Lesson 1: Introduction to The Minister's Black Veil

Author biography

Nathaniel Hawthorne was born in Salem, Massachusetts, on 4 July 1804; his ancestor John Hathorne was a judge in the Salem witch trials of 1692, a family history Hawthorne felt as a burden (he added the "w" to his name). After graduating from Bowdoin College in 1825 he spent years writing in near-seclusion in Salem, publishing Twice-Told Tales in 1837. He lived briefly at the utopian Brook Farm community, worked at the Salem Custom House, and achieved fame with The Scarlet Letter (1850) and The House of the Seven Gables (1851). He served as U.S. consul in Liverpool and died on 19 May 1864 in Plymouth, New Hampshire.

Historical and cultural context

Set in a Puritan New England village, the story reflects the Calvinist belief that every person hides secret sin. Hawthorne's footnote mentions a real clergyman, Joseph Moody of York, Maine, who wore a handkerchief over his face after accidentally killing a friend.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in The Token, a gift annual, for 1836 (issued in late 1835); collected in Twice-Told Tales (1837).

Then: Edgar Allan Poe reviewed Twice-Told Tales in 1842 and praised Hawthorne, though he guessed that the veil hid a specific crime.

Now: Widely taught as a parable of secret sin and as an example of how a symbol can carry many meanings.

Overview (spoiler-free)

The Reverend Mr. Hooper appears one Sunday wearing a black veil over his face. He never explains it, and the village's reaction changes his life.

Main themes

- secret sin: everyone hides something.
- isolation: the veil cuts him off from love.
- symbolism and interpretation: the town's reactions reveal the town.

Why it matters

The story asks why we fear what we don't understand, and what we hide from others.

Spoilers · teacher only

He refuses to remove it even for his fiancée Elizabeth, who leaves him. He becomes an effective but lonely minister, and on his deathbed declares that every face wears a black veil.

Reverend Hooper of Milford appears one Sunday wearing a black veil over his face and never removes it. The congregation is frightened; his fiancée Elizabeth begs him to lift it and leaves him when he refuses. His preaching gains power over sinners, but he lives isolated. On his deathbed he refuses to unveil, declaring that every face around him wears a black veil.

Background: Published in 1836 in The Token. Hawthorne subtitled it 'A Parable' and noted a real minister who wore a veil after an accidental killing.

Significance: A key text for teaching symbolism and ambiguity.

Published in 1836 in The Token. Hawthorne subtitled it 'A Parable' and noted a real minister who wore a veil after an accidental killing. A key text for teaching symbolism and ambiguity. Symbolism: The veil is never explained; it may mean sin, sorrow, the barrier between people, or the barrier between humanity and God. Characterization: Hooper is gentle but immovable; Elizabeth is the only one who speaks to him directly. Irony: The veil makes him a better preacher ("a very efficient clergyman") because sinners feel he understands them. Watch for the black veil: the hidden self.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Excerpt-based (Middle School support track; this story is above the grades 6–8 complexity band, so work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Minister's Black Veil,” how does Hawthorne show a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the symbolism you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In The Minister's Black Veil, how does Hawthorne develop the idea of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the symbolism in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how The Minister's Black Veil develops the idea of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Minister's Black Veil (where it begins, turns and ends) and its symbolism shape the reader's understanding of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Minister's Black Veil suggests about a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's symbolism and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.FIG, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Nathaniel Hawthorne uses symbolism in The Minister's Black Veil to complicate the reader's understanding of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate The Minister's Black Veil within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read The Minister's Black Veil alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer follows or bends those conventions, using the symbolism as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Minister's Black Veil and its treatment of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's symbolism and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Minister's Black Veil as evidence for a larger claim about a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer in The Minister's Black Veil. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Minister's Black Veil as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of a symbol of hidden sin that isolates its wearer. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Minister's Black Veil.
