warmth which seemed due to the consequence he was wounding, but was very unlikely to recommend his suit.

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIV”?

A. The entail and the officers
B. Strategy in courtship

C. The first proposal

D. An absurd cousin's letter

SAT key: 1. D (a careful reading); 2. C (The first proposal)

Lesson 36: Chapter XXXV

Focus: the letter

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in "Chapter XXXV" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (grooming of a minor): Wickham, an adult, tried to elope with 15-year-old Georgiana for her fortune. Name this as predatory behavior and grooming, not romance.
Student preview: Darcy's letter reveals that an adult man pursued a 15-year-old girl for her money. We will call that what it is.
Suggested language: "How does Darcy describe what Wickham did? Why does it matter that Georgiana was fifteen?"

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy hands Elizabeth a letter explaining himself: he separated Bingley and Jane believing Jane indifferent and the Bennets improper; and Wickham squandered money, demanded more, and tried to elope with Darcy's 15-year-old sister Georgiana for her fortune.

Background: Letters in novels allow characters to speak fully; here the epistolary form reverses the plot.

Significance: The letter shifts point of view, forcing Elizabeth (and readers) to re-examine the evidence.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does the letter change what we know? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because…. Content note before we start: Darcy's letter reveals that an adult man pursued a 15-year-old girl for her money. We will call that what it is.
Prompt: How does the letter change what we know?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: evidence replaces impression.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: obtruded — pushed forward unwelcome; elopement — running away secretly to marry; turnpike — a main road that charged a toll; benefited — helped; given an advantage; decease — the event of dying or departure from life. "obtruded": From Latin obtrūdō "thrust off or against", from ob- "ob-" + trūdō "thrust". "turnpike": From Middle English turnpyke "spiked barrier across a road", originally used to block access to such a road until a toll was paid. Equivalent to modern turn + pike. "benefited": From Late Middle English benefytt, benefett, alteration (due to Latin bene-) of benfet, bienfet, bienfait "good or noble deed", from Anglo-Norman benfet "well-done", Middle French bienfait, from Old French bienfet, bienfait "foredeal, favour", from past participle of bienfaire "to do good, do well", from bien "well" + faire "to do", modelled after Latin benefactum "good deed". More at benefactor. "decease": From Old French deces (Modern French décès), from Latin dēcessus "departure".

Words: obtruded: pushed forward unwelcome · elopement: running away secretly to marry · turnpike: a main road that charged a toll · benefited: helped; given an advantage · decease: the event of dying or departure from life

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Letters in novels allow characters to speak fully; here the epistolary form reverses the plot. The letter shifts point of view, forcing Elizabeth (and readers) to re-examine the evidence. Epistolary: Darcy's letter: the novel's longest document, explaining Jane and Bingley, and revealing Wickham's attempt to elope with Georgiana. Point of view: For the first time, Darcy's account is set against Wickham's. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "the lane, she then began it. It was dated from Rosings, at eight o'clock in the morning, and was as follows" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5). Darcy admits his role. That is epistolary at work: Darcy's letter: the novel's longest document, explaining Jane and Bingley, and revealing Wickham's attempt to elope with Georgiana.

> I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5). Darcy admits his role. That is epistolary at work: Darcy's letter: the novel's longest document, explaining Jane and Bingley, and revealing Wickham's attempt to elope with Georgiana.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The letter provides evidence, not opinion; it overturns first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Evidence replaces impression. (The letter's opening.)

> Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The letter provides evidence, not opinion; it overturns first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Evidence replaces impression. (The letter's opening.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for epistolary, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the letter? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXV develops the idea of the letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. When the text says “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Darcy explains that "Mr. Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds," giving a motive for Wickham's charm that Elizabeth never questioned.

Task: Annotate the chapter for epistolary, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the letter? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXV develops the idea of the letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. When the text says “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Darcy explains that "Mr. Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds," giving a motive for Wickham's charm that Elizabeth never questioned.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How does the letter change what we know? Ask: what parts of the letter are proven and what parts must Elizabeth take on trust?

Anchor question: How does the letter change what we know?
Facilitation: Ask: what parts of the letter are proven and what parts must Elizabeth take on trust?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the letter? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. ("Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds", Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the letter? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. ("Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds", Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how epistolary shapes the letter. Key takeaway: evidence replaces impression.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Epistolary: Darcy's letter: the novel's longest document, explaining Jane and Bingley, and revealing Wickham's attempt to elope with Georgiana.
- Point of view: For the first time, Darcy's account is set against Wickham's.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: evidence replaces impression.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "the lane, she then began it. It was dated from Rosings, at eight o'clock in the morning, and was as follows" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 3).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "by that time reached it also, and holding out a letter, which she instinctively took, said with a look of haughty composure" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 2).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4) The letter's opening.
- "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5) Darcy admits his role.

- “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5) Wickham's motive.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess.
Evidence: “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5)
Reasoning: Darcy explains that "Mr. Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds," giving a motive for Wickham's charm that Elizabeth never questioned.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
obtruded (verb)	pushed forward unwelcome	But last summer he was again most painfully obtruded on my notice.	“obtruded”: From Latin obtrūdō "thrust off or against", from ob- "ob-" + trūdō "thrust". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/obtrude#Etymology)
elopement (noun)	running away secretly to marry	I joined them unexpectedly a day or two before the intended elopement, and then Georgiana, unable to support the idea of grieving and offending a brother whom she almost looked up to as a father, acknowledged the whole to me.
turnpike (noun)	a main road that charged a toll	Darcy’s sometimes coming there stopped her, and instead of entering the park, she turned up the lane, which led her farther from the turnpike road.	“turnpike”: From Middle English turnpyke "spiked barrier across a road", originally used to block access to such a road until a toll was paid. Equivalent to modern turn + pike. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/turnpike#Etymology)
benefited (verb)	helped; given an advantage	Wickham wrote to inform me that, having finally resolved against taking orders, he hoped I should not think it unreasonable for him to expect some more immediate pecuniary advantage, in lieu of the preferment, by which he could not be benefited.	“benefited”: From Late Middle English benefytt, benefett, alteration (due to Latin bene-) of benfet, bienfet, bienfait "good or noble deed", from Anglo-Norman benfet "well-done", Middle French bienfait, from Old French bienfet, bienfait "foredeal, favour", from past participle of bienfaire "to do good, do well", from bien "well" + faire "to do", modelled after Latin benefactum "good deed". More at benefactor. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/benefit#Etymology)

decease (noun)	the event of dying or departure from life	For about three years I heard little of him; but on the decease of the incumbent of the living which had been designed for him, he applied to me again by letter for the presentation.	"decease": From Old French deces (Modern French décès), from Latin dēcessus "departure". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/decease#Etymology)
symptom (noun)	a sign; an indication	Her look and manners were open, cheerful and engaging as ever, but without any symptom of peculiar regard, and I remained convinced from the evening's scrutiny, that though she received his attentions with pleasure, she did not invite them by any participation of sentiment.	"symptom": From Middle English sinthoma, from Medieval Latin sinthoma, altered by Late Latin symptoma, from Ancient Greek σύμπτωμα "a happening, accident, symptom of disease", from stem of συμπίπτω "I befall", from συν- "together" + πίπτω "to fall". See also syn-, -oma, -ome. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/symptom#Etymology)
undecided (adjective)	not brought to a conclusion; subject to further thought	He spoke of it as a certain event, of which the time alone could be undecided.	"undecided": From Middle English undecided, equivalent to un- + decided. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/undecided#Etymology)
stating (verb)	express in words	She was then but fifteen, which must be her excuse; and after stating her imprudence, I am happy to add, that I owed the knowledge of it to herself.
coincidence (noun)	an event that might have been arranged although it was really accidental	His sisters' uneasiness had been equally excited with my own; our coincidence of feeling was soon discovered; and, alike sensible that no time was to be lost in detaching their brother, we shortly resolved on joining him directly in London.	"coincidence": From Middle French coincidence (French coïncidence). By surface analysis, en + coincide + ence. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/coincidence#Etymology)
pecuniary (adjective)	relating to or involving money	Wickham wrote to inform me that, having finally resolved against taking orders, he hoped I should not think it unreasonable for him to expect some more immediate pecuniary advantage, in lieu of the preferment, by which he could not be benefited.	"pecuniary": From Latin pecūniārius, from pecūnia "money", itself from pecū "cattle" and thus related to fee. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/pecuniary#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. How does the letter change what we know?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Darcy respond to the rejection? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He writes Elizabeth a letter
2. Why did Darcy separate Jane and Bingley? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He believed Jane indifferent
3. What did Wickham attempt with Georgiana? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: An elopement for her fortune
4. How old was Georgiana when Wickham, an adult, pursued her for her fortune? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Fifteen
5. What does the letter change in the narrative? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Point of view and evidence
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXXV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy hands Elizabeth a letter explaining himself: he separated Bingley and Jane believing Jane indifferent and the Bennets improper; and Wickham squandered money, demanded more, and tried to elope with Darcy's 15-year-old sister Georgiana for her fortune.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “But last summer he was again most painfully obtruded on my notice.” What does “obtruded” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: obtruded: pushed forward unwelcome.
10. Reread: “I joined them unexpectedly a day or two before the intended elopement, and then Georgiana, unable to support the idea of grieving and offending a brother whom she almost looked up to as a father, acknowledged the whole…” What does “elopement” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: elopement: running away secretly to marry.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXV” suggest about the letter? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The letter shifts point of view, forcing Elizabeth (and readers) to re-examine the evidence.
2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the letter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4): The letter's opening. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth awoke the next morning to the same thoughts and meditations which had at length closed her eyes.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy hands Elizabeth a letter explaining himself: he separated Bingley and Jane believing Jane indifferent and the Bennets improper; and Wickham squandered money, demanded more, and tried to elope with Darcy's 15-year-old sister Georgiana for her fortune.
6. How does “Chapter XXXV” build on “Chapter XXXIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Darcy admits his role. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Wickham's motive. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does the letter change what we know?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4): The letter's opening. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Letters in novels allow characters to speak fully; here the epistolary form reverses the plot. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Darcy admits his role. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The letter shifts point of view, forcing Elizabeth (and readers) to re-examine the evidence.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Wickham's motive. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4): The letter's opening. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the letter? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Darcy admits his role. On point of view: For the first time, Darcy's account is set against Wickham's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: “Wickham’s chief object was unquestionably my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds” (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Wickham's motive. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4): The letter's opening. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Darcy admits his role. On point of view: For the first time, Darcy's account is set against Wickham's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter XXXV" treats the letter with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Wickham's motive. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what "Chapter XXXVI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4): The letter's opening. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the letter? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Darcy admits his role. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Useful evidence: "Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5): Wickham's motive. Theme link: evidence replaces impression. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What did Wickham attempt with Georgiana?
   A. A theft
   B. A duel
   C. An elopement for her fortune
   D. Blackmail

   Key: C (An elopement for her fortune)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5: “Wickham’s chief object was _____ my sister’s fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds”

   Key: unquestionably
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She was then but fifteen, which must be her excuse; and after _____ her imprudence, I am happy to add, that I owed the knowledge of it to herself.” Word bank: stating, turnpike, elopement, obtruded

   Key: stating
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How old was Georgiana when Wickham, an adult, pursued her for her fortune?
   A. Eighteen
   B. Twenty
   C. Twelve
   D. Fifteen

   Key: D (Fifteen)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5: “I had _____ Mr. Bingley from your sister”

   Key: detached
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “But last summer he was again most painfully obtruded on my notice.”, what does “obtruded” most nearly mean?
   A. pushed forward unwelcome
   B. joyful and proud especially because of triumph or success
   C. presenting (someone) to another person
   D. to increase

   Key: A (pushed forward unwelcome)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does the letter change in the narrative?
   A. The genre
   B. The setting only
   C. Point of view and evidence
   D. Nothing

   Key: C (Point of view and evidence)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did Darcy separate Jane and Bingley?
   A. He believed Jane indifferent
   B. He wanted Bingley for Georgiana only
   C. He loved Jane
   D. He disliked Bingley

   Key: A (He believed Jane indifferent)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "I joined them unexpectedly a day or two before the intended elopement, and then Georgiana, unable to support the idea of grieving and offending a brother whom she almost looked up to as a father, acknowledged the whole…", what does "elopement" most nearly mean?
   A. hastily put together
   B. failing to give someone what they hope for
   C. the trait of keeping things secret
   D. running away secretly to marry

   Key: D (running away secretly to marry)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5)
    A. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.
    B. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
    C. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
    D. Darcy admits his role.

    Key: D (Darcy admits his role.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXXV"?
    A. Marriage as a social goal
    B. Parental failure
    C. A changed Darcy
    D. The letter

    Key: D (The letter)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy admits his role.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4)
    A. Mr. Bennet's sly question.
    B. The letter's opening.

C. The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.
D. The key to Charlotte's marriage.

Key: B (The letter's opening.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5).

    Sample answer: Darcy explains that "Mr. Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds," giving a motive for Wickham's charm that Elizabeth never questioned.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Wickham's motive.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The letter's opening.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He spoke of it as a certain event, of which the time alone could be _____." Word bank: undecided, turnpike, obtruded, elopement

    Key: undecided

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "For about three years I heard little of him; but on the _____ of the incumbent of the living which had been designed for him, he applied to me again by letter for the presentation." Word bank: obtruded, elopement, turnpike, decease

    Key: decease

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Darcy respond to the rejection?

    A. He leaves without a word
    B. He challenges Wickham
    C. He proposes again
    D. He writes Elizabeth a letter

    Key: D (He writes Elizabeth a letter)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Wickham wrote to inform me that, having finally resolved against taking orders, he hoped I should not think it unreasonable for him to expect some more immediate pecuniary advantage, in lieu of the preferment, by which…", what does "benefited" most nearly mean?

    A. helped; given an advantage
    B. invited; sought out
    C. reveal in private; tell confidentially
    D. bad handling or management

    Key: A (helped; given an advantage)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Her look and manners were open, cheerful and engaging as ever, but without any _____ of peculiar regard, and I remained convinced from the evening's scrutiny, that though she received his attentions with pleasure, she did not invite them by any participation…" Word bank: symptom, obtruded, elopement, turnpike

Key: symptom

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "Be not alarmed, Madam, on receiving this letter" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The letter's opening.

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXXV"? Darcy's letter: the novel's longest document, explaining Jane and Bingley, and revealing Wickham's attempt to elope with Georgiana.

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Epistolary
    C. Personification
    D. Plot

    Key: B (Epistolary)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXXV". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: evidence replaces impression.

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5)

    A. Caroline's letter announces the departure in a careless phrase that hides a deliberate plan.
    B. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.
    C. Wickham's motive.
    D. Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.

    Key: C (Wickham's motive.)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I had detached Mr. Bingley from your sister" (Chapter XXXV, paragraph 5) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy admits his role.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Darcy's sometimes coming there stopped her, and instead of entering the park, she turned up the lane, which led her farther from the turnpike road.", what does "turnpike" most nearly mean?

    A. something very like another; a copy
    B. a main road that charged a toll
    C. showing; giving evidence of
    D. regard as untrustworthy; regard with suspicion; have no faith or confidence in

    Key: B (a main road that charged a toll)

28. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXXV"? For the first time, Darcy's account is set against Wickham's.

    A. Metaphor
    B. Diction / vocabulary
    C. Point of view
    D. Symbolism

Key: C (Point of view)

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Darcy's letter gives Elizabeth the facts she lacked and forces her to reassess.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Darcy explains that "Mr. Wickham's chief object was unquestionably my sister's fortune, which is thirty thousand pounds," giving a motive for Wickham's charm that Elizabeth never questioned.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXV, paragraph 4: “Be not alarmed, Madam, on _____ this letter”

    Key: receiving

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 2, 4, 19, 20, 6, 21, 12, 13, 11, 22, 23, 15, 14, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	3, 2, 21, 9, 5, 18, 25, 22, 12, 11, 13, 23, 14, 15, 26, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 21, 8, 27, 20, 22, 10, 13, 11, 12, 28, 15, 23, 14, 29, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 4, 30, 8, 12, 13, 25, 11, 22, 23, 14, 28, 15, 29, 16, 26	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 18, 19, 13, 25, 11, 22, 10, 23, 28, 15, 14, 24, 29, 16, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	2, 21, 18, 12, 10, 11, 13, 22, 28, 14, 15, 23, 16, 24, 29, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	18, 21, 11, 25, 13, 22, 10, 12, 14, 23, 15, 28, 16, 29, 26, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 21, 22, 25, 13, 12, 11, 10, 28, 15, 23, 14, 24, 29, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	30, 3, 12, 13, 11, 25, 22, 10, 15, 23, 14, 28, 16, 24, 29, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	18, 21, 25, 22, 11, 12, 13, 10, 15, 23, 14, 28, 24, 26, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXV,” how does Austen show the letter? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXV, how does Austen develop the idea of the letter? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXV develops the idea of the letter. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of the letter. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXV suggests about the letter. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses point of view in Chapter XXXV to complicate the reader's understanding of the letter. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the letter responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the letter follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXV and its treatment of the letter. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXV as evidence for a larger claim about the letter in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the letter. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Darcy's sometimes coming there stopped her, and instead of entering the park, she turned up the lane, which led her farther from the turnpike road.

As used in the text, what does the word "turnpike" most nearly mean?

A. an event that might have been arranged although it was really accidental
B. relating to or involving money
C. a main road that charged a toll
D. express in words

2. Elizabeth awoke the next morning to the same thoughts and meditations which had at length closed her eyes. She could not yet recover from the surprise of what had happened; it was impossible to think of anything else, and totally indisposed for employment, she resolved soon after breakfast to indulge herself in air and exercise. She was proceeding directly to her favourite walk, when the recollection of Mr. Darcy's sometimes coming there stopped her, and instead of entering the park, she turned up the lane, which led her farther from the turnpike road. The park paling was still the boundary on one side, and she soon passed one of the gates into the ground.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXXV"?

A. The letter
B. Wit as courtship
C. Jealousy at Pemberley
D. A revelation from the colonel

SAT key: 1. C (a main road that charged a toll); 2. A (The letter)

Lesson 37: Chapter XXXVI

Focus: self-recognition

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXXVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “Never did any novelist make more use of an impeccable sense of human values.” (Virginia Woolf, novelist and critic, "Jane Austen," The Common Reader (1925), "Jane Austen"; public domain). Discussion: "Till this moment I never knew myself." What "human values" does Elizabeth measure herself against in Chapter XXXVI? Objective: Trace Elizabeth's self-recognition after Darcy's letter and the novel's moral standard. Standards: RL.11-12.2, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth rereads the letter, recognizes that she has been prejudiced and blind, and exclaims, 'Till this moment I never knew myself.'

Background: Moral self-examination drew on Enlightenment ideals of reason over prejudice.

Significance: The turning point of the novel: Elizabeth's self-knowledge.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)

Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.

What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….

Prompt: What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself?

Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…

Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: hatefully — in a hateful way; deliberated — thought carefully about; befriended — helped; came to the aid of; resigning — leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily; hazarded — risked; ventured. “deliberated”: From Latin deliberare "to weigh well," from de- (intensive) + librare "to balance," from libra "scales." (Not from liber "free.") “hazarded”: From Middle English hasard, from Old French hasart "a game of dice" (noun), hasarder (verb), from Arabic اَلزَّهْر "the dice". Compare Spanish azar, Portuguese azar.

Words: hatefully: in a hateful way · deliberated: thought carefully about · befriended: helped; came to the aid of · resigning: leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily · hazarded: risked; ventured

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Moral self-examination drew on Enlightenment ideals of reason over prejudice. The turning point of the novel: Elizabeth's self-knowledge. Characterization: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself." Structure: Her self-recognition is the moral center of the novel. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "She was immediately told, that the two gentlemen from Rosings had each called during her absence; Mr. Darcy, only for a" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 13).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "How despicably have I acted" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8). Self-judgment. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself."

> How despicably have I acted (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "How despicably have I acted" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8). Self-judgment. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: She admits vanity, not reason, guided her. This is the title's theme turned inward. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. (Moment of recognition.)

> Till this moment, I never knew myself (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: She admits vanity, not reason, guided her. This is the title's theme turned inward.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. (Moment of recognition.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about self-recognition? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVI develops the idea of self-recognition. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. When the text says "Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. She realizes she was "pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other," and concludes, "Till this moment I never knew myself."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, structure (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about self-recognition? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVI develops the idea of self-recognition. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. When the text says "Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. She realizes she was "pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other," and concludes, "Till this moment I never knew myself."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself? Ask: what does it take to admit you were wrong? Why is this so rare in fiction?

Anchor question: What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself?

Facilitation: Ask: what does it take to admit you were wrong? Why is this so rare in fiction?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about self-recognition? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. ("Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other", Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about self-recognition? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. ("Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other", Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes self-recognition. Key takeaway: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself."
- Structure: Her self-recognition is the moral center of the novel.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “She was immediately told, that the two gentlemen from Rosings had each called during her absence; Mr. Darcy, only for a” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 13).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “If Elizabeth, when Mr. Darcy gave her the letter, did not expect it to contain a renewal of his offers” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) Self-judgment.
- “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) Moment of recognition.
- “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) Her self-analysis.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity.
Evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)
Reasoning: She realizes she was "pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other," and concludes, "Till this moment I never knew myself."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

hatefully (adverb)	in a hateful way	His attentions to Miss King were now the consequence of views solely and hatefully mercenary; and the mediocrity of her fortune proved no longer the moderation of his wishes, but his eagerness to grasp at anything.
deliberated (verb)	thought carefully about	She put down the letter, weighed every circumstance with what she meant to be impartiality—deliberated on the probability of each statement—but with little success.	“deliberated”: From Latin deliberare "to weigh well," from de- (intensive) + librare "to balance," from libra "scales." (Not from liber "free.") (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/deliberate)
befriended (verb)	helped; came to the aid of	But no such recollection befriended her.
resigning (verb)	leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily	But when she read, and reread with the closest attention, the particulars immediately following of Wickham’s resigning all pretensions to the living, of his receiving in lieu, so considerable a sum as three thousand pounds, again was she forced to hesitate.
hazarded (verb)	risked; ventured	Darcy would never have hazarded such a proposal, if he had not been well assured of his cousin’s corroboration.	“hazarded”: From Middle English hasard, from Old French hasart "a game of dice" (noun), hasarder (verb), from Arabic اَلزَّهْر "the dice". Compare Spanish azar, Portuguese azar. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/hazard#Etymology)
courted (verb)	invited; sought out	Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other, on the very beginning of our acquaintance, I have courted prepossession and ignorance, and driven reason away, where either were concerned.
merited (adjective)	deserved	When she came to that part of the letter in which her	“merited”: From Middle English merit, merite "quality of a person’s character or conduct family were mentioned, in terms of such mortifying, yet merited reproach, her sense of shame was severe.	deserving of reward or punishment; such reward or punishment; excellence, worthiness; benefit; right to be rewarded for spiritual service; retribution at doomsday; virtue through which Jesus Christ brings about salvation; virtue possessed by a holy person; power of a pagan deity", from Anglo-Norman merit, merite, Old Fre (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/merit#Etymology)

penitent (adjective)	sorry for having done wrong	He expressed no regret for what he had done which satisfied her; his style was not penitent, but haughty.
extravagance (noun)	the quality of exceeding the appropriate limits of decorum or probability or truth	The extravagance and general profligacy which he scrupled not to lay to Mr.	“extravagance”: French extravagance, from Medieval Latin extra + vagor "to wander". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/extravagance#Etymology)
exclaiming (verb)	utter aloud; often with surprise, horror, or joy	She wished to discredit it entirely, repeatedly exclaiming, “This must be false!	“exclaiming”: From Middle French exclamer, from Latin exclāmō, exclāmāre "call out", from ex- + clāmō "to call". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/exclaim#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth do with the letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Rereads it repeatedly
2. What does she exclaim? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Till this moment I never knew myself

3. What has Elizabeth been, she realizes? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Prejudiced and blind
4. What does she now see about Wickham? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: His story had inconsistencies
5. Why is this the turning point? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth gains self-knowledge
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXXVI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth rereads the letter, recognizes that she has been prejudiced and blind, and exclaims, 'Till this moment I never knew myself.'
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXXVI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXXVI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "His attentions to Miss King were now the consequence of views solely and hatefully mercenary; and the mediocrity of her fortune proved no longer the moderation of his wishes, but his eagerness to grasp at anything." What does "hatefully" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: hatefully: in a hateful way.
10. Reread: "She put down the letter, weighed every circumstance with what she meant to be impartiality—deliberated on the probability of each statement—but with little success." What does "deliberated" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: deliberated: thought carefully about.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XXXVI" suggest about self-recognition? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The turning point of the novel: Elizabeth's self-knowledge.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about self-recognition? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: "How despicably have I acted" (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Self-judgment. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "But when this subject was succeeded by his account of Mr.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XXXVI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth rereads the letter, recognizes that she has been prejudiced and blind, and exclaims, 'Till this moment I never knew myself.'

6. How does “Chapter XXXVI” build on “Chapter XXXV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Moment of recognition. On structure: Her self-recognition is the moral center of the novel. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Her self-analysis. On characterization: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What exactly does Elizabeth realize about herself?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Self-judgment. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Moral self-examination drew on Enlightenment ideals of reason over prejudice. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Moment of recognition. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The turning point of the novel: Elizabeth's self-knowledge.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Her self-analysis. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Self-judgment. On characterization: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about self-recognition? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Moment of recognition. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Her self-analysis. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Self-judgment. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Moment of recognition. On characterization: Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXXVI” treats self-recognition with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Her self-analysis. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXXVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Self-judgment. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about self-recognition? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Moment of recognition. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Useful evidence: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8): Her self-analysis. Theme link: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth do with the letter?

   A. Shows it to Charlotte
   B. Burns it
   C. Rereads it repeatedly
   D. Ignores it

   Key: C (Rereads it repeatedly)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “But when she read, and reread with the closest attention, the particulars immediately following of Wickham’s resigning all pretensions to the living, of his receiving in lieu, so considerable a sum as three thousand…”, what does “resigning” most nearly mean?
   A. agreeing
   B. outvoted; overridden
   C. dull; lacking interest
   D. leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily

   Key: D (leave (a job, post, or position) voluntarily)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What has Elizabeth been, she realizes?
   A. Prejudiced and blind
   B. Too rich
   C. Too kind
   D. Too shy

   Key: A (Prejudiced and blind)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8: “Till this _____, I never knew myself”

   Key: moment
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He expressed no regret for what he had done which satisfied her; his style was not _____, but haughty.” Word bank: hatefully, deliberated, befriended, penitent

   Key: penitent
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8: “Pleased with the _____ of one, and offended by the neglect of the other”

   Key: preference
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other, on the very beginning of our acquaintance, I have _____ prepossession and ignorance, and driven reason away, where either were concerned.” Word bank: hatefully, deliberated, befriended, courted

   Key: courted
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why is this the turning point?
   A. Lydia elopes
   B. Jane marries
   C. Darcy dies
   D. Elizabeth gains self-knowledge

   Key: D (Elizabeth gains self-knowledge)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “But no such recollection befriended her.”, what does “befriended” most nearly mean?
   A. helped; came to the aid of
   B. an instance of change; the rate or magnitude of change
   C. silly, careless behavior
   D. be false to; be dishonest with

Key: A (helped; came to the aid of)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Moment of recognition.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXVI”?

    A. Self-recognition
    B. Consequences of refusal
    C. A practical marriage
    D. Visit to Hunsford

    Key: A (Self-recognition)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)

    A. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.
    B. Darcy's personal remark, which startles Elizabeth.
    C. Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.
    D. Self-judgment.

    Key: D (Self-judgment.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)

    A. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
    B. Jane's humility.
    C. Moment of recognition.
    D. Elizabeth's shock.

    Key: C (Moment of recognition.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXVI”? Elizabeth rereads the letter and recognizes her prejudice: "Till this moment I never knew myself."

    A. Simile
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Characterization
    D. Symbolism

    Key: C (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Her self-analysis.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She realizes she was "pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other," and concludes, "Till this moment I never knew myself."

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy would never have _____ such a proposal, if he had not been well assured of his cousin’s corroboration.” Word bank: befriended, hatefully, hazarded, deliberated

    Key: hazarded

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does she now see about Wickham?

    A. He was rich
    B. His story had inconsistencies
    C. He loved her
    D. He was a hero

    Key: B (His story had inconsistencies)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “When she came to that part of the letter in which her family were mentioned, in terms of such mortifying, yet _____ reproach, her sense of shame was severe.” Word bank: hatefully, merited, deliberated, befriended

    Key: merited

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She put down the letter, weighed every circumstance with what she meant to be impartiality—deliberated on the probability of each statement—but with little success.”, what does “deliberated” most nearly mean?

    A. thought carefully about
    B. reestablish on a new, usually improved, basis or make new or like new
    C. silly, careless behavior
    D. able to exist and perform in harmonious or agreeable combination

    Key: A (thought carefully about)

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Self-judgment.

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8)

    A. The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.
    B. Charlotte's cynical realism, foreshadowing her choice.
    C. Her self-analysis.
    D. Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

    Key: C (Her self-analysis.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXVI”? Her self-recognition is the moral center of the novel.

    A. Irony
    B. Metaphor
    C. Foreshadowing
    D. Structure

    Key: D (Structure)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Till this moment, I never knew myself” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Moment of recognition.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His attentions to Miss King were now the consequence of views solely and hatefully mercenary; and the mediocrity of her fortune proved no longer the moderation of his wishes, but his eagerness to grasp at anything.”, what does “hatefully” most nearly mean?

    A. hear, usually without the knowledge of the speakers
    B. behaving as if superior to others
    C. the acquisition of something for payment
    D. in a hateful way

    Key: D (in a hateful way)

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth's recognition shows that her prejudice came from wounded vanity. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8).

    Sample answer: She realizes she was "pleased with the preference of one, and offended by the neglect of the other," and concludes, "Till this moment I never knew myself."

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXXVI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth sees that vanity, not reason, guided her.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does she exclaim?

    A. Till this moment I never knew myself
    B. I am right
    C. I will marry Wickham
    D. I hate him more

    Key: A (Till this moment I never knew myself)

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “How despicably have I acted” (Chapter XXXVI, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Self-judgment.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 17, 4, 2, 18, 5, 19, 20, 13, 11, 21, 22, 23, 14, 15, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 25, 19, 3, 1, 2, 13, 21, 10, 11, 12, 23, 26, 14, 24, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	9, 7, 6, 8, 2, 10, 13, 12, 11, 22, 14, 23, 26, 15, 27, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 4, 28, 1, 13, 10, 21, 12, 11, 23, 14, 26, 15, 24, 29, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	4, 17, 28, 22, 21, 10, 12, 11, 23, 14, 26, 15, 29, 16, 24, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	17, 6, 18, 12, 21, 22, 11, 13, 15, 14, 23, 26, 16, 27, 24, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 17, 10, 11, 13, 21, 12, 22, 15, 23, 26, 14, 16, 27, 29, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 7, 12, 10, 22, 11, 13, 21, 15, 26, 23, 14, 29, 27, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Senior	4, 17, 21, 22, 12, 11, 10, 13, 26, 15, 23, 14, 27, 24, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	17, 7, 11, 10, 12, 21, 13, 22, 26, 23, 15, 14, 29, 16, 24, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXVI,” how does Austen show self-recognition? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXVI, how does Austen develop the idea of self-recognition? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXVI develops the idea of self-recognition. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of self-recognition. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXVI suggests about self-recognition. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXXVI to complicate the reader's understanding of self-recognition. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of self-recognition responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of self-recognition follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXVI and its treatment of self-recognition. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXVI as evidence for a larger claim about self-recognition in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of self-recognition. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. But no such recollection befriended her.

   As used in the text, what does the word “befriended” most nearly mean?

   A. sorry for having done wrong

   B. utter aloud; often with surprise, horror, or joy

   C. the quality of exceeding the appropriate limits of decorum or probability or truth

   D. helped; came to the aid of

2. But when this subject was succeeded by his account of Mr. Wickham, when she read with somewhat clearer attention, a relation of events, which, if true, must overthrow every cherished opinion of his worth, and which bore so alarming an affinity to his own history of himself, her feelings were yet more acutely painful and more difficult of definition. Astonishment, apprehension, and even horror, oppressed her. She wished to discredit it entirely, repeatedly exclaiming, “This must be false! This cannot be! This must be the grossest falsehood!”—and when she had gone through the whole letter, though scarcely knowing anything of the last page or two, put it hastily away, protesting that she would not regard it, that she would never look in it again.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXVI”?

   A. Self-recognition

   B. Too late

   C. Pemberley

   D. A journey and a mercenary suitor

SAT key: 1. D (helped; came to the aid of); 2. A (Self-recognition)

Lesson 38: Chapter XXXVII

Focus: leaving Kent

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XXXVII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave Rosings. Lady Catherine notes Elizabeth's low spirits. Elizabeth rereads Darcy's letter, ashamed of her family's conduct and sympathetic now to Darcy's objections.

Background: Travel by coach gave time for reflection and social mixing.

Significance: Elizabeth's quiet reflection marks her inner change.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does Elizabeth seem different now? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
Prompt: How does Elizabeth seem different now?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
*Today's words: indecorum — improper behavior; manservant — a male servant; giddiness — silly, careless behavior; affronted — treat, mention, or speak to rudely; restoring — return to its original or usable and functioning condition. “indecorum”: From Latin indecōrum, neuter substantive of indecōrus. “manservant”: From Middle English man servant, man servaunt; equivalent to man + servant. “affronted”: From Middle English afrounten, from Old French afronter "to hit in the face; to defy", from Vulgar Latin affrontare "to hit in the face", from Latin ad "to" + frōns "forehead" (English front). By surface analysis, af- + front. “restoring”: From Middle English restoren, from Old French restorer, from Latin rēstaurāre. By surface analysis, en + re + store.
Words: indecorum: improper behavior · manservant: a male servant · giddiness: silly, careless behavior · affronted: treat, mention, or speak to rudely · restoring: return to its original or usable and functioning condition

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Travel by coach gave time for reflection and social mixing. Elizabeth's quiet reflection marks her inner change. Characterization: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing. Tone / mood: Comic relief after the crisis; Elizabeth's private reflections run underneath. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning; and Mr. Collins having been in waiting near" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1). The quiet opening after the storm. That is characterization at work: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing.

> The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1). The quiet opening after the storm. That is characterization at work: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Contented with laughing" names Mr. Bennet's failure; Elizabeth has adopted the critical view she resented. Theme: family and reputation. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. (Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.)

> Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Contented with laughing" names Mr. Bennet's failure; Elizabeth has adopted the critical view she resented. Theme: family and reputation.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. (Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about leaving Kent? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVII develops the idea of leaving Kent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. When the text says "Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. She now sees that her father, "contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters," which is Darcy's objection in her own words.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about leaving Kent? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVII develops the idea of leaving Kent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. When the text says "Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. She now sees that her father, "contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters," which is Darcy's objection in her own words.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How does Elizabeth seem different now? Ask: is Elizabeth's new judgment of her family fair, or is it another overcorrection?

Anchor question: How does Elizabeth seem different now?

Facilitation: Ask: is Elizabeth's new judgment of her family fair, or is it another overcorrection?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about leaving Kent? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. ("Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters", Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about leaving Kent? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. ("Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters", Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes leaving Kent. Key takeaway: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing.
- Tone / mood: Comic relief after the crisis; Elizabeth's private reflections run underneath.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning; and Mr. Collins having been in waiting near” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “she might have forgotten where she was. Reflection must be reserved for solitary hours; whenever she was alone, she gave way to” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 16).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1) The quiet opening after the storm.
- “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3) Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.
- “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17) Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did.
Evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17)
Reasoning: She now sees that her father, "contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters," which is Darcy's objection in her own words.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
indecorum (noun)	improper behavior	How grievous then was the thought that, of a situation so desirable in every respect, so replete with advantage, so promising for happiness, Jane had been deprived, by the folly and indecorum of her own family!	"indecorum": From Latin indecōrum, neuter substantive of indecōrus. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/indecorum#Etymology)
manservant (noun)	a male servant	"Oh!—Your uncle!—He keeps a manservant, does he?—I am very glad you have somebody who thinks of those things.	"manservant": From Middle English man servant, man servaunt; equivalent to man + servant. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/manservant#Etymology)
giddiness (noun)	silly, careless behavior	Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters; and her mother, with manners so far from right herself, was entirely insensible of the evil.
affronted (verb)	treat, mention, or speak to rudely	Catherine, weak-spirited, irritable, and completely under Lydia's guidance, had been always affronted by their advice; and Lydia, self-willed and careless, would scarcely give them a hearing.	"affronted": From Middle English afrounten, from Old French afronter "to hit in the face; to defy", from Vulgar Latin *affrontare "to hit in the face", from Latin ad "to" + frōns "forehead" (English front). By surface analysis, af- + front. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/affront#Etymology)
restoring (verb)	return to its original or usable and functioning condition	Darcy's explanation, by restoring Bingley to all her former good opinion, heightened the sense of what Jane had lost.	"restoring": From Middle English restoren, from Old French restorer, from Latin rēstaurāre. By surface analysis, en + re + store. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/restore#Etymology)
prevailing (verb)	be larger in number, quantity, power, status or importance	Anxiety on Jane's behalf, was another prevailing concern, and Mr.	"prevailing": By surface analysis, prevail + -ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/prevailing#Etymology)
exerted (verb)	put to use	When they parted, Lady Catherine, with great condescension, wished them a good journey, and invited them to come to Hunsford again next year; and	"exerted": From Latin exsertus, past participle of exserō "to stretch or thrust forth or out", from ex- + serō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/exert#Etymology)

		Miss de Bourgh exerted herself so far as to curtsey and hold out her hand to both.
unjustly (adverb)	in an unjust manner	When she remembered the style of his address, she was still full of indignation; but when she considered how unjustly she had condemned and upbraided him, her anger was turned against herself; and his disappointed feelings became the object of compassion.	"unjustly": From unjust + -ly or un- + justly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unjustly#Etymology)
irritable (adjective)	easily irritated or annoyed	Catherine, weak-spirited, irritable, and completely under Lydia's guidance, had been always affronted by their advice; and Lydia, self-willed and careless, would scarcely give them a hearing.	"irritable": Borrowed from French irritable, from Latin irritabilis. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/irritable#Etymology)
increases (verb)	grows	His attachment to Rosings certainly increases."	"increases": From Middle English encresen, borrowed from Anglo-Norman encreistre, from Latin increscere "to increase", from in "in, on" + crescō "grow". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/increase#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. How does Elizabeth seem different now?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who leaves Rosings first? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy and Fitzwilliam
2. How is Elizabeth's mood? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Thoughtful and subdued
3. Who notices Elizabeth's low spirits? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine

4. What does Elizabeth feel ashamed of? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her family's conduct
5. What does Elizabeth reread? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy's letter
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXXVII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave Rosings. Lady Catherine notes Elizabeth's low spirits. Elizabeth rereads Darcy's letter, ashamed of her family's conduct and sympathetic now to Darcy's objections.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXVII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXVII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “How grievous then was the thought that, of a situation so desirable in every respect, so replete with advantage, so promising for happiness, Jane had been deprived, by the folly and indecorum of her own family!” What does “indecorum” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: indecorum: improper behavior.
10. Reread: ““Oh!—Your uncle!—He keeps a manservant, does he?—I am very glad you have somebody who thinks of those things.” What does “manservant” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: manservant: a male servant.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXVII” suggest about leaving Kent? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's quiet reflection marks her inner change.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about leaving Kent? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1): The quiet opening after the storm. On tone / mood: Comic relief after the crisis; Elizabeth's private reflections run underneath. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Their first subject was the diminution of the Rosings party.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXVII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave Rosings. Lady Catherine notes Elizabeth's low spirits. Elizabeth rereads Darcy's letter, ashamed of her family's conduct and sympathetic now to Darcy's objections.
6. How does “Chapter XXXVII” build on “Chapter XXXVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3): Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17): Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father. On characterization: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Elizabeth seem different now?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1): The quiet opening after the storm. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Travel by coach gave time for reflection and social mixing. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3): Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's quiet reflection marks her inner change.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17): Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1): The quiet opening after the storm. On characterization: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXVII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about leaving Kent? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3): Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXVII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17): Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1): The quiet opening after the storm. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3): Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her. On characterization: Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXXVII” treats leaving Kent with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17): Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXXVIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1): The quiet opening after the storm. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about leaving Kent? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3): Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Useful evidence: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17): Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father. Theme link: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth feel ashamed of?
   - A. Her music
   - B. Her letters
   - C. Her family's conduct
   - D. Her muddy walk

   Key: C (Her family's conduct)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Catherine, weak-spirited, irritable, and completely under Lydia’s guidance, had been always affronted by their advice; and Lydia, self-willed and careless, would scarcely give them a hearing.”, what does “affronted” most nearly mean?
   - A. not brought to a conclusion; subject to further thought
   - B. brought back to life or strength; revived
   - C. treat, mention, or speak to rudely
   - D. presenting (someone) to another person

   Key: C (treat, mention, or speak to rudely)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “When they parted, Lady Catherine, with great condescension, wished them a good journey, and invited them to come to Hunsford again next year; and Miss de Bourgh _____ herself so far as to curtsey and hold out her hand to both.” Word bank: giddiness, exerted, manservant, indecorum

   Key: exerted

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy’s explanation, by _____ Bingley to all her former good opinion, heightened the sense of what Jane had lost.” Word bank: giddiness, indecorum, manservant, restoring

   Key: restoring

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17: “Her father, _____ with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters”

   Key: contented

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who leaves Rosings first?
   - A. Charlotte
   - B. Elizabeth
   - C. Darcy and Fitzwilliam
   - D. Lady Catherine

   Key: C (Darcy and Fitzwilliam)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““Oh!—Your uncle!—He keeps a manservant, does he?—I am very glad you have somebody who thinks of those things.”, what does “manservant” most nearly mean?
   - A. a male servant
   - B. a pain in the head
   - C. to be stronger than the others
   - D. to frighten in order to control

   Key: A (a male servant)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters; and her mother, with manners so far from right herself, was entirely insensible of the…”, what does “giddiness” most nearly mean?
   A. silly, careless behavior
   B. helped; given an advantage
   C. expressing gratitude to
   D. use to one's advantage

   Key: A (silly, careless behavior)
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “When she remembered the style of his address, she was still full of indignation; but when she considered how _____ she had condemned and upbraided him, her anger was turned against herself; and his disappointed feelings became the object of compassion.” Word bank: indecorum, giddiness, manservant, unjustly

   Key: unjustly
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17)
    A. The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.
    B. Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.
    C. The entail: the economic stakes.
    D. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXVII”?
    A. Strategy in courtship
    B. A revelation from the colonel
    C. Leaving Kent
    D. Pemberley

    Key: C (Leaving Kent)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The quiet opening after the storm.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1)
    A. Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.
    B. The quiet opening after the storm.
    C. Charlotte jokes that Darcy's visit is for Elizabeth.
    D. Elizabeth's shock.

    Key: B (The quiet opening after the storm.)
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17).

Sample answer: She now sees that her father, "contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters," which is Darcy's objection in her own words.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXVII”? Comic relief after the crisis; Elizabeth's private reflections run underneath.
    A. Tone / mood
    B. Theme
    C. Hyperbole
    D. Structure

    Key: A (Tone / mood)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “After the letter, Elizabeth begins to judge her own family as Darcy did.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She now sees that her father, "contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters," which is Darcy's objection in her own words.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Anxiety on Jane’s behalf, was another _____ concern, and Mr.” Word bank: giddiness, prevailing, indecorum, manservant

    Key: prevailing
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth reread?
    A. Jane's letter
    B. Darcy's letter
    C. A novel
    D. Collins's sermon

    Key: B (Darcy's letter)
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who notices Elizabeth's low spirits?
    A. Lady Catherine
    B. Darcy
    C. Collins
    D. Jane

    Key: A (Lady Catherine)
20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I feel it exceedingly” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.
21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters” (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's new, critical view of her father.
22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXVII”? Darcy and Fitzwilliam leave; Lady Catherine regrets losing company and lectures the visitors about travel and packing.
    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Structure

C. Characterization
D. Conflict

Key: C (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXXVII". Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Elizabeth now feels the justice of Darcy's objections to her family.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How is Elizabeth's mood?
A. Thoughtful and subdued
B. Angry
C. Indifferent
D. Joyful

Key: A (Thoughtful and subdued)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "How grievous then was the thought that, of a situation so desirable in every respect, so replete with advantage, so promising for happiness, Jane had been deprived, by the folly and indecorum of her own family!", what does "indecorum" most nearly mean?
A. a descriptive name or title
B. in an abundant manner
C. to give up
D. improper behavior

Key: D (improper behavior)

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1: "The two _____ left Rosings the next morning"

Key: gentlemen

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "I feel it exceedingly" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3)
A. Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.
B. Darcy's self-defense: shyness, not contempt?
C. Lady Catherine's fury.
D. Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.

Key: D (Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I feel it exceedingly" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Lady Catherine on the departure: she treats everything as about her.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "The two gentlemen left Rosings the next morning" (Chapter XXXVII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The quiet opening after the storm.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1

HS Freshman	4, 7, 17, 2, 6, 18, 1, 19, 13, 20, 10, 12, 21, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 25, 8, 2, 26, 5, 10, 13, 27, 12, 11, 15, 14, 22, 28, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 5, 6, 8, 25, 13, 11, 27, 12, 20, 15, 22, 14, 21, 23, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 17, 24, 2, 27, 11, 10, 13, 12, 15, 21, 22, 14, 16, 28, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	26, 4, 24, 27, 12, 10, 20, 11, 15, 21, 14, 22, 28, 29, 23, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	26, 5, 3, 10, 27, 12, 13, 11, 21, 14, 22, 15, 16, 23, 28, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	4, 17, 13, 10, 11, 12, 27, 20, 14, 22, 21, 15, 29, 23, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 4, 12, 20, 10, 11, 27, 13, 15, 22, 14, 21, 28, 23, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	4, 3, 13, 20, 27, 12, 11, 10, 14, 15, 22, 21, 28, 16, 29, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 17, 27, 11, 13, 20, 10, 12, 15, 14, 21, 22, 16, 29, 23, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXVII,” how does Austen show leaving Kent? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXVII, how does Austen develop the idea of leaving Kent? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXVII develops the idea of leaving Kent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of leaving Kent. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXVII suggests about leaving Kent. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XXXVII to complicate the reader's understanding of leaving Kent. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of leaving Kent responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of leaving Kent follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXVII and its treatment of leaving Kent. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXVII as evidence for a larger claim about leaving Kent in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of leaving Kent. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Her father, contented with laughing at them, would never exert himself to restrain the wild giddiness of his youngest daughters; and her mother, with manners so far from right herself, was entirely insensible of the evil.

   As used in the text, what does the word “giddiness” most nearly mean?

   A. silly, careless behavior
   B. easily irritated or annoyed
   C. in an unjust manner
   D. grows

2. Their first subject was the diminution of the Rosings party. “I assure you, I feel it exceedingly,” said Lady Catherine; “I believe nobody feels the loss of friends so much as I do. But I am particularly attached to these > young men; and know them to be so much attached to me!—They were excessively sorry to go! But so they always are. The dear colonel rallied his spirits tolerably till just at last; but Darcy seemed to feel it most acutely, more I think than last year. His attachment to Rosings certainly increases."

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXXVII"?

A. Pompous flattery
B. Embarrassing relations
C. A persuasive tale
D. Leaving Kent

SAT key: 1. A (silly, careless behavior); 2. D (Leaving Kent)

Lesson 39: Chapter XXXVIII

Focus: farewells at Hunsford

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XXXVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

On Elizabeth's last morning Collins gives a farewell speech praising his own humble home and his privileged connection with Rosings. Elizabeth pities Charlotte but sees she is content. Elizabeth and Maria travel to London to meet Jane.

Background: Departing guests received formal speeches of thanks and good wishes.

Significance: Collins's speech is comic self-praise disguised as humility.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Is Charlotte content or simply resigned? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Is Charlotte content or simply resigned?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: parcels — packages; poultry — chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food; consternation — alarm and dismay; elevation — a lifting up; high spirits; comforts — things that make you comfortable and at ease.
“consternation”: From French consternation, from Latin consternātiō. By surface analysis, consternate + -ion.
Words: parcels: packages · poultry: chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food · consternation: alarm and dismay · elevation: a lifting up; high spirits · comforts: things that make you comfortable and at ease

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Departing guests received formal speeches of thanks and good wishes. Collins's speech is comic self-praise disguised as humility. Characterization: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings. Irony: Collins boasts of his happiness; Elizabeth considers Charlotte's choice with compassion. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "but I hope you will believe us grateful for the condescension, and that we have done everything in our power to prevent" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings.

> On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared
> (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Alliteration ("parish and her poultry") gently mocks but also respects Charlotte's choice. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. (Charlotte's compensations.)

> Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Alliteration ("parish and her poultry") gently mocks but also respects Charlotte's choice.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. (Charlotte's compensations.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about farewells at Hunsford? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVIII develops the idea of farewells at Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. When the text says "Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. She thinks "poor Charlotte! it was melancholy to leave her to such society," yet notes that "her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry" had "not yet lost their charms."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about farewells at Hunsford? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXVIII develops the idea of farewells at Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. When the text says "Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. She thinks "poor Charlotte! it was melancholy to leave her to such society," yet notes that "her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry" had "not yet lost their charms."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Charlotte content or simply resigned? Ask: is Charlotte's life a failure?

Anchor question: Is Charlotte content or simply resigned?

Facilitation: Ask: is Charlotte's life a failure?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about farewells at Hunsford? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. ("Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms", Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about farewells at Hunsford? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. ("Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms", Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes farewells at Hunsford. Key takeaway: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings.
- Irony: Collins boasts of his happiness; Elizabeth considers Charlotte's choice with compassion.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “but I hope you will believe us grateful for the condescension, and that we have done everything in our power to prevent” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 2).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “on this point it will be as well to be silent. Only let me assure you, my dear Miss Elizabeth, that I” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 6).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1) Opening.
- “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7) Elizabeth's pity.
- “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7) Charlotte's compensations.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted.
Evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7)
Reasoning: She thinks "poor Charlotte! it was melancholy to leave her to such society," yet notes that "her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry" had "not yet lost their charms."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
parcels (noun)	packages	At length the chaise arrived, the trunks were fastened on, the parcels placed within, and it was pronounced to be ready.
poultry (noun)	chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food	Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms.
consternation (noun)	alarm and dismay	He then handed her in, Maria followed, and the door was on the point of being closed, when he suddenly reminded them, with some consternation, that they had hitherto forgotten to leave any message for the ladies of Rosings.	“consternation”: From French consternation, from Latin consternātiō. By surface analysis, consternate + -ion. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consternation#Etymology)
elevation (noun)	a lifting up; high spirits	Words were insufficient for the elevation of his feelings; and he was obliged to walk about the room, while Elizabeth tried to unite civility and truth in a few short sentences.
comforts (noun)	things that make you comfortable and at ease	Elizabeth could safely say that it was a great happiness where that was the case, and with equal sincerity could add that she firmly believed and rejoiced in his domestic comforts.
footing (noun)	the terms of a relationship; one's position	You see on what a footing we are.	“footing”: From Middle English fotyng; equivalent to foot + ing. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/footing#Etymology)
designed (verb)	make or work out a plan for; devise	We seem to have been designed for each other.”
solemnity (noun)	a trait of dignified seriousness	Collins was gratified; and with a more smiling solemnity replied—	“solemnity”: From solemn + ity, from Middle English solemnity "observance of formality and ceremony", frequently in the phrases in solemnity, with solemnity, which from Old

			French solemnite, from Latin sollemnitās, from sollemnis. (Compare solemn.) (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/solemnity#Etymology) studying (verb)	observing closely	Jane looked well, and Elizabeth had little opportunity of studying her spirits, amidst the various engagements which the kindness of her aunt had reserved for them.
rejoiced (verb)	feel happiness or joy	Elizabeth could safely say that it was a great happiness where that was the case, and with equal sincerity could add that she firmly believed and rejoiced in his domestic comforts.

