Author biography

Bret Harte was born in Albany, New York, on 25 August 1836 and went to California as a teenager in 1854, during the years after the Gold Rush, working as a teacher, miner's assistant, printer and journalist. As editor of the Overland Monthly he published "The Luck of Roaring Camp" (1868) and "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" (1869), which made him for a time the most famous writer in America. His popularity faded; he served as U.S. consul in Germany and Scotland and died in England on 5 May 1902.

Historical and cultural context

Set in the California Gold Rush mining camps of 1850, where towns formed overnight and vigilance committees expelled or hanged people they considered undesirable.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in the Overland Monthly in January 1869, which Harte edited.

Then: A sensation; it and "The Luck of Roaring Camp" made Harte famous across the country.

Now: A founding work of Western local-colour fiction, now also discussed for its sentimental view of outcasts.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Poker Flat expels a gambler, John Oakhurst, a prostitute called the Duchess, Mother Shipton and Uncle Billy. They meet two young runaways, Tom Simson (the Innocent) and Piney Woods, and are trapped by snow in the Sierras.

Main themes

- redemption.
- hypocrisy of respectability.
- fate and chance.

Why it matters

The story asks who decides who is respectable.

Spoilers · teacher only

Uncle Billy steals the mules; Mother Shipton starves herself to save Piney; Tom goes for help; the Duchess and Piney die in each other's arms; Oakhurst shoots himself, leaving a note on a playing card.

First, meaning. I read "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat" slowly and put it in my own words: The narrator describes the gambler, now dead, as the strongest and yet the weakest of the group. Next, craft. I notice the paradox, two opposite words joined by "and yet," which refuses to judge him simply. The strongest word is "weakest": it is a surprising word for the man who kept everyone calm, so it makes us look for his hidden weakness. Then, effect. What does it mean to call Oakhurst both the strongest and the weakest of the outcasts? My answer: He was strong in holding the others together but weak in that he gave up and took his own life; Harte wants us to see good and bad in people society calls outcasts. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.

Content note (a prostitute and a gambler as characters, death by starvation and cold, a suicide, a racial slur in dialogue, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: A prostitute and a gambler as characters; death by starvation and cold; a suicide; a racial slur in dialogue. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. The text quotes racial slurs in period dialogue: decide in advance that no one reads them aloud, and name why the author records them. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…e Billy," a suspected sluice-robber and confirmed drunkard. The cavalcade provoked no comments fro…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes a prostitute and a gambler as characters; death by starvation and cold; a suicide; a racial slur in dialogue. Support is available if this is hard to read.
Suggested language: “Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Teacher only · spoilers

In 1850, a vigilance committee in the mining camp of Poker Flat expels gambler John Oakhurst, 'The Duchess', Mother Shipton and drunken Uncle Billy. On the trail they meet innocent young Tom Simson and his fiancée Piney. Snowed in, Uncle Billy steals the mules. Mother Shipton starves herself to save food for Piney; Tom goes for help. Oakhurst shoots himself under a pine; the Duchess and Piney die in each other's arms.

Background: Published in the Overland Monthly in 1869, set in California's 1850 Gold Rush camps, where vigilance committees administered rough justice.

Significance: A key local-color story that made Harte famous.

