

Frankenstein

Mary Shelley · 1818

1831 revised edition (with the 1818 Preface)

TEACHER EDITION · CURRICULUM UNIT

Common Core edition (standards shown for this framework only)

30 chapter lessons plus 3 seminar day(s), a test day and an essay day: 37 class days of 90 minutes, 5 a week (block schedule), 8 weeks
Syllabus · 90-minute lesson plans · lecture scripts · vocabulary · quizzes with keys · writing prompts at eleven rigor levels · SAT-style items · whole-book test · essays

Liber et Libri · Lux et Libri LLC
Cover: Caspar David Friedrich, The Monk by the Sea (1808–1810). Public domain (Wikimedia Commons).

Contents and unit overview

1. Unit overview and the 90-minute lesson
2. Syllabus (weekly pacing)
3. Lesson 1: introduction (author, context, reception, overview)
4. Lesson plans and lecture scripts (chapters 1–30), each with vocabulary, discussion questions, annotation focus, quiz and key, writing prompts and SAT-style items
5. Unit test (eleven rigor versions) with answer keys and scoring guides
6. Final paper
7. Essay assignments at eleven rigor levels

Edition: The reading text is Mary Shelley's revised 1831 edition (Standard Ebooks, from Project Gutenberg #42324), which also prints the 1818 Preface and the 1831 Introduction. In 1818 Elizabeth is Victor's cousin; in 1831 she is the orphaned daughter of a Milanese nobleman, adopted by Victor's mother. Chapter breaks also differ (e.g. around Chapter III). Cite this edition.

Content note for teachers: The novel includes suicide, the murder of a child, a wrongful execution and the murder of a bride; see the chapter notes and the safe-messaging script.

Grades: Grades 9–12 (scales to graduate via rigor levels). Scaffolded-support track (grade-9 floor): students work from teacher-selected passages with scaffolds, sentence starters and partial-credit probes. Weeks: 8. Class days: 37 × 90 minutes (30 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does Frankenstein suggest about the costs of unchecked ambition?
- What does Frankenstein suggest about creation and responsibility?
- What does Frankenstein suggest about isolation and the need for companionship?
- What does Frankenstein suggest about nature versus nurture?
- What does Frankenstein suggest about the sublime power of nature?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the novel in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.

- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the chapter quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Standards: Common Core

RL.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2, RL.9-10.3, RL.9-10.4, RL.9-10.5, RL.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2, RL.11-12.4, RL.11-12.5, W.9-10.1, W.11-12.1, L.9-10.4, L.11-12.4

Common Core State Standards (ELA-Literacy), thecorestandards.org

Assessments: Daily chapter quizzes (auto-graded); Weekly writing prompt (rubric); Socratic seminars (scheduled days); Whole-book test (scheduled day); Final essay (scheduled day); College Sophomore and above write one essay of the five Differentiation: Every prompt and quiz has eleven rigor levels (Scaffolded support through Graduate / PhD); the app applies student override, then class standard, then the automatic level. Each prompt is tagged for Common Core, Indiana 2023, Dual Credit (Indiana College Core), AP and Cambridge where they apply.
Materials: Liber et Libri reader; Annotation journal; Chapter lecture slides or script

The 90-minute lesson

#	Segment	Mode	Minutes	Clock
1	Bell-ringer	You do	8	0–8
2	Vocabulary with etymology notes	I do	10	8–18
3	Background and context	I do	10	18–28
4	I do: modeled close reading	I do	12	28–40
5	We do: guided annotation	We do	15	40–55
6	You do: independent annotation	You do	15	55–70
7	Discussion	We do	10	70–80
8	Exit ticket / chapter quiz	You do	7	80–87
9	Closure	I do	3	87–90
	Total		90

Syllabus

Week	Chapters	Lessons	Focus and activities	Assessment
1	Introduction: author, context and reception Introduction Preface Letter I Letter II	5 × 90 min (450 min)	the costs of unchecked ambition • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Introduction: author, context and reception • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
2	Letter III Socratic seminar on the costs of unchecked ambition Letter IV Chapter I Chapter II	5 × 90 min (450 min)	creation and responsibility • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on the costs of unchecked ambition • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
3	Chapter III Chapter IV Chapter V Chapter VI Chapter VII	5 × 90 min (450 min)	isolation and the need for companionship • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
4	Chapter VIII Chapter IX Socratic seminar on creation and responsibility Chapter X Chapter XI	5 × 90 min (450 min)	nature versus nurture • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on creation and responsibility • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
5	Chapter XII Chapter XIII	5 × 90 min	the sublime power of nature • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer,

	Chapter XIV Chapter XV Chapter XVI	(450 min)	vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
6	Chapter XVII Chapter XVIII Chapter XIX Socratic seminar on isolation and the need for companionship Chapter XX	5 × 90 min (450 min)	the costs of unchecked ambition • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Socratic seminar on isolation and the need for companionship • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Quiz average plus one graded writing prompt
7	Chapter XXI Chapter XXII Chapter XXIII Chapter XXIV Whole-book test (90 minutes)	5 × 90 min (450 min)	creation and responsibility • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Whole-book test (90 minutes) • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Whole-book test and final essay
8	Final paper writing workshop (drafting in class; finish the draft as homework) Final paper: peer review, revision and submission	2 × 90 min (180 min)	isolation and the need for companionship • Daily 90-minute lesson: bell-ringer, vocabulary and word histories, background, I do / We do / You do, discussion, exit ticket, closure • Chapter quizzes in the app • Final paper writing workshop (drafting in class; finish the draft as homework) • Final paper: peer review, revision and submission • Writing prompt at assigned rigor (one graded per week)	Whole-book test and final essay

Lesson plans and lecture scripts

Each chapter is one 90-minute class. Scripts are a starting point; adapt them to your students. Teacher summaries contain spoilers.

Lesson 1: Introduction to Frankenstein

Objective: Students will explain, in a 3-sentence exit ticket, how one fact about Mary Shelley's life or times connects to the costs of unchecked ambition in “Frankenstein”, and will set up a reading journal with a prediction and a question for each of 3 themes (the costs of unchecked ambition, creation and responsibility, isolation and the need for companionship).

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2

Author biography

Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin was born in London on 30 August 1797, the daughter of two of the most famous radical writers of the 1790s: the philosopher William Godwin (author of Political Justice) and the feminist Mary Wollstonecraft (author of A Vindication of the Rights of Woman). Wollstonecraft died of puerperal fever about eleven days after the birth, so Mary grew up with her mother's books rather than her mother. In 1814, at sixteen, she left England with the married poet Percy Bysshe Shelley; they married in December 1816, weeks after his first wife's suicide. She began Frankenstein at eighteen and published it at twenty. Her adult life was marked by loss: three of her four children died young, and Percy drowned in Italy in July 1822. She supported herself and her surviving son by writing, produced novels including The Last Man (1826), edited Percy's poems, and died in London on 1 February 1851.

Historical and cultural context

The novel was born in the summer of 1816, the "year without a summer," when ash from the 1815 eruption of Mount Tambora in Indonesia chilled and darkened Europe. Mary, Percy, her stepsister Claire Clairmont, Lord Byron and Byron's physician John Polidori were kept indoors near Lake Geneva, and Byron proposed that each write a ghost story. The science in the air was electricity and life: Luigi Galvani had made dissected frogs' legs twitch with current, and in 1803 his nephew Giovanni Aldini publicly applied current to the corpse of an executed man in London. The book also belongs to Romanticism, a movement that prized feeling, nature and the solitary genius, and that was fascinated by Prometheus, the Titan who stole fire for humankind and was punished for it; the novel's subtitle is The Modern Prometheus. Behind it, too, is Mary's inheritance from her parents' arguments about education, injustice and how society makes people what they are.

Publication and reception, then and now

Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus appeared anonymously in three volumes on 1 January 1818 (London: Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Mavor and Jones), in an edition of about 500 copies, with a preface by Percy Shelley and a dedication to William Godwin. A second edition (1823), arranged by Godwin, named Mary as author after a stage version, Richard Brinsley Peake's Presumption, became a hit. In 1831 she revised the text heavily for Colburn and Bentley's Standard Novels and added the Introduction that tells the story of its origin; that 1831 text is the one we read.

Then: Early reviews were split. Walter Scott, in Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine (March 1818), praised its "original genius" and assumed Percy Shelley was the author; John Wilson Croker in the Quarterly Review called it "a tissue of horrible and disgusting absurdity." Many reviewers were uneasy with a story that seemed to question God and moral order, and with an anonymous author linked to Godwin's radicals.

Now: Today Frankenstein is one of the most taught novels in English. Brian Aldiss (Billion Year Spree, 1973) called it the origin of science fiction; feminist critics beginning with Ellen Moers (Literary Women, 1976) read it as a "birth myth" shaped by Mary's experience of pregnancy and infant death; others read it through politics, race, disability and bioethics. Its title has become shorthand in debates about genetic engineering and artificial intelligence, and 2018 brought bicentenary editions and projects worldwide.

Overview (spoiler-free)

A ship's captain, Robert Walton, sailing toward the North Pole, writes letters to his sister. In the ice he rescues a dying stranger, Victor Frankenstein, who tells him how, as a young student, he discovered the secret of life and built a living being. What happens to Victor, his family and his creation is told in three nested voices: Walton's, Victor's and, at the center, the creature's own. The book asks what we owe the things we make and the people we reject.

Main themes

- creation and responsibility: what a maker owes what it makes; watch how often the creature asks to be cared for and how Victor answers.
- ambition and knowledge: the hunger to discover, shared by Walton and Victor; ask whether the book condemns curiosity or something more specific.
- isolation and companionship: almost every character is cut off from someone; notice who is allowed to belong and why.
- nature and nurture: is anyone born a monster, or are monsters made by how they are treated?
- the sublime: mountains, ice and storms that awe and dwarf human beings.

Why it matters

Frankenstein is the founding story for every argument about technology that outruns responsibility, from gene editing to artificial intelligence, and its creature still speaks for anyone judged by appearance before being heard. It also shows students that a teenager wrote one of the most influential books in the world.

Spoilers · teacher only

Victor abandons the creature the moment it wakes. Rejected by every human it meets, the creature kills Victor's brother William (and frames Justine, who is executed), demands a mate, and, when Victor destroys the half-made female, kills Clerval and then Elizabeth on her wedding night. Victor pursues the creature to the Arctic and dies on Walton's ship; the creature mourns him and vanishes into the dark to die.

Lesson plan (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Content note before we start: Today's introduction briefly mentions suicide. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.
Before we open Frankenstein: Should scientists be allowed to do anything they are able to do? Write for five minutes and give an example.
Prompt: Before we open Frankenstein: Should scientists be allowed to do anything they are able to do? Write for five minutes and give an example.

8–18 min · Key terms · I do (10 min)
Key literary terms for the unit.
Romanticism (art valuing emotion, nature and the individual); the sublime (awe mixed with terror before vast nature); galvanism (electricity applied to living or dead tissue); Prometheus (the Titan who gave fire to humans); frame narrative (a story inside a story); epistolary (told in letters).

18–28 min · Mini-lecture: author, context, reception · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture on the author, the historical context and the reception (read or adapt the script).

About the author. Mary Wollstonecraft Godwin was born in London on 30 August 1797, the daughter of two of the most famous radical writers of the 1790s: the philosopher William Godwin (author of Political Justice) and the feminist Mary Wollstonecraft (author of A Vindication of the Rights of Woman). Wollstonecraft died of puerperal fever about eleven days after the birth, so Mary grew up with her mother's books rather than her mother. In 1814, at sixteen, she left England with the married poet Percy Bysshe Shelley; they married in December 1816, weeks after his first wife's suicide. She began Frankenstein at eighteen and published it at twenty. Her adult life was marked by loss: three of her four children died young, and Percy drowned in Italy in July 1822. She supported herself and her surviving son by writing, produced novels including The Last Man (1826), edited Percy's poems, and died in London on 1 February 1851. The world of the book. The novel was born in the summer of 1816, the "year without a summer," when ash from the 1815 eruption of Mount Tambora in Indonesia chilled and darkened Europe. Mary, Percy, her stepsister Claire Clairmont, Lord Byron and Byron's physician John Polidori were kept indoors near Lake Geneva, and Byron proposed that each write a ghost story. The science in the air was electricity and life: Luigi Galvani had made dissected frogs' legs twitch with current, and in 1803 his nephew Giovanni Aldini publicly applied current to the corpse of an executed man in London. The book also belongs to Romanticism, a movement that prized feeling, nature and the solitary genius, and that was fascinated by Prometheus, the Titan who stole fire for humankind and was punished for it; the novel's subtitle is The Modern Prometheus. Behind it, too, is Mary's inheritance from her parents' arguments about education, injustice and how society makes people what they are. Publication and reception. Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus appeared anonymously in three volumes on 1 January 1818 (London: Lackington, Hughes, Harding, Mavor and Jones), in an edition of about 500 copies, with a preface by Percy Shelley and a dedication to William Godwin. A second edition (1823), arranged by Godwin, named Mary as author after a stage version, Richard Brinsley Peake's Presumption, became a hit. In 1831 she revised the text heavily for Colburn and Bentley's Standard Novels and added the Introduction that tells the story of its origin; that 1831 text is the one we read. Then: Early reviews were split. Walter Scott, in Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine (March 1818), praised its "original genius" and assumed Percy Shelley was the author; John Wilson Croker in the Quarterly Review called it "a tissue of horrible and disgusting absurdity." Many reviewers were uneasy with a story that seemed to question God and moral order, and with an anonymous author linked to Godwin's radicals. Now: Today Frankenstein is one of the most taught novels in English. Brian Aldiss (Billion Year Spree, 1973) called it the origin of science fiction; feminist critics beginning with Ellen Moers (Literary Women, 1976) read it as a "birth myth" shaped by Mary's experience of pregnancy and infant death; others read it through politics, race, disability and bioethics. Its title has become shorthand in debates about genetic engineering and artificial intelligence, and 2018 brought bicentenary editions and projects worldwide. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.

28–40 min · I do: the book in one passage · I do (12 min)

Model a close reading of one passage using the written think-aloud below.

First, meaning. I read "I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together" slowly and put it in my own words: In her 1831 introduction, Shelley describes seeing, eyes closed, a pale student of forbidden arts kneeling beside the thing he had assembled. Next, craft. I notice the creature is called only "the thing he had put together," a phrase that refuses it a name or a human status from the start. The strongest word is "unhallowed": it means unholy, so the science is framed as a violation of something sacred. Then, effect. What does Shelley's waking vision tell us about the novel she will write? My answer: Shelley presents the novel's seed as a nightmare of a creator who has crossed a forbidden line; the image of maker and made, frightened and unnamed, is the relationship the whole novel examines.

> I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together (Introduction, paragraph 11)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together" slowly and put it in my own words: In her 1831 introduction, Shelley describes seeing, eyes closed, a pale student of forbidden arts kneeling beside the thing he had assembled. Next, craft. I notice the creature is called only "the thing he had put together," a phrase that refuses it a name or a human status from the start. The strongest word is "unhallowed": it means unholy, so the science is framed as a violation of something sacred. Then, effect. What does Shelley's waking vision tell us about the novel she will write? My answer: Shelley presents the novel's seed as a nightmare of a creator who has crossed a forbidden line; the image of maker and made, frightened and unnamed, is the relationship the whole novel examines.

40–55 min · We do: overview and themes · We do (15 min)

Read the spoiler-free overview together and name the themes to track.

What the book is about (no spoilers): A ship's captain, Robert Walton, sailing toward the North Pole, writes letters to his sister. In the ice he rescues a dying stranger, Victor Frankenstein, who tells him how, as a young student, he discovered the secret of life and built a living being. What happens to Victor, his family and his creation is told in three nested voices: Walton's, Victor's and, at the center, the creature's own. The book asks what we owe the things we make and the people we reject. Themes to track: creation and responsibility: what a maker owes what it makes; watch how often the creature asks to be cared for and how Victor answers. ambition and knowledge: the hunger to discover, shared by Walton and Victor; ask whether the book condemns curiosity or something more specific. isolation and companionship: almost every character is cut off from someone; notice who is allowed to belong and why. nature and nurture: is anyone born a monster, or are monsters made by how they are treated? the sublime: mountains, ice and storms that awe and dwarf human beings.

55–70 min · You do: reading journal · You do (15 min)
Set up a reading journal: one page per theme, with a prediction and a question (example given).
Set up a reading journal: one page per theme with a prediction and a question. Theme page "creation and responsibility": Prediction: Victor will regret what he makes. Question: will he ever take care of it?
Task: Set up a reading journal for Frankenstein: one page per theme, each with a prediction and a question.
Exemplar: Theme page "creation and responsibility": Prediction: Victor will regret what he makes. Question: will he ever take care of it?

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Whole-class discussion: why the book is still taught.
Why does Frankenstein still matter? Frankenstein is the founding story for every argument about technology that outruns responsibility, from gene editing to artificial intelligence, and its creature still speaks for anyone judged by appearance before being heard. It also shows students that a teenager wrote one of the most influential books in the world.
Anchor question: Why might Frankenstein still be taught today?
Facilitation: Frankenstein is the founding story for every argument about technology that outruns responsibility, from gene editing to artificial intelligence, and its creature still speaks for anyone judged by appearance before being heard. It also shows students that a teenager wrote one of the most influential books in the world.

80–87 min · Exit ticket · You do (7 min)
Exit ticket on the author and context (answer given).
Shelley began Frankenstein at eighteen, in the summer of 1816 at Lake Geneva, during a ghost-story contest with Lord Byron and Percy Shelley, at a time when scientists were experimenting with electricity on dead bodies. How might that setting and science shape the novel? Answer: Accept answers such as: galvanism made reanimation seem possible; the contest pushed her toward horror; she was surrounded by Romantic poets who prized nature and feeling; she had already lost a baby, which may connect to themes of creation and loss.
Exit ticket: Shelley began Frankenstein at eighteen, in the summer of 1816 at Lake Geneva, during a ghost-story contest with Lord Byron and Percy Shelley, at a time when scientists were experimenting with electricity on dead bodies. How might that setting and science shape the novel?
Answer: Accept answers such as: galvanism made reanimation seem possible; the contest pushed her toward horror; she was surrounded by Romantic poets who prized nature and feeling; she had already lost a baby, which may connect to themes of creation and loss.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Preview the first reading.
Tomorrow we begin reading: Introduction.

Teacher notes · sources: Britannica, "Mary Wollstonecraft Shelley" (https://www.britannica.com/biography/Mary-Wollstonecraft-Shelley); Mary Shelley, Introduction to the 1831 edition (in this reading text); British Library, "Frankenstein: the 1818 first edition" (https://www.bl.uk/collection-items/frankenstein-first-edition); Walter Scott, review in Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2 (March 1818); John Wilson Croker, Quarterly Review 18 (January 1818) (https://romantic-circles.org/reference/chronologies/mschronology/reviews.html); Brian Aldiss, Billion Year Spree

(1973); Ellen Moers, Literary Women (1976) (https://www.worldcat.org/); Library of Congress/NEH Frankenstein bicentennial resources (https://www.neh.gov/humanities/2018/winter/feature/the-strange-and-twisted-life-frankenstein)

Flags (verify before teaching):

- The exact night of the ghost-story proposal and of Mary's waking dream is uncertain: her 1831 account compresses events, and Polidori's diary points to mid-June 1816. Present the 1831 story as her own later recollection.
- The extent of Percy Shelley's edits to the 1818 manuscript is debated (Charles E. Robinson's 2008 edition marks his contributions). He wrote the 1818 Preface; the novel is Mary's.
- The first-edition print run is usually given as about 500 copies; treat it as approximate.

Critical voice: "This is a novel, or more properly a romantic fiction, of a nature so peculiar, that we ought to describe the species before attempting any account of the individual production." (Walter Scott (attrib.), novelist and critic, "Remarks on Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus; A Novel," Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2:12 (March 1818), p. 613 (opening sentence); public domain). Bell-ringer: Scott could not name the genre in 1818. What would you call it (Gothic, science fiction, philosophical romance)? Defend one label with a detail from the Introduction. Objective: Classify the novel's genre and explain how its structure (frame narrative, "marvellous" premise) shapes meaning. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.5

Critical voice: "Our readers will guess from this summary, what a tissue of horrible and disgusting absurdity this work presents." (John Wilson Croker (attrib.; the review is unsigned), critic, Review of Frankenstein, The Quarterly Review 18 (January 1818), 379-385, p. 382; public domain). Pair with Scott's and Percy Shelley's praise: why did reviewers in 1818 split so sharply? Students sort the three reviews on a moral-vs-aesthetic axis. Objective: Trace the novel's reception at publication ("then") against its reputation today ("now"). Standards: Common Core SL.11-12.1

Lesson 2: Introduction

Focus: the origin of the novel and the idea of creation

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “Introduction” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Writing in 1831, Shelley explains how the novel began: a rainy summer near Geneva in 1816, a ghost-story contest with Byron and Percy Shelley, conversations about galvanism, and a waking vision of a 'pale student of unhallowed arts' kneeling beside the thing he had put together. She calls the book her 'hideous progeny.'

Background: The 1816 'year without a summer' followed the eruption of Mount Tambora. Galvani's experiments making frog legs twitch with electricity fed public speculation about reanimation.

Significance: The Introduction is one of the most famous origin stories in literature and frames the novel as both a dream and a deliberate artistic creation, mirroring Victor's own act of making.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because....
Prompt: Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: platitude — dullness; a lack of freshness or originality; invocations — calls or appeals for help or inspiration; retrospection — looking back on the past; galvanism — electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles; beatings — beats; throbs (of the heart). “invocations”: Origin of “invocation”: Old French invocacion; earlier Latin invocatio. “galvanism”: Named after Luigi Galvani (1737–1798), the Bologna anatomist who made dead frogs' legs twitch with electric current; galvanism meant electricity produced by chemical action. “beatings”: Origin of “beating”: an English formation from beat + -ing.
Words: platitude: dullness; a lack of freshness or originality · invocations: calls or appeals for help or inspiration · retrospection: looking back on the past · galvanism: electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles · beatings: beats; throbs (of the heart)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The 1816 'year without a summer' followed the eruption of Mount Tambora. Galvani's experiments making frog legs twitch with electricity fed public speculation about reanimation. The Introduction is one of the most famous origin stories in literature and frames the novel as both a dream and a deliberate artistic creation, mirroring Victor's own act of making. Point of view: Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by presenting the book as a dream rather than a plan. Allusion: The Introduction is thick with real names (Byron, Percy Shelley, Dr. Darwin, galvanism). Each one ties the fiction to real science and real literary rivalry, which is why the story felt possible to its first readers. Imagery: The vision is told in sharp visual details: the kneeling student, the "hideous phantasm," the yellow, watery eyes. Students will meet these images again in Chapter V; flag them now. Watch for the dream: Dreams recur through the novel (Victor's nightmare after the creation). Here the dream is creative; later it becomes a punishment.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together" slowly and put it in my own words: Shelley recalls her vision of a pale student kneeling beside a body he has assembled from parts. Next, craft. I notice the creator is "kneeling," a posture of worship or prayer, beside something he has made, not born. The strongest word is "thing": the flat word denies the creature personhood before it even wakes. Then, effect. Why does Shelley describe the creature as "the thing he had put together"? My answer: The vision already holds the novel's tragedy: the maker kneels in wonder at his work but sees only a "thing," and that refusal to see a being is what will drive the creature to despair.

> I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together (Introduction, paragraph 11)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together" slowly and put it in my own words: Shelley recalls her vision of a pale student kneeling beside a body he has assembled from parts. Next, craft. I notice the creator is "kneeling," a posture of worship or prayer, beside something he has made, not born. The strongest word is "thing": the flat word denies the creature personhood before it even wakes. Then, effect. Why does Shelley describe the creature as "the thing he had put together"? My answer: The vision already holds the novel's tragedy: the maker kneels in wonder at his work but sees only a "thing," and that refusal to see a being is what will drive the creature to despair.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Hideous" admits the book is frightening; "progeny" (offspring) makes her its mother; "prosper" is a parent's blessing. Link: Victor makes a creature but never blesses it, so the line sets up the theme of responsibility. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. (Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.)

> And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper (Introduction, paragraph 15)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Hideous" admits the book is frightening; "progeny" (offspring) makes her its mother; "prosper" is a parent's blessing. Link: Victor makes a creature but never blesses it, so the line sets up the theme of responsibility.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. (Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for point of view, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Introduction develops the idea of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and allusion shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. When the text says "And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper" (Introduction, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

Task: Annotate the chapter for point of view, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Introduction develops the idea of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and allusion shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. When the text says "And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper" (Introduction, paragraph 15), it shows this directly. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor? If students say the Introduction "is just background," ask why Shelley added it in 1831: how does knowing a nineteen-year-old dreamed this change how we read the book? Expect a split on whether the dream story is literally true. Use the teacher-notes flag: it is her later recollection, and that is itself a choice.

Anchor question: Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor?

Facilitation: If students say the Introduction "is just background," ask why Shelley added it in 1831: how does knowing a nineteen-year-old dreamed this change how we read the book? · Expect a split on whether the dream story is literally true. Use the teacher-notes flag: it is her later recollection, and that is itself a choice.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. ("And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper", Introduction, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. ("And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper", Introduction, paragraph 15). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how point of view shapes the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Key takeaway: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Point of view: Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by presenting the book as a dream rather than a plan.
- Allusion: The Introduction is thick with real names (Byron, Percy Shelley, Dr. Darwin, galvanism). Each one ties the fiction to real science and real literary rivalry, which is why the story felt possible to its first readers.
- Imagery: The vision is told in sharp visual details: the kneeling student, the "hideous phantasm," the yellow, watery eyes. Students will meet these images again in Chapter V; flag them now.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

Symbols and motifs

- the dream: Dreams recur through the novel (Victor's nightmare after the creation). Here the dream is creative; later it becomes a punishment.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together" (Introduction, paragraph 11) "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.
- "And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper" (Introduction, paragraph 15) Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.
- "Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos" (Introduction, paragraph 9) Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care.
Evidence: "And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper" (Introduction, paragraph 15)
Reasoning: By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
platitude (noun)	dullness; a lack of freshness or originality	The illustrious poets also, annoyed by the platitude of prose, speedily relinquished their uncongenial task.
invocations (noun)	calls or appeals for help or inspiration	I felt that blank incapability of invention which is the greatest misery of authorship, when dull Nothing replies to our anxious invocations.	"invocations": Origin of "invocation": Old French invocacion; earlier Latin invocatio. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/invocation#Etymology)
retrospection (noun)	looking back on the past	Blank and dreary on retrospection I call them; they were not so to me then.
galvanism (noun)	electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles	Perhaps a corpse would be reanimated; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.	"galvanism": Named after Luigi Galvani (1737–1798), the Bologna anatomist who made dead frogs' legs twitch with electric current; galvanism meant electricity produced by chemical action. (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/galvanism)

beatings (noun)	beats; throbs (of the heart)	One which would speak to the mysterious fears of our nature, and awaken thrilling horror—one to make the reader dread to look round, to curdle the blood, and quicken the beatings of the heart.	"beatings": Origin of "beating": an English formation from beat + -ing. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/beating#Etymology)
reanimated (verb)	brought back to life or strength; revived	Perhaps a corpse would be reanimated; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.	"reanimated": Origin of "reanimate": an English formation from re- + animate. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reanimate#Etymology)
inciting (verb)	give an incentive for action	He was forever inciting me to obtain literary reputation, which even on my own part I cared for then, though since I have become infinitely indifferent to it.	"inciting": Origin of "incite": Middle French inciter; earlier Latin incitō ("to set in motion"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/incite#Etymology)
parquet (noun)	a wooden floor laid in a pattern	I see them still; the very room, the dark parquet, the closed shutters, with the moonlight struggling through, and the sense I had that the glassy lake and white high Alps were beyond.
tiresome (adjective)	so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness	I recurred to my ghost story—my tiresome unlucky ghost story!	"tiresome": Origin: an English formation from tire + -some. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tiresome#Etymology)
frighten (verb)	cause fear in	O! if I could only contrive one which would frighten my reader as I myself had been frightened that night!

Discussion questions

1. Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where was Shelley staying when the ghost-story contest began? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Near Geneva, Switzerland
2. Who proposed that each guest write a ghost story? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Lord Byron
3. What scientific topic did the group discuss that influenced the idea? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Galvanism and the principle of life
4. How did the central image of the novel come to Shelley? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: In a vivid waking vision as she lay in bed
5. What does Shelley call her book? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Her hideous progeny
6. Retell the three most important events of "Introduction" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Writing in 1831, Shelley explains how the novel began: a rainy summer near Geneva in 1816, a ghost-story contest with Byron and Percy Shelley, conversations about galvanism, and a waking vision of a 'pale student of unhallowed arts' kneeling beside the thing he had put together. She calls the book her 'hideous progeny.'
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Introduction"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Introduction" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "The illustrious poets also, annoyed by the platitude of prose, speedily relinquished their uncongenial task." What does "platitude" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: platitude: dullness; a lack of freshness or originality.
10. Reread: "I felt that blank incapability of invention which is the greatest misery of authorship, when dull Nothing replies to our anxious invocations." What does "invocations" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: invocations: calls or appeals for help or inspiration.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Introduction" suggest about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for:

The Introduction is one of the most famous origin stories in literature and frames the novel as both a dream and a deliberate artistic creation, mirroring Victor's own act of making.

2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the allusion in this chapter shape what we understand about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for references to other books, myths, history or religion.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11): "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. On allusion: The Introduction is thick with real names (Byron, Percy Shelley, Dr. Darwin, galvanism). Each one ties the fiction to real science and real literary rivalry, which is why the story felt possible to its first readers. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “I busied myself to think of a story—a story to rival those which had excited us to this task.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Introduction”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Writing in 1831, Shelley explains how the novel began: a rainy summer near Geneva in 1816, a ghost-story contest with Byron and Percy Shelley, conversations about galvanism, and a waking vision of a 'pale student of unhallowed arts' kneeling beside the thing he had put together. She calls the book…
6. As the opening chapter, what does “Introduction” set up that the rest of Frankenstein will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15): Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9): Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Shelley calls her book her 'hideous progeny.' How does that phrase connect the author to Victor?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does imagery appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11): "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. On imagery: The vision is told in sharp visual details: the kneeling student, the "hideous phantasm," the yellow, watery eyes. Students will meet these images again in Chapter V; flag them now. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The 1816 'year without a summer' followed the eruption of Mount Tambora. Galvani's experiments making frog legs twitch with electricity fed public speculation about reanimation. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15): Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The Introduction is one of the most famous origin stories in literature and frames the novel as both a dream and a deliberate artistic creation, mirroring Victor's own act of making.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9): Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11): "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Introduction” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15): Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. On point of view: Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by presenting the book as a dream rather than a plan. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Introduction”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9): Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11): "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15): Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. On point of view: Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by presenting the book as a dream rather than a plan. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Introduction” treats the origin of the novel and the idea of creation with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9): Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Preface” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11): "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous

progeny go forth and prosper" (Introduction, paragraph 15): Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Useful evidence: "Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos" (Introduction, paragraph 9): Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. Theme link: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Allusion: references to other books, myths, history or religion
- Also notice Imagery: sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 6: "His _____, shadowy form, clothed like the ghost in Hamlet, in complete armour, but with the beaver up, was seen at midnight, by the moon's fitful beams, to advance slowly along the gloomy avenue." Word bank: exclusively, gigantic, incessant, Inconstant

   Key: gigantic

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 11: "I saw the pale student of _____ arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together"

   Key: unhallowed

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "The illustrious poets also, annoyed by the platitude of prose, speedily relinquished their uncongenial task.", what does "platitude" most nearly mean?

   A. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality

   B. be fond of; be attached to

   C. stories; accounts of events

   D. take in, also metaphorically

   Key: A (dullness; a lack of freshness or originality)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Blank and dreary on retrospection I call them; they were not so to me then.”, what does “retrospection” most nearly mean?

   A. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief

   B. looking back on the past

   C. to give up

   D. lasting a very short time

   Key: B (looking back on the past)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What scientific topic did the group discuss that influenced the idea?

   A. Astronomy

   B. Botany

   C. Steam engines

   D. Galvanism and the principle of life

   Key: D (Galvanism and the principle of life)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Introduction, paragraph 14? “From this _____ I must except the preface.”

   A. declaration

   B. Inconstant

   C. alterations

   D. incessant

   Key: A (declaration)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Perhaps a corpse would be _____; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.” Word bank: retrospection, platitude, invocations, reanimated

   Key: reanimated

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Where was Shelley staying when the ghost-story contest began?

   A. In Venice

   B. On a ship to the Arctic

   C. In London

   D. Near Geneva, Switzerland

   Key: D (Near Geneva, Switzerland)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I felt that blank incapability of invention which is the greatest misery of authorship, when dull Nothing replies to our anxious invocations.”, what does “invocations” most nearly mean?

   A. dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority

   B. any authorization to pass or go somewhere

   C. calls or appeals for help or inspiration

   D. to thicken or freeze (here, with horror)

   Key: C (calls or appeals for help or inspiration)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 9: "_____, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos"

    Key: Invention

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "One which would speak to the mysterious fears of our nature, and awaken thrilling horror—one to make the reader dread to look round, to curdle the blood, and quicken the _____ of the heart." Word bank: retrospection, platitude, invocations, beatings

    Key: beatings

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Introduction, paragraph 14 reveal about the character or situation? "I certainly did not owe the suggestion of one incident, nor scarcely of one train of feeling, to my husband, and yet but for his incitement, it would never have taken the form in which it was presented to the world." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Introduction, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes "incitement" and "suggestion", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which of these passages comes earliest in Introduction?

    A. "It is not singular that, as the daughter of two persons of distinguished literary celebrity, I should very early in life have thought of…"

    B. "My dreams were at once more fantastic and agreeable than my writings."

    C. "In the latter I was a close imitator—rather doing as others had done, than putting down the suggestions of my own mind."

    D. "The Publishers of the Standard Novels, in selecting Frankenstein for one of their series, expressed a wish that I should furnish them with…"

    Key: D ("The Publishers of the Standard Novels, in selecting Frankenstein for one of their series, expressed a wish that I should furnish them with…")

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Introduction, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: "In the latter I was a close imitator—rather doing as others had done, than putting down the suggestions of my own mind." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Introduction, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes "suggestions" and "imitator", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

    A. Nature versus nurture

    B. Creation and responsibility

    C. Isolation and the need for companionship

    D. The costs of unchecked ambition

    Key: B (Creation and responsibility)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Introduction, paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “These, as he brought them successively to us, clothed in all the light and harmony of poetry, seemed to stamp as divine the glories of heaven and earth, whose influences we partook with him.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Introduction, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “successively” and “influences”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Introduction, paragraph 5? “At first we spent our pleasant hours on the lake, or _____ on its shores; and Lord Byron, who was writing the third canto of Childe Harold, was the only one among us who put his thoughts upon paper.”

    A. childhood

    B. wandering

    C. alterations

    D. fantastic

    Key: B (wandering)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 1: “The Publishers of the Standard Novels, in selecting _____ for one of their series, expressed a wish that I should furnish them with some account of the origin of the story.” Word bank: forehead, Frankenstein, alterations, Inconstant

    Key: Frankenstein

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He was forever _____ me to obtain literary reputation, which even on my own part I cared for then, though since I have become infinitely indifferent to it.” Word bank: platitude, retrospection, inciting, invocations

    Key: inciting

20. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. The words “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I see them still; the very room, the dark _____, the closed shutters, with the moonlight struggling through, and the sense I had that the glassy lake and white high Alps were beyond.” Word bank: parquet, invocations, retrospection, platitude

    Key: parquet

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. The words “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. The words “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Introduction, paragraph 6 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The shape was lost beneath the shadow of the castle walls; but soon a gate swung back, a step was heard, the door of the chamber opened, and he advanced to the couch of the blooming youths, cradled in healthy sleep.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Introduction, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “blooming” and “advanced”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does Shelley call her book?