Discussion questions

1. Is Charlotte content or simply resigned?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who gives a farewell speech? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Collins
2. What does he praise? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: His home and his connection with Rosings
3. How does Elizabeth view Charlotte? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She pities her but sees contentment
4. Where do Elizabeth and Maria go next? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: London, to meet Jane
5. What is the tone of Collins's speech? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Comic self-praise

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXXVIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: On Elizabeth's last morning Collins gives a farewell speech praising his own humble home and his privileged connection with Rosings. Elizabeth pities Charlotte but sees she is content. Elizabeth and Maria travel to London to meet Jane.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXVIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXVIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “At length the chaise arrived, the trunks were fastened on, the parcels placed within, and it was pronounced to be ready.” What does “parcels” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: parcels: packages.
10. Reread: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms.” What does “poultry” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: poultry: chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXVIII” suggest about farewells at Hunsford? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins's speech is comic self-praise disguised as humility.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about farewells at Hunsford? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth was eager with her thanks and assurances of happiness.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: On Elizabeth's last morning Collins gives a farewell speech praising his own humble home and his privileged connection with Rosings. Elizabeth pities Charlotte but sees she is content. Elizabeth and Maria travel to London to meet Jane.
6. How does “Chapter XXXVIII” build on “Chapter XXXVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's pity. Theme link:

Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Charlotte's compensations. On characterization: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Charlotte content or simply resigned?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Departing guests received formal speeches of thanks and good wishes. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's pity. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Collins's speech is comic self-praise disguised as humility.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Charlotte's compensations. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXVIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about farewells at Hunsford? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's pity. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXVIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Charlotte's compensations. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's pity. On irony: Collins boasts of his happiness; Elizabeth considers Charlotte's choice with compassion. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXXVIII” treats farewells at Hunsford with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Charlotte's compensations. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXXIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about farewells at Hunsford? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Elizabeth's pity. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Useful evidence: “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7): Charlotte's compensations. Theme link: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who gives a farewell speech?
   A. Darcy
   B. Lady Catherine

   C. Charlotte
   D. Mr. Collins

   Key: D (Mr. Collins)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms.”, what does “poultry” most nearly mean?
   A. chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food
   B. a pain in the head
   C. repeated too often; overfamiliar through overuse
   D. an outward semblance that misrepresents the true nature of something

   Key: A (chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Elizabeth could safely say that it was a great happiness where that was the case, and with equal sincerity could add that she firmly believed and rejoiced in his domestic _____.” Word bank: comforts, consternation, poultry, parcels

   Key: comforts

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the tone of Collins's speech?
   A. Tragic
   B. Mysterious
   C. Angry
   D. Comic self-praise

   Key: D (Comic self-praise)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do Elizabeth and Maria go next?
   A. Bath
   B. London, to meet Jane
   C. Pemberley
   D. Brighton

   Key: B (London, to meet Jane)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7: “Her home and her _____, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms”

   Key: housekeeping

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Words were insufficient for the elevation of his feelings; and he was obliged to walk about the room, while Elizabeth tried to unite civility and truth in a few short sentences.”, what does “elevation” most nearly mean?
   A. explained point by point
   B. cause to be unpretentious
   C. a lifting up; high spirits
   D. a ban; something that stops activity

   Key: C (a lifting up; high spirits)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Collins was gratified; and with a more smiling _____ replied—” Word bank: consternation, solemnity, poultry, parcels

   Key: solemnity

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth view Charlotte?
   A. She dislikes her
   B. She pities her but sees contentment
   C. She ignores her
   D. She envies her

   Key: B (She pities her but sees contentment)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7)
    A. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.
    B. Elizabeth insists Jane's loss was caused by "the interference of friends," not chance: an accurate suspicion of Darcy.
    C. Mr. Bennet's joke.
    D. Elizabeth's pity.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's pity.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's pity.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXVIII”?
    A. Farewells at Hunsford
    B. Puzzling visits
    C. Letters of judgment
    D. Scandal

    Key: A (Farewells at Hunsford)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7)
    A. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.
    B. Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.
    C. Charlotte's compensations.
    D. Why Mr. Bennet married.

    Key: C (Charlotte's compensations.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXVIII”? Collins boasts of his happiness; Elizabeth considers Charlotte's choice with compassion.
    A. Irony
    B. Diction / vocabulary
    C. Conflict
    D. Point of view

    Key: A (Irony)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7).

Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Charlotte's compensations.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXXVIII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "We seem to have been _____ for each other."" Word bank: poultry, parcels, consternation, designed

    Key: designed

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1: "On Saturday morning _____ and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared"

    Key: Elizabeth

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "At length the chaise arrived, the trunks were fastened on, the parcels placed within, and it was pronounced to be ready.", what does "parcels" most nearly mean?

    A. deciding
    B. a surrounding or nearby region
    C. walk unsteadily
    D. packages

    Key: D (packages)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1)

    A. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.
    B. Opening.
    C. Jane's humility.
    D. Opening; Elizabeth's openness.

    Key: B (Opening.)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "Her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry, and all their dependent concerns, had not yet lost their charms" (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7).

    Sample answer: She thinks "poor Charlotte! it was melancholy to leave her to such society," yet notes that "her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry" had "not yet lost their charms."

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XXXVIII"? Collins makes a farewell speech about the "humble abode"; Elizabeth leaves Charlotte with mixed feelings.

    A. Characterization
    B. Alliteration
    C. Symbolism
    D. Tone / mood

    Key: A (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Elizabeth leaves Hunsford with pity for Charlotte but also a sense that Charlotte has found what she wanted." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: She thinks "poor Charlotte! it was melancholy to leave her to such society," yet notes that "her home and her housekeeping, her parish and her poultry" had "not yet lost their charms."

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does he praise?
    - A. His home and his connection with Rosings
    - B. Elizabeth's wit
    - C. Bingley
    - D. Darcy's letter

    Key: A (His home and his connection with Rosings)
25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7: “Poor Charlotte!—it was _____ to leave her to such society”

    Key: melancholy
26. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening.
27. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Charlotte's life is respectable and narrow.
    - A. First impressions and prejudice
    - B. Pride and self-knowledge
    - C. Marriage and money
    - D. Class and social mobility

    Key: C (Marriage and money)
28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You see on what a _____ we are.”

    Word bank: poultry, parcels, consternation, footing

    Key: footing
29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “He then handed her in, Maria followed, and the door was on the point of being closed, when he suddenly reminded them, with some consternation, that they had hitherto forgotten to leave any message for the ladies of…”, what does “consternation” most nearly mean?
    - A. thoughts about the past
    - B. first one and then the other
    - C. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner
    - D. alarm and dismay

    Key: D (alarm and dismay)
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Poor Charlotte!—it was melancholy to leave her to such society” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's pity.
31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “On Saturday morning Elizabeth and Mr. Collins met for breakfast a few minutes before the others appeared” (Chapter XXXVIII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 9, 18, 8, 1, 19, 4, 5, 13, 10, 20, 12, 21, 15, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	3, 8, 24, 25, 1, 19, 20, 12, 26, 10, 11, 27, 21, 22, 16, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	28, 1, 19, 29, 3, 26, 20, 12, 13, 10, 14, 15, 22, 27, 30, 31	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	3, 29, 8, 4, 11, 26, 13, 20, 12, 22, 14, 27, 21, 31, 30, 23	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 6, 1, 26, 12, 10, 20, 27, 15, 21, 14, 22, 16, 30, 23, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	28, 18, 4, 13, 11, 12, 26, 21, 14, 27, 15, 22, 30, 31, 23, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 28, 10, 20, 26, 11, 13, 22, 14, 21, 15, 27, 30, 23, 16, 31	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	28, 3, 26, 11, 20, 13, 12, 15, 27, 21, 22, 14, 16, 31, 30, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	3, 28, 12, 13, 26, 20, 11, 22, 14, 27, 21, 15, 31, 30, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	3, 28, 13, 10, 26, 12, 20, 27, 14, 15, 22, 21, 23, 16, 31, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXVIII,” how does Austen show farewells at Hunsford? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXVIII, how does Austen develop the idea of farewells at Hunsford? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXVIII develops the idea of farewells at Hunsford. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of farewells at Hunsford. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXVIII suggests about farewells at Hunsford. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XXXVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of farewells at Hunsford. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of farewells at Hunsford responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of farewells at Hunsford follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXVIII and its treatment of farewells at Hunsford. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXVIII as evidence for a larger claim about farewells at Hunsford in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of farewells at Hunsford. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. He then handed her in, Maria followed, and the door was on the point of being closed, when he suddenly reminded them, with some consternation, that they had hitherto forgotten to leave any message for the ladies of Rosings.

   As used in the text, what does the word “consternation” most nearly mean?

   A. feel happiness or joy
   B. observing closely
   C. a trait of dignified seriousness
   D. alarm and dismay

2. Elizabeth was eager with her thanks and assurances of happiness. She had spent six weeks with great enjoyment; and the pleasure of being with Charlotte, and the kind attentions she had received, must make her feel the obliged. Mr. Collins was gratified; and with a more smiling solemnity replied—

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXXVIII"?

A. Bingley returns
B. Scandal
C. Farewells at Hunsford
D. A ridiculous proposal

SAT key: 1. D (alarm and dismay); 2. C (Farewells at Hunsford)

Lesson 40: Chapter XXXIX

Focus: the Brighton plan

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter XXXIX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.3, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Lydia and Kitty meet their sisters at an inn, chattering about officers and announcing that Miss King has gone. Lydia buys an ugly bonnet and dreams of Brighton, where the regiment is going.

Background: Brighton was a fashionable seaside resort with military camps.

Significance: The decision not to warn others has consequences.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
> Prompt: Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: workbags — bags for holding sewing or needlework; depreciate — to belittle; to speak of as unimportant; bandbox — a light round box for hats; encamped — live in or as if in a tent; equivocal — open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead. “workbags”: From work + bag. “depreciate”: Middle English depreciaten, borrowed from Late Latin dēpretiātus / dēpreciātus, perfect passive participle of dēpretiō / dēpreciō (see -ate), from dē- + pretium "price" + -ō. “bandbox”: From band + box.
> Words: workbags: bags for holding sewing or needlework · depreciate: to belittle; to speak of as unimportant · bandbox: a light round box for hats · encamped: live in or as if in a tent · equivocal: open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Brighton was a fashionable seaside resort with military camps. The decision not to warn others has consequences. Characterization: Lydia and Kitty meet Elizabeth and Jane at the inn; Lydia spends their money, gossips crudely, and announces the regiment's move to Brighton. Characterization: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe." Watch for marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: "safe!" added Elizabeth; "safe from a connection imprudent as to fortune" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 11).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Lydia and Kitty meet Elizabeth and Jane at the inn; Lydia spends their money, gossips crudely, and announces the regiment's move to Brighton.

> It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street
> (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1). Opening. That is characterization at work: Lydia and Kitty meet Elizabeth and Jane at the inn; Lydia spends their money, gossips crudely, and announces the regiment's move to Brighton.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Lydia's voice. Look at the craft: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe." Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. (Lydia's voice.)

> Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Lydia's voice. Look at the craft: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe."
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. (Lydia's voice.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the Brighton plan? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIX develops the idea of the Brighton plan. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. When the text says "I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. She buys a bonnet she does "not think it is very pretty" just because she might "as well buy it as not," spending carelessly and talking without thought.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the Brighton plan? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXXIX develops the idea of the Brighton plan. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. When the text says "I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. She buys a bonnet she does "not think it is very pretty" just because she might "as well buy it as not," spending carelessly and talking without thought.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret? Ask: who is responsible for Lydia's behaviour?

Anchor question: Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret?

Facilitation: Ask: who is responsible for Lydia's behaviour?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the Brighton plan? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. ("I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not", Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the Brighton plan? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. ("I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not", Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes the Brighton plan. Key takeaway: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Lydia and Kitty meet Elizabeth and Jane at the inn; Lydia spends their money, gossips crudely, and announces the regiment's move to Brighton.
- Characterization: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe."

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice.

Symbols and motifs

- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “safe!” added Elizabeth; “safe from a connection imprudent as to fortune” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 11).
- dancing and social performance: Balls are where judgments are formed in public. In this chapter: “day there, and Mrs. Forster promised to have a little dance in the evening; (by the by, Mrs. Forster and me are” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 17).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1) Opening.
- “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2) Lydia's voice.
- “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3) Lydia's careless spending.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear.
Evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: She buys a bonnet she does "not think it is very pretty" just because she might "as well buy it as not," spending carelessly and talking without thought.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

workbags (noun)	bags for holding sewing or needlework	As soon as all had ate, and the elder ones paid, the carriage was ordered; and after some contrivance, the whole party, with all their boxes, workbags, and parcels, and the unwelcome addition of Kitty's and Lydia's purchases, were seated in it.	"workbags": From work + bag. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/workbag#Etymology)
depreciate (verb)	to belittle; to speak of as unimportant	To this, Mary very gravely replied, "Far be it from me, my dear sister, to depreciate such pleasures.	"depreciate": Middle English depreciaten, borrowed from Late Latin dēpretiātus / dēpreciātus, perfect passive participle of dēpretiō / dēpreciō (see -ate), from dē- + pretium "price" + -ō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/depreciate#Etymology)
bandbox (noun)	a light round box for hats	"I am glad I bought my bonnet, if it is only for the fun of having another bandbox!	"bandbox": From band + box. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/bandbox#Etymology)
encamped (verb)	live in or as if in a tent	"They are going to be encamped near Brighton; and I do so want papa to take us all there for the summer!
equivocal (adjective)	open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead	Elizabeth saw directly that her father had not the smallest intention of yielding; but his answers were at the same time so vague and equivocal, that her mother, though often disheartened, had never yet despaired of succeeding at last.
despaired (verb)	abandon hope; give up hope; lose heart	Elizabeth saw directly that her father had not the smallest intention of yielding; but his answers were at the same time so vague and equivocal, that her mother, though often disheartened, had never yet despaired of succeeding at last.
congenial (adjective)	pleasant and well suited	They would doubtless be congenial with the generality of female minds.
additions (noun)	a component that is added to something to improve it	With such kind of histories of their parties and good jokes, did Lydia, assisted by Kitty's hints and additions, endeavour to amuse her companions all the way to Longbourn.

purchases (noun)	the acquisition of something for payment	Then showing her purchases: "Look here, I have bought this bonnet.	"purchases": From Middle English purchasen, from Anglo-Norman purchacer "seek to obtain" from pur- (from Latin pro-) + chac(i)er "to chase, pursue". Compare Old French porchacier "to follow, to chase", which has given French pourchasser "to chase without relent". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/purchase#Etymology) sentinel (noun)	a soldier standing guard	These two girls had been above an hour in the place, happily employed in visiting an opposite milliner, watching the sentinel on guard, and dressing a salad and cucumber.

Discussion questions

1. Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who chatter about officers? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia and Kitty
2. What happened to Miss King? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She went away
3. What does Lydia buy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: An ugly bonnet
4. Where do the sisters meet? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At an inn
5. Where does the regiment plan to go? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Brighton
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXXIX" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia and Kitty meet their sisters at an inn, chattering about officers and announcing that Miss King has gone. Lydia buys an ugly bonnet and dreams of Brighton, where the regiment is going.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXXIX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXXIX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “As soon as all had ate, and the elder ones paid, the carriage was ordered; and after some contrivance, the whole party, with all their boxes, workbags, and parcels, and the unwelcome addition of Kitty’s and Lydia’s…” What does “workbags” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: workbags: bags for holding sewing or needlework.
10. Reread: “To this, Mary very gravely replied, “Far be it from me, my dear sister, to depreciate such pleasures.” What does “depreciate” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: depreciate: to belittle; to speak of as unimportant.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXXIX” suggest about the Brighton plan? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The decision not to warn others has consequences.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the Brighton plan? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street, for the town of ——— in Hertfordshire; and, as they drew near the appointed…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXXIX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Lydia and Kitty meet their sisters at an inn, chattering about officers and announcing that Miss King has gone. Lydia buys an ugly bonnet and dreams of Brighton, where the regiment is going.
6. How does “Chapter XXXIX” build on “Chapter XXXVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2): Lydia's voice. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3): Lydia's careless spending. On characterization: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Were Elizabeth and Jane right to keep Wickham's secret?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Brighton was a fashionable seaside resort with military camps. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2): Lydia's voice. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The decision not to warn others has consequences.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3): Lydia's careless spending. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXXIX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the Brighton plan? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2): Lydia's voice. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXXIX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3): Lydia's careless spending. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2): Lydia's voice. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XXXIX” treats the Brighton plan with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3): Lydia's careless spending. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XL” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the Brighton plan? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2): Lydia's voice. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Useful evidence: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3): Lydia's careless spending. Theme link: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where does the regiment plan to go?
   A. Scotland
   B. Kent
   C. Brighton
   D. London

   Key: C (Brighton)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They would doubtless be _____ with the generality of female minds.” Word bank: workbags, bandbox, congenial, depreciate

   Key: congenial
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““They are going to be encamped near Brighton; and I do so want papa to take us all there for the summer!”, what does “encamped” most nearly mean?
   A. in a manner acceptable to common custom
   B. an energetic attempt to achieve something

   C. live in or as if in a tent
   D. express the need or desire for; ask for

   Key: C (live in or as if in a tent)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who chatter about officers?
   A. Charlotte
   B. Mary and Jane
   C. Mrs. Gardiner
   D. Lydia and Kitty

   Key: D (Lydia and Kitty)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""I am glad I bought my bonnet, if it is only for the fun of having another bandbox!", what does "bandbox" most nearly mean?
   A. brief and to the point
   B. treated lightly; toyed with
   C. a light round box for hats
   D. joyful and proud especially because of triumph or success

   Key: C (a light round box for hats)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Lydia buy?
   A. An ugly bonnet
   B. A book
   C. A dress for Jane
   D. A horse

   Key: A (An ugly bonnet)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What happened to Miss King?
   A. She went away
   B. She died
   C. She married Wickham
   D. She came to Longbourn

   Key: A (She went away)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "With such kind of histories of their parties and good jokes, did Lydia, assisted by Kitty's hints and _____, endeavour to amuse her companions all the way to Longbourn." Word bank: depreciate, additions, workbags, bandbox
   Key: additions

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Elizabeth saw directly that her father had not the smallest intention of yielding; but his answers were at the same time so vague and equivocal, that her mother, though often disheartened, had never yet _____ of succeeding at last." Word bank: bandbox, despaired, depreciate, workbags
   Key: despaired

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street" (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1)
    A. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

B. Jane's joy.
C. Elizabeth on Jane: a criticism and a compliment.
D. Opening.

Key: D (Opening.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2)
    A. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.
    B. Elizabeth's own question.
    C. Wickham, just before giving it.
    D. Lydia's voice.

    Key: D (Lydia's voice.)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Lydia's voice.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Lydia's careless spending.
15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIX”? Lydia and Kitty meet Elizabeth and Jane at the inn; Lydia spends their money, gossips crudely, and announces the regiment's move to Brighton.
    A. Setting
    B. Point of view
    C. Plot
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXXIX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Lydia's vulgarity is shown in her own voice.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I _____ I might as well buy it as not”

    Key: thought
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “To this, Mary very gravely replied, “Far be it from me, my dear sister, to depreciate such pleasures.”, what does “depreciate” most nearly mean?
    A. regularity; steadiness
    B. to accept quietly
    C. to belittle; to speak of as unimportant
    D. smiled in a silly, self-conscious way

Key: C (to belittle; to speak of as unimportant)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1: “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from _____-street”

    Key: Gracechurch

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIX”?

    A. A misguided warning
    B. Scandal
    C. Neighbors and gossip
    D. The Brighton plan

    Key: D (The Brighton plan)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXXIX”? Lydia reports Wickham's Miss King has gone away: "she is safe."

    A. Personification
    B. Simile
    C. Irony
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3).

    Sample answer: She buys a bonnet she does "not think it is very pretty" just because she might "as well buy it as not," spending carelessly and talking without thought.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Lydia's chatter shows the giddiness that Darcy and now Elizabeth fear.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She buys a bonnet she does "not think it is very pretty" just because she might "as well buy it as not," spending carelessly and talking without thought.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Elizabeth saw directly that her father had not the smallest intention of yielding; but his answers were at the same time so vague and _____, that her mother, though often disheartened, had never yet despaired of succeeding at last.” Word bank: depreciate, equivocal, workbags, bandbox

    Key: equivocal

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “As soon as all had ate, and the elder ones paid, the carriage was ordered; and after some contrivance, the whole party, with all their boxes, workbags, and parcels, and the unwelcome addition of Kitty’s and Lydia’s…”, what does “workbags” most nearly mean?

    A. put into a proper or systematic order
    B. to strike back
    C. bags for holding sewing or needlework
    D. try to prevent; show opposition to

    Key: C (bags for holding sewing or needlework)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do the sisters meet?
    A. At church
    B. At Rosings
    C. At an inn
    D. At Pemberley

    Key: C (At an inn)

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I do not think it is very pretty; but I thought I might as well buy it as not” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 3)
    A. The visual image that divides the Bingley sisters and Darcy.
    B. Mr. Bennet's pleasure in folly.
    C. Lydia's careless spending.
    D. Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.

    Key: C (Lydia's careless spending.)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Is not this nice? is not this an agreeable surprise” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Lydia's voice.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street” (Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXXIX, paragraph 2: “Is not this nice? is not this an _____ surprise”

    Key: agreeable

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	4, 17, 18, 8, 6, 3, 9, 19, 20, 10, 13, 12, 14, 21, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 4, 25, 3, 9, 26, 12, 11, 13, 27, 10, 21, 22, 15, 28, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	19, 9, 5, 3, 6, 20, 12, 11, 10, 13, 14, 15, 21, 22, 23, 29	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	30, 19, 2, 4, 12, 20, 13, 27, 10, 14, 15, 21, 22, 23, 28, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 2, 4, 11, 20, 10, 27, 12, 15, 21, 22, 14, 28, 29, 16, 23	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	9, 19, 7, 12, 13, 27, 10, 20, 21, 15, 14, 22, 23, 28, 29, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Sophomore	30, 24, 11, 20, 13, 12, 27, 10, 22, 15, 21, 14, 23, 28, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	30, 24, 11, 13, 20, 12, 27, 10, 22, 21, 15, 14, 29, 28, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	19, 24, 13, 20, 27, 11, 10, 12, 15, 21, 22, 14, 29, 23, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	30, 24, 12, 27, 13, 10, 11, 20, 22, 21, 15, 14, 28, 29, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXXIX,” how does Austen show the Brighton plan? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XXXIX, how does Austen develop the idea of the Brighton plan? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XXXIX develops the idea of the Brighton plan. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXXIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of the Brighton plan. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXXIX suggests about the Brighton plan. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses foreshadowing in Chapter XXXIX to complicate the reader's understanding of the Brighton plan. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXXIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the Brighton plan responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXXIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the Brighton plan follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXXIX and its treatment of the Brighton plan. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXXIX as evidence for a larger claim about the Brighton plan in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXXIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the Brighton plan. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “I am glad I bought my bonnet, if it is only for the fun of having another bandbox!

   As used in the text, what does the word “bandbox” most nearly mean?

   A. a soldier standing guard
   B. the acquisition of something for payment
   C. a component that is added to something to improve it
   D. a light round box for hats

2. It was the second week in May, in which the three young ladies set out together from Gracechurch-street, for the town of ——— in Hertfordshire; and, as they drew near the appointed inn where Mr. Bennet’s carriage was to meet them, they quickly perceived, in token of the coachman’s punctuality, both Kitty and Lydia looking out of a dining-room upstairs. These two girls had been above an hour in the place, happily employed in visiting an opposite milliner, watching the sentinel on guard, and dressing a salad and cucumber.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXXIX”?

   A. The Brighton plan
   B. Bingley returns
   C. Reflections on love
   D. Music, wit and manners

SAT key: 1. D (a light round box for hats); 2. A (The Brighton plan)

Lesson 41: Chapter XL

Focus: keeping secrets

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XL” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth tells Jane of Darcy's proposal and of Wickham's true character. Jane is distressed for both men. The sisters agree not to expose Wickham publicly, since he is leaving soon. Elizabeth keeps back Darcy's part in separating Jane and Bingley.

Background: Damaging a man's reputation without proof could bring social consequences.

Significance: The decision to stay silent sets up the elopement crisis.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
Prompt: Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the sisters debate what to do with what they know.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: incumbrance — a burden; something that holds one back; mismanagement — bad handling or management; reestablish — to restore; to set up again; allayed — lessen the intensity of or calm; undeceive — free from deception or illusion. “incumbrance”: Variant of encumbrance.
Words: incumbrance: a burden; something that holds one back · mismanagement: bad handling or management · reestablish: to restore; to set up again · allayed: lessen the intensity of or calm · undeceive: free from deception or illusion

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Damaging a man's reputation without proof could bring social consequences. The decision to stay silent sets up the elopement crisis. Characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham. Dialogue: Jane tries to keep both men good. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "She then spoke of the letter, repeating the whole of its contents as far as they concerned" (Chapter XL, paragraph 9).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15). Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham.

> There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men (Chapter XL, paragraph 15)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15). Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Appearance vs. goodness: the novel's key distinction, now spoken by Elizabeth. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: The sisters debate what to do with what they know. (Key line.)

> One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it (Chapter XL, paragraph 15)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Appearance vs. goodness: the novel's key distinction, now spoken by Elizabeth.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: The sisters debate what to do with what they know. (Key line.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about keeping secrets? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XL develops the idea of keeping secrets. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. When the text says “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. She tells Jane that "one has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it," reversing her earlier judgment of Darcy and Wickham.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about keeping secrets? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XL develops the idea of keeping secrets. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. When the text says “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. She tells Jane that "one has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it," reversing her earlier judgment of Darcy and Wickham.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret? Ask: should they expose Wickham? What do they risk either way?

Anchor question: Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret?

Facilitation: Ask: should they expose Wickham? What do they risk either way?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about keeping secrets? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. (“One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it”, Chapter XL, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about keeping secrets? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. (“One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it”, Chapter XL, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes keeping secrets. Key takeaway: the sisters debate what to do with what they know.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham.
- Dialogue: Jane tries to keep both men good.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: the sisters debate what to do with what they know.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “She then spoke of the letter, repeating the whole of its contents as far as they concerned” (Chapter XL, paragraph 9).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “Yes, yes. They will take care not to outrun their income. They will never be distressed for money. Well, much good may” (Chapter XL, paragraph 33).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.
- “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) Key line.
- “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1) Opening.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness.
Evidence: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15)
Reasoning: She tells Jane that "one has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it," reversing her earlier judgment of Darcy and Wickham.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

incumbrance (noun)	a burden; something that holds one back	Here was knowledge in which no one could partake; and she was sensible that nothing less than a perfect understanding between the parties could justify her in throwing off this last incumbrance of mystery.	"incumbrance": Variant of encumbrance. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/incumbrance#Etymology)
mismanagement (noun)	bad handling or management	"There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men.
reestablish (verb)	to restore; to set up again	He is now perhaps sorry for what he has done, and anxious to reestablish a character.
allayed (verb)	lessen the intensity of or calm	The tumult of Elizabeth's mind was allayed by this conversation.
undeceive (verb)	free from deception or illusion	On the contrary every particular relative to his sister, was meant to be kept as much as possible to myself; and if I endeavour to undeceive people as to the rest of his conduct, who will believe me?
undeserved (adjective)	not deserved or earned	Darcy, for now they do appear wholly undeserved."
extorted (verb)	drawn out with difficulty	It was some time, however, before a smile could be extorted from Jane.	"extorted": Borrowed from Latin extortus, past participle of extorquere "to twist or wrench out, to extort"; from ex "out" + -tort, from torqueō "twist, turn". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/extort#Etymology)
lawfully (adverb)	in a manner acceptable to common custom	Well, if they can be easy with an estate that is not lawfully their own, so much the better.	"lawfully": From Middle English lawefully, lawfulliche, lawefulliche; equivalent to lawful + -ly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/lawfully#Etymology)
stumbling (verb)	walk unsteadily	One may be continually abusive without saying anything just; but one cannot be always laughing at a man without now and then stumbling on something witty."
shifting (verb)	changing	There is but such a quantity of merit between them; just enough to make one good sort of man; and of late it has been shifting about pretty much.

Discussion questions

1. Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth tell Jane? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: About Darcy's proposal and Wickham
2. How does Jane respond to the truth about Darcy and Wickham? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Distressed for both men
3. What do the sisters decide? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Not to expose Wickham
4. What does Elizabeth hold back from Jane? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy's role in separating her from Bingley
5. What theme does the silence raise? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Responsibility to warn others
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XL" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth tells Jane of Darcy's proposal and of Wickham's true character. Jane is distressed for both men. The sisters agree not to expose Wickham publicly, since he is leaving soon. Elizabeth keeps back Darcy's part in separating Jane and Bingley.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XL"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XL" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Here was knowledge in which no one could partake; and she was sensible that nothing less than a perfect understanding between the parties could justify her in throwing off this last incumbrance of mystery." What does "incumbrance" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: incumbrance: a burden; something that holds one back.

10. Reread: ""There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men." What does "mismanagement" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: mismanagement: bad handling or management.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XL" suggest about keeping secrets? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The decision to stay silent sets up the elopement crisis.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about keeping secrets? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: "There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ""This will not do,"", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XL", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth tells Jane of Darcy's proposal and of Wickham's true character. Jane is distressed for both men. The sisters agree not to expose Wickham publicly, since he is leaving soon. Elizabeth keeps back Darcy's part in separating Jane and Bingley.
6. How does "Chapter XL" build on "Chapter XXXIX"? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: "One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Key line. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: "Elizabeth's impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome" (Chapter XL, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: "Was it right to keep Wickham's character secret?" Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Damaging a man's reputation without proof could bring social consequences. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Key line. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The decision to stay silent sets up the elopement crisis.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XL” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about keeping secrets? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Key line. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XL”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3,

CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Key line. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XL” treats keeping secrets with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about keeping secrets? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15): Key line. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: the sisters debate what to do with what they know. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Jane respond to the truth about Darcy and Wickham?
   A. Pleased
   B. Angry at Darcy
   C. Indifferent
   D. Distressed for both men

   Key: D (Distressed for both men)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “He is now perhaps sorry for what he has done, and anxious to reestablish a character.”, what does “reestablish” most nearly mean?
   A. try to prevent; show opposition to
   B. promised
   C. causes
   D. to restore; to set up again

   Key: D (to restore; to set up again)
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XL, paragraph 15: “There certainly was some great _____ in the education of those two young men”

   Key: mismanagement
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men.”, what does “mismanagement” most nearly mean?
   A. speaking about briefly
   B. bad handling or management
   C. remaining
   D. to come or pass in between

Key: B (bad handling or management)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XL, paragraph 15: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the _____ of it”

   Key: appearance

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Here was knowledge in which no one could partake; and she was sensible that nothing less than a perfect understanding between the parties could justify her in throwing off this last incumbrance of mystery.”, what does “incumbrance” most nearly mean?

   A. a burden; something that holds one back
   B. fearful expectation or anticipation
   C. outshone; made to seem less important
   D. giving offense to moral sensibilities and injurious to reputation

   Key: A (a burden; something that holds one back)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth hold back from Jane?

   A. Georgiana's name
   B. Darcy's role in separating her from Bingley
   C. The proposal
   D. Wickham's debts

   Key: B (Darcy's role in separating her from Bingley)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do the sisters decide?

   A. To write to Bingley
   B. To warn Lydia directly
   C. To tell their father
   D. Not to expose Wickham

   Key: D (Not to expose Wickham)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XL, paragraph 1: “Elizabeth’s _____ to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome”

   Key: impatience

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15)

    A. Elizabeth's mortification.
    B. Wickham judged on appearance.
    C. Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.
    D. The dramatic irony stated directly.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15)
    A. Key line.
    B. Her self-analysis.
    C. The Wickhams wear out their welcome.
    D. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

    Key: A (Key line.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Key line.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XL”? Elizabeth tells Jane of the proposal and the letter but not about Bingley; they decide not to expose Wickham.
    A. Foreshadowing
    B. Characterization
    C. Imagery
    D. Allusion

    Key: B (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Opening.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She tells Jane that "one has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it," reversing her earlier judgment of Darcy and Wickham.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth tell Jane?
    A. About Collins's debts
    B. About Darcy's proposal and Wickham
    C. Nothing
    D. About Pemberley

    Key: B (About Darcy's proposal and Wickham)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The tumult of Elizabeth’s mind was allayed by this conversation.”, what does “allayed” most nearly mean?
    A. injured by a sudden twist
    B. inadequate in amount or degree
    C. lessen the intensity of or calm
    D. annoyances; worries

    Key: C (lessen the intensity of or calm)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Well, if they can be easy with an estate that is not _____ their own, so much the better.” Word bank: mismanagement, incumbrance, reestablish, lawfully

    Key: lawfully

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What theme does the silence raise?

    A. Wealth
    B. Love of music
    C. Travel
    D. Responsibility to warn others

    Key: D (Responsibility to warn others)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XL”?

    A. Keeping secrets
    B. Disappointment and philosophy
    C. Visit to Hunsford
    D. Music, wit and manners

    Key: A (Keeping secrets)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth’s impatience to acquaint Jane with what had happened could no longer be overcome” (Chapter XL, paragraph 1)

    A. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
    B. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.
    C. Opening.
    D. Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.

    Key: C (Opening.)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth now distinguishes between appearance and goodness. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it” (Chapter XL, paragraph 15).

    Sample answer: She tells Jane that "one has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it," reversing her earlier judgment of Darcy and Wickham.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XL”? Jane tries to keep both men good.

    A. Structure
    B. Dialogue
    C. Foreshadowing
    D. Plot

    Key: B (Dialogue)

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy, for now they do appear wholly _____.”” Word bank: undeserved, mismanagement, reestablish, incumbrance

    Key: undeserved

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “On the contrary every particular relative to his sister, was meant to be kept as much as possible to myself; and if I endeavour to _____ people as to the rest of his conduct, who will believe me?" Word bank: undeceive, reestablish, mismanagement, incumbrance

Key: undeceive

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XL". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the sisters debate what to do with what they know.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "There certainly was some great mismanagement in the education of those two young men" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's joke about Darcy and Wickham.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "It was some time, however, before a smile could be _____ from Jane." Word bank: reestablish, mismanagement, extorted, incumbrance

    Key: extorted

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "One has got all the goodness, and the other all the appearance of it" (Chapter XL, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Key line.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 8, 17, 5, 18, 2, 19, 20, 21, 22, 10, 11, 15, 23, 24, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	4, 25, 26, 3, 9, 19, 10, 21, 11, 13, 12, 24, 15, 14, 27, 28	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	29, 1, 19, 4, 5, 22, 13, 21, 10, 11, 24, 15, 14, 23, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	26, 25, 20, 8, 10, 22, 13, 21, 11, 24, 14, 15, 23, 16, 30, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	26, 25, 17, 11, 22, 10, 21, 13, 15, 24, 23, 14, 27, 28, 30, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	26, 25, 2, 12, 13, 22, 10, 21, 15, 24, 14, 23, 16, 30, 28, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 26, 13, 22, 12, 11, 10, 21, 14, 23, 24, 15, 16, 27, 28, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	26, 3, 21, 12, 10, 13, 22, 11, 23, 14, 15, 24, 30, 28, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	26, 25, 12, 10, 11, 21, 13, 22, 14, 15, 24, 23, 27, 28, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	26, 9, 12, 13, 22, 10, 11, 21, 14, 15, 23, 24, 30, 16, 27, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XL,” how does Austen show keeping secrets? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XL, how does Austen develop the idea of keeping secrets? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XL develops the idea of keeping secrets. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XL (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of keeping secrets. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XL suggests about keeping secrets. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XL to complicate the reader's understanding of keeping secrets. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XL within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of keeping secrets responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XL alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of keeping secrets follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XL and its treatment of keeping secrets. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XL as evidence for a larger claim about keeping secrets in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XL as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of keeping secrets. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. He is now perhaps sorry for what he has done, and anxious to reestablish a character.

   As used in the text, what does the word “reestablish” most nearly mean?

   A. to restore; to set up again
   B. changing
   C. in a manner acceptable to common custom
   D. walk unsteadily

2. “This will not do,” said Elizabeth. “You never will be able to make both of them good for anything. Take your choice, but you must be satisfied with only one. There is but such a quantity of merit between them; just enough to make one good sort of man; and of late it has been shifting about pretty much. For my part, I am inclined to believe it all Mr. Darcy’s, but you shall do as you choose.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XL”?

   A. Farewells at Hunsford
   B. Shameless return
   C. The first proposal
   D. Keeping secrets

SAT key: 1. A (to restore; to set up again); 2. D (Keeping secrets)

Lesson 42: Chapter XLI

Focus: parental failure

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XLI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Lydia is invited to Brighton by Mrs. Forster. Elizabeth warns her father of the danger; Mr. Bennet lets Lydia go to keep peace. Elizabeth sees Wickham again and hints she knows the truth.

Background: Chaperones were expected to protect young women's reputations.

Significance: Mr. Bennet's indifference is a serious moral failing that leads to crisis.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
Prompt: Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: exuberant — joyously unrestrained; vexations — annoyances; worries; squeamish — too easily shocked or disgusted; improves — to make better; operated — had an effect; worked. “exuberant”: From Middle French exubérant, from Latin exūberāns, the present active participle of exūberō "be abundant". Put together from ex "out", and uber "udder", and originally would have referred to a cow or she-goat which was making so much milk that it naturally dripped or sprayed from the udder. “improves”: From Anglo-Norman emprouwer, from Old French en- + prou "profit", from Vulgar Latin prode "advantageous, profitable".
Words: exuberant: joyously unrestrained · vexations: annoyances; worries · squeamish: too easily shocked or disgusted · improves: to make better · operated: had an effect; worked

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Chaperones were expected to protect young women's reputations. Mr. Bennet's indifference is a serious moral failing that leads to crisis. Characterization: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act. Dialogue: Mr. Bennet's reply shows his indolence. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "Fitzwilliam's and Mr. Darcy's having both spent three weeks at Rosings, and asked him if he were acquainted with the former" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 26).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15). Mr. Bennet's acceptance. That is characterization at work: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act.

> Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15). Mr. Bennet's acceptance. That is characterization at work: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: He chooses peace over responsibility; it leads to the crisis. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The father's failure to act sets up the crisis. (His reason.)

> We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: He chooses peace over responsibility; it leads to the crisis.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The father's failure to act sets up the crisis. (His reason.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about parental failure? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLI develops the idea of parental failure. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. When the text says "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about parental failure? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLI develops the idea of parental failure. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. When the text says "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next? Ask: what should Mr. Bennet have done?

Anchor question: Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next?

Facilitation: Ask: what should Mr. Bennet have done?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about parental failure? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. ("Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other", Chapter XLI, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about parental failure? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. ("Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other", Chapter XLI, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes parental failure. Key takeaway: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act.
- Dialogue: Mr. Bennet's reply shows his indolence.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “Fitzwilliam’s and Mr. Darcy’s having both spent three weeks at Rosings, and asked him if he were acquainted with the former” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 26).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “complexion and agitated look; for a few minutes he was silent; till, shaking off his embarrassment, he turned to her again, and” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 37).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15) Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
- “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18) Elizabeth's warning.
- “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20) His reason.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment.
Evidence: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15)
Reasoning: He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
exuberant (adjective)	joyously unrestrained	If you, my dear father, will not take the trouble of checking her exuberant spirits, and of teaching her that her present pursuits are not to be the business of her life, she will soon be beyond the reach of amendment.	"exuberant": From Middle French exubérant, from Latin exūberāns, the present active participle of exūberō "be abundant". Put together from ex "out", and uber "udder", and originally would have referred to a cow or she-goat which was making so much milk that it naturally dripped or sprayed from the udder. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/exuberant#Etymology)
vexations (noun)	annoyances; worries	It was not in her nature, however, to increase her vexations, by dwelling on them.
squeamish (adjective)	too easily shocked or disgusted	Such squeamish youths as cannot bear to be connected with a little absurdity, are not worth a regret.
improves (verb)	to make better	"And pray may I ask?" but checking himself, he added in a gayer tone, "Is it in address that he improves?	"improves": From Anglo-Norman emprouwer, from Old French en- + prou "profit", from Vulgar Latin prode "advantageous, profitable". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/improve#Etymology)
operated (verb)	had an effect; worked	His fear of her, has always operated, I know, when they were together; and a good deal is to be imputed to his wish of forwarding the match with Miss de Bourgh, which I am certain he has very much at heart."
sameness (noun)	the quality of being alike	She had even learnt to detect, in the very gentleness which had first delighted her, an affectation and a sameness to disgust and weary.
resounding (verb)	ring or echo with sound	Such were the kind of lamentations resounding perpetually through Longbourn-house.	"resounding": From both of the following: (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/resound#Etymology)
alluding (verb)	make a more or less disguised reference to	I only fear that the sort of cautiousness, to which you, I imagine, have been alluding, is merely adopted on his visits to his aunt, of whose good opinion	"alluding": From Middle French alluder, from Latin alludere "to play with or allude", from ad + ludere "to play". See also al-#Etymology_2.

		and judgment he stands much in awe.	(Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/allude#Etymology)
invaluable (adjective)	having incalculable monetary, intellectual, or spiritual worth	This invaluable friend was a very young woman, and very lately married.
renewing (verb)	reestablish on a new, usually improved, basis or make new or like new	In his present behaviour to herself, moreover, she had a fresh source of displeasure, for the inclination he soon testified of renewing those attentions which had marked the early part of their acquaintance, could only serve, after what had since passed, to provoke her.	“renewing”: From Middle English renewen, an alteration (possibly on analogy with Latin renovāre) of earlier anewen "to renew", from Old English nīewian "to restore; renovate; renew", equivalent to re + new. Cognate with Old High German giniuwōn "to renew", Middle High German geniuwen "to renew", Old Norse nýja "to renew". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/renew#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who invites Lydia to Brighton? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Forster
2. What does Elizabeth warn her father? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia is in danger of disgrace
3. Why does Mr. Bennet allow it? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To keep peace at home
4. How does Elizabeth behave toward Wickham? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She hints she knows the truth
5. What theme does this chapter show? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Parental neglect

6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XLI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia is invited to Brighton by Mrs. Forster. Elizabeth warns her father of the danger; Mr. Bennet lets Lydia go to keep peace. Elizabeth sees Wickham again and hints she knows the truth.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XLI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XLI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "If you, my dear father, will not take the trouble of checking her exuberant spirits, and of teaching her that her present pursuits are not to be the business of her life, she will soon be beyond the reach of amendment." What does "exuberant" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: exuberant: joyously unrestrained.
10. Reread: "It was not in her nature, however, to increase her vexations, by dwelling on them." What does "vexations" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: vexations: annoyances; worries.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XLI" suggest about parental failure? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet's indifference is a serious moral failing that leads to crisis.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about parental failure? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15): Mr. Bennet's acceptance. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "Such were the kind of lamentations resounding perpetually through Longbourn-house.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XLI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Lydia is invited to Brighton by Mrs. Forster. Elizabeth warns her father of the danger; Mr. Bennet lets Lydia go to keep peace. Elizabeth sees Wickham again and hints she knows the truth.
6. How does "Chapter XLI" build on "Chapter XL"? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's warning. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20): His reason. On characterization: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is Mr. Bennet responsible for what happens next?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15): Mr. Bennet's acceptance. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Chaperones were expected to protect young women's reputations. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's warning. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mr. Bennet's indifference is a serious moral failing that leads to crisis.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20): His reason. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15): Mr. Bennet's acceptance. On characterization: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XLI" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about parental failure? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's warning. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter XLI": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20): His reason. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15): Mr. Bennet's acceptance. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's warning. On characterization: Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how "Chapter XLI" treats parental failure with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: "We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton" (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20): His reason. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XLII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15): Mr. Bennet's acceptance. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about parental failure? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18): Elizabeth's warning. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Useful evidence: “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20): His reason. Theme link: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His fear of her, has always _____, I know, when they were together; and a good deal is to be imputed to his wish of forwarding the match with Miss de Bourgh, which I am certain he has very much at heart.”” Word bank: operated, vexations, squeamish, exuberant

   Key: operated
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who invites Lydia to Brighton?

   A. Lady Catherine

   B. Mrs. Forster

   C. Charlotte

   D. Mrs. Gardiner

Key: B (Mrs. Forster)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 15: “Lydia will never be easy till she has _____ herself in some public place or other”

   Key: exposed

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 20: “We shall have no peace at _____ if Lydia does not go to Brighton”

   Key: Longbourn

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She had even learnt to detect, in the very gentleness which had first delighted her, an affectation and a _____ to disgust and weary.” Word bank: squeamish, exuberant, sameness, vexations

   Key: sameness

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was not in her nature, however, to increase her vexations, by dwelling on them.”, what does “vexations” most nearly mean?

   A. brought back to life or strength; revived
   B. in a polite manner
   C. a large entrance or reception room or area
   D. annoyances; worries

   Key: D (annoyances; worries)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I only fear that the sort of cautiousness, to which you, I imagine, have been _____, is merely adopted on his visits to his aunt, of whose good opinion and judgment he stands much in awe.” Word bank: vexations, squeamish, exuberant, alluding

   Key: alluding

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth behave toward Wickham?

   A. She hints she knows the truth
   B. She ignores him
   C. She flirts
   D. She accuses him openly

   Key: A (She hints she knows the truth)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““And pray may I ask?” but checking himself, he added in a gayer tone, “Is it in address that he improves?”, what does “improves” most nearly mean?

   A. a private talk
   B. to make better
   C. keep from happening or arising; make impossible
   D. several time

   Key: B (to make better)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18)

    A. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.
    B. Elizabeth's warning.
    C. Opening.
    D. The witty paradox.

Key: B (Elizabeth's warning.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's warning.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLI”?
    A. Family in crisis
    B. The entail and the officers
    C. Parental failure
    D. A journey and a mercenary suitor

    Key: C (Parental failure)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20)
    A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    B. Wickham, just before giving it.
    C. Darcy's personal effort.
    D. His reason.

    Key: D (His reason.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15).

    Sample answer: He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLI”? Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act.
    A. Allusion
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Personification
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's warning.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 18: “Our importance, our _____ in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility”

    Key: respectability

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Such squeamish youths as cannot bear to be connected with a little absurdity, are not worth a regret.”, what does “squeamish” most nearly mean?
    A. frightening; alarming
    B. send away towards a designated goal

C. too easily shocked or disgusted
D. leave or give by will after one's death

Key: C (too easily shocked or disgusted)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth warn her father?
    A. Lydia is ill
    B. Wickham is rich
    C. Lydia is in danger of disgrace
    D. The house is entailed

    Key: C (Lydia is in danger of disgrace)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Mr. Bennet allow it?
    A. He trusts Lydia
    B. He wants her married
    C. To keep peace at home
    D. He is ill

    Key: C (To keep peace at home)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15)
    A. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
    B. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
    C. Jane's charity.
    D. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.

    Key: B (Mr. Bennet's acceptance.)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: His reason.

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLI”? Mr. Bennet's reply shows his indolence.
    A. Irony
    B. Dialogue
    C. Personification
    D. Conflict

    Key: B (Dialogue)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis.

25. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What theme does this chapter show?

    A. Military glory
    B. Parental neglect
    C. Religion
    D. Love of travel

    Key: B (Parental neglect)

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Such were the kind of lamentations _____ perpetually through Longbourn-house.” Word bank: resounding, vexations, squeamish, exuberant

    Key: resounding

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “If you, my dear father, will not take the trouble of checking her exuberant spirits, and of teaching her that her present pursuits are not to be the business of her life, she will soon be beyond the reach of amendment.”, what does “exuberant” most nearly mean?

    A. calmed
    B. promised
    C. formal or perfunctory politeness
    D. joyously unrestrained

    Key: D (joyously unrestrained)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 4, 18, 6, 19, 5, 20, 3, 13, 21, 12, 11, 22, 14, 23, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	4, 1, 18, 9, 8, 2, 21, 13, 12, 25, 10, 22, 14, 23, 16, 26	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	7, 5, 27, 20, 28, 21, 11, 13, 10, 25, 14, 22, 23, 15, 26, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 17, 2, 29, 11, 21, 12, 25, 10, 14, 22, 15, 23, 16, 26, 24	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 1, 2, 11, 25, 21, 10, 12, 23, 15, 14, 22, 16, 30, 26, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	28, 1, 19, 21, 11, 12, 10, 25, 15, 22, 14, 23, 24, 26, 30, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 28, 10, 21, 25, 13, 11, 12, 15, 23, 22, 14, 30, 26, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 1, 12, 13, 21, 10, 25, 11, 15, 23, 22, 14, 16, 26, 30, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 3, 13, 25, 21, 10, 12, 11, 23, 15, 22, 14, 30, 26, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Graduate / PhD	7, 1, 12, 10, 25, 11, 13, 21, 15, 22, 23, 14, 26, 24, 16, 30	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLI,” how does Austen show parental failure? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLI, how does Austen develop the idea of parental failure? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLI develops the idea of parental failure. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of parental failure. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLI suggests about parental failure. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XLI to complicate the reader's understanding of parental failure. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of parental failure responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of parental failure follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLI and its treatment of parental failure. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLI as evidence for a larger claim about parental failure in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of parental failure. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Such squeamish youths as cannot bear to be connected with a little absurdity, are not worth a regret.

   As used in the text, what does the word “squeamish” most nearly mean?

   A. having incalculable monetary, intellectual, or spiritual worth
   B. too easily shocked or disgusted
   C. reestablish on a new, usually improved, basis or make new or like new
   D. make a more or less disguised reference to

2. Such were the kind of lamentations resounding perpetually through Longbourn-house. Elizabeth tried to be diverted by them; but all sense of pleasure was lost in shame. She felt anew the justice of Mr. Darcy's objections; and never had she before been so much disposed to pardon his interference in the views of his friend.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLI”?

   A. Parental failure
   B. Departure and relief
   C. Doubts and preparations
   D. Wit as courtship

SAT key: 1. B (too easily shocked or disgusted); 2. A (Parental failure)

Lesson 43: Chapter XLII

Focus: an unhappy marriage observed

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XLII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “In _Pride and Prejudice_ the author presents us with a family of young women, bred up under a foolish and vulgar mother, and a father whose good abilities lay hid under such a load of indolence and insensibility, that he had become contented to make the foibles and follies of his wife and daughters the subject of dry and humorous sarcasm, rather than of admonition, or restraint.” (Walter Scott, novelist, Review of Emma (with remarks on Pride and Prejudice), The Quarterly Review (dated October 1815; pub. 1816), reprinted in Famous Reviews, ed. R. Brimley Johnson (1914), section on Pride and Prejudice; public domain). Essay lens: Scott blames Mr. Bennet's sarcasm. Do readers who enjoy his wit share his fault? Use Chapter XLII. Objective: Analyze Mr. Bennet's failure as a parent and the unhappy marriage Elizabeth observes. Standards: RL.11-12.3, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth reflects on her parents' poorly matched marriage. She tours with the Gardiners to Derbyshire, near Pemberley, Darcy's estate.

Background: Country house tourism was common; housekeepers guided visitors when owners were away.

Significance: The parents' marriage illustrates the cost of choosing on looks alone.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
> Prompt: What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: curtailed — cut short; enhance — to increase; to make better; acquiesce — to accept quietly; captivated — attract; cause to be enamored; conjugal — of or relating to marriage or to the relationship between a wife and husband. “curtailed”: Alteration of curtal, from Old French courtault "which has been shortened", itself from court "short" (from Latin curtus) + -ault “acquiesce”: Borrowed from Middle French acquiescer, from Latin acquiescō; ad + quiescō "to rest", from quies "rest". “conjugal”: From Middle French conjugal, from Latin coniugālis "con- + iugum ('yoke')".
Words: curtailed: cut short · enhance: to increase; to make better · acquiesce: to accept quietly · captivated: attract; cause to be enamored · conjugal: of or relating to marriage or to the relationship between a wife and husband

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Country house tourism was common; housekeepers guided visitors when owners were away. The parents' marriage illustrates the cost of choosing on looks alone. Characterization: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery. Point of view: Elizabeth's view merges with the narrator's; she sees her father's failings clearly for the first time. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “When Lydia went away, she promised to write very often and very minutely to her mother and Kitty; but” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1). The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. That is characterization at work: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery.

> Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1). The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. That is characterization at work: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: A marriage based on appearance has hurt the children; ties first impressions to marriage. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: An unhappy marriage shown as a warning. (Elizabeth's realization.)

> she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: A marriage based on appearance has hurt the children; ties first impressions to marriage.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: An unhappy marriage shown as a warning. (Elizabeth's realization.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an unhappy marriage observed? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLII develops the idea of an unhappy marriage observed. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. When the text says "she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage" (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet was "captivated by youth and beauty," and now Elizabeth feels "the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about an unhappy marriage observed? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLII develops the idea of an unhappy marriage observed. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. When the text says "she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage" (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Mr. Bennet was "captivated by youth and beauty," and now Elizabeth feels "the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage? Compare the Bennet marriage with Charlotte's: which is worse?