Published in the Overland Monthly in 1869, set in California's 1850 Gold Rush camps, where vigilance committees administered rough justice. A key local-color story that made Harte famous. Irony: The outcasts behave more morally than the town that expelled them. Characterization: Oakhurst is calm and fatalistic; the Innocent and Piney are naive. First, meaning. I read "the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife" slowly and put it in my own words: Oakhurst's body is found under a tree with the deuce of clubs fastened to the bark by a knife, carrying his last words. Next, craft. I notice the details are all gambling and frontier tools, a card and a bowie-knife, rather than anything religious. The strongest word is "deuce": a deuce is the lowest card in the deck, so he is saying his luck ran out completely. Then, effect. Why does Oakhurst leave a playing card as his own grave marker? My answer: Oakhurst leaves a playing card as his own grave marker because it sums up his life as a gambler's losing hand; the card is a grim joke and a confession, and it is how he chooses to be remembered.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Useful evidence: “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48): The paradox. Theme link: Mother Shipton dies for Piney. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Useful evidence: “Piney can stay with Mrs. Oakhurst” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 13): The Innocent's innocence. On characterization: Oakhurst is calm and fatalistic; the Innocent and Piney are naive. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Can a person whom society calls 'bad' act with true goodness?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does setting appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with redemption among outcasts? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Useful evidence: “the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38): Oakhurst's epitaph. On setting: The snowbound Sierras trap the characters and test them. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Published in the Overland Monthly in 1869, set in California's 1850 Gold Rush camps, where vigilance committees administered rough justice. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Useful evidence: “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48): The paradox. On setting: The snowbound Sierras trap the characters and test them. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “A key local-color story that made Harte famous.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Useful evidence: “Piney can stay with Mrs. Oakhurst” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 13): The Innocent's innocence. Theme link: Mother Shipton dies for Piney. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this story acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR, AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. 12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “In point of fact, Poker Flat was "after somebody." It had lately suffered the loss of several thousand dollars, two valuable horses, and a prominent citizen.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “prominent” and “valuable”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from paragraph 14 reveal about the character or situation? “As it was, he felt compelled to retire up the cañon until he could recover his gravity.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “compelled” and “gravity”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48).
    Sample answer: The "outcasts" care for one another, and Harte calls Oakhurst "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat"; he has the strength to protect others but not to keep going himself. The words “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops redemption: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 16 shapes its tone: “As he stirred the dying fire, the wind, which was now blowing strongly, brought to his cheek that which caused the blood to leave it,—snow!” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “strongly” and “brought”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from paragraph 20 to the story's treatment of redemption among outcasts: “"I reckon now you're used to fine things at Poker Flat," said Piney.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “things” and “reckon”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to redemption among outcasts and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 9? “A wooded _____, surrounded on three sides by precipitous cliffs of naked granite, sloped gently toward the crest of another precipice that overlooked the valley.”

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does Uncle Billy do?

    A. Goes for help
    B. Steals the mules and leaves
    C. Dies first
    D. Builds a cabin

    Key: B (Steals the mules and leaves)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48: “the _____ and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat”
    Key: strongest

20. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Oakhurst's epitaph. The words “the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

21. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The paradox. The words “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Piney can stay with Mrs. Oakhurst” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The Innocent's innocence. The words “Piney can stay with Mrs. Oakhurst” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops redemption: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “But even this act did not draw the party into any closer sympathy.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “sympathy” and “closer”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 13: “Piney can stay with Mrs. _____”

    Key: Oakhurst

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Two or three men, _____ earnestly together, ceased as he approached, and exchanged significant glances.” Word bank: defection, overruled, conversing, decreasing

    Key: conversing

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “The cavalcade provoked no comments from the spectators, nor was any word uttered by the escort.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “spectators” and “cavalcade”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of redemption among outcasts: “"Alone?" No, not exactly alone; in fact (a giggle), he had run away with Piney Woods.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “exactly” and “giggle”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to redemption among outcasts and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 14 shapes its tone: “It was apparently of a jocular nature, for he felt impelled to slap his leg again and cram his fist into his mouth." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 14) accurately and quotes "apparently" and "impelled", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the story: "Harte shows that respectability and virtue are not the same." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat" (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) bears it out: The "outcasts" care for one another, and Harte calls Oakhurst "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat"; he has the strength to protect others but not to keep going himself. But "the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife" (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38) complicates it, because this detail (oakhurst's epitaph) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the story, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of redemption among outcasts: "Oakhurst, drawing his blanket over his shoulders, stroked his mustaches and waited for the dawn." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 18) accurately and quotes "mustaches" and "shoulders", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to redemption among outcasts and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from paragraph 9 to the story's treatment of redemption among outcasts: "It was, undoubtedly, the most suitable spot for a camp, had camping been advisable." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 9) accurately and quotes "undoubtedly" and "advisable", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to redemption among outcasts and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of redemption among outcasts: Mother Shipton dies for Piney.