    A. Her little ghost

    B. Her hideous progeny

    C. Her Prometheus

    D. Her summer diary

    Key: B (Her hideous progeny)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) bears it out: By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make. But “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9) complicates it, because here the text shows shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Introduction”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. The words “Introduction”

(Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] How did the central image of the novel come to Shelley?

    A. In a vivid waking vision as she lay in bed

    B. From a newspaper story

    C. While reading a play

    D. In a letter from a friend

    Key: A (In a vivid waking vision as she lay in bed)

29. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11)

    A. Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.

    B. Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.

    C. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

    D. Repetition of the threat.

    Key: C ("Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.)

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Perhaps a corpse would be reanimated; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.”, what does “galvanism” most nearly mean?

    A. looking back on the past

    B. calls or appeals for help or inspiration

    C. electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles

    D. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality

    Key: C (electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles)

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 15: “And now, once again, I bid my _____ progeny go forth and prosper”

    Key: hideous

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Who proposed that each guest write a ghost story?

    A. Shelley's father

    B. Victor Frankenstein

    C. Lord Byron

    D. Robert Walton

    Key: C (Lord Byron)

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9)
    A. Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.
    B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.
    C. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.
    D. His education; each book shapes him.

    Key: A (Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.)

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15)
    A. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.
    B. The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.
    C. Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.
    D. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

    Key: C (Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.)

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Introduction”?
    A. Delay and dread
    B. Confrontation between creator and creation
    C. Language, knowledge and sorrow
    D. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

    Key: D (The origin of the novel and the idea of creation)

36. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Introduction”? Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by…
    A. Theme
    B. Structure
    C. Point of view
    D. Tone / mood

    Key: C (Point of view)

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. The words “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 11, 2, 17, 8, 10, 3, 18, 1, 19, 9, 12, 13, 15, 14, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 5, 2, 7, 6, 11, 18, 4, 9, 1, 13, 12, 15, 14, 16, 20	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 2
HS Junior	19, 9, 8, 1, 5, 21, 7, 17, 12, 13, 22, 14, 23, 15, 24, 16	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 21, 5, 4, 3, 19, 25, 17, 2, 13, 12, 14, 15, 26, 27, 24	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 3
AP	1, 28, 21, 8, 18, 12, 29, 13, 15, 14, 23, 16, 26, 24, 20, 27	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 5
College Freshman	21, 8, 10, 28, 17, 30, 29, 12, 13, 14, 15, 20, 24, 16, 26, 27	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 5
College Sophomore	30, 11, 31, 32, 25, 21, 17, 12, 33, 13, 15, 14, 16, 24, 27, 26	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 4
College Junior	18, 8, 3, 21, 25, 13, 34, 29, 35, 12, 14, 15, 23, 26, 16, 24	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 3
College Senior	11, 5, 25, 3, 9, 4, 1, 12, 13, 14, 36, 15, 20, 24, 26, 16	recall 7, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	31, 6, 25, 11, 28, 19, 5, 12, 13, 15, 14, 16, 24, 27, 26, 37	recall 7, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 5

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Introduction,” how does Shelley show the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Introduction, how does Shelley develop the idea of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Introduction develops the idea of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and allusion shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Introduction (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Introduction suggests about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and allusion), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses point of view in Introduction to complicate the reader's understanding of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Introduction within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Introduction alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Introduction and its treatment of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and allusion, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Introduction as evidence for a larger claim about the origin of the novel and the idea of creation in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Introduction as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the origin of the novel and the idea of creation. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Blank and dreary on retrospection I call them; they were not so to me then.

   As used in the text, what does the word “retrospection” most nearly mean?

   A. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness

   B. cause fear in

   C. looking back on the past

   D. a wooden floor laid in a pattern

2. I busied myself to think of a story—a story to rival those which had excited us to this task. One which would speak to the mysterious fears of our nature, and awaken thrilling horror—one to make the reader dread to look round, to curdle the blood, and quicken the beatings of the heart. If I did not accomplish these things, my ghost story would be unworthy of its name. I thought and pondered—vainly. I felt that blank incapability of invention which is the greatest misery of authorship, when dull Nothing replies to our anxious invocations. Have you thought of a story? I was asked each morning, and each morning I was forced to reply with a mortifying negative.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Introduction"?

A. Language, knowledge and sorrow

B. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

C. Loss and leaving home

D. The meeting of two ambitious men

SAT key: 1. C (looking back on the past); 2. B (The origin of the novel and the idea of creation)

Lesson 3: Preface

Focus: the author's stated purpose

Objective: Students will analyze how tone / mood develops in “Preface” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “In the class of fictitious narrations to which we allude, the author opens a sort of account-current with the reader; drawing upon him, in the first place, for credit to that degree of the marvellous which he proposes to employ; and becoming virtually bound, in consequence of this indulgence, that his personages shall conduct themselves, in the extraordinary circumstances in which they are placed, according to the rules of probability, and the nature of the human heart.” (Walter Scott (attrib.), novelist and critic, "Remarks on Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus; A Novel," Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2:12 (March 1818), p. 614; public domain). Essay lens: does Shelley keep her side of the "account-current"? Students find one place where characters act by "the rules of probability" and one where they do not. Objective: Analyze the author's stated purpose in the Preface and how it asks readers to accept an impossible premise. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.6

Teacher only · spoilers

The 1818 Preface (written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice) claims the central event is not impossible according to some physiologists, insists the story aims to show 'the amiableness of domestic affection,' and recalls the ghost-story origin.

Background: Prefaces in the period often defended novels against charges of immorality or absurdity. Erasmus Darwin, mentioned here, was a well-known physician and poet who speculated about life.

Significance: The Preface sets up the tension between scientific plausibility and moral fable that runs through the whole work.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins? Write for five minutes.
> Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because....
> Prompt: Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)

Five key words in context, with verified word histories.

Today's words: innovate — to make changes; to introduce something new; scrupled — hesitated because of a moral doubt; spectres — ghosts; environs — the area in which something exists or lives; disadvantages — the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position. “scrupled”: From Latin scrupulus "small sharp stone; uneasiness," the image of a pebble in one's shoe; the verb means "to hesitate on grounds of conscience." “disadvantages”: Origin of “disadvantage”: Old French desavantage.

Words: innovate: to make changes; to introduce something new · scrupled: hesitated because of a moral doubt · spectres: ghosts · environs: the area in which something exists or lives · disadvantages: the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Prefaces in the period often defended novels against charges of immorality or absurdity. Erasmus Darwin, mentioned here, was a well-known physician and poet who speculated about life. The Preface sets up the tension between scientific plausibility and moral fable that runs through the whole work. Tone / mood: The 1818 Preface is defensive and reasonable. It insists the event is "not of impossible occurrence" and that the book is moral. The tone tells us what readers of 1818 might object to: impiety and absurdity. Allusion: "Dr. Darwin" is Erasmus Darwin, physician and poet (Charles Darwin's grandfather), whose speculations about life were well known. Citing him borrows scientific authority. Point of view: The Preface was written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice. Students can discuss how a "frame" around a book tells readers how to read it. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “and in the evenings we crowded around a blazing wood fire, and occasionally amused ourselves with some German stories of ghosts, which” (Preface, paragraph 4).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue" slowly and put it in my own words: The 1818 Preface says the story aims to show the loveliness of family affection and the excellence of universal virtue. Next, craft. I notice two balanced phrases of praise, "amiableness of domestic affection" and "excellence of universal virtue," which sound reassuring and moral. The strongest word is "domestic": it names the family love the creature will be shut out of. Then, effect. What does the Preface promise the novel will show readers? My answer: The Preface frames the book as moral, yet the novel will show what happens when someone is denied that domestic affection; the promise sets up the irony of the creature's exclusion.

> the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue (Preface, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue" slowly and put it in my own words: The 1818 Preface says the story aims to show the loveliness of family affection and the excellence of universal virtue. Next, craft. I notice two balanced phrases of praise, "amiableness of domestic affection" and "excellence of universal virtue," which sound reassuring and moral. The strongest word is "domestic": it names the family love the creature will be shut out of. Then, effect. What does the Preface promise the novel will show readers? My answer: The Preface frames the book as moral, yet the novel will show what happens when someone is denied that domestic affection; the promise sets up the irony of the creature's exclusion.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Not of impossible occurrence" is a cautious double negative: the writer claims only that science does not rule it out. This shows the book defending itself, which tells us how daring the idea was in 1818. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. (A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science.)

> The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence (Preface, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Not of impossible occurrence" is a cautious double negative: the writer claims only that science does not rule it out. This shows the book defending itself, which tells us how daring the idea was in 1818.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. (A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for tone / mood, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the author's stated purpose? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Preface develops the idea of the author's stated purpose. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. When the text says "The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence" (Preface, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

Task: Annotate the chapter for tone / mood, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the author's stated purpose? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Preface develops the idea of the author's stated purpose. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. When the text says "The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence" (Preface, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins? Ask whether a book needs to defend itself. What would a reader in 1818 have found offensive in a man creating life?

Anchor question: Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins?

Facilitation: Ask whether a book needs to defend itself. What would a reader in 1818 have found offensive in a man creating life?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the author's stated purpose? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. ("The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence", Preface, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the author's stated purpose? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. ("The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence", Preface, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how tone / mood shapes the author's stated purpose. Key takeaway: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Tone / mood: The 1818 Preface is defensive and reasonable. It insists the event is "not of impossible occurrence" and that the book is moral. The tone tells us what readers of 1818 might object to: impiety and absurdity.
- Allusion: "Dr. Darwin" is Erasmus Darwin, physician and poet (Charles Darwin's grandfather), whose speculations about life were well known. Citing him borrows scientific authority.
- Point of view: The Preface was written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice. Students can discuss how a "frame" around a book tells readers how to read it.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "and in the evenings we crowded around a blazing wood fire, and occasionally amused ourselves with some German stories of ghosts, which" (Preface, paragraph 4).

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “my two friends left me on a journey among the Alps, and lost, in the magnificent scenes which they present, all memory” (Preface, paragraph 5).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science.
- “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.
- “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4) Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality.
Evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
innovate (verb)	to make changes; to introduce something new	I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.
scrupled (verb)	hesitated because of a moral doubt	I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.	“scrupled”: From Latin scrupulus "small sharp stone; uneasiness," the image of a pebble in one's shoe; the verb means "to hesitate on grounds of conscience." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/scruple)
spectres (noun)	ghosts	The event on which the interest of the story depends is exempt from the disadvantages of a mere tale of spectres or enchantment.

environs (noun)	the area in which something exists or lives	I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva.
disadvantages (noun)	the quality of having an inferior or less favorable position	The event on which the interest of the story depends is exempt from the disadvantages of a mere tale of spectres or enchantment.	“disadvantages”: Origin of “disadvantage”: Old French desavantage. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disadvantage#Etymology)
ghostly (adjective)	resembling or characteristic of a phantom	The weather, however, suddenly became serene; and my two friends left me on a journey among the Alps, and lost, in the magnificent scenes which they present, all memory of their ghostly visions.
weaving (verb)	interlace by or as if by weaving	I shall not be supposed as according the remotest degree of serious faith to such an imagination; yet, in assuming it as the basis of a work of fancy, I have not considered myself as merely weaving a series of supernatural terrors.
occurrence (noun)	an event that happens	Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence.	“occurrence”: From Latin occurrere "to run to meet," from ob- "toward" + currere "to run." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/occurrence)
expedient (noun)	a means to an end; not necessarily a principled or ethical one	It was commenced partly as a source of amusement, and partly as an expedient for exercising any untried resources of mind.	“expedient”: Origin: Old French expedient; earlier Latin expediens. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/expedient#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins?
2. Where does tone / mood appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16,

17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Which scientist does the Preface mention as having supposed the event possible? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Dr. Darwin
2. According to the Preface, what value does the story hope to display? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The amiableness of domestic affection
3. What kind of writing does the Preface compare the work to? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Great works such as the Iliad and Shakespeare's plays
4. What is the tone of the Preface? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Measured and defensive of the book's seriousness
5. What season and weather does the Preface recall? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A cold, rainy summer
6. Retell the three most important events of “Preface” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The 1818 Preface (written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice) claims the central event is not impossible according to some physiologists, insists the story aims to show 'the amiableness of domestic affection,' and recalls the ghost-story origin.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Preface”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Preface” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.” What does “innovate” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: innovate: to make changes; to introduce something new.
10. Reread: “I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.” What does “scrupled” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: scrupled: hesitated because of a moral doubt.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Preface” suggest about the author's stated purpose? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The Preface sets up the tension between scientific plausibility and moral fable that runs through the whole work.
2. Find one example of tone / mood in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about the author's stated purpose? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1): A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Preface”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The 1818 Preface (written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice) claims the central event is not impossible according to some physiologists, insists the story aims to show 'the amiableness of domestic affection,' and recalls the ghost-story origin.
6. How does “Preface” build on “Introduction”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3): The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4): Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why might an author defend the 'possibility' of a fantastic event before the story begins?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does allusion appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for references to other books, myths, history or religion.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable

by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1): A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. On allusion: "Dr. Darwin" is Erasmus Darwin, physician and poet (Charles Darwin's grandfather), whose speculations about life were well known. Citing him borrows scientific authority. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Prefaces in the period often defended novels against charges of immorality or absurdity. Erasmus Darwin, mentioned here, was a well-known physician and poet who speculated about life. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3): The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The Preface sets up the tension between scientific plausibility and moral fable that runs through the whole work.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4): Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1): A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Preface” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the author's stated purpose? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3): The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. On point of view: The Preface was written by Percy Shelley in Mary's voice. Students can discuss how a "frame" around a book tells readers how to read it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Preface”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4): Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1): A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the tone / mood in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3): The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. On tone / mood: The 1818 Preface is defensive and reasonable. It insists the event is "not of impossible occurrence" and that the book is moral. The tone tells us what readers of 1818 might object to: impiety and absurdity. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Preface” treats the author's stated purpose with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4): Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Letter I” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1): A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the author's stated purpose? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3): The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Useful evidence: “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4): Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. Theme link: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Tone / mood: look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Allusion: references to other books, myths, history or religion

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Preface, paragraph 1: "The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the _____ writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence"
   Key: physiological
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The weather, however, suddenly became serene; and my two friends left me on a journey among the Alps, and lost, in the magnificent scenes which they present, all memory of their _____ visions." Word bank: innovate, scrupled, ghostly, spectres
   Key: ghostly
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] According to the Preface, what value does the story hope to display?
   A. The wealth of nations
   B. The glory of war
   C. The beauty of cities
   D. The amiableness of domestic affection
   Key: D (The amiableness of domestic affection)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Preface, paragraph 4: "I passed the summer of 1816 in the _____ of Geneva"
   Key: environs
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What season and weather does the Preface recall?
   A. A cold, rainy summer
   B. A snowy winter in London
   C. A hot spring in Italy
   D. An autumn harvest
   Key: A (A cold, rainy summer)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What kind of writing does the Preface compare the work to?
   A. Great works such as the Iliad and Shakespeare's plays
   B. Sermons
   C. Cookbooks
   D. Newspaper reports
   Key: A (Great works such as the Iliad and Shakespeare's plays)
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What is the tone of the Preface?
   A. Romantic and lovesick
   B. Comic and mocking

C. Angry and accusatory

D. Measured and defensive of the book's seriousness

Key: D (Measured and defensive of the book's seriousness)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The event on which the interest of the story depends is exempt from the _____ of a mere tale of spectres or enchantment.” Word bank: disadvantages, scrupled, spectres, innovate

   Key: disadvantages

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible _____.” Word bank: innovate, scrupled, spectres, occurrence

   Key: occurrence

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I shall not be supposed as according the remotest degree of serious faith to such an imagination; yet, in assuming it as the basis of a work of fancy, I have not considered myself as merely _____ a series of supernatural terrors.” Word bank: spectres, weaving, innovate, scrupled

    Key: weaving

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Preface, paragraph 3: “the _____ of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue”

    Key: amiableness

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] Which choice best states a central concern of “Preface”?

    A. Destroying the companion

    B. Delay and dread

    C. The author's stated purpose

    D. Obsession and the discovery of life

    Key: C (The author's stated purpose)

13. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Preface”? The 1818 Preface is defensive and reasonable. It insists the event is "not of impossible occurrence" and that the book is moral. The tone tells us what readers of 1818 might object to: impiety and absurdity.

    A. Personification

    B. Tone / mood

    C. Conflict

    D. Simile

    Key: B (Tone / mood)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Preface”? "Dr. Darwin" is Erasmus Darwin, physician and poet (Charles Darwin's grandfather), whose speculations about life were well known. Citing him borrows scientific authority.

    A. Foreshadowing

    B. Allusion

    C. Characterization

    D. Metaphor

    Key: B (Allusion)

15. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue" (Preface, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. The words "the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue" (Preface, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to "Preface". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. The words "Preface" (Preface, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Which scientist does the Preface mention as having supposed the event possible?
    A. Isaac Newton
    B. Dr. Darwin
    C. Humphry Davy
    D. Galileo

    Key: B (Dr. Darwin)
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter I, paragraph 9? "Ah, dear sister, how can I answer this _____?"
    A. earnestness
    B. question
    C. undertaking
    D. commenced

    Key: B (question)
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter I, paragraph 6: "Six years have passed since I resolved on my present _____." Word bank: earnestness, question, undertaking, commenced
    Key: undertaking
20. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Letter I, paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? "I accompanied the whale-fishers on several expeditions to the North Sea; I voluntarily endured cold, famine, thirst, and want of sleep; I often worked harder than the common sailors during the day, and devoted my nights to the study of…" Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes "mathematics" and "expeditions", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter I, paragraph 10 shapes its tone: “Heaven shower down blessings on you, and save me, that I may again and again testify my gratitude for all your love and kindness.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “blessings” and “gratitude”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter II, paragraph 8 shapes its tone: “Remember me with affection, should you never hear from me again.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter II, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “affection” and “Remember”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) bears it out: By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral. But “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.”, what does “scrupled” most nearly mean?

    A. hesitated because of a moral doubt

    B. makes disappear; scatters

    C. stories; accounts of events

    D. call upon in supplication; entreat

    Key: A (hesitated because of a moral doubt)

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. The words “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…” (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

27. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

    A. The costs of unchecked ambition

    B. Isolation and the need for companionship

    C. Creation and responsibility

    D. Nature versus nurture

    Key: C (Creation and responsibility)

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter I, paragraph 9 shapes its tone: “I do not intend to sail until the month of June; and when shall I return?” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 9) accurately and quotes “return” and “intend”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Claim: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1).

    Sample answer: By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…” (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. The words “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…" (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I have thus endeavoured to preserve the truth of the elementary principles of human nature, while I have not scrupled to innovate upon their combinations.”, what does “innovate” most nearly mean?

    A. hesitated because of a moral doubt

    B. the area in which something exists or lives

    C. ghosts

    D. to make changes; to introduce something new

    Key: D (to make changes; to introduce something new)

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3)

    A. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

    B. Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.

    C. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.

    D. Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.

    Key: A (The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.)

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4)

    A. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.

    B. The ending: ambiguous death.

    C. Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

    D. Revulsion at his labor.

    Key: A (Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 1, analysis 2, synthesis 2
HS Freshman	7, 1, 3, 8, 17, 4, 9, 5, 18, 19, 12, 20, 14, 21, 22, 23	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 5, 11, 2, 6, 19, 18, 12, 25, 26, 20, 14, 27, 21, 16, 23	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	8, 4, 6, 10, 2, 11, 24, 18, 12, 20, 14, 27, 21, 28, 16, 15	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	3, 8, 4, 17, 6, 18, 19, 25, 12, 20, 14, 13, 21, 22, 23, 16	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
AP	5, 10, 3, 4, 25, 12, 20, 13, 27, 14, 29, 21, 28, 22, 23, 16	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 2
College Freshman		recall 3, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 3

	2, 24, 11, 12, 25, 20, 27, 13, 30, 14, 21, 28, 22, 16, 23, 31
College Sophomore	9, 11, 24, 18, 12, 20, 27, 14, 13, 21, 28, 22, 16, 15, 31, 23	recall 4, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 8, 4, 32, 19, 12, 20, 13, 27, 14, 21, 28, 22, 23, 16, 15	recall 5, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 3
College Senior	2, 10, 3, 17, 33, 26, 12, 20, 14, 27, 13, 28, 21, 22, 23, 16	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 6, synthesis 2
Graduate / PhD	32, 11, 2, 18, 34, 12, 20, 13, 27, 14, 21, 28, 22, 15, 16, 23	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 3

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Preface,” how does Shelley show the author's stated purpose? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the tone / mood you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): In Preface, how does Shelley develop the idea of the author's stated purpose? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the tone / mood in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Preface develops the idea of the author's stated purpose. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Preface (where it begins, turns and ends) and its tone / mood shape the reader's understanding of the author's stated purpose. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Preface suggests about the author's stated purpose. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's tone / mood and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses tone / mood in Preface to complicate the reader's understanding of the author's stated purpose. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Preface within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the author's stated purpose responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Preface alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the author's stated purpose follows or bends those conventions, using the tone / mood as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Preface and its treatment of the author's stated purpose. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's tone / mood and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Preface as evidence for a larger claim about the author's stated purpose in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Preface as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the author's stated purpose. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. The event on which the interest of the story depends is exempt from the disadvantages of a mere tale of spectres or enchantment.

   As used in the text, what does the word “spectres” most nearly mean?

   A. interlace by or as if by weaving

   B. ghosts

   C. a means to an end; not necessarily a principled or ethical one

   D. an event that happens

2. The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence. I shall not be supposed as according the remotest degree of serious faith to such an imagination; yet, in assuming it as the basis of a work of fancy, I have not considered myself as merely weaving a series of supernatural terrors. The event on which the interest of the story depends is exempt from the disadvantages of a mere tale of spectres or enchantment. It was recommended by the novelty of the situations which it develops; and, however impossible as a physical fact, affords a point of view to the imagination for the delineating of human passions more comprehensive and commanding than any which the ordinary relations of existing events can yield.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Preface”?

   A. A privileged childhood and family love

   B. The first spark of obsession

   C. Confrontation between creator and creation

   D. The author's stated purpose

SAT key: 1. B (ghosts); 2. D (The author's stated purpose)

Lesson 4: Letter I

Focus: ambition and the hunger for discovery

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “Letter I” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Robert Walton writes to his sister Margaret Saville from St. Petersburg. He is about to sail toward the North Pole, eager to discover a passage and the secret of the magnet, and he describes his self-education and longing for glory.

Background: Arctic exploration and the search for a Northwest Passage were major public dreams in the early 1800s. Letters were a popular novel form (the epistolary novel).

Significance: Walton is Victor's double: an ambitious man willing to risk others for discovery. The frame narrative invites readers to judge whether he will learn from Victor.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because....
> Prompt: What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: enticement — something that tempts or attracts; fluctuate — to rise and fall; to change often; effusions — an unrestrained expression of emotion; satiate — fill to satisfaction; foretaste — an early limited awareness of something yet to occur. “enticement”: Origin: Old French enticement. “fluctuate”: From Latin fluctuare "to move in waves," from fluctus "a wave," from fluere "to flow." “effusions”: Origin of “effusion”: Middle French effusion; earlier Latin effūsiō (“outpouring”).
> Words: enticement: something that tempts or attracts · fluctuate: to rise and fall; to change often · effusions: an unrestrained expression of emotion · satiate: fill to satisfaction · foretaste: an early limited awareness of something yet to occur

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).

Arctic exploration and the search for a Northwest Passage were major public dreams in the early 1800s. Letters were a popular novel form (the epistolary novel). Walton is Victor's double: an ambitious man willing to risk others for discovery. The frame narrative invites readers to judge whether he will learn from Victor. Point of view: The novel opens in letters from Robert Walton to his sister Margaret Saville. The epistolary form makes us readers of private letters and puts a listener (Margaret, and us) at the edge of the story. Characterization: Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives. Setting: St. Petersburg and the far North: the cold, unknown pole stands for the limits of human knowledge. Watch for light and the pole: Walton imagines the pole as a land of light and warmth; the novel will reverse this into darkness and ice.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)

Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.

First, meaning. I read "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil..." slowly and put it in my own words: Walton writes to Margaret that no disaster has struck at the start of his voyage, though she feared it would. Next, craft. I notice the formal, slightly defensive tone, as if he expects to be scolded. The strongest word is "forebodings": it reminds us that someone who loves him fears this expedition. Then, effect. Why does Walton begin by reassuring his sister? My answer: Walton begins by reassuring his sister because she had warned against his voyage; his eager confidence brushes aside warnings and mirrors Victor's, setting up the novel's warning about dangerous ambition.

> You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings (Letter I, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil…" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton writes to Margaret that no disaster has struck at the start of his voyage, though she feared it would. Next, craft. I notice the formal, slightly defensive tone, as if he expects to be scolded. The strongest word is "forebodings": it reminds us that someone who loves him fears this expedition. Then, effect. Why does Walton begin by reassuring his sister? My answer: Walton begins by reassuring his sister because she had warned against his voyage; his eager confidence brushes aside warnings and mirrors Victor's, setting up the novel's warning about dangerous ambition.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Satiate" makes curiosity sound like hunger; "ardent" means burning. Together they suggest an appetite that could consume him, linking to the theme of ambition. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. ("Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.)

> I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited (Letter I, paragraph 2)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Satiate" makes curiosity sound like hunger; "ardent" means burning. Together they suggest an appetite that could consume him, linking to the theme of ambition.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. ("Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for point of view, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about ambition and the hunger for discovery? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter I develops the idea of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. When the text says "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.
Task: Annotate the chapter for point of view, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about ambition and the hunger for discovery? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter I develops the idea of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. When the text says "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character? Some students will admire Walton. Let them; then ask what his sister's "evil forebodings" are for.
Anchor question: What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character?
Facilitation: Some students will admire Walton. Let them; then ask what his sister's "evil forebodings" are for.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about ambition and the hunger for discovery? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. ("I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited", Letter I, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about ambition and the hunger for discovery? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. ("I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited", Letter I, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how point of view shapes ambition and the hunger for discovery. Key takeaway: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Point of view: The novel opens in letters from Robert Walton to his sister Margaret Saville. The epistolary form makes us readers of private letters and puts a listener (Margaret, and us) at the edge of the story.
- Characterization: Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives.
- Setting: St. Petersburg and the far North: the cold, unknown pole stands for the limits of human knowledge.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

Symbols and motifs

- light and the pole: Walton imagines the pole as a land of light and warmth; the novel will reverse this into darkness and ice.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings" (Letter I, paragraph 1) The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.
- "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2) "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.
- "I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven" (Letter I, paragraph 3) Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears.
Evidence: "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
enticement (noun)	something that tempts or attracts	My life might have been passed in ease and luxury; but I preferred glory to every enticement that wealth placed in my path.	"enticement": Origin: Old French enticement. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enticement#Etymology)
fluctuate (verb)	to rise and fall; to change often	My courage and my resolution is firm; but my hopes fluctuate, and my spirits are often depressed.	"fluctuate": From Latin fluctuare "to move in waves," from fluctus "a wave," from fluere "to flow." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/fluctuate)
effusions (noun)	an unrestrained expression of emotion	These visions faded when I perused, for the first time, those poets whose effusions entranced my soul, and lifted it to heaven.	"effusions": Origin of "effusion": Middle French effusion; earlier Latin effūsiō ("outpouring"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/effusion#Etymology)
satiate (verb)	fill to satisfaction

		I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited, and may tread a land never before imprinted by the foot of man.
foretaste (noun)	an early limited awareness of something yet to occur	This breeze, which has travelled from the regions towards which I am advancing, gives me a foretaste of those icy climes.
entranced (verb)	attract; cause to be enamored	These visions faded when I perused, for the first time, those poets whose effusions entranced my soul, and lifted it to heaven.
diffusing (verb)	spreading out	There, Margaret, the sun is forever visible; its broad disk just skirting the horizon, and diffusing a perpetual splendour.	"diffusing": Origin of "diffuse": Middle French diffuser; earlier Latin diffūsus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/diffuse#Etymology) sledges (noun)	a vehicle mounted on runners and pulled by horses or dogs; for transportation over snow	They fly quickly over the snow in their sledges; the motion is pleasant, and, in my opinion, far more agreeable than that of an English stagecoach.
seafaring (adjective)	used on the high seas	These volumes were my study day and night, and my familiarity with them increased that regret which I had felt, as a child, on learning that my father's dying injunction had forbidden my uncle to allow me to embark in a seafaring life.
forebodings (noun)	a feeling of evil to come	You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings.

Discussion questions

1. What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. To whom is Walton writing? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: His sister, Margaret Saville
2. Where is Walton when he writes the first letter? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: St. Petersburg
3. What does Walton hope to discover? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A passage near the pole and the secret of the magnet
4. How did Walton educate himself as a boy? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Reading his uncle's library of voyages
5. What does Walton's ambition foreshadow? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor's own dangerous pursuit of knowledge
6. Retell the three most important events of "Letter I" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Robert Walton writes to his sister Margaret Saville from St. Petersburg. He is about to sail toward the North Pole, eager to discover a passage and the secret of the magnet, and he describes his self-education and longing for glory.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Letter I"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Letter I" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "My life might have been passed in ease and luxury; but I preferred glory to every enticement that wealth placed in my path." What does "enticement" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: enticement: something that tempts or attracts.
10. Reread: "My courage and my resolution is firm; but my hopes fluctuate, and my spirits are often depressed." What does "fluctuate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: fluctuate: to rise and fall; to change often.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Letter I" suggest about ambition and the hunger for discovery? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Walton is Victor's double: an ambitious man willing to risk others for discovery. The frame narrative invites readers to judge whether he will learn from Victor.

2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about ambition and the hunger for discovery? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings” (Letter I, paragraph 1): The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Letter I”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Robert Walton writes to his sister Margaret Saville from St. Petersburg. He is about to sail toward the North Pole, eager to discover a passage and the secret of the magnet, and he describes his self-education and longing for glory.
6. How does “Letter I” build on “Preface”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2): "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3): Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. On characterization: Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “What do Walton's dreams of the North Pole reveal about his character?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings” (Letter I, paragraph 1): The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. On characterization: Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Arctic exploration and the search for a Northwest Passage were major public dreams in the early 1800s. Letters were a popular novel form (the epistolary novel). How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2): "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. On setting: St. Petersburg and the far North: the cold, unknown pole stands for the limits of human knowledge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Walton is Victor's double: an ambitious man willing to risk others for discovery. The frame narrative invites readers to judge whether he will learn from Victor.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3): Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings" (Letter I, paragraph 1): The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. On characterization: Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of "Letter I" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about ambition and the hunger for discovery? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2): "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. On point of view: The novel opens in letters from Robert Walton to his sister Margaret Saville. The epistolary form makes us readers of private letters and puts a listener (Margaret, and us) at the edge of the story. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about "Letter I": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: "I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven" (Letter I, paragraph 3): Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings" (Letter I, paragraph 1): The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: "I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited" (Letter I, paragraph 2): "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. On point of view: The novel opens in letters from Robert Walton to his sister Margaret Saville. The epistolary form makes us readers of private letters and puts a listener (Margaret, and us) at the edge of the story. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Letter I” treats ambition and the hunger for discovery with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3): Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Letter II” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings” (Letter I, paragraph 1): The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about ambition and the hunger for discovery? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2): "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Useful evidence: “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3): Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. Theme link: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] To whom is Walton writing?

   A. A ship's captain

   B. Victor Frankenstein

   C. His father

   D. His sister, Margaret Saville

   Key: D (His sister, Margaret Saville)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "There, Margaret, the sun is forever visible; its broad disk just skirting the horizon, and _____ a perpetual splendour." Word bank: diffusing, effusions, fluctuate, enticement

   Key: diffusing

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does Walton's ambition foreshadow?

   A. Victor's own dangerous pursuit of knowledge

   B. His return home rich

   C. A happy marriage

   D. A war with Russia

   Key: A (Victor's own dangerous pursuit of knowledge)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Where is Walton when he writes the first letter?

   A. London

   B. Archangel

   C. Geneva

   D. St. Petersburg

   Key: D (St. Petersburg)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does Walton hope to discover?

   A. Gold in Siberia

   B. A lost city

   C. A cure for disease

   D. A passage near the pole and the secret of the magnet

   Key: D (A passage near the pole and the secret of the magnet)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "This breeze, which has travelled from the regions towards which I am advancing, gives me a _____ of those icy climes." Word bank: foretaste, fluctuate, enticement, effusions

   Key: foretaste

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter I, paragraph 3: “I feel my heart glow with an _____ which elevates me to heaven”

   Key: enthusiasm

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter I, paragraph 1: “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the _____ of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings”

   Key: commencement

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “These visions faded when I perused, for the first time, those poets whose effusions _____ my soul, and lifted it to heaven.” Word bank: effusions, fluctuate, entranced, enticement

   Key: entranced

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “My courage and my resolution is firm; but my hopes fluctuate, and my spirits are often depressed.”, what does “fluctuate” most nearly mean?

    A. surrounded

    B. put into a rage; make violently angry

    C. express strong disapproval of; deplore

    D. to rise and fall; to change often

    Key: D (to rise and fall; to change often)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “My life might have been passed in ease and luxury; but I preferred glory to every enticement that wealth placed in my path.”, what does “enticement” most nearly mean?

    A. amazing things; marvels

    B. something that tempts or attracts

    C. accompanied by bloodshed

    D. meal made from ground oats

    Key: B (something that tempts or attracts)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter I”?

    A. First experiences of the senses

    B. Grief, prison and return

    C. Ambition and the hunger for discovery

    D. Learning compassion by watching

    Key: C (Ambition and the hunger for discovery)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. The words “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter I”? Walton is ardent, self-educated and lonely; his ambition is described in the same glowing language Victor will use. Mark his superlatives.

    A. Metaphor

B. Irony

C. Tone / mood

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter I”? The novel opens in letters from Robert Walton to his sister Margaret Saville. The epistolary form makes us readers of private letters and puts a listener (Margaret, and us) at the edge of the story.

    A. Symbolism

    B. Simile

    C. Point of view

    D. Foreshadowing

    Key: C (Point of view)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) bears it out: His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men. But “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3) complicates it, because here the text shows religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They fly quickly over the snow in their _____; the motion is pleasant, and, in my opinion, far more agreeable than that of an English stagecoach.” Word bank: sledges, enticement, effusions, fluctuate

    Key: sledges

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] How did Walton educate himself as a boy?

    A. Working in a laboratory

    B. Studying law

    C. Attending university in Paris

    D. Reading his uncle's library of voyages

    Key: D (Reading his uncle's library of voyages)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter I, paragraph 2: “I shall satiate my ardent _____ with the sight of a part of the world never before visited”

    Key: curiosity

20. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Letter I, paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “I accompanied the whale-fishers on several expeditions to the North Sea; I voluntarily endured cold, famine, thirst, and want of sleep; I often worked harder than the common sailors during the day, and devoted my nights to the study of…” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “mathematics” and "expeditions", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter I, paragraph 10 shapes its tone: "Heaven shower down blessings on you, and save me, that I may again and again testify my gratitude for all your love and kindness." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes "blessings" and "gratitude", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings" (Letter I, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. The words "You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil…" (Letter I, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter I, paragraph 6: "Six years have passed since I resolved on my present _____." Word bank: earnestness, question, undertaking, commenced
    Key: undertaking

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter I, paragraph 9? "Ah, dear sister, how can I answer this _____?"

    A. earnestness
    B. question
    C. undertaking
    D. commenced

    Key: B (question)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter I, paragraph 9 shapes its tone: "I do not intend to sail until the month of June; and when shall I return?" Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter I, paragraph 9) accurately and quotes "return" and "intend", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to "Letter I". Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. The words "Letter I" (Letter I, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. The words “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

28. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3)
    A. Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture.
    B. Political education; links to Godwin.
    C. The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence.
    D. The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.