Anchor question: What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage?
Facilitation: Compare the Bennet marriage with Charlotte's: which is worse?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an unhappy marriage observed? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. (“she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage”, Chapter XLII, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about an unhappy marriage observed? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. (“she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage”, Chapter XLII, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes an unhappy marriage observed. Key takeaway: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery.
- Point of view: Elizabeth's view merges with the narrator's; she sees her father's failings clearly for the first time.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “When Lydia went away, she promised to write very often and very minutely to her mother and Kitty; but” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 5).
- marriage and money: Incomes, entails and fortunes are stated precisely; marriage is always also an economic question. In this chapter: “of good humour which youth and beauty generally give, had married a woman whose weak understanding and illiberal mind, had very early” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
- “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) Why Mr. Bennet married.
- “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2) Elizabeth's realization.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance.
Evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: Mr. Bennet was "captivated by youth and beauty," and now Elizabeth feels "the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
curtailed (verb)	cut short	Gardiner, which at once delayed its commencement and curtailed its extent.	“curtailed”: Alteration of curtal, from Old French courtault "which has been shortened", itself from court "short" (from Latin curtus) + -ault (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/curtail#Etymology) enhance (verb)	to increase; to make better	One enjoyment was certain—that of suitableness as companions; a suitableness which comprehended health and temper to bear inconveniences—cheerfulness to enhance every pleasure—and affection and intelligence, which might supply it among themselves if there were disappointments abroad.
acquiesce (verb)	to accept quietly	Elizabeth said no more—but her mind could not acquiesce.	“acquiesce”: Borrowed from Middle French acquiescer, from Latin acquiescō; ad + quiescō "to rest", from quies "rest". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/acquiesce#Etymology)
captivated (verb)	attract; cause to be enamored	Her father, captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give, had married a woman whose weak understanding and illiberal mind, had very early in their marriage put an end to all real affection for her.

conjugal (adjective)	of or relating to marriage or to the relationship between a wife and husband	Had Elizabeth's opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort.	"conjugal": From Middle French conjugal, from Latin coniugālis "con- + iugum ('yoke')". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conjugal#Etymology)
reappear (verb)	appear again	After the first fortnight or three weeks of her absence, health, good humour and cheerfulness began to reappear at Longbourn.
carpets (noun)	floor covering consisting of a piece of thick heavy fabric (usually with nap or pile)	She must own that she was tired of great houses; after going over so many, she really had no pleasure in fine carpets or satin curtains.
petrified (adjective)	turned to stone	"But surely," said she, "I may enter his county with impunity, and rob it of a few petrified spars without his perceiving me."
ceaseless (adjective)	uninterrupted in time and indefinitely long continuing	But here, by carrying with me one ceaseless source of regret in my sister's absence, I may reasonably hope to have all my expectations of pleasure realized.
impunity (noun)	exemption from punishment or loss	"But surely," said she, "I may enter his county with impunity, and rob it of a few petrified spars without his perceiving me."	"impunity": From Middle French impunité, from Latin impunitas, from impunis "without punishment". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/impunity#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth reflect on? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her parents' poorly matched marriage
2. Where does Elizabeth travel? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Derbyshire
3. Whose estate is nearby? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy's Pemberley
4. With whom does she travel? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Gardiners
5. Why did Mr. Bennet marry his wife? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He was captivated by youth and beauty
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth reflects on her parents' poorly matched marriage. She tours with the Gardiners to Derbyshire, near Pemberley, Darcy's estate.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Gardiner, which at once delayed its commencement and curtailed its extent.” What does “curtailed” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: curtailed: cut short.
10. Reread: “One enjoyment was certain—that of suitableness as companions; a suitableness which comprehended health and temper to bear inconveniences—cheerfulness to enhance every pleasure—and affection and intelligence, which might…” What does “enhance” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: enhance: to increase; to make better.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLII” suggest about an unhappy marriage observed? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The parents' marriage illustrates the cost of choosing on looks alone.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about an unhappy marriage observed? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth, however, had never been blind to the impropriety of her father’s behaviour as a husband.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth reflects on her parents' poorly matched marriage. She tours with the Gardiners to Derbyshire, near Pemberley, Darcy's estate.
6. How does “Chapter XLII” build on “Chapter XLI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): Why Mr. Bennet married. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2): Elizabeth's realization. On characterization: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What has Elizabeth learned from her parents' marriage?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does setting appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Country house tourism was common; housekeepers guided visitors when owners were away. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): Why Mr.

Bennet married. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The parents' marriage illustrates the cost of choosing on looks alone.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2): Elizabeth's realization. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. On characterization: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about an unhappy marriage observed? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): Why Mr. Bennet married. On point of view: Elizabeth's view merges with the narrator's; she sees her father's failings clearly for the first time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2): Elizabeth's realization. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): Why Mr. Bennet married. On characterization: The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XLII” treats an unhappy marriage observed with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2): Elizabeth's realization. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XLIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about an unhappy marriage observed? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1): Why Mr. Bennet married. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Useful evidence: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2): Elizabeth's realization. Theme link: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She must own that she was tired of great houses; after going over so many, she really had no pleasure in fine _____ or satin curtains.” Word bank: enhance, carpets, curtailed, acquiesce

   Key: carpets
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her father, captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give, had married a woman whose weak understanding and illiberal mind, had very early in their marriage put…”, what does “captivated” most nearly mean?
   A. accept gladly
   B. making a fault seem less serious
   C. a crafty and involved plot to achieve your (usually sinister) ends
   D. attract; cause to be enamored

   Key: D (attract; cause to be enamored)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth said no more—but her mind could not acquiesce.”, what does “acquiesce” most nearly mean?
   A. passages copied out of a book
   B. to accept quietly
   C. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness
   D. having a defect

   Key: B (to accept quietly)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did Mr. Bennet marry his wife?
   A. For rank
   B. By arrangement
   C. For money
   D. He was captivated by youth and beauty

   Key: D (He was captivated by youth and beauty)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Gardiner, which at once delayed its commencement and curtailed its extent.”, what does “curtailed” most nearly mean?
   A. cut short
   B. forward; ahead
   C. packages
   D. brought back to life or strength; revived

   Key: A (cut short)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLII, paragraph 1: “_____ by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give”
   Key: captivated
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLII, paragraph 2: “she had never felt so strongly as now the _____ which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage”
   Key: disadvantages
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] With whom does she travel?
   A. Lydia
   B. Jane
   C. Charlotte
   D. The Gardiners

   Key: D (The Gardiners)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth reflect on?
   A. Her parents' poorly matched marriage
   B. Fashion
   C. Collins's sermons
   D. Jane's wedding

   Key: A (Her parents' poorly matched marriage)
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Why Mr. Bennet married.
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLII”?
    A. Sisters and judgment
    B. An unhappy marriage observed
    C. Strategy in courtship
    D. Happiness for Jane

    Key: B (An unhappy marriage observed)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2)
    A. The witty paradox.
    B. Key line.
    C. Elizabeth's realization.

   D. Mrs. Bennet is annoyed that her daughters have come back early, before Jane could gain more time with Bingley.

   Key: C (Elizabeth's realization.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's realization.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLII”? The narrator analyzes the Bennet marriage directly: Mr. Bennet married for "youth and beauty" and found a weak mind; he consoles himself with books and mockery.

    A. Allusion
    B. Characterization
    C. Symbolism
    D. Point of view

    Key: B (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Why Mr. Bennet married.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of _____ felicity or domestic comfort.” Word bank: curtailed, conjugal, enhance, acquiesce

    Key: conjugal

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““But surely,” said she, “I may enter his county with impunity, and rob it of a few _____ spars without his perceiving me.”” Word bank: enhance, petrified, curtailed, acquiesce

    Key: petrified

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLII, paragraph 1: “Had _____’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort”

    Key: Elizabeth

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “One enjoyment was certain—that of suitableness as companions; a suitableness which comprehended health and temper to bear inconveniences—cheerfulness to enhance every pleasure—and affection and intelligence, which might…”, what does “enhance” most nearly mean?

    A. expose or make accessible to some action or influence
    B. finding out for certain
    C. frankness; honesty
    D. to increase; to make better

Key: D (to increase; to make better)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “captivated by youth and beauty, and that appearance of good humour which youth and beauty generally give” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1)
    A. Why Mr. Bennet married.
    B. Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.
    C. Proposal opening.
    D. Charlotte's compensations.

    Key: A (Why Mr. Bennet married.)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLII”? Elizabeth's view merges with the narrator's; she sees her father's failings clearly for the first time.
    A. Point of view
    B. Foreshadowing
    C. Alliteration
    D. Symbolism

    Key: A (Point of view)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? An unhappy marriage shown as a warning.
    A. Marriage and money
    B. Pride and self-knowledge
    C. Class and social mobility
    D. First impressions and prejudice

    Key: A (Marriage and money)

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 2).

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet was "captivated by youth and beauty," and now Elizabeth feels "the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage."

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: an unhappy marriage shown as a warning.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whose estate is nearby?
    A. Lady Catherine's Rosings
    B. Darcy's Pemberley
    C. Collins's Hunsford
    D. Bingley's Netherfield

    Key: B (Darcy's Pemberley)

27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1)
    A. Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.
    B. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.
    C. The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
    D. Moment of recognition.

    Key: C (The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.)
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Had Elizabeth’s opinion been all drawn from her own family, she could not have formed a very pleasing picture of conjugal felicity or domestic comfort” (Chapter XLII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “After the first fortnight or three weeks of her absence, health, good humour and cheerfulness began to _____ at Longbourn.” Word bank: reappear, enhance, curtailed, acquiesce

    Key: reappear
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The chapter presents the Bennet marriage as a cautionary example of marrying for appearance.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet was "captivated by youth and beauty," and now Elizabeth feels "the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage."
31. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where does Elizabeth travel?
    A. Derbyshire
    B. Bath
    C. Ireland
    D. Scotland

    Key: A (Derbyshire)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 3, 8, 18, 2, 4, 19, 20, 21, 10, 13, 11, 22, 23, 24, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	3, 6, 26, 1, 4, 20, 21, 27, 12, 10, 13, 22, 24, 15, 28, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	29, 26, 4, 18, 17, 27, 11, 13, 12, 10, 24, 14, 23, 15, 25, 30	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 1, 31, 20, 13, 10, 27, 21, 11, 23, 22, 24, 14, 25, 16, 30	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 29, 1, 21, 12, 13, 27, 14, 23, 15, 24, 22, 16, 25, 30, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4

College Freshman	17, 29, 31, 27, 13, 12, 21, 15, 23, 14, 22, 24, 28, 25, 16, 30	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 29, 10, 13, 12, 11, 21, 15, 24, 23, 14, 22, 30, 16, 28, 25	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	19, 17, 27, 12, 13, 10, 11, 23, 24, 14, 15, 22, 30, 25, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	18, 17, 10, 13, 21, 11, 27, 22, 14, 15, 23, 24, 16, 28, 25, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	17, 29, 21, 27, 12, 11, 13, 22, 23, 14, 24, 15, 25, 30, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLII,” how does Austen show an unhappy marriage observed? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLII, how does Austen develop the idea of an unhappy marriage observed? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLII develops the idea of an unhappy marriage observed. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of an unhappy marriage observed. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLII suggests about an unhappy marriage observed. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XLII to complicate the reader's understanding of an unhappy marriage observed. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of an unhappy marriage observed responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of an unhappy marriage observed follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLII and its treatment of an unhappy marriage observed. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLII as evidence for a larger claim about an unhappy marriage observed in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of an unhappy marriage observed. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Elizabeth said no more—but her mind could not acquiesce.

   As used in the text, what does the word “acquiesce” most nearly mean?

   A. exemption from punishment or loss
   B. to accept quietly
   C. turned to stone
   D. uninterrupted in time and indefinitely long continuing

2. Elizabeth, however, had never been blind to the impropriety of her father’s behaviour as a husband. She had always seen it with pain; but respecting his abilities, and grateful for his affectionate treatment of herself, she endeavoured to forget what she could not overlook, and to banish from her thoughts that continual breach of conjugal obligation and decorum which, in exposing his wife to the contempt of her own children, was so highly reprehensible. But she had never felt so strongly as now the disadvantages which must attend the children of so unsuitable a marriage, nor ever been so fully aware of the evils arising from so ill-judged a direction of talents; talents which rightly used, might at least have preserved the respectability of his daughters, even if incapable of enlarging the mind of his wife.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLII”?

   A. An unhappy marriage observed
   B. Farewells at Hunsford
   C. Self-recognition

D. A charming stranger

SAT key: 1. B (to accept quietly); 2. A (An unhappy marriage observed)

Lesson 44: Chapter XLIII

Focus: Pemberley

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “Chapter XLIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “The lady, on the contrary, hurt at the contempt of her connections, which the lover does not even attempt to suppress, and prejudiced against him on other accounts, refuses the hand which he ungraciously offers, and does not perceive that she has done a foolish thing until she accidentally visits a very handsome seat and grounds belonging to her admirer.” (Walter Scott, novelist, Review of Emma (with remarks on Pride and Prejudice), The Quarterly Review (dated October 1815; pub. 1816), reprinted in Famous Reviews, ed. R. Brimley Johnson (1914), section on Pride and Prejudice; public domain). Debate: Scott reads Elizabeth's change as prompted by the estate. Pair with "to be mistress of Pemberley might be something!" Is Scott right, or does the housekeeper's testimony change her more than the grounds? Objective: Analyze Pemberley as a turning point and the irony of Elizabeth's change of heart. Standards: RL.11-12.3, RL.11-12.6, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth tours Pemberley, admires its natural taste, and hears the housekeeper praise Darcy as kind and generous. Darcy unexpectedly appears and is courteous; Elizabeth is mortified but impressed.

Background: Landscape style ('natural' rather than formal) was thought to reveal the owner's character.

Significance: Pemberley symbolizes Darcy's true self; Elizabeth's thought 'to be mistress of Pemberley might be something!'

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> How does Pemberley represent Darcy? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to first impressions because....
> Prompt: How does Pemberley represent Darcy?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: new evidence of Darcy's character.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

*Today's words: embargo — a ban; something that stops activity; miniatures — very small portrait paintings; uselessly — without purpose; bedrooms — a room used primarily for sleeping; affable — diffusing warmth and friendliness. “embargo”: From Spanish embargar "to arrest", from late Latin *imbarricāre "to bar", from Latin in- + Vulgar Latin barra "bar, barrier". “bedrooms”: From bed + room. “affable”: French affable, from Latin affābilis, from affor "to address", from ad + for "to speak, to talk". See fable. By surface analysis, af- + fable.

Words: embargo: a ban; something that stops activity · miniatures: very small portrait paintings · uselessly: without purpose · bedrooms: a room used primarily for sleeping · affable: diffusing warmth and friendliness

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Landscape style ('natural' rather than formal) was thought to reveal the owner's character. Pemberley symbolizes Darcy's true self; Elizabeth's thought 'to be mistress of Pemberley might be something!' Setting: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned." Characterization: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “of splendor, and more real elegance, than the furniture of Rosings” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3). Pemberley's taste mirrors character. That is setting at work: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned."

> She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3). Pemberley's taste mirrors character. That is setting at work: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. Look at the craft: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: New evidence of Darcy's character. (Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.)

> and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. Look at the craft: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: New evidence of Darcy's character. (Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Pemberley? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIII develops the idea of Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and symbolism shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. When the text says "She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste" (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Elizabeth sees a place where "natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste," and the housekeeper calls him "the best landlord, and the best master, that ever lived."

Task: Annotate the chapter for setting, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Pemberley? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIII develops the idea of Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and symbolism shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. When the text says "She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste" (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Elizabeth sees a place where "natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste," and the housekeeper calls him "the best landlord, and the best master, that ever lived."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How does Pemberley represent Darcy? Ask: is Elizabeth's "to be mistress of Pemberley might be something" mercenary? Austen leaves it ironic.

Anchor question: How does Pemberley represent Darcy?
Facilitation: Ask: is Elizabeth's "to be mistress of Pemberley might be something" mercenary? Austen leaves it ironic.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Pemberley? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. (“She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste”, Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Pemberley? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. (“She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste”, Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how setting shapes Pemberley. Key takeaway: new evidence of Darcy's character.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Setting: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned."
- Characterization: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: new evidence of Darcy's character.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “of splendor, and more real elegance, than the furniture of Rosings” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 5).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “and, wholly engrossed by her own feelings, followed them in silence. She was overpowered by shame and vexation. Her coming there was” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 54).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) Pemberley's taste mirrors character.

- “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.
- “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38) Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants.
Evidence: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: Elizabeth sees a place where "natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste," and the housekeeper calls him "the best landlord, and the best master, that ever lived."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
embargo (noun)	a ban; something that stops activity	She wanted to talk, but there seemed an embargo on every subject.	“embargo”: From Spanish embargar "to arrest", from late Latin *imbarricāre "to bar", from Latin in- + Vulgar Latin *barra "bar, barrier". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/embargo#Etymology)
miniatures (noun)	very small portrait paintings	Wickham suspended, amongst several other miniatures, over the mantelpiece.
uselessly (adverb)	without purpose	The rooms were lofty and handsome, and their furniture suitable to the fortune of their proprietor; but Elizabeth saw, with admiration of his taste, that it was neither gaudy nor uselessly fine; with less of splendor, and more real elegance, than the furniture of Rosings.
bedrooms (noun)	a room used primarily for sleeping	The picture gallery, and two or three of the principal bedrooms, were all that remained to be shown.	“bedrooms”: From bed + room. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/bedroom#Etymology)
affable (adjective)	diffusing warmth and friendliness	“Yes, Ma’am, that he was indeed; and his son will be just like him—just as affable to the poor.”	“affable”: French affable, from Latin affābilis, from affor "to address", from ad + for "to speak, to talk". See fable. By surface analysis, af- + fable. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/affable#Etymology)

windings (noun)	the act of winding or twisting	Elizabeth longed to explore its windings; but when they had crossed the bridge, and perceived their distance from the house, Mrs.
consigned (verb)	commit forever; commit irrevocably	When all of the house that was open to general inspection had been seen, they returned downstairs, and taking leave of the housekeeper, were consigned over to the gardener, who met them at the hall door.	“consigned”: Middle French consigner or directly from Latin cōnsignō "furnish with a seal", from con- + signō "mark, sign". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consign#Etymology)
revolted (verb)	rebelled; turned in disgust	This was a stroke of civility for which she was quite unprepared; and she could hardly suppress a smile, at his being now seeking the acquaintance of some of those very people, against whom his pride had revolted, in his offer to herself.	“revolted”: French révolter, from Italian rivoltare, itself either from ri- with the verb voltare, or possibly from a Vulgar Latin *revoltāre < *revolvitāre, for *revolūtāre, frequentative of Latin revolvō "roll back" (through its past participle revolūtus). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/revolt#Etymology)
overspread (verb)	spread across or over	Their eyes instantly met, and the cheeks of each were overspread with the deepest blush.	“overspread”: From Middle English overspreden, from Old English ofersprǣdan; equivalent to over + spread. Cognate with Dutch overspreiden "to overspread", German überspreiten "to overspread". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/overspread#Etymology)
explore (verb)	inquire into	Elizabeth longed to explore its windings; but when they had crossed the bridge, and perceived their distance from the house, Mrs.

Discussion questions

1. How does Pemberley represent Darcy?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who praises Darcy at Pemberley? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The housekeeper, Mrs. Reynolds
2. How is Pemberley's landscape described? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Natural and tasteful
3. What surprises Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy appears unexpectedly
4. How does Darcy behave when he meets Elizabeth unexpectedly at Pemberley? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Courteous and kind
5. What does Pemberley symbolize? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy's true character
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XLIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth tours Pemberley, admires its natural taste, and hears the housekeeper praise Darcy as kind and generous. Darcy unexpectedly appears and is courteous; Elizabeth is mortified but impressed.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XLIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XLIII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "She wanted to talk, but there seemed an embargo on every subject." What does "embargo" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: embargo: a ban; something that stops activity.
10. Reread: "Wickham suspended, amongst several other miniatures, over the mantelpiece." What does "miniatures" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: miniatures: very small portrait paintings.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XLIII" suggest about Pemberley? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Pemberley symbolizes Darcy's true self; Elizabeth's thought 'to be mistress of Pemberley might be something!'
2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the symbolism in this chapter shape what we understand about Pemberley? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: "She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste" (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Pemberley's taste mirrors character. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “Her aunt now called her to look at a picture.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth tours Pemberley, admires its natural taste, and hears the housekeeper praise Darcy as kind and generous. Darcy unexpectedly appears and is courteous; Elizabeth is mortified but impressed.
6. How does “Chapter XLIII” build on “Chapter XLII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38): Mrs. Reynolds's testimony. On characterization: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Pemberley represent Darcy?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Pemberley's taste mirrors character. On characterization: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Landscape style ('natural' rather than formal) was thought to reveal the owner's character. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. On setting: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Pemberley symbolizes Darcy's true self; Elizabeth's thought 'to be mistress of Pemberley might be something!'” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38): Mrs. Reynolds's testimony. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Pemberley's taste mirrors character. On characterization: The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about Pemberley? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38): Mrs. Reynolds's testimony. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Pemberley's taste mirrors character. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. On setting: Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XLIII” treats Pemberley with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38): Mrs. Reynolds's testimony. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Pemberley's taste mirrors character. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about Pemberley? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Useful evidence: “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38): Mrs. Reynolds's testimony. Theme link: new evidence of Darcy's character.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Symbolism: objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38: “He is the best _____, and the best master … that ever lived”

   Key: landlord

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How is Pemberley's landscape described?

   A. Gaudy
   B. Natural and tasteful
   C. Formal and stiff
   D. Neglected

   Key: B (Natural and tasteful)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The rooms were lofty and handsome, and their furniture suitable to the fortune of their proprietor; but Elizabeth saw, with admiration of his taste, that it was neither gaudy nor uselessly fine; with less of splendor,…”, what does “uselessly” most nearly mean?

   A. recall knowledge from memory; have a recollection
   B. with respect to material aspects
   C. a tendency to change one's mind suddenly
   D. without purpose

   Key: D (without purpose)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who praises Darcy at Pemberley?

   A. Lady Catherine
   B. Wickham
   C. Bingley
   D. The housekeeper, Mrs. Reynolds

   Key: D (The housekeeper, Mrs. Reynolds)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Wickham suspended, amongst several other miniatures, over the mantelpiece.”, what does “miniatures” most nearly mean?

   A. express criticism towards
   B. very small portrait paintings
   C. harmless; not likely to upset anyone
   D. agitation; a troubled state

   Key: B (very small portrait paintings)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Pemberley symbolize?
   - A. The church
   - B. Wealth only
   - C. Darcy's true character
   - D. Wickham's fortune

   Key: C (Darcy's true character)
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Elizabeth longed to explore its _____; but when they had crossed the bridge, and perceived their distance from the house, Mrs.” Word bank: miniatures, embargo, windings, uselessly

   Key: windings
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little _____ by an awkward taste”

   Key: counteracted
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What surprises Elizabeth?
   - A. Wickham is there
   - B. The house is ruined
   - C. Darcy appears unexpectedly
   - D. Jane is there

   Key: C (Darcy appears unexpectedly)
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIII”?
    - A. Pemberley
    - B. Self-recognition
    - C. Shameless return
    - D. Disappointment and philosophy

    Key: A (Pemberley)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38)
    - A. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.
    - B. Elizabeth's disillusion.
    - C. Elizabeth's pity.
    - D. Elizabeth's reading.

    Key: A (Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.)
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3)
    - A. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.
    - B. Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.

C. Lady Catherine's fury.
D. Elizabeth's mortification.

Key: B (Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3).

    Sample answer: Elizabeth sees a place where "natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste," and the housekeeper calls him "the best landlord, and the best master, that ever lived."

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIII”? The housekeeper Mrs. Reynolds praises Darcy as a good master and brother; Darcy appears suddenly and is civil to the Gardiners.

    A. Allusion
    B. Characterization
    C. Conflict
    D. Theme

    Key: B (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Pemberley offers evidence of Darcy's character through his home and his servants.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth sees a place where "natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste," and the housekeeper calls him "the best landlord, and the best master, that ever lived."

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Yes, Ma’am, that he was indeed; and his son will be just like him—just as _____ to the poor.”” Word bank: miniatures, affable, embargo, uselessly

    Key: affable

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Darcy behave when he meets Elizabeth unexpectedly at Pemberley?

    A. Cold
    B. Silent
    C. Rude
    D. Courteous and kind

    Key: D (Courteous and kind)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “When all of the house that was open to general inspection had been seen, they returned downstairs, and taking leave of the housekeeper, were _____ over to the gardener, who met them at the hall door.” Word bank: miniatures, embargo, consigned, uselessly

    Key: consigned

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She wanted to talk, but there seemed an embargo on every subject.”, what does “embargo” most nearly mean?

    A. a lifting up; high spirits
    B. a small fenced field for horses
    C. a ban; something that stops activity
    D. a cordial disposition

Key: C (a ban; something that stops activity)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIII”? Pemberley: house and grounds reflect their owner's taste; "neither formal, nor falsely adorned."

    A. Tone / mood
    B. Irony
    C. Setting
    D. Allusion

    Key: C (Setting)

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Pemberley's taste mirrors character.

23. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3)

    A. Elizabeth mocks Darcy's snobbery about the Gardiners' address in trade-class London.
    B. His reason.
    C. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
    D. Pemberley's taste mirrors character.

    Key: D (Pemberley's taste mirrors character.)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She had never seen a place for which nature had done more, or where natural beauty had been so little counteracted by an awkward taste” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Pemberley's taste mirrors character.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “He is the best landlord, and the best master … that ever lived” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 38). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: new evidence of Darcy's character.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The picture gallery, and two or three of the principal bedrooms, were all that remained to be shown.”, what does “bedrooms” most nearly mean?

    A. without purpose
    B. very small portrait paintings
    C. a ban; something that stops activity
    D. a room used primarily for sleeping

    Key: D (a room used primarily for sleeping)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “and at that moment she felt that to be mistress of Pemberley might be something” (Chapter XLIII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 3, 5, 4, 18, 19, 20, 6, 10, 12, 13, 11, 14, 15, 21, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	1, 6, 20, 3, 7, 2, 23, 12, 10, 24, 11, 25, 15, 14, 26, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 18, 8, 20, 5, 12, 13, 11, 10, 23, 25, 15, 14, 21, 26, 22	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 7, 18, 2, 10, 13, 12, 24, 23, 15, 25, 14, 21, 22, 26, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 17, 27, 13, 11, 12, 23, 24, 15, 21, 25, 14, 26, 28, 16, 22	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	17, 18, 1, 13, 24, 10, 23, 11, 15, 21, 25, 14, 28, 22, 16, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 7, 24, 13, 10, 11, 12, 23, 25, 15, 14, 21, 22, 16, 28, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 7, 13, 12, 11, 23, 24, 10, 15, 25, 14, 21, 16, 28, 26, 22	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	7, 17, 24, 13, 12, 23, 11, 10, 14, 15, 25, 21, 16, 26, 22, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	19, 7, 24, 13, 12, 11, 23, 10, 21, 14, 15, 25, 22, 28, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XLIII," how does Austen show Pemberley? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLIII, how does Austen develop the idea of Pemberley? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLIII develops the idea of Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and symbolism shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of Pemberley. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLIII suggests about Pemberley. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and symbolism), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses setting in Chapter XLIII to complicate the reader's understanding of Pemberley. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of Pemberley responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of Pemberley follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLIII and its treatment of Pemberley. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and symbolism, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLIII as evidence for a larger claim about Pemberley in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of Pemberley. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. The rooms were lofty and handsome, and their furniture suitable to the fortune of their proprietor; but Elizabeth saw, with admiration of his taste, that it was neither gaudy nor uselessly fine; with less of splendor, and more real elegance, than the furniture of Rosings.

   As used in the text, what does the word “uselessly” most nearly mean?

   A. rebelled; turned in disgust

   B. spread across or over

   C. inquire into

   D. without purpose

2. Her aunt now called her to look at a picture. She approached, and saw the likeness of Mr. Wickham suspended, amongst several other miniatures, over the mantelpiece. Her aunt asked her, smilingly, how she liked it. The housekeeper came forward, and told them it was the picture of a young gentleman, the son of her late master’s steward, who had been brought up by him at his own expense. “He is now gone into the army,” she added, “but I am afraid he has turned out very wild.”

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIII”?

A. The second proposal
B. Pemberley
C. Marriage as a social goal
D. A revelation from the colonel

SAT key: 1. D (without purpose); 2. B (Pemberley)

Lesson 45: Chapter XLIV

Focus: a changed Darcy

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XLIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth. Georgiana is shy, not proud. Bingley seems to remember Jane. The Gardiners notice Darcy's affection.

Background: Introducing a sister was a sign of serious intentions.

Significance: Darcy's courtesy to the Gardiners proves he has changed.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What evidence shows Darcy has changed? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
Prompt: What evidence shows Darcy has changed?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: acrimony — bitterness and anger; monosyllable — a word of one syllable; imparted — gave; passed on; retreated — pull back or move away or backward; compose — to calm (oneself). “imparted”: From Middle English imparten, borrowed from Middle French impartir, empartir, from Late Latin impartiō, impertiō, from im- "in" + Latin partiō "divide". “compose”: From Middle English composen, from Old French composer "to compose, compound, adjust, settle", from com- + poser, as an adaptation of Latin componere "to put together, compose", from com- "together" + ponere "to put, place".
Words: acrimony: bitterness and anger · monosyllable: a word of one syllable · imparted: gave; passed on · retreated: pull back or move away or backward · compose: to calm (oneself)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Introducing a sister was a sign of serious intentions. Darcy's courtesy to the Gardiners proves he has changed. Characterization: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade. Point of view: Free indirect discourse carries us through Elizabeth's night of self-examination: respect, esteem and above all gratitude. Watch for gratitude: Austen names gratitude as the ground of Elizabeth's new feeling: affection based on knowledge, not first impressions.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him" (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16). Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. That is characterization at work: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade.

> It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him" (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16). Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. That is characterization at work: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The list "self-consequence, or unbending reserve" names the pride she criticized and says it is gone. It links to pride and prejudice: Darcy has changed, and she can see it because her prejudice has gone too. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. (Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.)

> Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The list "self-consequence, or unbending reserve" names the pride she criticized and says it is gone. It links to pride and prejudice: Darcy has changed, and she can see it because her prejudice has gone too.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. (Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a changed Darcy? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIV develops the idea of a changed Darcy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. When the text says "Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve" (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. She has never seen him "so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence," and her response is "gratitude ... for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony" of her refusal; her feeling rests on what he has done.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a changed Darcy? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIV develops the idea of a changed Darcy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. When the text says "Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve" (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10), it shows this directly. She has never seen him "so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence," and her response is "gratitude ... for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony" of her refusal; her feeling rests on what he has done.

> 70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
> Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
> Anchor question: What evidence shows Darcy has changed? Ask: is gratitude a good foundation for love? Use the narrator's comment at the start of Chapter XLVI to complicate the answer.
> Anchor question: What evidence shows Darcy has changed?
> Facilitation: Ask: is gratitude a good foundation for love? Use the narrator's comment at the start of Chapter XLVI to complicate the answer.

> 80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
> Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
> Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a changed Darcy? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. (“Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-”, Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
> Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a changed Darcy? Support it with one short quotation.
> Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. (“Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-”, Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes a changed Darcy. Key takeaway: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade.
- Point of view: Free indirect discourse carries us through Elizabeth's night of self-examination: respect, esteem and above all gratitude.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it.

Symbols and motifs

- gratitude: Austen names gratitude as the ground of Elizabeth's new feeling: affection based on knowledge, not first impressions.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10) Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.
- “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16) Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.
- “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16) Darcy's change is read as proof of love.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm.
Evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10)
Reasoning: She has never seen him "so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence," and her response is "gratitude ... for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony" of her refusal; her feeling rests on what he has done.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
acrimony (noun)	bitterness and anger	Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him, and all the unjust accusations accompanying her rejection.
monosyllable (noun)	a word of one syllable	She found it difficult to obtain even a word from her beyond a monosyllable.
imparted (verb)	gave; passed on	Elizabeth immediately recognising the livery, guessed what it meant, and imparted no small degree of surprise to her relations, by acquainting	“imparted”: From Middle English imparten, borrowed from Middle French impartir, empartir, from Late Latin impartiō, impertiō, from im- "in" + Latin partiō "divide".

		them with the honour which she expected.	(Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/impart#Etymology) retreated (verb)	pull back or move away or backward	She retreated from the window, fearful of being seen; and as she walked up and down the room, endeavouring to compose herself, saw such looks of enquiring surprise in her uncle and aunt, as made everything worse.
compose (verb)	to calm (oneself)	She retreated from the window, fearful of being seen; and as she walked up and down the room, endeavouring to compose herself, saw such looks of enquiring surprise in her uncle and aunt, as made everything worse.	“compose”: From Middle English composen, from Old French composer "to compose, compound, adjust, settle", from com- + poser, as an adaptation of Latin componere "to put together, compose", from com- "together" + ponere "to put, place". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/compose#Etymology)
fishing (adjective)	trying to get something indirectly	The fishing scheme had been renewed the day before, and a positive engagement made of his meeting some of the gentlemen at Pemberley by noon.
formidable (adjective)	frightening; alarming	Miss Darcy and her brother appeared, and this formidable introduction took place.	“formidable”: From Latin formidabilis "causing fear," from formido "fear, terror." (Not from forma "shape.") (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/formidable) suspicions (noun)	an impression that something might be the case	The suspicions which had just arisen of Mr.	“suspicions”: From Middle English suspecioun, borrowed from Latin suspīciō, suspīciōnem, from suspicere, from sub- "up to" with specere "to look at". Perhaps partly through the influence of Old French sospeçon (or rather the Anglo-Norman form suspecioun). Equivalent to suspect + ion. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/suspicion#Etymology)
sixteen (noun)	the cardinal number that is the sum of fifteen and one	Miss Darcy was tall, and on a larger scale than Elizabeth; and, though little more than sixteen, her figure was formed, and her appearance womanly and graceful.
embarrassed (verb)	cause to be embarrassed;	With astonishment did Elizabeth see, that her new cause to feel self-conscious	acquaintance was at least as much embarrassed as herself.	“embarrassed”: Past participle of embarrass. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/embarrassed#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What evidence shows Darcy has changed?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Whom does Darcy introduce to Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Georgiana
2. How is Georgiana described? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Shy
3. Who seems to remember Jane fondly? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley
4. What do the Gardiners notice? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy's affection for Elizabeth
5. How does Darcy treat the Gardiners? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Courteously
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLIV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth. Georgiana is shy, not proud. Bingley seems to remember Jane. The Gardiners notice Darcy's affection.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLIV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him, and all the unjust accusations accompanying her rejection.” What does “acrimony” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: acrimony: bitterness and anger.
10. Reread: “She found it difficult to obtain even a word from her beyond a monosyllable.” What does “monosyllable” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: monosyllable: a word of one syllable.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLIV” suggest about a changed Darcy? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy's courtesy to the Gardiners proves he has changed.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about a changed Darcy? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10): Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Miss Darcy and her brother appeared, and this formidable introduction took place.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth. Georgiana is shy, not proud. Bingley seems to remember Jane. The Gardiners notice Darcy's affection.
6. How does “Chapter XLIV” build on “Chapter XLIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Darcy's change is read as proof of love. On characterization: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What evidence shows Darcy has changed?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10): Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Introducing a sister was a sign of serious intentions. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy's courtesy to the Gardiners proves he has changed.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Darcy's change is read as proof of love. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10): Direct evidence that

Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished. On characterization: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a changed Darcy? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. On point of view: Free indirect discourse carries us through Elizabeth's night of self-examination: respect, esteem and above all gratitude. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Darcy's change is read as proof of love. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10): Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. On characterization: Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XLIV” treats a changed Darcy with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Darcy's change is read as proof of love. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10): Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a changed Darcy? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Useful evidence: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16): Darcy's change is read as proof of love. Theme link: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do the Gardiners notice?
   A. Elizabeth's dislike
   B. Darcy's affection for Elizabeth
   C. Bingley's engagement
   D. Wickham's arrival

   Key: B (Darcy's affection for Elizabeth)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16: “It was ______. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him”
   Key: gratitude
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Darcy treat the Gardiners?
   A. Coldly
   B. Rudely
   C. Courteously
   D. He ignores them

   Key: C (Courteously)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Darcy introduce to Elizabeth?
   A. Fitzwilliam
   B. Caroline
   C. Anne de Bourgh
   D. Georgiana

   Key: D (Georgiana)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth immediately recognising the livery, guessed what it meant, and imparted no small degree of surprise to her relations, by acquainting them with the honour which she expected.”, what does “imparted” most nearly mean?
   A. gave; passed on
   B. to take advantage of; to intrude on
   C. the quality of exceeding the appropriate limits of decorum or probability or truth
   D. expose or make accessible to some action or influence

   Key: A (gave; passed on)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Miss Darcy and her brother appeared, and this _____ introduction took place.” Word bank: acrimony, imparted, monosyllable, formidable
   Key: formidable
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him, and all the unjust accusations accompanying her rejection.”, what does “acrimony” most nearly mean?
   A. regard something as probable or likely
   B. express through a scornful smile
   C. bitterness and anger
   D. a small coin of the United Kingdom worth six pennies; not minted since 1970

   Key: C (bitterness and anger)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How is Georgiana described?
   A. Proud
   B. Rude
   C. Shy
   D. Loud

   Key: C (Shy)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She found it difficult to obtain even a word from her beyond a monosyllable.”, what does “monosyllable” most nearly mean?
   A. a word of one syllable
   B. agreed; were the same
   C. gradually taking over (someone else's rights)
   D. complaints

   Key: A (a word of one syllable)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10)
    A. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
    B. Elizabeth's shock.
    C. Elizabeth confronts Darcy.
    D. Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.

    Key: D (Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16)
    A. Lydia's voice.
    B. The Gardiners honoured.
    C. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    D. Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.

    Key: D (Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIV”?

    A. A charming stranger
    B. Departure and relief
    C. Family uproar
    D. A changed Darcy

    Key: D (A changed Darcy)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIV”? Free indirect discourse carries us through Elizabeth's night of self-examination: respect, esteem and above all gratitude.

    A. Conflict
    B. Point of view
    C. Theme
    D. Allusion

    Key: B (Point of view)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIV”? Darcy brings Georgiana and Bingley to meet Elizabeth at the inn in Lambton; at Pemberley the next day he is warm to the Gardiners, whom he once would have scorned as people in trade.

    A. Structure
    B. Conflict
    C. Characterization
    D. Allusion

    Key: C (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The _____ which had just arisen of Mr.” Word bank: imparted, monosyllable, suspicions, acrimony

    Key: suspicions

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The _____ scheme had been renewed the day before, and a positive engagement made of his meeting some of the gentlemen at Pemberley by noon.” Word bank: acrimony, monosyllable, fishing, imparted

    Key: fishing

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who seems to remember Jane fondly?

    A. Bingley
    B. Darcy
    C. Wickham

D. Collins

Key: A (Bingley)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She retreated from the window, fearful of being seen; and as she walked up and down the room, endeavouring to _____ herself, saw such looks of enquiring surprise in her uncle and aunt, as made everything worse.” Word bank: compose, imparted, acrimony, monosyllable

    Key: compose

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at _____, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve”

    Key: Netherfield

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16)

    A. Elizabeth's disillusion.
    B. Collins on her lack of fortune.
    C. Darcy's change is read as proof of love.
    D. Elizabeth's reading.

    Key: C (Darcy's change is read as proof of love.)

23. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Direct evidence that Darcy's manners have changed; note the list of what has vanished.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Never, even in the company of his dear friends at Netherfield, or his dignified relations at Rosings, had she seen him so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence, or unbending reserve” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 10).

    Sample answer: She has never seen him "so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence," and her response is "gratitude ... for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony" of her refusal; her feeling rests on what he has done.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only astonishment but gratitude” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Darcy's change is read as proof of love.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth's feelings change because of evidence of Darcy's character, not because of his wealth or charm.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She has never seen him "so desirous to please, so free from self-consequence," and her response is "gratitude ... for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony" of her refusal; her feeling rests on what he has done.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLIV”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Darcy has answered her charge of ungentlemanlike behaviour by changing his manners, and she recognizes it.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She retreated from the window, fearful of being seen; and as she walked up and down the room, endeavouring to compose herself, saw such looks of enquiring surprise in her uncle and aunt, as made everything worse.”, what does “retreated” most nearly mean?

    A. the act of pursuing in an effort to overtake or capture
    B. appear again
    C. pull back or move away or backward
    D. improper behavior

    Key: C (pull back or move away or backward)

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It was gratitude. Gratitude, not merely for having once loved her, but for loving her still well enough, to forgive all the petulance and acrimony of her manner in rejecting him” (Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Austen defines Elizabeth's change of heart precisely; the repetition of "gratitude" slows the moment.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIV, paragraph 16: “Such a change in a man of so much pride, excited not only _____ but gratitude”

    Key: astonishment

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 20, 8, 3, 21, 9, 22, 11, 10, 23, 15, 24, 25, 26	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 19, 4, 21, 8, 2, 12, 10, 23, 22, 13, 24, 25, 14, 16, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	20, 18, 9, 4, 19, 23, 13, 22, 12, 11, 24, 15, 25, 14, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 6, 18, 28, 11, 13, 22, 23, 10, 14, 24, 15, 25, 29, 16, 26	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	20, 18, 1, 13, 12, 23, 11, 22, 15, 25, 14, 24, 16, 29, 26, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	4, 30, 20, 13, 22, 12, 11, 10, 15, 14, 25, 24, 26, 27, 29, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 20, 11, 12, 23, 13, 10, 22, 14, 24, 25, 15, 26, 27, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	21, 20, 10, 13, 11, 23, 12, 22, 14, 15, 25, 24, 29, 16, 27, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	6, 18, 10, 23, 13, 12, 11, 22, 24, 15, 25, 14, 29, 26, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD

	20, 18, 11, 10, 12, 22, 23, 13, 15, 24, 25, 14, 29, 26, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLIV,” how does Austen show a changed Darcy? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLIV, how does Austen develop the idea of a changed Darcy? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLIV develops the idea of a changed Darcy. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of a changed Darcy. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLIV suggests about a changed Darcy. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XLIV to complicate the reader's understanding of a changed Darcy. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a changed Darcy responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a changed Darcy follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLIV and its treatment of a changed Darcy. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLIV as evidence for a larger claim about a changed Darcy in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a changed Darcy. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Elizabeth immediately recognising the livery, guessed what it meant, and imparted no small degree of surprise to her relations, by acquainting them with the honour which she expected.

   As used in the text, what does the word “imparted” most nearly mean?

   A. an impression that something might be the case
   B. cause to be embarrassed; cause to feel self-conscious
   C. gave; passed on
   D. the cardinal number that is the sum of fifteen and one

2. Miss Darcy and her brother appeared, and this formidable introduction took place. With astonishment did Elizabeth see, that her new acquaintance was at least as much embarrassed as herself. Since her being at Lambton, she had heard that Miss Darcy was exceedingly proud; but the observation of a very few minutes convinced her, that she was only exceedingly shy. She found it difficult to obtain even a word from her beyond a monosyllable.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIV”?

   A. Disappointment and philosophy
   B. An imperious hostess
   C. Sisters and judgment
   D. A changed Darcy

SAT key: 1. C (gave; passed on); 2. D (A changed Darcy)

Lesson 46: Chapter XLV

Focus: jealousy at Pemberley

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XLV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner visit Pemberley. Caroline Bingley tries to provoke Elizabeth by mentioning the militia (Wickham), embarrassing Georgiana. Darcy defends Elizabeth, calling her one of the handsomest women he knows.

Background: Polite visits were also contests of status and wit.

Significance: Caroline's spite backfires, revealing Darcy's devotion.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does Caroline's attack backfire? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
> Prompt: Why does Caroline's attack backfire?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: predominate — to be stronger than the others; peaches — soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin; nettled — irritated; annoyed; pyramids — pyramid-shaped piles; chestnuts — chestnut trees. “predominate”: From Latin praedominātus, past participle of praedominor. By surface analysis, pre- + dominate.
> Words: predominate: to be stronger than the others · peaches: soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin · nettled: irritated; annoyed · pyramids: pyramid-shaped piles · chestnuts: chestnut trees

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Polite visits were also contests of status and wit. Caroline's spite backfires, revealing Darcy's devotion. Characterization: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply. Irony: Each of Miss Bingley's attacks increases Darcy's regard for Elizabeth. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "felt themselves inferior, the belief of her being proud and reserved. Mrs. Gardiner and her niece, however, did her justice, and pitied" (Chapter XLV, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy" (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13). Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. That is characterization at work: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply.

> How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy" (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13). Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. That is characterization at work: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The line answers "tolerable" from the first ball; first impressions can be overturned. Miss Bingley's jealousy backfires: dramatic irony. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. (Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.)

> Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley's dislike of her had originated in jealousy (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The line answers "tolerable" from the first ball; first impressions can be overturned. Miss Bingley's jealousy backfires: dramatic irony.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. (Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about jealousy at Pemberley? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLV develops the idea of jealousy at Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. When the text says “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18), it shows this directly. In Chapter III she was "tolerable"; now he says "it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance," a direct reversal prompted by Miss Bingley's own spite.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about jealousy at Pemberley? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLV develops the idea of jealousy at Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. When the text says “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18), it shows this directly. In Chapter III she was "tolerable"; now he says "it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance," a direct reversal prompted by Miss Bingley's own spite.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Caroline's attack backfire? Put "tolerable" and this line side by side. Ask: what changed, Elizabeth or Darcy's way of seeing?

Anchor question: Why does Caroline's attack backfire?

Facilitation: Put "tolerable" and this line side by side. Ask: what changed, Elizabeth or Darcy's way of seeing?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about jealousy at Pemberley? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. ("it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance", Chapter XLV, paragraph 18). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about jealousy at Pemberley? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. ("it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance", Chapter XLV, paragraph 18). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes jealousy at Pemberley. Key takeaway: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply.
- Irony: Each of Miss Bingley's attacks increases Darcy's regard for Elizabeth.

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "felt themselves inferior, the belief of her being proud and reserved. Mrs. Gardiner and her niece, however, did her justice, and pitied" (Chapter XLV, paragraph 3).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: "those who felt themselves inferior, the belief of her being proud and reserved. Mrs. Gardiner and her niece, however, did her justice" (Chapter XLV, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13) Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.
- “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18) Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.
- “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1) Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth.
Evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18)
Reasoning: In Chapter III she was "tolerable"; now he says "it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance," a direct reversal prompted by Miss Bingley's own spite.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
predominate (verb)	to be stronger than the others	Darcy, by the feelings which prevailed on his entering the room; and then, though but a moment before she had believed her wishes to predominate, she began to regret that he came.	“predominate”: From Latin praedominātus, past participle of praedominor. By surface analysis, pre- + dominate. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/predominate#Etymology)
peaches (noun)	soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin	There was now employment for the whole party; for though they could not all talk, they could all eat; and the beautiful pyramids of grapes, nectarines, and peaches, soon collected them round the table.
nettled (adjective)	irritated; annoyed	Persuaded as Miss Bingley was that Darcy admired Elizabeth, this was not the best method of recommending herself; but angry people are not always wise; and in seeing him at last look somewhat nettled, she had all the success she expected.
pyramids (noun)	pyramid-shaped piles	There was now employment for the whole party; for though they could not all talk, they could all eat; and the beautiful pyramids of grapes, nectarines, and peaches, soon collected them round the table.

chestnuts (noun)	chestnut trees	Its windows opening to the ground, admitted a most refreshing view of the high woody hills behind the house, and of the beautiful oaks and Spanish chestnuts which were scattered over the intermediate lawn.
sneering (verb)	express through a scornful smile	Miss Bingley saw all this likewise; and, in the imprudence of anger, took the first opportunity of saying, with sneering civility—
brevity (noun)	the use of brief expressions	She answered with equal indifference and brevity, and the other said no more.	“brevity”: First attested in English in 1509; either: By surface analysis, brief + -ity. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/brevity#Etymology)
deciding (verb)	reach, make, or come to a decision about something	While thus engaged, Elizabeth had a fair opportunity of deciding whether she most feared or wished for the appearance of Mr.	“deciding”: From Middle English deciden, from Old French decider, from Latin dēcīdere, infinitive of dēcīdō "cut off, decide", from dē "down from" + caedō "cut". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/decide#Etymology)
agreeing (verb)	be in accord; be in agreement	Louisa and I were agreeing that we should not have known her again.”	“agreeing”: From Middle English agreen, from Old French agreer "to accept or receive kindly", from a gré "favorably", from Latin ad "to" + gratum "pleasing", ultimately from Proto-Indo-European *gʷerH- "to welcome, greet, praise". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/agree#Etymology)
replying (verb)	react verbally	Darcy might have liked such an address, he contented himself with coolly replying, that he perceived no other alteration than her being rather tanned—no miraculous consequence of travelling in the summer.	“replying”: From Middle English replyen, replien, borrowed from Old French replier "to reply", from the Latin replicō, replicāre "to fold back" (in Late or Medieval Latin "to reply, repeat"), from re + plicō "to fold"; the noun derives from the verb by nominalisation. Doublet of replicate and replica. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reply#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does Caroline's attack backfire?

2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who visits Pemberley with Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Gardiner
2. What does Caroline mention to provoke Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The militia
3. Who is embarrassed by the remark? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Georgiana
4. What does Darcy say about Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: One of the handsomest women he knows
5. What does Caroline's behavior reveal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jealousy
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner visit Pemberley. Caroline Bingley tries to provoke Elizabeth by mentioning the militia (Wickham), embarrassing Georgiana. Darcy defends Elizabeth, calling her one of the handsomest women he knows.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Darcy, by the feelings which prevailed on his entering the room; and then, though but a moment before she had believed her wishes to predominate, she began to regret that he came.” What does “predominate” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: predominate: to be stronger than the others.
10. Reread: “There was now employment for the whole party; for though they could not all talk, they could all eat; and the beautiful pyramids of grapes, nectarines, and peaches, soon collected them round the table.” What does “peaches” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: peaches: soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLV” suggest about jealousy at Pemberley? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Caroline's spite backfires, revealing Darcy's devotion.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about jealousy at Pemberley? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13): Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. On irony: Each of Miss Bingley's attacks increases Darcy's regard for Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “On reaching the house, they were shown through the hall into the saloon, whose northern aspect rendered it delightful for summer.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth and Mrs. Gardiner visit Pemberley. Caroline Bingley tries to provoke Elizabeth by mentioning the militia (Wickham), embarrassing Georgiana. Darcy defends Elizabeth, calling her one of the handsomest women he knows.
6. How does “Chapter XLV” build on “Chapter XLIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18): Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1): Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly. On characterization: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Caroline's attack backfire?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13): Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Polite visits were also contests of status and wit. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18): Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Caroline's spite backfires, revealing Darcy's devotion.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1): Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13): Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. On characterization: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about jealousy at Pemberley? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18): Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1): Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13): Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18): Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III. On characterization: At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XLV” treats jealousy at Pemberley with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1): Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLVI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13): Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about jealousy at Pemberley? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18): Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Useful evidence: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1): Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly. Theme link: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who visits Pemberley with Elizabeth?
   A. Lydia
   B. Jane
   C. Mrs. Gardiner
   D. Charlotte

   Key: C (Mrs. Gardiner)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “There was now employment for the whole party; for though they could not all talk, they could all eat; and the beautiful pyramids of grapes, nectarines, and peaches, soon collected them round the table.”, what does “pyramids” most nearly mean?
   A. an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage)
   B. pyramid-shaped piles
   C. remove something concrete, as by lifting, pushing, or taking off, or remove something abstract

   D. outvoted; overridden

Key: B (pyramid-shaped piles)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLV, paragraph 1: “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had _____ in jealousy”

   Key: originated

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “While thus engaged, Elizabeth had a fair opportunity of _____ whether she most feared or wished for the appearance of Mr.” Word bank: peaches, deciding, predominate, nettled

   Key: deciding

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is embarrassed by the remark?

   A. Darcy
   B. Mrs. Gardiner
   C. Bingley
   D. Georgiana

   Key: D (Georgiana)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLV, paragraph 18: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my _____”

   Key: acquaintance

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She answered with equal indifference and _____, and the other said no more.” Word bank: brevity, nettled, peaches, predominate

   Key: brevity

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy, by the feelings which prevailed on his entering the room; and then, though but a moment before she had believed her wishes to predominate, she began to regret that he came.”, what does “predominate” most nearly mean?

   A. to be stronger than the others
   B. frightening; alarming
   C. a restless, nervous state
   D. joyful and proud especially because of triumph or success

   Key: A (to be stronger than the others)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Miss Bingley saw all this likewise; and, in the imprudence of anger, took the first opportunity of saying, with _____ civility—” Word bank: nettled, predominate, sneering, peaches

   Key: sneering

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13)

   A. Jane's joy.
   B. Jane admits her error.
   C. Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.
   D. Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.

