Lesson 1: Introduction to The Adventure of the Speckled Band

Author biography

Arthur Conan Doyle was born in Edinburgh on 22 May 1859, studied medicine at the University of Edinburgh, where his teacher Dr. Joseph Bell's powers of observation inspired Sherlock Holmes, and practised as a doctor in Southsea. Holmes first appeared in A Study in Scarlet (1887); the stories in The Strand Magazine from 1891 made him world-famous. Doyle also wrote historical stories and science fiction, served as a volunteer doctor in the Boer War, was knighted in 1902, and in later life became a passionate Spiritualist. He died on 7 July 1930.

Historical and cultural context

Victorian England combined new forensic science with fascination with the Empire, especially India. The story's villain is a doctor who practised in Calcutta and keeps exotic animals.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in The Strand Magazine in February 1892; collected in The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes (1892).

Then: Very popular; Doyle later named it his favourite Holmes story.

Now: A model locked-room mystery for teaching inference and clues.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Helen Stoner comes to Holmes in terror: her twin sister died mysteriously two years earlier, crying out about "the speckled band," and now Helen hears the same strange whistle at night.

Main themes

- deduction and reason.
- greed.
- violence recoils on the violent.

Why it matters

Students practise inference and learn how mysteries plant clues fairly.

Spoilers · teacher only

Holmes finds that the stepfather, Dr. Grimesby Roylott, sent a venomous snake through a ventilator to kill the sisters for their inheritance; the snake turns on Roylott and kills him.

Helen Stoner fears for her life: her twin sister Julia died two years before, crying 'It was the band! The speckled band!' Now her violent stepfather, Dr. Grimesby Roylott, has moved her into Julia's room. Holmes and Watson notice a dummy bell-rope, a ventilator and a bed bolted to the floor. They wait in the dark; Holmes strikes at a swamp adder sent through the ventilator. The snake turns and kills Roylott, who had wanted the girls' inheritance.

Background: Published in The Strand in February 1892. Doyle's Holmes popularized deductive detective fiction.

Significance: Doyle's own favorite Holmes story and a staple for teaching clues and inference.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Excerpt-based (Middle School support track; this story is above the grades 6–8 complexity band, so work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Adventure of the Speckled Band,” how does Doyle show reason defeating a hidden crime? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In The Adventure of the Speckled Band, how does Doyle develop the idea of reason defeating a hidden crime? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how The Adventure of the Speckled Band develops the idea of reason defeating a hidden crime. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and point of view shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of The Adventure of the Speckled Band (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of reason defeating a hidden crime. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what The Adventure of the Speckled Band suggests about reason defeating a hidden crime. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's foreshadowing and point of view), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Arthur Conan Doyle uses foreshadowing in The Adventure of the Speckled Band to complicate the reader's understanding of reason defeating a hidden crime. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate The Adventure of the Speckled Band within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of reason defeating a hidden crime responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read The Adventure of the Speckled Band alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of reason defeating a hidden crime follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Adventure of the Speckled Band and its treatment of reason defeating a hidden crime. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's foreshadowing and point of view, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Adventure of the Speckled Band as evidence for a larger claim about reason defeating a hidden crime in The Adventure of the Speckled Band. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Adventure of the Speckled Band as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of reason defeating a hidden crime. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Adventure of the Speckled Band.

SAT-style questions

1. She had a considerable sum of money—not less than £1000 a year—and this she bequeathed to Dr.

   As used in the text, what does the word “bequeathed” most nearly mean?

   A. an open recess in a wall at the base of a chimney where a fire can be built

   B. an event that might have been arranged although it was really accidental

   C. leave or give by will after one's death

   D. a pain in the head

2. "It is easy for me to be so, for every event of that dreadful time is seared into my memory. The manor-house is, as I have already said, very old, and only one wing is now inhabited. The bedrooms in this wing are on the ground floor, the sitting-rooms being in the central block of the buildings. Of these bedrooms the first is Dr. Roylott's, the second my sister's, and the third my own. There is no communication between them, but they all open out into the same corridor. Do I make myself plain?"

   Which choice best states a central concern of “The Adventure of the Speckled Band”?

   A. A girl choosing nature over a stranger's approval

   B. A symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer

   C. Superstition used against a credulous man

   D. Reason defeating a hidden crime

SAT key: 1. C (leave or give by will after one's death); 2. D (Reason defeating a hidden crime)