    Key: A (Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture.)

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Claim: Walton is introduced as a mirror for Victor, so the novel's warning about ambition begins before Victor appears. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2).
    Sample answer: His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men. The words “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

30. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings” (Letter I, paragraph 1)
    A. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.
    B. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.
    C. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.
    D. Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.

    Key: C (The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.)

31. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2)
    A. "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.
    B. Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.
    C. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.
    D. Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.

Key: A ("Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	2, 17, 5, 11, 18, 6, 10, 3, 9, 19, 20, 12, 21, 14, 15, 22	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	19, 9, 5, 6, 7, 18, 23, 24, 2, 12, 20, 25, 21, 14, 16, 26	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	23, 3, 5, 19, 4, 17, 2, 18, 20, 12, 25, 21, 14, 27, 26, 16	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 4, 17, 5, 8, 11, 10, 23, 12, 20, 15, 14, 25, 21, 26, 16	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
AP	17, 6, 11, 3, 24, 13, 12, 20, 25, 21, 27, 15, 14, 22, 26, 16	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 3
College Freshman	10, 24, 8, 17, 4, 23, 19, 12, 28, 20, 21, 15, 14, 25, 16, 26	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
College Sophomore	8, 18, 3, 11, 5, 10, 23, 12, 20, 29, 25, 15, 21, 14, 26, 16	recall 7, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 2
College Junior	23, 11, 18, 4, 19, 24, 7, 10, 12, 20, 25, 15, 14, 21, 16, 26	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
College Senior	18, 10, 17, 23, 3, 20, 28, 12, 30, 31, 21, 25, 15, 14, 26, 16	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
Graduate / PhD	2, 5, 18, 10, 1, 9, 13, 28, 12, 20, 25, 14, 21, 15, 16, 26	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Letter I,” how does Shelley show ambition and the hunger for discovery? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Letter I, how does Shelley develop the idea of ambition and the hunger for discovery? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Letter I develops the idea of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Letter I (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Letter I suggests about ambition and the hunger for discovery. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses point of view in Letter I to complicate the reader's understanding of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Letter I within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of ambition and the hunger for discovery responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Letter I alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of ambition and the hunger for discovery follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Letter I and its treatment of ambition and the hunger for discovery. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Letter I as evidence for a larger claim about ambition and the hunger for discovery in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Letter I as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of ambition and the hunger for discovery. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. These visions faded when I perused, for the first time, those poets whose effusions entranced my soul, and lifted it to heaven.

   As used in the text, what does the word “effusions” most nearly mean?

   A. a vehicle mounted on runners and pulled by horses or dogs; for transportation over snow

   B. used on the high seas

   C. a feeling of evil to come

   D. an unrestrained expression of emotion

2. You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings. I arrived here yesterday; and my first task is to assure my dear sister of my welfare, and increasing confidence in the success of my undertaking.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Letter I"?

A. The first death and growing guilt

B. Confidence before danger

C. Destroying the companion

D. Ambition and the hunger for discovery

SAT key: 1. D (an unrestrained expression of emotion); 2. D (Ambition and the hunger for discovery)

Lesson 5: Letter II

Focus: loneliness and the desire for a friend

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Letter II” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

From Archangel, Walton hires a ship and crew but confesses that he has no friend who shares his enthusiasm. He describes his master and lieutenant and promises Margaret, “I shall kill no albatross.”

Background: Coleridge's 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner' (1798), alluded to here, was hugely popular; Mary Shelley heard Coleridge recite it as a child.

Significance: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central need: companionship. The albatross allusion warns of punishment for violating nature.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because....
Prompt: Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: albatross — a very large seabird of the southern oceans; embarkation — going on board a ship to start a voyage; amassed — gathered or collected a large amount of; unemployed — not engaged in a gainful occupation; endowments — natural abilities or qualities. “embarkation”: Origin: French embarcation. “amassed”: Origin of “amass”: Anglo-Norman amasser. “endowments”: Origin of “endowment”: an English formation from endow + -ment.
Words: albatross: a very large seabird of the southern oceans · embarkation: going on board a ship to start a voyage · amassed: gathered or collected a large amount of · unemployed: not engaged in a gainful occupation · endowments: natural abilities or qualities

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Coleridge's 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner' (1798), alluded to here, was hugely popular; Mary Shelley heard Coleridge recite it as a child. Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central need: companionship. The albatross allusion warns of punishment for violating nature. Characterization: Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced. Allusion: "the land of mist and snow" and the albatross come from Coleridge's The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, a poem about a man who commits a crime against nature and must tell his story. Walton's joke sets up Victor as a mariner-like teller. Foreshadowing: Walton's wish for a friend whose eyes reply to his will be granted, terribly, in Victor. Watch for isolation: Almost every narrator ends up alone; solitude is both the cost of ambition and the creature's suffering. In this chapter: "me very desirous to engage him. A youth passed in solitude, my best years spent under your gentle and feminine fosterage, has" (Letter II, paragraph 4).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I have no friend, Margaret" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton confesses to Margaret that his one unsatisfied want is a friend. Next, craft. I notice the direct address "Margaret" and the short, plain confession amid his grand plans. The strongest word is "friend": it names the need that every major character in the novel shares. Then, effect. What does Walton's loneliness reveal? My answer: Walton's loneliness reveals his longing for a friend who could share his ambitions, which links him to Victor and the creature; the book will show that isolation is the real danger.

> I have no friend, Margaret (Letter II, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I have no friend, Margaret" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton confesses to Margaret that his one unsatisfied want is a friend. Next, craft. I notice the direct address "Margaret" and the short, plain confession amid his grand plans. The strongest word is "friend": it names the need that every major character in the novel shares. Then, effect. What does Walton's loneliness reveal? My answer: Walton's loneliness reveals his longing for a friend who could share his ambitions, which links him to Victor and the creature; the book will show that isolation is the real danger.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Whose eyes would reply to mine" pictures friendship as mutual recognition. It connects to isolation: the creature will be rejected precisely because people cannot bear to look at him. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: The desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. (The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel.)

> I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine (Letter II, paragraph 2)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Whose eyes would reply to mine" pictures friendship as mutual recognition. It connects to isolation: the creature will be rejected precisely because people cannot bear to look at him.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: The desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. (The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about loneliness and the desire for a friend? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter II develops the idea of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. When the text says “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about loneliness and the desire for a friend? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter II develops the idea of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. When the text says “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want? Ask: is Walton lonely because he is ambitious, or ambitious because he is lonely? Push for a line from the letter.
Anchor question: Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want?
Facilitation: Ask: is Walton lonely because he is ambitious, or ambitious because he is lonely? Push for a line from the letter.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about loneliness and the desire for a friend? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. ("I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine", Letter II, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about loneliness and the desire for a friend? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. ("I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine", Letter II, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes loneliness and the desire for a friend. Key takeaway: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced.
- Allusion: "the land of mist and snow" and the albatross come from Coleridge's The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, a poem about a man who commits a crime against nature and must tell his story. Walton's joke sets up Victor as a mariner-like teller.
- Foreshadowing: Walton's wish for a friend whose eyes reply to his will be granted, terribly, in Victor.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

Symbols and motifs

- isolation: Almost every narrator ends up alone; solitude is both the cost of ambition and the creature's suffering. In this chapter: “me very desirous to engage him. A youth passed in solitude, my best years spent under your gentle and feminine fosterage, has” (Letter II, paragraph 4).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2) Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.
- “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel.
- “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6) An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully.
Evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
albatross (noun)	a very large seabird of the southern oceans	I am going to unexplored regions, to “the land of mist and snow”; but I shall kill no albatross, therefore do not be alarmed for my safety, or if I should come back to you as worn and woeful as the “Ancient Mariner.”
embarkation (noun)	going on board a ship to start a voyage	Those are as fixed as fate; and my voyage is only now delayed until the weather shall permit my embarkation.	“embarkation”: Origin: French embarcation. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/embarkation#Etymology)
amassed (verb)	gathered or collected a large amount of	Some years ago, he loved a young Russian lady, of moderate fortune; and having amassed a considerable sum in prize-money, the father of the girl consented to the match.	“amassed”: Origin of “amass”: Anglo-Norman amasser. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/amass#Etymology)

unemployed (adjective)	not engaged in a gainful occupation	I first became acquainted with him on board a whale vessel: finding that he was unemployed in this city, I easily engaged him to assist in my enterprise.
endowments (noun)	natural abilities or qualities	He is an Englishman, and in the midst of national and professional prejudices, unsoftened by cultivation, retains some of the noblest endowments of humanity.	"endowments": Origin of "endowment": an English formation from endow + -ment. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/endowment#Etymology)
illiterate (adjective)	poorly educated; unable to read well	Now I am twenty-eight, and am in reality more illiterate than many schoolboys of fifteen.
encompassed (verb)	surrounded	How slowly the time passes here, encompassed as I am by frost and snow; yet a second step is taken towards my enterprise.
retains (verb)	keeps	He is an Englishman, and in the midst of national and professional prejudices, unsoftened by cultivation, retains some of the noblest endowments of humanity.
mildness (noun)	gentleness	The master is a person of an excellent disposition, and is remarkable in the ship for his gentleness and the mildness of his discipline.	"mildness": Origin: an English formation from mild + -ness. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/mildness#Etymology)
voyages (noun)	an act of traveling by water	But it is a still greater evil to me that I am self-educated: for the first fourteen years of my life I ran wild on a common, and read nothing but our uncle Thomas's books of voyages.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Walton say he lacks most? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A friend who shares his feelings
2. Which poem does Walton allude to? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The Rime of the Ancient Mariner
3. From what port does Walton write this letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Archangel
4. What theme is introduced by his longing? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The need for companionship
5. How does Walton describe his crew's master? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Kind and gentle, remarkable for mildness
6. Retell the three most important events of "Letter II" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: From Archangel, Walton hires a ship and crew but confesses that he has no friend who shares his enthusiasm. He describes his master and lieutenant and promises Margaret, "I shall kill no albatross."
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Letter II"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Letter II" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "I am going to unexplored regions, to "the land of mist and snow"; but I shall kill no albatross, therefore do not be alarmed for my safety, or if I should come back to you as worn and woeful as the "Ancient Mariner."" What does "albatross" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: albatross: a very large seabird of the southern oceans.
10. Reread: "Those are as fixed as fate; and my voyage is only now delayed until the weather shall permit my embarkation." What does "embarkation" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: embarkation: going on board a ship to start a voyage.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Letter II" suggest about loneliness and the desire for a friend? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central need: companionship. The albatross allusion warns of punishment for violating nature.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about loneliness and the desire for a friend? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2): Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “How slowly the time passes here, encompassed as I am by frost and snow; yet a second step is taken towards my enterprise.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Letter II”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: From Archangel, Walton hires a ship and crew but confesses that he has no friend who shares his enthusiasm. He describes his master and lieutenant and promises Margaret, “I shall kill no albatross.”
6. How does “Letter II” build on “Letter I”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2): The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6): An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. On characterization: Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Walton feel he needs a friend, and what kind of friend does he want?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2): Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Coleridge's 'The Rime of the Ancient Mariner' (1798), alluded to here, was hugely popular; Mary Shelley heard Coleridge recite it as a child. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2): The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central need: companionship. The albatross allusion warns of punishment for violating nature.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6): An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2): Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. On characterization: Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Letter II” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about loneliness and the desire for a friend? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2): The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Letter II”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6): An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2): Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2): The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. On characterization: Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Letter II” treats loneliness and the desire for a friend with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6): An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Letter III” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2): Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. On foreshadowing: Walton's wish for a friend whose eyes reply to his will be granted, terribly, in Victor. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about loneliness and the desire for a friend? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2): The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Useful evidence: “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6): An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. Theme link: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “How slowly the time passes here, _____ as I am by frost and snow; yet a second step is taken towards my enterprise.” Word bank: amassed, encompassed, embarkation, albatross
   Key: encompassed
2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Those are as fixed as fate; and my voyage is only now delayed until the weather shall permit my embarkation.”, what does “embarkation” most nearly mean?
   A. treated lightly; toyed with
   B. going on board a ship to start a voyage
   C. be greater in scope or size than some standard
   D. transmit information

Key: B (going on board a ship to start a voyage)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] From what port does Walton write this letter?

   A. Ingolstadt

   B. Archangel

   C. Lisbon

   D. Geneva

   Key: B (Archangel)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I am going to unexplored regions, to "the land of mist and snow"; but I shall kill no albatross, therefore do not be alarmed for my safety, or if I should come back to you as worn and woeful as the "Ancient Mariner."", what does "albatross" most nearly mean?

   A. hesitated because of a moral doubt

   B. a very large seabird of the southern oceans

   C. wild, impossible dreams or fantasies

   D. in a strenuous manner; strongly or vigorously

   Key: B (a very large seabird of the southern oceans)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What theme is introduced by his longing?

   A. The joy of solitude

   B. The need for companionship

   C. The evils of travel

   D. The love of money

   Key: B (The need for companionship)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How does Walton describe his crew's master?

   A. Lazy and drunk

   B. Kind and gentle, remarkable for mildness

   C. Cruel and violent

   D. A former pirate

   Key: B (Kind and gentle, remarkable for mildness)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Which poem does Walton allude to?

   A. The Rime of the Ancient Mariner

   B. Hamlet

   C. Paradise Lost

   D. The Iliad

   Key: A (The Rime of the Ancient Mariner)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He is an Englishman, and in the midst of national and professional prejudices, unsoftened by cultivation, retains some of the noblest _____ of humanity." Word bank: endowments, embarkation, amassed, albatross

   Key: endowments

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter II, paragraph 2: "I desire the company of a man who could _____ with me; whose eyes would reply to mine"

   Key: sympathise

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I first became acquainted with him on board a whale vessel: finding that he was unemployed in this city, I easily engaged him to assist in my enterprise.”, what does “unemployed” most nearly mean?

    A. cursing; expressions of hatred

    B. grind together, of teeth

    C. filled with energy and excitement

    D. not engaged in a gainful occupation

    Key: D (not engaged in a gainful occupation)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does Walton say he lacks most?

    A. Money for the voyage

    B. A friend who shares his feelings

    C. A ship

    D. Maps of the Arctic

    Key: B (A friend who shares his feelings)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter II”?

    A. Loss and leaving home

    B. The author's stated purpose

    C. The meeting of two ambitious men

    D. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

    Key: D (Loneliness and the desire for a friend)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. The words “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter II”? "the land of mist and snow" and the albatross come from Coleridge's The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, a poem about a man who commits a crime against nature and must tell his story. Walton's joke sets up Victor as a mariner-like teller.

    A. Allusion

    B. Setting

    C. Plot

    D. Irony

    Key: A (Allusion)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter II”? Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced.

    A. Metaphor

    B. Setting

    C. Symbolism

    D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) bears it out: His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages. But “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6) complicates it, because here the text shows an allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Now I am twenty-eight, and am in reality more _____ than many schoolboys of fifteen.” Word bank: illiterate, amassed, albatross, embarkation
    Key: illiterate
18. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. The words “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.
19. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter II”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: The desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. The words “Letter II” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.
20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 6? “About two hours after this _____, we heard the ground sea; and before night the ice broke, and freed our ship.”
    A. occurrence
    B. apparition
    C. perceiving
    D. lieutenant

    Key: A (occurrence)
21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 2: “So strange an accident has happened to us, that I cannot forbear recording it, although it is very probable that you will see me before these papers can come into your _____.” Word bank: undiscovered, inquisitiveness, fragment, possession
    Key: possession
22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 11? “When he had in some measure _____, I removed him to my own cabin, and attended on him as much as my duty would permit.”
    A. fragment
    B. recovered

C. apparition

D. especially

Key: B (recovered)

23. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which of these passages comes earliest in Letter II?

A. “Continue for the present to write to me by every opportunity: I may receive your letters on some occasions when I need them most to support…”

B. “Shall I meet you again, after having traversed immense seas, and returned by the most southern cape of Africa or America?”

C. “Remember me with affection, should you never hear from me again.”

D. “I dare not expect such success, yet I cannot bear to look on the reverse of the picture.”

Key: B (“Shall I meet you again, after having traversed immense seas, and returned by the most southern cape of Africa or America?”)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “Last Monday (July 31st), we were nearly surrounded by ice, which closed in the ship on all sides, scarcely leaving her the sea-room in which she floated.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “surrounded” and “scarcely”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 17 reveal about the character or situation? “Soon after, when he was alone with me, he said, “I have, doubtless, excited your curiosity, as well as that of these good people; but you are too considerate to make enquiries.”” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “considerate” and “curiosity”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2).

Sample answer: His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages. The words “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “We, however, lay to until the morning, fearing to encounter in the dark those large loose masses which float about after the breaking up of the ice.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “encounter” and “breaking”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 24 shapes its tone: "I shall continue my journal concerning the stranger at intervals, should I have any fresh incidents to record." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 24) accurately and quotes "concerning" and "incidents", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 7: "He was not, as the other traveller seemed to be, a savage inhabitant of some _____ island, but a European." Word bank: concerning, undiscovered, lieutenant, occurrence
    Key: undiscovered

30. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? "I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine" (Letter II, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. The words "I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine" (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 32 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "Such a man has a double existence: he may suffer misery, and be overwhelmed by disappointments; yet, when he has retired into himself, he will be like a celestial spirit, that has a halo around him, within whose circle no grief or folly…" Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 32) accurately and quotes "disappointments" and "overwhelmed", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He is an Englishman, and in the midst of national and professional prejudices, unsoftened by cultivation, _____ some of the noblest endowments of humanity." Word bank: embarkation, retains, albatross, amassed
    Key: retains

33. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Some years ago, he loved a young Russian lady, of moderate fortune; and having amassed a considerable sum in prize-money, the father of the girl consented to the match.", what does "amassed" most nearly mean?

    A. an executioner who hangs the condemned person
    B. only slightly; poorly
    C. gathered or collected a large amount of
    D. something that tempts or attracts

    Key: C (gathered or collected a large amount of)

34. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 29 shapes its tone: “Having conquered the violence of his feelings, he appeared to despise himself for being the slave of passion; and quelling the dark tyranny of despair, he led me again to converse concerning myself personally.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 29) accurately and quotes “concerning” and “personally”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “But he is generally melancholy and despairing; and sometimes he gnashes his teeth, as if impatient of the weight of woes that oppresses him.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “melancholy” and “despairing”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““I agree with you,” replied the stranger; “we are unfashioned creatures, but half made up, if one wiser, better, dearer than ourselves—such a friend ought to be—do not lend his aid to perfectionate our weak and faulty natures.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 30) accurately and quotes “perfectionate” and “unfashioned”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6)

    A. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

    B. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.

    C. Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

    D. Psychological insight into grief and guilt.

    Key: A (An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.)

38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “When I appeared on deck, the master said, “Here is our captain, and he will not allow you to perish on the open sea.”” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “appeared” and “captain”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “When my guest was a little recovered, I had great trouble to keep off the men, who wished to ask him a thousand questions; but I would not allow him to be tormented by their idle curiosity, in a state of body and mind whose restoration…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes "restoration" and "curiosity", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? "I have no friend, Margaret" (Letter II, paragraph 2)

    A. The ending: ambiguous death.

    B. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    D. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

    Key: B (Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.)

41. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I have no friend, Margaret" (Letter II, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. The words "I have no friend, Margaret" (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	11, 17, 6, 1, 2, 4, 7, 3, 8, 10, 12, 13, 18, 14, 15, 19	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 17, 4, 20, 21, 22, 13, 12, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 19, 16	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	11, 1, 4, 8, 29, 12, 23, 13, 30, 25, 14, 18, 15, 27, 19, 31	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 32, 33, 20, 12, 13, 23, 25, 24, 14, 18, 28, 34, 31, 35, 36	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 17, 20, 23, 37, 13, 24, 14, 26, 38, 34, 28, 16, 19, 31, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	8, 17, 20, 12, 23, 37, 24, 14, 15, 34, 38, 27, 16, 36, 39, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 1, 23, 37, 13, 25, 15, 14, 34, 38, 27, 19, 35, 39, 31, 36	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	7, 8, 11, 3, 21, 15, 27, 38, 34, 28, 19, 16, 36, 39, 31, 35	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 6

College Senior	32, 17, 12, 40, 26, 15, 14, 28, 38, 27, 19, 16, 36, 35, 31, 39	recall 2, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	2, 8, 17, 11, 14, 15, 18, 38, 34, 16, 41, 19, 36, 39, 35, 31	recall 4, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 7

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Letter II,” how does Shelley show loneliness and the desire for a friend? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Letter II, how does Shelley develop the idea of loneliness and the desire for a friend? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Letter II develops the idea of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Letter II (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Letter II suggests about loneliness and the desire for a friend. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses characterization in Letter II to complicate the reader's understanding of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Letter II within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of loneliness and the desire for a friend responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Letter II alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of loneliness and the desire for a friend follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Letter II and its treatment of loneliness and the desire for a friend. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Letter II as evidence for a larger claim about loneliness and the desire for a friend in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Letter II as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of loneliness and the desire for a friend. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Some years ago, he loved a young Russian lady, of moderate fortune; and having amassed a considerable sum in prize-money, the father of the girl consented to the match.

   As used in the text, what does the word “amassed” most nearly mean?

   A. gentleness

   B. an act of traveling by water

   C. keeps

   D. gathered or collected a large amount of

2. How slowly the time passes here, encompassed as I am by frost and snow; yet a second step is taken towards my enterprise. I have hired a vessel, and am occupied in collecting my sailors; those whom I have already engaged, appear to be men on whom I can depend, and are certainly possessed of dauntless courage.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter II”?

   A. First experiences of the senses

   B. Isolation in the north

   C. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

   D. A letter, a secret and the wedding

SAT key: 1. D (gathered or collected a large amount of); 2. C (Loneliness and the desire for a friend)

Lesson 6: Letter III

Focus: confidence before danger

Objective: Students will analyze how tone / mood develops in “Letter III” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

A brief letter: Walton reports that he is safe and well advanced on his voyage. He is full of confidence and determination despite floating ice.

Background: Short letters between long ones create pacing and suspense, a technique common in epistolary fiction.

Significance: Walton's optimism makes the coming crisis feel more dramatic and ironic.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because....
Prompt: Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: pathless — without paths; untraveled; homeward — oriented toward home; obedient — dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority; prudent — careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment; advancing — move forward, also in the metaphorical sense. “obedient”: Origin: Old French obedient; earlier Latin oboedīens.
Words: pathless: without paths; untraveled · homeward: oriented toward home · obedient: dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority · prudent: careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment · advancing: move forward, also in the metaphorical sense

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Short letters between long ones create pacing and suspense, a technique common in epistolary fiction. Walton's optimism makes the coming crisis feel more dramatic and ironic. Tone / mood: Brief and confident; exclamations replace doubt. The shortness itself contrasts with the dangers implied. Foreshadowing: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning. Characterization: Walton writes that his "swelling heart" pours itself out: he is excitable and self-dramatizing. Watch for sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "apparently firm of purpose; nor do the floating sheets of ice that continually pass us, indicating the dangers of the region towards" (Letter III, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "success shall crown my endeavours" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton declares that success shall crown his efforts and asks why it should not. Next, craft. I notice the confident future tense "shall" followed by a defiant question, right after he promises to be cautious. The strongest word is "crown": it is a royal word, as if success were a coronation he deserves. Then, effect. What does Walton's boast show about his state of mind? My answer: Walton's boast shows that his state of mind is overconfident; his ambition overrides his promise of prudence, which foreshadows Victor's ruin and the warning Victor will give him.

> success shall crown my endeavours (Letter III, paragraph 4)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "success shall crown my endeavours" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton declares that success shall crown his efforts and asks why it should not. Next, craft. I notice the confident future tense "shall" followed by a defiant question, right after he promises to be cautious. The strongest word is "crown": it is a royal word, as if success were a coronation he deserves. Then, effect. What does Walton's boast show about his state of mind? My answer: Walton's boast shows that his state of mind is overconfident; his ambition overrides his promise of prudence, which foreshadows Victor's ruin and the warning Victor will give him.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Look at the craft: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: The "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. (A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.)

> What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man (Letter III, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Look at the craft: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: The "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. (A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for tone / mood, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confidence before danger? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter III develops the idea of confidence before danger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. When the text says “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.
Task: Annotate the chapter for tone / mood, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confidence before danger? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter III develops the idea of confidence before danger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. When the text says “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4), it shows this directly. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here? Have students answer Walton's question as Victor might at the end of the book.
Anchor question: Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here?
Facilitation: Have students answer Walton's question as Victor might at the end of the book.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confidence before danger? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. ("What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man", Letter III, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confidence before danger? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. ("What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man", Letter III, paragraph 4). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how tone / mood shapes confidence before danger. Key takeaway: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Tone / mood: Brief and confident; exclamations replace doubt. The shortness itself contrasts with the dangers implied.
- Foreshadowing: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning.
- Characterization: Walton writes that his "swelling heart" pours itself out: he is excitable and self-dramatizing.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates.

Symbols and motifs

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "apparently firm of purpose; nor do the floating sheets of ice that continually pass us, indicating the dangers of the region towards" (Letter III, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "success shall crown my endeavours" (Letter III, paragraph 4) "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.
- "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4) A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.
- "My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus" (Letter III, paragraph 5) Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will.
Evidence: "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4)
Reasoning: Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
pathless (adjective)	without paths; untraveled	Thus far I have gone, tracing a secure way over the pathless seas: the very stars themselves being witnesses and testimonies of my triumph.
homeward (adjective)	oriented toward home	This letter will reach England by a merchantman now on its homeward voyage from Archangel; more fortunate than I, who may not see my native land, perhaps, for many years.
obedient (adjective)	dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority	Why not still proceed over the untamed yet obedient element?	"obedient": Origin: Old French obedient; earlier Latin oboediēns. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/obedient#Etymology) prudent (adjective)	careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment	I will be cool, persevering, and prudent.
advancing (verb)	move forward, also in the metaphorical sense	I am, however, in good spirits: my men are bold, and apparently firm of purpose; nor do the floating sheets of ice that continually pass us, indicating the dangers of the region towards which we are advancing, appear to dismay them.

Discussion questions

1. Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here?
2. Where does tone / mood appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Walton feel in Letter III? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Confident and determined
2. What danger does he mention seeing? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Floating sheets of ice
3. What is the main purpose of this letter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To reassure Margaret he is safe
4. What does Walton's confidence create for the reader? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Dramatic irony and suspense
5. Which word best describes Walton's attitude? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Resolute
6. Retell the three most important events of “Letter III” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A brief letter: Walton reports that he is safe and well advanced on his voyage. He is full of confidence and determination despite floating ice.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Letter III”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Letter III” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Thus far I have gone, tracing a secure way over the pathless seas: the very stars themselves being witnesses and testimonies of my triumph.” What does “pathless” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: pathless: without paths; untraveled.
10. Reread: “This letter will reach England by a merchantman now on its homeward voyage from Archangel; more fortunate than I, who may not see my native land, perhaps, for many years.” What does “homeward” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: homeward: oriented toward home.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Letter III” suggest about confidence before danger? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Walton's optimism makes the coming crisis feel more dramatic and ironic.
2. Find one example of tone / mood in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about confidence before danger? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4): "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. On foreshadowing: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “But success shall crown my endeavours.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Letter III”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A brief letter: Walton reports that he is safe and well advanced on his voyage. He is full of confidence and determination despite floating ice.
6. How does “Letter III” build on “Letter II”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4): A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5): Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. On characterization: Walton writes that his "swelling heart" pours itself out: he is excitable and self-dramatizing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why might Shelley include such a short, cheerful letter here?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does setting appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4): "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Short letters between long ones create pacing and suspense, a technique common in epistolary fiction. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4): A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Walton's optimism makes the coming crisis feel more dramatic and ironic.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5): Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4): "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. On characterization: Walton writes that his "swelling heart" pours itself out: he is excitable and self-dramatizing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Letter III” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about confidence before danger? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4): A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Letter III”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5): Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4): "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the tone / mood in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4): A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. On tone / mood: Brief and confident; exclamations replace doubt. The shortness itself contrasts with the dangers implied. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Letter III” treats confidence before danger with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5): Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Letter IV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4): "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. On foreshadowing: His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about confidence before danger? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4): A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Useful evidence: “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5): Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. Theme link: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Tone / mood: look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I will be cool, persevering, and prudent.”, what does “prudent” most nearly mean?

   A. be persistent, refuse to stop

   B. losing hope; discouraged

   C. careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment

   D. extremely happy

   Key: C (careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “This letter will reach England by a merchantman now on its homeward voyage from Archangel; more fortunate than I, who may not see my native land, perhaps, for many years.”, what does “homeward” most nearly mean?

   A. an executioner who hangs the condemned person

B. oriented toward home

C. set free

D. hold spellbound

Key: B (oriented toward home)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter III, paragraph 5: “My swelling heart _____ pours itself out thus”

   Key: involuntarily

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter III, paragraph 4: “What can stop the _____ heart and resolved will of man”

   Key: determined

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What is the main purpose of this letter?

   A. To ask for money

   B. To describe Victor

   C. To announce his marriage

   D. To reassure Margaret he is safe

   Key: D (To reassure Margaret he is safe)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Which word best describes Walton's attitude?

   A. Regretful

   B. Resolute

   C. Indifferent

   D. Defeated

   Key: B (Resolute)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 2: “So strange an accident has happened to us, that I cannot forbear recording it, although it is very probable that you will see me before these papers can come into your _____.” Word bank: undiscovered, inquisitiveness, fragment, possession

   Key: possession

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 17: “This aroused the stranger’s attention; and he asked a multitude of questions _____ the route which the daemon, as he called him, had pursued.” Word bank: discovery, profited, occurrence, concerning

   Key: concerning

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter I, paragraph 6? “Perhaps during former years he had suffered from the late-discovered _____ of one beloved, and so was disposed to set a greater value on tried worth.”

   A. discovered

   B. unworthiness

   C. considerable

   D. pleasurable

   Key: B (unworthiness)

10. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter III”?

    A. Confidence before danger

B. The meeting of two ambitious men

C. Reading and identity

D. Recovery and false peace

Key: A (Confidence before danger)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. The words “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 17 reveal about the character or situation? “Soon after, when he was alone with me, he said, “I have, doubtless, excited your curiosity, as well as that of these good people; but you are too considerate to make enquiries.”” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “considerate” and “curiosity”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter I?

    A. “Perhaps during former years he had suffered from the late-discovered unworthiness of one beloved, and so was disposed to set a greater…”

    B. “There was a considerable difference between the ages of my parents, but this circumstance seemed to unite them only closer in bonds of…”

    C. “Everything was made to yield to her wishes and her convenience.”

    D. “There was a sense of justice in my father’s upright mind, which rendered it necessary that he should approve highly to love strongly.”

    Key: B (“There was a considerable difference between the ages of my parents, but this circumstance seemed to unite them only closer in bonds of…”)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter III”? His confidence ("Success shall crown my endeavours") is dramatic irony in a novel framed as a warning.

    A. Foreshadowing

    B. Conflict

    C. Point of view

    D. Metaphor

    Key: A (Foreshadowing)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “We, however, lay to until the morning, fearing to encounter in the dark those large loose masses which float about after the breaking up of the ice.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “encounter” and “breaking”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. The words "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What danger does he mention seeing?

    A. Floating sheets of ice

    B. A whale attack

    C. A volcano

    D. A pirate ship

    Key: A (Floating sheets of ice)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I am, however, in good spirits: my men are bold, and apparently firm of purpose; nor do the floating sheets of ice that continually pass us, indicating the dangers of the region towards which we are _____, appear to dismay them." Word bank: homeward, obedient, advancing, pathless

    Key: advancing

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Thus far I have gone, tracing a secure way over the pathless seas: the very stars themselves being witnesses and testimonies of my triumph.", what does "pathless" most nearly mean?

    A. troubled; inconvenienced

    B. friendly and trying to win good will

    C. to get down from a horse

    D. without paths; untraveled

    Key: D (without paths; untraveled)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Why not still proceed over the untamed yet obedient element?", what does "obedient" most nearly mean?

    A. dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority

    B. slowly; late

    C. careful and persistent

    D. a fast, graceful animal with horns, like a deer

    Key: A (dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] How does Walton feel in Letter III?

    A. Confident and determined

    B. Ill and weak

    C. Terrified

    D. Ready to turn back

    Key: A (Confident and determined)

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What does Walton's confidence create for the reader?

    A. Certainty of success

    B. Boredom

    C. Comedy

    D. Dramatic irony and suspense

    Key: D (Dramatic irony and suspense)

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. The words “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor. The words “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates.

25. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter III”? Brief and confident; exclamations replace doubt. The shortness itself contrasts with the dangers implied.

    A. Conflict

    B. Tone / mood

    C. Irony

    D. Plot

    Key: B (Tone / mood)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) bears it out: Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does. But “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 7: “He was not, as the other traveller seemed to be, a savage inhabitant of some _____ island, but a European.” Word bank: concerning, undiscovered, lieutenant, occurrence
    Key: undiscovered

28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “Last Monday (July 31st), we were nearly surrounded by ice, which closed in the ship on all sides, scarcely leaving her the sea-room in which she floated.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “surrounded” and

"scarcely", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "success shall crown my endeavours" (Letter III, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. The words "success shall crown my endeavours" (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Chapter I, paragraph 3 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "The interval was, consequently, spent in inaction; his grief only became more deep and rankling, when he had leisure for reflection; and at length it took so fast hold of his mind, that at the end of three months he lay on a bed of…" Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter I, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes "consequently" and "reflection", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

31. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Chapter I, paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? "Her health, and even the tranquillity of her hitherto constant spirit, had been shaken by what she had gone through." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter I, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes "tranquillity" and "hitherto", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

32. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Claim: Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4).
    Sample answer: Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does. The words "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man" (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates.

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 29 shapes its tone: "Having conquered the violence of his feelings, he appeared to despise himself for being the slave of passion; and quelling the dark tyranny of despair, he led me again to converse concerning myself personally." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 29) accurately and quotes "concerning" and "personally", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ""I agree with you," replied the stranger; "we are unfashioned creatures, but half made up, if one wiser, better, dearer than ourselves—such a friend ought to be—do not lend his aid to perfectionate our weak and faulty natures." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 30) accurately and quotes "perfectionate" and "unfashioned", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.
35. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 6? "About two hours after this _____, we heard the ground sea; and before night the ice broke, and freed our ship."
    A. occurrence
    B. apparition
    C. perceiving
    D. lieutenant

    Key: A (occurrence)
36. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 24 shapes its tone: "I shall continue my journal concerning the stranger at intervals, should I have any fresh incidents to record." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 24) accurately and quotes "concerning" and "incidents", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.
37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: "When I appeared on deck, the master said, "Here is our captain, and he will not allow you to perish on the open sea."" Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes "appeared" and "captain", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.
38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: "But he is generally melancholy and despairing; and sometimes he gnashes his teeth, as if impatient of the weight of woes that oppresses him." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes "melancholy" and "despairing", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.
39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 32 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "Such a man has a double existence: he may suffer misery, and be overwhelmed by disappointments; yet, when he has retired into himself, he will be like a celestial spirit, that has a halo around him, within whose circle no grief or folly…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 32) accurately and quotes “disappointments” and “overwhelmed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

40. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 3: “Beaufort had taken effectual measures to conceal himself; and it was ten months before my father _____ his abode.” Word bank: discovered, pleasurable, welcomed, unworthiness

    Key: discovered

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5)

    A. Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.

    B. The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.

    C. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

    D. Clerval's character; he loves nature directly.

    Key: A (Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.)

42. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter III”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: The "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. The words “Letter III” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

43. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 26? “My _____ for my guest increases every day.”

    A. occurrence

    B. recovered

    C. apparition

    D. affection

    Key: D (affection)

44. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “When my guest was a little recovered, I had great trouble to keep off the men, who wished to ask him a thousand questions; but I would not allow him to be tormented by their idle curiosity, in a state of body and mind whose restoration…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “restoration” and “curiosity”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

45. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4)

    A. Human violence comes first.

    B. Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility.