   Key: D (Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLV”?

    A. Letters of judgment

    B. Jealousy at Pemberley

    C. First impressions at the ball

    D. A charming stranger

    Key: B (Jealousy at Pemberley)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18)

    A. Elizabeth's reading.

    B. Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.

    C. Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.

    D. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.

    Key: C (Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLV”? At Pemberley Miss Bingley tries to embarrass Elizabeth by mentioning the militia, hurting Georgiana instead; after the visit she criticizes Elizabeth's looks to Darcy and receives a crushing reply.

    A. Personification

    B. Alliteration

    C. Symbolism

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18).

    Sample answer: In Chapter III she was "tolerable"; now he says "it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance," a direct reversal prompted by Miss Bingley's own spite.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Darcy's reply to Miss Bingley shows how completely he has revised his first impression of Elizabeth.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: In Chapter III she was "tolerable"; now he says "it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance," a direct reversal prompted by Miss Bingley's own spite.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy say about Elizabeth?

    A. She is poor

    B. One of the handsomest women he knows

    C. She is tolerable

    D. She is foolish

Key: B (One of the handsomest women he knows)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Its windows opening to the ground, admitted a most refreshing view of the high woody hills behind the house, and of the beautiful oaks and Spanish _____ which were scattered over the intermediate lawn.” Word bank: peaches, predominate, chestnuts, nettled

    Key: chestnuts

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLV, paragraph 13: “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this _____, Mr. Darcy”

    Key: morning

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Caroline's behavior reveal?
    A. Fear
    B. Shyness
    C. Jealousy
    D. Kindness

    Key: C (Jealousy)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Caroline mention to provoke Elizabeth?
    A. Collins
    B. Rosings
    C. Her muddy walk
    D. The militia

    Key: D (The militia)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.

23. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1)
    A. Mrs. Bennet's displaced irritation; comic.
    B. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.
    C. Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.
    D. The key to Charlotte's marriage.

    Key: C (Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.)

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Convinced as Elizabeth now was that Miss Bingley’s dislike of her had originated in jealousy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLV”? Each of Miss Bingley's attacks increases Darcy's regard for Elizabeth.
    A. Foreshadowing
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Irony
    D. Imagery

Key: C (Irony)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “There was now employment for the whole party; for though they could not all talk, they could all eat; and the beautiful pyramids of grapes, nectarines, and peaches, soon collected them round the table.”, what does “peaches” most nearly mean?
    A. something very like another; a copy
    B. look past, fail to notice
    C. soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin
    D. produced or growing in extreme abundance

    Key: C (soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin)

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Persuaded as Miss Bingley was that Darcy admired Elizabeth, this was not the best method of recommending herself; but angry people are not always wise; and in seeing him at last look somewhat nettled, she had all the…”, what does “nettled” most nearly mean?
    A. easily irritated or annoyed
    B. irritated; annoyed
    C. kept from leaving
    D. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

    Key: B (irritated; annoyed)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “it is many months since I have considered her as one of the handsomest women of my acquaintance” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy reverses his "tolerable" of Chapter III.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Darcy reveals how far his own first impression has changed.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “How very ill Eliza Bennet looks this morning, Mr. Darcy” (Chapter XLV, paragraph 13) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's attempt to lower Elizabeth in his eyes.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 17, 18, 4, 19, 6, 20, 21, 22, 23, 13, 11, 24, 14, 25, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 6, 1, 4, 26, 27, 10, 13, 23, 22, 12, 15, 24, 14, 16, 28	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 7, 26, 1, 21, 11, 22, 12, 13, 23, 24, 14, 15, 25, 16, 29	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 27, 9, 8, 23, 12, 11, 10, 22, 15, 14, 25, 24, 16, 30, 29	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	4, 20, 7, 22, 13, 23, 12, 11, 24, 15, 14, 25, 29, 30, 28, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	4, 18, 9, 13, 23, 11, 10, 22, 15, 24, 14, 25, 30, 29, 16, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	7, 18, 10, 13, 23, 22, 12, 11, 25, 15, 24, 14, 16, 29, 30, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 9, 11, 10, 23, 12, 22, 13, 14, 15, 24, 25, 28, 30, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

College Senior	18, 9, 11, 23, 13, 22, 12, 10, 25, 24, 14, 15, 16, 28, 30, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	18, 6, 13, 22, 23, 12, 10, 11, 24, 25, 14, 15, 29, 28, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLV,” how does Austen show jealousy at Pemberley? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLV, how does Austen develop the idea of jealousy at Pemberley? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLV develops the idea of jealousy at Pemberley. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of jealousy at Pemberley. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLV suggests about jealousy at Pemberley. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XLV to complicate the reader's understanding of jealousy at Pemberley. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of jealousy at Pemberley responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of jealousy at Pemberley follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLV and its treatment of jealousy at Pemberley. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLV as evidence for a larger claim about jealousy at Pemberley in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of jealousy at Pemberley. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Persuaded as Miss Bingley was that Darcy admired Elizabeth, this was not the best method of recommending herself; but angry people are not always wise; and in seeing him at last look somewhat nettled, she had all the success she expected.

   As used in the text, what does the word “nettled” most nearly mean?

   A. reach, make, or come to a decision about something
   B. irritated; annoyed
   C. react verbally
   D. be in accord; be in agreement

2. On reaching the house, they were shown through the hall into the saloon, whose northern aspect rendered it delightful for summer. Its windows opening to the ground, admitted a most refreshing view of the high woody hills behind the house, and of the beautiful oaks and Spanish chestnuts which were scattered over the intermediate lawn.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLV”?

   A. Departure and relief
   B. Too late
   C. Jealousy at Pemberley
   D. Pemberley

SAT key: 1. B (irritated; annoyed); 2. C (Jealousy at Pemberley)

Lesson 47: Chapter XLVI

Focus: scandal

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in “Chapter XLVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): Lydia, 16, runs off with Wickham, an adult. Frame it as exploitation of a minor and discuss the period's double standard that blames her.
Student preview: A 16-year-old runs away with an adult man. We will discuss who holds power here.
Suggested language: “Who is blamed for the elopement, and is that fair?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Letters from Jane report that Lydia has run off with Wickham, possibly not married. Darcy finds Elizabeth distraught; she confides in him. Elizabeth and the Gardiners hurry home.

Background: An unmarried elopement could ruin the reputation of an entire family.

Significance: The crisis tests Darcy's love and reveals Elizabeth's change of heart.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because…. Content note before we start: A 16-year-old runs away with an adult man. We will discuss who holds power here.
Prompt: Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: fluctuating — rising and falling; changing again and again; actuated — moved to act; driven; superseded — replaced; pushed aside; informing — impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to; darting — moving suddenly and quickly. “fluctuating”: From Latin fluctuare "to move in waves," from fluctus "a wave," from fluere "to flow." “informing”: From Middle English informen, enformen, borrowed from Old French enformer, informer "to train, instruct, inform", from Latin īnfōrmō "to shape, form, train, instruct, educate", from in- "into" + fōrma "form, shape", equivalent to in + form.

Words: fluctuating: rising and falling; changing again and again · actuated: moved to act; driven · superseded: replaced; pushed aside · informing: impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to · darting: moving suddenly and quickly

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

An unmarried elopement could ruin the reputation of an entire family. The crisis tests Darcy's love and reveals Elizabeth's change of heart. Structure: Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page. Characterization: Elizabeth tells Darcy everything in her distress, and he leaves abruptly; she assumes, wrongly, that the scandal has ended his regard. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “something indistinctly of his concern, and observe her in compassionate silence. At length, she spoke again. “I have just had a letter” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 11).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24). The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." That is structure at work: Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page.

> If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24). The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." That is structure at work: Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Gretna Green in Scotland was where couples married quickly without parental consent; if Wickham "never intended to go there," he never meant marriage, so Lydia is ruined. This links to family and reputation. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: One sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. (Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.)

> Though Lydia's short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: Gretna Green in Scotland was where couples married quickly without parental consent; if Wickham "never intended to go there," he never meant marriage, so Lydia is ruined. This links to family and reputation.

Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?

Expected answer: One sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. (Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about scandal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVI develops the idea of scandal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and conflict shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. When the text says "Though Lydia's short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there" (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Jane's letter fears that Wickham "never intended" to go to Gretna Green, where they could marry, and Elizabeth at once assumes Darcy will withdraw, because Lydia's disgrace attaches to every sister.

Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about scandal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVI develops the idea of scandal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and conflict shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. When the text says "Though Lydia's short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there" (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5), it shows this directly. Jane's letter fears that Wickham "never intended" to go to Gretna Green, where they could marry, and Elizabeth at once assumes Darcy will withdraw, because Lydia's disgrace attaches to every sister.

> 70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
> Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
> Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear? Explain "ruin" for a woman in 1813 before discussing. Ask: why does Elizabeth think Lydia's choice ends her own hopes?
> Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear?
> Facilitation: Explain "ruin" for a woman in 1813 before discussing. Ask: why does Elizabeth think Lydia's choice ends her own hopes?

> 80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
> Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
> Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about scandal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. (“Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W”, Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
> Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about scandal? Support it with one short quotation.
> Answer: Model answer: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. (“Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W”, Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how structure shapes scandal. Key takeaway: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page.
- Characterization: Elizabeth tells Darcy everything in her distress, and he leaves abruptly; she assumes, wrongly, that the scandal has ended his regard.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “something indistinctly of his concern, and observe her in compassionate silence. At length, she spoke again. “I have just had a letter” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 11).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “had been a good deal disappointed in not finding a letter from Jane, on their first arrival at Lambton; and this disappointment” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24) The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
- “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5) Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
- “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26) Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation.
Evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5)
Reasoning: Jane's letter fears that Wickham "never intended" to go to Gretna Green, where they could marry, and Elizabeth at once assumes Darcy will withdraw, because Lydia's disgrace attaches to every sister.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
fluctuating (verb)	rising and falling; changing again and again	Her affections had been continually fluctuating, but never without an object.	“fluctuating”: From Latin fluctuare "to move in waves," from fluctus "a wave," from fluere "to flow." (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/fluctuate) actuated (verb)	moved to act; driven	Elizabeth, though expecting no less, thanked him with tears of gratitude; and all three being actuated by one spirit, everything relating to their journey was speedily settled.

superseded (verb)	replaced; pushed aside	Her pale face and impetuous manner made him start, and before he could recover himself enough to speak, she, in whose mind every idea was superseded by Lydia's situation, hastily exclaimed, "I beg your pardon, but I must leave you.
informing (verb)	impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to	Lydia left a few lines for his wife, informing her of their intention.	"informing": From Middle English informen, enformen, borrowed from Old French enformer, informer "to train, instruct, inform", from Latin īnfōrmō "to shape, form, train, instruct, educate", from in- "into" + fōrma "form, shape", equivalent to in + form. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inform#Etymology)
darting (verb)	moving suddenly and quickly	"Oh! where, where is my uncle?" cried Elizabeth, darting from her seat as she finished the letter, in eagerness to follow him, without losing a moment of the time so precious; but as she reached the door, it was opened by a servant, and Mr.
impetuous (adjective)	characterized by undue haste and lack of thought or deliberation	Her pale face and impetuous manner made him start, and before he could recover himself enough to speak, she, in whose mind every idea was superseded by Lydia's situation, hastily exclaimed, "I beg your pardon, but I must leave you.	"impetuous": From Middle English impetuous, from Old French impetueux, from Late Latin impetuōsus "violent", from Latin impetus "attack, violence". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/impetuous#Etymology)
apprehensions (noun)	fearful expectation or anticipation	With the kindest concern he came on to Longbourn, and broke his apprehensions to us in a manner most creditable to his heart.	"apprehensions": Latin apprehensio, apprehensionis, compare with French appréhension. See apprehend. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/apprehension#Etymology)
finishing (verb)	come or bring to a finish or an end	Without allowing herself time for consideration, and scarcely knowing what she felt, Elizabeth on finishing this letter instantly seized the other, and opening it with the utmost impatience, read as follows: it had been written a day later than the conclusion of the first.

secrecy (noun)	the trait of keeping things secret	He readily assured her of his secrecy—again expressed his sorrow for her distress, wished it a happier conclusion than there was at present reason to hope, and leaving his compliments for her relations, with only one serious, parting, look, went away.	“secrecy”: An alteration (on the model of primacy, etc.) of Late Middle English secretee, from Old French secré. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/secrecy#Etymology)
attempting (verb)	make an effort or attempt	Elizabeth hesitated, but her knees trembled under her, and she felt how little would be gained by her attempting to pursue them.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What news does Jane send? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia has run off with Wickham
2. Where were Lydia and Wickham thought to go? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Gretna Green or London
3. Whom does Elizabeth confide in? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy
4. What does she fear? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her family's disgrace and Darcy's loss
5. What do Elizabeth and the Gardiners do after Jane's letters about Lydia? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Hurry home
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLVI” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Letters from Jane report that Lydia has run off with Wickham, possibly not married. Darcy finds Elizabeth distraught; she confides in him. Elizabeth and the Gardiners hurry home.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLVI”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLVI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Her affections had been continually fluctuating, but never without an object.” What does “fluctuating” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: fluctuating: rising and falling; changing again and again.
10. Reread: “Elizabeth, though expecting no less, thanked him with tears of gratitude; and all three being actuated by one spirit, everything relating to their journey was speedily settled.” What does “actuated” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: actuated: moved to act; driven.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLVI” suggest about scandal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The crisis tests Darcy's love and reveals Elizabeth's change of heart.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
3. How does the conflict in this chapter shape what we understand about scandal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24): The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Without allowing herself time for consideration, and scarcely knowing what she felt, Elizabeth on finishing this letter instantly seized the other, and opening it with the utmost…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLVI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Letters from Jane report that Lydia has run off with Wickham, possibly not married. Darcy finds Elizabeth distraught; she confides in him. Elizabeth and the Gardiners hurry home.
6. How does “Chapter XLVI” build on “Chapter XLV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5): Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her. On structure: Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26): Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Darcy everything in her distress, and he leaves abruptly; she assumes, wrongly, that the scandal has ended his regard. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Elizabeth tell Darcy, and what does she fear?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24): The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: An unmarried elopement could ruin the reputation of an entire family. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5): Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The crisis tests Darcy's love and reveals Elizabeth's change of heart.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26): Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24): The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." On characterization: Elizabeth tells Darcy everything in her distress, and he leaves abruptly; she assumes, wrongly, that the scandal has ended his regard. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about scandal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5): Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26): Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24): The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5): Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XLVI” treats scandal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26): Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24): The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight." Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about scandal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5): Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Useful evidence: “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26): Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks. Theme link: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)

- Also notice Conflict: the forces, people or desires pulling against each other
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to _____ that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there”

   Key: understand

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What news does Jane send?

   A. Father died

   B. Bingley proposed

   C. Lydia has run off with Wickham

   D. Collins is ill

   Key: C (Lydia has run off with Wickham)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Oh! where, where is my uncle?” cried Elizabeth, _____ from her seat as she finished the letter, in eagerness to follow him, without losing a moment of the time so precious; but as she reached the door, it was opened by a servant, and Mr.” Word bank: actuated, superseded, darting, fluctuating

   Key: darting

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24: “If gratitude and esteem are good _____ of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty”

   Key: foundations

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where were Lydia and Wickham thought to go?

   A. Bath

   B. Gretna Green or London

   C. Paris

   D. Pemberley

   Key: B (Gretna Green or London)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth, though expecting no less, thanked him with tears of gratitude; and all three being actuated by one spirit, everything relating to their journey was speedily settled.”, what does “actuated” most nearly mean?

   A. criticizing strongly

   B. a combination of different things

   C. varied

   D. moved to act; driven

   Key: D (moved to act; driven)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “With the kindest concern he came on to Longbourn, and broke his _____ to us in a manner most creditable to his heart.” Word bank: apprehensions, actuated, superseded, fluctuating

   Key: apprehensions

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26: “thanked him with tears of _____”

   Key: gratitude

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Lydia left a few lines for his wife, informing her of their intention.”, what does “informing” most nearly mean?

   A. a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person
   B. impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to
   C. injured by a sudden twist
   D. the act of traveling from one place to another

   Key: B (impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24)

    A. Opening.
    B. Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
    C. The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."
    D. He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.

    Key: C (The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight.")

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth’s change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26)

    A. Her vanity in the title.
    B. Mr. Bennet's joke.
    C. Darcy's resistance to his own feelings.
    D. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5)

    A. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
    B. "Wisely" is ironic: his caution will deepen her misjudgment.
    C. Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.
    D. The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.

    Key: A (Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “thanked him with tears of gratitude” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 26). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVI”? Two letters from Jane break the Pemberley idyll: Lydia has run off with Wickham, and he may not mean to marry her. The plot turns from courtship to crisis in a page.
    A. Structure
    B. Irony
    C. Simile
    D. Hyperbole

    Key: A (Structure)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLVI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: one sister's fall threatens all five; Elizabeth knows at once what it means for her own hopes.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does she fear?
    A. Losing money
    B. War
    C. Illness
    D. Her family's disgrace and Darcy's loss

    Key: D (Her family's disgrace and Darcy's loss)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her affections had been continually fluctuating, but never without an object.”, what does “fluctuating” most nearly mean?
    A. expressing gratitude to
    B. deserved
    C. the cardinal number that is the sum of fifteen and one
    D. rising and falling; changing again and again

    Key: D (rising and falling; changing again and again)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her pale face and impetuous manner made him start, and before he could recover himself enough to speak, she, in whose mind every idea was superseded by Lydia’s situation, hastily exclaimed, “I beg your pardon, but I…”, what does “superseded” most nearly mean?
    A. replaced; pushed aside
    B. a female heir
    C. assumptions an argument is based on
    D. alarm and dismay

    Key: A (replaced; pushed aside)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Elizabeth confide in?
    A. Georgiana
    B. Darcy
    C. Fitzwilliam
    D. Caroline

    Key: B (Darcy)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVI”?
    A. Scandal

B. A misguided warning
C. Too late
D. Doubts and preparations

Key: A (Scandal)

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVI”? Elizabeth tells Darcy everything in her distress, and he leaves abruptly; she assumes, wrongly, that the scandal has ended his regard.
   A. Plot
   B. Characterization
   C. Allusion
   D. Point of view

   Key: B (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

   Sample answer: Jane's letter fears that Wickham "never intended" to go to Gretna Green, where they could marry, and Elizabeth at once assumes Darcy will withdraw, because Lydia's disgrace attaches to every sister.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Her pale face and _____ manner made him start, and before he could recover himself enough to speak, she, in whose mind every idea was superseded by Lydia’s situation, hastily exclaimed, “I beg your pardon, but I must leave you.” Word bank: fluctuating, impetuous, superseded, actuated

   Key: impetuous

25. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

   Sample answer: Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Lydia's elopement shows how a single act can destroy a whole family's reputation. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5).

   Sample answer: Jane's letter fears that Wickham "never intended" to go to Gretna Green, where they could marry, and Elizabeth at once assumes Darcy will withdraw, because Lydia's disgrace attaches to every sister.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Though Lydia’s short letter to Mrs. F. gave them to understand that they were going to Gretna Green, something was dropped by Denny expressing his belief that W. never intended to go there” (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 5) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

   Sample answer: Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Without allowing herself time for consideration, and scarcely knowing what she felt, Elizabeth on _____ this letter instantly seized the other, and opening it with the utmost impatience, read as follows: it had been written a day later than the conclusion of…" Word bank: superseded, finishing, actuated, fluctuating

Key: finishing

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "If gratitude and esteem are good foundations of affection, Elizabeth's change of sentiment will be neither improbable nor faulty" (Chapter XLVI, paragraph 24) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The narrator steps in to defend a love based on esteem rather than "first sight."

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do Elizabeth and the Gardiners do after Jane's letters about Lydia?

    A. Do nothing
    B. Stay at Pemberley
    C. Hurry home
    D. Go to Brighton

    Key: C (Hurry home)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 7, 18, 5, 19, 9, 20, 8, 11, 12, 21, 10, 22, 14, 15, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	3, 5, 24, 6, 1, 7, 25, 13, 11, 12, 21, 26, 15, 22, 27, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	9, 20, 4, 7, 6, 11, 10, 21, 25, 12, 15, 14, 26, 22, 16, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	2, 20, 28, 4, 13, 21, 12, 11, 10, 26, 22, 15, 14, 23, 29, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	4, 7, 30, 12, 21, 11, 13, 10, 22, 15, 14, 26, 23, 29, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	3, 9, 7, 13, 12, 25, 11, 10, 22, 15, 14, 26, 27, 16, 23, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 24, 21, 13, 11, 25, 10, 12, 26, 15, 22, 14, 27, 16, 23, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	3, 24, 21, 10, 25, 13, 11, 12, 26, 14, 22, 15, 16, 29, 23, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	3, 24, 12, 25, 11, 21, 10, 13, 14, 15, 22, 26, 29, 27, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	28, 1, 11, 21, 10, 25, 13, 12, 26, 14, 15, 22, 27, 29, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter XLVI," how does Austen show scandal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLVI, how does Austen develop the idea of scandal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLVI develops the idea of scandal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and conflict shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of scandal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLVI suggests about scandal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and conflict), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses plot in Chapter XLVI to complicate the reader's understanding of scandal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of scandal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of scandal follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLVI and its treatment of scandal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and conflict, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLVI as evidence for a larger claim about scandal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of scandal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Her pale face and impetuous manner made him start, and before he could recover himself enough to speak, she, in whose mind every idea was superseded by Lydia's situation, hastily exclaimed, "I beg your pardon, but I must leave you.

As used in the text, what does the word “superseded” most nearly mean?

A. come or bring to a finish or an end

B. replaced; pushed aside

C. the trait of keeping things secret

D. make an effort or attempt

2. Without allowing herself time for consideration, and scarcely knowing what she felt, Elizabeth on finishing this letter instantly seized the other, and opening it with the utmost impatience, read as follows: it had been written a day later than the conclusion of the first.

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVI”?

A. The second proposal

B. Scandal

C. An imperious hostess

D. Family in crisis

SAT key: 1. B (replaced; pushed aside); 2. B (Scandal)

Lesson 48: Chapter XLVII

Focus: family in crisis

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter XLVII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): The family's reaction focuses on reputation; keep attention on Lydia's vulnerability and Wickham's responsibility.
Student preview: The family reacts to Lydia's elopement.
Suggested language: “What does the family worry about most? What should they worry about?”

Teacher only · spoilers

The Gardiners and Elizabeth return to Longbourn. Mrs. Bennet is hysterical; Mr. Bennet is already in London searching. Lydia's careless letter to Mrs. Forster shows she thinks it a joke.

Background: Lydia's reputation affected her sisters' marriage prospects too.

Significance: Lydia's thoughtlessness exposes the results of indulgence and neglect.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does Lydia's letter reveal about her? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to family and reputation because.... Content note before we start: The family reacts to Lydia's elopement.
Prompt: What does Lydia's letter reveal about her?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: overruled — outvoted; overridden; condole — to express sympathy; postilions — riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage; flirtation — playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest; insinuating — winning favor in a sly, flattering way. “postilions”: From Middle French postillon, and its likely source, Italian postiglione "guide for driver of post-coach", from posta "post".
Words: overruled: outvoted; overridden · condole: to express sympathy · postilions: riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage · flirtation: playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest · insinuating: winning favor in a sly, flattering way

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Lydia's reputation affected her sisters' marriage prospects too. Lydia's thoughtlessness exposes the results of indulgence and neglect. Characterization: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself. Epistolary: Lydia's own note to Mrs. Forster, careless and giggling, is the clearest picture of her character in the novel. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "Miss Darcy, I was thoroughly prepared to see a proud, reserved, disagreeable girl. Yet he knew to the contrary himself. He must" (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 14).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth" (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1). Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. That is characterization at work: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself.

> I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth" (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1). Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. That is characterization at work: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Look at the craft: Lydia's own note to Mrs. Forster, careless and giggling, is the clearest picture of her character in the novel. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. (Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.)

> I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Look at the craft: Lydia's own note to Mrs. Forster, careless and giggling, is the clearest picture of her character in the novel.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. (Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, epistolary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family in crisis? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVII develops the idea of family in crisis. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. When the text says "cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed" (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61), it shows this directly. She writes that she "cannot help laughing" at Mrs. Forster's "surprise tomorrow morning" and calls anyone who cannot guess the man "a simpleton," treating an act that could ruin her family as a prank.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, epistolary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about family in crisis? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVII develops the idea of family in crisis. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. When the text says "cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed" (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61), it shows this directly. She writes that she "cannot help laughing" at Mrs. Forster's "surprise tomorrow morning" and calls anyone who cannot guess the man "a simpleton," treating an act that could ruin her family as a prank.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Lydia's letter reveal about her? Ask: who taught Lydia to think this way? Look back at Chapters XL and XLI.

Anchor question: What does Lydia's letter reveal about her?

Facilitation: Ask: who taught Lydia to think this way? Look back at Chapters XL and XLI.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family in crisis? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. ("cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed", Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about family in crisis? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. ("cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed", Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes family in crisis. Key takeaway: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself.
- Epistolary: Lydia's own note to Mrs. Forster, careless and giggling, is the clearest picture of her character in the novel.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Miss Darcy, I was thoroughly prepared to see a proud, reserved, disagreeable girl. Yet he knew to the contrary himself. He must” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 14).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Yes, he went on Tuesday as I wrote you word” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 26).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1) Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.
- “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61) Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.
- “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61) Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done.
Evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61)

Reasoning: She writes that she "cannot help laughing" at Mrs. Forster's "surprise tomorrow morning" and calls anyone who cannot guess the man "a simpleton," treating an act that could ruin her family as a prank.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
overruled (verb)	outvoted; overridden	I always thought they were very unfit to have the charge of her; but I was overruled, as I always am.
condole (verb)	to express sympathy	She was of great use and comfort to us all, and lady Lucas has been very kind; she walked here on Wednesday morning to condole with us, and offered her services, or any of her daughters, if they could be of use to us."
postilions (noun)	riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage	"He meant, I believe," replied Jane, "to go to Epsom, the place where they last changed horses, see the postilions, and try if anything could be made out from them.	"postilions": From Middle French postillon, and its likely source, Italian postiglione "guide for driver of post-coach", from posta "post". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/postilion#Etymology)
flirtation (noun)	playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest	Since the ——shire were first quartered in Meryton, nothing but love, flirtation, and officers, have been in her head.
insinuating (adjective)	winning favor in a sly, flattering way	That he is as false and deceitful, as he is insinuating."
alternate (adjective)	first one and then the other	Jane ran to her uncle and aunt, and welcomed and thanked them both, with alternate smiles and tears.
availed (verb)	use to one's advantage	In the afternoon, the two elder Miss Bennets were able to be for half an hour by themselves; and Elizabeth instantly availed herself of the opportunity of making many enquiries, which Jane was equally eager to satisfy.	"availed": From Middle English availen "to be of use", from Old French a "to" + vail from valoir "to be worth", from Latin valere "to be worthy, strong". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/avail#Etymology)
adequate (adjective)	having the requisite qualities or resources to meet a task	His temptation is not adequate to the risk."

excuses (noun)	a defense of some offensive behavior or some failure to keep a promise etc.	Pray make my excuses to Pratt, for not keeping my engagement, and dancing with him tonight.
shocking (adjective)	very upsetting	“It does seem, and it is most shocking indeed,” replied Elizabeth, with tears in her eyes, “that a sister’s sense of decency and virtue in such a point should admit of doubt.

Discussion questions

1. What does Lydia's letter reveal about her?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who is already in London searching for Lydia? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet
2. How does Mrs. Bennet react to Lydia's elopement? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Hysterically
3. What is Lydia's attitude in her letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She thinks it a joke
4. Who wrote to Mrs. Forster? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia
5. What theme does the crisis show? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Effects of neglect and indulgence
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLVII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Gardiners and Elizabeth return to Longbourn. Mrs. Bennet is hysterical; Mr. Bennet is already in London searching. Lydia's careless letter to Mrs. Forster shows she thinks it a joke.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLVII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLVII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.

9. Reread: “I always thought they were very unfit to have the charge of her; but I was overruled, as I always am.” What does “overruled” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: overruled: outvoted; overridden.
10. Reread: “She was of great use and comfort to us all, and lady Lucas has been very kind; she walked here on Wednesday morning to condole with us, and offered her services, or any of her daughters, if they could be of use to us.”” What does “condole” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: condole: to express sympathy.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLVII” suggest about family in crisis? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Lydia's thoughtlessness exposes the results of indulgence and neglect.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about family in crisis? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1): Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLVII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The Gardiners and Elizabeth return to Longbourn. Mrs. Bennet is hysterical; Mr. Bennet is already in London searching. Lydia's careless letter to Mrs. Forster shows she thinks it a joke.
6. How does “Chapter XLVII” build on “Chapter XLVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense. On characterization: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does Lydia's letter reveal about her?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1): Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Lydia's reputation affected her sisters' marriage prospects too. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Lydia's thoughtlessness exposes the results of indulgence and neglect.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1): Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. On characterization: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLVII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about family in crisis? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLVII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1): Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. On characterization: On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XLVII” treats family in crisis with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XLVIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1): Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about family in crisis? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Useful evidence: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61): Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense. Theme link: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “I always thought they were very unfit to have the charge of her; but I was overruled, as I always am.”, what does “overruled” most nearly mean?
   A. keeps
   B. looking at; regarding
   C. outvoted; overridden
   D. hate coupled with disgust

Key: C (outvoted; overridden)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Jane ran to her uncle and aunt, and welcomed and thanked them both, with _____ smiles and tears." Word bank: condole, overruled, postilions, alternate

   Key: alternate

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Since the ——shire were first quartered in Meryton, nothing but love, flirtation, and officers, have been in her head.", what does "flirtation" most nearly mean?

   A. a surrounding or nearby region
   B. an emergency; a sudden difficulty (older usage)
   C. playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest
   D. quickness and ease

   Key: C (playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet react to Lydia's elopement?

   A. Calmly
   B. Joyfully
   C. Hysterically
   D. Silently

   Key: C (Hysterically)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "His temptation is not _____ to the risk."" Word bank: postilions, overruled, adequate, condole

   Key: adequate

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""He meant, I believe," replied Jane, "to go to Epsom, the place where they last changed horses, see the postilions, and try if anything could be made out from them.", what does "postilions" most nearly mean?

   A. reveal in private; tell confidentially
   B. have as a part, be made up out of
   C. impart knowledge of some fact, state or affairs, or event to
   D. riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage

   Key: D (riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Lydia's attitude in her letter?

   A. She is terrified
   B. She apologizes
   C. She is ashamed
   D. She thinks it a joke

   Key: D (She thinks it a joke)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61: "cannot help _____ myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed"

   Key: laughing

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who wrote to Mrs. Forster?

   A. Wickham

B. Lydia
C. Kitty
D. Jane

Key: B (Lydia)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVII”?
    A. Family uproar
    B. Strategy in courtship
    C. Family in crisis
    D. Pompous flattery

    Key: C (Family in crisis)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61)
    A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    B. The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
    C. Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense.
    D. Elizabeth's mortification.

    Key: C (Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1)
    A. Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.
    B. Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.
    C. Mr. Bennet's sly question.
    D. Jane's self-deception.

    Key: A (Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61).

    Sample answer: She writes that she "cannot help laughing" at Mrs. Forster's "surprise tomorrow morning" and calls anyone who cannot guess the man "a simpleton," treating an act that could ruin her family as a prank.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVII”? On the road home Mr. Gardiner hopes Wickham means to marry Lydia; Elizabeth, who knows his history with Georgiana, cannot share the hope. At Longbourn Mrs. Bennet blames everyone but herself.
    A. Characterization
    B. Structure
    C. Alliteration
    D. Metaphor

Key: A (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “That he is as false and deceitful, as he is _____.”” Word bank: overruled, condole, postilions, insinuating

    Key: insinuating

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1: “I have been thinking it over again, _____”

    Key: Elizabeth

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She was of great use and comfort to us all, and lady Lucas has been very kind; she walked here on Wednesday morning to condole with us, and offered her services, or any of her daughters, if they could be of use to us.””, what does “condole” most nearly mean?

    A. be afraid or scared of; be frightened of
    B. with respect to material aspects
    C. to express sympathy
    D. spread across or over

    Key: C (to express sympathy)

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61)

    A. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.
    B. Lydia's careless spending.
    C. Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.
    D. Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.

    Key: D (Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “cannot help laughing myself at your surprise tomorrow morning, as soon as I am missed” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Lydia treats the elopement as a joke at her friend's expense.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLVII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the Bennet household's lack of discipline is exposed for all to see.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What theme does the crisis show?

    A. Effects of neglect and indulgence
    B. Love of nature
    C. Poverty only
    D. Science

    Key: A (Effects of neglect and indulgence)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is already in London searching for Lydia?

    A. Darcy openly
    B. Collins

   C. Bingley
   D. Mr. Bennet

   Key: D (Mr. Bennet)

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61: “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a _____”

    Key: simpleton

26. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.

27. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVII”? Lydia's own note to Mrs. Forster, careless and giggling, is the clearest picture of her character in the novel.

    A. Theme
    B. Irony
    C. Epistolary
    D. Setting

    Key: C (Epistolary)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Lydia's own letter shows that she does not understand what she has done.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She writes that she "cannot help laughing" at Mrs. Forster's "surprise tomorrow morning" and calls anyone who cannot guess the man "a simpleton," treating an act that could ruin her family as a prank.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am going to Gretna Green, and if you cannot guess with who, I shall think you a simpleton” (Chapter XLVII, paragraph 61) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Lydia's note: thoughtless and triumphant; note the grammar ("with who") and the tone.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In the afternoon, the two elder Miss Bennets were able to be for half an hour by themselves; and Elizabeth instantly _____ herself of the opportunity of making many enquiries, which Jane was equally eager to satisfy.” Word bank: availed, postilions, condole, overruled

    Key: availed

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 1, 3, 7, 17, 2, 18, 19, 12, 20, 10, 11, 15, 14, 21, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	4, 5, 23, 3, 24, 25, 26, 12, 13, 20, 11, 27, 15, 21, 22, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 7, 19, 2, 24, 10, 13, 12, 26, 11, 15, 14, 21, 27, 28, 22	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 18, 4, 17, 26, 10, 20, 12, 13, 21, 27, 14, 15, 28, 22, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3

AP	17, 18, 1, 10, 11, 26, 12, 13, 14, 15, 27, 21, 28, 29, 22, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	30, 17, 6, 20, 12, 26, 10, 11, 21, 27, 15, 14, 29, 28, 16, 22	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 18, 26, 10, 12, 20, 13, 11, 21, 15, 27, 14, 16, 22, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 2, 20, 10, 12, 13, 26, 11, 14, 21, 27, 15, 29, 22, 16, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 2, 20, 13, 26, 12, 10, 11, 21, 15, 27, 14, 28, 16, 29, 22	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	17, 2, 26, 13, 12, 10, 20, 11, 15, 14, 21, 27, 28, 29, 22, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLVII,” how does Austen show family in crisis? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLVII, how does Austen develop the idea of family in crisis? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLVII develops the idea of family in crisis. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of family in crisis. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLVII suggests about family in crisis. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter XLVII to complicate the reader's understanding of family in crisis. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of family in crisis responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of family in crisis follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLVII and its treatment of family in crisis. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLVII as evidence for a larger claim about family in crisis in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of family in crisis. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “He meant, I believe,” replied Jane, “to go to Epsom, the place where they last changed horses, see the postilions, and try if anything could be made out from them.

   As used in the text, what does the word “postilions” most nearly mean?

   A. having the requisite qualities or resources to meet a task
   B. a defense of some offensive behavior or some failure to keep a promise etc.
   C. riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage
   D. very upsetting

2. “I have been thinking it over again, Elizabeth,” said her uncle, as they drove from the town; “and really, upon serious consideration, I am much more inclined than I was to judge as your eldest sister does of the matter. It appears to me so very unlikely that any young man should form such a design against a girl who is by no means unprotected or friendless, and who was actually staying in his colonel’s family, that I am strongly inclined to hope the best. Could he expect that her friends would not step forward? Could he expect to be noticed again by the regiment, after such an affront to Colonel Forster? His temptation is not adequate to the risk.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVII”?

   A. Self-recognition

B. A ridiculous proposal
C. Family in crisis
D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. C (riders who guide the horses pulling a carriage); 2. C (Family in crisis)

Lesson 49: Chapter XLVIII

Focus: letters of judgment

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XLVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor, cruel moralizing): Collins writes that Lydia's death would have been a blessing. Treat it as satire of cruel moralizing; acknowledge that it is harsh to read.
Student preview: A character writes something cruel about Lydia. Austen is mocking him.
Suggested language: “What is Austen exposing in Collins's letter?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Mr. Collins writes to “condole with you” saying Lydia's death would have been better. Mr. Bennet returns, admitting his fault but joking bitterly; Wickham's debts are exposed.

Background: Moralizing letters were a social genre; Collins's is hypocritical.

Significance: Collins's cruel 'comfort' satirizes self-righteous religion.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why is Collins's letter so offensive? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to family and reputation because.... Content note before we start: A character writes something cruel about Lydia. Austen is mocking him.
> Prompt: Why is Collins's letter so offensive?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: transpired — became known; dilatory — slow; tending to delay; enormity — great wickedness; finances — assets in the form of money; alleviate — provide physical relief, as from pain. “transpired”: Borrowed from Middle French transpirer, from Medieval Latin transpirare "to breathe through", from Latin trans "across" spirare "to breathe". The sense “to become known” is also present in French, while the sense “to happen” is not; the latter probably developed in English from the former. “dilatory”: From Middle English dilatorie, from Old French dilatoire, from Latin dīlātōrius "extending or putting off (time)", from dīlātor, from differō. Not etymologically related to delay. “enormity”: From Late Middle English ēnorme "monstrous or unnatural act; enormity", from Old French énormité "enormity", from Latin ēnormitās "irregularity; enormity", from ēnōrmis "irregular, unusual; enormous, immense" + -itās (suffix forming nouns indicating states of being). Ēnōrmis is derived from e- (a variant of ex- (prefix meaning ‘out; away’) + nōrma "norm, standard" + -is (Latin suffix forming adjec “alleviate”: Late Latin alleviatus, past participle of alleviāre "to lighten; to alleviate". By surface analysis, al-#Etymology_2 + la:levis + -i- + -ate<id:verb>.

Words: transpired: became known · dilatory: slow; tending to delay · enormity: great wickedness · finances: assets in the form of money · alleviate: provide physical relief, as from pain

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Moralizing letters were a social genre; Collins's is hypocritical. Collins's cruel 'comfort' satirizes self-righteous religion. Epistolary: Letters arrive from Mr. Gardiner and from Mr. Collins, whose "consolation" is a cruelty. Characterization: Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Then, after a short silence, he continued, “Lizzy, I bear you no ill-will for being justified” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 28).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12). Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. That is epistolary at work: Letters arrive from Mr. Gardiner and from Mr. Collins, whose "consolation" is a cruelty.

> The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12). Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. That is epistolary at work: Letters arrive from Mr. Gardiner and from Mr. Collins, whose "consolation" is a cruelty.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Once in my life" admits a lifelong habit of avoiding responsibility; "pass away soon enough" shows self-knowledge without change. Theme: family and reputation. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. (He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.)

> It will pass away soon enough (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: "Once in my life" admits a lifelong habit of avoiding responsibility; "pass away soon enough" shows self-knowledge without change. Theme: family and reputation.

Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?

Expected answer: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. (He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about letters of judgment? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVIII develops the idea of letters of judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. When the text says “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23), it shows this directly. He says "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" and adds "it will pass away soon enough," honest about both his guilt and his character.

Task: Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about letters of judgment? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLVIII develops the idea of letters of judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. When the text says “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23), it shows this directly. He says "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" and adds "it will pass away soon enough," honest about both his guilt and his character.

> 70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
> Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
> Anchor question: Why is Collins's letter so offensive? Compare Collins's letter with Mr. Bennet's admission: which shows more real concern for Lydia?
> Anchor question: Why is Collins's letter so offensive?
> Facilitation: Compare Collins's letter with Mr. Bennet's admission: which shows more real concern for Lydia?

> 80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
> Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
> Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about letters of judgment? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. (“let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame”, Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
> Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about letters of judgment? Support it with one short quotation.
> Answer: Model answer: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. (“let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame”, Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how epistolary shapes letters of judgment. Key takeaway: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Epistolary: Letters arrive from Mr. Gardiner and from Mr. Collins, whose "consolation" is a cruelty.
- Characterization: Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Then, after a short silence, he continued, “Lizzy, I bear you no ill-will for being justified” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 28).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “The whole party were in hopes of a letter from Mr. Bennet the next morning, but the post came in” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12) Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.
- “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23) Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.
- “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23) He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last.
Evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23)
Reasoning: He says "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" and adds "it will pass away soon enough," honest about both his guilt and his character.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
transpired (verb)	became known	And in the wretched state of his own finances, there was a very powerful motive for secrecy, in addition to his fear of discovery by Lydia's relations, for it had just transpired that he had left gaming debts behind him, to a very considerable amount.	“transpired”: Borrowed from Middle French transpirer, from Medieval Latin transpirare "to breathe through", from Latin trans "across" spirare "to breathe". The sense “to become known” is also present in French, while the sense “to happen” is not; the latter probably developed in English from the former. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/transpire#Etymology)
dilatory (adjective)	slow; tending to delay	His family knew him to be on all common occasions, a most negligent and dilatory correspondent, but at such a time, they had hoped for exertion.	“dilatory”: From Middle English dilatorie, from Old French dilatoire, from Latin dīlātōrius "extending or putting off (time)", from dīlātor, from differō. Not etymologically related to delay. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dilatory#Etymology) great wickedness

enormity (noun)		Bennet, I am inclined to think that her own disposition must be naturally bad, or she could not be guilty of such an enormity, at so early an age.	“enormity”: From Late Middle English ēnorme "monstrous or unnatural act; enormity", from Old French énormité "enormity", from Latin ēnormitās "irregularity; enormity", from ēnōrmis "irregular, unusual; enormous, immense" + -itās (suffix forming nouns indicating states of being). Ēnōrmis is derived from e- (a variant of ex- (prefix meaning ‘out; away’) + nōrma "norm, standard" + -is (Latin suffix forming adjec (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enormity#Etymology)
finances (noun)	assets in the form of money	And in the wretched state of his own finances, there was a very powerful motive for secrecy, in addition to his fear of discovery by Lydia’s relations, for it had just transpired that he had left gaming debts behind him, to a very considerable amount.
alleviate (verb)	provide physical relief, as from pain	No arguments shall be wanting on my part, that can alleviate so severe a misfortune; or that may comfort you, under a circumstance that must be of all others most afflicting to a parent’s mind.	“alleviate”: Late Latin alleviatus, past participle of alleviāre "to lighten; to alleviate". By surface analysis, al-#Etymology_2 + la:levis + -i- + -ate<id:verb>. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/alleviate#Etymology)
apprehending (verb)	get the meaning of something	They agree with me in apprehending that this false step in one daughter, will be injurious to the fortunes of all the others, for who, as Lady Catherine herself condescendingly says, will connect themselves with such a family.
distrusted (verb)	regard as untrustworthy; regard with suspicion; have no faith or confidence in	Everybody declared that he was the wickedest young man in the world; and everybody began to find out, that they had always distrusted the appearance of his goodness.	“distrusted”: From dis + trust, alteration of the earlier term wantrust. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/distrust#Etymology) make unwilling

disinclined (verb)		Bennet seemed wholly disinclined at present to leave London, and promised to write again very soon.
negligent (adjective)	characterized by neglect and undue lack of concern	His family knew him to be on all common occasions, a most negligent and dilatory correspondent, but at such a time, they had hoped for exertion.	“negligent”: From Middle English necligent, negligent, from Old French negligent, from Latin negligēns. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/negligent#Etymology)
intrigues (noun)	a crafty and involved plot to achieve your (usually sinister) ends	He was declared to be in debt to every tradesman in the place, and his intrigues, all honoured with the title of seduction, had been extended into every tradesman's family.

Discussion questions

1. Why is Collins's letter so offensive?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Collins say about Lydia? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Her death would be better
2. What does Mr. Bennet admit? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: It was his fault
3. What is revealed about Wickham? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He has large debts
4. How does Mr. Bennet treat Kitty? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He jokes harshly about confining her
5. What does Collins's letter satirize? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Hypocritical moralizing

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLVIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Collins writes to “condole with you” saying Lydia's death would have been better. Mr. Bennet returns, admitting his fault but joking bitterly; Wickham's debts are exposed.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLVIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLVIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “And in the wretched state of his own finances, there was a very powerful motive for secrecy, in addition to his fear of discovery by Lydia’s relations, for it had just transpired that he had left gaming debts behind…” What does “transpired” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: transpired: became known.
10. Reread: “His family knew him to be on all common occasions, a most negligent and dilatory correspondent, but at such a time, they had hoped for exertion.” What does “dilatory” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: dilatory: slow; tending to delay.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLVIII” suggest about letters of judgment? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Collins's cruel 'comfort' satirizes self-righteous religion.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about letters of judgment? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12): Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. On characterization: Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The whole party were in hopes of a letter from Mr.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Collins writes to “condole with you” saying Lydia's death would have been better. Mr. Bennet returns, admitting his fault but joking bitterly; Wickham's debts are exposed.
6. How does “Chapter XLVIII” build on “Chapter XLVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.

Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does. On characterization: Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why is Collins's letter so offensive?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12): Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Moralizing letters were a social genre; Collins's is hypocritical. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Collins's cruel 'comfort' satirizes self-righteous religion.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12): Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. On characterization: Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XLVIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about letters of judgment? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLVIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12): Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XLVIII” treats letters of judgment with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XLIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12): Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about letters of judgment? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Useful evidence: “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23): He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does. Theme link: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mr. Bennet treat Kitty?
    A. He praises her
    B. He ignores her
    C. He sends her away
    D. He jokes harshly about confining her

    Key: D (He jokes harshly about confining her)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Bennet, I am inclined to think that her own disposition must be naturally bad, or she could not be guilty of such an enormity, at so early an age.", what does "enormity" most nearly mean?
    A. to give up
    B. unbearable
    C. in a polite manner
    D. great wickedness

    Key: D (great wickedness)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Collins say about Lydia?
    A. She should be forgiven
    B. Her death would be better
    C. She is brave
    D. He will marry her

    Key: B (Her death would be better)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12: "The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in _____ of this"

    Key: comparison
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mr. Bennet admit?
    A. He is ill
    B. It was his fault
    C. He will leave home
    D. Lydia is innocent

    Key: B (It was his fault)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "They agree with me in _____ that this false step in one daughter, will be injurious to the fortunes of all the others, for who, as Lady Catherine herself condescendingly says, will connect themselves with such a family." Word bank: dilatory, transpired, enormity, apprehending

    Key: apprehending
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "No arguments shall be wanting on my part, that can _____ so severe a misfortune; or that may comfort you, under a circumstance that must be of all others most afflicting to a parent's mind." Word bank: alleviate, transpired, dilatory, enormity

    Key: alleviate

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet seemed wholly _____ at present to leave London, and promised to write again very soon.” Word bank: transpired, enormity, disinclined, dilatory

   Key: disinclined

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Everybody declared that he was the wickedest young man in the world; and everybody began to find out, that they had always _____ the appearance of his goodness.” Word bank: distrusted, transpired, dilatory, enormity

   Key: distrusted

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12)

    A. Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.
    B. His reason.
    C. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.
    D. Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.

    Key: A (Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVIII”?

    A. Marriage as a social goal
    B. Letters of judgment
    C. Visit to Hunsford
    D. The letter

    Key: B (Letters of judgment)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23)

    A. Elizabeth's refusal.
    B. The cause of separation.
    C. Jane's question.
    D. Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.

    Key: D (Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “It will pass away soon enough” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVIII”? Letters arrive from Mr. Gardiner and from Mr. Collins, whose "consolation" is a cruelty.

    A. Plot
    B. Metaphor
    C. Epistolary
    D. Setting

Key: C (Epistolary)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's admission, the most serious line he speaks.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His family knew him to be on all common occasions, a most negligent and dilatory correspondent, but at such a time, they had hoped for exertion.”, what does “dilatory” most nearly mean?

    A. slow; tending to delay
    B. very formal and polite
    C. exemption from punishment or loss
    D. pleasing; being right for

    Key: A (slow; tending to delay)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is revealed about Wickham?

    A. He has large debts
    B. He is rich
    C. He is married
    D. He is a hero

    Key: A (He has large debts)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “And in the wretched state of his own finances, there was a very powerful motive for secrecy, in addition to his fear of discovery by Lydia’s relations, for it had just transpired that he had left gaming debts behind…”, what does “transpired” most nearly mean?

    A. rising and falling; changing again and again
    B. approached and spoken to
    C. became known
    D. in an unjust manner

    Key: C (became known)

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this” (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLVIII”? Mr. Bennet returns, admits blame in a rare serious moment, then recovers his irony at Kitty's expense.

    A. Hyperbole
    B. Characterization
    C. Plot
    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: B (Characterization)

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23: "It will pass away soon _____"

    Key: enough

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "And in the wretched state of his own finances, there was a very powerful motive for secrecy, in addition to his fear of discovery by Lydia's relations, for it had just transpired that he had left gaming debts behind…", what does "finances" most nearly mean?

    A. cut short
    B. a man who has recently been married
    C. with care and persistence
    D. assets in the form of money

    Key: D (assets in the form of money)

24. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "It will pass away soon enough" (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23)

    A. Darcy's self-knowledge.
    B. He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.
    C. Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.
    D. Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.

    Key: B (He predicts his remorse will fade, and it does.)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 23).

    Sample answer: He says "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" and adds "it will pass away soon enough," honest about both his guilt and his character.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "The death of your daughter would have been a blessing in comparison of this" (Chapter XLVIII, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Collins's letter: hypocrisy dressed as piety.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "The crisis forces Mr. Bennet to admit his failure, though he expects the feeling not to last." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He says "let me once in my life feel how much I have been to blame" and adds "it will pass away soon enough," honest about both his guilt and his character.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XLVIII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Collins says Lydia's death "would have been a blessing" by comparison: the society's harshest view, made grotesque.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 7, 4, 18, 5, 3, 19, 6, 20, 13, 11, 10, 15, 21, 14, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	22, 2, 23, 9, 8, 18, 10, 11, 24, 13, 12, 25, 15, 14, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	7, 8, 23, 3, 18, 12, 24, 13, 20, 10, 14, 15, 25, 21, 28, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	7, 6, 18, 17, 20, 24, 10, 12, 11, 25, 14, 21, 15, 27, 26, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 9, 4, 13, 10, 20, 24, 12, 25, 14, 21, 15, 28, 27, 16, 26	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 7, 19, 11, 13, 20, 10, 24, 21, 25, 14, 15, 16, 26, 28, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	7, 6, 12, 20, 10, 11, 13, 24, 21, 25, 15, 14, 28, 27, 16, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	7, 6, 11, 10, 13, 20, 12, 24, 25, 15, 14, 21, 16, 26, 28, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	8, 7, 20, 12, 13, 11, 24, 10, 25, 15, 21, 14, 28, 16, 26, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	4, 7, 11, 24, 12, 13, 20, 10, 15, 25, 14, 21, 28, 16, 26, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLVIII,” how does Austen show letters of judgment? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLVIII, how does Austen develop the idea of letters of judgment? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLVIII develops the idea of letters of judgment. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of letters of judgment. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLVIII suggests about letters of judgment. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter XLVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of letters of judgment. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of letters of judgment responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of letters of judgment follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLVIII and its treatment of letters of judgment. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLVIII as evidence for a larger claim about letters of judgment in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of letters of judgment. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Bennet, I am inclined to think that her own disposition must be naturally bad, or she could not be guilty of such an enormity, at so early an age.

   As used in the text, what does the word “enormity” most nearly mean?

   A. characterized by neglect and undue lack of concern
   B. make unwilling
   C. great wickedness
   D. a crafty and involved plot to achieve your (usually sinister) ends

2. The whole party were in hopes of a letter from Mr. Bennet the next morning, but the post came in without bringing a single line from him. His family knew him to be on all common occasions, a most negligent and dilatory correspondent, but at such a time, they had hoped for exertion. They were forced to conclude that he had no pleasing intelligence to send, but even of that they would have been glad to be certain. Mr. Gardiner had waited only for the letters before he set off.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLVIII”?

