Lesson 1: Introduction to The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County

Author biography

Mark Twain was the pen name of Samuel Langhorne Clemens, born in Florida, Missouri, on 30 November 1835 and raised in the Mississippi River town of Hannibal. He was a printer, a steamboat pilot (his pen name is a riverman's call meaning two fathoms deep), a failed silver prospector and a newspaper humorist in Nevada and California. "Jim Smiley and His Jumping Frog" (1865) won him national attention. He went on to write The Adventures of Tom Sawyer (1876) and Adventures of Huckleberry Finn (1884–85) and died on 21 April 1910.

Historical and cultural context

Set in a California mining camp after the Gold Rush, where gambling and tall tales filled long evenings. Twain heard a version of the story in Angels Camp in 1865.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published as "Jim Smiley and His Jumping Frog" in the New York Saturday Press on 18 November 1865.

Then: Reprinted nationwide; it made Twain famous.

Now: A classic of American frontier humour and the frame-narrative tall tale.

Overview (spoiler-free)

A narrator, asked to inquire after a Leonidas W. Smiley, is trapped by garrulous Simon Wheeler, who instead tells about Jim Smiley, a man who would bet on anything.

Main themes

- gambling and trickery.
- storytelling.
- East versus West.

Why it matters

It introduces deadpan humour, vernacular voice and frame stories.

Spoilers · teacher only

A stranger fills Smiley's champion frog, Dan'l Webster, with quail shot, wins the bet and leaves; the narrator escapes before Wheeler starts another story.

The genteel narrator asks old Simon Wheeler about a Reverend Leonidas W. Smiley and instead hears, in dead earnest, the story of Jim Smiley, who would bet on anything. Smiley trains a frog, Dan'l Webster, to jump. A stranger fills the frog with quail shot while Smiley fetches a second frog, and wins the bet. When Wheeler starts on a one-eyed cow, the narrator escapes.

Background: Published in the New York Saturday Press in 1865; it made Twain nationally famous.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Common Core: RL.7.4, W.7.1): Excerpt-based (Middle School support track; this story is above the grades 6–8 complexity band, so work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County,” how does Twain show the art of the deadpan tall tale? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the diction / vocabulary you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): In The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, how does Twain develop the idea of the art of the deadpan tall tale? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the diction / vocabulary in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Analyze how The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County develops the idea of the art of the deadpan tall tale. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of diction / vocabulary and point of view shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County (where it begins, turns and ends) and its diction / vocabulary shape the reader's understanding of the art of the deadpan tall tale. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County suggests about the art of the deadpan tall tale. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's diction / vocabulary and point of view), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mark Twain uses diction / vocabulary in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County to complicate the reader's understanding of the art of the deadpan tall tale. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: ICC-WC-1.3, ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.1): Situate The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of the art of the deadpan tall tale responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: LeL-C2-LIT-1, LeL-C2-W-1): Read The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of the art of the deadpan tall tale follows or bends those conventions, using the diction / vocabulary as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: LeL-C3-LIT-1, LeL-C3-W-1): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County and its treatment of the art of the deadpan tall tale. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's diction / vocabulary and point of view, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: LeL-C4-LIT-1, LeL-C4-W-1): Develop a research argument that reads The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County as evidence for a larger claim about the art of the deadpan tall tale in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: LeL-GR-LIT-1, LeL-GR-W-1): Develop an original argument that reads The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of the art of the deadpan tall tale. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County.

SAT-style questions

1. But as soon as money was up on him, he was a different dog; his underjaw'd begin to stick out like the fo'castle of a steamboat, and his teeth would uncover, and shine savage like the furnaces.

   As used in the text, what does the word “uncover” most nearly mean?

   A. full of energy and willing to try new things

   B. the act of going on with something

   C. to remove a covering from; to reveal

   D. gave someone a task to carry out

2. In compliance with the request of a friend of mine, who wrote me from the East, I called on good-natured, garrulous old Simon Wheeler, and inquired after my friend's friend, Leonidas W. Smiley, as requested to do, and I hereunto append the result. I have a lurking suspicion that Leonidas W. Smiley is a myth; that my friend never knew such a personage; and that he only conjectured that, if I asked old Wheeler about him, it would remind him of his infamous Jim Smiley, and he would go to work and bore me nearly to death with some infernal reminiscence of him as long and tedious as it should be useless to me. If that was the design, it certainly succeeded.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County”?

   A. Wishes that defy fate

   B. The art of the deadpan tall tale

   C. A boy's romantic quest ending in disillusion

   D. Waking into a changed nation

SAT key: 1. C (to remove a covering from; to reveal); 2. B (The art of the deadpan tall tale)

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of trickery in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mark Twain's choices in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of trickery, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.4, ICC-WC-1.7): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County's treatment of trickery in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: LeL-C2-W-1, LeL-C2-LIT-1): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on trickery in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County that reads the story against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: LeL-C3-W-1, LeL-C3-LIT-1): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on trickery in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: LeL-C4-W-1, LeL-C4-LIT-1): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about trickery in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: LeL-GR-W-1, LeL-GR-LIT-1): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on trickery in The Celebrated Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.