    C. The ending: ambiguous death.

    D. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    Key: D ("Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.)

46. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4)

    A. Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.

    B. Victor's fear of consequences.

    C. Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.

    D. A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.

    Key: D (A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 3, 20, 4, 6, 21, 22, 5, 10, 23, 14, 24, 25, 26	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	19, 4, 2, 7, 27, 9, 23, 10, 12, 28, 13, 25, 14, 24, 29, 30	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 22, 4, 21, 20, 10, 28, 12, 31, 13, 25, 32, 33, 15, 29, 34	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 21, 27, 35, 10, 28, 12, 13, 31, 32, 14, 36, 37, 29, 38, 39	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	18, 40, 9, 10, 41, 28, 31, 14, 25, 15, 37, 33, 42, 29, 38, 30	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	3, 21, 43, 8, 10, 12, 31, 14, 15, 33, 36, 37, 26, 42, 34, 44	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	18, 40, 9, 10, 31, 13, 25, 37, 36, 15, 33, 16, 44, 38, 39, 30	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	22, 18, 8, 41, 12, 14, 25, 37, 36, 15, 26, 44, 34, 38, 39, 30	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	18, 4, 21, 45, 13, 25, 24, 33, 37, 26, 42, 16, 39, 34, 44, 30	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 7
Graduate / PhD	4, 18, 21, 46, 45, 24, 14, 36, 15, 26, 42, 39, 44, 38, 34, 30	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 7

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Letter III,” how does Shelley show confidence before danger? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the tone / mood you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): In Letter III, how does Shelley develop the idea of confidence before danger? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the tone / mood in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Letter III develops the idea of confidence before danger. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of tone / mood and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Letter III (where it begins, turns and ends) and its tone / mood shape the reader's understanding of confidence before danger. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Letter III suggests about confidence before danger. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's tone / mood and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses tone / mood in Letter III to complicate the reader's understanding of confidence before danger. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Letter III within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of confidence before danger responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Letter III alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of confidence before danger follows or bends those conventions, using the tone / mood as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Letter III and its treatment of confidence before danger. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's tone / mood and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Letter III as evidence for a larger claim about confidence before danger in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Letter III as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of confidence before danger. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Thus far I have gone, tracing a secure way over the pathless seas: the very stars themselves being witnesses and testimonies of my triumph.

   As used in the text, what does the word “pathless” most nearly mean?

   A. without paths; untraveled

   B. dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority

   C. careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment

   D. move forward, also in the metaphorical sense

2. But success shall crown my endeavours. Wherefore not? Thus far I have gone, tracing a secure way over the pathless seas: the very stars themselves being witnesses and testimonies of my triumph. Why not still proceed over the untamed yet obedient element? What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter III”?

   A. Loss and leaving home

   B. Isolation in the north

   C. Injustice and the burden of silence

   D. Confidence before danger

SAT key: 1. A (without paths; untraveled); 2. D (Confidence before danger)

Lesson 7: Letter IV

Focus: the meeting of two ambitious men

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Letter IV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…and restored him to animation by rubbing him with brandy, and forcing him to swallow a small qua…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Suggested language: “What does this detail add to the scene?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Trapped in ice, Walton's crew sees a giant figure on a dog sled, and the next morning rescues a frozen, exhausted stranger: Victor Frankenstein. Victor recovers slowly, becomes Walton's friend, and, hearing of Walton's ambition, agrees to tell his own story as a warning.

Background: The frame (Walton) now opens into Victor's narrative, a 'story within a story' structure called a nested or frame narrative.

Significance: Victor's warning, 'Learn from me,' makes the whole novel a cautionary tale addressed to Walton and to the reader.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because.... Content note before we start: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Prompt: Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: capitulated — gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety); tutored — taught; educated; telescopes — instruments that make distant objects look closer; rawness — cold, damp harshness; eventual — expected to follow in the indefinite future from causes already operating. “capitulated”: From Medieval Latin capitulare "to draw up under headings," from capitulum "little head, chapter," from caput "head"; hence arranging terms, then surrendering on terms. “tutored”: Origin of “tutor”: Old French tuteur; earlier Latin tūtor (“a watcher”). “telescopes”: Origin of “telescope”: Latin tēlescopium.
Words: capitulated: gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety) · tutored: taught; educated · telescopes: instruments that make distant objects look closer · rawness: cold, damp harshness · eventual: expected to follow in the indefinite future from causes already operating

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The frame (Walton) now opens into Victor's narrative, a 'story within a story' structure called a nested or frame narrative. Victor's warning, 'Learn from me,' makes the whole novel a cautionary tale addressed to Walton and to the reader. Structure: Letter IV turns the frame: Walton meets Victor and becomes the listener. From here the story nests: Walton tells Victor's story, which will contain the creature's. Characterization: Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech. Imagery: The first glimpse is of a "being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" on a dog-sledge: we see the creature before we know him. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “In the morning, however, as soon as it was light, I went upon deck, and found all the sailors busy on” (Letter IV, paragraph 6).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton's crew see a huge figure shaped like a man driving a dog sledge across the ice. Next, craft. I notice the cautious wording, "had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature," which keeps the figure uncertain. The strongest word is "gigantic": it marks the being as human in shape but beyond human in size. Then, effect. What do the sailors see on the ice, and why does it matter? My answer: The sailors see a gigantic figure on a dog sledge crossing the ice; it matters because this first sight of the creature makes him a mystery and brings Victor's story to Walton's ship.

> a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature (Letter IV, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" slowly and put it in my own words: Walton's crew see a huge figure shaped like a man driving a dog sledge across the ice. Next, craft. I notice the cautious wording, "had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature," which keeps the figure uncertain. The strongest word is "gigantic": it marks the being as human in shape but beyond human in size. Then, effect. What do the sailors see on the ice, and why does it matter? My answer: The sailors see a gigantic figure on a dog sledge crossing the ice; it matters because this first sight of the creature makes him a mystery and brings Victor's story to Walton's ship.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The serpent recalls Genesis, where knowledge leads to the Fall; "sting" makes knowledge poisonous. This is the novel's central warning about ambition and knowledge. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. (The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.)

> You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been (Letter IV, paragraph 32)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The serpent recalls Genesis, where knowledge leads to the Fall; "sting" makes knowledge poisonous. This is the novel's central warning about ambition and knowledge.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. (The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the meeting of two ambitious men? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter IV develops the idea of the meeting of two ambitious men. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. When the text says "You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been" (Letter IV, paragraph 32), it shows this directly. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the meeting of two ambitious men? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Letter IV develops the idea of the meeting of two ambitious men. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. When the text says "You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been" (Letter IV, paragraph 32), it shows this directly. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict? Ask whether we should trust Victor as a narrator. He is telling the story to make a point; what might he leave out?

Anchor question: Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict?

Facilitation: Ask whether we should trust Victor as a narrator. He is telling the story to make a point; what might he leave out?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the meeting of two ambitious men? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. ("You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been", Letter IV, paragraph 32). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the meeting of two ambitious men? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. ("You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been", Letter IV, paragraph 32). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how structure shapes the meeting of two ambitious men. Key takeaway: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: Letter IV turns the frame: Walton meets Victor and becomes the listener. From here the story nests: Walton tells Victor's story, which will contain the creature's.
- Characterization: Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech.
- Imagery: The first glimpse is of a "being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" on a dog-sledge: we see the creature before we know him.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "In the morning, however, as soon as it was light, I went upon deck, and found all the sailors busy on" (Letter IV, paragraph 6).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "Last Monday (July 31st), we were nearly surrounded by ice, which closed in the ship on all sides, scarcely leaving her" (Letter IV, paragraph 2).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" (Letter IV, paragraph 3) Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance.
- "Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught" (Letter IV, paragraph 25) (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.
- "You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been" (Letter IV, paragraph 32) The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows.
Evidence: "You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been" (Letter IV, paragraph 32)
Reasoning: By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
capitulated (verb)	gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety)	Margaret, if you had seen the man who thus capitulated for his safety, your surprise would have been boundless.	"capitulated": From Medieval Latin capitulare "to draw up under headings," from capitulum "little head, chapter," from caput "head"; hence arranging terms, then surrendering on terms. (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/capitulate)
tutored (verb)	taught; educated	You have been tutored and refined by books and retirement from the world, and you are, therefore, somewhat fastidious; but this only renders you the more fit to appreciate the extraordinary merits of this wonderful man.	"tutored": Origin of "tutor": Old French tuteur; earlier Latin tūtor ("a watcher"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tutor#Etymology)
telescopes (noun)	instruments that make distant objects look closer	We watched the rapid progress of the traveller with our telescopes, until he was lost among the distant inequalities of the ice.	"telescopes": Origin of "telescope": Latin tēlescopium. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/telescope#Etymology)

rawness (noun)	cold, damp harshness	He manifested the greatest eagerness to be upon deck, to watch for the sledge which had before appeared; but I have persuaded him to remain in the cabin, for he is far too weak to sustain the rawness of the atmosphere.
eventual (adjective)	expected to follow in the indefinite future from causes already operating	He entered attentively into all my arguments in favour of my eventual success, and into every minute detail of the measures I had taken to secure it.
irradiated (verb)	lit up	Even now, as I commence my task, his full-toned voice swells in my ears; his lustrous eyes dwell on me with all their melancholy sweetness; I see his thin hand raised in animation, while the lineaments of his face are irradiated by the soul within.	"irradiated": Origin of "irradiate": possibly Medieval Latin irradiātus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/irradiate#Etymology)
benevolently (adverb)	in a kind, well-meaning way	"And yet you rescued me from a strange and perilous situation; you have benevolently restored me to life."
conciliating (adjective)	friendly and trying to win good will	Yet his manners are so conciliating and gentle, that the sailors are all interested in him, although they have had very little communication with him.	"conciliating": Origin of "conciliate": Latin conciliātus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conciliate#Etymology)
trickle (verb)	to flow in drops	At first I perceived that he tried to suppress his emotion; he placed his hands before his eyes; and my voice quivered and failed me, as I beheld tears trickle fast from between his fingers—a groan burst from his heaving breast.	"trickle": Origin: probably Middle English triklen, a variant of striklen ("to flow gently"); the history is not certain. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trickle#Etymology)
harrowing (adjective)	deeply distressing	Strange and harrowing must be his story; frightful the storm which embraced the gallant vessel on its course, and wrecked it—thus!

Discussion questions

1. Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict?

2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does the crew first see on the ice? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A gigantic figure on a dog sled
2. Who is rescued from the ice? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor Frankenstein
3. Why does Victor decide to tell his story? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To warn Walton about dangerous ambition
4. How does Walton feel toward the stranger? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He admires and loves him like a brother
5. What narrative structure begins here? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A frame narrative with a story within a story
6. Retell the three most important events of “Letter IV” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Trapped in ice, Walton's crew sees a giant figure on a dog sled, and the next morning rescues a frozen, exhausted stranger: Victor Frankenstein. Victor recovers slowly, becomes Walton's friend, and, hearing of Walton's ambition, agrees to tell his own story as a warning.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Letter IV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Letter IV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Margaret, if you had seen the man who thus capitulated for his safety, your surprise would have been boundless.” What does “capitulated” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: capitulated: gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety).
10. Reread: “You have been tutored and refined by books and retirement from the world, and you are, therefore, somewhat fastidious; but this only renders you the more fit to appreciate the extraordinary merits of this wonderful man.” What does “tutored” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: tutored: taught; educated.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Letter IV” suggest about the meeting of two ambitious men? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor's warning, 'Learn from me,' makes the whole novel a cautionary tale addressed to Walton and to the reader.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the meeting of two ambitious men? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3): Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. On characterization: Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “About two o’clock the mist cleared away, and we beheld, stretched out in every direction, vast and irregular plains of ice, which seemed to have no end.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Letter IV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Trapped in ice, Walton's crew sees a giant figure on a dog sled, and the next morning rescues a frozen, exhausted stranger: Victor Frankenstein. Victor recovers slowly, becomes Walton's friend, and, hearing of Walton's ambition, agrees to tell his own story as a warning.
6. How does “Letter IV” build on “Letter III”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25): (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. On structure: Letter IV turns the frame: Walton meets Victor and becomes the listener. From here the story nests: Walton tells Victor's story, which will contain the creature's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32): The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. On characterization: Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Victor says he will tell his story so Walton may learn from it. What lesson do you predict?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does point of view appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3): Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The frame (Walton) now opens into Victor's narrative, a 'story within a story' structure called a nested or frame narrative. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25): (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor's warning, 'Learn from me,' makes the whole novel a cautionary tale addressed to Walton and to the reader.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32): The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3): Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. On characterization: Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Letter IV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the meeting of two ambitious men? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25): (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Letter IV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32): The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3): Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25): (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Letter IV” treats the meeting of two ambitious men with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32): The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter I” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3): Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the meeting of two ambitious men? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25): (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Useful evidence: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32): The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. Theme link: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)

- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Point of view: who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How does Walton feel toward the stranger?

   A. He admires and loves him like a brother

   B. He fears him

   C. He ignores him

   D. He distrusts him

   Key: A (He admires and loves him like a brother)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Why does Victor decide to tell his story?

   A. To confess a theft

   B. Because he is dying of fever

   C. To warn Walton about dangerous ambition

   D. To earn passage home

   Key: C (To warn Walton about dangerous ambition)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Who is rescued from the ice?

   A. A Russian sailor

   B. Henry Clerval

   C. The creature

   D. Victor Frankenstein

   Key: D (Victor Frankenstein)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "He manifested the greatest eagerness to be upon deck, to watch for the sledge which had before appeared; but I have persuaded him to remain in the cabin, for he is far too weak to sustain the rawness of the atmosphere.", what does "rawness" most nearly mean?

   A. a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited

   B. an event that happens

   C. cold, damp harshness

   D. set free

   Key: C (cold, damp harshness)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""And yet you rescued me from a strange and perilous situation; you have _____ restored me to life."" Word bank: benevolently, tutored, telescopes, capitulated

   Key: benevolently

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Margaret, if you had seen the man who thus capitulated for his safety, your surprise would have been boundless.", what does "capitulated" most nearly mean?

   A. expressing congratulations

   B. summon into action or bring into existence, often as if by magic

   C. gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety)

   D. immune to attack; impregnable

Key: C (gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety))

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "We watched the rapid progress of the traveller with our telescopes, until he was lost among the distant inequalities of the ice.", what does "telescopes" most nearly mean?

   A. accompanied by bloodshed

   B. not engaged in a gainful occupation

   C. hold spellbound

   D. instruments that make distant objects look closer

   Key: D (instruments that make distant objects look closer)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Yet his manners are so _____ and gentle, that the sailors are all interested in him, although they have had very little communication with him." Word bank: telescopes, conciliating, capitulated, tutored

   Key: conciliating

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What narrative structure begins here?

   A. A frame narrative with a story within a story

   B. A play

   C. A single third-person narrator

   D. A diary only

   Key: A (A frame narrative with a story within a story)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "You have been tutored and refined by books and retirement from the world, and you are, therefore, somewhat fastidious; but this only renders you the more fit to appreciate the extraordinary merits of this wonderful man.", what does "tutored" most nearly mean?

    A. keeps

    B. call upon in supplication; entreat

    C. shines faintly

    D. taught; educated

    Key: D (taught; educated)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Even now, as I commence my task, his full-toned voice swells in my ears; his lustrous eyes dwell on me with all their melancholy sweetness; I see his thin hand raised in animation, while the lineaments of his face are _____ by the soul within." Word bank: tutored, telescopes, capitulated, irradiated

    Key: irradiated

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? "a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" (Letter IV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. The words "a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature" (Letter IV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of "Letter IV"?

    A. Delay and dread

    B. The meeting of two ambitious men

    C. First experiences of the senses

D. A privileged childhood and family love

Key: B (The meeting of two ambitious men)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter IV”? Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech.

A. Allusion

B. Irony

C. Hyperbole

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter IV”? Letter IV turns the frame: Walton meets Victor and becomes the listener. From here the story nests: Walton tells Victor's story, which will contain the creature's.

A. Structure

B. Theme

C. Simile

D. Tone / mood

Key: A (Structure)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter IV”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. The words “Letter IV” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 17: “This aroused the stranger’s attention; and he asked a multitude of questions _____ the route which the daemon, as he called him, had pursued.” Word bank: discovery, profited, occurrence, concerning

Key: concerning

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 3: “a being which had the shape of a man, but _____ of gigantic stature”

Key: apparently

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 26? “My _____ for my guest increases every day.”

A. occurrence

B. recovered

C. apparition

D. affection

Key: D (affection)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 6? “About two hours after this _____, we heard the ground sea; and before night the ice broke, and freed our ship.”

    A. occurrence

    B. apparition

    C. perceiving

    D. lieutenant

    Key: A (occurrence)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 25: “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the _____ draught”

    Key: intoxicating

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “Last Monday (July 31st), we were nearly surrounded by ice, which closed in the ship on all sides, scarcely leaving her the sea-room in which she floated.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “surrounded” and “scarcely”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 17 reveal about the character or situation? “Soon after, when he was alone with me, he said, “I have, doubtless, excited your curiosity, as well as that of these good people; but you are too considerate to make enquiries.”” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “considerate” and “curiosity”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “We, however, lay to until the morning, fearing to encounter in the dark those large loose masses which float about after the breaking up of the ice.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “encounter” and “breaking”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 29 shapes its tone: “Having conquered the violence of his feelings, he appeared to despise himself for being the slave of passion; and quelling the dark tyranny of despair, he led me again to converse concerning myself personally.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 29) accurately and quotes “concerning” and “personally”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32) bears it out: By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson. But “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) complicates it, because here the text shows ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does the crew first see on the ice?

    A. A gigantic figure on a dog sled

    B. A lost ship

    C. A fire

    D. A polar bear

    Key: A (A gigantic figure on a dog sled)

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 2: “So strange an accident has happened to us, that I cannot forbear recording it, although it is very probable that you will see me before these papers can come into your _____.” Word bank: undiscovered, inquisitiveness, fragment, possession

    Key: possession

29. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. The words “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 7: “He was not, as the other traveller seemed to be, a savage inhabitant of some _____ island, but a European.” Word bank: concerning, undiscovered, lieutenant, occurrence

    Key: undiscovered

31. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Letter IV, paragraph 11? “When he had in some measure _____, I removed him to my own cabin, and attended on him as much as my duty would permit.”

    A. fragment

    B. recovered

    C. apparition

    D. especially

    Key: B (recovered)

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “But he is generally melancholy and despairing; and sometimes he gnashes his teeth, as if impatient of the weight of woes that oppresses him.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “melancholy” and

"despairing", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "When my guest was a little recovered, I had great trouble to keep off the men, who wished to ask him a thousand questions; but I would not allow him to be tormented by their idle curiosity, in a state of body and mind whose restoration…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes "restoration" and "curiosity", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

34. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Letter IV, paragraph 32: "You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the _____ of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been"

    Key: gratification

35. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He entered attentively into all my arguments in favour of my _____ success, and into every minute detail of the measures I had taken to secure it." Word bank: tutored, telescopes, capitulated, eventual

    Key: eventual

36. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: "When I appeared on deck, the master said, "Here is our captain, and he will not allow you to perish on the open sea."" Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes "appeared" and "captain", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 24 shapes its tone: "I shall continue my journal concerning the stranger at intervals, should I have any fresh incidents to record." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 24) accurately and quotes "concerning" and "incidents", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ""I agree with you," replied the stranger; "we are unfashioned creatures, but half made up, if one wiser, better, dearer than ourselves—such a friend ought to be—do not lend his aid to perfectionate our weak and faulty natures." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 30) accurately and quotes "perfectionate" and "unfashioned", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25)

    A. Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.

    B. (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.

    C. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

    D. Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.

    Key: B ((The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Letter IV, paragraph 32 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Such a man has a double existence: he may suffer misery, and be overwhelmed by disappointments; yet, when he has retired into himself, he will be like a celestial spirit, that has a halo around him, within whose circle no grief or folly…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Letter IV, paragraph 32) accurately and quotes “disappointments” and “overwhelmed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

41. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. The words “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting…” (Letter IV, paragraph 32) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

42. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. The words “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

43. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. The words “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

44. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3)

    A. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    B. Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance.

    C. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

    D. Revulsion at his labor.

    Key: B (Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance.)

45. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32)

    A. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

    B. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

    C. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    D. The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.

    Key: D (The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 8, 10, 19, 11, 6, 20, 21, 22, 23, 13, 24, 25, 15, 26	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	27, 9, 6, 28, 20, 5, 7, 23, 13, 22, 29, 14, 25, 24, 26, 16	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	1, 2, 17, 18, 30, 31, 11, 23, 22, 13, 14, 15, 24, 25, 32, 33	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	7, 2, 18, 4, 34, 35, 23, 22, 13, 36, 37, 24, 14, 32, 26, 38	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	11, 35, 7, 13, 22, 23, 39, 14, 25, 15, 24, 37, 38, 16, 32, 40	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	35, 11, 3, 12, 13, 23, 22, 24, 25, 15, 14, 36, 16, 33, 26, 40	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 1, 35, 13, 22, 25, 14, 24, 15, 36, 26, 16, 32, 40, 38, 33	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Junior	35, 7, 11, 13, 22, 15, 41, 36, 37, 14, 33, 42, 40, 43, 26, 38	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior

	35, 11, 44, 39, 37, 25, 36, 14, 24, 15, 40, 33, 32, 26, 38, 16	recall 2, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	9, 35, 11, 45, 15, 36, 25, 14, 37, 32, 42, 16, 38, 40, 26, 33	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 7

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Letter IV,” how does Shelley show the meeting of two ambitious men? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Letter IV, how does Shelley develop the idea of the meeting of two ambitious men? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Letter IV develops the idea of the meeting of two ambitious men. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Letter IV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of the meeting of two ambitious men. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Letter IV suggests about the meeting of two ambitious men. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Letter IV to complicate the reader's understanding of the meeting of two ambitious men. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Letter IV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the meeting of two ambitious men responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Letter IV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the meeting of two ambitious men follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Letter IV and its treatment of the meeting of two ambitious men. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Letter IV as evidence for a larger claim about the meeting of two ambitious men in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Letter IV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the meeting of two ambitious men. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. We watched the rapid progress of the traveller with our telescopes, until he was lost among the distant inequalities of the ice.

   As used in the text, what does the word “telescopes” most nearly mean?

   A. to flow in drops

   B. instruments that make distant objects look closer

   C. deeply distressing

   D. friendly and trying to win good will

2. About two o’clock the mist cleared away, and we beheld, stretched out in every direction, vast and irregular plains of ice, which seemed to have no end. Some of my comrades groaned, and my own mind began to grow watchful with anxious thoughts, when a strange sight suddenly attracted our attention, and diverted our solicitude from our own situation. We perceived a low carriage, fixed on a sledge and drawn by dogs, pass on towards the north, at the distance of half a mile: a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature, sat in the sledge, and guided the dogs. We watched the rapid progress of the traveller with our telescopes, until he was lost among the distant inequalities of the ice.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Letter IV”?

   A. A privileged childhood and family love

   B. Grief, prison and return

   C. Destroying the companion

   D. The meeting of two ambitious men

SAT key: 1. B (instruments that make distant objects look closer); 2. D (The meeting of two ambitious men)

Lesson 8: Chapter I

Focus: a privileged childhood and family love

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in “Chapter I” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (gender and ownership): Elizabeth is given to Victor as a “pretty present”; name the language of possession and discuss how the novel treats women as objects of exchange.
Student preview: This chapter describes a girl being 'given' to a boy as a present. We will look critically at that language.
Suggested language: “What does it tell us that Elizabeth is described as a gift? Whose point of view is that?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor describes his Genevese family: his father Alphonse, his mother Caroline (rescued from poverty), and Elizabeth Lavenza, the orphaned daughter of a Milanese nobleman, found living with poor peasants near Lake Como and adopted by his mother, whom his mother gives him as a 'present.' His childhood is loving and protected.

Background: Geneva was an independent republic known for Calvinism and civic pride; Rousseau, a Genevan, influenced ideas of education and nature.

Significance: Victor's ideal upbringing contrasts sharply with the creature's abandonment, raising the nature-versus-nurture question.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because.... Content note before we start: This chapter describes a girl being 'given' to a boy as a present. We will look critically at that language.
Prompt: How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: foldings — folds or hollows (here, in the hills); vagrants — homeless wanderers; decreasing — becoming smaller or less; chamois — a small, agile mountain goat; dungeons — dark underground prison cells. "decreasing": Origin of "decrease": Old French descreistre; earlier Latin decrescere.
Words: foldings: folds or hollows (here, in the hills) · vagrants: homeless wanderers · decreasing: becoming smaller or less · chamois: a small, agile mountain goat · dungeons: dark underground prison cells

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Geneva was an independent republic known for Calvinism and civic pride; Rousseau, a Genevan, influenced ideas of education and nature. Victor's ideal upbringing contrasts sharply with the creature's abandonment, raising the nature-versus-nurture question. Characterization: Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring. Irony: He says his parents felt they owed him duties as their child; he will owe the same duties and refuse them. Setting: Geneva, a republic and a respectable family, creates a picture of order. Watch for Elizabeth as gift: Elizabeth is introduced as a "pretty present"; she is treated as a possession, a point students can examine.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor introduces himself as a Genevan from one of the republic's most distinguished families. Next, craft. I notice the proud, formal first sentence, which leads with birth and status. The strongest word is "distinguished": it shows the privilege Victor was born into. Then, effect. How does Victor begin his story about himself? My answer: Victor's story begins with a secure, honored family; his fall is from great advantage, which makes his neglect of his own creation more shocking.

> I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor introduces himself as a Genevan from one of the republic's most distinguished families. Next, craft. I notice the proud, formal first sentence, which leads with birth and status. The strongest word is "distinguished": it shows the privilege Victor was born into. Then, effect. How does Victor begin his story about himself? My answer: Victor's story begins with a secure, honored family; his fall is from great advantage, which makes his neglect of his own creation more shocking.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Pretty present" makes Elizabeth an object given to Victor, and "mine" shows possessiveness. This links to responsibility: Victor receives care and possession but gives little. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. (Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.)

> I have a pretty present for my Victor (Chapter I, paragraph 11)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Pretty present" makes Elizabeth an object given to Victor, and "mine" shows possessiveness. This links to responsibility: Victor receives care and possession but gives little.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. (Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a privileged childhood and family love? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of a privileged childhood and family love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. When the text says “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11), it shows this directly. He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a privileged childhood and family love? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of a privileged childhood and family love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. When the text says “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11), it shows this directly. He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need? If students call Victor's childhood "perfect," ask what it taught him about being responsible for others.
Anchor question: How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need?
Facilitation: If students call Victor's childhood "perfect," ask what it taught him about being responsible for others.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a privileged childhood and family love? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. ("I have a pretty present for my Victor", Chapter I, paragraph 11). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a privileged childhood and family love? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. ("I have a pretty present for my Victor", Chapter I, paragraph 11). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes a privileged childhood and family love. Key takeaway: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring.
- Irony: He says his parents felt they owed him duties as their child; he will owe the same duties and refuse them.
- Setting: Geneva, a republic and a respectable family, creates a picture of order.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

Symbols and motifs

- Elizabeth as gift: Elizabeth is introduced as a "pretty present"; she is treated as a possession, a point students can examine.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic" (Chapter I, paragraph 1) Opens with pride in lineage and status.
- "I have a pretty present for my Victor" (Chapter I, paragraph 11) Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.
- "looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish" (Chapter I, paragraph 11) Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature.
Evidence: "I have a pretty present for my Victor" (Chapter I, paragraph 11)
Reasoning: He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
foldings (noun)	folds or hollows (here, in the hills)	During one of their walks a poor cot in the foldings of a vale attracted their notice, as being singularly disconsolate, while the number of half-clothed children gathered about it, spoke of penury in its worst shape.
vagrants (noun)	homeless wanderers	The four others were dark-eyed, hardy little vagrants; this child was thin, and very fair.
decreasing (verb)	becoming smaller or less	His daughter attended him with the greatest tenderness; but she saw with despair that their little fund was rapidly decreasing, and that there was no other prospect of support.	"decreasing": Origin of "decrease": Old French descreistre; earlier Latin decrescere. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/decrease#Etymology)
chamois (noun)	a small, agile mountain goat	When my father returned from Milan, he found playing with me in the hall of our villa, a child fairer than pictured cherub—a creature who seemed to shed radiance from her looks, and whose form and motions were lighter than the chamois of the hills.

dungeons (noun)	dark underground prison cells	Whether he had died, or still lingered in the dungeons of Austria, was not known.
rambles (noun)	an aimless amble on a winding course	I, their eldest child, was born at Naples, and as an infant accompanied them in their rambles.
interment (noun)	the ritual placing of a corpse in a grave	He came like a protecting spirit to the poor girl, who committed herself to his care; and after the interment of his friend, he conducted her to Geneva, and placed her under the protection of a relation.	“interment”: From Old French enterrement "burial," from enterrer "to put in the earth" (Latin terra "earth"). (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/interment)
pittance (noun)	an inadequate payment	She procured plain work; she plaited straw; and by various means contrived to earn a pittance scarcely sufficient to support life.
confiscated (verb)	seized by authority	His property was confiscated, his child became an orphan and a beggar.
deplored (verb)	express strong disapproval of	He bitterly deplored the false pride which led his friend to a conduct so little worthy of the affection that united them.	“deplored”: Origin of “deplore”: possibly Middle French déplorer; earlier Old French deplorer. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deplore#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where is Victor's family from? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Geneva

2. How does Elizabeth join the family? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: An orphaned nobleman's daughter raised by poor peasants, she is adopted by Victor's mother
3. How does Victor's mother describe Elizabeth to him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: As a pretty present for him
4. What kind of childhood does Victor have? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Loving and sheltered
5. Why is this childhood important to the novel? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: It contrasts with the creature's abandonment
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter I” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor describes his Genevese family: his father Alphonse, his mother Caroline (rescued from poverty), and Elizabeth Lavenza, the orphaned daughter of a Milanese nobleman, found living with poor peasants near Lake Como and adopted by his mother, whom his mother gives him as a 'present.' His childhood is loving and protected.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter I”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter I” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “During one of their walks a poor cot in the foldings of a vale attracted their notice, as being singularly disconsolate, while the number of half-clothed children gathered about it, spoke of penury in its worst shape.” What does “foldings” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: foldings: folds or hollows (here, in the hills).
10. Reread: “The four others were dark-eyed, hardy little vagrants; this child was thin, and very fair.” What does “vagrants” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: vagrants: homeless wanderers.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter I” suggest about a privileged childhood and family love? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor's ideal upbringing contrasts sharply with the creature's abandonment, raising the nature-versus-nurture question.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the setting in this chapter shape what we understand about a privileged childhood and family love? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Opens with pride in lineage and status. On setting: Geneva, a republic and a respectable family, creates a picture of order. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “His daughter attended him with the greatest tenderness; but she saw with despair that their little fund was rapidly decreasing, and that there was no other prospect of support.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter I”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor describes his Genevese family: his father Alphonse, his mother Caroline (rescued from poverty), and Elizabeth Lavenza, the orphaned daughter of a Milanese nobleman, found living with poor peasants near Lake Como and adopted by his mother, whom his mother gives him as a 'present.' His…
6. How does “Chapter I” build on “Letter IV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. On characterization: Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Victor's childhood compare with what a newly created being might need?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Opens with pride in lineage and status. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Geneva was an independent republic known for Calvinism and civic pride; Rousseau, a Genevan, influenced ideas of education and nature. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. On setting: Geneva, a republic and a respectable family, creates a picture of order. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor's ideal upbringing contrasts sharply with the creature's abandonment, raising the nature-versus-nurture question.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Opens with pride in lineage and status. On characterization: Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter I” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a privileged childhood and family love? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter I”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Opens with pride in lineage and status. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. On characterization: Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter I” treats a privileged childhood and family love with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter II” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1): Opens with pride in lineage and status. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a privileged childhood and family love? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Useful evidence: “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11): Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. Theme link: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Where is Victor's family from?

   A. London

   B. Geneva

   C. Naples

   D. Paris

   Key: B (Geneva)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How does Victor's mother describe Elizabeth to him?

   A. As his teacher

   B. As a pretty present for him

   C. As a dangerous stranger

   D. As a burden

   Key: B (As a pretty present for him)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “During one of their walks a poor cot in the foldings of a vale attracted their notice, as being singularly disconsolate, while the number of half-clothed children gathered about it, spoke of penury in its worst shape.”, what does “foldings” most nearly mean?

   A. longed for something strongly

   B. folds or hollows (here, in the hills)

   C. poorly educated; unable to read well

   D. ties or bonds that hold things together

Key: B (folds or hollows (here, in the hills))

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “When my father returned from Milan, he found playing with me in the hall of our villa, a child fairer than pictured cherub—a creature who seemed to shed radiance from her looks, and whose form and motions were lighter…”, what does “chamois” most nearly mean?

   A. not having form or shape

   B. struck again and again

   C. a small, agile mountain goat

   D. changed into a different substance

   Key: C (a small, agile mountain goat)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why is this childhood important to the novel?

   A. It introduces the North Pole

   B. It explains Walton's voyage

   C. It shows Victor's poverty

   D. It contrasts with the creature's abandonment

   Key: D (It contrasts with the creature's abandonment)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “She procured plain work; she plaited straw; and by various means contrived to earn a _____ scarcely sufficient to support life.” Word bank: pittance, vagrants, decreasing, foldings

   Key: pittance

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The four others were dark-eyed, hardy little vagrants; this child was thin, and very fair.”, what does “vagrants” most nearly mean?

   A. cunning; craftiness

   B. without paths; untraveled

   C. fill to satisfaction

   D. homeless wanderers

   Key: D (homeless wanderers)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What kind of childhood does Victor have?

   A. Spent at sea

   B. Cruel and poor

   C. Loving and sheltered

   D. Lonely and neglected

   Key: C (Loving and sheltered)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Whether he had died, or still lingered in the _____ of Austria, was not known.” Word bank: dungeons, decreasing, foldings, vagrants

   Key: dungeons

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “His daughter attended him with the greatest tenderness; but she saw with despair that their little fund was rapidly decreasing, and that there was no other prospect of support.”, what does “decreasing” most nearly mean?

    A. becoming smaller or less

    B. make unwilling

C. the state of being excommunicated

D. to predict; to be a sign of Key: A (becoming smaller or less)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How does Elizabeth join the family?

    A. An orphaned nobleman's daughter raised by poor peasants, she is adopted by Victor's mother

    B. She is Victor's sister by birth

    C. She is a cousin from England

    D. She is a servant

    Key: A (An orphaned nobleman's daughter raised by poor peasants, she is adopted by Victor's mother)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. The words “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter I”?

    A. Ambition and the hunger for discovery

    B. A privileged childhood and family love

    C. The first spark of obsession

    D. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

    Key: B (A privileged childhood and family love)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? Victor describes an idyllic, privileged childhood: devoted parents, a beloved adopted sister. He stresses that he was given every care, which makes his later neglect of his creation glaring.

    A. Theme

    B. Characterization

    C. Tone / mood

    D. Imagery

    Key: B (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. The words “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter I”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. The words “Chapter I” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I, their eldest child, was born at Naples, and as an infant accompanied them in their _____.” Word bank: foldings, decreasing, rambles, vagrants

    Key: rambles

18. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter I?

    A. “Perhaps during former years he had suffered from the late-discovered unworthiness of one beloved, and so was disposed to set a greater…”

    B. “There was a considerable difference between the ages of my parents, but this circumstance seemed to unite them only closer in bonds of…”

    C. “Everything was made to yield to her wishes and her convenience.”

    D. “There was a sense of justice in my father’s upright mind, which rendered it necessary that he should approve highly to love strongly.”