   A. Neighbors and gossip
   B. Letters of judgment
   C. Farewells at Hunsford
   D. Family in crisis

SAT key: 1. C (great wickedness); 2. B (Letters of judgment)

Lesson 50: Chapter XLIX

Focus: a costly solution

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in “Chapter XLIX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): Money is used to make Wickham marry Lydia; discuss marriage as damage control and who benefits.
Student preview: Money is paid to make a man marry a 16-year-old.
Suggested language: “Who benefits from this marriage? Who pays?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Mr. Gardiner writes that Lydia and Wickham have been found and will marry on modest terms. Mr. Bennet suspects Gardiner paid a great deal. Mrs. Bennet is overjoyed.

Background: Settlements guaranteed income in marriage; paying a man to marry was a way to restore honor.

Significance: Mrs. Bennet's joy ironically ignores the shame and cost.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because.... Content note before we start: Money is paid to make a man marry a 16-year-old.
Prompt: Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: paddock — a small fenced field for horses; cambric — a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth; consenting — agreeing; affording — be able to spare or give up; humbled — cause to be unpretentious. “cambric”: From Cambrai, a French commune where it was manufactured. “consenting”: Recorded in Middle English - since circa 1225, borrowed from Old French consentir, from Latin cōnsentīre "to agree; to assent, consent", itself from com- "with" + sentiō "to feel" (whence con-).
Words: paddock: a small fenced field for horses · cambric: a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth · consenting: agreeing · affording: be able to spare or give up · humbled: cause to be unpretentious

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Settlements guaranteed income in marriage; paying a man to marry was a way to restore honor. Mrs. Bennet's joy ironically ignores the shame and cost. Epistolary: Mr. Gardiner writes that Wickham will marry Lydia on modest terms; Mr. Bennet suspects someone has paid far more. Characterization: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "in what part of London they were. The particulars, I reserve till we meet. It is enough to know they are discovered" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 15).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52). Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. That is epistolary at work: Mr. Gardiner writes that Wickham will marry Lydia on modest terms; Mr. Bennet suspects someone has paid far more.

> Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52). Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. That is epistolary at work: Mr. Gardiner writes that Wickham will marry Lydia on modest terms; Mr. Bennet suspects someone has paid far more.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Jane's charitable hope. Look at the craft: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. (Jane's charitable hope.)

> His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Jane's charitable hope. Look at the craft: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. (Jane's charitable hope.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a costly solution? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIX develops the idea of a costly solution. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. When the text says “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet rejoices "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds," while Elizabeth sees that "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity" can be expected for Lydia.

Task: Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a costly solution? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XLIX develops the idea of a costly solution. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. When the text says “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet rejoices "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds," while Elizabeth sees that "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity" can be expected for Lydia.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic? Ask: in this society, is a bad marriage better than no marriage for Lydia? For her sisters?

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic?

Facilitation: Ask: in this society, is a bad marriage better than no marriage for Lydia? For her sisters?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a costly solution? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. (“neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister”, Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a costly solution? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. (“neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister”, Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how epistolary shapes a costly solution. Key takeaway: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Epistolary: Mr. Gardiner writes that Wickham will marry Lydia on modest terms; Mr. Bennet suspects someone has paid far more.
- Characterization: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “in what part of London they were. The particulars, I reserve till we meet. It is enough to know they are discovered” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 15).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “been here this half hour, and master has had a letter” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52) Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.
- “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42) Jane's charitable hope.
- “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56) Elizabeth's realistic view.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness.
Evidence: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56)
Reasoning: Mrs. Bennet rejoices "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds," while Elizabeth sees that "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity" can be expected for Lydia.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
paddock (noun)	a small fenced field for horses	Upon this information, they instantly passed through the hall once more, and ran across the lawn after their father, who was deliberately pursuing his way towards a small wood on one side of the paddock.
cambric (noun)	a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth	She was then proceeding to all the particulars of calico, muslin, and cambric, and would shortly have dictated some very plentiful orders, had not Jane, though with some difficulty, persuaded her to wait, till her father was at leisure to be consulted.	“cambric”: From Cambrai, a French commune where it was manufactured. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/cambric#Etymology)
consenting (verb)	agreeing	His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking.	“consenting”: Recorded in Middle English - since circa 1225, borrowed from Old French consentir, from Latin cōnsentīre "to agree; to assent, consent", itself from com- "with" + sentiō "to feel" (whence con-). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consent#Etymology) affording (verb)	be able to spare or give up	Their taking her home, and affording her their personal protection and countenance, is such a sacrifice to her advantage as years of gratitude cannot enough acknowledge.
humbled (verb)	cause to be unpretentious	She was disturbed by no fear for her felicity, nor humbled by any remembrance of her misconduct.
sixpence (noun)	a small coin of the United Kingdom worth six pennies; not minted since 1970	Gardiner has done for them, because Wickham has not sixpence of his own.	“sixpence”: From six + pence. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/sixpence#Etymology)
pledged (verb)	promised	We are persuaded that he has pledged himself to assist Mr.
		My dear Jane, I am in such a flutter, that I am sure I can’t flutter (noun)	a state of nervous excitement	write; so I will dictate, and you write for me.

discharged (verb)	paid off	The world has been deceived in that respect; and I am happy to say, there will be some little money, even when all his debts are discharged, to settle on my niece, in addition to her own fortune.	“discharged”: From Middle English dischargen, from Old French deschargier "to unload", from Late Latin discarricāre "unload". By surface analysis, dis- + charge. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/discharge#Etymology)
consulted (verb)	get or ask advice from	She was then proceeding to all the particulars of calico, muslin, and cambric, and would shortly have dictated some very plentiful orders, had not Jane, though with some difficulty, persuaded her to wait, till her father was at leisure to be consulted.	“consulted”: From Middle French consulter, from Latin cōnsultum, from cōnsultus, from cōnsulō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consult#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who writes with news? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Gardiner
2. What is agreed? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia and Wickham will marry
3. What does Mr. Bennet suspect? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Gardiner paid much money
4. How does Mrs. Bennet react to the news that Lydia will marry? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Overjoyed
5. Why was money needed? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To persuade Wickham to marry
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XLIX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Gardiner writes that Lydia and Wickham have been found and will marry on modest terms. Mr. Bennet suspects Gardiner paid a great deal. Mrs. Bennet is overjoyed.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XLIX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XLIX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Upon this information, they instantly passed through the hall once more, and ran across the lawn after their father, who was deliberately pursuing his way towards a small wood on one side of the paddock.” What does “paddock” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: paddock: a small fenced field for horses.
10. Reread: “She was then proceeding to all the particulars of calico, muslin, and cambric, and would shortly have dictated some very plentiful orders, had not Jane, though with some difficulty, persuaded her to wait, till her…” What does “cambric” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: cambric: a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XLIX” suggest about a costly solution? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Bennet's joy ironically ignores the shame and cost.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about a costly solution? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52): Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““That is very true,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XLIX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Gardiner writes that Lydia and Wickham have been found and will marry on modest terms. Mr. Bennet suspects Gardiner paid a great deal. Mrs. Bennet is overjoyed.
6. How does “Chapter XLIX” build on “Chapter XLVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42): Jane's charitable hope. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56): Elizabeth's realistic view. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: "Why is Mrs. Bennet's reaction ironic?" Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52): Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Settlements guaranteed income in marriage; paying a man to marry was a way to restore honor. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: "His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42): Jane's charitable hope. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Mrs. Bennet's joy ironically ignores the shame and cost." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56): Elizabeth's realistic view. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds" (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52): Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. On characterization: Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XLIX" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a costly solution? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42): Jane's charitable hope. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XLIX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56): Elizabeth's realistic view. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52): Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42): Jane's charitable hope. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XLIX” treats a costly solution with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56): Elizabeth's realistic view. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter L” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52): Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a costly solution? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42): Jane's charitable hope. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Useful evidence: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56): Elizabeth's realistic view. Theme link: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking.”, what does “consenting” most nearly mean?
   A. agreeing
   B. harmony of all the parts; good order
   C. to speed up; to hasten
   D. to break in on; to stop

   Key: A (agreeing)
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why was money needed?
   A. To persuade Wickham to marry
   B. To buy a house
   C. To pay Lydia's school
   D. To pay the doctor

   Key: A (To persuade Wickham to marry)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is agreed?
   A. Lydia joins a convent
   B. Lydia returns unmarried

   C. Lydia and Wickham will marry
   D. Wickham goes to prison

   Key: C (Lydia and Wickham will marry)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “My dear Jane, I am in such a _____, that I am sure I can’t write; so I will dictate, and you write for me.” Word bank: flutter, consenting, paddock, cambric

   Key: flutter
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52: “Mrs. _____! How well it sounds”

   Key: Wickham
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She was disturbed by no fear for her felicity, nor _____ by any remembrance of her misconduct.” Word bank: consenting, paddock, cambric, humbled

   Key: humbled
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mr. Bennet suspect?
   A. Darcy is dead
   B. Mr. Gardiner paid much money
   C. Wickham is rich
   D. Lydia lied

   Key: B (Mr. Gardiner paid much money)
8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42: “His _____ to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking”

   Key: consenting
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “We are persuaded that he has _____ himself to assist Mr.” Word bank: pledged, cambric, consenting, paddock

   Key: pledged
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIX”?
    A. Cold reception
    B. Trusted relatives
    C. A costly solution
    D. A charming stranger

    Key: C (A costly solution)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane's charitable hope.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42)
    A. Jane's charitable hope.

B. Darcy's self-knowledge.
C. The Gardiners honoured.
D. Opening line: crisp, decisive.

Key: A (Jane's charitable hope.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Elizabeth's realistic view.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name.

A. First impressions and prejudice
B. Class and social mobility
C. Pride and self-knowledge
D. Marriage and money

Key: D (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet rejoices "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds," while Elizabeth sees that "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity" can be expected for Lydia.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who writes with news?

A. Mr. Gardiner
B. Darcy
C. Wickham
D. Collins

Key: A (Mr. Gardiner)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56: “neither rational happiness nor worldly _____, could be justly expected for her sister”

Key: prosperity

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Their taking her home, and affording her their personal protection and countenance, is such a sacrifice to her advantage as years of gratitude cannot enough acknowledge.”, what does “affording” most nearly mean?

A. a formally arranged gathering
B. be able to spare or give up
C. an affront to one's dignity or self-esteem
D. with care and persistence

Key: B (be able to spare or give up)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She was then proceeding to all the particulars of calico, muslin, and cambric, and would shortly have dictated some very plentiful orders, had not Jane, though with some difficulty, persuaded her to wait, till her…”, what does “cambric” most nearly mean?
    - A. came back to life; returned
    - B. direct toward itself or oneself by means of some psychological power or physical attributes
    - C. be false to; be dishonest with
    - D. a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth

    Key: D (a fine, thin cotton or linen cloth)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Upon this information, they instantly passed through the hall once more, and ran across the lawn after their father, who was deliberately pursuing his way towards a small wood on one side of the paddock.”, what does “paddock” most nearly mean?
    - A. cause to feel resentment or indignation
    - B. a small fenced field for horses
    - C. lack of attention
    - D. reject with contempt

    Key: B (a small fenced field for horses)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56)
    - A. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    - B. Mr. Bennet's teasing opening announces a visitor.
    - C. Elizabeth's realistic view.
    - D. Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's realistic view.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIX”? Mr. Gardiner writes that Wickham will marry Lydia on modest terms; Mr. Bennet suspects someone has paid far more.
    - A. Plot
    - B. Point of view
    - C. Epistolary
    - D. Hyperbole

    Key: C (Epistolary)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 42) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Jane's charitable hope.

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52)
    - A. Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.
    - B. Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.
    - C. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    - D. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.

Key: A (Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.)

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLIX”? Mrs. Bennet swings from despair to triumph in a moment, planning wedding clothes.
    A. Tone / mood
    B. Plot
    C. Alliteration
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLIX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Lydia's marriage is a financial transaction that rescues the family's name.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet react to the news that Lydia will marry?
    A. Angry
    B. Overjoyed
    C. Ashamed
    D. Silent

    Key: B (Overjoyed)

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The marriage rescues the family's reputation but not Lydia's happiness. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity, could be justly expected for her sister” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 56).

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet rejoices "Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds," while Elizabeth sees that "neither rational happiness nor worldly prosperity" can be expected for Lydia.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mrs. Wickham! How well it sounds” (Chapter XLIX, paragraph 52) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's delight: the name matters, not the man.

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Gardiner has done for them, because Wickham has not _____ of his own.” Word bank: sixpence, paddock, consenting, cambric

    Key: sixpence

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 8, 1, 7, 19, 20, 21, 13, 22, 11, 10, 23, 14, 15, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 6, 3, 19, 17, 21, 10, 22, 13, 25, 11, 14, 26, 23, 16, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 6, 28, 2, 20, 25, 13, 22, 10, 11, 14, 23, 26, 29, 24, 30	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 31, 6, 28, 11, 12, 10, 13, 22, 26, 14, 23, 29, 24, 30, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 9, 1, 13, 25, 11, 12, 14, 29, 26, 15, 23, 30, 24, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4

College Freshman	6, 5, 2, 13, 25, 10, 11, 14, 23, 15, 26, 29, 16, 24, 30, 27	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 6, 12, 25, 13, 10, 22, 29, 15, 26, 23, 14, 27, 24, 30, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	6, 9, 11, 22, 25, 12, 10, 29, 15, 26, 23, 14, 27, 16, 24, 30	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 6, 11, 22, 10, 12, 25, 23, 26, 14, 29, 15, 27, 30, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	6, 31, 22, 13, 25, 12, 10, 29, 23, 14, 15, 26, 24, 30, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XLIX,” how does Austen show a costly solution? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter XLIX, how does Austen develop the idea of a costly solution? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter XLIX develops the idea of a costly solution. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XLIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of a costly solution. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XLIX suggests about a costly solution. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses plot in Chapter XLIX to complicate the reader's understanding of a costly solution. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XLIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a costly solution responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter XLIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a costly solution follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XLIX and its treatment of a costly solution. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XLIX as evidence for a larger claim about a costly solution in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XLIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a costly solution. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. His consenting to marry her is a proof, I will believe, that he is come to a right way of thinking.

   As used in the text, what does the word “consenting” most nearly mean?

   A. agreeing
   B. get or ask advice from
   C. a state of nervous excitement
   D. paid off

2. “That is very true,” said Elizabeth; “though it had not occurred to me before. His debts to be discharged, and something still to remain! Oh! it must be my uncle’s doings! Generous, good man, I am afraid he has distressed himself. A small sum could not do all this.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLIX”?

   A. A charming stranger
   B. A costly solution
   C. A journey and a mercenary suitor
   D. Visit to Hunsford

SAT key: 1. A (agreeing); 2. B (A costly solution)

Lesson 51: Chapter L

Focus: too late

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in "Chapter L" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): The arrangement is completed; keep the framing on power and consent.
Student preview: The marriage arrangement continues.
Suggested language: "What choices did Lydia really have?"

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth realizes Darcy is the man who would have suited her best, just as she believes the family disgrace has ended her chances. Wickham is to join the regulars in the north.

Background: Austen often places realization at the point where hope seems lost.

Significance: Elizabeth's longing reflects her full change of heart.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because…. Content note before we start: The marriage arrangement continues.
Prompt: Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: precluding — making impossible; eloping — running away secretly to marry; regulars — the regular (professional) army; subjoin — add to the end; muslins — plain-woven cotton fabric.
Words: precluding: making impossible · eloping: running away secretly to marry · regulars: the regular (professional) army · subjoin: add to the end · muslins: plain-woven cotton fabric

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Austen often places realization at the point where hope seems lost. Elizabeth's longing reflects her full change of heart. Characterization: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible. Irony: The narrator describes the ideal marriage Elizabeth imagines, in the past conditional: what "could" have been. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "over, he naturally returned to all his former indolence. His letter was soon dispatched; for though dilatory in undertaking business, he was" (Chapter L, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children" (Chapter L, paragraph 1). Mr. Bennet's regret. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible.

> instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children
> (Chapter L, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children" (Chapter L, paragraph 1). Mr. Bennet's regret. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Irony of timing: the realization arrives too late. This links to pride and prejudice: only when the barrier is her family's disgrace, not her opinion, does she see what she wants. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: The cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. (Elizabeth's realization comes too late.)

> She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet
> (Chapter L, paragraph 13)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Irony of timing: the realization arrives too late. This links to pride and prejudice: only when the barrier is her family's disgrace, not her opinion, does she see what she wants.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: The cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. (Elizabeth's realization comes too late.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about too late? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter L develops the idea of too late. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. When the text says "She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet" (Chapter L, paragraph 13), it shows this directly. She "was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet"; the semicolon holds realization and loss together.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about too late? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter L develops the idea of too late. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. When the text says "She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet" (Chapter L, paragraph 13), it shows this directly. She "was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet"; the semicolon holds realization and loss together.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now? Ask: what does "connubial felicity" mean for Austen? List the qualities the narrator gives the imagined marriage.

Anchor question: Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now?

Facilitation: Ask: what does "connubial felicity" mean for Austen? List the qualities the narrator gives the imagined marriage.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about too late? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. ("She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet", Chapter L, paragraph 13). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about too late? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. ("She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet", Chapter L, paragraph 13). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes too late. Key takeaway: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible.
- Irony: The narrator describes the ideal marriage Elizabeth imagines, in the past conditional: what "could" have been.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “over, he naturally returned to all his former indolence. His letter was soon dispatched; for though dilatory in undertaking business, he was” (Chapter L, paragraph 5).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “the North, just when she had expected most pleasure and pride in her company, for she had by no means given up” (Chapter L, paragraph 21).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1) Mr. Bennet's regret.
- “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13) Elizabeth's realization comes too late.
- “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16) The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it.
Evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13)
Reasoning: She "was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet"; the semicolon holds realization and loss together.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
precluding (verb)	making impossible	An union of a different tendency, and precluding the possibility of the other, was soon to be formed in their family.
eloping (verb)	running away secretly to marry	She was more alive to the disgrace, which the want of new clothes must reflect on her daughter's nuptials, than to any sense of shame at her eloping and living with Wickham, a fortnight before they took place.
regulars (noun)	the regular (professional) army	Wickham's intention to go into the regulars; and, among his former friends, there are still some who are able and willing to assist him in the army.
subjoin (verb)	add to the end	And will you give yourself the trouble of carrying similar assurances to his creditors in Meryton, of whom I shall subjoin a list, according to his information.
muslins (noun)	plain-woven cotton fabric	The marriage of a daughter, which had been the first object of her wishes since Jane was sixteen, was now on the point of accomplishment, and her thoughts and her words ran wholly on those attendants of elegant nuptials, fine muslins, new carriages, and servants.
dutifully (adverb)	out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner	She is well, and begs to be dutifully remembered to you and her mother.
spurned (verb)	reject with contempt	What a triumph for him, as she often thought, could he know that the proposals which she had proudly spurned only four months ago, would now have been gladly and gratefully received!	"spurned": From Middle English spurnen, spornen, from Old English spurnan "to strike against, kick, spurn, reject; stumble", from Proto-Germanic *spurnaną "to tread, kick, knock out", from Proto-Indo-European *sperH-. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/spurn#Etymology)
impassable (adjective)	incapable of being passed	Not, however, from any fear of disadvantage from it, individually to herself; for at any rate, there seemed a gulf impassable between them.

secluded (verb)	kept away from other people	To be sure it would have been more for the advantage of conversation, had Miss Lydia Bennet come upon the town; or, as the happiest alternative, been secluded from the world, in some distant farm house.	"secluded": From Latin secludo. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/seclude#Etymology)
scorned (verb)	look down on with disdain	Darcy would connect himself with a family, where to every other objection would now be added, an alliance and relationship of the nearest kind with the man whom he so justly scorned.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth realize? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy suits her best
2. Why does she think it is too late? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The family disgrace
3. Where will Wickham be stationed? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: In the north
4. How does Mrs. Bennet plan for Lydia? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Wants a grand house for her
5. What does Mr. Bennet refuse? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: To receive the couple at first
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter L" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth realizes Darcy is the man who would have suited her best, just as she believes the family disgrace has ended her chances. Wickham is to join the regulars in the north.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter L"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter L” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “An union of a different tendency, and precluding the possibility of the other, was soon to be formed in their family.” What does “precluding” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: precluding: making impossible.
10. Reread: “She was more alive to the disgrace, which the want of new clothes must reflect on her daughter’s nuptials, than to any sense of shame at her eloping and living with Wickham, a fortnight before they took place.” What does “eloping” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: eloping: running away secretly to marry.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter L” suggest about too late? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's longing reflects her full change of heart.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about too late? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's regret. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The good news quickly spread through the house; and with proportionate speed through the neighbourhood.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter L”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth realizes Darcy is the man who would have suited her best, just as she believes the family disgrace has ended her chances. Wickham is to join the regulars in the north.
6. How does “Chapter L” build on “Chapter XLIX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's realization comes too late. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16): The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal. On characterization: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Elizabeth recognize her love only now?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's regret. On irony: The narrator describes the ideal marriage Elizabeth imagines, in the past conditional: what "could" have been. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Austen often places realization at the point where hope seems lost. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's realization comes too late. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's longing reflects her full change of heart.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16): The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's regret. On characterization: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter L” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about too late? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's realization comes too late. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter L”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16): The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's regret. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's realization comes too late. On characterization: Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter L” treats too late with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16): The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter LI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1): Mr. Bennet's regret. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about too late? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13): Elizabeth's realization comes too late. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Useful evidence: “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16): The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal. Theme link: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The marriage of a daughter, which had been the first object of her wishes since Jane was sixteen, was now on the point of accomplishment, and her thoughts and her words ran wholly on those attendants of elegant nuptials, fine _____, new carriages, and…” Word bank: eloping, muslins, regulars, precluding

   Key: muslins

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Wickham's intention to go into the regulars; and, among his former friends, there are still some who are able and willing to assist him in the army.", what does "regulars" most nearly mean?

   A. a storehouse for goods and merchandise
   B. consider bad or wrong
   C. the regular (professional) army
   D. put to use

   Key: C (the regular (professional) army)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does she think it is too late?

   A. She is poor
   B. The family disgrace
   C. She is ill
   D. Darcy is married

   Key: B (The family disgrace)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "She is well, and begs to be _____ remembered to you and her mother." Word bank: eloping, dutifully, regulars, precluding

   Key: dutifully

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "She was more alive to the disgrace, which the want of new clothes must reflect on her daughter's nuptials, than to any sense of shame at her eloping and living with Wickham, a fortnight before they took place.", what does "eloping" most nearly mean?

   A. running away secretly to marry
   B. behaving as if superior to others
   C. propriety in manners and conduct
   D. a light round box for hats

   Key: A (running away secretly to marry)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where will Wickham be stationed?

   A. In Brighton
   B. In India
   C. In the north
   D. In London

   Key: C (In the north)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth realize?

   A. She loves Wickham
   B. Darcy suits her best
   C. She will marry Collins
   D. She hates Darcy

   Key: B (Darcy suits her best)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet plan for Lydia?

   A. Wants nothing
   B. Wants a grand house for her

   C. Wants her sent away
   D. Wants her to work

   Key: B (Wants a grand house for her)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mr. Bennet refuse?
   A. To speak to Jane
   B. To pay anything
   C. To receive the couple at first
   D. To read letters

   Key: C (To receive the couple at first)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's regret.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's realization comes too late.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13)
    A. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.
    B. Elizabeth's realization comes too late.
    C. Darcy's change is read as proof of love.
    D. Jane's charitable hope.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's realization comes too late.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1)
    A. Mr. Bennet's regret.
    B. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
    C. Elizabeth's rebuttal by analogy.
    D. Darcy's change is read as proof of love.

    Key: A (Mr. Bennet's regret.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13).

    Sample answer: She "was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet"; the semicolon holds realization and loss together.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete.
    A. Class and social mobility
    B. First impressions and prejudice

C. Marriage and money
D. Pride and self-knowledge

Key: C (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet” (Chapter L, paragraph 13) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's realization comes too late.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “An union of a different tendency, and precluding the possibility of the other, was soon to be formed in their family.”, what does “precluding” most nearly mean?

    A. looking at; regarding
    B. a large entrance or reception room or area
    C. showing; giving evidence of
    D. making impossible

    Key: D (making impossible)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Not, however, from any fear of disadvantage from it, individually to herself; for at any rate, there seemed a gulf _____ between them.”

    Word bank: regulars, impassable, precluding, eloping

    Key: impassable

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “And will you give yourself the trouble of carrying similar assurances to his creditors in Meryton, of whom I shall subjoin a list, according to his information.”, what does “subjoin” most nearly mean?

    A. drawn out with difficulty
    B. put in opposition to show or emphasize differences
    C. add to the end
    D. remembering; aware

    Key: C (add to the end)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter L, paragraph 13: “She was _____ that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet”

    Key: convinced

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16)

    A. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.
    B. The dramatic irony stated directly.
    C. The Gardiners honoured.
    D. The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.

    Key: D (The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “But no such happy marriage could now teach the admiring multitude what connubial felicity really was” (Chapter L, paragraph 16). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The narrator's gently ironic picture of the lost ideal.

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter L”? The narrator describes the ideal marriage Elizabeth imagines, in the past conditional: what "could" have been.
    - A. Symbolism
    - B. Alliteration
    - C. Irony
    - D. Metaphor

    Key: C (Irony)
24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth recognizes her love for Darcy just when circumstances seem to forbid it.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She "was convinced that she could have been happy with him; when it was no longer likely they should meet"; the semicolon holds realization and loss together.
25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter L, paragraph 1: “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better _____ of his children”

    Key: provision
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter L”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: the cost of Mr. Bennet's carelessness becomes concrete.
27. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter L”?
    - A. Renewed hope
    - B. Too late
    - C. Pompous flattery
    - D. Sisters and judgment

    Key: B (Too late)
28. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter L”? Mr. Bennet regrets not having saved money for his family; Elizabeth realizes she could have been happy with Darcy just when it seems impossible.
    - A. Theme
    - B. Characterization
    - C. Setting
    - D. Alliteration

    Key: B (Characterization)
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “instead of spending his whole income, he had laid by an annual sum, for the better provision of his children” (Chapter L, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's regret.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 6, 19, 1, 20, 8, 7, 13, 11, 12, 21, 15, 22, 23, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1

HS Sophomore	20, 9, 1, 8, 5, 18, 10, 13, 21, 11, 12, 22, 14, 15, 16, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 25, 17, 9, 8, 10, 12, 13, 21, 11, 23, 15, 22, 14, 26, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 4, 7, 5, 13, 27, 21, 11, 12, 22, 28, 14, 23, 29, 24, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 4, 17, 10, 27, 11, 21, 14, 22, 23, 28, 15, 26, 29, 24, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 4, 3, 10, 11, 13, 27, 23, 22, 14, 28, 15, 16, 29, 26, 24	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 18, 12, 10, 11, 13, 21, 15, 23, 28, 22, 14, 29, 24, 16, 26	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 4, 10, 11, 21, 12, 13, 28, 23, 22, 15, 14, 24, 26, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 4, 13, 27, 21, 11, 10, 22, 28, 23, 14, 15, 26, 16, 29, 24	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 4, 12, 13, 11, 10, 21, 28, 15, 23, 14, 22, 24, 29, 16, 26	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter L,” how does Austen show too late? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter L, how does Austen develop the idea of too late? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter L develops the idea of too late. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter L (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of too late. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter L suggests about too late. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter L to complicate the reader's understanding of too late. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter L within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of too late responds to that context.

Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter L alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of too late follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter L and its treatment of too late. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter L as evidence for a larger claim about too late in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter L as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of too late. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Wickham's intention to go into the regulars; and, among his former friends, there are still some who are able and willing to assist him in the army.

   As used in the text, what does the word “regulars” most nearly mean?

   A. incapable of being passed

   B. kept away from other people

   C. the regular (professional) army

   D. look down on with disdain

2. The good news quickly spread through the house; and with proportionate speed through the neighbourhood. It was borne in the latter with decent philosophy. To be sure it would have been more for the advantage of conversation, had Miss Lydia Bennet come upon the town; or, as the happiest alternative, been secluded from the world, in some distant farm house. But there was much to be talked of, in marrying her; and the good-natured wishes for her well-doing, which had proceeded before, from all the spiteful old ladies in Meryton, lost but little of their spirit in this change of circumstances, because with such a husband, her misery was considered certain.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter L”?

   A. Too late

   B. Marriage as a social goal

   C. Doubts and preparations

D. Farewells at Hunsford

SAT key: 1. C (the regular (professional) army); 2. A (Too late)

Lesson 52: Chapter LI

Focus: shameless return

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): Lydia, now married at 16, boasts about it; avoid mocking her and discuss how she was failed by adults.
Student preview: Lydia returns married and proud of it.
Suggested language: “Why might Lydia not see her situation clearly?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Lydia and Wickham visit Longbourn, unashamed. Lydia boasts of being married and lets slip that Darcy attended her wedding.

Background: A married woman outranked her unmarried sisters socially, which Lydia flaunts.

Significance: The slip reveals Darcy's secret role.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does Lydia's boasting show about her values? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because…. Content note before we start: Lydia returns married and proud of it.
Prompt: What does Lydia's boasting show about her values?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Lydia's shamelessness is complete.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: stratagems — tricks or schemes; austerity — sternness; severity; breakfasted — ate breakfast; partners — dance partners; fearless — oblivious of dangers or perils or calmly resolute in facing them. “stratagems”: From Middle English stratageme, from Old French stratageme, from Latin strategema, from Ancient Greek στρατήγημα "the act of a general, a piece of generalship", from στρατηγέω "to be a general, command an army", from στρατηγός "a general, the leader or commander of an army". See strategy. “austerity”: From Ancient Greek αὐστηρότης "bitter, harsh". Morphologically austere + -ity.
Words: stratagems: tricks or schemes · austerity: sternness; severity · breakfasted: ate breakfast · partners: dance partners · fearless: oblivious of dangers or perils or calmly resolute in facing them

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

A married woman outranked her unmarried sisters socially, which Lydia flaunts. The slip reveals Darcy's secret role. Characterization: Lydia returns married and unashamed, boasting of her ring and of precedence over her sisters. Characterization: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "carriage drove up to the door; her husband looked impenetrably grave; her daughters, alarmed, anxious, uneasy" (Chapter LI, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4). The narrator's list of five adjectives. That is characterization at work: Lydia returns married and unashamed, boasting of her ring and of precedence over her sisters.

> Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless (Chapter LI, paragraph 4)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4). The narrator's list of five adjectives. That is characterization at work: Lydia returns married and unashamed, boasting of her ring and of precedence over her sisters.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Her vanity in the title. Look at the craft: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. (Her vanity in the title.)

> to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," by each of them (Chapter LI, paragraph 10)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Her vanity in the title. Look at the craft: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. (Her vanity in the title.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about shameless return? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LI develops the idea of shameless return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. When the text says "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless," and she longs to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," prizing the title over the man.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about shameless return? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LI develops the idea of shameless return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. When the text says "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless," and she longs to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," prizing the title over the man.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Lydia's boasting show about her values? Ask: what, if anything, has the family learned?

Anchor question: What does Lydia's boasting show about her values?

Facilitation: Ask: what, if anything, has the family learned?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about shameless return? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. ("Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless", Chapter LI, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about shameless return? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. ("Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless", Chapter LI, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes shameless return. Key takeaway: Lydia's shamelessness is complete.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Lydia returns married and unashamed, boasting of her ring and of precedence over her sisters.
- Characterization: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: Lydia's shamelessness is complete.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “carriage drove up to the door; her husband looked impenetrably grave; her daughters, alarmed, anxious, uneasy” (Chapter LI, paragraph 2).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “bear such suspense; and hastily seizing a sheet of paper, wrote a short letter to her aunt, to request an explanation of” (Chapter LI, paragraph 32).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4) The narrator's list of five adjectives.
- “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10) Her vanity in the title.
- “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33) Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing.
Evidence: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4)
Reasoning: "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless," and she longs to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," prizing the title over the man.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
stratagems (noun)	tricks or schemes	“Not that I shall though,” she added to herself, as she finished the letter; “and my dear aunt, if you do not tell me in an honourable manner, I shall	“stratagems”: From Middle English stratageme, from Old French stratageme, from Latin strategema, from Ancient Greek στρατήγημα "the act of a general, a piece of generalship", from στρατηγέω "to be a general, command an army", from στρατηγός "a general, the leader or commander of an army". See strategy. (Wiktionary, certainly be reduced to tricks and stratagems to find it out."	https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/stratagem#Etymology)

austerity (noun)	sternness; severity	His countenance rather gained in austerity; and he scarcely opened his lips.	"austerity": From Ancient Greek αὐστηρότης "bitter, harsh". Morphologically austere + -ity. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/austerity#Etymology)
breakfasted (verb)	ate breakfast	"Well, and so we breakfasted at ten as usual; I thought it would never be over; for, by the by, you are to understand, that my uncle and aunt were horrid unpleasant all the time I was with them.
partners (noun)	dance partners	We shall be at Newcastle all the winter, and I dare say there will be some balls, and I will take care to get good partners for them all."
fearless (adjective)	oblivious of dangers or perils or calmly resolute in facing them	Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless.
preaching (verb)	deliver a sermon	And there was my aunt, all the time I was dressing, preaching and talking away just as if she was reading a sermon.
provoke (verb)	call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)	The easy assurance of the young couple, indeed, was enough to provoke him.
impudent (adjective)	marked by casual disrespect	Elizabeth had not before believed him quite equal to such assurance; but she sat down, resolving within herself, to draw no limits in future to the impudence of an impudent man.	"impudent": From Middle English impudent, originally meaning immodest, shameless, from Latin impudēns "shameless", ultimately from in + pudere. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/impudent#Etymology)
forwards (adverb)	forward; ahead	Her mother stepped forwards, embraced her, and welcomed her with rapture; gave her hand with an affectionate smile to Wickham, who followed his lady, and wished	"forwards": From Middle English foreward, from Old English foreweard "forward, inclined to the front, fore, early, former", from Proto-Germanic *fura- "fore-", *warþaz "turned", equivalent to fore + ward. Cognate with Dutch voorwaarts "forward", German vorwärts "forward".

		them both joy, with an alacrity which showed no doubt of their happiness.	(Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/forward#Etymology)
variation (noun)	an instance of change; the rate or magnitude of change	She blushed, and Jane blushed; but the cheeks of the two who caused their confusion, suffered no variation of colour.	"variation": From Middle French variation, from Old French variacion, from Latin variātiō, from vary + -ation. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/variation#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What does Lydia's boasting show about her values?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How do Lydia and Wickham behave on their visit to Longbourn? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Unashamed
2. What does Lydia boast about? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Being married first
3. Who does Lydia say attended her wedding? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy
4. What social privilege does Lydia flaunt? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Precedence as a married woman
5. How does Elizabeth respond to the slip? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She writes to Mrs. Gardiner
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lydia and Wickham visit Longbourn, unashamed. Lydia boasts of being married and lets slip that Darcy attended her wedding.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter LI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ""Not that I shall though," she added to herself, as she finished the letter; "and my dear aunt, if you do not tell me in an honourable manner, I shall certainly be reduced to tricks and stratagems to find it out."" What does "stratagems" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: stratagems: tricks or schemes.

10. Reread: "His countenance rather gained in austerity; and he scarcely opened his lips." What does "austerity" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: austerity: sternness; severity.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter LI" suggest about shameless return? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The slip reveals Darcy's secret role.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about shameless return? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4): The narrator's list of five adjectives. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "Lydia's voice was heard in the vestibule; the door was thrown open, and she ran into the room.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter LI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Lydia and Wickham visit Longbourn, unashamed. Lydia boasts of being married and lets slip that Darcy attended her wedding.
6. How does "Chapter LI" build on "Chapter L"? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: "to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," by each of them" (Chapter LI, paragraph 10): Her vanity in the title. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: "Pray write instantly, and let me understand it" (Chapter LI, paragraph 33): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there. On characterization: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: "What does Lydia's boasting show about her values?" Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4): The narrator's list of five adjectives. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: A married woman outranked her unmarried sisters socially, which Lydia flaunts. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10): Her vanity in the title. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The slip reveals Darcy's secret role.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4): The narrator's list of five adjectives. On characterization: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about shameless return? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10): Her vanity in the title. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4): The narrator's list of five adjectives. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10): Her vanity in the title. On characterization: She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LI” treats shameless return with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4): The narrator's list of five adjectives. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about shameless return? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10): Her vanity in the title. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Useful evidence: “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there. Theme link: Lydia's shamelessness is complete. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “And there was my aunt, all the time I was dressing, _____ and talking away just as if she was reading a sermon.” Word bank: stratagems, breakfasted, preaching, austerity

   Key: preaching
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What social privilege does Lydia flaunt?
   A. Owning land
   B. A title
   C. Precedence as a married woman
   D. A carriage

   Key: C (Precedence as a married woman)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who does Lydia say attended her wedding?
   A. Lady Catherine
   B. Darcy
   C. Collins
   D. Bingley

   Key: B (Darcy)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LI, paragraph 4: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, _____, wild, noisy, and fearless”

   Key: unabashed
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The easy assurance of the young couple, indeed, was enough to _____ him.” Word bank: stratagems, breakfasted, austerity, provoke

   Key: provoke

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""Not that I shall though," she added to herself, as she finished the letter; "and my dear aunt, if you do not tell me in an honourable manner, I shall certainly be reduced to tricks and stratagems to find it out."", what does "stratagems" most nearly mean?
   - A. a long dining-room cabinet with a flat top
   - B. calmed
   - C. recall knowledge from memory; have a recollection
   - D. tricks or schemes

   Key: D (tricks or schemes)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond to the slip?
   - A. She writes to Mrs. Gardiner
   - B. She confronts Wickham
   - C. She tells her mother
   - D. She ignores it

   Key: A (She writes to Mrs. Gardiner)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ""Well, and so we breakfasted at ten as usual; I thought it would never be over; for, by the by, you are to understand, that my uncle and aunt were horrid unpleasant all the time I was with them.", what does "breakfasted" most nearly mean?
   - A. a word of one syllable
   - B. ate breakfast
   - C. alarm and dismay
   - D. the person who did most of the talking

   Key: B (ate breakfast)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Lydia boast about?
   - A. Her wealth
   - B. Her education
   - C. Being married first
   - D. Her travel

   Key: C (Being married first)
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless" (Chapter LI, paragraph 4)
    - A. Lady Catherine on Elizabeth.
    - B. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.
    - C. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    - D. Elizabeth's warning.

    Key: C (The narrator's list of five adjectives.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LI"?
    - A. The accomplished woman
    - B. Confiding and consent
    - C. A persuasive tale

D. Shameless return

Key: D (Shameless return)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The narrator's list of five adjectives.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Her vanity in the title.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LI”? She lets slip that Darcy was at her wedding, a secret she was told to keep.

    A. Personification
    B. Allusion
    C. Theme
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LI”? Lydia returns married and unashamed, boasting of her ring and of precedence over her sisters.

    A. Hyperbole
    B. Foreshadowing
    C. Characterization
    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: C (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Lydia's shamelessness is complete.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Elizabeth had not before believed him quite equal to such assurance; but she sat down, resolving within herself, to draw no limits in future to the impudence of an _____ man.” Word bank: stratagems, austerity, breakfasted, impudent

    Key: impudent

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His countenance rather gained in austerity; and he scarcely opened his lips.”, what does “austerity” most nearly mean?

    A. printed cards used in a game
    B. try to prevent; show opposition to
    C. sternness; severity
    D. characterized by neglect and undue lack of concern

    Key: C (sternness; severity)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “We shall be at Newcastle all the winter, and I dare say there will be some balls, and I will take care to get good partners for them all.””, what does “partners” most nearly mean?

    A. to accept quietly
    B. agitation; a troubled state

   C. dance partners
   D. an event that happens

   Key: C (dance partners)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How do Lydia and Wickham behave on their visit to Longbourn?
    A. Repentant
    B. Unashamed
    C. Silent
    D. Tearful

    Key: B (Unashamed)

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33)
    A. Charlotte's tolerance of Darcy's pride.
    B. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.
    C. Lady Catherine's fury.
    D. Elizabeth's challenge: playful and defiant, the voice Darcy finds irresistible.

    Key: B (Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10)
    A. Mr. Bennet's announcement.
    B. Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
    C. The Wickhams wear out their welcome.
    D. Her vanity in the title.

    Key: D (Her vanity in the title.)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Pray write instantly, and let me understand it” (Chapter LI, paragraph 33). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4).

    Sample answer: "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless," and she longs to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," prizing the title over the man.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “to hear herself called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them” (Chapter LI, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Her vanity in the title.

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LI, paragraph 33: “Pray write instantly, and let me _____ it”

    Key: understand

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LI, paragraph 10: “to hear _____ called “Mrs. Wickham,” by each of them”

    Key: herself

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Lydia's return shows that the crisis has taught her nothing.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: "Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless," and she longs to hear herself called "Mrs. Wickham," prizing the title over the man.
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and fearless” (Chapter LI, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The narrator's list of five adjectives.
30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Lydia was Lydia still; untamed, unabashed, wild, noisy, and _____.” Word bank: breakfasted, fearless, austerity, stratagems
    Key: fearless

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 1, 18, 5, 19, 4, 20, 7, 10, 21, 11, 22, 23, 24, 15, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	20, 18, 26, 27, 5, 8, 13, 10, 11, 21, 22, 23, 24, 14, 28, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	6, 27, 7, 17, 8, 22, 11, 10, 12, 13, 14, 23, 24, 15, 25, 29	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	20, 27, 3, 26, 21, 13, 22, 12, 11, 24, 14, 15, 23, 25, 16, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	7, 27, 26, 22, 10, 11, 12, 21, 24, 23, 15, 14, 16, 25, 29, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	18, 5, 26, 10, 12, 11, 13, 21, 24, 15, 14, 23, 29, 16, 25, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 17, 13, 10, 12, 21, 22, 11, 24, 14, 15, 23, 29, 16, 28, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 5, 10, 11, 12, 13, 22, 21, 15, 23, 24, 14, 28, 25, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	5, 17, 13, 21, 22, 12, 10, 11, 23, 14, 15, 24, 25, 28, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 30, 13, 21, 11, 12, 10, 22, 23, 15, 14, 24, 28, 16, 29, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LI,” how does Austen show shameless return? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LI, how does Austen develop the idea of shameless return? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LI develops the idea of shameless return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of shameless return. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LI suggests about shameless return. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LI to complicate the reader's understanding of shameless return. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of shameless return responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of shameless return follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LI and its treatment of shameless return. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LI as evidence for a larger claim about shameless return in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of shameless return. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. "Well, and so we breakfasted at ten as usual; I thought it would never be over; for, by the by, you are to understand, that my uncle and aunt were horrid unpleasant all the time I was with them.

   As used in the text, what does the word "breakfasted" most nearly mean?

   A. an instance of change; the rate or magnitude of change
   B. ate breakfast
   C. forward; ahead
   D. marked by casual disrespect

2. Lydia's voice was heard in the vestibule; the door was thrown open, and she ran into the room. Her mother stepped forwards, embraced her, and welcomed her with rapture; gave her hand with an affectionate smile to Wickham, who followed his lady, and wished them both joy, with an alacrity which showed no doubt of their happiness.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LI"?

   A. The accomplished woman
   B. Cold reception
   C. First impressions at the ball
   D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. B (ate breakfast); 2. D (Shameless return)

Lesson 53: Chapter LII

Focus: the hidden benefactor

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in “Chapter LII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Content note (exploitation of a minor): The full story of Lydia's marriage is revealed; discuss responsibility.
Student preview: We learn how Lydia's marriage was arranged.
Suggested language: “Who acted responsibly here?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts and settled the marriage, insisting on secrecy. Elizabeth speaks gently but pointedly to Wickham.

Background: Darcy's act protected the reputation of all the Bennet daughters.

Significance: Darcy's generosity proves his change and love.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why did Darcy want his role kept secret? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to pride and prejudice because.... Content note before we start: We learn how Lydia's marriage was arranged.
> Prompt: Why did Darcy want his role kept secret?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: expedite — to speed up; to hasten; amounting — adding up (to); compromised — settled by agreement; presuming — too bold; taking liberties; postponed — hold back to a later time. "expedite": From Latin expedītus "unimpeded, unfettered", perfect passive participle of expediō "bring forward, set right". "compromised": From Middle French compromis, from Medieval Latin -, Late Latin compromissum "a compromise, originally a mutual promise to refer to arbitration", prop. neuter of Latin compromissus, past participle of compromittere "to make a mutual promise to abide by the decision of an arbiter", from com- "together" + promittere "to promise"; see promise. "presuming": From Middle English presumen, from Anglo-Norman presumer and its source, Latin praesūmere "to take beforehand, anticipate", from prae- + sūmere "to take". "postponed": From Latin postpōnō "to put after; to postpone" from post "after" + pōnō "to put; to place", compare forestall.

Words: expedite: to speed up; to hasten · amounting: adding up (to) · compromised: settled by agreement · presuming: too bold; taking liberties · postponed: hold back to a later time

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Darcy's act protected the reputation of all the Bennet daughters. Darcy's generosity proves his change and love. Epistolary: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage. Characterization: Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love. Dialogue: At the end of the chapter Wickham fishes for Elizabeth's opinion with his old story; she closes the subject with courteous irony: she is no longer deceived, and no longer needs to fight. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "have given above. It was owing to him, to his reserve, and want of proper consideration, that Wickham's character had been so" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3). Darcy's personal effort. That is epistolary at work: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage.

> He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3). Darcy's personal effort. That is epistolary at work: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The hint points to love for Elizabeth. Actions prove character, the novel's answer to first impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. (The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.)

> Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter (Chapter LII, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The hint points to love for Elizabeth. Actions prove character, the novel's answer to first impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. (The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the hidden benefactor? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LII develops the idea of the hidden benefactor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. When the text says "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.

Task: Annotate the chapter for epistolary, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the hidden benefactor? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LII develops the idea of the hidden benefactor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. When the text says "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why did Darcy want his role kept secret? Ask: why does Darcy keep his help secret? What would announcing it have looked like? Ask: why doesn't Elizabeth confront Wickham with what she knows? What does her restraint show?

Anchor question: Why did Darcy want his role kept secret?

Facilitation: Ask: why does Darcy keep his help secret? What would announcing it have looked like? · Ask: why doesn't Elizabeth confront Wickham with what she knows? What does her restraint show?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the hidden benefactor? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. ("If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him", Chapter LII, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the hidden benefactor? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. ("If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him", Chapter LII, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how epistolary shapes the hidden benefactor. Key takeaway: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Epistolary: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage.
- Characterization: Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love.
- Dialogue: At the end of the chapter Wickham fishes for Elizabeth's opinion with his old story; she closes the subject with courteous irony: she is no longer deceived, and no longer needs to fight.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “have given above. It was owing to him, to his reserve, and want of proper consideration, that Wickham’s character had been so” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter, as soon as she possibly could. She was no sooner in” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Darcy's personal effort.
- “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
- “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1) The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.
- “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37) Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could.
Evidence: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
expedite (verb)	to speed up; to hasten	Since such were her feelings, it only remained, he thought, to secure and expedite a marriage, which, in his very first conversation with Wickham, he easily learnt, had never been his design.	“expedite”: From Latin expedītus "unimpeded, unfettered", perfect passive participle of expediō "bring forward, set right". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/expedite#Etymology)
amounting (verb)	adding up (to)	His debts are to be paid, amounting, I believe, to considerably more than a thousand pounds, another thousand in addition to her own settled upon her, and his commission purchased.

compromised (verb)	settled by agreement	"I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking orders, and that the business had been compromised accordingly."	"compromised": From Middle French compromis, from Medieval Latin -, Late Latin compromissum "a compromise, originally a mutual promise to refer to arbitration", prop. neuter of Latin compromissus, past participle of compromittere "to make a mutual promise to abide by the decision of an arbiter", from com- "together" + promittere "to promise"; see promise. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/compromise#Etymology)
presuming (adjective)	too bold; taking liberties	Pray forgive me, if I have been very presuming, or at least do not punish me so far, as to exclude me from P.	"presuming": From Middle English presumen, from Anglo-Norman presumer and its source, Latin praesūmere "to take beforehand, anticipate", from prae- + sūmere "to take". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/presume#Etymology)
postponed (verb)	hold back to a later time	He did not judge your father to be a person whom he could so properly consult as your uncle, and therefore readily postponed seeing him, till after the departure of the former.	"postponed": From Latin postpōnō "to put after; to postpone" from post "after" + pōnō "to put; to place", compare forestall. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/postpone#Etymology)
explicit (adjective)	precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication	But if you are really innocent and ignorant, I must be more explicit.	"explicit": French explicite, from Latin explicitus "disentangled, easy", variant of explicātus. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/explicit#Etymology)
unsettled (adjective)	uncertain; not fixed	The vague and unsettled suspicions which uncertainty had produced of what Mr.
confide (verb)	reveal in private; tell confidentially	The motive professed was his conviction of its being owing to himself that Wickham's worthlessness had not been so well known, as to make it impossible for any young woman of character to love or confide in him.

sermons (noun)	religious talks given by a clergyman	"How should you have liked making sermons?"	"sermons": From Middle English sermoun, from Anglo-Norman sermun and/or Old French sermon, from Latin sermō, sermōnem, from Proto-Indo-European *sermō, from *ser- "to bind" + *-mō. Displaced native Old English wordpredicung, literally word + preaching. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/sermon#Etymology)
foresee (verb)	realize beforehand	"I have just received your letter, and shall devote this whole morning to answering it, as I foresee that a little writing will not comprise what I have to tell you.

Discussion questions

1. Why did Darcy want his role kept secret?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who reveals Darcy's role? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Gardiner
2. What did Darcy do? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Found them, paid debts, arranged the marriage
3. Why did Darcy act, he said? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He felt partly responsible
4. What did Darcy insist on? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Secrecy
5. How does Elizabeth treat Wickham afterward? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Gently but pointedly
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts and settled the marriage, insisting on secrecy. Elizabeth speaks gently but pointedly to Wickham.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter LII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter LII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Since such were her feelings, it only remained, he thought, to secure and expedite a marriage, which, in his very first conversation with Wickham, he easily learnt, had never been his design.” What does “expedite” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: expedite: to speed up; to hasten.
10. Reread: “His debts are to be paid, amounting, I believe, to considerably more than a thousand pounds, another thousand in addition to her own settled upon her, and his commission purchased.” What does “amounting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: amounting: adding up (to).

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LII” suggest about the hidden benefactor? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Darcy's generosity proves his change and love.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the hidden benefactor? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Darcy's personal effort. On characterization: Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts and settled the marriage, insisting on secrecy. Elizabeth speaks gently but pointedly to Wickham.
6. How does “Chapter LII” build on “Chapter LI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1): The chapter opens with the letter she asked for. On characterization: Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why did Darcy want his role kept secret?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37): Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Darcy's act protected the reputation of all the Bennet daughters. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Darcy's personal effort. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Darcy's generosity proves his change and love.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1): The chapter opens with the letter she asked for. On characterization: Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the hidden benefactor? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37): Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Darcy's personal effort. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1): The chapter opens with the letter she asked for. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LII” treats the hidden benefactor with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37): Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter LIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Darcy's personal effort. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the hidden benefactor? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3): Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1): The chapter opens with the letter she asked for. Theme link: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who reveals Darcy's role?

   A. Jane

   B. Wickham

   C. Mrs. Gardiner

   D. Lydia

   Key: C (Mrs. Gardiner)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 1: “Elizabeth had the _____ of receiving an answer to her letter”
   Key: satisfaction
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking orders, and that the business had been…”, what does “compromised” most nearly mean?
   A. busy reading; absorbed in study
   B. settled by agreement
   C. stirred up again
   D. teased good-humoredly

   Key: B (settled by agreement)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Since such were her feelings, it only remained, he thought, to secure and expedite a marriage, which, in his very first conversation with Wickham, he easily learnt, had never been his design.”, what does “expedite” most nearly mean?
   A. to speed up; to hasten
   B. a coming together; an agreement
   C. expressing; communicating
   D. regard highly; think much of

   Key: A (to speed up; to hasten)
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Pray forgive me, if I have been very presuming, or at least do not punish me so far, as to exclude me from P.”, what does “presuming” most nearly mean?
   A. persuading; changing (someone's view)
   B. too bold; taking liberties
   C. changing to a lower state (a less respected state)
   D. outshone; made to seem less important

   Key: B (too bold; taking liberties)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The vague and _____ suspicions which uncertainty had produced of what Mr.” Word bank: expedite, unsettled, amounting, compromised
   Key: unsettled
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth treat Wickham afterward?
   A. She refuses to speak
   B. Gently but pointedly
   C. With rage
   D. Flirtatiously

   Key: B (Gently but pointedly)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What did Darcy do?
   A. Paid Collins
   B. Found them, paid debts, arranged the marriage
   C. Nothing
   D. Sent soldiers

Key: B (Found them, paid debts, arranged the marriage)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 3: “He had been some days in town before he was able to _____ them”

   Key: discover

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's personal effort.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1)

    A. Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.
    B. The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.
    C. Jane's charity.
    D. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.

