Lesson 1: Introduction to The Masque of the Red Death

Author biography

Edgar Allan Poe was born in Boston on 19 January 1809 to touring actors; orphaned before he was three, he was raised in Richmond, Virginia, by the merchant John Allan, with whom he later quarrelled bitterly. He attended the University of Virginia, served in the U.S. Army and was dismissed from West Point, then lived by his pen as a poet, critic and magazine editor (the Southern Literary Messenger, Graham's Magazine) in Richmond, Philadelphia and New York. He married his young cousin Virginia Clemm, who died of tuberculosis in 1847. "The Raven" (1845) made him famous but never prosperous. He is credited with inventing the modern detective story ("The Murders in the Rue Morgue," 1841) and argued that a short story should create a single "unity of effect." He died in Baltimore on 7 October 1849; the cause of his death is unknown.

Historical and cultural context

Poe wrote the story in 1842, the year his wife Virginia first coughed blood from tuberculosis, a disease that killed many in his family. Cholera epidemics had swept American cities in 1832. The plot, a prince sealing himself away from plague, recalls Boccaccio's Decameron and older traditions of the "dance of death."

Publication and reception, then and now

First published as "The Mask of the Red Death: A Fantasy" in Graham's Magazine (Philadelphia) in May 1842; retitled "The Masque" in 1845.

Then: Little notice at publication.

Now: It is read as an allegory of death that no wealth can wall out, and gained new attention during the COVID-19 pandemic.

Overview (spoiler-free)

While a plague called the Red Death kills half the land, Prince Prospero and a thousand courtiers lock themselves in a fortified abbey for a lavish masked ball in seven strangely coloured rooms.

Main themes

- the inevitability of death: no wall keeps it out.
- privilege and isolation: the rich abandon the poor.
- time: the ebony clock interrupts every pleasure.

Why it matters

The story asks what the powerful owe others during a crisis, a question students lived through in 2020.

Spoilers · teacher only

At midnight a masked figure dressed as a Red Death corpse appears; Prospero pursues it and dies, and the guests discover the costume is empty; the Red Death claims them all.

While a plague called the Red Death kills a third of his realm, Prince Prospero walls himself and a thousand nobles inside a fortified abbey. He throws a masked ball in seven colored rooms running east to west, the last black with blood-red windows and a great ebony clock. At midnight a guest disguised as a Red Death corpse appears; Prospero chases him into the black room and dies, and the revelers find the costume empty. The Red Death has entered, and all die.

Background: Poe wrote it in 1842, in a century of cholera epidemics; his wife Virginia was showing signs of tuberculosis that year.

Significance: It is read as an allegory: the rooms as stages of life, the clock as time, the stranger as death no wealth can bar.

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Poe wrote it in 1842, in a century of cholera epidemics; his wife Virginia was showing signs of tuberculosis that year. It is read as an allegory: the rooms as stages of life, the clock as time, the stranger as death no wealth can bar. Symbolism: Seven rooms running east to west (blue to black) are often read as the stages of life; the last, black with blood-red windows, contains the clock. Setting: The sealed abbey with welded gates is a world of artificial pleasure built to deny death. Imagery: Colour and light (stained glass lit by braziers) and the clock's chime dominate the senses. Watch for the ebony clock: time and death; each hour the dancers freeze.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
I read the line once for meaning and once for craft. "The external world could take care of itself" (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 2). Prospero's indifference. That is symbolism at work: Seven rooms running east to west (blue to black) are often read as the stages of life; the last, black with blood-red windows, contains the clock.

Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how The Masque of the Red Death develops the idea of the futile attempt to shut out death. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The story's setting and symbols show that wealth cannot protect anyone from death. When the text says "And Darkness and Decay and the Red Death held illimitable dominion over all" (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 14), it shows this directly. Prospero declares that "the external world could take care of itself," but the clock forces even his musicians "to pause ... to harken to the sound," and the final sentence gives "the Red Death" "illimitable dominion over all."

[DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: While a plague called the Red Death kills a third of his realm, Prince Prospero walls himself and a thousand nobles inside a fortified abbey. He throws a masked ball in seven colored rooms running east to west, the last black with blood-red windows and a great ebony clock. At midnight a guest…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Masque of the Red Death” set up that the rest of The Masque of the Red Death will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The story's setting and symbols show that wealth cannot protect anyone from death. Useful evidence: “And Darkness and Decay and the Red Death held illimitable dominion over all” (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 14): The final sentence: personified triumph. Theme link: Prospero's withdrawal is selfish and doomed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The story's setting and symbols show that wealth cannot protect anyone from death. Useful evidence: “the musicians of the orchestra were constrained to pause, momentarily, in their performance, to harken to the sound” (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 5): The clock's power. Theme link: Prospero's withdrawal is selfish and doomed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why do people sometimes try to ignore a danger instead of facing it?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does imagery appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with the inevitability of death? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The story's setting and symbols show that wealth cannot protect anyone from death. Useful evidence: “The external world could take care of itself” (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 2): Prospero's indifference. On imagery: Colour and light (stained glass lit by braziers) and the clock's chime dominate the senses. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Poe wrote it in 1842, in a century of cholera epidemics; his wife Virginia was showing signs of tuberculosis that year. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The story's setting and symbols show that wealth cannot protect anyone from death. Useful evidence: “And Darkness and Decay and the Red Death held illimitable dominion over all” (The Masque of the Red Death, paragraph 14): The final sentence: personified triumph. On setting: The sealed abbey with welded gates is a world of artificial pleasure built to deny death. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “It is read as an allegory: the rooms as stages of life, the clock as time, the stranger as death no wealth can bar.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Middle School (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Excerpt-based (Middle School support track; this story is above the grades 6–8 complexity band, so work from the passage your teacher selects). In "The Masque of the Red Death," how does Poe show the futile attempt to shut out death? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the symbolism you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In The Masque of the Red Death, how does Poe develop the idea of the futile attempt to shut out death? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the symbolism in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how The Masque of the Red Death develops the idea of the futile attempt to shut out death. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of The Masque of the Red Death (where it begins, turns and ends) and its symbolism shape the reader's understanding of the futile attempt to shut out death. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what The Masque of the Red Death suggests about the futile attempt to shut out death. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's symbolism and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Edgar Allan Poe uses symbolism in The Masque of the Red Death to complicate the reader's understanding of the futile attempt to shut out death. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate The Masque of the Red Death within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of the futile attempt to shut out death responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read The Masque of the Red Death alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of the futile attempt to shut out death follows or bends those conventions, using the symbolism as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Masque of the Red Death and its treatment of the futile attempt to shut out death. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's symbolism and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Masque of the Red Death as evidence for a larger claim about the futile attempt to shut out death in The Masque of the Red Death. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Masque of the Red Death as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of the futile attempt to shut out death. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Masque of the Red Death.

SAT-style questions

1. Here the case was very different; as might have been expected from the duke's love of the bizarre.

   As used in the text, what does the word "bizarre" most nearly mean?

   A. a stopping

   B. propriety in manners and conduct

   C. conspicuously or grossly unconventional or unusual

   D. calmed

2. The "Red Death" had long devastated the country. No pestilence had ever been so fatal, or so hideous. Blood was its Avator and its seal—the redness and the horror of blood. There were sharp pains, and sudden dizziness, and then profuse bleeding at the pores, with dissolution. The scarlet stains upon the body and especially upon the face of the victim, were the pest ban which shut him out from the aid and from the sympathy of his fellow-men. And the whole seizure, progress and termination of the disease, were the incidents of half an hour.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "The Masque of the Red Death"?

   A. Superstition used against a credulous man

   B. The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently

   C. The foolishness of wishing to be young again

   D. The futile attempt to shut out death

SAT key: 1. C (conspicuously or grossly unconventional or unusual); 2. D (The futile attempt to shut out death)

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Edgar Allan Poe develops time across The Masque of the Red Death. Trace the idea through at least three parts of the story and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of The Masque of the Red Death (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of time. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO5): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of time in The Masque of the Red Death. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Edgar Allan Poe's choices in The Masque of the Red Death (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of time, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places The Masque of the Red Death's treatment of time in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on time in The Masque of the Red Death that reads the story against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on time in The Masque of the Red Death. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about time in The Masque of the Red Death, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on time in The Masque of the Red Death, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.