    Key: B (“There was a considerable difference between the ages of my parents, but this circumstance seemed to unite them only closer in bonds of…”)

19. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter I, paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “Her health, and even the tranquillity of her hitherto constant spirit, had been shaken by what she had gone through.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter I, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “tranquillity” and “hitherto”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter I”? He says his parents felt they owed him duties as their child; he will owe the same duties and refuse them.

    A. Irony

    B. Plot

    C. Symbolism

    D. Simile

    Key: A (Irony)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

    A. Creation and responsibility

    B. Isolation and the need for companionship

    C. The costs of unchecked ambition

    D. Nature versus nurture

    Key: A (Creation and responsibility)

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 1: “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most _____ of that republic”

    Key: distinguished

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 3: “Beaufort had taken effectual measures to conceal himself; and it was ten months before my father _____ his abode.” Word bank: discovered, pleasurable, welcomed, unworthiness

    Key: discovered

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter I, paragraph 6? “Perhaps during former years he had suffered from the late-discovered _____ of one beloved, and so was disposed to set a greater value on tried worth.”

    A. discovered

    B. unworthiness

    C. considerable

    D. pleasurable

    Key: B (unworthiness)

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 11: “I have a pretty _____ for my Victor”

    Key: present

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11).

    Sample answer: He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure. The words “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter I, paragraph 3 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The interval was, consequently, spent in inaction; his grief only became more deep and rankling, when he had leisure for reflection; and at length it took so fast hold of his mind, that at the end of three months he lay on a bed of…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter I, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “consequently” and “reflection”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. The words “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter I, paragraph 11: “looked upon _____ as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish”

    Key: Elizabeth

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's loving upbringing sets the standard of care he later denies his creature.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) bears it out: He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure. But “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) complicates it, because here the text shows possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

31. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1)

    A. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

    B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

    C. Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.

    D. Opens with pride in lineage and status.

    Key: D (Opens with pride in lineage and status.)

32. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11)

    A. Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

    B. Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.

    C. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    D. Benevolence repaid with treachery.

    Key: A (Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.)

33. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opens with pride in lineage and status. The words “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11)

    A. Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.

    B. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    D. Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.

    Key: D (Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.)

35. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He came like a protecting spirit to the poor girl, who committed herself to his care; and after the _____ of his friend, he conducted her to Geneva, and placed her under the protection of a relation." Word bank: decreasing, interment, vagrants, foldings

Key: interment

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	6, 9, 3, 2, 17, 1, 5, 8, 12, 18, 13, 19, 14, 20, 21, 16	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 3, 6, 22, 23, 24, 1, 25, 18, 19, 13, 21, 15, 26, 27, 16	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	23, 7, 5, 4, 17, 1, 25, 19, 18, 13, 20, 21, 15, 14, 28, 16	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	9, 17, 2, 10, 29, 8, 19, 13, 18, 21, 14, 15, 26, 27, 16, 30	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	9, 17, 5, 24, 13, 31, 32, 19, 18, 14, 21, 20, 16, 27, 28, 30	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 4
College Freshman	9, 6, 24, 8, 33, 19, 13, 18, 15, 20, 14, 21, 30, 28, 27, 16	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 5, 2, 4, 6, 18, 13, 19, 14, 20, 15, 21, 28, 30, 16, 27	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	29, 7, 25, 23, 13, 19, 31, 34, 18, 20, 14, 15, 21, 30, 16, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
College Senior	35, 5, 23, 10, 4, 18, 19, 13, 26, 21, 20, 14, 15, 30, 27, 16	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 3
Graduate / PhD	9, 17, 4, 8, 18, 13, 31, 19, 32, 14, 20, 21, 26, 16, 30, 27	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter I," how does Shelley show a privileged childhood and family love? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter I, how does Shelley develop the idea of a privileged childhood and family love? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter I develops the idea of a privileged childhood and family love. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter I (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of a privileged childhood and family love. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter I suggests about a privileged childhood and family love. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses characterization in Chapter I to complicate the reader's understanding of a privileged childhood and family love. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter I within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a privileged childhood and family love responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter I alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a privileged childhood and family love follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter I and its treatment of a privileged childhood and family love. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter I as evidence for a larger claim about a privileged childhood and family love in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter I as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a privileged childhood and family love. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. His daughter attended him with the greatest tenderness; but she saw with despair that their little fund was rapidly decreasing, and that there was no other prospect of support.

   As used in the text, what does the word “decreasing” most nearly mean?

   A. becoming smaller or less

   B. seized by authority

   C. an inadequate payment

   D. express strong disapproval of

2. His daughter attended him with the greatest tenderness; but she saw with despair that their little fund was rapidly decreasing, and that there was no other prospect of support. But Caroline Beaufort possessed a mind of an uncommon mould; and her courage rose to support her in her adversity. She procured plain work; she plaited straw; and by various means contrived to earn a pittance scarcely sufficient to support life.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter I"?

A. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

B. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

C. The wedding night and its catastrophe

D. A privileged childhood and family love

SAT key: 1. A (becoming smaller or less); 2. D (A privileged childhood and family love)

Lesson 9: Chapter II

Focus: the first spark of obsession

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter II” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor recalls his friend Henry Clerval and his own early fascination with the alchemists Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus and Albertus Magnus. A lightning strike that destroys an oak tree introduces him to electricity, and he briefly turns to mathematics before 'destiny' pulls him back.

Background: Agrippa and Paracelsus were Renaissance figures who mixed early science with magic. Lightning and electricity fascinated Enlightenment scientists like Benjamin Franklin.

Significance: Victor frames his life as fated, shifting responsibility away from his choices—a key point for discussion.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because....
Prompt: Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: ligaments — ties or bonds that hold things together; disunion — disagreement; being divided; preceptors — teachers; dissect — to cut apart in order to examine closely; unveiled — remove the veil from. “ligaments”: Origin of “ligament”: Latin ligāmentum. “disunion”: Origin: Middle French désunion. “dissect”: Origin: Latin dissectus. “unveiled”: Origin: an English formation from un- + veil + -ed.
Words: ligaments: ties or bonds that hold things together · disunion: disagreement; being divided · preceptors: teachers · dissect: to cut apart in order to examine closely · unveiled: remove the veil from

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Agrippa and Paracelsus were Renaissance figures who mixed early science with magic. Lightning and electricity fascinated Enlightenment scientists like Benjamin Franklin. Victor frames his life as fated, shifting responsibility away from his choices—a key point for discussion. Foreshadowing: Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin. Characterization: Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why. Diction / vocabulary: Words like "divine," "secrets" and "fate" make science sound like a religion. Watch for the blasted oak: the tree destroyed by lightning foreshadows Victor's destruction by the power he studies.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says the world was a secret he wanted to uncover. Next, craft. I notice the world described as a hidden puzzle, and the verb "divine," which suggests almost magical insight. The strongest word is "secret": it shows he sees nature as something to be forced to reveal itself. Then, effect. What does Victor's view of the world reveal about his curiosity? My answer: Victor's view of the world reveals that his curiosity is a hunger to uncover nature's secrets; this drive, already present in childhood, will lead him to create life.

> The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine (Chapter II, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says the world was a secret he wanted to uncover. Next, craft. I notice the world described as a hidden puzzle, and the verb "divine," which suggests almost magical insight. The strongest word is "secret": it shows he sees nature as something to be forced to reveal itself. Then, effect. What does Victor's view of the world reveal about his curiosity? My answer: Victor's view of the world reveals that his curiosity is a hunger to uncover nature's secrets; this drive, already present in childhood, will lead him to create life.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Sad trash" dismisses without teaching. Victor blames this moment, which shows he looks for causes outside himself and connects to the theme of responsibility. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: The desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. (Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.)

> My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash (Chapter II, paragraph 7)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Sad trash" dismisses without teaching. Victor blames this moment, which shows he looks for causes outside himself and connects to the theme of responsibility.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: The desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. (Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for foreshadowing, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first spark of obsession? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of the first spark of obsession. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. When the text says “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.
Task: Annotate the chapter for foreshadowing, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first spark of obsession? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of the first spark of obsession. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. When the text says “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7), it shows this directly. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose? Ask: how much of Victor's fate is chosen? Have students list choices he makes in this chapter.
Anchor question: Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose?
Facilitation: Ask: how much of Victor's fate is chosen? Have students list choices he makes in this chapter.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first spark of obsession? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. ("Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate", Chapter II, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first spark of obsession? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. ("Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate", Chapter II, paragraph 7). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how foreshadowing shapes the first spark of obsession. Key takeaway: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Foreshadowing: Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin.
- Characterization: Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why.
- Diction / vocabulary: Words like "divine," "secrets" and "fate" make science sound like a religion.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

Symbols and motifs

- the blasted oak: the tree destroyed by lightning foreshadows Victor's destruction by the power he studies.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine" (Chapter II, paragraph 1) "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power.
- "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.
- "Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices.
Evidence: "Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate" (Chapter II, paragraph 7)
Reasoning: Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
ligaments (noun)	ties or bonds that hold things together	Thus strangely are our souls constructed, and by such slight ligaments are we bound to prosperity or ruin.	"ligaments": Origin of "ligament": Latin ligāmentum. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ligament#Etymology)
disunion (noun)	disagreement; being divided	I need not say that we were strangers to any species of disunion or dispute.	"disunion": Origin: Middle French désunion. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disunion#Etymology)
preceptors (noun)	teachers	Under the guidance of my new preceptors, I entered with the greatest diligence into the search of the philosopher's stone and the elixir of life; but the latter soon obtained my undivided attention.
dissect (verb)	to cut apart in order to examine closely	He might dissect, anatomise, and give names; but, not to speak of a final cause, causes in their secondary and tertiary grades were utterly unknown to him.	"dissect": Origin: Latin dissectus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dissect#Etymology)
unveiled (verb)	remove the veil from	He had partially unveiled the face of Nature, but her immortal lineaments were still a wonder and a mystery.	"unveiled": Origin: an English formation from un- + veil + -ed. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unveiled#Etymology)

invulnerable (adjective)	immune to attack; impregnable	Wealth was an inferior object; but what glory would attend the discovery, if I could banish disease from the human frame, and render man invulnerable to any but a violent death!	"invulnerable": Origin: Middle French invulnérable; earlier Latin invulnerābilis. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/invulnerable#Etymology)
splintered (verb)	broken into sharp pieces	It was not splintered by the shock, but entirely reduced to thin ribbons of wood.	"splintered": Origin of "splinter": Middle Dutch splinter. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/splinter#Etymology)
predilection (noun)	a predisposition in favor of something	Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate; I desire, therefore, in this narration, to state those facts which led to my predilection for that science.
disinclined (verb)	make unwilling	All that he said threw greatly into the shade Cornelius Agrippa, Albertus Magnus, and Paracelsus, the lords of my imagination; but by some fatality the overthrow of these men disinclined me to pursue my accustomed studies.
unfolded (verb)	explained; revealed	Curiosity, earnest research to learn the hidden laws of nature, gladness akin to rapture, as they were unfolded to me, are among the earliest sensations I can remember.	"unfolded": Origin of "unfold": an English formation from un- + fold. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unfold#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Which author first fascinates Victor? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Cornelius Agrippa
2. What does Victor's father call Agrippa's work? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Sad trash
3. What event introduces Victor to electricity? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Lightning destroying an oak tree
4. Who is Victor's closest childhood friend? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Henry Clerval
5. What does Victor say governed his life? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Destiny
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter II" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor recalls his friend Henry Clerval and his own early fascination with the alchemists Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus and Albertus Magnus. A lightning strike that destroys an oak tree introduces him to electricity, and he briefly turns to mathematics before 'destiny' pulls him back.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter II"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter II" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Thus strangely are our souls constructed, and by such slight ligaments are we bound to prosperity or ruin." What does "ligaments" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: ligaments: ties or bonds that hold things together.
10. Reread: "I need not say that we were strangers to any species of disunion or dispute." What does "disunion" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: disunion: disagreement; being divided.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter II" suggest about the first spark of obsession? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor frames his life as fated, shifting responsibility away from his choices—a key point for discussion.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the first spark of obsession? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: "The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine" (Chapter II, paragraph 1): "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. On characterization: Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “The untaught peasant beheld the elements around him, and was acquainted with their practical uses.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter II”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor recalls his friend Henry Clerval and his own early fascination with the alchemists Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus and Albertus Magnus. A lightning strike that destroys an oak tree introduces him to electricity, and he briefly turns to mathematics before 'destiny' pulls him back.
6. How does “Chapter II” build on “Chapter I”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. On characterization: Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Victor blames 'destiny' for his fate. Do you agree, or did he choose?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does symbolism appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Agrippa and Paracelsus were Renaissance figures who mixed early science with magic. Lightning and electricity fascinated Enlightenment scientists like Benjamin Franklin. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1,

RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor frames his life as fated, shifting responsibility away from his choices—a key point for discussion.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. On characterization: Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter II” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the first spark of obsession? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter II”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate”

(Chapter II, paragraph 7): Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. On foreshadowing: Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter II” treats the first spark of obsession with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter III” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1): "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. On foreshadowing: Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the first spark of obsession? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Useful evidence: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7): Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. Theme link: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Symbolism: objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 7: “Natural _____ is the genius that has regulated my fate”

   Key: philosophy

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Who is Victor's closest childhood friend?

   A. Henry Clerval

   B. M. Krempe

   C. Felix De Lacey

   D. Robert Walton

   Key: A (Henry Clerval)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “He might dissect, anatomise, and give names; but, not to speak of a final cause, causes in their secondary and tertiary grades were utterly unknown to him.”, what does “dissect” most nearly mean?

   A. a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse

   B. turning aside; straying

   C. to cut apart in order to examine closely

   D. healthy; good for the body

   Key: C (to cut apart in order to examine closely)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate; I desire, therefore, in this narration, to state those facts which led to my _____ for that science." Word bank: ligaments, predilection, preceptors, disunion

   Key: predilection

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He had partially _____ the face of Nature, but her immortal lineaments were still a wonder and a mystery." Word bank: disunion, ligaments, preceptors, unveiled

   Key: unveiled

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 7: "My dear _____, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash"

   Key: Victor

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What event introduces Victor to electricity?

   A. A storm at sea
   B. A fire in the house
   C. A shock from a machine
   D. Lightning destroying an oak tree

   Key: D (Lightning destroying an oak tree)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor's father call Agrippa's work?

   A. Sad trash
   B. A great adventure
   C. Brilliant science
   D. Holy truth

   Key: A (Sad trash)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I need not say that we were strangers to any species of disunion or dispute.", what does "disunion" most nearly mean?

   A. disagreement; being divided
   B. a trait of dignified seriousness
   C. dark underground prison cells
   D. used on the high seas

   Key: A (disagreement; being divided)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Thus strangely are our souls constructed, and by such slight ligaments are we bound to prosperity or ruin.", what does "ligaments" most nearly mean?

    A. win approval or support for
    B. ties or bonds that hold things together
    C. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief
    D. to call down (curses) on

    Key: B (ties or bonds that hold things together)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Wealth was an inferior object; but what glory would attend the discovery, if I could banish disease from the human frame, and render man _____ to any but a violent death!" Word bank: preceptors, invulnerable, disunion, ligaments

Key: invulnerable

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter II"?

    A. The demand for a companion

    B. The first spark of obsession

    C. Horror at the moment of creation

    D. The meeting of two ambitious men

    Key: B (The first spark of obsession)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. The words "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter II"? Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin.

    A. Foreshadowing

    B. Tone / mood

    C. Setting

    D. Alliteration

    Key: A (Foreshadowing)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter II"? Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why.

    A. Hyperbole

    B. Allusion

    C. Characterization

    D. Alliteration

    Key: C (Characterization)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: "Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices." Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, "Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) bears it out: Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will. But "The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine" (Chapter II, paragraph 1) complicates it, because here the text shows "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Under the guidance of my new preceptors, I entered with the greatest diligence into the search of the philosopher's stone and the elixir of life; but the latter soon obtained my undivided attention.", what does "preceptors" most nearly mean?

    A. teachers

    B. strained by asking too much of

C. in an unjust manner

D. argue in protest or opposition

Key: A (teachers)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Which author first fascinates Victor?

A. Shakespeare

B. Cornelius Agrippa

C. Isaac Newton

D. Homer

Key: B (Cornelius Agrippa)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It was not _____ by the shock, but entirely reduced to thin ribbons of wood.” Word bank: preceptors, ligaments, splintered, disunion

Key: splintered

20. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. The words “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter II”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: The desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. The words “Chapter II” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter II, paragraph 16? “It was a strong effort of the spirit of good; but it was _____.”

A. ineffectual

B. childhood

C. schoolfellows

D. Elizabeth

Key: A (ineffectual)

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 3: “We felt that they were not the tyrants to rule our lot _____ to their caprice, but the agents and creators of all the many delights which we enjoyed.” Word bank: possible, according, Elizabeth, gentleness

Key: according

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter II, paragraph 2? “He was a boy of _____ talent and fancy.”

A. chivalry

B. considerable

C. Elizabeth

D. singular

Key: D (singular)

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 8 reveal about the character or situation? “But the cursory glance my father had taken of my volume by no means assured me that he was acquainted with its contents; and I continued to read with the greatest avidity.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “acquainted” and “continued”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “He composed heroic songs, and began to write many a tale of enchantment and knightly adventure.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “enchantment” and “adventure”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “The raising of ghosts or devils was a promise liberally accorded by my favourite authors, the fulfilment of which I most eagerly sought; and if my incantations were always unsuccessful, I attributed the failure rather to my own…” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “incantations” and “inexperience”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 4 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “It was the secrets of heaven and earth that I desired to learn; and whether it was the outward substance of things, or the inner spirit of nature and the mysterious soul of man that occupied me, still my enquiries were directed to the…” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “metaphysical” and “mysterious”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter II, paragraph 2: “On the birth of a second son, my junior by seven years, my parents gave up entirely their wandering life, and fixed _____ in their native country.” Word bank: themselves, singular, according, described
    Key: themselves

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 3 shapes its tone: “My parents were possessed by the very spirit of kindness and indulgence.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “indulgence” and “possessed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

31. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “Henry Clerval was the son of a merchant of Geneva.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “merchant” and “Clerval”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

32. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 9 shapes its tone: “In spite of the intense labour and wonderful discoveries of modern philosophers, I always came from my studies discontented and unsatisfied.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 9) accurately and quotes “philosophers” and “discontented”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. The words “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. The words “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

35. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7).

    Sample answer: Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will. The words “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter II, paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The busy stage of life, the virtues of heroes, and the actions of men, were his theme; and his hope and his dream was to become one among those whose names are recorded in story, as the gallant and adventurous benefactors of our species.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter II, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “benefactors” and “adventurous”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

37. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter II, paragraph 5? “The saintly soul of _____ shone like a shrine-dedicated lamp in our peaceful home.”

    A. possible

    B. Meanwhile

    C. unexplored

    D. Elizabeth

    Key: D (Elizabeth)

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7)

    A. A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.

    B. Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility.

    C. A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science.

    D. The wish to belong.

    Key: B (Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility.)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1)

    A. "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power.

    B. Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge.

    C. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.

    D. "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.

    Key: A ("Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power.)

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7)

    A. Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.

    B. Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.

    C. Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.

    D. The creature reverses the master-slave relationship.

    Key: A (Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.)

41. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. The words “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 8, 1, 18, 6, 9, 3, 10, 5, 19, 20, 12, 13, 14, 15, 21	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	11, 8, 2, 22, 4, 23, 17, 24, 12, 25, 26, 27, 14, 15, 21, 28	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	2, 1, 10, 3, 29, 19, 4, 25, 12, 26, 15, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	29, 22, 8, 19, 2, 26, 12, 25, 13, 32, 27, 14, 35, 36, 21, 28	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 37, 19, 38, 26, 13, 12, 15, 32, 30, 27, 14, 21, 16, 36, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	5, 11, 9, 12, 25, 26, 38, 27, 30, 14, 15, 32, 21, 16, 28, 36	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 3, 11, 25, 12, 39, 32, 30, 14, 31, 27, 36, 21, 28, 33, 16	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	5, 6, 40, 25, 12, 14, 27, 41, 30, 31, 32, 15, 21, 28, 36, 16	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 4
College Senior	5, 11, 12, 40, 25, 32, 31, 27, 14, 30, 15, 41, 16, 21, 36, 28	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	23, 5, 38, 12, 39, 25, 30, 27, 31, 32, 15, 14, 36, 28, 21, 16	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 6, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter II,” how does Shelley show the first spark of obsession? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter II, how does Shelley develop the idea of the first spark of obsession? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter II develops the idea of the first spark of obsession. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter II (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of the first spark of obsession. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter II suggests about the first spark of obsession. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter II to complicate the reader's understanding of the first spark of obsession. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter II within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the first spark of obsession responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter II alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the first spark of obsession follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter II and its treatment of the first spark of obsession. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter II as evidence for a larger claim about the first spark of obsession in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter II as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the first spark of obsession. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Under the guidance of my new preceptors, I entered with the greatest diligence into the search of the philosopher's stone and the elixir of life; but the latter soon obtained my undivided attention.

   As used in the text, what does the word "preceptors" most nearly mean?

   A. a predisposition in favor of something

   B. teachers

C. make unwilling

D. explained; revealed

2. The untaught peasant beheld the elements around him, and was acquainted with their practical uses. The most learned philosopher knew little more. He had partially unveiled the face of Nature, but her immortal lineaments were still a wonder and a mystery. He might dissect, anatomise, and give names; but, not to speak of a final cause, causes in their secondary and tertiary grades were utterly unknown to him. I had gazed upon the fortifications and impediments that seemed to keep human beings from entering the citadel of nature, and rashly and ignorantly I had repined.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter II"?

A. First experiences of the senses

B. Delay and dread

C. Isolation in the north

D. The first spark of obsession

SAT key: 1. B (teachers); 2. D (The first spark of obsession)

Lesson 10: Chapter III

Focus: loss and leaving home

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter III” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor's mother dies of scarlet fever caught while nursing Elizabeth, and on her deathbed asks Victor and Elizabeth to marry. Victor leaves for the University of Ingolstadt, where M. Krempe scorns his alchemists and M. Waldman inspires him with modern chemistry.

Background: Ingolstadt (Bavaria) had a real university and was associated with the Illuminati, a secret society. Chemistry was rapidly changing in this era.

Significance: Grief and ambition merge; Waldman's speech about scientists who 'penetrate into the recesses of nature' ignites Victor's resolve.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because....
Prompt: How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: prepossess — to make someone feel favorably in advance; crucible — a heat-resistant container used for melting substances; fatiguing — tiring; chimeras — wild, impossible dreams or fantasies; transmuted — changed into a different substance. “prepossess”: pre- "before" + possess: first "to occupy beforehand," later "to fill someone beforehand with a (favorable) feeling." “crucible”: Origin: possibly Latin crucibulum (“night-lamp”). “transmuted”: Origin of “transmute”: Latin trānsmūtāre.
Words: prepossess: to make someone feel favorably in advance · crucible: a heat-resistant container used for melting substances · fatiguing: tiring · chimeras: wild, impossible dreams or fantasies · transmuted: changed into a different substance

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Ingolstadt (Bavaria) had a real university and was associated with the Illuminati, a secret society. Chemistry was rapidly changing in this era. Grief and ambition merge; Waldman's speech about scientists who 'penetrate into the recesses of nature' ignites Victor's resolve. Structure: The chapter turns on two losses: his mother's death and his departure for Ingolstadt. The mother's death is called "an omen." Characterization: Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him. Diction / vocabulary: The rhetoric of "pioneer," "unknown powers," "deepest mysteries of creation" shows Victor's ambition in his own voice. Watch for the mother's death: she dies nursing Elizabeth, an act of care; her loss leaves Victor to replace death with creation.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "the first misfortune of my life occurred" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says the first misfortune of his life came when his mother died. Next, craft. I notice the phrase "first," which signals more misfortune to come. The strongest word is "misfortune": it understates a terrible loss, as if he is used to grief. Then, effect. Why does Victor call his mother's death his "first misfortune"? My answer: His mother's death leads him toward the idea of conquering death; the loss pushes him into science.

> the first misfortune of my life occurred (Chapter III, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "the first misfortune of my life occurred" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says the first misfortune of his life came when his mother died. Next, craft. I notice the phrase "first," which signals more misfortune to come. The strongest word is "misfortune": it understates a terrible loss, as if he is used to grief. Then, effect. Why does Victor call his mother's death his "first misfortune"? My answer: His mother's death leads him toward the idea of conquering death; the loss pushes him into science.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Repeating "more" shows escalating ambition; "pioneer" makes him a hero in his own story. This connects to ambition and the hunger to surpass every limit. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. (The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.)

> more, far more, will I achieve (Chapter III, paragraph 17)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Repeating "more" shows escalating ambition; "pioneer" makes him a hero in his own story. This connects to ambition and the hunger to surpass every limit.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. (The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about loss and leaving home? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of loss and leaving home. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. When the text says “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.
Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about loss and leaving home? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of loss and leaving home. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. When the text says “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17), it shows this directly. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death? Some readers connect the mother's death with the decision to create life. Ask students whether the text supports that link.
Anchor question: How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death?
Facilitation: Some readers connect the mother's death with the decision to create life. Ask students whether the text supports that link.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about loss and leaving home? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. (“more, far more, will I achieve”, Chapter III, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about loss and leaving home? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. (“more, far more, will I achieve”, Chapter III, paragraph 17). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how structure shapes loss and leaving home. Key takeaway: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: The chapter turns on two losses: his mother's death and his departure for Ingolstadt. The mother's death is called "an omen."
- Characterization: Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him.
- Diction / vocabulary: The rhetoric of "pioneer," "unknown powers," "deepest mysteries of creation" shows Victor's ambition in his own voice.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

Symbols and motifs

- the mother's death: she dies nursing Elizabeth, an act of care; her loss leaves Victor to replace death with creation.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.
- “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.
- “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17) The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself.
Evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17)
Reasoning: Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word		In context	Word history

	Definition (in this sentence)
prepossess (verb)	to make someone feel favorably in advance	Krempe was a little squat man, with a gruff voice and a repulsive countenance; the teacher, therefore, did not prepossess me in favour of his pursuits.	"prepossess": pre- "before" + possess: first "to occupy beforehand," later "to fill someone beforehand with a (favorable) feeling." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/prepossess)
crucible (noun)	a heat-resistant container used for melting substances	But these philosophers, whose hands seem only made to dabble in dirt, and their eyes to pore over the microscope or crucible, have indeed performed miracles.	"crucible": Origin: possibly Latin crucibulum ("night-lamp"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/crucible#Etymology)
fatiguing (adjective)	tiring	I had sufficient leisure for these and many other reflections during my journey to Ingolstadt, which was long and fatiguing.
chimeras (noun)	wild, impossible dreams or fantasies	I was required to exchange chimeras of boundless grandeur for realities of little worth.
transmuted (verb)	changed into a different substance	The modern masters promise very little; they know that metals cannot be transmuted, and that the elixir of life is a chimera.	"transmuted": Origin of "transmute": Latin trānsmūtāre. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/transmute#Etymology)
panegyric (noun)	a speech or piece of writing full of praise	After having made a few preparatory experiments, he concluded with a panegyric upon modern chemistry, the terms of which I shall never forget:—	"panegyric": Origin: French panégyrique. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/panegyric#Etymology)
insurrection (noun)	organized opposition to authority; a conflict in which one faction tries to wrest control from another	My internal being was in a state of insurrection and turmoil; I felt that order would thence arise, but I had no power to produce it.
commences (verb)	take the first step or steps in carrying out an action	These are the reflections of the first days; but when the lapse of time proves the reality of the evil, then the actual bitterness of grief commences.	"commences": Origin of "commence": Anglo-Norman comencer. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/commence#Etymology)

imbibed (verb)	take in, also metaphorically	Good God! in what desert land have you lived, where no one was kind enough to inform you that these fancies, which you have so greedily imbibed, are a thousand years old, and as musty as they are ancient?
sickened (verb)	became ill	On the third day my mother sickened; her fever was accompanied by the most alarming symptoms, and the looks of her medical attendants prognosticated the worst event.

Discussion questions

1. How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. How does Victor's mother die? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Scarlet fever caught nursing Elizabeth
2. What is her dying wish? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: That Victor and Elizabeth marry
3. Where does Victor go to university? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Ingolstadt
4. Which professor inspires Victor? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: M. Waldman
5. How does M. Krempe react to Victor's reading? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He scorns it as outdated nonsense
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter III" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor's mother dies of scarlet fever caught while nursing Elizabeth, and on her deathbed asks Victor and Elizabeth to marry. Victor leaves for the University of Ingolstadt, where M. Krempe scorns his alchemists and M. Waldman inspires him with modern chemistry.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter III”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter III” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “Krempe was a little squat man, with a gruff voice and a repulsive countenance; the teacher, therefore, did not prepossess me in favour of his pursuits.” What does “prepossess” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: prepossess: to make someone feel favorably in advance.
10. Reread: “But these philosophers, whose hands seem only made to dabble in dirt, and their eyes to pore over the microscope or crucible, have indeed performed miracles.” What does “crucible” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: crucible: a heat-resistant container used for melting substances.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter III” suggest about loss and leaving home? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Grief and ambition merge; Waldman's speech about scientists who 'penetrate into the recesses of nature' ignites Victor's resolve.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about loss and leaving home? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1): Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. On characterization: Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “I had sufficient leisure for these and many other reflections during my journey to Ingolstadt, which was long and fatiguing.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter III”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor's mother dies of scarlet fever caught while nursing Elizabeth, and on her deathbed asks Victor and Elizabeth to marry. Victor leaves for the University of Ingolstadt, where M. Krempe scorns his alchemists and M. Waldman inspires him with modern chemistry.
6. How does “Chapter III” build on “Chapter II”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16): Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. On structure: The chapter turns on two losses: his mother's death and his departure for Ingolstadt. The mother's death is called "an omen." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17): The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. On characterization: Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “How might his mother's death affect Victor's desire to conquer death?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1): Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Ingolstadt (Bavaria) had a real university and was associated with the Illuminati, a secret society. Chemistry was rapidly changing in this era. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16): Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Grief and ambition merge; Waldman's speech about scientists who 'penetrate into the recesses of nature' ignites Victor's resolve.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17): The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1): Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. On characterization: Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter III” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about loss and leaving home? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16): Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter III”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17): The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1): Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16): Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter III” treats loss and leaving home with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17): The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter IV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1): Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about loss and leaving home? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16): Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Useful evidence: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17): The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. Theme link: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “My internal being was in a state of _____ and turmoil; I felt that order would thence arise, but I had no power to produce it.” Word bank: insurrection, prepossess, crucible, fatiguing

   Key: insurrection

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Where does Victor go to university?

   A. Paris

   B. Geneva

   C. Oxford

   D. Ingolstadt

   Key: D (Ingolstadt)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How does Victor's mother die?

   A. Old age

   B. A carriage accident

   C. Scarlet fever caught nursing Elizabeth

   D. Drowning

   Key: C (Scarlet fever caught nursing Elizabeth)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I was required to exchange chimeras of boundless grandeur for realities of little worth.”, what does “chimeras” most nearly mean?

   A. uselessness as a consequence of having no practical result

   B. instruments that make distant objects look closer

   C. becoming smaller or less

   D. wild, impossible dreams or fantasies

   Key: D (wild, impossible dreams or fantasies)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “After having made a few preparatory experiments, he concluded with a _____ upon modern chemistry, the terms of which I shall never forget:—” Word bank: panegyric, crucible, fatiguing, prepossess

   Key: panegyric

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How does M. Krempe react to Victor's reading?

   A. He praises it

   B. He gives Victor more alchemy books

   C. He scorns it as outdated nonsense

   D. He expels Victor

   Key: C (He scorns it as outdated nonsense)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 17: “more, far more, will I _____”

   Key: achieve

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Which professor inspires Victor?

   A. Dr. Darwin

   B. M. Krempe

C. M. Clerval

D. M. Waldman

Key: D (M. Waldman)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “But these philosophers, whose hands seem only made to dabble in dirt, and their eyes to pore over the microscope or crucible, have indeed performed miracles.”, what does “crucible” most nearly mean?

   A. a predisposition in favor of something

   B. gave in; agreed to terms (here, bargained for his safety)

   C. a heat-resistant container used for melting substances

   D. thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold

   Key: C (a heat-resistant container used for melting substances)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “These are the reflections of the first days; but when the lapse of time proves the reality of the evil, then the actual bitterness of grief _____.” Word bank: fatiguing, commences, crucible, prepossess

    Key: commences

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 1: “the first _____ of my life occurred”

    Key: misfortune

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter III”?

    A. Despair and the sublime

    B. The final reckoning

    C. Rejection and the turn to revenge

    D. Loss and leaving home

    Key: D (Loss and leaving home)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. The words “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter III”? Professors Krempe and Waldman pull him in opposite directions; Waldman's flattering vision of modern science wins him.

    A. Metaphor

    B. Allusion

    C. Characterization

    D. Tone / mood

    Key: C (Characterization)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter III”? The chapter turns on two losses: his mother's death and his departure for Ingolstadt. The mother's death is called "an omen."

    A. Imagery

B. Alliteration

C. Hyperbole

D. Structure

Key: D (Structure)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17) bears it out: Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss. But “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) complicates it, because here the text shows narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I had sufficient leisure for these and many other reflections during my journey to Ingolstadt, which was long and fatiguing.”, what does “fatiguing” most nearly mean?

    A. starting again

    B. tiring

    C. transmit information

    D. cold, damp harshness

    Key: B (tiring)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 10: “Chance—or rather the evil influence, the Angel of _____, which asserted omnipotent sway over me from the moment I turned my reluctant steps from my father’s door—led me first to Mr.” Word bank: Destruction, sacrilege, endeavouring, reflections

    Key: Destruction

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Krempe was a little squat man, with a gruff voice and a repulsive countenance; the teacher, therefore, did not prepossess me in favour of his pursuits.”, what does “prepossess” most nearly mean?

    A. degrading; lowering in dignity

    B. to make someone feel favorably in advance

    C. make lighter or brighter

    D. jailers (British spelling)

    Key: B (to make someone feel favorably in advance)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 6: “His father was a narrow-minded trader, and saw idleness and ruin in the _____ and ambition of his son.” Word bank: countenances, aspirations, enchanting, endeavouring

    Key: aspirations

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What is her dying wish?

    A. That Victor stay home

    B. That Victor become a priest

    C. That the family move

D. That Victor and Elizabeth marry

Key: D (That Victor and Elizabeth marry)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 12 reveal about the character or situation? “Waldman, a fellow-professor, would lecture upon chemistry the alternate days that he omitted.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “chemistry” and “professor”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 4 reveal about the character or situation? “I obtained from my father a respite of some weeks.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “obtained” and “respite”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 19 shapes its tone: “Chemistry is that branch of natural philosophy in which the greatest improvements have been and may be made: it is on that account that I have made it my peculiar study; but at the same time I have not neglected the other branches of…” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes “improvements” and “philosophy”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 8 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “I threw myself into the chaise that was to convey me away, and indulged in the most melancholy reflections.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “reflections” and “melancholy”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter III, paragraph 8? “My life had hitherto been remarkably secluded and domestic; and this had given me invincible repugnance to new _____.”

    A. endeavouring
    B. professor
    C. countenances
    D. aspirations

    Key: C (countenances)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter III, paragraph 4: “My departure for _____, which had been deferred by these events, was now again determined upon.” Word bank: Ingolstadt, sacrilege, Destruction, aspirations
    Key: Ingolstadt

28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. The words “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 21 shapes its tone: “Thus ended a day memorable to me: it decided my future destiny.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes “memorable” and “decided”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “She forgot even her own regret in her endeavours to make us forget.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “endeavours” and “forgot”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 10 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I replied carelessly; and, partly in contempt, mentioned the names of my alchemists as the principal authors I had studied.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “alchemists” and “carelessly”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter III, paragraph 5? “She looked _____ on life, and assumed its duties with courage and zeal.”