    Key: B (The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)

    A. Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
    B. Darcy's personal effort.
    C. Elizabeth's realization comes too late.
    D. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.

    Key: B (Darcy's personal effort.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37)

    A. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.
    B. Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
    C. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
    D. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LII”? Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love.

    A. Simile
    B. Alliteration
    C. Imagery
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LII”? Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage.

    A. Symbolism
    B. Allusion

   C. Epistolary
   D. Point of view

   Key: C (Epistolary)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

   Sample answer: Darcy's personal effort.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 37: "Come, Mr. _____, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past"

   Key: Wickham

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What did Darcy insist on?
   A. Secrecy
   B. Public thanks
   C. A reward
   D. Elizabeth's hand

   Key: A (Secrecy)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did Darcy act, he said?
   A. He owed money
   B. He wanted praise
   C. He loves Lydia
   D. He felt partly responsible

   Key: D (He felt partly responsible)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The motive professed was his conviction of its being owing to himself that Wickham's worthlessness had not been so well known, as to make it impossible for any young woman of character to love or _____ in him." Word bank: expedite, confide, compromised, amounting

   Key: confide

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He did not judge your father to be a person whom he could so properly consult as your uncle, and therefore readily _____ seeing him, till after the departure of the former." Word bank: expedite, amounting, compromised, postponed

   Key: postponed

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LII"?
   A. The hidden benefactor
   B. Parental failure
   C. The Brighton plan
   D. Confiding and consent

   Key: A (The hidden benefactor)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in "Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter" (Chapter LII, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

   Sample answer: The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter LII". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law.
25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 3: "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never _____ him"
    Key: disgrace
26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)
    A. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
    B. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
    C. Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
    D. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.

    Key: B (Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.)
27. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.
29. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3).
    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.
30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "But if you are really innocent and ignorant, I must be more _____." Word bank: explicit, compromised, expedite, amounting
    Key: explicit
31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him" (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 18, 19, 20, 9, 7, 21, 12, 13, 22, 11, 23, 15, 14, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	25, 6, 2, 3, 20, 7, 26, 13, 22, 27, 10, 23, 14, 15, 28, 24	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	20, 3, 21, 8, 1, 12, 10, 22, 11, 27, 29, 15, 23, 14, 16, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 30, 17, 7, 11, 12, 26, 22, 10, 23, 14, 29, 15, 16, 31, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	21, 19, 9, 27, 10, 22, 26, 12, 23, 14, 15, 29, 24, 31, 28, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 5, 25, 10, 27, 12, 13, 26, 29, 15, 23, 14, 28, 24, 31, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	30, 21, 10, 26, 27, 12, 13, 22, 15, 14, 29, 23, 28, 31, 24, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	20, 21, 13, 26, 12, 10, 22, 11, 14, 15, 23, 29, 16, 28, 31, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	30, 21, 27, 26, 10, 11, 12, 22, 14, 29, 15, 23, 31, 28, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	21, 30, 22, 12, 10, 27, 26, 13, 14, 29, 23, 15, 28, 16, 31, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LII,” how does Austen show the hidden benefactor? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LII, how does Austen develop the idea of the hidden benefactor? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LII develops the idea of the hidden benefactor. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of the hidden benefactor. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LII suggests about the hidden benefactor. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses plot in Chapter LII to complicate the reader's understanding of the hidden benefactor. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the hidden benefactor responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the hidden benefactor follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LII and its treatment of the hidden benefactor. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LII as evidence for a larger claim about the hidden benefactor in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the hidden benefactor. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking orders, and that the business had been compromised accordingly.”

   As used in the text, what does the word “compromised” most nearly mean?

   A. realize beforehand

   B. settled by agreement

   C. religious talks given by a clergyman

   D. reveal in private; tell confidentially

2. “I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking orders, and that the business had been compromised accordingly.”

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LII”?

A. Family dynamics and anticipation
B. The hidden benefactor
C. Self-recognition
D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. B (settled by agreement); 2. B (The hidden benefactor)

Lesson 54: Chapter LIII

Focus: Bingley returns

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Bingley returns to Netherfield and calls at Longbourn with Darcy. Mrs. Bennet is rude to Darcy and gushing to Bingley. Darcy is silent; Elizabeth is anxious.

Background: Calls and returns of calls signal renewed courtship.

Significance: Mrs. Bennet's rudeness to Darcy is ironic since he saved her daughter.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
> Prompt: Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> *Today's words: fidgets — a restless, nervous state; rekindled — stirred up again; intervene — to come or pass in between; witnessing — be a witness to; etiquette — rules governing socially acceptable behavior. “fidgets”: From fidge, possibly from Middle English -ten, from Old English -ettan.
> Words: fidgets: a restless, nervous state · rekindled: stirred up again · intervene: to come or pass in between · witnessing: be a witness to · etiquette: rules governing socially acceptable behavior

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Calls and returns of calls signal renewed courtship. Mrs. Bennet's rudeness to Darcy is ironic since he saved her daughter. Characterization: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him. Irony: When Bingley and Darcy call, Mrs. Bennet is effusive to Bingley and coldly ceremonious to Darcy, the man who saved Lydia; Elizabeth alone knows the truth. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "seated by her; perhaps that was the reason of his silence; but it had not been so in Derbyshire. There he had" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 42).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8). Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him.

> He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8). Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Irremediable infamy" means disgrace that could never be undone; Darcy prevented it. Mrs. Bennet's coldness is ironic because the reader and Elizabeth know this. Family and reputation. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. (The dramatic irony stated directly.)

> Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Irremediable infamy" means disgrace that could never be undone; Darcy prevented it. Mrs. Bennet's coldness is ironic because the reader and Elizabeth know this. Family and reputation.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. (The dramatic irony stated directly.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Bingley returns? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIII develops the idea of Bingley returns. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. When the text says "Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet greets Darcy coldly, but Elizabeth knows "her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy," so the reader feels the injustice of "a distinction so ill applied."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about Bingley returns? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIII develops the idea of Bingley returns. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. When the text says "Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41), it shows this directly. Mrs. Bennet greets Darcy coldly, but Elizabeth knows "her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy," so the reader feels the injustice of "a distinction so ill applied."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic? Ask: should Elizabeth tell her mother the truth? What did Darcy want?

Anchor question: Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic?

Facilitation: Ask: should Elizabeth tell her mother the truth? What did Darcy want?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Bingley returns? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. (“Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed”, Chapter LIII, paragraph 41). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about Bingley returns? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. (“Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed”, Chapter LIII, paragraph 41). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes Bingley returns. Key takeaway: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him.
- Irony: When Bingley and Darcy call, Mrs. Bennet is effusive to Bingley and coldly ceremonious to Darcy, the man who saved Lydia; Elizabeth alone knows the truth.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “seated by her; perhaps that was the reason of his silence; but it had not been so in Derbyshire. There he had” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 42).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “Write to me very often, my dear” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 5).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8) Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.
- “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14) Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
- “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41) The dramatic irony stated directly.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony.
Evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41)
Reasoning: Mrs. Bennet greets Darcy coldly, but Elizabeth knows "her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy," so the reader feels the injustice of "a distinction so ill applied."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
fidgets (noun)	a restless, nervous state	Bennet was quite in the fidgets.	“fidgets”: From fidge, possibly from Middle English *-ten, from Old English -ettan. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/fidget#Etymology)
rekindled (verb)	stirred up again	Yet the misery, for which years of happiness were to offer no compensation, received soon afterwards material relief, from observing how much the beauty of her sister rekindled the admiration of her former lover.
intervene (verb)	to come or pass in between	She counted the days that must intervene before their invitation could be sent; hopeless of seeing him before.
witnessing (verb)	be a witness to	Her astonishment at his coming—at his coming to Netherfield, to Longbourn, and voluntarily seeking her again, was almost equal to what she had known on first witnessing his altered behaviour in Derbyshire.

etiquette (noun)	rules governing socially acceptable behavior	" 'Tis an etiquette I despise," said he.
contrasted (verb)	put in opposition to show or emphasize differences	Bennet with a degree of civility, which made her two daughters ashamed, especially when contrasted with the cold and ceremonious politeness of her curtsey and address to his friend.	"contrasted": From French contraster, from Latin contrāstāre "to resist", "to withstand", from contrā "against" + stō, stāre "to stand". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/contrast#Etymology)
mindful (adjective)	remembering; aware	Bennet was mindful of her intended civility, and they were invited and engaged to dine at Longbourn in a few days' time.	"mindful": From Middle English myndeful, myndefull, from Old English ġemyndful "of good memory", equivalent to mind + -ful. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mindful#Etymology)
sources (noun)	causes	But Elizabeth had sources of uneasiness which could not be suspected by Jane, to whom she had never yet had courage to show Mrs.
syllable (noun)	a single word or sound (here, "a syllable said" = a word said)	It was only said, 'Lately, George Wickham, Esq. to Miss Lydia Bennet,' without there being a syllable said of her father, or the place where she lived, or anything.	"syllable": From Middle English syllable, sillable, syllabylle, sylabul, from Anglo-Norman sillable, from Old French sillebe, from Latin syllaba, from Ancient Greek συλλαβή, from συλλαμβάνω "to gather together", from συν- "together" + λαμβάνω "to take". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/syllable#Etymology)
circulation (noun)	passing from person to person	But the spiritless condition which this event threw her into was shortly relieved, and her mind opened again to the agitation of hope by an article of news, which then began to be in circulation.	"circulation": From Middle English circulacioun, from Latin circulatio. Morphologically circulate + ion. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/circulation#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who returns to Netherfield? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley
2. Who comes with Bingley to Longbourn? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Darcy
3. How does Mrs. Bennet treat Darcy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Rudely
4. How does Elizabeth feel when Bingley and Darcy call at Longbourn? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Anxious
5. What does Darcy do during the visit? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Speaks little
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter LIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley returns to Netherfield and calls at Longbourn with Darcy. Mrs. Bennet is rude to Darcy and gushing to Bingley. Darcy is silent; Elizabeth is anxious.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter LIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter LIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Bennet was quite in the fidgets.” What does “fidgets” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: fidgets: a restless, nervous state.
10. Reread: “Yet the misery, for which years of happiness were to offer no compensation, received soon afterwards material relief, from observing how much the beauty of her sister rekindled the admiration of her former lover.” What does “rekindled” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: rekindled: stirred up again.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LIII” suggest about Bingley returns? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mrs. Bennet's rudeness to Darcy is ironic since he saved her daughter.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about Bingley returns? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8): Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “But the spiritless condition which this event threw her into was shortly relieved, and her mind opened again to the agitation of hope by an article of news, which then began to be…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Bingley returns to Netherfield and calls at Longbourn with Darcy. Mrs. Bennet is rude to Darcy and gushing to Bingley. Darcy is silent; Elizabeth is anxious.
6. How does “Chapter LIII” build on “Chapter LII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14): Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distincti” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41): The dramatic irony stated directly. On characterization: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why is Mrs. Bennet's rudeness ironic?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8): Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Calls and returns of calls signal renewed courtship. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14): Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mrs. Bennet's rudeness to Darcy is ironic since he saved her daughter.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distincti” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41): The dramatic irony stated directly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8): Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. On characterization: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about Bingley returns? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14): Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distincti” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41): The dramatic irony stated directly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8): Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14): Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction. On characterization: Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LIII” treats Bingley returns with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distincti” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41): The dramatic irony stated directly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8): Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about Bingley returns? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14): Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distincti” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41): The dramatic irony stated directly. Theme link: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy do during the visit?
   A. Plays piano
   B. Speaks little
   C. Proposes
   D. Leaves early angrily

   Key: B (Speaks little)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet was _____ of her intended civility, and they were invited and engaged to dine at Longbourn in a few days’ time.” Word bank: rekindled, intervene, mindful, fidgets

   Key: mindful
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She counted the days that must intervene before their invitation could be sent; hopeless of seeing him before.”, what does “intervene” most nearly mean?
   A. to come or pass in between

B. to hide one's true feelings
C. be larger in number, quantity, power, status or importance
D. soft, round, sweet fruits with fuzzy skin

Key: A (to come or pass in between)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth feel when Bingley and Darcy call at Longbourn?

A. Anxious
B. Bored
C. Furious
D. Relieved

Key: A (Anxious)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Yet the misery, for which years of happiness were to offer no compensation, received soon afterwards material relief, from observing how much the beauty of her sister rekindled the admiration of her former lover.”, what does “rekindled” most nearly mean?

A. printed cards used in a game
B. stirred up again
C. pick out, select, or choose from a number of alternatives
D. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner

Key: B (stirred up again)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who comes with Bingley to Longbourn?

A. Caroline
B. Darcy
C. Georgiana
D. Mr. Hurst

Key: B (Darcy)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIII, paragraph 8: “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am _____ proud of him”

Key: prodigiously

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet treat Darcy?

A. Silently
B. Rudely
C. Lovingly
D. Graciously

Key: B (Rudely)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet with a degree of civility, which made her two daughters ashamed, especially when _____ with the cold and ceremonious politeness of her curtsey and address to his friend.” Word bank: rekindled, fidgets, intervene, contrasted

Key: contrasted

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41)
    - A. The dramatic irony stated directly.
    - B. Darcy's change is read as proof of love.
    - C. Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."
    - D. Why Mr. Bennet married.

    Key: A (The dramatic irony stated directly.)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8)
    - A. Why Mr. Bennet married.
    - B. Final refusal.
    - C. The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.
    - D. Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.

    Key: D (Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14)
    - A. Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
    - B. Opening reversal: he has done what he pretended to refuse.
    - C. Proposal opening.
    - D. Wickham's charm consoles the family; irony in hindsight.

    Key: A (Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LIII”? When Bingley and Darcy call, Mrs. Bennet is effusive to Bingley and coldly ceremonious to Darcy, the man who saved Lydia; Elizabeth alone knows the truth.
    - A. Imagery
    - B. Simile
    - C. Allusion
    - D. Irony

    Key: D (Irony)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41).

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet greets Darcy coldly, but Elizabeth knows "her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy," so the reader feels the injustice of "a distinction so ill applied."

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The return of Bingley and Darcy turns the family's ignorance into painful dramatic irony.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet greets Darcy coldly, but Elizabeth knows "her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy," so the reader feels the injustice of "a distinction so ill applied."

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “But Elizabeth had _____ of uneasiness which could not be suspected by Jane, to whom she had never yet had courage to show Mrs.”

    Word bank: intervene, fidgets, sources, rekindled

    Key: sources

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIII, paragraph 14: “Not that I care about it, though. He is _____ to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again”

    Key: nothing

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIII, paragraph 41: “Elizabeth _____, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied”

    Key: particularly

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her astonishment at his coming—at his coming to Netherfield, to Longbourn, and voluntarily seeking her again, was almost equal to what she had known on first witnessing his altered behaviour in Derbyshire.”, what does “witnessing” most nearly mean?

    A. not pleased
    B. an easygoing, relaxed manner
    C. be a witness to
    D. establish or strengthen as with new evidence or facts

    Key: C (be a witness to)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet was quite in the fidgets.”, what does “fidgets” most nearly mean?

    A. pause or hold back in uncertainty or unwillingness
    B. a restless, nervous state
    C. a light round box for hats
    D. had an effect; worked

    Key: B (a restless, nervous state)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LIII”?

    A. Neighbors and gossip
    B. Character flaws examined
    C. Bingley returns
    D. Renewed hope

    Key: C (Bingley returns)

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Elizabeth particularly, who knew that her mother owed to the latter the preservation of her favourite daughter from irremediable infamy, was hurt and distressed to a most painful degree by a distinction so ill applied” (Chapter LIII, paragraph 41). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The dramatic irony stated directly.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter LIII"? Mr. Bennet mocks his new son-in-law ("He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all"); Mrs. Bennet, told Bingley is returning, insists she does not care while planning a dinner for him.
    - A. Characterization
    - B. Hyperbole
    - C. Structure
    - D. Personification

    Key: A (Characterization)
25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter LIII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's misplaced civility shames her daughters again, now in front of the man who rescued the family.
26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "" 'Tis an _____ I despise," said he."

    Word bank: rekindled, fidgets, etiquette, intervene

    Key: etiquette
27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who returns to Netherfield?
    - A. Collins
    - B. Wickham
    - C. Fitzwilliam
    - D. Bingley

    Key: D (Bingley)
28. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Not that I care about it, though. He is nothing to us, you know, and I am sure I never want to see him again" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "He simpers, and smirks, and makes love to us all. I am prodigiously proud of him" (Chapter LIII, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's sarcasm about Wickham: wit as a substitute for action.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 7, 9, 18, 19, 20, 21, 3, 11, 10, 22, 13, 23, 24, 14, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 26, 8, 2, 3, 27, 11, 10, 22, 28, 13, 15, 24, 23, 29, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	26, 2, 4, 8, 21, 12, 13, 28, 22, 11, 23, 14, 15, 24, 16, 25	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 3, 26, 4, 11, 13, 12, 28, 22, 23, 14, 15, 24, 16, 29, 30	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 26, 9, 13, 10, 11, 12, 22, 15, 24, 14, 23, 16, 29, 30, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	9, 17, 8, 12, 22, 10, 13, 28, 23, 14, 15, 24, 16, 25, 30, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	26, 17, 10, 11, 13, 12, 28, 22, 14, 15, 23, 24, 30, 25, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	26, 19, 13, 22, 10, 12, 11, 28, 23, 14, 24, 15, 16, 25, 30, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	2, 26, 11, 22, 28, 13, 12, 10, 14, 24, 23, 15, 30, 16, 25, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	18, 26, 12, 28, 22, 13, 11, 10, 24, 23, 15, 14, 29, 30, 25, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LIII,” how does Austen show Bingley returns? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LIII, how does Austen develop the idea of Bingley returns? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LIII develops the idea of Bingley returns. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of Bingley returns. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LIII suggests about Bingley returns. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LIII to complicate the reader's understanding of Bingley returns. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of Bingley returns responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of Bingley returns follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LIII and its treatment of Bingley returns. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LIII as evidence for a larger claim about Bingley returns in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of Bingley returns. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. She counted the days that must intervene before their invitation could be sent; hopeless of seeing him before.

   As used in the text, what does the word “intervene” most nearly mean?

   A. passing from person to person

   B. causes

   C. to come or pass in between

   D. a single word or sound (here, "a syllable said" = a word said)

2. But the spiritless condition which this event threw her into was shortly relieved, and her mind opened again to the agitation of hope by an article of news, which then began to be in circulation. The housekeeper at Netherfield had received orders to prepare for the arrival of her master, who was coming down in a day or two, to shoot there for several weeks. Mrs. Bennet was quite in the fidgets. She looked at Jane, and smiled, and shook her head by turns.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LIII”?

   A. A disastrous ball

   B. Leaving Kent

C. A costly solution

D. Bingley returns

SAT key: 1. C (to come or pass in between); 2. D (Bingley returns)

Lesson 55: Chapter LIV

Focus: renewed hope

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

At dinner Bingley sits by Jane. Darcy is distant and seated far from Elizabeth. Jane claims she and Bingley are only friends; Elizabeth doubts it.

Background: Seating at dinner revealed intentions and status.

Significance: Restraint and miscommunication delay resolution.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
Prompt: Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: partridges — game birds hunted for food; enabling — making possible for; venison — deer meat; roasted — cook with dry heat, usually in an oven; enraged — put into a rage; make violently angry. “partridges”: From Middle English partrich, partriche, pertriche, perdriz, from Old French perdriz, partriz, from Latin perdīx "partridge", from Ancient Greek πέρδιξ "partridge", probably from πέρδομαι "to fart". “enabling”: From Middle English enablen, equivalent to en + able. “venison”: From Old French venesoun, from Latin venatio "a hunt," from venari "to hunt." (Not from venire "to come.") “enraged”: From Old French enrager, enragier, from rage. Equivalent to en + rage.
Words: partridges: game birds hunted for food · enabling: making possible for · venison: deer meat · roasted: cook with dry heat, usually in an oven · enraged: put into a rage; make violently angry

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Seating at dinner revealed intentions and status. Restraint and miscommunication delay resolution. Characterization: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping. Point of view: Free indirect discourse puts us inside Elizabeth's confusion; she is now the one misreading reserve, but this time she knows she may be wrong. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "Why, if he came only to be silent, grave, and indifferent," said she, "did he come at all" (Chapter LIV, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man" (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4). Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping.

> If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man" (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4). Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The questions show she no longer assumes the worst; she is uncertain, which is progress. Jane's claim to want nothing "beyond" conversation is self-deception, which Elizabeth gently mocks. Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. (Jane's self-deception.)

> I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The questions show she no longer assumes the worst; she is uncertain, which is progress. Jane's claim to want nothing "beyond" conversation is self-deception, which Elizabeth gently mocks.
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. (Jane's self-deception.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about renewed hope? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIV develops the idea of renewed hope. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. When the text says “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. She asks "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent?"; for the first time she does not jump to a conclusion, and the questions show her uncertainty.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about renewed hope? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIV develops the idea of renewed hope. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. When the text says “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. She asks "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent?"; for the first time she does not jump to a conclusion, and the questions show her uncertainty.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent? Compare Elizabeth's reading of Darcy's silence here with her reading of it in Chapter IX.

Anchor question: Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent?

Facilitation: Compare Elizabeth's reading of Darcy's silence here with her reading of it in Chapter IX.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about renewed hope? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. (“If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man”, Chapter LIV, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about renewed hope? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. (“If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man”, Chapter LIV, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes renewed hope. Key takeaway: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping.
- Point of view: Free indirect discourse puts us inside Elizabeth's confusion; she is now the one misreading reserve, but this time she knows she may be wrong.

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Why, if he came only to be silent, grave, and indifferent,” said she, “did he come at all” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 2).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4) Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.
- “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19) She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
- “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31) Jane's self-deception.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all.
Evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4)
Reasoning: She asks "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent?"; for the first time she does not jump to a conclusion, and the questions show her uncertainty.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
partridges (noun)	game birds hunted for food	Darcy acknowledged, that the partridges were remarkably well done; and I suppose he has two or three French cooks at least.	“partridges”: From Middle English partrich, partriche, pertriche, perdriz, from Old French perdriz, partriz, from Latin perdīx "partridge", from Ancient Greek πέρδιξ "partridge", probably from πέρδομαι "to fart". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/partridge#Etymology)
enabling (verb)	making possible for	She was in hopes that the evening would afford some opportunity of bringing them together; that the whole of the visit would not pass away without enabling them to enter into something more of conversation, than the mere ceremonious salutation attending his entrance.	“enabling”: From Middle English enablen, equivalent to en + able. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enable#Etymology)
venison (noun)	deer meat	The venison was roasted to a turn—and everybody said they never saw so fat a haunch.	“venison”: From Old French venesoun, from Latin venatio "a hunt," from venari "to hunt." (Not from venire "to come.") (Online Etymology Dictionary, https://www.etymonline.com/word/venison)
roasted (verb)	cook with dry heat, usually in an oven	The venison was roasted to a turn—and everybody said they never saw so fat a haunch.
enraged (verb)	put into a rage; make violently angry	She followed him with her eyes, envied everyone to whom he spoke, had scarcely patience enough to help anybody to coffee; and then was enraged against herself for being so silly!	“enraged”: From Old French enrager, enragier, from rage. Equivalent to en + rage. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enrage#Etymology)
engaging (verb)	becoming engaged to marry	I am perfectly satisfied from what his manners now are, that he never had any design of engaging my affection.
publicly (adverb)	in a manner accessible to or observable by the public; openly	It will then be publicly seen, that on both sides, we meet only as common and indifferent acquaintance.”
hesitate (verb)	pause or hold back in	On entering the room, he seemed to hesitate; but Jane happened to look uncertainty or unwillingness	round, and happened to smile: it was decided.

revived (verb)	came back to life; returned	Bennet, in the meanwhile, was giving way to all the happy schemes, which the good humour, and common politeness of Bingley, in half an hour's visit, had revived.
triumphant (adjective)	joyful and proud especially because of triumph or success	Elizabeth, with a triumphant sensation, looked towards his friend.	"triumphant": From Old French -, from Latin triumphāns, present participle of triumphō "to triumph; to exult, rejoice". By surface analysis, triumph + -ant. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/triumphant#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who sits by Jane at dinner? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley
2. Where is Darcy seated? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Far from Elizabeth
3. What does Jane claim? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She and Bingley are only friends
4. How does Elizabeth respond when Jane says she and Bingley are only friends? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She doubts Jane
5. What delays the resolution? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Restraint and miscommunication
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LIV" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: At dinner Bingley sits by Jane. Darcy is distant and seated far from Elizabeth. Jane claims she and Bingley are only friends; Elizabeth doubts it.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LIV"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter LIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Darcy acknowledged, that the partridges were remarkably well done; and I suppose he has two or three French cooks at least.” What does “partridges” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: partridges: game birds hunted for food.
10. Reread: “She was in hopes that the evening would afford some opportunity of bringing them together; that the whole of the visit would not pass away without enabling them to enter into something more of conversation, than the…” What does “enabling” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: enabling: making possible for.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LIV” suggest about renewed hope? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Restraint and miscommunication delay resolution.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about renewed hope? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4): Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Now,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: At dinner Bingley sits by Jane. Darcy is distant and seated far from Elizabeth. Jane claims she and Bingley are only friends; Elizabeth doubts it.
6. How does “Chapter LIV” build on “Chapter LIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19): She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31): Jane's self-deception. On characterization: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why is Jane insisting she is indifferent?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4): Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Seating at dinner revealed intentions and status. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19): She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Restraint and miscommunication delay resolution.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31): Jane's self-deception. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4): Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. On characterization: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about renewed hope? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19): She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again. On point of view: Free indirect discourse puts us inside Elizabeth's confusion; she is now the one misreading reserve, but this time she knows she may be wrong. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31): Jane's self-deception. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4): Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19): She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again. On characterization: Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LIV” treats renewed hope with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31): Jane's self-deception. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter LV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4): Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about renewed hope? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19): She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Useful evidence: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31): Jane's self-deception. Theme link: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She followed him with her eyes, envied everyone to whom he spoke, had scarcely patience enough to help anybody to coffee; and then was _____ against herself for being so silly!" Word bank: enraged, enabling, venison, partridges

Key: enraged

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I am perfectly satisfied from what his manners now are, that he never had any design of _____ my affection." Word bank: enabling, venison, partridges, engaging

   Key: engaging

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What delays the resolution?

   A. Restraint and miscommunication
   B. Money
   C. War
   D. Illness

   Key: A (Restraint and miscommunication)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "The venison was roasted to a turn—and everybody said they never saw so fat a haunch.", what does "roasted" most nearly mean?

   A. marked by refinement in taste and manners
   B. cook with dry heat, usually in an oven
   C. a lifting up; high spirits
   D. tidiness and order

   Key: B (cook with dry heat, usually in an oven)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond when Jane says she and Bingley are only friends?

   A. She believes her
   B. She laughs
   C. She doubts Jane
   D. She scolds her

   Key: C (She doubts Jane)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "The venison was roasted to a turn—and everybody said they never saw so fat a haunch.", what does "venison" most nearly mean?

   A. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)
   B. is connected to
   C. spread across or over
   D. deer meat

   Key: D (deer meat)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who sits by Jane at dinner?

   A. Collins
   B. Darcy
   C. Bingley
   D. Wickham

   Key: C (Bingley)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where is Darcy seated?

   A. Beside Jane

   B. Far from Elizabeth
   C. He leaves
   D. Beside Elizabeth

   Key: B (Far from Elizabeth)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Jane claim?
   A. She dislikes him
   B. She and Bingley are only friends
   C. They are engaged
   D. She will leave

   Key: B (She and Bingley are only friends)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19)
    A. She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.
    C. The letter's opening.
    D. Her judgment follows her feelings.

    Key: A (She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31)
    A. Jane's self-deception.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's comic line, said just before she learns he has called.
    C. Elizabeth's charge that wounds him most.
    D. Wickham on Darcy's unpopularity.

    Key: A (Jane's self-deception.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4)
    A. Jane's joy.
    B. Miss Bingley's flattery of Darcy's letter-writing: comic and transparent.
    C. Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.
    D. The key to Charlotte's marriage.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LIV”? Elizabeth, alone, is vexed by Darcy's silence ("Teasing, teasing, man!") and then furious with herself for hoping.
    A. Irony
    B. Metaphor

C. Hyperbole
D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LIV”? Free indirect discourse puts us inside Elizabeth's confusion; she is now the one misreading reserve, but this time she knows she may be wrong.
    A. Hyperbole
    B. Point of view
    C. Personification
    D. Symbolism

    Key: B (Point of view)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A man who has once been refused! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIV, paragraph 19: “A man who has once been _____! How could I ever be foolish enough to expect a renewal of his love”

    Key: refused
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIV, paragraph 4: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? _____, teasing, man”

    Key: Teasing
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She was in hopes that the evening would afford some opportunity of bringing them together; that the whole of the visit would not pass away without enabling them to enter into something more of conversation, than the…”, what does “enabling” most nearly mean?
    A. hugging
    B. deserved
    C. making possible for
    D. fond (of); liking

    Key: C (making possible for)
20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIV, paragraph 31: “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his _____ as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it”

    Key: conversation
21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LIV”?
    A. Marriage as a social goal
    B. Neighbors and gossip
    C. Renewed hope
    D. Keeping secrets

    Key: C (Renewed hope)
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I assure you that I have now learnt to enjoy his conversation as an agreeable and sensible young man, without having a wish beyond it” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 31). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Jane's self-deception.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She asks "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent?"; for the first time she does not jump to a conclusion, and the questions show her uncertainty.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It will then be _____ seen, that on both sides, we meet only as common and indifferent acquaintance.”” Word bank: venison, enabling, publicly, partridges

    Key: publicly

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy acknowledged, that the partridges were remarkably well done; and I suppose he has two or three French cooks at least.”, what does “partridges” most nearly mean?

    A. fearful expectation or anticipation
    B. the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position
    C. game birds hunted for food
    D. someone who offers opposition

    Key: C (game birds hunted for food)

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “On entering the room, he seemed to _____; but Jane happened to look round, and happened to smile: it was decided.” Word bank: hesitate, venison, enabling, partridges

    Key: hesitate

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: In this chapter Elizabeth must read Darcy's reserve without prejudice and finds she cannot read it at all. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4).

    Sample answer: She asks "If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent?"; for the first time she does not jump to a conclusion, and the questions show her uncertainty.

28. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “If he fears me, why come hither? If he no longer cares for me, why silent? Teasing, teasing, man” (Chapter LIV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's frustration in a series of questions.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Jane claims indifference to Bingley that no one believes; both sisters struggle to read and to show their feelings.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

		recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 3, 9, 19, 2, 20, 6, 10, 11, 21, 12, 22, 14, 15, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	2, 24, 25, 1, 17, 26, 13, 11, 12, 21, 10, 14, 22, 27, 23, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	8, 17, 3, 6, 1, 28, 11, 21, 12, 13, 14, 27, 22, 15, 29, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 19, 1, 7, 12, 11, 13, 21, 10, 27, 22, 15, 14, 29, 23, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	2, 1, 9, 28, 11, 21, 13, 12, 22, 27, 14, 15, 16, 30, 23, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	24, 26, 20, 21, 12, 13, 10, 11, 27, 14, 15, 22, 30, 16, 29, 23	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	26, 1, 28, 10, 11, 12, 21, 13, 27, 14, 22, 15, 30, 23, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 18, 11, 13, 21, 28, 10, 12, 27, 15, 14, 22, 16, 30, 23, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 2, 10, 28, 21, 13, 12, 11, 22, 15, 27, 14, 23, 30, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 2, 21, 28, 12, 13, 10, 11, 27, 22, 15, 14, 30, 23, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter LIV," how does Austen show renewed hope? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LIV, how does Austen develop the idea of renewed hope? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LIV develops the idea of renewed hope. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of renewed hope. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LIV suggests about renewed hope. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LIV to complicate the reader's understanding of renewed hope. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of renewed hope responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of renewed hope follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LIV and its treatment of renewed hope. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LIV as evidence for a larger claim about renewed hope in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of renewed hope. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. The venison was roasted to a turn—and everybody said they never saw so fat a haunch.

   As used in the text, what does the word “venison” most nearly mean?

   A. came back to life; returned
   B. pause or hold back in uncertainty or unwillingness
   C. joyful and proud especially because of triumph or success
   D. deer meat

2. "Now," said she, "that this first meeting is over, I feel perfectly easy. I know my own strength, and I shall never be embarrassed again by his coming. I am glad he dines here on Tuesday. It will then be publicly seen, that on both sides, we meet only as common and indifferent acquaintance."

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LIV"?

A. Renewed hope
B. Departure and relief
C. The Brighton plan
D. Shameless return

SAT key: 1. D (deer meat); 2. A (Renewed hope)

Lesson 56: Chapter LV

Focus: happiness for Jane

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in “Chapter LV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Bingley proposes to Jane, who is overjoyed. Mr. Bennet jokes that they are so easy-going every servant will cheat them. The family celebrates.

Background: Engagements needed the father's consent.

Significance: Jane's happiness rewards her patience and goodness.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to marriage and money because….
Prompt: Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: a marriage of affection and fortune both.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: simpered — smiled in a silly, self-conscious way; panegyric — a speech or piece of writing full of praise; premeditation — planning something beforehand; tempers — natures; dispositions; dispense — administer or bestow, as in small portions. “panegyric”: From French panégyrique, from Ancient Greek πανηγυρικός. “dispense”: From Middle English -, from Old French dispenser, from Latin dispēnsāre "to weigh out, pay out, distribute, regulate, manage, control, dispense", frequentative of dispendere "to weigh out", from dis- "apart" + pendere "to weigh".
Words: simpered: smiled in a silly, self-conscious way · panegyric: a speech or piece of writing full of praise · premeditation: planning something beforehand · tempers: natures; dispositions · dispense: administer or bestow, as in small portions

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Engagements needed the father's consent. Jane's happiness rewards her patience and goodness. Characterization: Bingley proposes to Jane; Jane calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed." Characterization: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you." Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: "Bingley that could provoke his ridicule, or disgust him into silence; and he was more communicative, and less eccentric than the other" (Chapter LV, paragraph 20).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed" (Chapter LV, paragraph 52). Jane's joy. That is characterization at work: Bingley proposes to Jane; Jane calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed."

> I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed (Chapter LV, paragraph 52)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed" (Chapter LV, paragraph 52). Jane's joy. That is characterization at work: Bingley proposes to Jane; Jane calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Look at the craft: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you." Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: A marriage of affection and fortune both. (Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.)

> He is come—Mr. Bingley is come (Chapter LV, paragraph 7)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?

Expected answer: Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Look at the craft: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you."

Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?

Expected answer: A marriage of affection and fortune both. (Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about happiness for Jane? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LV develops the idea of happiness for Jane. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. When the text says "I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed" (Chapter LV, paragraph 52), it shows this directly. She calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed" and asks "why am I thus singled from my family," showing humility even in triumph.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about happiness for Jane? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LV develops the idea of happiness for Jane. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. When the text says "I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed" (Chapter LV, paragraph 52), it shows this directly. She calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed" and asks "why am I thus singled from my family," showing humility even in triumph.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why? Compare Jane's and Lydia's marriages.

Anchor question: Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why?

Facilitation: Compare Jane's and Lydia's marriages.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about happiness for Jane? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. ("I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed", Chapter LV, paragraph 52). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about happiness for Jane? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. ("I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed", Chapter LV, paragraph 52). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how characterization shapes happiness for Jane. Key takeaway: a marriage of affection and fortune both.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Bingley proposes to Jane; Jane calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed."
- Characterization: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you."

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: a marriage of affection and fortune both.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Bingley that could provoke his ridicule, or disgust him into silence; and he was more communicative, and less eccentric than the other” (Chapter LV, paragraph 20).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “away from him and her daughter. Elizabeth, who had a letter to write, went into the breakfast room for that purpose soon” (Chapter LV, paragraph 20).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52) Jane's joy.
- “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7) Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
- “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52) Jane's humility.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness.
Evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52)
Reasoning: She calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed" and asks "why am I thus singled from my family," showing humility even in triumph.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
simpered (verb)	smiled in a silly, self-conscious way	Kitty simpered and smiled, and hoped her turn was coming soon.

panegyric (noun)	a speech or piece of writing full of praise	This naturally introduced a panegyric from Jane on his diffidence, and the little value he put on his own good qualities.	"panegyric": From French panégyrique, from Ancient Greek πανηγυρικός. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/panegyric#Etymology)
premeditation (noun)	planning something beforehand	Jane instantly gave a look at Elizabeth, which spoke her distress at such premeditation, and her entreaty that she would not give into it.
tempers (noun)	natures; dispositions	Your tempers are by no means unlike.
dispense (verb)	administer or bestow, as in small portions	Her younger sisters soon began to make interest with her for objects of happiness which she might in future be able to dispense.	"dispense": From Middle English -, from Old French dispenser, from Latin dispēnsāre "to weigh out, pay out, distribute, regulate, manage, control, dispense", frequentative of dispendere "to weigh out", from dis- "apart" + pendere "to weigh". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dispense#Etymology)
eccentric (adjective)	odd; unusual in behavior	There was nothing of presumption or folly in Bingley that could provoke his ridicule, or disgust him into silence; and he was more communicative, and less eccentric than the other had ever seen him.
professed (verb)	practice as a profession, teach, or claim to be knowledgeable about	Bingley was everything that was charming, except the professed lover of her daughter.	"professed": From Old French professer, and its source, the participle stem of Latin profitērī, from pro- + fatērī "to confess, acknowledge". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/profess#Etymology)
embracing (verb)	hugging	Jane could have no reserves from Elizabeth, where confidence would give pleasure; and instantly embracing her, acknowledged, with the liveliest emotion, that she was the happiest creature in the world.	"embracing": The verb is derived from Middle English embracen "to clasp in one's arms, embrace; to reach out eagerly for, welcome; to enfold, entwine; to ensnare, entangle; to twist, wrap around; to gird, put on; to lace; to be in or put into bonds; to put a shield on the arm; to grasp (a shield or spear); to acquire, take hold of; to receive; to undertake; to affect, influence; to incite; to unlawfully influe (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/embrace#Etymology) allusion (noun)

	passing reference or indirect mention	Not a word, however, passed his lips in allusion to it, till their visitor took his leave for the night; but as soon as he was gone, he turned to his daughter and said—
ingenious (adjective)	showing inventiveness and skill	But on returning to the drawing-room, when her letter was finished, she saw, to her infinite surprise, there was reason to fear that her mother had been too ingenious for her.

Discussion questions

1. Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who proposes to Jane? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley
2. How does Jane react to Bingley's proposal? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Overjoyed
3. What does Mr. Bennet joke? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Every servant will cheat them
4. Who must consent? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet
5. What does Jane's engagement reward? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Patience and goodness
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter LV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Bingley proposes to Jane, who is overjoyed. Mr. Bennet jokes that they are so easy-going every servant will cheat them. The family celebrates.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter LV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter LV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Kitty simpered and smiled, and hoped her turn was coming soon.” What does “simpered” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: simpered: smiled in a silly, self-conscious way.
10. Reread: “This naturally introduced a panegyric from Jane on his diffidence, and the little value he put on his own good qualities.” What does “panegyric” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: panegyric: a speech or piece of writing full of praise.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LV” suggest about happiness for Jane? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Jane's happiness rewards her patience and goodness.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about happiness for Jane? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's joy. On characterization: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “She then sat still five minutes longer; but unable to waste such a precious occasion, she suddenly got up, and saying to Kitty, “Come here, my love, I want to speak to you,””, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Bingley proposes to Jane, who is overjoyed. Mr. Bennet jokes that they are so easy-going every servant will cheat them. The family celebrates.
6. How does “Chapter LV” build on “Chapter LIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7): Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's humility. On characterization: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Do Jane and Bingley deserve each other? Why?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's joy. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Engagements needed the father's consent. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7): Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Jane's happiness rewards her patience and goodness.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's humility. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's joy. On characterization: Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about happiness for Jane? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7): Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's humility. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's joy. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7): Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LV” treats happiness for Jane with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's humility. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LVI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's joy. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about happiness for Jane? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7): Mrs. Bennet's excitement:

repetition is her voice. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Useful evidence: “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52): Jane's humility. Theme link: a marriage of affection and fortune both. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who proposes to Jane?
   A. Wickham
   B. Collins
   C. Darcy
   D. Bingley

   Key: D (Bingley)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LV, paragraph 52: “why am I thus _____ from my family, and blessed above them all”

   Key: singled
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Jane react to Bingley's proposal?
   A. Overjoyed
   B. Unsure
   C. Angry
   D. Upset

   Key: A (Overjoyed)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “This naturally introduced a panegyric from Jane on his diffidence, and the little value he put on his own good qualities.”, what does “panegyric” most nearly mean?
   A. a speech or piece of writing full of praise
   B. stirred up again
   C. helped; came to the aid of
   D. be compatible or in accordance with

   Key: A (a speech or piece of writing full of praise)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LV, paragraph 7: “He is come—Mr. _____ is come”

   Key: Bingley

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Jane's engagement reward?

   A. Wit
   B. Wealth
   C. Patience and goodness
   D. Scheming

   Key: C (Patience and goodness)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who must consent?

   A. Caroline
   B. Darcy
   C. Lady Catherine
   D. Mr. Bennet

   Key: D (Mr. Bennet)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Jane could have no reserves from Elizabeth, where confidence would give pleasure; and instantly _____ her, acknowledged, with the liveliest emotion, that she was the happiest creature in the world.” Word bank: simpered, embracing, panegyric, premeditation

   Key: embracing

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LV, paragraph 52: “I am _____ the most fortunate creature that ever existed”

   Key: certainly

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7)

    A. Energetic, unconventional.
    B. Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
    C. The narrator shares Mr. Bennet's pleasure in absurdity.
    D. Darcy's reply suggests kinship between them.

    Key: B (Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane's joy.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52)

    A. Elizabeth's shock.
    B. Elizabeth's ironic, honest realization.
    C. Jane's joy.
    D. Wickham's interest shifts to an heiress, Miss King.

    Key: C (Jane's joy.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LV”?

    A. An unhappy marriage observed
    B. Jealousy at Pemberley
    C. Happiness for Jane
    D. Letters of judgment

    Key: C (Happiness for Jane)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LV”? Bingley proposes to Jane; Jane calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed."

    A. Plot
    B. Conflict
    C. Tone / mood
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? A marriage of affection and fortune both.

    A. Marriage and money
    B. Pride and self-knowledge
    C. Class and social mobility
    D. First impressions and prejudice

    Key: A (Marriage and money)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mr. Bennet joke?

    A. They will be poor
    B. Every servant will cheat them
    C. They will move abroad
    D. They will fight

    Key: B (Every servant will cheat them)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Your tempers are by no means unlike.”, what does “tempers” most nearly mean?

    A. causes (a feeling) in others
    B. natures; dispositions
    C. kept on despite difficulty
    D. capable of being borne or endured

    Key: B (natures; dispositions)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bingley was everything that was charming, except the _____ lover of her daughter.” Word bank: premeditation, panegyric, professed, simpered

    Key: professed

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “He is come—Mr. Bingley is come” (Chapter LV, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Jane's humility.

22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LV”? Mr. Bennet jokes that Jane and Bingley are so easy-going "every servant will cheat you."

    A. Characterization

    B. Point of view

    C. Setting

    D. Imagery

    Key: A (Characterization)

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed" and asks "why am I thus singled from my family," showing humility even in triumph.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Kitty simpered and smiled, and hoped her turn was coming soon.”, what does “simpered” most nearly mean?

    A. smiled in a silly, self-conscious way

    B. appear again

    C. a small coin of the United Kingdom worth six pennies; not minted since 1970

    D. expose or make accessible to some action or influence

    Key: A (smiled in a silly, self-conscious way)

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “There was nothing of presumption or folly in Bingley that could provoke his ridicule, or disgust him into silence; and he was more communicative, and less _____ than the other had ever seen him.” Word bank: premeditation, simpered, panegyric, eccentric

    Key: eccentric

26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “why am I thus singled from my family, and blessed above them all” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52)

    A. Jane's charitable explanation.

    B. Opening.

    C. Jane's humility.

    D. Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.

    Key: C (Jane's humility.)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: a marriage of affection and fortune both.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Jane's joy.

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Jane's engagement rewards her patience and goodness. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I am certainly the most fortunate creature that ever existed” (Chapter LV, paragraph 52).

    Sample answer: She calls herself "the most fortunate creature that ever existed" and asks "why am I thus singled from my family," showing humility even in triumph.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Her younger sisters soon began to make interest with her for objects of happiness which she might in future be able to _____.” Word bank: dispense, panegyric, simpered, premeditation

    Key: dispense

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 7, 1, 8, 5, 17, 18, 19, 20, 10, 11, 13, 21, 14, 22, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 8, 24, 25, 4, 7, 12, 26, 20, 13, 11, 22, 15, 14, 27, 28	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 9, 17, 1, 5, 12, 20, 26, 13, 10, 21, 22, 29, 14, 23, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 3, 2, 8, 12, 26, 10, 11, 20, 14, 21, 15, 22, 23, 28, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 6, 19, 26, 13, 20, 11, 22, 14, 21, 15, 29, 23, 16, 28, 27	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	25, 3, 30, 13, 11, 10, 26, 29, 22, 21, 14, 15, 27, 23, 16, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	19, 30, 12, 10, 26, 20, 11, 22, 15, 21, 29, 14, 28, 16, 27, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	25, 30, 13, 12, 26, 10, 11, 21, 29, 15, 14, 22, 28, 27, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	30, 25, 20, 12, 11, 10, 26, 29, 14, 21, 22, 15, 16, 28, 23, 27	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	30, 25, 13, 12, 11, 10, 20, 22, 15, 29, 21, 14, 27, 16, 23, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LV,” how does Austen show happiness for Jane? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LV, how does Austen develop the idea of happiness for Jane? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LV develops the idea of happiness for Jane. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of happiness for Jane. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LV suggests about happiness for Jane. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses plot in Chapter LV to complicate the reader's understanding of happiness for Jane. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of happiness for Jane responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of happiness for Jane follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LV and its treatment of happiness for Jane. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LV as evidence for a larger claim about happiness for Jane in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of happiness for Jane. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Jane instantly gave a look at Elizabeth, which spoke her distress at such premeditation, and her entreaty that she would not give into it.

   As used in the text, what does the word "premeditation" most nearly mean?

   A. showing inventiveness and skill
   B. hugging
   C. passing reference or indirect mention
   D. planning something beforehand

2. She then sat still five minutes longer; but unable to waste such a precious occasion, she suddenly got up, and saying to Kitty, "Come here, my love, I want to speak to you," took her out of the room. Jane instantly gave a look at Elizabeth, which spoke her distress at such premeditation, and her entreaty that she would not give into it.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LV"?

   A. Parental failure
   B. A changed Darcy
   C. Happiness for Jane
   D. The accomplished woman

SAT key: 1. D (planning something beforehand); 2. C (Happiness for Jane)

Lesson 57: Chapter LVI

Focus: the great confrontation

Objective: Students will analyze how conflict develops in “Chapter LVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Lady Catherine arrives unexpectedly and demands that Elizabeth promise never to marry Darcy, claiming he is engaged to Anne. Elizabeth refuses to promise anything, defending her right to choose.

Background: Aristocratic marriages were often arranged to keep wealth in families.

Significance: Elizabeth's defiance is a high point of independence against rank.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to women's choices because….
> Prompt: What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to women's choices because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: dissuaded — talked out of something; upstart — having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly; trifled — treated lightly; toyed with; equipage — a carriage with its horses and servants; patched — hastily put together. “dissuaded”: From Middle French dissuader, from Latin dissuādeō "to urge differently”, “to advise against”, “to dissuade", from dis- "away from”, “asunder" + suādeō "to recommend”, “to advise”, “to urge". “upstart”: From Middle English upstarten, upsterten, equivalent to up- + start. “trifled”: From Middle English trefle,trifel,trifle,triful,trufful,truyfle "false or idle tale; nonsense; playful activity; something unimportant", from Old French trufle "mockery", a byform of trufe, truffe "deception", of uncertain origin. “equipage”: From Middle French equippage, from equipper. The "carriage" sense may be influenced by Latin equus "horse".
> Words: dissuaded: talked out of something · upstart: having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly · trifled: treated lightly; toyed with · equipage: a carriage with its horses and servants · patched: hastily put together

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Aristocratic marriages were often arranged to keep wealth in families. Elizabeth's defiance is a high point of independence against rank. Characterization: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything. Dialogue: The confrontation is the novel's most dramatic exchange: rank against reason. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "Elizabeth had mentioned her name to her mother, on her ladyship's entrance, though no request of introduction had been made" (Chapter LVI, paragraph 3).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted" (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62). Lady Catherine's snobbery. That is characterization at work: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything.

> Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted" (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62). Lady Catherine's snobbery. That is characterization at work: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "In my own opinion" asserts independence. Women's choices. Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices? Expected: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. (Elizabeth's independence.)

> I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "In my own opinion" asserts independence. Women's choices.
Ask: How does this line connect to women's choices?
Expected answer: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. (Elizabeth's independence.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the great confrontation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVI develops the idea of the great confrontation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. When the text says “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68), it shows this directly. She is "only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness," rejecting rank as a reason for obedience.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the great confrontation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVI develops the idea of the great confrontation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. When the text says “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68), it shows this directly. She is "only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness," rejecting rank as a reason for obedience.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine? Ask: what gives Elizabeth the courage? Compare with Charlotte.

Anchor question: What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine?

Facilitation: Ask: what gives Elizabeth the courage? Compare with Charlotte.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the great confrontation? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. (“I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness”, Chapter LVI, paragraph 68). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the great confrontation? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. (“I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness”, Chapter LVI, paragraph 68). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes the great confrontation. Key takeaway: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything.
- Dialogue: The confrontation is the novel's most dramatic exchange: rank against reason.