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how redemption develops from the opening of "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Mother Shipton dies for Piney: the paradox. The words "The Outcasts of Poker Flat" (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops redemption: Mother Shipton dies for Piney. The "outcasts" care for one another, and Harte calls Oakhurst "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat"; he has the strength to protect others but not to keep going himself.

33. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38: "the deuce of clubs _____ to the bark with a bowie-knife"

    Key: pinned

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "The third day came, and the sun, looking through the white-curtained valley, saw the outcasts divide their slowly decreasing store of provisions for the morning meal.", what does "decreasing" most nearly mean?

    A. outvoted; overridden

    B. leaving one person or side for another

    C. becoming smaller or less

D. adding up (to)

Key: C (becoming smaller or less)

35. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “The Outcasts of Poker Flat”? Oakhurst is calm and fatalistic; the Innocent and Piney are naive.

A. Alliteration

B. Personification

C. Symbolism

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Oakhurst's epitaph. The words “the deuce of clubs pinned to the bark with a bowie-knife” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 38) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops redemption: Mother Shipton dies for Piney. The "outcasts" care for one another, and Harte calls Oakhurst "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat"; he has the strength to protect others but not to keep going himself.

37. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Oakhurst overruled this narrower local prejudice.”, what does “overruled” most nearly mean?

A. leaving one person or side for another

B. adding up (to)

C. outvoted; overridden

D. becoming smaller or less

Key: C (outvoted; overridden)

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Outcasts of Poker Flat”?

A. Moral worth found among those society rejects

B. A reversal that punishes a change of heart

C. Superstition used against a credulous man

D. A girl's first encounter with death across the class line

Key: A (Moral worth found among those society rejects)

39. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “The Outcasts of Poker Flat”? The outcasts behave more morally than the town that expelled them.

A. Hyperbole

B. Irony

C. Imagery

D. Diction / vocabulary

Key: B (Irony)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The paradox. The words “the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat” (The Outcasts of Poker Flat, paragraph 48) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops redemption: Mother Shipton dies for Piney. The "outcasts" care for one another, and Harte calls Oakhurst "the strongest and yet the weakest of the outcasts of Poker Flat"; he has the strength to protect others but not to keep going himself.

41. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “He dropped a warning to the Duchess and Mother Shipton, who of course knew the facts of their associate's defection. "They'll find out the truth about us all when they find out anything," he added, significantly, "and…”, what does “defection” most nearly mean?

    A. leaving one person or side for another

    B. adding up (to)

    C. outvoted; overridden

    D. becoming smaller or less

    Key: A (leaving one person or side for another)

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Outcasts of Poker Flat,” how does Harte show moral worth found among those society rejects? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In The Outcasts of Poker Flat, how does Harte develop the idea of moral worth found among those society rejects? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how The Outcasts of Poker Flat develops the idea of moral worth found among those society rejects. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Outcasts of Poker Flat (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of moral worth found among those society rejects. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Outcasts of Poker Flat suggests about moral worth found among those society rejects. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's characterization and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.CHR, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Bret Harte uses characterization in The Outcasts of Poker Flat to complicate the reader's understanding of moral worth found among those society rejects. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate The Outcasts of Poker Flat within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of moral worth found among those society rejects responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read The Outcasts of Poker Flat alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of moral worth found among those society rejects follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Outcasts of Poker Flat and its treatment of moral worth found among those society rejects. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's characterization and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Outcasts of Poker Flat as evidence for a larger claim about moral worth found among those society rejects in The Outcasts of Poker Flat. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Outcasts of Poker Flat as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of moral worth found among those society rejects. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Outcasts of Poker Flat.

SAT-style questions

1. He dropped a warning to the Duchess and Mother Shipton, who of course knew the facts of their associate's defection. "They'll find out the truth about us all when they find out anything," he added, significantly, "and there's no good frightening them now."

Final paper

The Outcasts of Poker Flat: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Bret Harte develops redemption among outcasts across The Outcasts of Poker Flat. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Outcasts of Poker Flat and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to community and morality.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Outcasts of Poker Flat. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Outcasts of Poker Flat finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of nature's indifference. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.
Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.