    A. Destruction
    B. appertaining
    C. unwilling
    D. steadily

    Key: D (steadily)

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Ingolstadt turns Victor's grief and curiosity into a vow to master life itself. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17).

    Sample answer: Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss. The words “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. The words “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter III”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. The words “Chapter III” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

36. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The modern masters promise very little; they know that metals cannot be _____, and that the elixir of life is a chimera.” Word bank: crucible, prepossess, transmuted, fatiguing
    Key: transmuted

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1)
    A. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.
    B. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.
    C. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.
    D. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.
    Key: B (Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.)

38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter III, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “Henry deeply felt the misfortune of being debarred from a liberal education.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter III, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “misfortune” and “education”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. The words “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17)

    A. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

    B. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    C. The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.

    D. Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.

    Key: C (The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.)

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16)

    A. Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.

    B. Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.

    C. Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.

    D. Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.

    Key: D (Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.)

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. The words “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	5, 17, 7, 9, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 12, 23, 15, 24, 14, 25	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	17, 2, 20, 26, 8, 27, 4, 12, 28, 23, 22, 29, 30, 15, 25, 31	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	3, 27, 32, 1, 18, 10, 23, 12, 22, 28, 14, 33, 29, 30, 34, 35	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 11, 7, 5, 23, 28, 13, 12, 22, 24, 14, 15, 30, 25, 16, 31	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	36, 6, 27, 37, 12, 23, 22, 24, 30, 15, 14, 38, 16, 34, 31, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	36, 5, 8, 13, 23, 22, 12, 29, 15, 38, 14, 24, 31, 25, 39, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	36, 11, 40, 22, 12, 23, 29, 14, 15, 38, 30, 31, 35, 16, 39, 25	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	27, 19, 36, 3, 22, 29, 38, 33, 15, 14, 30, 16, 35, 25, 39, 31	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 6, synthesis 5
College Senior

	20, 36, 3, 12, 22, 30, 24, 29, 14, 38, 33, 15, 16, 31, 25, 35	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 7, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	36, 5, 22, 41, 12, 29, 38, 24, 30, 42, 14, 15, 16, 25, 31, 35	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter III,” how does Shelley show loss and leaving home? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter III, how does Shelley develop the idea of loss and leaving home? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter III develops the idea of loss and leaving home. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter III (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of loss and leaving home. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter III suggests about loss and leaving home. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter III to complicate the reader's understanding of loss and leaving home. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter III within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of loss and leaving home responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter III alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of loss and leaving home follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter III and its treatment of loss and leaving home. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter III as evidence for a larger claim about loss and leaving home in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter III as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of loss and leaving home. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. I had sufficient leisure for these and many other reflections during my journey to Ingolstadt, which was long and fatiguing.

   As used in the text, what does the word “fatiguing” most nearly mean?

   A. take the first step or steps in carrying out an action

   B. tiring

   C. became ill

   D. take in, also metaphorically

2. I had sufficient leisure for these and many other reflections during my journey to Ingolstadt, which was long and fatiguing. At length the high white steeple of the town met my eyes. I alighted, and was conducted to my solitary apartment, to spend the evening as I pleased.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter III”?

   A. The first death and growing guilt

   B. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

   C. Loss and leaving home

   D. Language, knowledge and sorrow

SAT key: 1. B (tiring); 2. C (Loss and leaving home)

Lesson 11: Chapter IV

Focus: obsession and the discovery of life

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter IV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (grave-robbing, dissection): Victor describes collecting body parts from charnel-houses and dissecting rooms. Keep the focus on ambition and ethics, not gore.
Student preview: This chapter describes Victor gathering materials from graves and dissecting rooms.
Suggested language: “What lines does Victor cross here, and does he notice them?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor works tirelessly, masters chemistry, and discovers the cause of life. Gathering materials from charnel houses and dissecting rooms, he neglects family and health for nearly two years as he builds a being of gigantic stature.

Background: Body-snatching to supply anatomy schools was a real scandal of the era. 'Natural philosophy' was the period term for science.

Significance: Victor withholds the secret from Walton, warning 'how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge'—the novel's core moral caution.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because.... Content note before we start: This chapter describes Victor gathering materials from graves and dissecting rooms.
Prompt: Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: procrastinate — to put off doing something; slaughterhouse — a building where animals are killed for meat; charnel — a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited; disquieted — disturb in mind or make uneasy or cause to be worried or alarmed; abstruse — difficult to penetrate; incomprehensible to one of ordinary understanding or knowledge. "slaughterhouse": Origin: an English formation from slaughter + house.
Words: procrastinate: to put off doing something · slaughterhouse: a building where animals are killed for meat · charnel: a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited · disquieted: disturb in mind or make uneasy or cause to be worried or alarmed · abstruse: difficult to penetrate; incomprehensible to one of ordinary understanding or knowledge

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Body-snatching to supply anatomy schools was a real scandal of the era. 'Natural philosophy' was the period term for science. Victor withholds the secret from Walton, warning 'how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge'—the novel's core moral caution. Point of view: Victor interrupts his story to address Walton directly: "Learn from me." The older Victor judges the younger. Imagery: Charnel-houses, dissecting rooms, pale cheeks: the work is described as unhealthy and secret. Structure: Two years compressed into one chapter; seasons pass unnoticed, showing how obsession erases ordinary life. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "ardent and eager, that the stars often disappeared in the light of morning whilst I was yet engaged in my laboratory" (Chapter IV, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor tells Walton to learn, if not from his advice then from his example, how dangerous it is to pursue knowledge. Next, craft. I notice the teacher's tone, "Learn from me," and the contrast between "precepts" (rules) and "example" (his ruined life). The strongest word is "dangerous": it names the central lesson he wants Walton, an explorer, to take from his story. Then, effect. What warning does Victor give Walton before telling how he made the creature? My answer: Victor breaks off his account of discovery to warn that ambition without limits destroys; the whole novel is framed as this warning to Walton, who is chasing his own forbidden discovery.

> Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge (Chapter IV, paragraph 6)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor tells Walton to learn, if not from his advice then from his example, how dangerous it is to pursue knowledge. Next, craft. I notice the teacher's tone, "Learn from me," and the contrast between "precepts" (rules) and "example" (his ruined life). The strongest word is "dangerous": it names the central lesson he wants Walton, an explorer, to take from his story. Then, effect. What warning does Victor give Walton before telling how he made the creature? My answer: Victor breaks off his account of discovery to warn that ambition without limits destroys; the whole novel is framed as this warning to Walton, who is chasing his own forbidden discovery.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Bless me" shows he wants gratitude and worship. "Creator and source" are words for God. This connects to ambition: he wants to play God without God's responsibility. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. (Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.)

> A new species would bless me as its creator and source (Chapter IV, paragraph 8)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Bless me" shows he wants gratitude and worship. "Creator and source" are words for God. This connects to ambition: he wants to play God without God's responsibility.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. (Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for point of view, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about obsession and the discovery of life? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of obsession and the discovery of life. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. When the text says "A new species would bless me as its creator and source" (Chapter IV, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

Task: Annotate the chapter for point of view, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about obsession and the discovery of life? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of obsession and the discovery of life. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. When the text says "A new species would bless me as its creator and source" (Chapter IV, paragraph 8), it shows this directly. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important? Ask students to separate the older narrator's judgment from the younger Victor's actions in this chapter.

Anchor question: Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important?

Facilitation: Ask students to separate the older narrator's judgment from the younger Victor's actions in this chapter.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about obsession and the discovery of life? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. ("A new species would bless me as its creator and source", Chapter IV, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about obsession and the discovery of life? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. ("A new species would bless me as its creator and source", Chapter IV, paragraph 8). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how point of view shapes obsession and the discovery of life. Key takeaway: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Point of view: Victor interrupts his story to address Walton directly: "Learn from me." The older Victor judges the younger.
- Imagery: Charnel-houses, dissecting rooms, pale cheeks: the work is described as unhealthy and secret.
- Structure: Two years compressed into one chapter; seasons pass unnoticed, showing how obsession erases ordinary life.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.
- isolation and companionship: he neglects his family and friends; work cuts him off.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “ardent and eager, that the stars often disappeared in the light of morning whilst I was yet engaged in my laboratory” (Chapter IV, paragraph 1).
- isolation: Almost every narrator ends up alone; solitude is both the cost of ambition and the creature's suffering. In this chapter: “had directed their enquiries towards the same science, that I alone should be reserved to discover so astonishing a secret” (Chapter IV, paragraph 3).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) The novel's warning stated outright.
- “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.
- “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4) The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

> Claim: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates.
> Evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8)

Reasoning: He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
procrastinate (verb)	to put off doing something	I wished, as it were, to procrastinate all that related to my feelings of affection until the great object, which swallowed up every habit of my nature, should be completed.
slaughterhouse (noun)	a building where animals are killed for meat	The dissecting room and the slaughterhouse furnished many of my materials; and often did my human nature turn with loathing from my occupation, whilst, still urged on by an eagerness which perpetually increased, I brought my work near to a conclusion.	"slaughterhouse": Origin: an English formation from slaughter + house. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/slaughterhouse#Etymology)
charnel (noun)	a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited	Now I was led to examine the cause and progress of this decay, and forced to spend days and nights in vaults and charnel-houses.
disquieted (verb)	disturb in mind or make uneasy or cause to be worried or alarmed	I knew my silence disquieted them; and I well remembered the words of my father: "I know that while you are pleased with yourself, you will think of us with affection, and we shall hear regularly from you.
abstruse (adjective)	difficult to penetrate; incomprehensible to one of ordinary understanding or knowledge	In a thousand ways he smoothed for me the path of knowledge, and made the most abstruse enquiries clear and facile to my apprehension.
unguarded (adjective)	frank; careless about hiding feelings	I will not lead you on, unguarded and ardent as I then was, to your destruction and infallible misery.
insupportable (adjective)	unbearable	My attention was fixed upon every object the most	"insupportable": Origin: Middle French insupportable; earlier Late

		insupportable to the delicacy of the human feelings.	Latin insupportabilis. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/insupportable#Etymology)
engrossed (verb)	devote (oneself) fully to	Winter, spring, and summer passed away during my labours; but I did not watch the blossom or the expanding leaves—sights which before always yielded me supreme delight—so deeply was I engrossed in my occupation.
adequate (adjective)	having the requisite qualities or resources to meet a task	The materials at present within my command hardly appeared adequate to so arduous an undertaking; but I doubted not that I should ultimately succeed.
wonders (noun)	amazing things; marvels	I saw how the fine form of man was degraded and wasted; I beheld the corruption of death succeed to the blooming cheek of life; I saw how the worm inherited the wonders of the eye and brain.

Discussion questions

1. Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Victor discover? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The cause of generation and life
2. Where does Victor gather materials? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Charnel houses and dissecting rooms
3. Why does Victor make the being gigantic? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The small parts were hard to work with

4. What happens to Victor's health and relationships? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He neglects his family and grows ill and pale
5. What does Victor refuse to share with Walton? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The secret of how he created life
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter IV" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor works tirelessly, masters chemistry, and discovers the cause of life. Gathering materials from charnel houses and dissecting rooms, he neglects family and health for nearly two years as he builds a being of gigantic stature.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter IV"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter IV" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "I wished, as it were, to procrastinate all that related to my feelings of affection until the great object, which swallowed up every habit of my nature, should be completed." What does "procrastinate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: procrastinate: to put off doing something.
10. Reread: "The dissecting room and the slaughterhouse furnished many of my materials; and often did my human nature turn with loathing from my occupation, whilst, still urged on by an eagerness which perpetually increased, I…" What does "slaughterhouse" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: slaughterhouse: a building where animals are killed for meat.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter IV" suggest about obsession and the discovery of life? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor withholds the secret from Walton, warning 'how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge'—the novel's core moral caution.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about obsession and the discovery of life? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: "Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge" (Chapter IV, paragraph 6): The novel's warning stated outright. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "I see by your eagerness, and the wonder and hope which your eyes express, my friend, that you expect to be informed of the secret with which I am acquainted; that cannot be:…", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.

5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter IV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor works tirelessly, masters chemistry, and discovers the cause of life. Gathering materials from charnel houses and dissecting rooms, he neglects family and health for nearly two years as he builds a being of gigantic stature.
6. How does “Chapter IV” build on “Chapter III”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8): Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. On structure: Two years compressed into one chapter; seasons pass unnoticed, showing how obsession erases ordinary life. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4): The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Victor refuses to tell Walton how he created life. Why is this choice important?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does imagery appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6): The novel's warning stated outright. On imagery: Charnel-houses, dissecting rooms, pale cheeks: the work is described as unhealthy and secret. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Body-snatching to supply anatomy schools was a real scandal of the era. 'Natural philosophy' was the period term for science. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8): Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor withholds the secret from Walton, warning 'how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge'—the novel's core moral caution.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4): The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. Theme link: he neglects his family and friends; work cuts him off. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6): The novel's warning stated outright. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter IV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about obsession and the discovery of life? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8): Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. On point of view: Victor interrupts his story to address Walton directly: "Learn from me." The older Victor judges the younger. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter IV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4): The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6): The novel's warning stated outright. Theme link: he neglects his family and friends; work cuts him off. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8): Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter IV” treats obsession and the discovery of life with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4): The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. Theme link: he neglects his family and friends; work cuts him off. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter V” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6): The novel's warning stated outright. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about obsession and the discovery of life? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8): Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. Theme link: he neglects his family and friends; work cuts him off. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Useful evidence: “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4): The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. Theme link: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Imagery: sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I knew my silence disquieted them; and I well remembered the words of my father: “I know that while you are pleased with yourself, you will think of us with affection, and we shall hear regularly from you.”, what does “disquieted” most nearly mean?

   A. disturb in mind or make uneasy or cause to be worried or alarmed

   B. give an incentive for action

   C. thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold

   D. tiredness and lack of energy

   Key: A (disturb in mind or make uneasy or cause to be worried or alarmed)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 4: “I became myself capable of _____ animation upon lifeless matter”

   Key: bestowing

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor refuse to share with Walton?

   A. His age

   B. The secret of how he created life

   C. The location of Geneva

   D. His family's names

   Key: B (The secret of how he created life)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor discover?

   A. A route to the pole

   B. A cure for fever

   C. A new planet

   D. The cause of generation and life

   Key: D (The cause of generation and life)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Winter, spring, and summer passed away during my labours; but I did not watch the blossom or the expanding leaves—sights which before always yielded me supreme delight—so deeply was I _____ in my occupation.” Word bank: slaughterhouse, charnel, engrossed, procrastinate

   Key: engrossed

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Why does Victor make the being gigantic?

   A. By accident

   B. To frighten enemies

   C. The small parts were hard to work with

   D. To make it strong for labor

   Key: C (The small parts were hard to work with)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I wished, as it were, to procrastinate all that related to my feelings of affection until the great object, which swallowed up every habit of my nature, should be completed.”, what does “procrastinate” most nearly mean?

   A. a document giving an official instruction or command

   B. refused to acknowledge as one's own; rejected

   C. to put off doing something

   D. set free

   Key: C (to put off doing something)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 8: “A new _____ would bless me as its creator and source”

   Key: species

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What happens to Victor's health and relationships?

   A. He marries

   B. He neglects his family and grows ill and pale

   C. He travels widely

   D. He becomes stronger

   Key: B (He neglects his family and grows ill and pale)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Now I was led to examine the cause and progress of this decay, and forced to spend days and nights in vaults and charnel-houses.”, what does “charnel” most nearly mean?

    A. stories; accounts of events

    B. make off with belongings of others

    C. treated lightly; toyed with

    D. a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited

    Key: D (a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I will not lead you on, _____ and ardent as I then was, to your destruction and infallible misery.” Word bank: procrastinate, charnel, unguarded, slaughterhouse

    Key: unguarded

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. The words “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter IV”?
    A. Recovery and false peace
    B. Reading and identity
    C. Obsession and the discovery of life
    D. First experiences of the senses

    Key: C (Obsession and the discovery of life)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IV”? Charnel-houses, dissecting rooms, pale cheeks: the work is described as unhealthy and secret.
    A. Imagery
    B. Allusion
    C. Hyperbole
    D. Irony

    Key: A (Imagery)
15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IV”? Victor interrupts his story to address Walton directly: "Learn from me." The older Victor judges the younger.
    A. Tone / mood
    B. Point of view
    C. Metaphor
    D. Personification

    Key: B (Point of view)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter IV”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. The words “Chapter IV” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 2: “As I applied so closely, it may be easily _____ that my progress was rapid.” Word bank: conceived, consummation, knowledge, faultiness
    Key: conceived
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 12: “I then thought that my father would be unjust if he ascribed my neglect to vice, or _____ on my part; but I am now convinced that he was justified in conceiving that I should not be altogether free from blame.” Word bank: discoveries, knowledge, faultiness, scientific
    Key: faultiness
19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Where does Victor gather materials?
    A. The forest

B. The market

C. Charnel houses and dissecting rooms

D. A church garden

Key: C (Charnel houses and dissecting rooms)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “My attention was fixed upon every object the most _____ to the delicacy of the human feelings.” Word bank: slaughterhouse, insupportable, procrastinate, charnel

    Key: insupportable

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In a thousand ways he smoothed for me the path of knowledge, and made the most _____ enquiries clear and facile to my apprehension.” Word bank: charnel, slaughterhouse, abstruse, procrastinate

    Key: abstruse

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter IV?

    A. “None but those who have experienced them can conceive of the enticements of science.”

    B. “In other studies you go as far as others have gone before you, and there is nothing more to know; but in a scientific pursuit there is…”

    C. “Two years passed in this manner, during which I paid no visit to Geneva, but was engaged, heart and soul, in the pursuit of some…”

    D. “The astonishment which I had at first experienced on this discovery soon gave place to delight and rapture.”

    Key: C (“Two years passed in this manner, during which I paid no visit to Geneva, but was engaged, heart and soul, in the pursuit of some…”)

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter IV, paragraph 5 reveal about the character or situation? “But this discovery was so great and overwhelming, that all the steps by which I had been progressively led to it were obliterated, and I beheld only the result.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IV, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “progressively” and “overwhelming”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter IV, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “If this rule were always observed; if no man allowed any pursuit whatsoever to interfere with the tranquillity of his domestic affections, Greece had not been enslaved; Caesar would have spared his country; America would have been…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “tranquillity” and “discovered”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The dissecting room and the slaughterhouse furnished many of my materials; and often did my human nature turn with loathing from my occupation, whilst, still urged on by an eagerness which perpetually increased, I…”, what does “slaughterhouse” most nearly mean?

    A. fallen as a duty (on someone)

B. a building where animals are killed for meat

C. sticks out over; hangs over

D. slow; tending to delay

Key: B (a building where animals are killed for meat)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter IV, paragraph 2? “In other studies you go as far as others have gone before you, and there is nothing more to know; but in a _____ pursuit there is continual food for discovery and wonder.”

A. Professor

B. knowledge

C. conceived

D. scientific

Key: D (scientific)

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter IV, paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “The astonishment which I had at first experienced on this discovery soon gave place to delight and rapture.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IV, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “astonishment” and “experienced”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. The words “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The novel's warning stated outright. The words “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) bears it out: He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need. But “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows the discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IV, paragraph 6: “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the _____ of knowledge”

    Key: acquirement

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter IV, paragraph 2 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “None but those who have experienced them can conceive of the enticements of science.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IV, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “experienced” and “enticements”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8).

    Sample answer: He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need. The words “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4)

    A. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.
    B. Political education; links to Godwin.
    C. The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.
    D. Clerval's character; he loves nature directly.

    Key: C (The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.)

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8)

    A. Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.
    B. "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.
    C. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.
    D. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    Key: A (Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.)

36. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The novel's warning stated outright. The words “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 11, 18, 7, 19, 3, 1, 20, 21, 22, 13, 23, 15, 24, 14, 16	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	25, 1, 21, 8, 26, 10, 11, 18, 23, 22, 13, 27, 14, 28, 29, 30	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	31, 18, 20, 3, 10, 7, 12, 22, 23, 13, 15, 24, 14, 27, 16, 30	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	2, 7, 4, 3, 18, 10, 23, 22, 13, 24, 14, 27, 15, 16, 32, 30	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	21, 11, 7, 4, 23, 22, 13, 33, 27, 14, 15, 24, 28, 16, 30, 32	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 3
College Freshman	21, 25, 18, 22, 23, 34, 13, 14, 33, 15, 27, 24, 29, 32, 16, 30	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	5, 7, 20, 18, 35, 22, 23, 13, 24, 14, 15, 27, 16, 29, 30, 32	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Junior	21, 19, 7, 11, 22, 35, 13, 23, 24, 28, 14, 27, 15, 32, 16, 30	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 3
College Senior	18, 21, 1, 12, 23, 36, 22, 13, 14, 24, 27, 15, 28, 16, 32, 30	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 3
Graduate / PhD	17, 21, 19, 10, 3, 13, 12, 23, 22, 24, 15, 27, 14, 32, 30, 16	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter IV,” how does Shelley show obsession and the discovery of life? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter IV, how does Shelley develop the idea of obsession and the discovery of life? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter IV develops the idea of obsession and the discovery of life. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter IV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of obsession and the discovery of life. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter IV suggests about obsession and the discovery of life. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter IV to complicate the reader's understanding of obsession and the discovery of life. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter IV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of obsession and the discovery of life responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter IV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of obsession and the discovery of life follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter IV and its treatment of obsession and the discovery of life. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter IV as evidence for a larger claim about obsession and the discovery of life in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter IV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of obsession and the discovery of life. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Now I was led to examine the cause and progress of this decay, and forced to spend days and nights in vaults and charnel-houses.

   As used in the text, what does the word “charnel” most nearly mean?

   A. having the requisite qualities or resources to meet a task

   B. devote (oneself) fully to

   C. amazing things; marvels

   D. a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited

2. I see by your eagerness, and the wonder and hope which your eyes express, my friend, that you expect to be informed of the secret with which I am acquainted; that cannot be: listen patiently until the end of my story, and you will easily perceive why I am reserved upon that subject. I will not lead you on, unguarded and ardent as I then was, to your destruction and infallible misery. Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge, and how much happier that man is who believes his native town to be the world, than he who aspires to become greater than his nature will allow.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter IV"?

A. Learning compassion by watching

B. Reading and identity

C. Obsession and the discovery of life

D. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

SAT key: 1. D (a vault or building where corpses or bones are deposited); 2. C (Obsession and the discovery of life)

Lesson 12: Chapter V

Focus: horror at the moment of creation

Objective: Students will analyze how imagery develops in “Chapter V” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “Our taste and our judgment alike revolt at this kind of writing, and the greater the ability with which it may be executed the worse it is -- it inculcates no lesson of conduct, manners, or morality; it cannot mend, and will not even amuse its readers, unless their taste have been deplorably vitiated -- it fatigues the feelings without interesting the understanding; it gratuitously harasses the heart, and wantonly adds to the store, already too great, of painful sensations.” (John Wilson Croker (attrib.; the review is unsigned), critic, Review of Frankenstein, The Quarterly Review 18 (January 1818), 379-385, p. 385; public domain). Debate prompt: "Frankenstein inculcates no lesson." Students rebut Croker with evidence from Chapter V. Objective: Evaluate how the creation scene's language produces horror, and whether horror has a moral purpose. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1

Teacher only · spoilers

On a dreary November night, the creature opens its 'dull yellow eye.' Horrified by its appearance, Victor flees, dreams of Elizabeth turning into his mother's corpse, and wakes to see the creature reaching toward him. He runs into the street, meets Clerval, and collapses into a long fever, nursed by Henry.

Background: Gothic novels used darkness, storms and nightmares to produce dread. The quoted lines from Coleridge's 'Ancient Mariner' reinforce Victor's guilt.

Significance: The irony is sharp: the being Victor labored to make is abandoned within minutes. The creature's outstretched hand may be a gesture of affection that Victor reads as threat.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence. Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because....
Prompt: Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence.
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: agitates — upsets; disturbs; palpitated — beat fast and hard (of the heart); relapses — returns of an illness after improvement; lassitude — tiredness and lack of energy; convalescence — gradual healing (through rest) after sickness or injury. "relapses": Origin of "relapse": Latin relapsus. "lassitude": Origin: possibly French lassitude; earlier Latin lassitūdō ("faintness"). "convalescence": Origin: Middle French convalescence; earlier Late Latin convalēscentia ("regaining of health").
Words: agitates: upsets; disturbs · palpitated: beat fast and hard (of the heart) · relapses: returns of an illness after improvement · lassitude: tiredness and lack of energy · convalescence: gradual healing (through rest) after sickness or injury

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Gothic novels used darkness, storms and nightmares to produce dread. The quoted lines from Coleridge's 'Ancient Mariner' reinforce Victor's guilt. The irony is sharp: the being Victor labored to make is abandoned within minutes. The creature's outstretched hand may be a gesture of affection that Victor reads as threat. Imagery: The creation scene: a dreary night, rain, a dying candle, a "dull yellow eye." The details are few and precise, so the horror is in the response, not the science. Irony: He chose the creature's features "as beautiful," yet the result is hideous; the dream becomes a nightmare. Characterization: Victor flees twice, from the creature at his bed and from his responsibility, and calls it "the wretch." Watch for the outstretched hand: the creature reaches for him; Victor reads it as a threat. The gesture is the novel's image of rejected need.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says it was on a dreary November night that he saw the completion of his labors. Next, craft. I notice the gloomy weather and season are set right beside "accomplishment," so the setting undercuts the triumph before the creature even moves. The strongest word is "dreary": it drains all joy from the moment Victor spent two years working toward. Then, effect. Why does Victor describe the night of his success as dreary? My answer: The mood tells us success will feel like horror; within minutes Victor flees from his creation, and the dreary night begins the creature's abandonment.

> It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils (Chapter V, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says it was on a dreary November night that he saw the completion of his labors. Next, craft. I notice the gloomy weather and season are set right beside "accomplishment," so the setting undercuts the triumph before the creature even moves. The strongest word is "dreary": it drains all joy from the moment Victor spent two years working toward. Then, effect. Why does Victor describe the night of his success as dreary? My answer: The mood tells us success will feel like horror; within minutes Victor flees from his creation, and the dreary night begins the creature's abandonment.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Seemingly" shows Victor is guessing; "detain" means to hold back, a child-like reach. He "escaped," treating his creation as a threat. This is the core of the responsibility theme. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: The moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. (The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.)

> one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped (Chapter V, paragraph 3)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Seemingly" shows Victor is guessing; "detain" means to hold back, a child-like reach. He "escaped," treating his creation as a threat. This is the core of the responsibility theme.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: The moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. (The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for imagery, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about horror at the moment of creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of horror at the moment of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of imagery and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. When the text says “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.
Task: Annotate the chapter for imagery, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about horror at the moment of creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of horror at the moment of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of imagery and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. When the text says “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence. Ask: is Victor's horror understandable? Credit sympathy for Victor, but require students to explain what a responsible creator would have done.
Anchor question: Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence.
Facilitation: Ask: is Victor's horror understandable? Credit sympathy for Victor, but require students to explain what a responsible creator would have done.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about horror at the moment of creation? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. ("one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped", Chapter V, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about horror at the moment of creation? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. ("one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped", Chapter V, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how imagery shapes horror at the moment of creation. Key takeaway: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Imagery: The creation scene: a dreary night, rain, a dying candle, a "dull yellow eye." The details are few and precise, so the horror is in the response, not the science.
- Irony: He chose the creature's features "as beautiful," yet the result is hideous; the dream becomes a nightmare.
- Characterization: Victor flees twice, from the creature at his bed and from his responsibility, and calls it "the wretch."

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

Symbols and motifs

- the outstretched hand: the creature reaches for him; Victor reads it as a threat. The gesture is the novel's image of rejected need.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror.
- “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence.
- “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect.
Evidence: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
agitates (verb)	upsets; disturbs	“Compose yourself,” said Clerval, who observed my change of colour, “I will not mention it, if it agitates you; but your father and cousin would be very happy if they received a letter from you in your own handwriting.
palpitated (verb)	beat fast and hard (of the heart)	My heart palpitated in the sickness of fear; and I hurried on with irregular steps, not daring to look about me:—
relapses (noun)	returns of an illness after improvement	By very slow degrees, and with frequent relapses, that alarmed and grieved my friend, I recovered.	“relapses”: Origin of “relapse”: Latin relapsus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/relapse#Etymology)
lassitude (noun)	tiredness and lack of energy	At length lassitude succeeded to the tumult I had before endured; and I threw myself on the bed in my	“lassitude”: Origin: possibly French lassitude; earlier Latin lassitūdō (“faintness”). (Liber et Libri origin note, clothes, endeavouring to seek a few moments of forgetfulness.	https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/lassitude#Etymology)

convalescence (noun)	gradual healing (through rest) after sickness or injury	It was a divine spring; and the season contributed greatly to my convalescence.	"convalescence": Origin: Middle French convalescence; earlier Late Latin convalēscentia ("regaining of health"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/convalescence#Etymology)
unbounded (adjective)	seemingly boundless in amount, number, degree, or especially extent	But I was in reality very ill; and surely nothing but the unbounded and unremitting attentions of my friend could have restored me to life.
wildness (noun)	a feeling of extreme emotional intensity	Clerval at first attributed my unusual spirits to joy on his arrival; but when he observed me more attentively, he saw a wildness in my eyes for which he could not account; and my loud, unrestrained, heartless laughter, frightened and astonished him.
bedchamber (noun)	a room used primarily for sleeping	Unable to endure the aspect of the being I had created, I rushed out of the room, and continued a long time traversing my bedchamber, unable to compose my mind to sleep.	"bedchamber": Origin: an English formation from bed + chamber. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/bedchamber#Etymology)
exceeded (verb)	be greater in scope or size than some standard	I had desired it with an ardour that far exceeded moderation; but now that I had finished, the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart.
welcomed (verb)	greeted (someone) warmly on arrival	I welcomed my friend, therefore, in the most cordial manner, and we walked towards my college.

Discussion questions

1. Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence.
2. Where does imagery appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What month does the creature come to life? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: November
2. What first feature of the creature does Victor describe? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Its dull yellow eye
3. What does Victor dream after fleeing? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Elizabeth turns into his dead mother's corpse
4. Who arrives in Ingolstadt and nurses Victor? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Henry Clerval
5. What is ironic about this chapter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor abandons the being he worked years to create
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter V" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: On a dreary November night, the creature opens its 'dull yellow eye.' Horrified by its appearance, Victor flees, dreams of Elizabeth turning into his mother's corpse, and wakes to see the creature reaching toward him. He runs into the street, meets Clerval, and collapses into a long fever, nursed by Henry.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter V"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter V" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ""Compose yourself," said Clerval, who observed my change of colour, "I will not mention it, if it agitates you; but your father and cousin would be very happy if they received a letter from you in your own handwriting." What does "agitates" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: agitates: upsets; disturbs.
10. Reread: "My heart palpitated in the sickness of fear; and I hurried on with irregular steps, not daring to look about me:—" What does "palpitated" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: palpitated: beat fast and hard (of the heart).

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter V" suggest about horror at the moment of creation? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The irony is sharp: the being Victor labored to make is abandoned within minutes. The creature's outstretched hand may be a gesture of affection that Victor reads as threat.

2. Find one example of imagery in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about horror at the moment of creation? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1): Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “I continued walking in this manner for some time, endeavouring, by bodily exercise, to ease the load that weighed upon my mind.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter V”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: On a dreary November night, the creature opens its 'dull yellow eye.' Horrified by its appearance, Victor flees, dreams of Elizabeth turning into his mother's corpse, and wakes to see the creature reaching toward him. He runs into the street, meets Clerval, and collapses into a long fever, nursed…
6. How does “Chapter V” build on “Chapter IV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. On characterization: Victor flees twice, from the creature at his bed and from his responsibility, and calls it "the wretch." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Was the creature's first gesture threatening or loving? Use evidence.” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1): Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. On irony: He chose the creature's features "as beautiful," yet the result is hideous; the dream becomes a nightmare. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Gothic novels used darkness, storms and nightmares to produce dread. The quoted lines from Coleridge's 'Ancient Mariner' reinforce Victor's guilt. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The irony is sharp: the being Victor labored to make is abandoned within minutes. The creature's outstretched hand may be a gesture of affection that Victor reads as threat.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1): Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. On characterization: Victor flees twice, from the creature at his bed and from his responsibility, and calls it "the wretch." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter V” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about horror at the moment of creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart" (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter V": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: "one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped" (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: "It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils" (Chapter V, paragraph 1): Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the imagery in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: "the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart" (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. On imagery: The creation scene: a dreary night, rain, a dying candle, a "dull yellow eye." The details are few and precise, so the horror is in the response, not the science. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how "Chapter V" treats horror at the moment of creation with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: "one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped" (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what "Chapter VI" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1): Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about horror at the moment of creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Useful evidence: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3): The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. Theme link: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Imagery: look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What does Victor dream after fleeing?

   A. He is crowned king

   B. He is drowning

   C. Elizabeth turns into his dead mother's corpse

   D. He sails north

   Key: C (Elizabeth turns into his dead mother's corpse)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What first feature of the creature does Victor describe?

   A. Its dull yellow eye

   B. Its voice

C. Its hands

D. Its smile

Key: A (Its dull yellow eye)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What is ironic about this chapter?

   A. Victor abandons the being he worked years to create

   B. Victor is happy

   C. The creature is tiny

   D. Clerval is a scientist

   Key: A (Victor abandons the being he worked years to create)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "At length lassitude succeeded to the tumult I had before endured; and I threw myself on the bed in my clothes, endeavouring to seek a few moments of forgetfulness.", what does "lassitude" most nearly mean?

   A. tiredness and lack of energy

   B. natural abilities or qualities

   C. frightened; made fearful

   D. summon into action or bring into existence, often as if by magic

   Key: A (tiredness and lack of energy)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "It was a divine spring; and the season contributed greatly to my _____." Word bank: agitates, convalescence, palpitated, relapses

   Key: convalescence

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "But I was in reality very ill; and surely nothing but the _____ and unremitting attentions of my friend could have restored me to life."

   Word bank: unbounded, palpitated, relapses, agitates

   Key: unbounded

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "By very slow degrees, and with frequent relapses, that alarmed and grieved my friend, I recovered.", what does "relapses" most nearly mean?

   A. difficult to penetrate; incomprehensible to one of ordinary understanding or knowledge

   B. the usage or vocabulary that is characteristic of a specific group of people

   C. returns of an illness after improvement

   D. a structure or object that impedes free movement

   Key: C (returns of an illness after improvement)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Clerval at first attributed my unusual spirits to joy on his arrival; but when he observed me more attentively, he saw a _____ in my eyes for which he could not account; and my loud, unrestrained, heartless laughter, frightened and astonished him." Word bank: relapses, wildness, agitates, palpitated

   Key: wildness

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 3: "the beauty of the dream vanished, and _____ horror and disgust filled my heart"

   Key: breathless

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “My heart palpitated in the sickness of fear; and I hurried on with irregular steps, not daring to look about me:—”, what does “palpitated” most nearly mean?

    A. careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment

    B. capable of being borne or endured

    C. a document giving an official instruction or command

    D. beat fast and hard (of the heart)

    Key: D (beat fast and hard (of the heart))

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What month does the creature come to life?

    A. December

    B. March

    C. November

    D. June

    Key: C (November)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter V”?

    A. First experiences of the senses

    B. The first death and growing guilt

    C. Horror at the moment of creation

    D. The demand for a companion

    Key: C (Horror at the moment of creation)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. The words “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter V”? He chose the creature's features "as beautiful," yet the result is hideous; the dream becomes a nightmare.