Themes and how they develop

- women's choices: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “Elizabeth had mentioned her name to her mother, on her ladyship’s entrance, though no request of introduction had been made” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 3).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “with the utmost politeness. After sitting for a moment in silence, she said very stiffly to Elizabeth” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 4).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62) Lady Catherine's snobbery.
- “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68) Elizabeth's independence.
- “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47) Lady Catherine's fury.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness.
Evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68)
Reasoning: She is "only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness," rejecting rank as a reason for obedience.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
dissuaded (verb)	talked out of something	You are to understand, Miss Bennet, that I came here with the determined resolution of carrying my purpose; nor will I be dissuaded from it.	“dissuaded”: From Middle French dissuader, from Latin dissuādeō "to urge differently”, “to advise against”, “to dissuade", from dis- "away from”, “asunder" + suādeō "to recommend”, “to advise”, “to urge". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dissuade#Etymology)
upstart (adjective)	having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly	The upstart pretensions of a young woman without family, connections, or fortune.	“upstart”: From Middle English upstarten, upsterten, equivalent to up- + start. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/upstart#Etymology)
trifled (verb)	treated lightly; toyed with	“Miss Bennet,” replied her ladyship, in an angry tone, “you ought to know that I am not to be trifled with.	“trifled”: From Middle English trefle,trifel,trifle,triful,trufful,truyfle "false or idle tale; nonsense; playful activity; something unimportant", from Old French trufle "mockery", a byform of trufe, truffe "deception", of uncertain origin. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trifle#Etymology)
equipage (noun)	a carriage with its horses and servants	It was too early in the morning for visitors, and besides, the equipage did not answer to that of any of their neighbours.	“equipage”: From Middle French equippage, from equipper. The "carriage" sense may be influenced by Latin equus "horse". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/equipage#Etymology)
patched (adjective)	hastily put together	I know it all; that the young man’s marrying her, was a patched-up business, at the expense of your father and uncle.
retains (verb)	keeps	“It ought to be so; it must be so, while he retains the use of his reason.
pronouncing (verb)	speak, pronounce, or utter in a certain way	As they passed through the hall, Lady Catherine opened the doors into the dining-parlour and drawing-room, and pronouncing them, after a short survey, to be decent looking rooms, walked on.
	fail to agree with; be in violated (verb)	violation of; as of rules or patterns	No principle of either, would be violated by my marriage with Mr.

decorum (noun)	propriety in manners and conduct	"Because honour, decorum, prudence, nay, interest, forbid it.
parasol (noun)	a handheld collapsible source of shade	Elizabeth obeyed, and running into her own room for her parasol, attended her noble guest downstairs.	"parasol": From French parasol, from Italian parasole, from Italian parare + Italian sole. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/parasol#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine?
2. Where does conflict appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who visits Longbourn unexpectedly? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine
2. What does she demand? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A promise not to marry Darcy
3. Whom does she claim Darcy will marry? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Anne de Bourgh
4. How does Elizabeth respond to Lady Catherine's demand? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Refuses to promise
5. What is ironic about this visit? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: It gives Darcy hope
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LVI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine arrives unexpectedly and demands that Elizabeth promise never to marry Darcy, claiming he is engaged to Anne. Elizabeth refuses to promise anything, defending her right to choose.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LVI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “Chapter LVI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “You are to understand, Miss Bennet, that I came here with the determined resolution of carrying my purpose; nor will I be dissuaded from it.” What does “dissuaded” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: dissuaded: talked out of something.
10. Reread: “The upstart pretensions of a young woman without family, connections, or fortune.” What does “upstart” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: upstart: having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LVI” suggest about the great confrontation? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth's defiance is a high point of independence against rank.
2. Find one example of conflict in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the great confrontation? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62): Lady Catherine's snobbery. On characterization: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Elizabeth obeyed, and running into her own room for her parasol, attended her noble guest downstairs.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LVI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Lady Catherine arrives unexpectedly and demands that Elizabeth promise never to marry Darcy, claiming he is engaged to Anne. Elizabeth refuses to promise anything, defending her right to choose.
6. How does “Chapter LVI” build on “Chapter LV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68): Elizabeth's independence. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47): Lady Catherine's fury. On characterization: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid

Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What gives Elizabeth the courage to defy Lady Catherine?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62): Lady Catherine's snobbery. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Aristocratic marriages were often arranged to keep wealth in families. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68): Elizabeth's independence. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Elizabeth's defiance is a high point of independence against rank.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47): Lady Catherine's fury. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62): Lady Catherine's snobbery. On characterization: Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the great confrontation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68): Elizabeth's independence. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47): Lady Catherine's fury. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62): Lady Catherine's snobbery. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the conflict in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68): Elizabeth's independence. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter LVI” treats the great confrontation with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47): Lady Catherine's fury. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter LVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62): Lady Catherine's snobbery. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the great confrontation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68): Elizabeth's independence. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Useful evidence: “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47): Lady Catherine's fury. Theme link: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Conflict: look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I know it all; that the young man’s marrying her, was a _____-up business, at the expense of your father and uncle.” Word bank: dissuaded, upstart, trifled, patched

   Key: patched
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVI, paragraph 47: “Obstinate, _____ girl! I am ashamed of you”

   Key: headstrong
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who visits Longbourn unexpectedly?
   A. Georgiana
   B. Collins
   C. Lady Catherine
   D. Caroline

   Key: C (Lady Catherine)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is ironic about this visit?
   A. It gives Darcy hope
   B. It brings Collins

   C. It is friendly
   D. It ends the romance

   Key: A (It gives Darcy hope)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does she demand?
   A. Money
   B. A visit to Rosings
   C. A promise not to marry Darcy
   D. An apology

   Key: C (A promise not to marry Darcy)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond to Lady Catherine's demand?
   A. Cries
   B. Faints
   C. Refuses to promise
   D. Agrees

   Key: C (Refuses to promise)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “You are to understand, Miss Bennet, that I came here with the determined resolution of carrying my purpose; nor will I be dissuaded from it.”, what does “dissuaded” most nearly mean?
   A. cold and unkind
   B. talked out of something
   C. very small portrait paintings
   D. playful behavior intended to arouse sexual interest

   Key: B (talked out of something)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““It ought to be so; it must be so, while he _____ the use of his reason.” Word bank: retains, dissuaded, trifled, upstart

   Key: retains

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was too early in the morning for visitors, and besides, the equipage did not answer to that of any of their neighbours.”, what does “equipage” most nearly mean?
   A. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner
   B. a carriage with its horses and servants
   C. tired out
   D. having

   Key: B (a carriage with its horses and servants)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68)
   A. Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.
   B. Elizabeth's shock.
   C. His reason.
   D. Elizabeth's independence.

Key: D (Elizabeth's independence.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's independence.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47)

    A. Collins's refusal of novels, written in a novel; Austen's joke at his expense.
    B. Lady Catherine's fury.
    C. Darcy's humility.
    D. Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.

    Key: B (Lady Catherine's fury.)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62)

    A. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
    B. Lady Catherine's snobbery.
    C. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
    D. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.

    Key: B (Lady Catherine's snobbery.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68).

    Sample answer: She is "only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness," rejecting rank as a reason for obedience.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Obstinate, headstrong girl! I am ashamed of you” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 47). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Lady Catherine's fury.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 68) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's independence.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVI, paragraph 62: “Are the shades of _____ to be thus polluted”

    Key: Pemberley

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “As they passed through the hall, Lady Catherine opened the doors into the dining-parlour and drawing-room, and _____ them, after a short survey, to be decent looking rooms, walked on.” Word bank: upstart, dissuaded, trifled, pronouncing

    Key: pronouncing

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does she claim Darcy will marry?

    A. Georgiana
    B. Anne de Bourgh

C. Caroline
D. Charlotte

Key: B (Anne de Bourgh)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "“Miss Bennet,” replied her ladyship, in an angry tone, “you ought to know that I am not to be trifled with.”, what does “trifled” most nearly mean?
    A. any man who serves as a sponsor for a child at baptism
    B. varied
    C. treated lightly; toyed with
    D. look down on with disdain

    Key: C (treated lightly; toyed with)
21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LVI”?
    A. The great confrontation
    B. Pompous flattery
    C. Strategy in courtship
    D. Trusted relatives

    Key: A (The great confrontation)
22. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LVI”? Lady Catherine arrives to forbid Elizabeth's engagement to Darcy; Elizabeth refuses to promise anything.
    A. Characterization
    B. Tone / mood
    C. Theme
    D. Point of view

    Key: A (Characterization)
23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Lady Catherine's snobbery.
24. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Are the shades of Pemberley to be thus polluted” (Chapter LVI, paragraph 62) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Lady Catherine's snobbery.
25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LVI”? The confrontation is the novel's most dramatic exchange: rank against reason.
    A. Imagery
    B. Plot
    C. Hyperbole
    D. Dialogue

    Key: D (Dialogue)
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how women's choices develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LVI”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth asserts her right to choose her own happiness.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “The upstart pretensions of a young woman without family, connections, or fortune.”, what does “upstart” most nearly mean?
    A. give displeasure to
    B. having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly
    C. coming close (to)
    D. provide physical relief, as from pain

    Key: B (having risen above one's position and behaving arrogantly)
28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “No principle of either, would be _____ by my marriage with Mr.” Word bank: violated, dissuaded, trifled, upstart

    Key: violated
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth's refusal to obey Lady Catherine asserts her right to choose her own happiness.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She is "only resolved to act in that manner which will, in my own opinion, constitute my happiness," rejecting rank as a reason for obedience.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 17, 7, 18, 2, 19, 20, 9, 21, 10, 13, 12, 15, 22, 14, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	1, 5, 3, 7, 18, 19, 11, 24, 12, 10, 13, 14, 25, 15, 26, 23	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	27, 2, 6, 18, 5, 12, 21, 24, 13, 11, 15, 22, 25, 14, 16, 23	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 7, 17, 28, 11, 10, 21, 24, 12, 14, 25, 15, 22, 16, 26, 23	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 9, 8, 10, 11, 13, 12, 21, 15, 14, 25, 22, 23, 16, 26, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	1, 3, 8, 13, 10, 24, 12, 11, 22, 14, 15, 25, 26, 23, 16, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	1, 8, 24, 10, 11, 13, 21, 12, 22, 15, 14, 25, 26, 23, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 8, 24, 11, 13, 10, 12, 21, 22, 14, 25, 15, 29, 16, 26, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	1, 8, 24, 21, 11, 13, 10, 12, 14, 22, 25, 15, 26, 29, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	1, 8, 10, 11, 13, 12, 21, 24, 14, 22, 15, 25, 29, 26, 16, 23	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LVI,” how does Austen show the great confrontation? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the conflict you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LVI, how does Austen develop the idea of the great confrontation? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the conflict in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LVI develops the idea of the great confrontation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its conflict shape the reader's understanding of the great confrontation. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LVI suggests about the great confrontation. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's conflict and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses conflict in Chapter LVI to complicate the reader's understanding of the great confrontation. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the great confrontation responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the great confrontation follows or bends those conventions, using the conflict as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LVI and its treatment of the great confrontation. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's conflict and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LVI as evidence for a larger claim about the great confrontation in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the great confrontation. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. “Miss Bennet,” replied her ladyship, in an angry tone, “you ought to know that I am not to be trifled with.

   As used in the text, what does the word “trifled” most nearly mean?

   A. propriety in manners and conduct
   B. fail to agree with; be in violation of; as of rules or patterns
   C. a handheld collapsible source of shade
   D. treated lightly; toyed with

2. Elizabeth obeyed, and running into her own room for her parasol, attended her noble guest downstairs. As they passed through the hall, Lady Catherine opened the doors into the dining-parlour and drawing-room, and pronouncing them, after a short survey, to be decent looking rooms, walked on.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LVI”?

   A. A practical marriage
   B. The great confrontation
   C. A disastrous ball
   D. Trusted relatives

SAT key: 1. D (treated lightly; toyed with); 2. B (The great confrontation)

Lesson 58: Chapter LVII

Focus: a misguided warning

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter LVII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Mr. Bennet reads Elizabeth a letter from Collins warning against an engagement with Darcy and laughs at the idea, not knowing her feelings. Elizabeth must hide her pain.

Background: News traveled quickly through gossip networks in the gentry.

Significance: Mr. Bennet's laughter is painful dramatic irony.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to family and reputation because….
Prompt: Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: her father's wit fails her.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: cautioning — warning; closure — a coming together; an agreement; abominate — to hate; advertised — informed; told; blemish — a mark or flaw that spoils the appearance of something (especially on a person's body). “cautioning”: Recorded since 1297 as Middle English caucioun "bail, guarantee, pledge", from Old French caution "security, surety", itself from Latin cautiō, from cautus, past participle of caveō, cavēre "be on one's guard". “advertised”: From Middle English advertisen, from Anglo-Norman advertir "to inform", avertir, Middle French advertir, avertir "to warn, give notice to", with the French -iss- infix assimilated to -ise, -ize and probably influenced by the noun advertisement. Compare also advert.
Words: cautioning: warning · closure: a coming together; an agreement · abominate: to hate · advertised: informed; told · blemish: a mark or flaw that spoils the appearance of something (especially on a person's body)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
News traveled quickly through gossip networks in the gentry. Mr. Bennet's laughter is painful dramatic irony. Characterization: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth. Irony: Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh. Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "appeared, had actually taken the trouble of this journey from Rosings, for the sole purpose of breaking off her supposed engagement with" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18). Mr. Bennet's joke. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth.

> Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18). Mr. Bennet's joke. That is characterization at work: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Look at the craft: Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: Her father's wit fails her. (Mr. Bennet's philosophy.)

> For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Look at the craft: Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: Her father's wit fails her. (Mr. Bennet's philosophy.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a misguided warning? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVII develops the idea of a misguided warning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. When the text says “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He asks "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?" but Elizabeth "could not be easily overcome," her feelings beyond his joke.

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a misguided warning? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVII develops the idea of a misguided warning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. When the text says “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He asks "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?" but Elizabeth "could not be easily overcome," her feelings beyond his joke.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth? Ask: is Mr. Bennet's philosophy wise or cowardly?

Anchor question: Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth?

Facilitation: Ask: is Mr. Bennet's philosophy wise or cowardly?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a misguided warning? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. (“The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome”, Chapter LVII, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a misguided warning? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. (“The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome”, Chapter LVII, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes a misguided warning. Key takeaway: her father's wit fails her.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth.
- Irony: Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: her father's wit fails her.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “appeared, had actually taken the trouble of this journey from Rosings, for the sole purpose of breaking off her supposed engagement with” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “her father, who came out of his library with a letter in his hand” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 6).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18) Mr. Bennet's joke.
- “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22) Mr. Bennet's philosophy.
- “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1) Opening.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters.
Evidence: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: He asks "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?" but Elizabeth "could not be easily overcome," her feelings beyond his joke.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
cautioning (verb)	warning	" 'My motive for cautioning you is as follows.	"cautioning": Recorded since 1297 as Middle English caucioun "bail, guarantee, pledge", from Old French caution "security, surety", itself from Latin cautiō, from cautus, past participle of caveō, cavēre "be on one's guard". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/caution#Etymology)
closure (noun)	a coming together; an agreement	Yet in spite of all these temptations, let me warn my cousin Elizabeth, and yourself, of what evils you may incur, by a precipitate closure with this gentleman's proposals, which, of course, you will be inclined to take immediate advantage of.'
abominate (verb)	to hate	Much as I abominate writing, I would not give up Mr.
advertised (verb)	informed; told	Collins and myself on this happy event, let me now add a short hint on the subject of another: of which we have been advertised by the same authority.	"advertised": From Middle English advertisen, from Anglo-Norman advertir "to inform", avertir, Middle French advertir, avertir "to warn, give notice to", with the French -iss- infix assimilated to -ise, -ize and probably influenced by the noun advertisement. Compare also advert. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/advertise#Etymology)
blemish (noun)	a mark or flaw that spoils the appearance of something (especially on a person's body)	Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish, and who probably never looked at you in his life!
wavering (verb)	pause or hold back in uncertainty or unwillingness	If he had been wavering before as to what he should do, which had often seemed likely, the advice and entreaty of so near a relation might settle every doubt, and determine him at once to be as happy, as dignity unblemished could make him.	"wavering": The verb is derived from Middle English waveren "to move back and forth, swing; to move unsteadily, totter; to shake, tremble; to wander; (figurative) to be changeable or unstable; to deviate", and then possibly: (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/waver#Etymology)

diverted (verb)	amused	“Oh!” cried Elizabeth, “I am excessively diverted.	“diverted”: From Middle English diverten, Old French divertir "to turn or go different ways, part, separate, divert", from Latin di- "apart" + vertere "to turn"; see verse. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/divert#Etymology)
consequent (adjective)	following or accompanying as a consequence	It suddenly struck her that it might be from Lady Catherine; and she anticipated with dismay all the consequent explanations.	“consequent”: Borrowed from Middle French conséquent, from Latin consequens, consequentem, present participle of consequi "to follow", from con- + sequi "to follow". Compare French conséquent. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/consequent#Etymology)
pitched (verb)	settled on; chose	Could he, or the Lucases, have pitched on any man within the circle of our acquaintance, whose name would have given the lie more effectually to what they related?
declaring (verb)	state emphatically and authoritatively	I must not, however, neglect the duties of my station, or refrain from declaring my amazement, at hearing that you received the young couple into your house as soon as they were married.	“declaring”: From Middle English declaren, from Old French declarer, from Latin dēclārō "to make clear", from dē- + clārus "clear". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/declare#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with pride and self-knowledge?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who sends a warning letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Collins
2. What is the warning about? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: An engagement with Darcy

3. How does Mr. Bennet react to Collins's warning letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He laughs
4. How does Elizabeth feel while her father laughs at the letter? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She must hide her pain
5. What device does Austen use? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Dramatic irony
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LVII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet reads Elizabeth a letter from Collins warning against an engagement with Darcy and laughs at the idea, not knowing her feelings. Elizabeth must hide her pain.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LVII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter LVII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "" 'My motive for cautioning you is as follows." What does "cautioning" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: cautioning: warning.
10. Reread: "Yet in spite of all these temptations, let me warn my cousin Elizabeth, and yourself, of what evils you may incur, by a precipitate closure with this gentleman's proposals, which, of course, you will be inclined to take…" What does "closure" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: closure: a coming together; an agreement.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter LVII" suggest about a misguided warning? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet's laughter is painful dramatic irony.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about a misguided warning? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's joke. On characterization: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "If he had been wavering before as to what he should do, which had often seemed likely, the advice and entreaty of so near a relation might settle every doubt, and determine him at…", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter LVII", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet reads Elizabeth a letter from Collins warning against an engagement with Darcy and laughs at the idea, not knowing her feelings. Elizabeth must hide her pain.

6. How does “Chapter LVII” build on “Chapter LVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22): Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1): Opening. On characterization: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why can't Elizabeth tell her father the truth?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with pride and self-knowledge? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's joke. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: News traveled quickly through gossip networks in the gentry. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22): Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mr. Bennet's laughter is painful dramatic irony.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's joke. On characterization: Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter LVII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a misguided warning? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22): Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter LVII": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to marriage and money: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's joke. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: "For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22): Mr. Bennet's philosophy. On irony: Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter LVII” treats a misguided warning with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LVIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18): Mr. Bennet's joke. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a misguided warning? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22): Mr. Bennet's philosophy. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Useful evidence: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1): Opening. Theme link: her father's wit fails her. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mr. Bennet react to Collins's warning letter?
   A. He is silent
   B. He laughs

   C. He is angry
   D. He is sad

   Key: B (He laughs)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It suddenly struck her that it might be from Lady Catherine; and she anticipated with dismay all the _____ explanations.” Word bank: consequent, abominate, cautioning, closure

   Key: consequent

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVII, paragraph 18: “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a _____”

   Key: blemish

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVII, paragraph 22: “For what do we live but to make sport for our _____, and laugh at them in our turn”

   Key: neighbours

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the warning about?
   A. The entail
   B. An engagement with Darcy
   C. Lydia
   D. Jane

   Key: B (An engagement with Darcy)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who sends a warning letter?
   A. Lady Catherine
   B. Charlotte
   C. Mr. Collins
   D. Wickham

   Key: C (Mr. Collins)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Yet in spite of all these temptations, let me warn my cousin Elizabeth, and yourself, of what evils you may incur, by a precipitate closure with this gentleman’s proposals, which, of course, you will be inclined to take…”, what does “closure” most nearly mean?
   A. assets in the form of money
   B. tricks or schemes
   C. reasons for doing something
   D. a coming together; an agreement

   Key: D (a coming together; an agreement)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVII, paragraph 1: “The discomposure of spirits which this _____ visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome”

   Key: extraordinary

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a _____, and who probably never looked at you in his life!” Word bank: cautioning, closure, abominate, blemish

   Key: blemish

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's philosophy.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22)

    A. Elizabeth's refusal.
    B. The colonel on money.
    C. Mr. Bennet's philosophy.
    D. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.

    Key: C (Mr. Bennet's philosophy.)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's joke.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18)

    A. His reason.
    B. Mr. Bennet's joke.
    C. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
    D. Elizabeth reads Miss Bingley correctly.

    Key: B (Mr. Bennet's joke.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LVII”? Mr. Bennet reads Collins's letter warning against the match and laughs at the idea of Darcy loving Elizabeth.

    A. Characterization
    B. Irony
    C. Diction / vocabulary
    D. Structure

    Key: A (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Opening.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mr. Darcy, who never looks at any woman but to see a blemish” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's joke.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Much as I abominate writing, I would not give up Mr.”, what does “abominate” most nearly mean?

    A. to accept quietly
    B. inquire into
    C. to hate

D. explained; revealed

Key: C (to hate)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "" 'My motive for cautioning you is as follows.", what does "cautioning" most nearly mean?
   A. warning
   B. owing thanks to someone
   C. drawn out with difficulty
   D. a component that is added to something to improve it

   Key: A (warning)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "If he had been _____ before as to what he should do, which had often seemed likely, the advice and entreaty of so near a relation might settle every doubt, and determine him at once to be as happy, as dignity unblemished could make him." Word bank: abominate, closure, cautioning, wavering

   Key: wavering

20. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? "The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome" (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1)
   A. Mr. Bennet's blessing.
   B. Mr. Bennet's announcement.
   C. Lydia's voice.
   D. Opening.

   Key: D (Opening.)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter LVII"? Mr. Bennet's joke wounds Elizabeth, who cannot laugh.
   A. Irony
   B. Allusion
   C. Personification
   D. Tone / mood

   Key: A (Irony)

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter LVII". Use one quotation from each.

   Sample answer: her father's wit fails her.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth feel while her father laughs at the letter?
   A. Delighted
   B. Indifferent
   C. Relieved
   D. She must hide her pain

   Key: D (She must hide her pain)

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""Oh!" cried Elizabeth, "I am excessively _____." Word bank: cautioning, diverted, closure, abominate

   Key: diverted

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LVII”?
    A. Family dynamics and anticipation
    B. Letters of judgment
    C. Marriage as a social goal
    D. A misguided warning

    Key: D (A misguided warning)
26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The discomposure of spirits which this extraordinary visit threw Elizabeth into could not be easily overcome” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 1).

    Sample answer: He asks "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?" but Elizabeth "could not be easily overcome," her feelings beyond his joke.
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet's philosophy of laughter fails Elizabeth when it matters.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He asks "For what do we live, but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn?" but Elizabeth "could not be easily overcome," her feelings beyond his joke.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “For what do we live but to make sport for our neighbours, and laugh at them in our turn” (Chapter LVII, paragraph 22) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's philosophy.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 7, 17, 2, 18, 6, 9, 19, 20, 11, 10, 13, 21, 15, 14, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 4, 6, 23, 1, 24, 13, 20, 11, 25, 10, 21, 26, 14, 22, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	9, 17, 7, 24, 5, 11, 25, 10, 12, 13, 21, 15, 14, 26, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 23, 8, 2, 11, 25, 12, 13, 10, 14, 26, 15, 21, 28, 27, 22	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	7, 24, 19, 25, 13, 20, 12, 10, 26, 21, 14, 15, 27, 16, 22, 28	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	8, 9, 5, 25, 12, 20, 10, 11, 26, 14, 21, 15, 22, 16, 28, 27	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 19, 11, 12, 13, 10, 20, 25, 21, 14, 26, 15, 28, 22, 16, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	2, 4, 13, 20, 25, 10, 12, 11, 14, 26, 21, 15, 28, 22, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	8, 4, 25, 10, 11, 20, 12, 13, 15, 26, 21, 14, 22, 16, 28, 27	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Graduate / PhD	8, 24, 13, 20, 10, 12, 25, 11, 15, 21, 26, 14, 27, 22, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LVII,” how does Austen show a misguided warning? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LVII, how does Austen develop the idea of a misguided warning? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LVII develops the idea of a misguided warning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of a misguided warning. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LVII suggests about a misguided warning. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses irony in Chapter LVII to complicate the reader's understanding of a misguided warning. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a misguided warning responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a misguided warning follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LVII and its treatment of a misguided warning. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LVII as evidence for a larger claim about a misguided warning in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a misguided warning. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Much as I abominate writing, I would not give up Mr.

   As used in the text, what does the word “abominate” most nearly mean?

   A. to hate
   B. settled on; chose
   C. following or accompanying as a consequence
   D. state emphatically and authoritatively

2. If he had been wavering before as to what he should do, which had often seemed likely, the advice and entreaty of so near a relation might settle every doubt, and determine him at once to be as happy, as dignity unblemished could make him. In that case he would return no more. Lady Catherine might see him in her way through town; and his engagement to Bingley of coming again to Netherfield must give way.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LVII”?

   A. Disappointment and philosophy
   B. Letters of judgment
   C. Consequences of refusal
   D. A misguided warning

SAT key: 1. A (to hate); 2. D (A misguided warning)

Lesson 59: Chapter LVIII

Focus: the second proposal

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Walking out together, Elizabeth thanks Darcy for what he did for Lydia. He says he thought only of her, and renews his proposal; she accepts. They admit how each has changed: he was proud and selfish, she prejudiced. Lady Catherine's visit, he says, gave him hope.

Background: Proposals during walks were among the few private moments a courting couple had.

Significance: Mutual change makes the resolution earned rather than merely romantic.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> How have both characters changed, and who changed more? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to pride and prejudice because….
> Prompt: How have both characters changed, and who changed more?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to pride and prejudice because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: both acknowledge their faults.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: retrospections — thoughts about the past; outstrip — to get ahead of; unexampled — never seen before; unequaled; annexed — attached; narrowly — closely; carefully. “annexed”: Borrowed from French annexe, from Latin annexus. More at Etymology 2. See also an-#Etymology_4. “narrowly”: From Middle English narowly, equivalent to narrow + -ly.
> Words: retrospections: thoughts about the past · outstrip: to get ahead of · unexampled: never seen before; unequaled · annexed: attached · narrowly: closely; carefully

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Proposals during walks were among the few private moments a courting couple had. Mutual change makes the resolution earned rather than merely romantic. Characterization: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes. Dialogue: Darcy admits he was "a selfish being all my life." Watch for rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: "emphatically on every expression of the latter, which, in her ladyship's apprehension, peculiarly denoted her perverseness and assurance, in the belief that" (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 9).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever" (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7). Darcy's humility. That is characterization at work: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes.

> My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever" (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7). Darcy's humility. That is characterization at work: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Darcy's self-knowledge. Look at the craft: Darcy admits he was "a selfish being all my life." Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice? Expected: Both acknowledge their faults. (Darcy's self-knowledge.)

> I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Darcy's self-knowledge. Look at the craft: Darcy admits he was "a selfish being all my life."
Ask: How does this line connect to pride and prejudice?
Expected answer: Both acknowledge their faults. (Darcy's self-knowledge.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the second proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVIII develops the idea of the second proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. When the text says “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Darcy says "my affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me," and admits "I have been a selfish being all my life."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the second proposal? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LVIII develops the idea of the second proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. When the text says “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Darcy says "my affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me," and admits "I have been a selfish being all my life."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How have both characters changed, and who changed more? Compare the two proposals line by line.

Anchor question: How have both characters changed, and who changed more?

Facilitation: Compare the two proposals line by line.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the second proposal? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. (“My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever”, Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the second proposal? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. (“My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever”, Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes the second proposal. Key takeaway: both acknowledge their faults.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes.
- Dialogue: Darcy admits he was "a selfish being all my life."

Themes and how they develop

- pride and prejudice: both acknowledge their faults.

Symbols and motifs

- rank and condescension: Rank is displayed and enforced, above all at Rosings by Lady Catherine; Elizabeth refuses to be cowed. In this chapter: “emphatically on every expression of the latter, which, in her ladyship’s apprehension, peculiarly denoted her perverseness and assurance, in the belief that” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 9).
- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7) Darcy's humility.
- “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24) Darcy's self-knowledge.
- “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10) Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility.
Evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7)
Reasoning: Darcy says "my affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me," and admits "I have been a selfish being all my life."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history

retrospections (noun)	thoughts about the past	Your retrospections must be so totally void of reproach, that the contentment arising from them, is not of philosophy, but what is much better, of ignorance.
outstrip (verb)	to get ahead of	Bingley and Jane, however, soon allowed the others to outstrip them.
unexampled (adjective)	never seen before; unequaled	I can no longer help thanking you for your unexampled kindness to my poor sister.
annexed (verb)	attached	"We will not quarrel for the greater share of blame annexed to that evening," said Elizabeth.	"annexed": Borrowed from French annexe, from Latin annexus. More at Etymology 2. See also an-#Etymology_4. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/annex#Etymology)
narrowly (adverb)	closely; carefully	I had narrowly observed her during the two visits which I had lately made her here; and I was convinced of her affection."	"narrowly": From Middle English narowly, equivalent to narrow + -ly. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/narrowly#Etymology)
abusing (verb)	treat badly	After abusing you so abominably to your face, I could have no scruple in abusing you to all your relations."
gratefully (adverb)	with appreciation; in a grateful manner	Ever since I have known it, I have been most anxious to acknowledge to you how gratefully I feel it.
watches (noun)	a small portable timepiece	After walking several miles in a leisurely manner, and too busy to know anything about it, they found at last, on examining their watches, that it was time to be at home.
premises (noun)	assumptions an argument is based on	For though your accusations were ill-founded, formed on mistaken premises, my behaviour to you at the time had merited the severest reproof.
executed (verb)	carried out	Now was the moment for her resolution to be executed, and, while her courage was high, she immediately said—

Discussion questions

1. How have both characters changed, and who changed more?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with marriage and money?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth thank Darcy for? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Helping Lydia
2. What does Darcy do? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Renews his proposal
3. How does Elizabeth respond to Darcy's second proposal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Accepts
4. What do they admit? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He was proud, she was prejudiced
5. What gave Darcy hope? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine's report of Elizabeth's refusal to promise
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LVIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Walking out together, Elizabeth thanks Darcy for what he did for Lydia. He says he thought only of her, and renews his proposal; she accepts. They admit how each has changed: he was proud and selfish, she prejudiced. Lady Catherine's visit, he says, gave him hope.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LVIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter LVIII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Your retrospections must be so totally void of reproach, that the contentment arising from them, is not of philosophy, but what is much better, of ignorance." What does "retrospections" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: retrospections: thoughts about the past.
10. Reread: "Bingley and Jane, however, soon allowed the others to outstrip them." What does "outstrip" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: outstrip: to get ahead of.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LVIII” suggest about the second proposal? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mutual change makes the resolution earned rather than merely romantic.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about the second proposal? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7): Darcy's humility. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “They walked towards the Lucases, because Kitty wished to call upon Maria; and as Elizabeth saw no occasion for making it a general concern, when Kitty left them, she went boldly…”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Walking out together, Elizabeth thanks Darcy for what he did for Lydia. He says he thought only of her, and renews his proposal; she accepts. They admit how each has changed: he was proud and selfish, she prejudiced. Lady Catherine's visit, he says, gave him hope.
6. How does “Chapter LVIII” build on “Chapter LVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-knowledge. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10): Lady Catherine's report gave him hope. On characterization: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How have both characters changed, and who changed more?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does plot appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with marriage and money? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7): Darcy's humility. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Proposals during walks were among the few private moments a courting couple had. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-knowledge. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mutual change makes the resolution earned rather than merely romantic.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10): Lady Catherine's report gave him hope. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7): Darcy's humility. On characterization: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LVIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the second proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-knowledge. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LVIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10): Lady Catherine's report gave him hope. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to class and social mobility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7): Darcy's humility. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-knowledge. On characterization: Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LVIII” treats the second proposal with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10): Lady Catherine's report gave him hope. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7): Darcy's humility. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the second proposal? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24): Darcy's self-knowledge. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Useful evidence: “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10): Lady Catherine's report gave him hope. Theme link: both acknowledge their faults. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Ever since I have known it, I have been most anxious to acknowledge to you how _____ I feel it.” Word bank: gratefully, outstrip, unexampled, retrospections

   Key: gratefully
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What do they admit?
   A. He was proud, she was prejudiced
   B. They do not care
   C. They are poor
   D. They should never have met

   Key: A (He was proud, she was prejudiced)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “I can no longer help thanking you for your unexampled kindness to my poor sister.”, what does “unexampled” most nearly mean?
   A. in a manner acceptable to common custom
   B. never seen before; unequaled
   C. giving careful attention to detail; hard to please; excessively concerned with cleanliness
   D. to a great extent or degree

   Key: B (never seen before; unequaled)
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth thank Darcy for?
   A. Leaving
   B. Showing her Pemberley
   C. His letter
   D. Helping Lydia

   Key: D (Helping Lydia)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “After _____ you so abominably to your face, I could have no scruple in abusing you to all your relations.”” Word bank: unexampled, outstrip, abusing, retrospections

   Key: abusing

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What gave Darcy hope?
   A. A letter from Jane
   B. Lady Catherine's report of Elizabeth's refusal to promise
   C. Bingley's advice
   D. Lydia's slip

   Key: B (Lady Catherine's report of Elizabeth's refusal to promise)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bingley and Jane, however, soon allowed the others to outstrip them.”, what does “outstrip” most nearly mean?
   A. explained; revealed
   B. bags for holding sewing or needlework
   C. to get ahead of
   D. cause to feel resentment or indignation

   Key: C (to get ahead of)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Your retrospections must be so totally void of reproach, that the contentment arising from them, is not of philosophy, but what is much better, of ignorance.”, what does “retrospections” most nearly mean?
   A. appear again
   B. alter or regulate so as to achieve accuracy or conform to a standard
   C. thoughts about the past
   D. kept on despite difficulty

   Key: C (thoughts about the past)
9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24: “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in _____”
   Key: principle
10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LVIII”?
    A. The second proposal
    B. Happiness for Jane
    C. Puzzling visits
    D. A disastrous ball

    Key: A (The second proposal)
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24)
    A. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
    B. Darcy's self-knowledge.
    C. The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.
    D. The Gardiners honoured.

    Key: B (Darcy's self-knowledge.)
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Darcy's humility.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's self-knowledge.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LVIII”? Darcy admits he was "a selfish being all my life."

    A. Irony
    B. Foreshadowing
    C. Metaphor
    D. Dialogue

    Key: D (Dialogue)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7).

    Sample answer: Darcy says "my affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me," and admits "I have been a selfish being all my life."

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LVIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: both acknowledge their faults.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth respond to Darcy's second proposal?

    A. Accepts
    B. Asks for time
    C. Laughs
    D. Refuses

    Key: A (Accepts)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““We will not quarrel for the greater share of blame annexed to that evening,” said Elizabeth.”, what does “annexed” most nearly mean?

    A. quickness and ease
    B. decorated panels used to shield from heat or drafts
    C. a carriage with its horses and servants
    D. attached

    Key: D (attached)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7: “My _____ and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever”

    Key: affections

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I had _____ observed her during the two visits which I had lately made her here; and I was convinced of her affection.”” Word bank: unexampled, outstrip, narrowly, retrospections

    Key: narrowly

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7)
    A. Her judgment follows her feelings.
    B. Darcy's humility.
    C. Her self-analysis.
    D. Charlotte's honesty.

    Key: B (Darcy's humility.)
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.
23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Darcy do?
    A. Renews his proposal
    B. Says goodbye forever
    C. Leaves for London
    D. Insults her family

    Key: A (Renews his proposal)
24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LVIII”? Darcy's second proposal; Elizabeth accepts; they explain their changes.
    A. Conflict
    B. Setting
    C. Characterization
    D. Hyperbole

    Key: C (Characterization)
25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me on this subject forever” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Darcy's humility.
26. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “It taught me to hope” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 10)
    A. Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.
    B. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
    C. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.
    D. Ironic "pitiable": she suffers only for herself.

    Key: A (Lady Catherine's report gave him hope.)
27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “After walking several miles in a leisurely manner, and too busy to know anything about it, they found at last, on examining their _____, that it was time to be at home.” Word bank: watches, retrospections, unexampled, outstrip
    Key: watches
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The second proposal succeeds because both have learned humility.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: Darcy says "my affections and wishes are unchanged, but one word from you will silence me," and admits "I have been a selfish being all my life."

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I have been a selfish being all my life, in practice, though not in principle” (Chapter LVIII, paragraph 24) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Darcy's self-knowledge.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	6, 17, 8, 18, 2, 19, 20, 4, 13, 12, 21, 10, 15, 22, 14, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	1, 23, 19, 7, 5, 2, 11, 13, 21, 10, 12, 14, 24, 15, 16, 25	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	20, 1, 7, 2, 4, 11, 10, 13, 12, 26, 22, 15, 24, 14, 25, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 3, 27, 9, 21, 13, 11, 26, 12, 15, 24, 14, 22, 28, 16, 25	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	27, 19, 5, 12, 11, 26, 13, 10, 24, 14, 22, 15, 28, 16, 29, 25	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	20, 5, 8, 10, 11, 26, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 24, 25, 28, 16, 29	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	20, 19, 11, 21, 12, 10, 26, 13, 15, 22, 24, 14, 25, 16, 28, 29	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 20, 11, 21, 13, 26, 12, 10, 22, 15, 24, 14, 16, 29, 25, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	5, 20, 26, 12, 10, 21, 11, 13, 24, 14, 22, 15, 16, 29, 28, 25	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 20, 13, 21, 10, 26, 11, 12, 15, 24, 14, 22, 29, 16, 25, 28	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LVIII,” how does Austen show the second proposal? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LVIII, how does Austen develop the idea of the second proposal? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LVIII develops the idea of the second proposal. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of the second proposal. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LVIII suggests about the second proposal. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of the second proposal. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the second proposal responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the second proposal follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LVIII and its treatment of the second proposal. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LVIII as evidence for a larger claim about the second proposal in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the second proposal. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. I can no longer help thanking you for your unexampled kindness to my poor sister.

   As used in the text, what does the word "unexampled" most nearly mean?

   A. assumptions an argument is based on
   B. a small portable timepiece
   C. carried out
   D. never seen before; unequaled

2. They walked towards the Lucases, because Kitty wished to call upon Maria; and as Elizabeth saw no occasion for making it a general concern, when Kitty left them, she went boldly on with him alone. Now was the moment for her resolution to be executed, and, while her courage was high, she immediately said—

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LVIII"?

   A. Renewed hope
   B. A ridiculous proposal
   C. Scandal
   D. The second proposal

SAT key: 1. D (never seen before; unequaled); 2. D (The second proposal)

Lesson 60: Chapter LIX

Focus: confiding and consent

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LIX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth tells Jane, who is astonished; Elizabeth jokes she began to love Darcy on seeing Pemberley's grounds. Darcy asks Mr. Bennet's consent; Mr. Bennet questions Elizabeth seriously, fearing she might marry without respect. She explains Darcy's goodness and his role in Lydia's marriage. Mrs. Bennet is dazzled by his wealth.

Background: A father's consent was legally and socially central.

Significance: Mr. Bennet finally acts like a caring father.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to marriage and money because....
Prompt: Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to marriage and money because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: overflows — spills over; epithet — a descriptive name or title; doubting — feeling unsure; economy — careful management; saving; deserves — be worthy or deserving. “overflows”: From Middle English overflowen, from Old English oferflōwan, equivalent to over- + flow. “economy”: From Middle English yconomye, yconomy, borrowed via Old French yconomie or Medieval Latin from Latin oeconomia, from Ancient Greek οἰκονομία "management of a household, administration", from οἶκος "house" + νέμω "distribute, allocate". By surface analysis, eco- + -nomy. The first recorded sense of the word economy, found in a work possibly composed in 1440, is “the management of economic affairs”, “deserves”: From Middle English deserven, from Old French deservir, from Latin dēserviō, from dē- + serviō.
Words: overflows: spills over · epithet: a descriptive name or title · doubting: feeling unsure · economy: careful management; saving · deserves: be worthy or deserving

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
A father's consent was legally and socially central. Mr. Bennet finally acts like a caring father. Characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy. Dialogue: Father and daughter's most serious talk. Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “extraordinary. The acknowledged lovers talked and laughed, the unacknowledged were silent. Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37). Mr. Bennet's blessing. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy.

> I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37). Mr. Bennet's blessing. That is characterization at work: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Esteemed" means respected; he married without esteem and knows the cost. This links marriage to the book's argument about judgment. Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money? Expected: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. (Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.)

> I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Esteemed" means respected; he married without esteem and knows the cost. This links marriage to the book's argument about judgment.
Ask: How does this line connect to marriage and money?
Expected answer: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. (Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confiding and consent? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIX develops the idea of confiding and consent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. When the text says "I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, dialogue (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confiding and consent? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LIX develops the idea of confiding and consent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. When the text says "I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35), it shows this directly. He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth? Ask: why does Mr. Bennet's warning carry special weight? Recall Chapter XLII.

Anchor question: Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth?

Facilitation: Ask: why does Mr. Bennet's warning carry special weight? Recall Chapter XLII.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confiding and consent? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. ("I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband", Chapter LIX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confiding and consent? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. ("I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband", Chapter LIX, paragraph 35). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes confiding and consent. Key takeaway: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy.
- Dialogue: Father and daughter's most serious talk.

Themes and how they develop

- marriage and money: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “extraordinary. The acknowledged lovers talked and laughed, the unacknowledged were silent. Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 2).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “embarrassment a few days before, on his reading Mr. Collins’s letter; and after laughing at her some time, allowed her at last” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 40).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37) Mr. Bennet's blessing.
- “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1) Jane's question.
- “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35) Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage.
Evidence: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35)
Reasoning: He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
overflows (verb)	spills over	Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in mirth; and Elizabeth, agitated and confused, rather knew that she was happy, than felt herself to be so; for, besides the immediate embarrassment, there were other evils before her.	“overflows”: From Middle English overflowen, from Old English oferflōwan, equivalent to over- + flow. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/overflow#Etymology)
epithet (noun)	a descriptive name or title	Elizabeth could hardly help laughing at so convenient a proposal; yet was really vexed that her mother should be always giving him such an epithet.
doubting (verb)	feeling unsure	She could not determine how her mother would take it; sometimes doubting whether all his wealth and grandeur would be enough to overcome her abhorrence of the man.
economy (noun)	careful management; saving	It will save me a world of trouble and economy.	“economy”: From Middle English yconomye, yconomy, borrowed via Old French yconomie or Medieval Latin from Latin oeconomia, from Ancient Greek οἰκονομία "management of a household, administration", from οἶκος "house" + νέμω "distribute, allocate". By surface analysis, eco- + -nomy. The first recorded sense of the word economy, found in a work possibly composed in 1440, is “the management of economic affairs”, (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/economy#Etymology)
deserves (verb)	be worthy or deserving	If this be the case, he deserves you.	“deserves”: From Middle English deserven, from Old French deservir, from Latin dēserviō, from dē- + serviō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deserve#Etymology)
esteemed (verb)	regard highly; think much of	Were it for nothing but his love of you, I must always have esteemed him; but now, as Bingley’s friend and your husband, there can be only	“esteemed”: First at end of 16th century; Middle French estimer, Latin aestimō. (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/esteem#Etymology)

		Bingley and yourself more dear to me.
wonders (noun)	the feeling aroused by something strange and surprising	“This is an evening of wonders, indeed!
dreaded (verb)	be afraid or scared of; be frightened of	Everything was too recent for gaiety, but the evening passed tranquilly away; there was no longer anything material to be dreaded, and the comfort of ease and familiarity would come in time.
application (noun)	the act of bringing something to bear; using it for a particular purpose	Elizabeth reserved to herself the application for her mother’s.
motives (noun)	reasons for doing something	Elizabeth told her the motives of her secrecy.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with class and social mobility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Whom does Elizabeth tell first about her engagement? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Jane
2. How does Jane react to Elizabeth's news? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Astonished
3. Whom does Darcy ask for consent? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Mr. Bennet

4. What does Mr. Bennet fear? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: She will marry without respect
5. How does Mrs. Bennet react to the engagement to Darcy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Dazzled by his wealth
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter LIX" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth tells Jane, who is astonished; Elizabeth jokes she began to love Darcy on seeing Pemberley's grounds. Darcy asks Mr. Bennet's consent; Mr. Bennet questions Elizabeth seriously, fearing she might marry without respect. She explains Darcy's goodness and his role in Lydia's marriage. Mrs. Bennet is dazzled by his wealth.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter LIX"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter LIX" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in mirth; and Elizabeth, agitated and confused, rather knew that she was happy, than felt herself to be so; for, besides the immediate embarrassment, there…" What does "overflows" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: overflows: spills over.
10. Reread: "Elizabeth could hardly help laughing at so convenient a proposal; yet was really vexed that her mother should be always giving him such an epithet." What does "epithet" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: epithet: a descriptive name or title.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter LIX" suggest about confiding and consent? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mr. Bennet finally acts like a caring father.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about confiding and consent? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37): Mr. Bennet's blessing. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "The evening passed quietly, unmarked by anything extraordinary.", why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter LIX", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth tells Jane, who is astonished; Elizabeth jokes she began to love Darcy on seeing Pemberley's grounds. Darcy asks Mr. Bennet's consent; Mr. Bennet questions Elizabeth seriously, fearing she might marry without respect. She explains Darcy's goodness and his role in Lydia's marriage. Mrs.…

6. How does “Chapter LIX” build on “Chapter LVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1): Jane's question. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35): Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Mr. Bennet worry about Elizabeth?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with class and social mobility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37): Mr. Bennet's blessing. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: A father's consent was legally and socially central. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1): Jane's question. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Mr. Bennet finally acts like a caring father.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35): Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37): Mr. Bennet's blessing. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter LIX" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about confiding and consent? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1): Jane's question. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter LIX": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35): Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to women's limited choices: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37): Mr. Bennet's blessing. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: "My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to" (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1): Jane's question. On characterization: Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter LIX” treats confiding and consent with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35): Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37): Mr. Bennet's blessing. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about confiding and consent? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1): Jane's question. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Useful evidence: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35): Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage. Theme link: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIX, paragraph 1: “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been _____ to”

   Key: walking

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “If this be the case, he _____ you.”

   Word bank: overflows, epithet, deserves, doubting

   Key: deserves

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““This is an evening of _____, indeed!” Word bank: wonders, doubting, epithet, overflows

   Key: wonders

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Were it for nothing but his love of you, I must always have _____ him; but now, as Bingley’s friend and your husband, there can be only Bingley and yourself more dear to me.” Word bank: doubting, overflows, epithet, esteemed

   Key: esteemed

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mrs. Bennet react to the engagement to Darcy?

   A. Angry
   B. Calm
   C. Dazzled by his wealth
   D. Sad

   Key: C (Dazzled by his wealth)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in mirth; and Elizabeth, agitated and confused, rather knew that she was happy, than felt herself to be so; for, besides the immediate embarrassment, there…”, what does “overflows” most nearly mean?

   A. spills over
   B. making by knotting thread into a net
   C. lack of worry or interest
   D. consider bad or wrong

   Key: A (spills over)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It will save me a world of trouble and economy.”, what does “economy” most nearly mean?

   A. careful management; saving
   B. chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food
   C. plays or sings for others
   D. attract; cause to be enamored

   Key: A (careful management; saving)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Whom does Darcy ask for consent?

   A. Mr. Bennet
   B. Mrs. Bennet
   C. Jane
   D. Lady Catherine

Key: A (Mr. Bennet)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She could not determine how her mother would take it; sometimes doubting whether all his wealth and grandeur would be enough to overcome her abhorrence of the man.”, what does “doubting” most nearly mean?
   - A. expressing congratulations
   - B. send away towards a designated goal
   - C. feeling unsure
   - D. planning something beforehand

   Key: C (feeling unsure)
10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Jane's question.
11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35)
    - A. Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.
    - B. The narrator's verdict on the Bennet marriage.
    - C. Charlotte's realism.
    - D. His reason.

    Key: A (Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.)
12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37)
    - A. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.
    - B. Mr. Bennet's blessing.
    - C. Miss Bingley's checklist.
    - D. Ironic praise of the Bingley sisters.

    Key: B (Mr. Bennet's blessing.)
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's blessing.
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LIX”? Elizabeth tells Jane and her father; Mr. Bennet worries she does not love Darcy.
    - A. Characterization
    - B. Structure
    - C. Metaphor
    - D. Alliteration

    Key: A (Characterization)
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35).

Sample answer: He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LIX”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Mr. Bennet fear?

A. She will marry without respect
B. Lydia will object
C. Darcy is poor
D. She will move abroad

Key: A (She will marry without respect)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIX, paragraph 37: “I could not have _____ with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy”

Key: parted

19. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1)

A. Jane's question.
B. Mr. Gardiner's reasoning that Wickham would not risk his career; Elizabeth knows better.
C. Opening.
D. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.

Key: A (Jane's question.)

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LIX”? Father and daughter's most serious talk.

A. Structure
B. Personification
C. Allusion
D. Dialogue

Key: D (Dialogue)

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Jane's question.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Elizabeth could hardly help laughing at so convenient a proposal; yet was really vexed that her mother should be always giving him such an epithet.”, what does “epithet” most nearly mean?

A. expressions of agreement
B. to get ahead of

C. outvoted; overridden
D. a descriptive name or title

Key: D (a descriptive name or title)

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LIX, paragraph 35: “I know that you could be neither happy nor _____, unless you truly esteemed your husband”

Key: respectable

25. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LIX”?

A. Parental conflict over the refusal
B. Confiding and consent
C. Self-recognition
D. The hidden benefactor

Key: B (Confiding and consent)

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

A. Marriage and money
B. Pride and self-knowledge
C. Class and social mobility
D. First impressions and prejudice

Key: A (Marriage and money)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Everything was too recent for gaiety, but the evening passed tranquilly away; there was no longer anything material to be _____, and the comfort of ease and familiarity would come in time.” Word bank: epithet, overflows, doubting, dreaded

Key: dreaded

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's blessing.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 4, 18, 5, 8, 6, 3, 2, 19, 10, 13, 12, 20, 14, 21, 22	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	6, 17, 2, 23, 4, 24, 10, 19, 13, 12, 25, 26, 15, 14, 16, 22	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	1, 4, 3, 17, 27, 25, 13, 12, 10, 19, 14, 20, 15, 26, 22, 28	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	2, 6, 7, 1, 19, 25, 10, 11, 13, 15, 20, 21, 14, 16, 29, 28	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	2, 9, 24, 13, 10, 19, 25, 20, 21, 14, 26, 15, 29, 16, 28, 22	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4

College Freshman	2, 4, 23, 25, 10, 19, 12, 21, 15, 26, 14, 20, 22, 29, 16, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	2, 4, 25, 13, 19, 11, 12, 21, 15, 20, 14, 26, 22, 16, 29, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	2, 18, 11, 12, 25, 10, 13, 21, 26, 14, 20, 15, 29, 16, 22, 28	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	2, 4, 25, 19, 11, 13, 10, 15, 20, 14, 26, 21, 22, 29, 28, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	2, 4, 13, 11, 10, 25, 12, 26, 21, 15, 20, 14, 28, 16, 22, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LIX,” how does Austen show confiding and consent? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LIX, how does Austen develop the idea of confiding and consent? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LIX develops the idea of confiding and consent. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of confiding and consent. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LIX suggests about confiding and consent. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LIX to complicate the reader's understanding of confiding and consent. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of confiding and consent responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of confiding and consent follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LIX and its treatment of confiding and consent. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LIX as evidence for a larger claim about confiding and consent in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of confiding and consent. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. She could not determine how her mother would take it; sometimes doubting whether all his wealth and grandeur would be enough to overcome her abhorrence of the man.

   As used in the text, what does the word “doubting” most nearly mean?

   A. be afraid or scared of; be frightened of
   B. the act of bringing something to bear; using it for a particular purpose
   C. feeling unsure
   D. reasons for doing something

2. The evening passed quietly, unmarked by anything extraordinary. The acknowledged lovers talked and laughed, the unacknowledged were silent. Darcy was not of a disposition in which happiness overflows in mirth; and Elizabeth, agitated and confused, rather knew that she was happy, than felt herself to be so; for, besides the immediate embarrassment, there were other evils before her. She anticipated what would be felt in the family when her situation became known; she was aware that no one liked him but Jane; and even feared that with the others it was a dislike which not all his fortune and consequence might do away.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LIX”?

   A. Pemberley
   B. Confiding and consent
   C. Letters of judgment
   D. Departure and relief

SAT key: 1. C (feeling unsure); 2. B (Confiding and consent)

Lesson 61: Chapter LX

Focus: reflections on love

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Teacher only · spoilers

Elizabeth asks Darcy when he fell in love; he says he was in the middle before he knew he had begun. They discuss her impertinence. Darcy writes to Lady Catherine.

Background: Courtship conversation allowed reflection on character.

Significance: The answer emphasizes gradual, rational love over sudden passion.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What does Darcy's answer suggest about love? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think… because… / This connects to first impressions because….
> Prompt: What does Darcy's answer suggest about love?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to first impressions because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: love that grew slowly, against first impressions.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: evenness — regularity; steadiness; overrated — valued too highly; parading — showy; ostentatious; assiduously — with care and persistence; obsequious — attempting to win favor from influential people by flattery.
> Words: evenness: regularity; steadiness · overrated: valued too highly · parading: showy; ostentatious · assiduously: with care and persistence · obsequious: attempting to win favor from influential people by flattery

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Courtship conversation allowed reflection on character. The answer emphasizes gradual, rational love over sudden passion. Dialogue: Elizabeth asks Darcy how he fell in love; he answers that he "was in the middle before I knew that I had begun." Characterization: Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence." Watch for silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Because you were grave and silent, and gave me no encouragement” (Chapter LX, paragraph 8).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2). Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. That is dialogue at work: Elizabeth asks Darcy how he fell in love; he answers that he "was in the middle before I knew that I had begun."

> I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun (Chapter LX, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2). Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. That is dialogue at work: Elizabeth asks Darcy how he fell in love; he answers that he "was in the middle before I knew that I had begun."

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The paradox describes gradual love; it answers the novel's original title, First Impressions. Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions? Expected: Love that grew slowly, against first impressions. (Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.)

> Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her (Chapter LX, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The paradox describes gradual love; it answers the novel's original title, First Impressions.
Ask: How does this line connect to first impressions?
Expected answer: Love that grew slowly, against first impressions. (Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for dialogue, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about reflections on love? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LX develops the idea of reflections on love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. When the text says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun" (Chapter LX, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Darcy says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun," which describes affection that grew from knowledge rather than from a first impression.

