Lesson 1: Introduction to After Twenty Years

Author biography

O. Henry was the pen name of William Sydney Porter, born on 11 September 1862 in Greensboro, North Carolina. He trained as a pharmacist, moved to Texas, and worked as a draftsman, bank teller and humorous journalist. Convicted of embezzling from the Austin bank where he had worked (he maintained his innocence), he served about three years in the Ohio Penitentiary (1898–1901), where he began publishing stories as O. Henry. In New York he wrote a story a week for the New York World and produced hundreds of tales of ordinary city people, famous for their warmth, wordplay and twist endings. He died in New York on 5 June 1910.

Historical and cultural context

New York around 1900 had a new professional police force walking regular beats, and the West was still a place where young men went to make fortunes, honestly or not.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in the New York Sunday World in 1906; collected in The Four Million (1906).

Then: Popular as one of O. Henry's neat "twist" stories.

Now: A standard middle-school text for foreshadowing, characterization and the surprise ending.

Overview (spoiler-free)

On a dark, rainy night a policeman walking his beat meets a man waiting in a doorway. The man explains he is keeping an appointment made twenty years ago with his best friend, Jimmy Wells.

Main themes

- loyalty and duty.
- change over time.
- friendship.

Why it matters

It raises a real ethical dilemma: what do we owe a friend who has done wrong?

Spoilers · teacher only

The policeman was Jimmy; recognizing the man as a wanted criminal, "Silky" Bob, he could not arrest his friend himself and sent a plainclothes officer with a note.

A man waits in a New York doorway to meet his old friend Jimmy Wells, twenty years to the day after they parted. He tells a patrolling policeman about the plan. A man claiming to be Jimmy arrives, but he is a plainclothes officer who arrests the waiting man, 'Silky' Bob, wanted in Chicago. A note reveals that the patrolman was Jimmy, who recognized Bob as the wanted man and could not arrest him himself.

Background: Published in 1906 and collected in The Four Million, which names the ordinary New Yorkers O. Henry wrote about.

Significance: A compact surprise ending that rewards rereading for planted clues.

Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how After Twenty Years develops the idea of friendship tested by duty. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Jimmy proves his loyalty to both his friend and his duty. When the text says "Bob: I was at the appointed place on time" (After Twenty Years, paragraph 33), it shows this directly. His note says "I was at the appointed place on time," so he kept his promise, but he sent another officer because he was bound by duty and could not bear to arrest Bob himself.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Excerpt-based (Middle School support track; this story is above the grades 6–8 complexity band, so work from the passage your teacher selects). In “After Twenty Years,” how does Henry show friendship tested by duty? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In After Twenty Years, how does Henry develop the idea of friendship tested by duty? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how After Twenty Years develops the idea of friendship tested by duty. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of After Twenty Years (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of friendship tested by duty. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what After Twenty Years suggests about friendship tested by duty. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.NAR, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how O. Henry uses irony in After Twenty Years to complicate the reader's understanding of friendship tested by duty. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate After Twenty Years within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of friendship tested by duty responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read After Twenty Years alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of friendship tested by duty follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to After Twenty Years and its treatment of friendship tested by duty. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads After Twenty Years as evidence for a larger claim about friendship tested by duty in After Twenty Years. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads After Twenty Years as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of friendship tested by duty. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on After Twenty Years.

SAT-style questions

1. The man from the West, his egotism enlarged by success, was beginning to outline the history of his career.

   As used in the text, what does the word “egotism” most nearly mean?

   A. too much concern with oneself

   B. in an uncertain or unsure way

   C. in a gloomy, depressing way

D. in a way that commands notice or respect

2. THE policeman on the beat moved up the avenue impressively. The impressiveness was habitual and not for show, for spectators were few. The time was barely 10 o'clock at night, but chilly gusts of wind with a taste of rain in them had well nigh depeopled the streets.

Which choice best states a central concern of "After Twenty Years"?

A. Accepting one's place in nature's cycle

B. Friendship tested by duty

C. Hope created by an act of sacrifice

D. A girl's first encounter with death across the class line

SAT key: 1. A (too much concern with oneself); 2. B (Friendship tested by duty)