    A. Simile

    B. Irony

    C. Setting

    D. Theme

    Key: B (Irony)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Claim: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3).

    Sample answer: The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out. The words “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter V”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: The moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. The words “Chapter V” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 3: “one hand was _____ out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped”
    Key: stretched
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Who arrives in Ingolstadt and nurses Victor?
    A. Alphonse
    B. Henry Clerval
    C. Walton
    D. Elizabeth

    Key: B (Henry Clerval)
19. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.
    A. Isolation and the need for companionship
    B. Nature versus nurture
    C. The costs of unchecked ambition
    D. Creation and responsibility

    Key: D (Creation and responsibility)
20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter V”? The creation scene: a dreary night, rain, a dying candle, a "dull yellow eye." The details are few and precise, so the horror is in the response, not the science.
    A. Hyperbole
    B. Theme
    C. Plot
    D. Imagery

    Key: D (Imagery)
21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) bears it out: The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out. But “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) complicates it, because here the text shows pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Unable to endure the aspect of the being I had created, I rushed out of the room, and continued a long time traversing my _____, unable to compose my mind to sleep.” Word bank: agitates, palpitated, relapses, bedchamber

    Key: bedchamber

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter V, paragraph 14? “I then _____, and the thought made me shiver, that the creature whom I had left in my apartment might still be there, alive, and walking about.”

    A. unfinished

    B. Entreating

    C. catastrophe

    D. reflected

    Key: D (reflected)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “His limbs were in proportion, and I had selected his features as beautiful.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “proportion” and “beautiful”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 14 reveal about the character or situation? “I walked with a quick pace, and we soon arrived at my college.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “arrived” and “college”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 8 shapes its tone: ““Like one who, on a lonely road, Doth walk in fear and dread, And, having once turned round, walks on, And turns no more his head; Because he knows a frightful fiend Doth close behind him tread.”” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “frightful” and “Because”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “By the by, I mean to lecture you a little upon their account myself.—But, my dear Frankenstein,” continued he, stopping short, and gazing full in my face, “I did not before remark how very ill you appear; so thin and pale; you look as if…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “Frankenstein” and “continued”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What can you infer from this line? “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. The words “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. The words “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.
30. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 14: “I stepped _____ in: the apartment was empty; and my bedroom was also freed from its hideous guest.” Word bank: Elizabeth, countenance, reflected, fearfully
    Key: fearfully
31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter V, paragraph 1: “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the _____ of my toils”
    Key: accomplishment
32. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 19 shapes its tone: “He knew that I could not have a more kind and attentive nurse than himself; and, firm in the hope he felt of my recovery, he did not doubt that, instead of doing harm, he performed the kindest action that he could towards them.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes “performed” and “attentive”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.
33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. The words “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.
34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter V, paragraph 5? “Mingled with this horror, I felt the bitterness of _____; dreams that had been my food and pleasant rest for so long a space were now become a hell to me; and the change was so rapid, the overthrow so complete!”

    A. catastrophe
    B. comfortless
    C. excessively
    D. disappointment

    Key: D (disappointment)

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3)

    A. A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.

    B. Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power.

    C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

    D. Psychological insight into grief and guilt.

    Key: C (The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.)

36. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “Sometimes my pulse beat so quickly and hardly, that I felt the palpitation of every artery; at others, I nearly sank to the ground through languor and extreme weakness.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “palpitation” and “Sometimes”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 26 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “How could you suppose that my first thought would not fly towards those dear, dear friends whom I love, and who are so deserving of my love.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 26) accurately and quotes “deserving” and “thought”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Connect this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 14 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I could hardly believe that so great a good fortune could have befallen me; but when I became assured that my enemy had indeed fled, I clapped my hands for joy, and ran down to Clerval.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “befallen” and “Clerval”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror. The words “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils” (Chapter V, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.

40. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter V, paragraph 18 shapes its tone: “But I was not the witness of his grief; for I was lifeless, and did not recover my senses for a long, long time." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter V, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes "lifeless" and "witness", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.4] What does this passage most clearly show? "It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils" (Chapter V, paragraph 1)

    A. The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.

    B. Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror.

    C. Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.

    D. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.

    Key: B (Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 11, 9, 1, 8, 17, 5, 7, 18, 2, 13, 12, 14, 19, 20, 21	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	22, 3, 7, 17, 23, 8, 5, 10, 24, 25, 12, 20, 26, 14, 27, 16	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	8, 22, 18, 4, 3, 2, 7, 13, 28, 12, 14, 29, 20, 19, 16, 21	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	10, 30, 31, 23, 4, 17, 24, 12, 25, 14, 19, 32, 20, 33, 16, 27	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 6, 34, 24, 25, 35, 12, 14, 20, 26, 36, 32, 37, 21, 38, 39	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	22, 5, 3, 12, 25, 28, 24, 40, 20, 29, 14, 32, 21, 38, 37, 27	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 5, 41, 28, 24, 12, 15, 14, 20, 26, 36, 38, 21, 37, 27, 16	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	5, 22, 25, 24, 12, 14, 20, 36, 26, 19, 32, 38, 16, 27, 21, 37	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 5
College Senior	5, 6, 12, 25, 20, 40, 14, 19, 29, 26, 39, 38, 16, 21, 27, 37	recall 2, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	5, 6, 12, 26, 19, 20, 32, 36, 14, 29, 40, 16, 37, 27, 38, 21	recall 2, inference 1, analysis 8, synthesis 5

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter V," how does Shelley show horror at the moment of creation? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the imagery you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): In Chapter V, how does Shelley develop the idea of horror at the moment of creation? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the imagery in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.4, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter V develops the idea of horror at the moment of creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of imagery and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter V (where it begins, turns and ends) and its imagery shape the reader's understanding of horror at the moment of creation. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter V suggests about horror at the moment of creation. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's imagery and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.4, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses imagery in Chapter V to complicate the reader's understanding of horror at the moment of creation. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter V within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of horror at the moment of creation responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter V alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of horror at the moment of creation follows or bends those conventions, using the imagery as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter V and its treatment of horror at the moment of creation. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's imagery and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter V as evidence for a larger claim about horror at the moment of creation in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter V as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of horror at the moment of creation. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. By very slow degrees, and with frequent relapses, that alarmed and grieved my friend, I recovered.

   As used in the text, what does the word "relapses" most nearly mean?

   A. be greater in scope or size than some standard
   B. a room used primarily for sleeping
   C. greeted (someone) warmly on arrival
   D. returns of an illness after improvement

2. I continued walking in this manner for some time, endeavouring, by bodily exercise, to ease the load that weighed upon my mind. I traversed the streets, without any clear conception of where I was, or what I was doing. My heart palpitated in the sickness of fear; and I hurried on with irregular steps, not daring to look about me:—

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter V"?

   A. Horror at the moment of creation
   B. Destroying the companion
   C. Despair and the sublime
   D. First experiences of the senses

SAT key: 1. D (returns of an illness after improvement); 2. A (Horror at the moment of creation)

Lesson 13: Chapter VI

Focus: recovery and false peace

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “Chapter VI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Recovering, Victor reads a letter from Elizabeth telling of home and of Justine Moritz, a servant girl who became part of the family. Victor now hates natural philosophy. He and Clerval study languages and take a restorative walking tour.

Background: Romantic writers believed nature could heal the mind, a theme in Wordsworth's poetry.

Significance: The calm before tragedy: Justine's introduction sets up her later fate.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because....
Prompt: Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: salubrious — healthy; good for the body; congratulatory — expressing congratulations; encomiums — speeches or remarks of high praise; vacillating — be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action; devolved — fallen as a duty (on someone). “salubrious”: Origin: Latin salūbris (“healthy”). “encomiums”: Origin of “encomium”: Latin encōmium (“praise”). “vacillating”: Origin of “vacillate”: Latin vacillātum.
Words: salubrious: healthy; good for the body · congratulatory: expressing congratulations · encomiums: speeches or remarks of high praise · vacillating: be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action · devolved: fallen as a duty (on someone)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Romantic writers believed nature could heal the mind, a theme in Wordsworth's poetry. The calm before tragedy: Justine's introduction sets up her later fate. Characterization: Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct. Irony: Victor recovers into a "false peace" while the creature is out in the world, unseen. Setting: Spring and nature restore him; Shelley uses nature as healer. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "read their writings, life appears to consist in a warm sun and a garden of roses—in the smiles and frowns of a" (Chapter VI, paragraph 18).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care" slowly and put it in my own words: Recovering with Clerval, Victor says he became again the happy, beloved person he was a few years before, with no sorrow or care. Next, craft. I notice the long backward glance, "a few years ago," that measures how far he has fallen. The strongest word is "beloved": it reminds us how much love he had, which he has thrown away by abandoning his own creation. Then, effect. What restores Victor's happiness for a while? My answer: Friendship and nature heal Victor for a moment, but the happiness rests on forgetting the creature; the calm sets up the shock of William's murder.

> I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care
> (Chapter VI, paragraph 21)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care" slowly and put it in my own words: Recovering with Clerval, Victor says he became again the happy, beloved person he was a few years before, with no sorrow or care. Next, craft. I notice the long backward glance, "a few years ago," that measures how far he has fallen. The strongest word is "beloved": it reminds us how much love he had, which he has thrown away by abandoning his own creation. Then, effect. What restores Victor's happiness for a while? My answer: Friendship and nature heal Victor for a moment, but the happiness rests on forgetting the creature; the calm sets up the shock of William's murder.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Cramped and narrowed" versus "warmed and opened": the contrast shows isolation shrinking a person and friendship restoring him, the theme of companionship. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. (Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence.)

> A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses (Chapter VI, paragraph 21)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Cramped and narrowed" versus "warmed and opened": the contrast shows isolation shrinking a person and friendship restoring him, the theme of companionship.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. (Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about recovery and false peace? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of recovery and false peace. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. When the text says "A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about recovery and false peace? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of recovery and false peace. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. When the text says "A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter? Ask: what is Victor not telling Clerval, and why?
Anchor question: Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter?
Facilitation: Ask: what is Victor not telling Clerval, and why?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about recovery and false peace? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. ("A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses", Chapter VI, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about recovery and false peace? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. ("A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses", Chapter VI, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes recovery and false peace. Key takeaway: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct.
- Irony: Victor recovers into a "false peace" while the creature is out in the world, unseen.
- Setting: Spring and nature restore him; Shelley uses nature as healer.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "read their writings, life appears to consist in a warm sun and a garden of roses—in the smiles and frowns of a" (Chapter VI, paragraph 18).

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "the open air, climbing the hills or rowing on the lake. I fear that he will become an idler, unless we yield" (Chapter VI, paragraph 4).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence.
- "I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.
- "dear Victor" (Chapter VI, paragraph 3) Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it.
Evidence: "A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21)
Reasoning: Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
salubrious (adjective)	healthy; good for the body	We passed a fortnight in these perambulations: my health and spirits had long been restored, and they gained additional strength from the salubrious air I breathed, the natural incidents of our progress, and the conversation of my friend.	"salubrious": Origin: Latin salūbris ("healthy"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/salubrious#Etymology)
congratulatory (adjective)	expressing congratulations	The pretty Miss Mansfield has already received the congratulatory visits on her approaching marriage with a young Englishman, John Melbourne, Esq.
encomiums (noun)	speeches or remarks of high praise	Krempe was not equally docile; and in my condition at that time, of almost insupportable sensitiveness, his harsh blunt encomiums gave me even more	"encomiums": Origin of "encomium": Latin encōmium ("praise"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/encomium#Etymology) pain than the benevolent approbation of M.

vacillating (verb)	be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action	The poor woman was very vacillating in her repentance.	"vacillating": Origin of "vacillate": Latin vacillātum. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/vacillate#Etymology)
devolved (verb)	fallen as a duty (on someone)	I figure to myself that the task of attending on your sick bed has devolved on some mercenary old nurse, who could never guess your wishes, nor minister to them with the care and affection of your poor cousin.
dialects (noun)	the usage or vocabulary that is characteristic of a specific group of people	I did not, like him, attempt a critical knowledge of their dialects, for I did not contemplate making any other use of them than temporary amusement.
alleging (verb)	giving as a reason	Clerval, whose eyes and feelings were always quick in discerning the sensations of others, declined the subject, alleging, in excuse, his total ignorance; and the conversation took a more general turn.	"alleging": Origin of "allege": possibly Old French alleguer. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/allege#Etymology)
dimples (noun)	small hollows in the cheeks, seen when smiling	When he smiles, two little dimples appear on each cheek, which are rosy with health.
diffident (adjective)	showing modest reserve	Young men should be diffident of themselves, you know, M.
impassable (adjective)	incapable of being passed	Summer passed away in these occupations, and my return to Geneva was fixed for the latter end of autumn; but being delayed by several accidents, winter and snow arrived, the roads were deemed impassable, and my journey was retarded until the ensuing spring.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who writes to Victor during his recovery? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Elizabeth
2. Who is Justine Moritz? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A girl who became a servant and part of the family
3. How does Victor now feel about natural philosophy? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He cannot bear it
4. What does Clerval study? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Oriental languages
5. What restores Victor's spirits? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A walking tour in nature with Clerval
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter VI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Recovering, Victor reads a letter from Elizabeth telling of home and of Justine Moritz, a servant girl who became part of the family. Victor now hates natural philosophy. He and Clerval study languages and take a restorative walking tour.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter VI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter VI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "We passed a fortnight in these perambulations: my health and spirits had long been restored, and they gained additional strength from the salubrious air I breathed, the natural incidents of our progress, and the…" What does "salubrious" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: salubrious: healthy; good for the body.
10. Reread: "The pretty Miss Mansfield has already received the congratulatory visits on her approaching marriage with a young Englishman, John Melbourne, Esq." What does "congratulatory" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: congratulatory: expressing congratulations.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter VI" suggest about recovery and false peace? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The calm before tragedy: Justine's introduction sets up her later fate.

2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about recovery and false peace? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““I must say also a few words to you, my dear cousin, of little darling William.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Recovering, Victor reads a letter from Elizabeth telling of home and of Justine Moritz, a servant girl who became part of the family. Victor now hates natural philosophy. He and Clerval study languages and take a restorative walking tour.
6. How does “Chapter VI” build on “Chapter V”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. On characterization: Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Shelley introduce Justine through a cheerful letter?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. On characterization: Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Romantic writers believed nature could heal the mind, a theme in Wordsworth's poetry. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. On setting: Spring and nature restore him; Shelley uses nature as healer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The calm before tragedy: Justine's introduction sets up her later fate.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. On characterization: Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter VI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about recovery and false peace? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter VI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. On setting: Spring and nature restore him; Shelley uses nature as healer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter VI” treats recovery and false peace with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter VII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about recovery and false peace? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21): Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Useful evidence: “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3): Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. Theme link: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I figure to myself that the task of attending on your sick bed has _____ on some mercenary old nurse, who could never guess your wishes, nor minister to them with the care and affection of your poor cousin.” Word bank: congratulatory, devolved, encomiums, salubrious

   Key: devolved

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How does Victor now feel about natural philosophy?

   A. He teaches it

   B. He is indifferent

   C. He loves it more

D. He cannot bear it

Key: D (He cannot bear it)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "The pretty Miss Mansfield has already received the congratulatory visits on her approaching marriage with a young Englishman, John Melbourne, Esq.", what does "congratulatory" most nearly mean?

   A. the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age)

   B. expressing congratulations

   C. the ritual placing of a corpse in a grave

   D. an executioner who hangs the condemned person

   Key: B (expressing congratulations)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Who is Justine Moritz?

   A. A professor

   B. An innkeeper

   C. Victor's sister

   D. A girl who became a servant and part of the family

   Key: D (A girl who became a servant and part of the family)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I did not, like him, attempt a critical knowledge of their _____, for I did not contemplate making any other use of them than temporary amusement." Word bank: salubrious, congratulatory, dialects, encomiums

   Key: dialects

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 21: "A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your _____ and affection warmed and opened my senses"

   Key: gentleness

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Who writes to Victor during his recovery?

   A. Walton

   B. Krempe

   C. His mother

   D. Elizabeth

   Key: D (Elizabeth)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "We passed a fortnight in these perambulations: my health and spirits had long been restored, and they gained additional strength from the salubrious air I breathed, the natural incidents of our progress, and the…", what does "salubrious" most nearly mean?

   A. devote (oneself) fully to

   B. cursing; expressions of hatred

   C. healthy; good for the body

   D. abundant wealth

   Key: C (healthy; good for the body)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "When he smiles, two little _____ appear on each cheek, which are rosy with health." Word bank: encomiums, congratulatory, salubrious, dimples

Key: dimples

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Krempe was not equally docile; and in my condition at that time, of almost insupportable sensitiveness, his harsh blunt encomiums gave me even more pain than the benevolent approbation of M.”, what does “encomiums” most nearly mean?

    A. pure; not mixed with anything else

    B. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness

    C. get involved, so as to alter or hinder an action, or through force or threat of force

    D. speeches or remarks of high praise

    Key: D (speeches or remarks of high praise)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What restores Victor's spirits?

    A. A party

    B. A sea voyage

    C. A walking tour in nature with Clerval

    D. A new experiment

    Key: C (A walking tour in nature with Clerval)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VI”?

    A. Confidence before danger

    B. Recovery and false peace

    C. Learning compassion by watching

    D. The meeting of two ambitious men

    Key: B (Recovery and false peace)

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3)

    A. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

    B. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    C. Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.

    D. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.

    Key: C (Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VI”? Clerval arrives and nurses Victor through months of fever: friendship as care, the opposite of Victor's conduct.

    A. Theme

    B. Metaphor

    C. Simile

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “dear Victor” (Chapter VI, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim. The words “dear Victor”

(Chapter VI, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) bears it out: Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation. But “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) complicates it, because here the text shows restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The poor woman was very vacillating in her repentance.”, what does “vacillating” most nearly mean?

    A. natural abilities or qualities

    B. be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action

    C. to make changes; to introduce something new

    D. spreading out

    Key: B (be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does Clerval study?

    A. Oriental languages

    B. Astronomy

    C. Medicine

    D. Chemistry

    Key: A (Oriental languages)

19. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VI”? Victor recovers into a "false peace" while the creature is out in the world, unseen.

    A. Theme

    B. Imagery

    C. Irony

    D. Simile

    Key: C (Irony)

20. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. The words “Chapter VI” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 5: “Since you left us, but one change has taken place in our little _____.” Word bank: profession, household, following, countenance

    Key: household

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VI, paragraph 11? “Ten thousand thanks to Henry for his kindness, his _____, and his many letters: we are sincerely grateful.”

    A. countenance

    B. perversity

    C. conclude

    D. affection

    Key: D (affection)

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VI, paragraph 5? “The republican _____ of our country have produced simpler and happier manners than those which prevail in the great monarchies that surround it.”

    A. affection

    B. institutions

    C. following

    D. conclude

    Key: B (institutions)

24. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. The words “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? “Adieu! my cousin; take care of yourself; and, I entreat you, write!” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “yourself” and “entreat”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 4 reveal about the character or situation? “He is desirous to be a true Swiss, and to enter into foreign service; but we cannot part with him, at least until his elder brother return to us.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “desirous” and “brother”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 20 shapes its tone: “I acceded with pleasure to this proposition: I was fond of exercise, and Clerval had always been my favourite companion in the rambles of this nature that I had taken among the scenes of my native country.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “proposition” and “favourite”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 23 shapes its tone: “We returned to our college on a Sunday afternoon: the peasants were dancing, and everyone we met appeared gay and happy.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 23) accurately and quotes “afternoon” and “returned”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 6 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “This benefit was fully repaid; Justine was the most grateful little creature in the world: I do not mean that she made any professions; I never heard one pass her lips; but you could see by her eyes that she almost adored her protectress.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “professions” and “protectress”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “My trifling occupations take up my time and amuse me, and I am rewarded for any exertions by seeing none but happy, kind faces around me.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “occupations” and “exertions”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Clerval, whose eyes and feelings were always quick in discerning the sensations of others, declined the subject, _____, in excuse, his total ignorance; and the conversation took a more general turn.” Word bank: alleging, congratulatory, encomiums, salubrious
    Key: alleging

32. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 4 shapes its tone: “You will find a happy, cheerful home, and friends who love you dearly.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “cheerful” and “friends”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

33. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VI, paragraph 4? “My uncle is not pleased with the idea of a military career in a distant country; but Ernest never had your powers of _____.”

    A. application

    B. inconsiderate

    C. therefore

    D. mountains

    Key: A (application)

34. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 1: “Clerval then put the _____ letter into my hands.” Word bank: following, profession, conclude, mountains

    Key: following

35. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VI, paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “Justine, thus received in our family, learned the duties of a servant; a condition which, in our fortunate country, does not include the idea of ignorance, and a sacrifice of the dignity of a human being.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VI, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “ignorance” and “sacrifice”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. The words “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. The words “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

38. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VI, paragraph 6: “Although her disposition was gay, and in many respects _____, yet she paid the greatest attention to every gesture of my aunt.” Word bank: therefore, servant, mountains, inconsiderate

    Key: inconsiderate

39. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph

21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. The words “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21)

    A. Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.

    B. Revulsion at his labor.

    C. Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror.

    D. Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence.

    Key: D (Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence.)

41. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: Clerval's nursing shows the care the novel values, and it highlights Victor's failure to give it. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21).

    Sample answer: Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation. The words “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him.

42. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21)

    A. Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.

    B. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

    C. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

    D. Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.

    Key: D (Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 9, 8, 18, 6, 1, 5, 7, 10, 2, 13, 12, 19, 14, 15, 20	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	21, 3, 5, 7, 22, 23, 13, 24, 25, 12, 26, 15, 27, 28, 29, 30	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	31, 7, 5, 4, 11, 24, 12, 26, 25, 13, 32, 15, 19, 28, 16, 30	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	33, 8, 1, 4, 34, 26, 13, 25, 12, 15, 35, 27, 28, 36, 29, 37	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	33, 9, 38, 13, 25, 12, 39, 28, 15, 35, 14, 19, 37, 16, 20, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman		recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4

	38, 1, 23, 39, 13, 25, 26, 14, 15, 28, 32, 19, 29, 37, 20, 16
College Sophomore	18, 31, 1, 26, 40, 24, 14, 27, 35, 28, 19, 15, 16, 30, 29, 20	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 4
College Junior	1, 23, 5, 13, 25, 14, 27, 41, 28, 15, 19, 35, 29, 16, 20, 30	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 7, synthesis 4
College Senior	10, 1, 5, 7, 13, 32, 14, 41, 35, 27, 15, 30, 29, 16, 37, 20	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 6, synthesis 5
Graduate / PhD	1, 5, 40, 42, 25, 32, 14, 19, 27, 28, 35, 15, 20, 30, 16, 29	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 7, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter VI,” how does Shelley show recovery and false peace? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter VI, how does Shelley develop the idea of recovery and false peace? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter VI develops the idea of recovery and false peace. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of recovery and false peace. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VI suggests about recovery and false peace. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses setting in Chapter VI to complicate the reader's understanding of recovery and false peace. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of recovery and false peace responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter VI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of recovery and false peace follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VI and its treatment of recovery and false peace. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VI as evidence for a larger claim about recovery and false peace in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of recovery and false peace. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Krempe was not equally docile; and in my condition at that time, of almost insupportable sensitiveness, his harsh blunt encomiums gave me even more pain than the benevolent approbation of M.

   As used in the text, what does the word “encomiums” most nearly mean?

   A. speeches or remarks of high praise

   B. showing modest reserve

   C. incapable of being passed

   D. small hollows in the cheeks, seen when smiling

2. “I must say also a few words to you, my dear cousin, of little darling William. I wish you could see him; he is very tall of his age, with sweet laughing blue eyes, dark eyelashes, and curling hair. When he smiles, two little dimples appear on each cheek, which are rosy with health. He has already had one or two little wives, but Louisa Biron is his favourite, a pretty little girl of five years of age.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VI”?

   A. Rejection and the turn to revenge

   B. Language, knowledge and sorrow

   C. The demand for a companion

   D. Recovery and false peace

SAT key: 1. A (speeches or remarks of high praise); 2. D (Recovery and false peace)

Lesson 14: Chapter VII

Focus: the first death and growing guilt

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in "Chapter VII" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (murder of a child): William, a young child, is found murdered. Some students may have experienced loss; allow a pass on reading aloud.
Student preview: This chapter reports the murder of a young child.
Suggested language: "How does the family's grief shape what happens next?"

Teacher only · spoilers

A letter from his father reports that Victor's youngest brother, William, has been murdered. Returning to Geneva during a storm, Victor glimpses the creature near the spot and becomes certain it is the killer. He learns that Justine has been accused because William's locket was found on her.

Background: The Alps and storms are classic sublime settings—vast nature that inspires awe and fear.

Significance: Victor's silence begins here: he knows the truth but says nothing, making him complicit.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because.... Content note before we start: This chapter reports the murder of a young child.
Prompt: Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: cabriolet — a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse; prognosticate — to predict; to be a sign of; desolating — causing great grief or ruin; festering — making (a wound) worse; poisoning; indelible — cannot be removed or erased. "indelible": Origin: Latin indēlēbilis ("indestructible").
Words: cabriolet: a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse · prognosticate: to predict; to be a sign of · desolating: causing great grief or ruin · festering: making (a wound) worse; poisoning · indelible: cannot be removed or erased

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The Alps and storms are classic sublime settings—vast nature that inspires awe and fear. Victor's silence begins here: he knows the truth but says nothing, making him complicit. Plot: William's murder (told in a letter), Victor's return to Geneva, the glimpse of the creature in the storm, and Justine's arrest. Setting: The thunderstorm over the Alps is sublime and reveals the creature by lightning. Irony: Victor knows who the murderer is but remains silent while Justine is accused. Watch for lightning: as in Chapter II, lightning reveals destructive power; here it shows Victor the creature.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "William is dead" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor's father writes that his young brother William is dead. Next, craft. I notice the three bare words, with no softening, placed where a letter would usually ease into bad news. The strongest word is "dead": the blunt word shows grief too large for polite language. Then, effect. Why does the news reach Victor in such a short sentence? My answer: The creature's first act of revenge strikes Victor's family; the short sentence marks the end of Victor's peace and the start of his guilt.

> William is dead (Chapter VII, paragraph 4)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "William is dead" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor's father writes that his young brother William is dead. Next, craft. I notice the three bare words, with no softening, placed where a letter would usually ease into bad news. The strongest word is "dead": the blunt word shows grief too large for polite language. Then, effect. Why does the news reach Victor in such a short sentence? My answer: The creature's first act of revenge strikes Victor's family; the short sentence marks the end of Victor's peace and the start of his guilt.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: He assumes the killer cannot be human because of how the creature looks, judging by appearance. This connects to guilt and responsibility: he knows the truth and stays silent. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: The first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. (Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.)

> Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child (Chapter VII, paragraph 29)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: He assumes the killer cannot be human because of how the creature looks, judging by appearance. This connects to guilt and responsibility: he knows the truth and stays silent.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: The first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. (Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for plot, setting (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first death and growing guilt? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the first death and growing guilt. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. When the text says "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29), it shows this directly. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

Task: Annotate the chapter for plot, setting (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the first death and growing guilt? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the first death and growing guilt. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. When the text says "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29), it shows this directly. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent? Ask whether Victor's silence is cowardice or a reasonable fear of being thought mad. Require evidence.

Anchor question: Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent?

Facilitation: Ask whether Victor's silence is cowardice or a reasonable fear of being thought mad. Require evidence.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first death and growing guilt? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. ("Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child", Chapter VII, paragraph 29). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the first death and growing guilt? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. ("Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child", Chapter VII, paragraph 29). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how plot shapes the first death and growing guilt. Key takeaway: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Plot: William's murder (told in a letter), Victor's return to Geneva, the glimpse of the creature in the storm, and Justine's arrest.
- Setting: The thunderstorm over the Alps is sublime and reveals the creature by lightning.
- Irony: Victor knows who the murderer is but remains silent while Justine is accused.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

Symbols and motifs

- lightning: as in Chapter II, lightning reveals destructive power; here it shows Victor the creature.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "William is dead" (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.
- "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.
- "I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

> Claim: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows.
> Evidence: "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29)
> Reasoning: He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
cabriolet (noun)	a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse	But now, as soon as the horses arrived, I hurried into a cabriolet, and bade farewell to my friend.

prognosticate (verb)	to predict; to be a sign of	Is this to prognosticate peace, or to mock at my unhappiness?"
desolating (adjective)	causing great grief or ruin	One sudden and desolating change had taken place; but a thousand little circumstances might have by degrees worked other alterations, which, although they were done more tranquilly, might not be the less decisive.
festering (verb)	making (a wound) worse; poisoning	"Come, Victor; not brooding thoughts of vengeance against the assassin, but with feelings of peace and gentleness, that will heal, instead of festering, the wounds of our minds.
indelible (adjective)	cannot be removed or erased	Six years had elapsed, passed as a dream but for one indelible trace, and I stood in the same place where I had last embraced my father before my departure for Ingolstadt.	"indelible": Origin: Latin indēlēbilis ("indestructible"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/indelible#Etymology)
carnage (noun)	the savage and excessive killing of many people	I had turned loose into the world a depraved wretch, whose delight was in carnage and misery; had he not murdered my brother?
ravings (noun)	declaiming wildly	I well knew that if any other had communicated such a relation to me, I should have looked upon it as the ravings of insanity.
credited (verb)	believed	Besides, the strange nature of the animal would elude all pursuit, even if I were so far credited as to persuade my relatives to commence it.	"credited": Origin: Latin credere ("to trust in"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/credited#Etymology)
assassin (noun)	a murderer	"Come, Victor; not brooding thoughts of vengeance against the assassin, but with feelings of peace and gentleness, that will heal, instead of festering, the wounds of our minds.	"assassin": Origin: French assassin. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/assassin#Etymology)
precipices (noun)	a very steep cliff	A being whom I myself had formed, and endued with life, had met me at midnight among the precipices of an inaccessible mountain.

Discussion questions

1. Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.

3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who has been murdered? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: William, Victor's youngest brother
2. What weather greets Victor near Geneva? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A violent thunderstorm
3. What does the lightning reveal? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature on the mountainside
4. Who is accused of the murder? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Justine Moritz
5. What evidence was found on the accused? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The miniature portrait (locket) William wore
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter VII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A letter from his father reports that Victor's youngest brother, William, has been murdered. Returning to Geneva during a storm, Victor glimpses the creature near the spot and becomes certain it is the killer. He learns that Justine has been accused because William's locket was found on her.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter VII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter VII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "But now, as soon as the horses arrived, I hurried into a cabriolet, and bade farewell to my friend." What does "cabriolet" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: cabriolet: a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse.
10. Reread: "Is this to prognosticate peace, or to mock at my unhappiness?"" What does "prognosticate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: prognosticate: to predict; to be a sign of.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter VII" suggest about the first death and growing guilt? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor's silence begins here: he knows the truth but says nothing, making him complicit.

2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the imagery in this chapter shape what we understand about the first death and growing guilt? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4): Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““Come, Victor; not brooding thoughts of vengeance against the assassin, but with feelings of peace and gentleness, that will heal, instead of festering, the wounds of our minds.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A letter from his father reports that Victor's youngest brother, William, has been murdered. Returning to Geneva during a storm, Victor glimpses the creature near the spot and becomes certain it is the killer. He learns that Justine has been accused because William's locket was found on her.
6. How does “Chapter VII” build on “Chapter VI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Should Victor tell the authorities what he knows? Why does he stay silent?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4):

Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. On irony: Victor knows who the murderer is but remains silent while Justine is accused. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: The Alps and storms are classic sublime settings—vast nature that inspires awe and fear. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. On setting: The thunderstorm over the Alps is sublime and reveals the creature by lightning. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor's silence begins here: he knows the truth but says nothing, making him complicit.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4): Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter VII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the first death and growing guilt? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter VII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4): Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter VII” treats the first death and growing guilt with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter VIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4): Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the first death and growing guilt? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Useful evidence: “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29): Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. Theme link: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Imagery: sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Besides, the strange nature of the animal would elude all pursuit, even if I were so far _____ as to persuade my relatives to commence it.” Word bank: desolating, prognosticate, cabriolet, credited

   Key: credited

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “But now, as soon as the horses arrived, I hurried into a cabriolet, and bade farewell to my friend.”, what does “cabriolet” most nearly mean?

   A. a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse

   B. someone who listens attentively

   C. to call down (curses) on

   D. wet with drops, as of dew or tears

   Key: A (a light two-wheeled carriage pulled by one horse)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What weather greets Victor near Geneva?

   A. A blizzard

   B. A violent thunderstorm

   C. Fog

   D. A heatwave

   Key: B (A violent thunderstorm)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Is this to prognosticate peace, or to mock at my unhappiness?””, what does “prognosticate” most nearly mean?

   A. very upsetting

B. to predict; to be a sign of

C. a very large seabird of the southern oceans

D. explained; revealed

Key: B (to predict; to be a sign of)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I well knew that if any other had communicated such a relation to me, I should have looked upon it as the _____ of insanity." Word bank: desolating, prognosticate, cabriolet, ravings

   Key: ravings

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 29: "I _____ in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me"

   Key: perceived

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "One sudden and desolating change had taken place; but a thousand little circumstances might have by degrees worked other alterations, which, although they were done more tranquilly, might not be the less decisive.", what does "desolating" most nearly mean?

   A. causing great grief or ruin

   B. to make someone feel favorably in advance

   C. transmit information

   D. be undecided about something; waver between conflicting positions or courses of action

   Key: A (causing great grief or ruin)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Six years had elapsed, passed as a dream but for one _____ trace, and I stood in the same place where I had last embraced my father before my departure for Ingolstadt." Word bank: desolating, indelible, cabriolet, prognosticate

   Key: indelible

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What does the lightning reveal?

   A. A burning house

   B. The creature on the mountainside

   C. Justine

   D. A ship

   Key: B (The creature on the mountainside)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What evidence was found on the accused?

    A. A letter

    B. The miniature portrait (locket) William wore

    C. Blood

    D. A knife

    Key: B (The miniature portrait (locket) William wore)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. The words "Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child" (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. The words “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VII”?
    A. The first death and growing guilt
    B. First experiences of the senses
    C. Ambition and the hunger for discovery
    D. Language, knowledge and sorrow

    Key: A (The first death and growing guilt)
14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? The thunderstorm over the Alps is sublime and reveals the creature by lightning.
    A. Theme
    B. Point of view
    C. Structure
    D. Setting

    Key: D (Setting)
15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.
    A. Isolation and the need for companionship
    B. Nature versus nurture
    C. Creation and responsibility
    D. The costs of unchecked ambition

    Key: C (Creation and responsibility)
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VII”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: The first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. The words “Chapter VII” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Who has been murdered?
    A. Alphonse
    B. Elizabeth
    C. Clerval
    D. William, Victor's youngest brother

    Key: D (William, Victor's youngest brother)
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 8: ““He was conveyed home, and the anguish that was visible in my _____ betrayed the secret to Elizabeth.” Word bank: miniature, William, countenance, additional
    Key: countenance

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VII, paragraph 20? “Poor little fellow! one only _____ have we; his friends mourn and weep, but he is at rest.”

    A. wretchedness

    B. miniature

    C. countenance

    D. consolation

    Key: D (consolation)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VII, paragraph 10? “We are all unhappy; but will not that be an _____ motive for you, my son, to return and be our comforter?”

    A. discovered

    B. misfortune

    C. Frankenstein

    D. additional

    Key: D (additional)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VII, paragraph 6? ““Last Thursday (May 7th), I, my niece, and your two brothers, went to walk in _____.”