Task: Annotate the chapter for dialogue, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about reflections on love? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LX develops the idea of reflections on love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. When the text says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun" (Chapter LX, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. Darcy says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun," which describes affection that grew from knowledge rather than from a first impression.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: What does Darcy's answer suggest about love? Ask: is Austen's view of love more realistic than "love at first sight"?

Anchor question: What does Darcy's answer suggest about love?

Facilitation: Ask: is Austen's view of love more realistic than "love at first sight"?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about reflections on love? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. ("I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun", Chapter LX, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about reflections on love? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. ("I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun", Chapter LX, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)

Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.

Today we saw how dialogue shapes reflections on love. Key takeaway: love that grew slowly, against first impressions.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Dialogue: Elizabeth asks Darcy how he fell in love; he answers that he "was in the middle before I knew that I had begun."
- Characterization: Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence."

Themes and how they develop

- first impressions: love that grew slowly, against first impressions.

Symbols and motifs

- silence and reserve: What characters leave unsaid (Darcy's reserve, Jane's composure, Elizabeth's secrets) drives misunderstanding. In this chapter: “Because you were grave and silent, and gave me no encouragement” (Chapter LX, paragraph 8).
- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “And if I had not a letter to write myself, I might sit by you, and admire the” (Chapter LX, paragraph 19).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2) Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.
- “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1) Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.
- “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21) Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight.
Evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: Darcy says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun," which describes affection that grew from knowledge rather than from a first impression.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
evenness (noun)	regularity; steadiness	“And if I had not a letter to write myself, I might sit by you, and admire the evenness of your writing, as another young lady once did.

overrated (verb)	valued too highly	Darcy had been overrated, Elizabeth had never yet answered Mrs.
parading (adjective)	showy; ostentatious	Darcy exposed to all the parading and obsequious civility of her husband.
assiduously (adverb)	with care and persistence	Had you not been really amiable you would have hated me for it; but in spite of the pains you took to disguise yourself, your feelings were always noble and just; and in your heart, you thoroughly despised the persons who so assiduously courted you.
obsequious (adjective)	attempting to win favor from influential people by flattery	Darcy exposed to all the parading and obsequious civility of her husband.
meetings (noun)	a formally arranged gathering	At such a moment, the arrival of her friend was a sincere pleasure to Elizabeth, though in the course of their meetings she must sometimes think the pleasure dearly bought, when she saw Mr.
removing (verb)	remove something concrete, as by lifting, pushing, or taking off, or remove something abstract	Lady Catherine's unjustifiable endeavours to separate us, were the means of removing all my doubts.
announce (verb)	make known; make an announcement	"Shall you ever have courage to announce to Lady Catherine, what is to befall her?"
disguise (noun)	an outward semblance that misrepresents the true nature of something	Had you not been really amiable you would have hated me for it; but in spite of the pains you took to disguise yourself, your feelings were always noble and just; and in your heart, you thoroughly despised the persons who so assiduously courted you.	"disguise": From Middle English disgisen, disguisen, borrowed from Old French desguiser (modern French déguiser), itself derived from des- "dis-" (from Latin dis-) + guise "guise" (from a Germanic source). (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disguise#Etymology)
contents (noun)	what is written inside (a letter)	Lady Catherine had been rendered so exceedingly angry by the contents of her nephew’s letter that Charlotte, really rejoicing in the match, was anxious to get away till the storm was blown over.

Discussion questions

1. What does Darcy's answer suggest about love?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with women's limited choices?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Elizabeth ask Darcy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: When he fell in love
2. What is Darcy's answer? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: He was in the middle before he knew he had begun
3. What quality of hers does she joke about? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Impertinence
4. Whom does Darcy write to? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Lady Catherine
5. What kind of love does the novel value? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Gradual and rational
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter LX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Elizabeth asks Darcy when he fell in love; he says he was in the middle before he knew he had begun. They discuss her impertinence. Darcy writes to Lady Catherine.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter LX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter LX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““And if I had not a letter to write myself, I might sit by you, and admire the evenness of your writing, as another young lady once did.” What does “evenness” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: evenness: regularity; steadiness.

10. Reread: “Darcy had been overrated, Elizabeth had never yet answered Mrs.” What does “overrated” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: overrated: valued too highly.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LX” suggest about reflections on love? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The answer emphasizes gradual, rational love over sudden passion.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about reflections on love? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2): Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““You need not distress yourself.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Elizabeth asks Darcy when he fell in love; he says he was in the middle before he knew he had begun. They discuss her impertinence. Darcy writes to Lady Catherine.
6. How does “Chapter LX” build on “Chapter LIX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1): Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy. On characterization: Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does Darcy's answer suggest about love?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with women's limited choices? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2): Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Courtship conversation allowed reflection on character. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1): Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The answer emphasizes gradual, rational love over sudden passion.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2): Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. On characterization: Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about reflections on love? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1): Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to first impressions and prejudice: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2): Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1): Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored. On characterization: Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter LX” treats reflections on love with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter LXI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2): Darcy's account: love as a gradual process. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about reflections on love? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her" (Chapter LX, paragraph 1): Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Useful evidence: "I am the happiest creature in the world" (Chapter LX, paragraph 21): Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy. Theme link: love that grew slowly, against first impressions. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LX, paragraph 2: "I was in the _____ before I knew that I had begun"

   Key: middle

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What kind of love does the novel value?

   A. Secret
   B. Gradual and rational
   C. Sudden passion
   D. Arranged

   Key: B (Gradual and rational)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Darcy exposed to all the parading and obsequious civility of her husband.", what does "parading" most nearly mean?

   A. supervised; directed
   B. showy; ostentatious
   C. a descriptive name or title
   D. upsetting; disturbing

   Key: B (showy; ostentatious)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line "Had you not been really amiable you would have hated me for it; but in spite of the pains you took to disguise yourself, your feelings were always noble and just; and in your heart, you thoroughly despised the persons…", what does "assiduously" most nearly mean?

   A. with care and persistence
   B. honesty and strong moral principles
   C. the regular (professional) army

   D. incapable of being passed

   Key: A (with care and persistence)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LX, paragraph 21: “I am the _____ creature in the world”

   Key: happiest

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Darcy's answer?
   - A. He was in the middle before he knew he had begun
   - B. Never
   - C. At first sight
   - D. After the letter

   Key: A (He was in the middle before he knew he had begun)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Lady Catherine’s unjustifiable endeavours to separate us, were the means of _____ all my doubts.” Word bank: overrated, removing, evenness, parading

   Key: removing

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Shall you ever have courage to _____ to Lady Catherine, what is to befall her?”” Word bank: evenness, announce, overrated, parading

   Key: announce

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LX, paragraph 1: “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to _____ again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her”

   Key: playfulness

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21)
    - A. The dramatic irony stated directly.
    - B. She assumes pride will keep Darcy from proposing again.
    - C. Charlotte's realism.
    - D. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.

    Key: D (Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LX”?
    - A. Consequences of refusal
    - B. Leaving Kent
    - C. Reflections on love
    - D. Jealousy at Pemberley

    Key: C (Reflections on love)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2)
    - A. Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.

   B. Charlotte's realism.
   C. Final refusal.
   D. Elizabeth's wit.

   Key: A (Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2).

   Sample answer: Darcy says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun," which describes affection that grew from knowledge rather than from a first impression.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I am the happiest creature in the world” (Chapter LX, paragraph 21). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

   Sample answer: Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner echoes Jane's joy.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LX”. Use one quotation from each.

   Sample answer: love that grew slowly, against first impressions.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““And if I had not a letter to write myself, I might sit by you, and admire the evenness of your writing, as another young lady once did.”, what does “evenness” most nearly mean?

   A. tidiness and order
   B. making possible for
   C. be in accord; be in agreement
   D. regularity; steadiness

   Key: D (regularity; steadiness)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth ask Darcy?

   A. Where he lives
   B. When he fell in love
   C. If he likes Jane
   D. How rich he is

   Key: B (When he fell in love)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “At such a moment, the arrival of her friend was a sincere pleasure to Elizabeth, though in the course of their _____ she must sometimes think the pleasure dearly bought, when she saw Mr.” Word bank: parading, meetings, overrated, evenness

   Key: meetings

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What quality of hers does she joke about?

   A. Shyness
   B. Wealth
   C. Beauty
   D. Impertinence

   Key: D (Impertinence)

21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph

1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1)

   A. Elizabeth's response to her uncle's promise of help: the family closes ranks.
   B. Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.
   C. Mrs. Bennet's self-pity.
   D. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.

   Key: B (Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.)

23. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LX”? Elizabeth asks Darcy how he fell in love; he answers that he "was in the middle before I knew that I had begun."

   A. Dialogue
   B. Alliteration
   C. Plot
   D. Metaphor

   Key: A (Dialogue)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Elizabeth’s spirits soon rising to playfulness again, she wanted Mr. Darcy to account for his having ever fallen in love with her” (Chapter LX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

   Sample answer: Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy had been overrated, Elizabeth had never yet answered Mrs.”, what does “overrated” most nearly mean?

   A. to take advantage of; to intrude on
   B. a descriptive name or title
   C. valued too highly
   D. an entrance hall

   Key: C (valued too highly)

26. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LX”? Elizabeth's playfulness returns; she teases him for loving her "impertinence."

   A. Personification
   B. Characterization
   C. Plot
   D. Structure

   Key: B (Characterization)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun” (Chapter LX, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

   Sample answer: Darcy's account: love as a gradual process.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darcy exposed to all the parading and _____ civility of her husband.” Word bank: evenness, parading, obsequious, overrated
    Key: obsequious
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The novel ends its love story by rejecting love at first sight.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: Darcy says "I was in the middle before I knew that I had begun," which describes affection that grew from knowledge rather than from a first impression.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 5, 4, 3, 1, 19, 20, 12, 13, 21, 22, 15, 23, 14, 24	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	25, 5, 20, 9, 4, 1, 13, 21, 11, 22, 10, 26, 14, 23, 24, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	7, 18, 19, 20, 1, 10, 13, 11, 21, 12, 14, 23, 15, 26, 27, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	28, 19, 17, 3, 13, 22, 11, 21, 12, 26, 23, 15, 14, 16, 29, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 1, 4, 11, 13, 22, 21, 10, 26, 15, 14, 23, 29, 24, 27, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 1, 20, 12, 13, 11, 10, 21, 26, 14, 23, 15, 16, 29, 27, 24	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 28, 11, 22, 10, 21, 12, 13, 14, 15, 23, 26, 27, 16, 29, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	28, 19, 13, 11, 21, 10, 12, 22, 14, 26, 15, 23, 27, 24, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	28, 19, 21, 22, 13, 10, 12, 11, 26, 23, 14, 15, 27, 16, 29, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	28, 1, 12, 22, 11, 21, 10, 13, 15, 26, 14, 23, 29, 27, 16, 24	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LX,” how does Austen show reflections on love? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LX, how does Austen develop the idea of reflections on love? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LX develops the idea of reflections on love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of reflections on love. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LX suggests about reflections on love. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LX to complicate the reader's understanding of reflections on love. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of reflections on love responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of reflections on love follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LX and its treatment of reflections on love. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LX as evidence for a larger claim about reflections on love in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of reflections on love. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Darcy exposed to all the parading and obsequious civility of her husband.

   As used in the text, what does the word "parading" most nearly mean?

   A. make known; make an announcement
   B. an outward semblance that misrepresents the true nature of something
   C. what is written inside (a letter)
   D. showy; ostentatious

2. "You need not distress yourself. The moral will be perfectly fair. Lady Catherine's unjustifiable endeavours to separate us, were the means of removing all my doubts. I am not indebted for my present happiness to your eager desire of expressing your gratitude. I was not in a humour to wait for any opening of yours. My aunt's intelligence had given me hope, and I was determined at once to know everything."

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LX"?

   A. Reflections on love
   B. The Brighton plan
   C. Cold reception
   D. Pemberley

SAT key: 1. D (showy; ostentatious); 2. A (Reflections on love)

Lesson 62: Chapter LXI

Focus: endings and futures

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter LXI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: CCSS RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4 · IN 9-10.RC.1, 9-10.W.1, 9-10.RC.9, 9-10.RC.11

Critical voice: “Vain are these speculations: the most perfect artist among women, the writer whose books are immortal, died “just as she was beginning to feel confidence in her own success”.” (Virginia Woolf, novelist and critic, "Jane Austen," The Common Reader (1925), "Jane Austen" (closing); public domain). Closure: Woolf imagines the novels Austen did not live to write. What would a sequel to Chapter LXI have to keep? Objective: Reflect on endings and Austen's place in literary history. Standards: RL.11-12.2, 11-12.RC.1

Teacher only · spoilers

The epilogue: Jane and Bingley move near Pemberley; Kitty improves under her sisters' care; Mary stays home; Lydia and Wickham remain reckless. Lady Catherine eventually reconciles, and the Gardiners stay dear to the Darcys.

Background: Novel epilogues often 'settle' each character's fate.

Significance: The ending rewards growth and quietly punishes folly, affirming the novel's moral design.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Which ending surprised you most, and why? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to family and reputation because....
Prompt: Which ending surprised you most, and why?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to family and reputation because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: congratulatory — expressing congratulations; insipid — dull; lacking interest; uniting — bringing together (in marriage); vicinity — a surrounding or nearby region; cherished — be fond of; be attached to.
“vicinity”: From vicine + ity, from Latin vīcīnitās "neighborhood" (compare French vicinité), from vīcīnus "neighbor" (compare French voisin), from vīcus "village".
Words: congratulatory: expressing congratulations · insipid: dull; lacking interest · uniting: bringing together (in marriage) · vicinity: a surrounding or nearby region · cherished: be fond of; be attached to

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Novel epilogues often 'settle' each character's fate. The ending rewards growth and quietly punishes folly, affirming the novel's moral design. Structure: The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation. Irony: The opening sentence's "Happy for all her maternal feelings" echoes the ironic narrator of Chapter I. Watch for letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: "yet be prevailed on to make his fortune. The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 6).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1). Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." That is structure at work: The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation.

> Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1). Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." That is structure at work: The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)

Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The Gardiners honoured. Look at the craft: The opening sentence's "Happy for all her maternal feelings" echoes the ironic narrator of Chapter I. Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation? Expected: The Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. (The Gardiners honoured.)

> they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The Gardiners honoured. Look at the craft: The opening sentence's "Happy for all her maternal feelings" echoes the ironic narrator of Chapter I.
Ask: How does this line connect to family and reputation?
Expected answer: The Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. (The Gardiners honoured.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for structure, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about endings and futures? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LXI develops the idea of endings and futures. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. When the text says "they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. The Gardiners, people in trade, receive "the warmest gratitude" as "the means of uniting them," while the Wickhams exhaust even "Bingley's good humour."

Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about endings and futures? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter LXI develops the idea of endings and futures. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. When the text says "they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. The Gardiners, people in trade, receive "the warmest gratitude" as "the means of uniting them," while the Wickhams exhaust even "Bingley's good humour."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Which ending surprised you most, and why? Ask: does everyone get what they deserve? Is the ending too neat?

Anchor question: Which ending surprised you most, and why?

Facilitation: Ask: does everyone get what they deserve? Is the ending too neat?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about endings and futures? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. ("they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them", Chapter LXI, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about endings and futures? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. ("they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them", Chapter LXI, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how structure shapes endings and futures. Key takeaway: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation.
- Irony: The opening sentence's "Happy for all her maternal feelings" echoes the ironic narrator of Chapter I.

Themes and how they develop

- family and reputation: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple.

Symbols and motifs

- letters: Letters carry news, reveal character and change minds; Darcy's letter is the turning point of the novel. In this chapter: “yet be prevailed on to make his fortune. The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 6).
- pride: Pride is discussed openly and shown in action; who is proud, and whether pride is a fault, keeps shifting. In this chapter: “rid of her two most deserving daughters. With what delighted pride she afterwards visited Mrs. Bingley and talked of Mrs. Darcy may” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1) Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."
- “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15) The Gardiners honoured.
- “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11) The Wickhams wear out their welcome.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument.
Evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15)

Reasoning: The Gardiners, people in trade, receive "the warmest gratitude" as "the means of uniting them," while the Wickhams exhaust even "Bingley's good humour."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
congratulatory (adjective)	expressing congratulations	The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her that, by his wife at least, if not by himself, such a hope was cherished.
insipid (adjective)	dull; lacking interest	She was not of so ungovernable a temper as Lydia, and, removed from the influence of Lydia's example, she became, by proper attention and management, less irritable, less ignorant, and less insipid.
uniting (verb)	bringing together (in marriage)	Darcy, as well as Elizabeth, really loved them; and they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them.
vicinity (noun)	a surrounding or nearby region	So near a vicinity to her mother and Meryton relations was not desirable even to his easy temper, or her affectionate heart.	“vicinity”: From vicine + ity, from Latin vīcīnitās "neighborhood" (compare French vicinité), from vīcīnus "neighbor" (compare French voisin), from vīcus "village". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/vicinity#Etymology)
cherished (verb)	be fond of; be attached to	The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her that, by his wife at least, if not by himself, such a hope was cherished.
spending (verb)	pass time in a specific way	They were always moving from place to place in quest of a cheap situation, and always	“spending”: From Middle English spendyng, spendynge, from Old English spendung "spending", equivalent to spend + -ing. Cognate with German Spendung "contribution, spending more than they ought.	donation". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/spending#Etymology)

expenses (noun)	amounts paid for goods and services that may be currently tax deductible (as opposed to capital expenditures)	Such relief, however, as it was in her power to afford, by the practice of what might be called economy in her own private expenses, she frequently sent them.
dismissed (verb)	sent away; released	Their manner of living, even when the restoration of peace dismissed them to a home, was unsettled in the extreme.
visited (verb)	called on (someone)	With what delighted pride she afterwards visited Mrs.
pursuit (noun)	the act of pursuing in an effort to overtake or capture	Mary was the only daughter who remained at home; and she was necessarily drawn from the pursuit of accomplishments by Mrs.	“pursuit”: From Middle English pursuyte, from Old French poursuite, from the verb porsuir "to pursue". (Wiktionary, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/pursuit#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Which ending surprised you most, and why?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with first impressions and prejudice?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Middle School: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where do Jane and Bingley eventually live? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Near Pemberley
2. Who improves under her sisters' care? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Kitty
3. How do Lydia and Wickham end up? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Still reckless
4. Who remains dear to the Darcys? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The Gardiners

5. What does the ending affirm? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Growth is rewarded
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter LXI” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: The epilogue: Jane and Bingley move near Pemberley; Kitty improves under her sisters' care; Mary stays home; Lydia and Wickham remain reckless. Lady Catherine eventually reconciles, and the Gardiners stay dear to the Darcys.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter LXI”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter LXI” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her that, by his wife at least, if not by himself, such a hope was cherished.” What does “congratulatory” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: congratulatory: expressing congratulations.
10. Reread: “She was not of so ungovernable a temper as Lydia, and, removed from the influence of Lydia’s example, she became, by proper attention and management, less irritable, less ignorant, and less insipid.” What does “insipid” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · CAIE-9695.AO1] Look for: insipid: dull; lacking interest.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter LXI” suggest about endings and futures? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The ending rewards growth and quietly punishes folly, affirming the novel's moral design.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about endings and futures? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas. Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1): Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs.”, why might Austen have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter LXI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: The epilogue: Jane and Bingley move near Pemberley; Kitty improves under her sisters' care; Mary stays home; Lydia and Wickham remain reckless. Lady Catherine eventually reconciles, and the Gardiners stay dear to the Darcys.

6. How does “Chapter LXI” build on “Chapter LX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15): The Gardiners honoured. On structure: The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11): The Wickhams wear out their welcome. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Which ending surprised you most, and why?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with first impressions and prejudice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1): Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Novel epilogues often 'settle' each character's fate. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15): The Gardiners honoured. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The ending rewards growth and quietly punishes folly, affirming the novel's moral design.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11): The Wickhams wear out their welcome. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1): Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter LXI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about endings and futures? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15): The Gardiners honoured. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter LXI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11): The Wickhams wear out their welcome. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to pride and self-knowledge: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Austen need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1): Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15): The Gardiners honoured. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter LXI” treats endings and futures with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Pride and Prejudice see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11): The Wickhams wear out their welcome. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. As the final chapter, does this ending resolve first impressions and prejudice? Argue whether the ending is earned. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1): Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings." Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about endings and futures? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15): The Gardiners honoured. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Jane Austen about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Useful evidence: “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11): The Wickhams wear out their welcome. Theme link: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Such relief, however, as it was in her power to afford, by the practice of what might be called economy in her own private _____, she frequently sent them.” Word bank: congratulatory, expenses, insipid, uniting

   Key: expenses
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “So near a vicinity to her mother and Meryton relations was not desirable even to his easy temper, or her affectionate heart.”, what does “vicinity” most nearly mean?
   - A. a piano
   - B. a tendency to change one's mind suddenly
   - C. a surrounding or nearby region
   - D. incapable of being passed

   Key: C (a surrounding or nearby region)
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “She was not of so ungovernable a temper as Lydia, and, removed from the influence of Lydia’s example, she became, by proper attention and management, less irritable, less ignorant, and less insipid.”, what does “insipid” most nearly mean?
   - A. natures; dispositions
   - B. soft food made by boiling oatmeal or other meal or legumes in water or milk until thick
   - C. dull; lacking interest
   - D. try to prevent; show opposition to

   Key: C (dull; lacking interest)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LXI, paragraph 15: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into _____, had been the means of uniting them”

   Key: Derbyshire
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How do Lydia and Wickham end up?
   - A. In prison
   - B. Rich and wise
   - C. Still reckless
   - D. Separated

   Key: C (Still reckless)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who remains dear to the Darcys?
   - A. The Gardiners
   - B. The Collinses
   - C. The Forsters

   D. The Phillipses

   Key: A (The Gardiners)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LXI, paragraph 1: “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most _____ daughters”

   Key: deserving

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Their manner of living, even when the restoration of peace _____ them to a home, was unsettled in the extreme.” Word bank: insipid, uniting, dismissed, congratulatory

   Key: dismissed

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LXI, paragraph 11: “even Bingley’s good humour was _____”

   Key: overcome

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15)

    A. Lydia's first close portrait: young, bold, indulged; it prepares her role later.

    B. Elizabeth's shock.

    C. The Gardiners honoured.

    D. Mary's distinction; useful for the title.

    Key: C (The Gardiners honoured.)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The Gardiners honoured.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1)

    A. Elizabeth's letter to Mrs. Gardiner asking why Darcy was there.

    B. Elizabeth repeats gossip she has not tested; the sisters' debate starts from hearsay.

    C. Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."

    D. Mrs. Gardiner's sharper version.

    Key: C (Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings.")

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LXI”? The epilogue reports the futures of every character: Mrs. Bennet's delight, Kitty's improvement, Mary's staying home, Lydia and Wickham's extravagance, Lady Catherine's reconciliation.

    A. Alliteration

    B. Irony

    C. Symbolism

D. Structure

Key: D (Structure)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The Wickhams wear out their welcome.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The Gardiners, people in trade, receive "the warmest gratitude" as "the means of uniting them," while the Wickhams exhaust even "Bingley's good humour."

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Where do Jane and Bingley eventually live?

    A. In London

    B. At Longbourn

    C. Near Pemberley

    D. In Brighton

    Key: C (Near Pemberley)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They were always moving from place to place in quest of a cheap situation, and always _____ more than they ought.” Word bank: congratulatory, spending, uniting, insipid

    Key: spending

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Darcy, as well as Elizabeth, really loved them; and they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them.”, what does “uniting” most nearly mean?

    A. guessing

    B. a low seat or a stool to rest the feet of a seated person

    C. a note added at the end of a letter

    D. bringing together (in marriage)

    Key: D (bringing together (in marriage))

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The congratulatory letter which Elizabeth received from Lydia on her marriage explained to her that, by his wife at least, if not by himself, such a hope was _____.” Word bank: cherished, uniting, congratulatory, insipid

    Key: cherished

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “even Bingley’s good humour was overcome” (Chapter LXI, paragraph 11)

    A. Opening: Elizabeth's wit restored.

    B. The Wickhams wear out their welcome.

    C. Elizabeth's sarcasm.

    D. Elizabeth's realization comes too late.

    Key: B (The Wickhams wear out their welcome.)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The ending rewards character over rank, completing the novel's argument. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15).

Sample answer: The Gardiners, people in trade, receive "the warmest gratitude" as "the means of uniting them," while the Wickhams exhaust even "Bingley's good humour."

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter LXI". Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: the Gardiners, once scorned for their trade, are welcomed at Pemberley as the people who united the couple.

24. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter LXI"?
   A. A practical marriage
   B. Endings and futures
   C. An imperious hostess
   D. Trusted relatives

Key: B (Endings and futures)

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter LXI"? The opening sentence's "Happy for all her maternal feelings" echoes the ironic narrator of Chapter I.
   A. Alliteration
   B. Conflict
   C. Irony
   D. Metaphor

Key: C (Irony)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Irony: "got rid of" undercuts "maternal feelings."

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them" (Chapter LXI, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The Gardiners honoured.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who improves under her sisters' care?
   A. Charlotte
   B. Kitty
   C. Lydia
   D. Mary

Key: B (Kitty)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 5, 2, 9, 18, 19, 20, 13, 21, 11, 12, 22, 15, 14, 23	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1

HS Sophomore	19, 6, 5, 2, 4, 9, 12, 24, 21, 13, 10, 14, 25, 22, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	28, 7, 6, 19, 4, 21, 10, 24, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 25, 26, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 7, 4, 18, 24, 11, 13, 12, 10, 22, 14, 25, 15, 23, 27, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	20, 2, 4, 12, 10, 24, 21, 11, 22, 25, 15, 14, 16, 26, 27, 23	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Freshman	20, 17, 18, 11, 10, 12, 21, 24, 14, 15, 25, 22, 27, 23, 26, 16	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	20, 7, 13, 24, 21, 11, 12, 10, 22, 14, 25, 15, 27, 23, 26, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	8, 20, 12, 21, 24, 11, 13, 10, 15, 22, 14, 25, 23, 16, 27, 26	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Senior	20, 18, 12, 11, 21, 24, 10, 13, 14, 22, 25, 15, 27, 26, 23, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	20, 8, 11, 10, 13, 24, 12, 21, 25, 15, 22, 14, 26, 23, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter LXI,” how does Austen show endings and futures? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Chapter LXI, how does Austen develop the idea of endings and futures? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Chapter LXI develops the idea of endings and futures. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Chapter LXI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of endings and futures. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Chapter LXI suggests about endings and futures. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Jane Austen uses characterization in Chapter LXI to complicate the reader's understanding of endings and futures. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Chapter LXI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of endings and futures responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Chapter LXI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of endings and futures follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter LXI and its treatment of endings and futures. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter LXI as evidence for a larger claim about endings and futures in Pride and Prejudice. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter LXI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of endings and futures. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Pride and Prejudice.

SAT-style questions

1. Darcy, as well as Elizabeth, really loved them; and they were both ever sensible of the warmest gratitude towards the persons who, by bringing her into Derbyshire, had been the means of uniting them.

   As used in the text, what does the word “uniting” most nearly mean?

   A. bringing together (in marriage)
   B. called on (someone)
   C. sent away; released
   D. the act of pursuing in an effort to overtake or capture

2. Happy for all her maternal feelings was the day on which Mrs. Bennet got rid of her two most deserving daughters. With what delighted pride she afterwards visited Mrs. Bingley and talked of Mrs. Darcy may be guessed. I wish I could say, for the sake of her family, that the accomplishment of her earnest desire in the establishment of so many of her children, produced so happy an effect as to make her a sensible, amiable, well- > informed woman for the rest of her life; though perhaps it was lucky for her husband, who might not have relished domestic felicity in so unusual a form, that she still was occasionally nervous and invariably silly.

Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LXI”?

A. Endings and futures

B. Farewells at Hunsford

C. Music, wit and manners

D. Confiding and consent

SAT key: 1. A (bringing together (in marriage)); 2. A (Endings and futures)

Unit test

Pride and Prejudice: unit test · 90 minutes · 50 questions per rigor version (multiple choice, fill in the blank, short answer). The class rigor level picks the version; student auto-adjust applies.

Short-answer scoring guides

Middle School and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

Unit test: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Sir William and Lady Lucas are determined to go, merely on that account, for in general you know they visit no newcomers.”, what does “newcomers” most nearly mean?
    A. the person who did most of the talking
    B. of or relating to marriage or to the relationship between a wife and husband
    C. call forth (emotions, feelings, and responses)
    D. people who have recently arrived

    Key: D (people who have recently arrived)
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 28: “You take delight in vexing me. You have no _____ on my poor nerves”
    Key: compassion
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet was so odd a _____ of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.” Word bank: caprice, newcomers, develop, mixture
    Key: mixture
4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Mrs. Bennet's main goal?
    A. Buying a new house
    B. Marrying off her daughters
    C. Educating her daughters
    D. Travelling to London

    Key: B (Marrying off her daughters)
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 34: “She was a woman of mean _____, little information, and uncertain temper”
    Key: understanding
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, _____, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.” Word bank: newcomers, caprice, develop, reserve
    Key: reserve

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet,” replied his wife, “how can you be so tiresome!”, what does “tiresome” most nearly mean?

   A. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness

   B. allowing oneself to enjoy

   C. express in words

   D. a period of fourteen consecutive days

   Key: A (so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Mr. Bennet treat his wife's excitement?

   A. He teases her dryly

   B. He shares it

   C. He scolds her angrily

   D. He ignores her entirely

   Key: A (He teases her dryly)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You must know that I am thinking of his _____ one of them.”” Word bank: newcomers, marrying, caprice, develop

   Key: marrying

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““They have none of them much to _____ them,” replied he; “they are all silly and ignorant like other girls; but Lizzy has something more of quickness than her sisters.”” Word bank: caprice, develop, recommend, newcomers

    Key: recommend

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 18: “Our importance, our _____ in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility”

    Key: respectability

12. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 15: “Lydia will never be easy till she has _____ herself in some public place or other”

    Key: exposed

13. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “If you, my dear father, will not take the trouble of checking her exuberant spirits, and of teaching her that her present pursuits are not to be the business of her life, she will soon be beyond the reach of amendment.”, what does “exuberant” most nearly mean?

    A. calmed

    B. promised

    C. formal or perfunctory politeness

    D. joyously unrestrained

    Key: D (joyously unrestrained)

14. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Elizabeth behave toward Wickham?

    A. She hints she knows the truth

    B. She ignores him

    C. She flirts

    D. She accuses him openly

    Key: A (She hints she knows the truth)

15. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Such squeamish youths as cannot bear to be connected with a little absurdity, are not worth a regret.”, what does “squeamish” most nearly mean?

    A. frightening; alarming

    B. send away towards a designated goal

    C. too easily shocked or disgusted

    D. leave or give by will after one's death

    Key: C (too easily shocked or disgusted)

16. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who invites Lydia to Brighton?

    A. Lady Catherine

    B. Mrs. Forster

    C. Charlotte

    D. Mrs. Gardiner

    Key: B (Mrs. Forster)

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter XLI, paragraph 20: “We shall have no peace at _____ if Lydia does not go to Brighton”

    Key: Longbourn

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Elizabeth warn her father?

    A. Lydia is ill

    B. Wickham is rich

    C. Lydia is in danger of disgrace

    D. The house is entailed

    Key: C (Lydia is in danger of disgrace)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Mr. Bennet allow it?

    A. He trusts Lydia

    B. He wants her married

    C. To keep peace at home

    D. He is ill

    Key: C (To keep peace at home)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His fear of her, has always _____, I know, when they were together; and a good deal is to be imputed to his wish of forwarding the match with Miss de Bourgh, which I am certain he has very much at heart.”” Word bank: operated, vexations, squeamish, exuberant

    Key: operated

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who reveals Darcy's role?

    A. Jane

    B. Wickham

    C. Mrs. Gardiner

    D. Lydia

    Key: C (Mrs. Gardiner)

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The vague and _____ suspicions which uncertainty had produced of what Mr.” Word bank: expedite, unsettled, amounting, compromised

    Key: unsettled

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““I did hear, too, that there was a time, when sermon-making was not so palatable to you as it seems to be at present; that you actually declared your resolution of never taking orders, and that the business had been…”, what does “compromised” most nearly mean?

    A. busy reading; absorbed in study
    B. settled by agreement
    C. stirred up again
    D. teased good-humoredly

    Key: B (settled by agreement)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Pray forgive me, if I have been very presuming, or at least do not punish me so far, as to exclude me from P.”, what does “presuming” most nearly mean?

    A. persuading; changing (someone's view)
    B. too bold; taking liberties
    C. changing to a lower state (a less respected state)
    D. outshone; made to seem less important

    Key: B (too bold; taking liberties)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why did Darcy act, he said?

    A. He owed money
    B. He wanted praise
    C. He loves Lydia
    D. He felt partly responsible

    Key: D (He felt partly responsible)

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 3: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never _____ him”

    Key: disgrace

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them”

    A. Chapter LII
    B. Chapter LXI
    C. Chapter LIII
    D. Chapter VI

    Key: A (Chapter LII)

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What did Darcy do?

    A. Paid Collins
    B. Found them, paid debts, arranged the marriage
    C. Nothing
    D. Sent soldiers

    Key: B (Found them, paid debts, arranged the marriage)

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “But if you are really innocent and ignorant, I must be more _____.” Word bank: explicit, compromised, expedite, amounting

    Key: explicit

30. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34)

    A. The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.
    B. The narrator's list of five adjectives.
    C. Charlotte's compensations.
    D. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.

    Key: A (The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.)

31. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

    A. The witty paradox.
    B. Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.
    C. His reason.
    D. Mr. Bennet's regret.

    Key: B (Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.)

32. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter I”?

    A. The hidden benefactor
    B. Marriage as a social goal
    C. Leaving Kent
    D. The Brighton plan

    Key: B (Marriage as a social goal)

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20)

    A. Bingley's polite understatement about Jane; his good nature survives the embarrassment.
    B. Wickham, just before giving it.
    C. Darcy's personal effort.
    D. His reason.

    Key: D (His reason.)

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18)

    A. The narrator lets us see Darcy's attention, while Elizabeth misreads it as disapproval.
    B. Elizabeth's warning.
    C. Opening.
    D. The witty paradox.

Key: B (Elizabeth's warning.)

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15)
   A. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
   B. Mr. Bennet's acceptance.
   C. Jane's charity.
   D. Mrs. Reynolds's testimony.

   Key: B (Mr. Bennet's acceptance.)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XLI”?
   A. Family in crisis
   B. The entail and the officers
   C. Parental failure
   D. A journey and a mercenary suitor

   Key: C (Parental failure)

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)
   A. Elizabeth admits her wounded pride; self-revealing.
   B. Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.
   C. Mrs. Bennet's excitement: repetition is her voice.
   D. Public opinion shifts on manners, not character.

   Key: B (Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter LII”?
   A. The hidden benefactor
   B. Parental failure
   C. The Brighton plan
   D. Confiding and consent

   Key: A (The hidden benefactor)

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Come, Mr. Wickham, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past” (Chapter LII, paragraph 37)
   A. Contrast of Bingley and Darcy.
   B. Elizabeth's sharp verdict.
   C. Jane's letter: the fear that Wickham will not marry Lydia, which would ruin her.
   D. Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.

   Key: D (Elizabeth's polite dismissal of the man she once believed.)

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1)
   A. Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.
   B. The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.
   C. Jane's charity.

D. Mr. Bennet's ironic "promises well": he expects entertainment.

Key: B (The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.)

42. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

A. Pride and self-knowledge

B. Class and social mobility

C. First impressions and prejudice

D. Marriage and money

Key: D (Marriage and money)

43. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “She was a woman of mean understanding, little information, and uncertain temper” (Chapter I, paragraph 34). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The narrator's blunt judgment of Mrs. Bennet, in three balanced phrases.

44. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other”

A. Chapter LXI

B. Chapter XLI

C. Chapter XIV

D. Chapter XV

Key: B (Chapter XLI)

45. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15).

Sample answer: He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

46. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3).

Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.

47. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “Elizabeth had the satisfaction of receiving an answer to her letter” (Chapter LII, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The chapter opens with the letter she asked for.

48. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter I”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: marriage is introduced as a transaction ("a single man in possession of a good fortune").

49. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

50. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Darcy's secret rescue proves his character more than any speech could.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner writes that "he had been some days in town before he was able to discover them," and hints that "another motive" would "never disgrace him," which Elizabeth understands as herself.

51. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Bennet was so odd a mixture of quick parts, sarcastic humour, reserve, and caprice, that the experience of three and twenty years had been insufficient to make his wife understand his character.”, what does “caprice” most nearly mean?

    A. inadequate in amount or degree

    B. a tendency to change one's mind suddenly

    C. speaking about briefly

    D. regard as untrustworthy; regard with suspicion; have no faith or confidence in

    Key: B (a tendency to change one's mind suddenly)

52. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the tone of the opening sentence?

    A. Angry

    B. Tragic

    C. Ironic

    D. Mysterious

    Key: C (Ironic)

53. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How many daughters do the Bennets have?

    A. Three

    B. Seven

    C. Two

    D. Five

    Key: D (Five)

54. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 1: “It is a truth universally _____, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife”

    Key: acknowledged

55. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line ““And pray may I ask?” but checking himself, he added in a gayer tone, “Is it in address that he improves?”, what does “improves” most nearly mean?

    A. a private talk

    B. to make better

    C. keep from happening or arising; make impossible

    D. several time

    Key: B (to make better)

56. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Such were the kind of lamentations _____ perpetually through Longbourn-house.” Word bank: resounding, vexations, squeamish, exuberant

    Key: resounding

57. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “It was not in her nature, however, to increase her vexations, by dwelling on them.”, what does “vexations” most nearly mean?
    A. brought back to life or strength; revived
    B. in a polite manner
    C. a large entrance or reception room or area
    D. annoyances; worries

    Key: D (annoyances; worries)

58. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “His debts are to be paid, amounting, I believe, to considerably more than a thousand pounds, another thousand in addition to her own settled upon her, and his commission purchased.”, what does “amounting” most nearly mean?
    A. chickens, ducks and similar birds raised for food
    B. very small portrait paintings
    C. adding up (to)
    D. direct toward itself or oneself by means of some psychological power or physical attributes

    Key: C (adding up (to))

59. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The motive professed was his conviction of its being owing to himself that Wickham’s worthlessness had not been so well known, as to make it impossible for any young woman of character to love or _____ in him.” Word bank: expedite, confide, compromised, amounting

    Key: confide

60. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 1: “Elizabeth had the _____ of receiving an answer to her letter”

    Key: satisfaction

61. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28)
    A. Elizabeth's judgment of Collins from his style: here her quick judgment is right.
    B. Opening; Elizabeth's openness.
    C. Darcy's attraction, revealed to the reader.
    D. Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

    Key: D (Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.)

62. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's warning.

63. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself in some public place or other” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's acceptance.

64. [mc · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3)
    A. Mrs. Bennet protests too much; comic self-contradiction.

B. Darcy's personal effort.
C. Elizabeth's realization comes too late.
D. Darcy's self-description; it will be tested when he forgives Elizabeth's refusal.

Key: B (Darcy's personal effort.)

65. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.

66. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Darcy's personal effort.

67. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1).

Sample answer: It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

68. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? Mr. and Mrs. Bennet are drawn almost entirely through dialogue: his dry teasing, her nerves. The final paragraph sums them up with Austen's authority.

A. Characterization
B. Structure
C. Symbolism
D. Tone / mood

Key: A (Characterization)

69. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLI”? Mr. Bennet's reply shows his indolence.

A. Irony
B. Dialogue
C. Personification
D. Conflict

Key: B (Dialogue)

70. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XLI”? Lydia is invited to Brighton; Elizabeth warns her father; he refuses to act.

A. Allusion
B. Hyperbole
C. Personification
D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

71. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LII”? Darcy acted secretly, out of a sense of responsibility for not exposing Wickham, and, Mrs. Gardiner hints, out of love.

A. Simile

B. Alliteration
C. Imagery
D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

72. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

73. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how family and reputation develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XLI”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: the father's failure to act sets up the crisis.

74. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Her mind was less difficult to develop.”, what does “develop” most nearly mean?

A. to train and educate; to help grow
B. be or come between
C. finding out for certain
D. free from deception or illusion

Key: A (to train and educate; to help grow)

75. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who has rented Netherfield Park?

A. Mr. Darcy
B. Mr. Bingley
C. Mr. Wickham
D. Mr. Collins

Key: B (Mr. Bingley)

76. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What did Darcy insist on?

A. Secrecy
B. Public thanks
C. A reward
D. Elizabeth's hand

Key: A (Secrecy)

77. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 37: “Come, Mr. _____, we are brother and sister, you know. Do not let us quarrel about the past”

Key: Wickham

78. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “You take delight in vexing me. You have no compassion on my poor nerves” (Chapter I, paragraph 28) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Mrs. Bennet's self-dramatizing; comic characterization.

79. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Verbal irony: it is the families who want the rich man, not the man who wants a wife.

80. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Our importance, our respectability in the world, must be affected by the wild volatility” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's warning.

81. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “He had been some days in town before he was able to discover them” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Darcy's personal effort.

82. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how pride and prejudice develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Darcy has overcome his pride in the most practical way: by binding himself to Wickham as a brother-in-law.

83. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “It is a truth universally acknowledged, that a single man in possession of a good fortune, must be in want of a wife”

    A. Chapter XLVI
    B. Chapter I
    C. Chapter XXXVII
    D. Chapter XXI

    Key: B (Chapter I)

84. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? The opening "truth universally acknowledged" is really the belief of mothers hunting husbands; the narrator mocks it while stating it.

    A. Allusion
    B. Irony
    C. Structure
    D. Tone / mood

    Key: B (Irony)

85. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “We shall have no peace at Longbourn if Lydia does not go to Brighton” (Chapter XLI, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: His reason.

86. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter LII”? Mrs. Gardiner's letter reveals that Darcy found the couple, paid Wickham's debts, bought his commission and arranged the marriage.

    A. Symbolism
    B. Allusion
    C. Epistolary
    D. Point of view

    Key: C (Epistolary)

87. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Since such were her feelings, it only remained, he thought, to secure and expedite a marriage, which, in his very first conversation with Wickham, he easily learnt, had never been his design.”, what does “expedite” most nearly mean?

    A. to speed up; to hasten
    B. a coming together; an agreement
    C. expressing; communicating
    D. regard highly; think much of

    Key: A (to speed up; to hasten)

88. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet's refusal to restrain Lydia shows the cost of his detachment.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He admits "Lydia will never be easy till she has exposed herself," yet lets her go because "we shall have no peace at Longbourn" otherwise.

89. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “If he had another motive, I am sure it would never disgrace him” (Chapter LII, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mrs. Gardiner's hint about love.

90. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She had even learnt to detect, in the very gentleness which had first delighted her, an affectation and a _____ to disgust and weary.” Word bank: squeamish, exuberant, vexations, sameness

    Key: sameness

91. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Chapter LII, paragraph 3: “He had been some days in town before he was able to _____ them”

    Key: discover

92. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I know that you could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 35). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's serious warning, drawn from his own marriage.

93. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The novel's opening sentence uses irony to show that marriage in this society is driven by money.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: It claims every rich man "must be in want of a wife," but the next paragraph shows it is the neighbourhood families who regard him as "the rightful property" of their daughters; the "truth" is their desire, not his.

94. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Collins's proposal treats marriage as a practical bargain, and Elizabeth's refusal asserts her right to choose.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He reminds her that "your portion is unhappily so small" that she is unlikely to get another offer, but she insists "you could not make me happy."

95. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

    A. Pride and self-knowledge
    B. First impressions and prejudice

C. Marriage and money
D. Class and social mobility

Key: C (Marriage and money)

96. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He did not judge your father to be a person whom he could so properly consult as your uncle, and therefore readily _____ seeing him, till after the departure of the former.” Word bank: compromised, expedite, postponed, amounting

    Key: postponed

97. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You could not make me happy, and I am convinced that I am the last woman in the world who would make you so” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's refusal.

98. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Colonel Fitzwilliam entered into conversation directly with the readiness and ease of a well-bred man” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The colonel's easy manners make Darcy's stiffness look worse by contrast.

99. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Mr. Bennet's blessing shows that he has learned from his own unhappy marriage.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: He warns that she "could be neither happy nor respectable, unless you truly esteemed your husband," and, once convinced, says "I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy."

100. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: he reminds her of her small fortune.

101. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Charlotte's realism makes her a better reader of Darcy than Elizabeth.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: She tells Elizabeth "I may thank you, Eliza, for this piece of civility," guessing his motive, while Elizabeth, contrasting him with the colonel's "readiness and ease," sees only pride.

102. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how marriage and money develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter LIX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet warns against an unequal marriage.

103. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “before I am run away with by my feelings on this subject” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Collins's comic emotion.

104. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Sir William stayed only a week at Hunsford” (Chapter XXX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The chapter opens by clearing the stage for new arrivals.

105. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I could not have parted with you, my Lizzy, to anyone less worthy” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 37) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mr. Bennet's blessing.

106. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My dear Lizzy, where can you have been walking to” (Chapter LIX, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Jane's question.

107. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A woman must have a thorough knowledge of music, singing, drawing, dancing, and the modern languages, to deserve the word” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 50) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Miss Bingley's checklist.

108. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how first impressions develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's settled opinion blinds her to evidence in front of her.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Middle School	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50	recall 29, inference 12, analysis 6, synthesis 3
HS Freshman	2, 51, 4, 1, 52, 53, 54, 8, 10, 55, 13, 56, 16, 12, 19, 57, 11, 15, 23, 25, 26, 58, 59, 60, 22, 24, 32, 61, 31, 33, 34, 62, 63, 37, 64, 65, 41, 66, 67, 43, 68, 69, 44, 70, 71, 46, 47, 72, 73, 50	recall 26, inference 12, analysis 9, synthesis 3
HS Sophomore	9, 3, 4, 74, 2, 75, 6, 20, 13, 11, 56, 19, 18, 60, 76, 28, 59, 77, 24, 33, 31, 30, 32, 78, 61, 34, 63, 62, 36, 35, 66, 38, 65, 64, 39, 68, 43, 67, 70, 69, 45, 46, 47, 71, 79, 72, 49, 80, 81, 82	recall 19, inference 16, analysis 9, synthesis 6
HS Junior	10, 74, 2, 7, 54, 5, 14, 13, 18, 20, 17, 59, 27, 26, 28, 25, 30, 78, 32, 61, 31, 33, 34, 36, 35, 62, 63, 64, 41, 39, 40, 38, 43, 83, 84, 68, 69, 85, 44, 45, 46, 47, 71, 86, 79, 48, 80, 73, 81, 82	recall 16, inference 16, analysis 12, synthesis 6
HS Senior	8, 4, 74, 2, 10, 17, 57, 13, 19, 60, 27, 87, 23, 61, 32, 31, 33, 30, 78, 35, 36, 34, 62, 37, 66, 40, 38, 39, 65, 68, 43, 83, 42, 69, 44, 85, 45, 71, 47, 46, 86, 72, 79, 48, 49, 88, 80, 82, 89, 81	recall 13, inference 16, analysis 12, synthesis 9
AP	7, 9, 3, 14, 13, 90, 21, 60, 91, 31, 30, 78, 33, 35, 36, 63, 37, 39, 66, 40, 64, 67, 84, 83, 42, 68, 43, 85, 69, 45, 70, 44, 71, 86, 46, 47, 92, 93, 79, 48, 72, 94, 73, 80, 88, 49, 50, 89, 82, 81	recall 9, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 13
College Freshman	75, 2, 74, 13, 90, 14, 24, 91, 87, 78, 32, 33, 31, 35, 62, 37, 36, 66, 65, 40, 41, 83, 42, 68, 67, 43, 84, 69, 70, 85, 44, 45, 71, 46, 47, 86, 95, 93, 79, 48, 72, 94, 80, 73, 49, 88, 50, 89, 82, 81	recall 9, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 13
College Sophomore	74, 7, 17, 15, 21, 96, 33, 78, 32, 30, 62, 34, 63, 35, 66, 64, 65, 41, 68, 84, 43, 67, 83, 42, 44, 70, 45, 85, 69, 47, 46, 71, 86, 92, 48, 79, 72, 93, 94, 97, 98, 49, 88, 80, 73, 89, 82, 81, 50, 99	recall 6, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 16
College Junior	9, 2, 90, 16, 60, 24, 30, 31, 32, 35, 63, 36, 38, 39, 41, 68, 42, 67, 43, 83, 84, 44, 45, 70, 69, 85, 47, 46, 71, 86, 95, 72, 48, 79, 93, 97, 100, 94, 101, 98, 73, 88, 80, 49, 81, 89, 50, 82, 99, 102	recall 6, inference 9, analysis 16, synthesis 19
College Senior

	1, 20, 77, 31, 33, 78, 37, 36, 62, 64, 39, 66, 83, 68, 67, 84, 43, 42, 44, 85, 45, 69, 70, 46, 71, 47, 86, 95, 93, 72, 48, 79, 94, 103, 100, 97, 98, 104, 101, 80, 49, 88, 73, 89, 81, 50, 82, 105, 106, 99	recall 3, inference 9, analysis 16, synthesis 22
Graduate / PhD	5, 17, 28, 33, 31, 35, 36, 39, 41, 42, 43, 84, 83, 67, 68, 69, 70, 85, 45, 44, 71, 47, 86, 46, 95, 93, 72, 79, 48, 107, 103, 94, 97, 100, 98, 101, 104, 108, 49, 88, 73, 80, 82, 89, 50, 81, 99, 102, 106, 105	recall 3, inference 6, analysis 16, synthesis 25

Final paper

Pride and Prejudice: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Jane Austen develops first impressions and prejudice across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in Pride and Prejudice and argue how its meaning changes over the novel and why that change matters to pride and self-knowledge.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in Pride and Prejudice. Argue whether the novel judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether Pride and Prejudice finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of marriage and money. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Middle School 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 6 quotations from at least three sections, from the beginning, middle and end. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the chapter and paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.
Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.

Essay assignments

Essay: First impressions and prejudice

Middle School (600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Pride and Prejudice teaches about first impressions and prejudice. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Jane Austen develops first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Jane Austen develops first impressions and prejudice across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Pride and Prejudice (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of first impressions and prejudice. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Jane Austen's choices in Pride and Prejudice (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of first impressions and prejudice, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Pride and Prejudice's treatment of first impressions and prejudice in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on first impressions and prejudice in Pride and Prejudice, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Pride and self-knowledge

Middle School (600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Pride and Prejudice teaches about pride and self-knowledge. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Jane Austen develops pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Jane Austen develops pride and self-knowledge across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Pride and Prejudice (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of pride and self-knowledge. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Jane Austen's choices in Pride and Prejudice (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of pride and self-knowledge, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Pride and Prejudice's treatment of pride and self-knowledge in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on pride and self-knowledge in Pride and Prejudice, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Marriage and money

Middle School (600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Pride and Prejudice teaches about marriage and money. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Jane Austen develops marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Jane Austen develops marriage and money across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Pride and Prejudice (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of marriage and money. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Jane Austen's choices in Pride and Prejudice (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of marriage and money, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Pride and Prejudice's treatment of marriage and money in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on marriage and money in Pride and Prejudice, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Class and social mobility

Middle School (600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Pride and Prejudice teaches about class and social mobility. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Jane Austen develops class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Jane Austen develops class and social mobility across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Pride and Prejudice (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of class and social mobility. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Jane Austen's choices in Pride and Prejudice (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of class and social mobility, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Pride and Prejudice's treatment of class and social mobility in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on class and social mobility in Pride and Prejudice, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Women's limited choices

Middle School (600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Pride and Prejudice teaches about women's limited choices. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Jane Austen develops women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Jane Austen develops women's limited choices across Pride and Prejudice. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Pride and Prejudice (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of women's limited choices. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Jane Austen's choices in Pride and Prejudice (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of women's limited choices, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Pride and Prejudice's treatment of women's limited choices in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on women's limited choices in Pride and Prejudice, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Original Liber et Libri curriculum. Quotations from the public-domain text. Vocabulary definitions are modern and contextual (curated; based on Princeton WordNet 3.0). Word histories appear only where verified (Online Etymology Dictionary or Wiktionary, 2026-10-20); unverified ones are left out. AP and Cambridge entries are our own summaries with links, not College Board or Cambridge text; ICC-WC and LeL IDs are Liber et Libri labels. Included with every curriculum purchase and with Classroom Pro.