    A. Plainpalais

    B. miniature

    C. Frankenstein

    D. unremitted

    Key: A (Plainpalais)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “But that would be a cruel kindness, and I dare not do it.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “kindness”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 20 reveal about the character or situation? “He can no longer be a subject for pity; we must reserve that for his miserable survivors.”” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “survivors” and “miserable”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “The evening was warm and serene, and we prolonged our walk farther than usual.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “prolonged” and “farther”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 26 shapes its tone: “Yet, as I drew nearer home, grief and fear again overcame me.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 26) accurately and quotes “overcame” and “nearer”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) bears it out: He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret. But “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 29: “Nothing in human shape could have _____ that fair child”

    Key: destroyed

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I had turned loose into the world a depraved wretch, whose delight was in _____ and misery; had he not murdered my brother?” Word bank: desolating, prognosticate, cabriolet, carnage

    Key: carnage

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line ““Come, Victor; not brooding thoughts of vengeance against the assassin, but with feelings of peace and gentleness, that will heal, instead of festering, the wounds of our minds.”, what does “festering” most nearly mean?

    A. making (a wound) worse; poisoning

    B. an exchange; a giving and receiving

    C. surrounded

    D. a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice

    Key: A (making (a wound) worse; poisoning)

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 8 shapes its tone: “At first I attempted to prevent her; but she persisted, and entering the room where it lay, hastily examined the neck of the victim, and clasping her hands exclaimed, ‘O God!” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “exclaimed” and “persisted”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

31. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 27 shapes its tone: “As I could not pass through the town, I was obliged to cross the lake in a boat to arrive at Plainpalais.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 27) accurately and quotes “Plainpalais” and “through”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 28 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “The most violent storm hung exactly north of the town, over that part of the lake which lies between the promontory of Bellerive and the village of Copêt.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 28) accurately and quotes “promontory” and “Bellerive”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: ““I can offer you no consolation, my friend,” said he; “your disaster is irreparable.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes “irreparable” and “consolation”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

34. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? William's murder (told in a letter), Victor's return to Geneva, the glimpse of the creature in the storm, and Justine's arrest.

    A. Plot

    B. Conflict

    C. Imagery

    D. Point of view

    Key: A (Plot)

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 10 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “I now say, Thank God she did not live to witness the cruel, miserable death of her youngest darling!” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “miserable” and “youngest”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29)

    A. A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.

    B. Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double.

    C. Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.

    D. Benevolence repaid with treachery.

    Key: B (Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double.)

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. The words “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter VII, paragraph 35 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Tears, unrestrained, fell from my brother’s eyes; a sense of mortal agony crept over my frame.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VII, paragraph 35) accurately and quotes “unrestrained” and “brother”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

39. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VII, paragraph 17: “Tears also gushed from the eyes of Clerval, as he read the account of my _____.” Word bank: William, miniature, misfortune, Frankenstein
Key: misfortune

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29)
A. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.
B. Guilt imagined as hell.
C. Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.
D. Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.
Key: D (Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature.)

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4)
A. "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.
B. Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance.
C. Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.
D. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.
Key: C (Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.)

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. The words “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

43. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
Sample answer: Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. The words “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 3, 2, 19, 20, 5, 21, 22, 23, 12, 13, 24, 15, 25, 26	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	27, 28, 21, 8, 10, 19, 29, 22, 23, 13, 12, 25, 30, 31, 32, 33	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	6, 28, 18, 2, 17, 8, 13, 22, 23, 12, 31, 25, 15, 34, 16, 33	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	3, 7, 1, 27, 6, 23, 12, 22, 13, 15, 24, 34, 14, 35, 16, 26	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	18, 8, 4, 36, 22, 23, 13, 24, 30, 25, 15, 34, 37, 35, 16, 38	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	28, 21, 39, 23, 22, 40, 12, 30, 15, 14, 25, 34, 33, 32, 26, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	8, 5, 22, 41, 40, 23, 25, 42, 34, 15, 31, 33, 38, 35, 16, 32	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	8, 28, 13, 23, 22, 15, 31, 34, 25, 14, 16, 33, 26, 38, 35, 32	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	29, 8, 28, 13, 25, 24, 15, 30, 14, 16, 43, 32, 26, 38, 35, 33	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 7
Graduate / PhD	39, 8, 17, 3, 9, 24, 25, 14, 33, 16, 38, 35, 32, 26, 37, 43	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 3, synthesis 8

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter VII,” how does Shelley show the first death and growing guilt? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter VII, how does Shelley develop the idea of the first death and growing guilt? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter VII develops the idea of the first death and growing guilt. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of the first death and growing guilt. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VII suggests about the first death and growing guilt. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and imagery), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter VII to complicate the reader's understanding of the first death and growing guilt. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the first death and growing guilt responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter VII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the first death and growing guilt follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VII and its treatment of the first death and growing guilt. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and imagery, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VII as evidence for a larger claim about the first death and growing guilt in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the first death and growing guilt. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. One sudden and desolating change had taken place; but a thousand little circumstances might have by degrees worked other alterations, which, although they were done more tranquilly, might not be the less decisive.

As used in the text, what does the word "desolating" most nearly mean?

A. a very steep cliff

B. causing great grief or ruin

C. believed

D. a murderer

2. "Come, Victor; not brooding thoughts of vengeance against the assassin, but with feelings of peace and gentleness, that will heal, instead of festering, the wounds of our minds. Enter the house of mourning, my friend, but with kindness and affection for those who love you, and not with hatred for your enemies.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter VII"?

A. First experiences of the senses

B. The final reckoning

C. Obsession and the discovery of life

D. The first death and growing guilt

SAT key: 1. B (causing great grief or ruin); 2. D (The first death and growing guilt)

Lesson 15: Chapter VIII

Focus: injustice and the burden of silence

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter VIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “It does not appear that Frankenstein attempted to avert her fate, by communicating his horrible secret; but, indeed, who would have given him credit, or in what manner could he have supported his tale?” (Walter Scott (attrib.), novelist and critic, "Remarks on Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus; A Novel," Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2:12 (March 1818), p. 617; public domain). Socratic seminar: Scott half-excuses Victor. Is silence justified when no one would believe the truth? Students weigh Victor's own reasoning in Chapter VIII. Objective: Analyze Victor's silence during Justine's trial and the theme of injustice. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3

Content note (wrongful execution, coerced confession): Justine is pressured into a false confession and executed. Frame it as injustice and discuss how institutions fail the vulnerable.
Student preview: An innocent character is pressured to confess and is executed.
Suggested language: “Why does Justine confess to something she did not do? Who is responsible?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Justine is tried. Though innocent, she confesses under pressure from her confessor, who threatened her with damnation, and is executed. Elizabeth defends her eloquently; Victor suffers privately but does not speak.

Background: Courts of the time could convict on circumstantial evidence; religious confession carried enormous social pressure.

Significance: Justice fails, showing how society punishes the vulnerable while the guilty (Victor, indirectly) remain free.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order. Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because.... Content note before we start: An innocent character is pressured to confess and is executed.
Prompt: Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order.
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: tarnish — to dull or stain the brightness of; unmingled — pure; not mixed with anything else; playfellow — a companion at play; gnashed — grind together, of teeth; heartrending — causing or marked by grief or anguish. "unmingled": Origin: an English formation from un- + mingled.
Words: tarnish: to dull or stain the brightness of · unmingled: pure; not mixed with anything else · playfellow: a companion at play · gnashed: grind together, of teeth · heartrending: causing or marked by grief or anguish

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Courts of the time could convict on circumstantial evidence; religious confession carried enormous social pressure. Justice fails, showing how society punishes the vulnerable while the guilty (Victor, indirectly) remain free. Irony: Justine's false confession and execution: the court reaches the wrong verdict by correct procedure. Characterization: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing. Tone / mood: Bitter and self-accusing: Victor calls himself the true murderer. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "that he said I was. He threatened excommunication and hell fire in my last moments, if I continued obdurate. Dear lady, I" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I did confess; but I confessed a lie" slowly and put it in my own words: Justine, condemned for William's murder, tells Elizabeth she falsely confessed because her confessor threatened her with damnation. Next, craft. I notice the paradox of confessing a lie, which turns a religious act into a tool of injustice. The strongest word is "lie": it shows the confession that condemned her was forced and false. Then, effect. What does Justine mean when she says she confessed a lie? My answer: Justine dies innocent while Victor, who knows the truth, stays silent; her false confession exposes how fear and authority can crush the innocent.

> I did confess; but I confessed a lie (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I did confess; but I confessed a lie" slowly and put it in my own words: Justine, condemned for William's murder, tells Elizabeth she falsely confessed because her confessor threatened her with damnation. Next, craft. I notice the paradox of confessing a lie, which turns a religious act into a tool of injustice. The strongest word is "lie": it shows the confession that condemned her was forced and false. Then, effect. What does Justine mean when she says she confessed a lie? My answer: Justine dies innocent while Victor, who knows the truth, stays silent; her false confession exposes how fear and authority can crush the innocent.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Look at the craft: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. (Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.)

> The tortures of the accused did not equal mine (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Look at the craft: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. (Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for irony, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about injustice and the burden of silence? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of injustice and the burden of silence. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. When the text says "The tortures of the accused did not equal mine" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11), it shows this directly. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.
Task: Annotate the chapter for irony, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about injustice and the burden of silence? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of injustice and the burden of silence. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. When the text says “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11), it shows this directly. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order. Expect strong reactions. Ask: what could Victor have done, and what would it have cost him?
Anchor question: Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order.
Facilitation: Expect strong reactions. Ask: what could Victor have done, and what would it have cost him?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about injustice and the burden of silence? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. ("The tortures of the accused did not equal mine", Chapter VIII, paragraph 11). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about injustice and the burden of silence? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. ("The tortures of the accused did not equal mine", Chapter VIII, paragraph 11). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how irony shapes injustice and the burden of silence. Key takeaway: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Irony: Justine's false confession and execution: the court reaches the wrong verdict by correct procedure.
- Characterization: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing.
- Tone / mood: Bitter and self-accusing: Victor calls himself the true murderer.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "that he said

I was. He threatened excommunication and hell fire in my last moments, if I continued obdurate. Dear lady, I" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22).

- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: "I believed in her innocence; I knew it. Could the daemon, who had (I did not for a minute doubt) murdered my" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "I did confess; but I confessed a lie" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power.
- "The tortures of the accused did not equal mine" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.
- "the never-dying worm alive in my bosom" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29) Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption.
Evidence: "The tortures of the accused did not equal mine" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11)
Reasoning: He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
tarnish (verb)	to dull or stain the brightness of	Elizabeth also wept, and was unhappy; but hers also was the misery of innocence, which, like a cloud that passes over the fair moon, for a while hides but cannot tarnish its brightness.
unmingled (adjective)	pure; not mixed with anything else	I passed a night of unmingled wretchedness.	"unmingled": Origin: an English formation from un- + mingled. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unmingled#Etymology)
playfellow (noun)	a companion at play	You shall not die!—You, my playfellow, my companion, my sister, perish on the scaffold!
gnashed (verb)	grind together, of teeth	I gnashed my teeth, and ground them together, uttering a groan that came from my inmost soul.

heartrending (adjective)	causing or marked by grief or anguish	Elizabeth's heartrending eloquence failed to move the judges from their settled conviction in the criminality of the saintly sufferer.
distrusted (verb)	regard as untrustworthy; regard with suspicion; have no faith or confidence in	"Oh, Justine! forgive me for having for one moment distrusted you.	"distrusted": Origin of "distrust": an English formation from dis- + trust. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/distrust#Etymology)
excommunication (noun)	the state of being excommunicated	He threatened excommunication and hell fire in my last moments, if I continued obdurate.
unfeeling (adjective)	cold and unkind	And when I received their cold answers, and heard the harsh unfeeling reasoning of these men, my purposed avowal died away on my lips.
repressed (verb)	held back; kept under control	Justine assumed an air of cheerfulness, while she with difficulty repressed her bitter tears.	"repressed": Origin of "repress": Latin repressus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/repress#Etymology)
unjustly (adverb)	in an unjust manner	I leave a sad and bitter world; and if you remember me, and think of me as of one unjustly condemned, I am resigned to the fate awaiting me.	"unjustly": Origin: an English formation from unjust + -ly. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/unjustly#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order.
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What happens at Justine's trial? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: She is convicted and condemned
2. Why does Justine confess falsely? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Her confessor threatened her with damnation
3. Who speaks publicly for Justine? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Elizabeth
4. How does Victor respond? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He suffers in silence
5. What theme does the trial highlight? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The failure of justice
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter VIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Justine is tried. Though innocent, she confesses under pressure from her confessor, who threatened her with damnation, and is executed. Elizabeth defends her eloquently; Victor suffers privately but does not speak.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter VIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter VIII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Elizabeth also wept, and was unhappy; but hers also was the misery of innocence, which, like a cloud that passes over the fair moon, for a while hides but cannot tarnish its brightness." What does "tarnish" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: tarnish: to dull or stain the brightness of.
10. Reread: "I passed a night of unmingled wretchedness." What does "unmingled" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: unmingled: pure; not mixed with anything else.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter VIII" suggest about injustice and the burden of silence? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Justice fails, showing how society punishes the vulnerable while the guilty (Victor, indirectly) remain free.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about injustice and the burden of silence? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: "I did confess; but I confessed a lie" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22): Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. On characterization: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “I passed a night of unmingled wretchedness.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter VIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Justine is tried. Though innocent, she confesses under pressure from her confessor, who threatened her with damnation, and is executed. Elizabeth defends her eloquently; Victor suffers privately but does not speak.
6. How does “Chapter VIII” build on “Chapter VII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11): Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29): Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. On characterization: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Who is responsible for Justine's death? Rank the characters and defend your order.” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22): Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Courts of the time could convict on circumstantial evidence; religious confession carried enormous social pressure. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine”

(Chapter VIII, paragraph 11): Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Justice fails, showing how society punishes the vulnerable while the guilty (Victor, indirectly) remain free." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: "the never-dying worm alive in my bosom" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29): Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: "I did confess; but I confessed a lie" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22): Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. On characterization: Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter VIII" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about injustice and the burden of silence? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: "The tortures of the accused did not equal mine" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11): Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about "Chapter VIII": one recall, one "why/how", and one "should/what if". Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: "the never-dying worm alive in my bosom" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29): Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22): Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11): Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. On irony: Justine's false confession and execution: the court reaches the wrong verdict by correct procedure. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter VIII” treats injustice and the burden of silence with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29): Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter IX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22): Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about injustice and the burden of silence? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11): Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Useful evidence: “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29): Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. Theme link: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] How does Victor respond?

   A. He suffers in silence

   B. He confesses

   C. He leaves Geneva

   D. He accuses Ernest

   Key: A (He suffers in silence)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Why does Justine confess falsely?

   A. She wanted to protect Victor

   B. She was bribed

   C. Her confessor threatened her with damnation

   D. She forgot

   Key: C (Her confessor threatened her with damnation)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What happens at Justine's trial?

   A. The trial is cancelled

   B. She is freed

   C. She escapes

   D. She is convicted and condemned

   Key: D (She is convicted and condemned)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Who speaks publicly for Justine?

   A. Victor

   B. Alphonse

   C. Elizabeth

   D. Clerval

   Key: C (Elizabeth)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He threatened _____ and hell fire in my last moments, if I continued obdurate." Word bank: unmingled, excommunication, tarnish, playfellow

   Key: excommunication

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Elizabeth's _____ eloquence failed to move the judges from their settled conviction in the criminality of the saintly sufferer." Word bank:

unmingled, tarnish, playfellow, heartrending

Key: heartrending

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VIII, paragraph 10? ""I am," said she, "the cousin of the unhappy child who was _____, or rather his sister, for I was educated by, and have lived with his parents ever since and even long before, his birth."

   A. entirely

   B. witnesses

   C. murdered

   D. concerning

   Key: C (murdered)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 1: "We passed a few sad hours, until eleven o'clock, when the trial was to _____." Word bank: justice, murdered, endeavour, commence

   Key: commence

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "You shall not die!—You, my playfellow, my companion, my sister, perish on the scaffold!", what does "playfellow" most nearly mean?

   A. call upon in supplication; entreat

   B. a companion at play

   C. frightening

   D. giving as a reason

   Key: B (a companion at play)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 7: "I believe that I have no enemy on earth, and none surely would have been so wicked as to destroy me _____." Word bank: wantonly, murdered, bewildered, countenance

    Key: wantonly

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "And when I received their cold answers, and heard the harsh _____ reasoning of these men, my purposed avowal died away on my lips." Word bank: unfeeling, tarnish, playfellow, unmingled

    Key: unfeeling

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? "My father and the rest of the family being obliged to attend as witnesses, I accompanied them to the court." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes "accompanied" and "witnesses", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 10 reveal about the character or situation? "I have lived in the same house with her, at one time for five, and at another for nearly two years." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes "another" and "nearly", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 3 shapes its tone: "When shown the body, she fell into violent hysterics, and kept her bed for several days."

Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “hysterics” and “several”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

    A. Isolation and the need for companionship

    B. The costs of unchecked ambition

    C. Creation and responsibility

    D. Nature versus nurture

    Key: C (Creation and responsibility)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 7 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I know of no opportunity afforded him for so doing; or, if I had, why should he have stolen the jewel, to part with it again so soon?” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “opportunity” and “afforded”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What theme does the trial highlight?

    A. The joy of law

    B. The power of science

    C. The love of travel

    D. The failure of justice

    Key: D (The failure of justice)

18. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 15 shapes its tone: ““My cousin,” replied I, “it is decided as you may have expected; all judges had rather that ten innocent should suffer, than that one guilty should escape.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes “expected” and “innocent”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “A tear seemed to dim her eye when she saw us; but she quickly recovered herself, and a look of sorrowful affection seemed to attest her utter guiltlessness.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “guiltlessness” and “affection”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

20. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) bears it out: He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action. But “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) complicates it, because here the text shows justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter VIII, paragraph 6? “On her return, at about nine o’clock, she met a man, who asked her if she had seen _____ of the child who was lost.”

    A. discovered

    B. wretched

    C. witnesses

    D. anything

    Key: D (anything)

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Elizabeth also wept, and was unhappy; but hers also was the misery of innocence, which, like a cloud that passes over the fair moon, for a while hides but cannot tarnish its brightness.”, what does “tarnish” most nearly mean?

    A. to dull or stain the brightness of

    B. deeply distressing

    C. make unwilling

    D. the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age)

    Key: A (to dull or stain the brightness of)

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 11: “The _____ of the accused did not equal mine”

    Key: tortures

24. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. The words “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 13 shapes its tone: “I had before experienced sensations of horror; and I have endeavoured to bestow upon them adequate expressions, but words cannot convey an idea of the heart-sickening despair that I then endured.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “endeavoured” and “expressions”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VIII”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. The words “Chapter VIII” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I passed a night of unmingled wretchedness.”, what does “unmingled” most nearly mean?

    A. a means to an end; not necessarily a principled or ethical one

    B. pure; not mixed with anything else

    C. beats; throbs (of the heart)

    D. declaiming wildly

    Key: B (pure; not mixed with anything else)

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Claim: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11).

    Sample answer: He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action. The words “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 6 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “Most of the night she spent here watching; towards morning she believed that she slept for a few minutes; some steps disturbed her, and she awoke.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “disturbed” and “watching”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter VIII, paragraph 22: “I did confess; but I _____ a lie”

    Key: confessed

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Oh, Justine! forgive me for having for one moment _____ you.” Word bank: tarnish, distrusted, unmingled, playfellow

    Key: distrusted

32. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. The words “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. The words “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11)

    A. Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.

    B. Political education; links to Godwin.

    C. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

    D. Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.

    Key: A (Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness.)

35. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VIII”? Elizabeth defends Justine eloquently; Justine accepts death with dignity; Victor suffers internally and says nothing.

    A. Alliteration

    B. Characterization

    C. Setting

    D. Theme

    Key: B (Characterization)

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 20 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Do you also join with my enemies to crush me, to condemn me as a murderer?” Her voice was suffocated with sobs.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “suffocated” and “murderer”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter VIII, paragraph 17 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““Yes,” said Elizabeth, “I will go, although she is guilty; and you, Victor, shall accompany me: I cannot go alone.” The idea of this visit was torture to me, yet I could not refuse.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter VIII, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “Elizabeth” and “accompany”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29)

    A. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

    B. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    C. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

    D. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

    Key: D (Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.)

39. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VIII”? Justine's false confession and execution: the court reaches the wrong verdict by correct procedure.

    A. Symbolism

    B. Setting

    C. Irony

    D. Imagery

    Key: C (Irony)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Victor makes Justine's death about his suffering: a striking self-centeredness. The words “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VIII”?

    A. The first death and growing guilt

    B. Injustice and the burden of silence

    C. Recovery and false peace

    D. The final reckoning

    Key: B (Injustice and the burden of silence)

42. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power. The words “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

43. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “I did confess; but I confessed a lie” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22)

    A. The ending: ambiguous death.

    B. Pathetic fallacy and anticlimax: "accomplishment" is followed by horror.

    C. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    D. Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power.

    Key: D (Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 4, 1, 9, 5, 8, 6, 11, 3, 7, 13, 12, 18, 15, 19, 20	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1

HS Sophomore	3, 21, 4, 22, 10, 23, 1, 17, 13, 24, 12, 15, 18, 25, 20, 26	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 6, 11, 21, 27, 9, 22, 24, 13, 12, 15, 28, 18, 19, 29, 26	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	3, 2, 30, 21, 31, 12, 32, 24, 13, 33, 25, 15, 18, 20, 29, 26	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 21, 4, 31, 34, 12, 24, 14, 25, 18, 35, 33, 36, 37, 16, 29	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 31, 4, 12, 38, 24, 13, 19, 18, 14, 39, 15, 40, 36, 20, 37	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	23, 3, 6, 2, 32, 41, 18, 19, 15, 33, 14, 20, 29, 16, 37, 36	recall 4, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	31, 7, 6, 3, 38, 19, 14, 15, 18, 25, 26, 40, 16, 37, 29, 20	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	8, 6, 3, 2, 19, 35, 15, 18, 33, 20, 29, 42, 37, 36, 40, 16	recall 4, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 7
Graduate / PhD	6, 31, 38, 43, 35, 18, 25, 15, 14, 19, 20, 36, 29, 37, 40, 16	recall 2, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter VIII,” how does Shelley show injustice and the burden of silence? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Chapter VIII, how does Shelley develop the idea of injustice and the burden of silence? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter VIII develops the idea of injustice and the burden of silence. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter VIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of injustice and the burden of silence. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter VIII suggests about injustice and the burden of silence. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses irony in Chapter VIII to complicate the reader's understanding of injustice and the burden of silence. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter VIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of injustice and the burden of silence responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter VIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of injustice and the burden of silence follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter VIII and its treatment of injustice and the burden of silence. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter VIII as evidence for a larger claim about injustice and the burden of silence in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter VIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of injustice and the burden of silence. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. You shall not die!—You, my playfellow, my companion, my sister, perish on the scaffold!

   As used in the text, what does the word “playfellow” most nearly mean?

   A. in an unjust manner

   B. held back; kept under control

   C. a companion at play

   D. cold and unkind

2. I passed a night of unmingled wretchedness. In the morning I went to the court; my lips and throat were parched. I dared not ask the fatal question; but I was known, and the officer guessed the cause of my visit. The ballots had been thrown; they were all black, and Justine was condemned.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter VIII”?

   A. Horror at the moment of creation

   B. Reading and identity

   C. Isolation in the north

   D. Injustice and the burden of silence

SAT key: 1. C (a companion at play); 2. D (Injustice and the burden of silence)

Lesson 16: Chapter IX

Focus: despair and the sublime

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “Chapter IX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (suicidal thoughts): Victor contemplates ending his life. Use the safe-messaging script; the quiz item is worded as what his despair leads him to contemplate.
Student preview: Victor feels deep despair in this chapter and thinks about ending his life. If this topic is hard for you, you can talk to me or a counselor.
Suggested language: “What pulls Victor back? How does the landscape affect his despair?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Let a counselor know in advance that this chapter is being taught.

Teacher only · spoilers

Tormented by guilt, Victor considers suicide. His family withdraws to Belrive. Victor journeys into the Alps toward Chamounix, where the majesty of mountains, glaciers and Mont Blanc offers temporary relief.

Background: The Vale of Chamounix and Mont Blanc were Romantic pilgrimage sites; Percy Shelley wrote 'Mont Blanc' (1816).

Significance: The sublime landscape mirrors Victor's mind: grand, cold and overwhelming.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to the sublime because.... Content note before we start: Victor feels deep despair in this chapter and thinks about ending his life. If this topic is hard for you, you can talk to me or a counselor. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.
Prompt: How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to the sublime because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: lulling — calming; making sleepy; glaciers — huge slow-moving masses of ice; perpetrate — perform an act, usually with a negative connotation; avalanche — a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain; ephemeral — lasting a very short time. "ephemeral": Origin: New Latin ephemerus.
Words: lulling: calming; making sleepy · glaciers: huge slow-moving masses of ice · perpetrate: perform an act, usually with a negative connotation · avalanche: a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain · ephemeral: lasting a very short time

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The Vale of Chamounix and Mont Blanc were Romantic pilgrimage sites; Percy Shelley wrote 'Mont Blanc' (1816). The sublime landscape mirrors Victor's mind: grand, cold and overwhelming. Setting: The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him. Tone / mood: Despair; Victor considers suicide in the lake but thinks of his family. Imagery: Glaciers, torrents, "awful and majestic" peaks dwarf human grief. Watch for sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "at ten o'clock, and the impossibility of remaining on the lake after that hour, had rendered our residence within the walls of" (Chapter IX, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead..." slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says nothing hurts the mind more than the dead calm of inaction and certainty after a rush of events. Next, craft. I notice the contrast between "quick succession" and "dead calmness," which turns stillness into torment. The strongest word is "calmness": it is normally peaceful, but here it is "dead," the calm of guilt with nothing left to do. Then, effect. Why is the calm after the trial so painful for Victor? My answer: The calm after the trial is so painful for Victor because William and Justine are dead and he can neither undo nor confess; the stillness leaves him alone with his responsibility.

> Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows (Chapter IX, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead…" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor says nothing hurts the mind more than the dead calm of inaction and certainty after a rush of events. Next, craft. I notice the contrast between "quick succession" and "dead calmness," which turns stillness into torment. The strongest word is "calmness": it is normally peaceful, but here it is "dead," the calm of guilt with nothing left to do. Then, effect. Why is the calm after the trial so painful for Victor? My answer: The calm after the trial is so painful for Victor because William and Justine are dead and he can neither undo nor confess; the stillness leaves him alone with his responsibility.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Elizabeth reads "despair" and "revenge" in his face: the secret he keeps is visible to those who love him. Link: guilt isolates him even at home, and the trip to Chamounix is an attempt to escape it. Ask: How does this line connect to the sublime? Expected: Nature offers temporary relief from guilt. (Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.)

> There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble (Chapter IX, paragraph 9)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Elizabeth reads "despair" and "revenge" in his face: the secret he keeps is visible to those who love him. Link: guilt isolates him even at home, and the trip to Chamounix is an attempt to escape it.
Ask: How does this line connect to the sublime?
Expected answer: Nature offers temporary relief from guilt. (Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for setting, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about despair and the sublime? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of despair and the sublime. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. When the text says “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.
Task: Annotate the chapter for setting, tone / mood (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about despair and the sublime? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of despair and the sublime. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. When the text says “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings? Connect to Romanticism: what did these writers believe nature could do for people? Does the novel agree?
Anchor question: How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings?
Facilitation: Connect to Romanticism: what did these writers believe nature could do for people? Does the novel agree?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about despair and the sublime? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. ("Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certa", Chapter IX, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about despair and the sublime? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. ("Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certa", Chapter IX, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how setting shapes despair and the sublime. Key takeaway: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Setting: The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him.
- Tone / mood: Despair; Victor considers suicide in the lake but thinks of his family.
- Imagery: Glaciers, torrents, "awful and majestic" peaks dwarf human grief.

Themes and how they develop

- the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

Symbols and motifs

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "at ten o'clock, and the impossibility of remaining on the lake after that hour, had rendered our residence within the walls of" (Chapter IX, paragraph 5).

- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: “leave them exposed and unprotected to the malice of the fiend whom I had let loose among them” (Chapter IX, paragraph 5).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) Psychological insight into grief and guilt.
- “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.
- “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) Guilt imagined as hell.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act.
Evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
lulling (adjective)	calming; making sleepy	The same lulling sounds acted as a lullaby to my too keen sensations: when I placed my head upon my pillow, sleep crept over me; I felt it as it came, and blessed the giver of oblivion.
glaciers (noun)	huge slow-moving masses of ice	Immense glaciers approached the road; I heard the rumbling thunder of the falling avalanche, and marked the smoke of its passage.
perpetrate (verb)	perform an act, usually with a negative connotation	I had been the author of unalterable evils; and I lived in daily fear, lest the monster whom I had created should perpetrate some new wickedness.
avalanche (noun)	a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain	Immense glaciers approached the road; I heard the rumbling thunder of the falling avalanche, and marked the smoke of its passage.
		It was during an access of this kind that I suddenly left my home, and	“ephemeral”: Origin: New Latin ephemerus. (Liber et Libri origin note, ephemeral (adjective)	lasting a very short time	bending my steps towards the near Alpine valleys, sought in the magnificence, the eternity of such scenes, to forget myself and my ephemeral, because human, sorrows.	https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/ephemeral#Etymology)

revisit (verb)	visit again	At these moments I wept bitterly, and wished that peace would revisit my mind only that I might afford them consolation and happiness.	"revisit": Origin: Middle French revisiter; earlier Latin revīsitāre. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/revisit#Etymology)
thirsted (verb)	longed for something strongly	I had begun life with benevolent intentions, and thirsted for the moment when I should put them in practice, and make myself useful to my fellow-beings.
assassinated (verb)	murder; especially of socially prominent persons	William and Justine were assassinated, and the murderer escapes; he walks about the world free, and perhaps respected.	"assassinated": Origin of "assassinate": Middle French assassiner. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/assassinate#Etymology)
desponding (adjective)	losing hope; discouraged	Elizabeth was sad and desponding; she no longer took delight in her ordinary occupations; all pleasure seemed to her sacrilege toward the dead; eternal woe and tears she then thought was the just tribute she should pay to innocence so blasted and destroyed.	"desponding": From Latin despondere "to give up, lose heart," from de- "away" + spondere "to promise." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/despond)
enormity (noun)	great wickedness	I had an obscure feeling that all was not over, and that he would still commit some signal crime, which by its enormity should almost efface the recollection of the past.	"enormity": Origin: Middle English ēnorme ("monstrous or unnatural act"); earlier Old French énormité ("enormity"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enormity#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16,

17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does Victor's despair lead him to contemplate? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Ending his own life
2. Where does Victor travel for relief? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The Alps near Chamounix
3. Which mountain dominates the scenery? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Mont Blanc
4. What literary idea describes the overwhelming landscape? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The sublime
5. What effect does nature have on Victor? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: It soothes him for a time
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter IX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Tormented by guilt, Victor considers suicide. His family withdraws to Belrive. Victor journeys into the Alps toward Chamounix, where the majesty of mountains, glaciers and Mont Blanc offers temporary relief.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter IX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter IX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “The same lulling sounds acted as a lullaby to my too keen sensations: when I placed my head upon my pillow, sleep crept over me; I felt it as it came, and blessed the giver of oblivion.” What does “lulling” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: lulling: calming; making sleepy.
10. Reread: “Immense glaciers approached the road; I heard the rumbling thunder of the falling avalanche, and marked the smoke of its passage.” What does “glaciers” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: glaciers: huge slow-moving masses of ice.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter IX” suggest about despair and the sublime? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The sublime landscape mirrors Victor's mind: grand, cold and overwhelming.
2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the imagery in this chapter shape what we understand about despair and the sublime? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Psychological insight into grief and guilt. On imagery: Glaciers, torrents, "awful and majestic" peaks dwarf human grief. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “Our house was the house of mourning.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter IX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Tormented by guilt, Victor considers suicide. His family withdraws to Belrive. Victor journeys into the Alps toward Chamounix, where the majesty of mountains, glaciers and Mont Blanc offers temporary relief.
6. How does “Chapter IX” build on “Chapter VIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9): Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Guilt imagined as hell. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does the mountain landscape reflect Victor's feelings?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Psychological insight into grief and guilt. On tone / mood: Despair; Victor considers suicide in the lake but thinks of his family. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The Vale of Chamounix and Mont Blanc were Romantic pilgrimage sites; Percy Shelley wrote 'Mont Blanc' (1816). How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9): Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. On setting: The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The sublime landscape mirrors Victor's mind: grand, cold and overwhelming.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Guilt imagined as hell. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Psychological insight into grief and guilt. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter IX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about despair and the sublime? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9): Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter IX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Guilt imagined as hell. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Psychological insight into grief and guilt. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9): Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. On setting: The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter IX” treats despair and the sublime with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Guilt imagined as hell. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter X” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Psychological insight into grief and guilt. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about despair and the sublime? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9): Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Useful evidence: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1): Guilt imagined as hell. Theme link: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Imagery: sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What does Victor's despair lead him to contemplate?

   A. Moving to England

   B. Ending his own life

   C. Marrying at once

   D. Becoming a monk

   Key: B (Ending his own life)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I had begun life with benevolent intentions, and _____ for the moment when I should put them in practice, and make myself useful to my fellow-beings.” Word bank: thirsted, perpetrate, lulling, glaciers

   Key: thirsted

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What literary idea describes the overwhelming landscape?

   A. The sublime

   B. Satire

   C. Pastoral comedy

   D. Allegory

   Key: A (The sublime)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Where does Victor travel for relief?

   A. The coast of Italy

   B. The Alps near Chamounix

   C. Ingolstadt

   D. London

   Key: B (The Alps near Chamounix)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 1: “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense _____”

   Key: tortures

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "The same lulling sounds acted as a lullaby to my too keen sensations: when I placed my head upon my pillow, sleep crept over me; I felt it as it came, and blessed the giver of oblivion.", what does "lulling" most nearly mean?

   A. to feel or show pity for

   B. calming; making sleepy

   C. beat fast and hard (of the heart)

   D. strained by asking too much of

   Key: B (calming; making sleepy)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which mountain dominates the scenery?

   A. Mont Blanc

   B. Vesuvius

   C. Ben Nevis

   D. Everest

   Key: A (Mont Blanc)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "It was during an access of this kind that I suddenly left my home, and bending my steps towards the near Alpine valleys, sought in the magnificence, the eternity of such scenes, to forget myself and my _____, because human, sorrows." Word bank: glaciers, ephemeral, lulling, perpetrate

   Key: ephemeral

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "William and Justine were _____, and the murderer escapes; he walks about the world free, and perhaps respected." Word bank: lulling, glaciers, assassinated, perpetrate

   Key: assassinated

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I had been the author of unalterable evils; and I lived in daily fear, lest the monster whom I had created should perpetrate some new wickedness.", what does "perpetrate" most nearly mean?

    A. perform an act, usually with a negative connotation

    B. put into a rage; make violently angry

    C. gives up; abandons

    D. a trait of dignified seriousness

    Key: A (perform an act, usually with a negative connotation)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "At these moments I wept bitterly, and wished that peace would _____ my mind only that I might afford them consolation and happiness." Word bank: glaciers, perpetrate, revisit, lulling

    Key: revisit

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter IX"?

    A. Destroying the companion

    B. Despair and the sublime

    C. The wedding night and its catastrophe

    D. A letter, a secret and the wedding

Key: B (Despair and the sublime)

13. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IX”? The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him.

    A. Conflict

    B. Setting

    C. Theme

    D. Foreshadowing

    Key: B (Setting)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IX”? Despair; Victor considers suicide in the lake but thinks of his family.

    A. Characterization

    B. Conflict

    C. Tone / mood

    D. Plot

    Key: C (Tone / mood)

15. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how the sublime develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter IX”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Nature offers temporary relief from guilt. The words “Chapter IX” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. The words “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 13: “But it was augmented and rendered sublime by the mighty Alps, whose white and shining pyramids and domes towered above all, as belonging to another earth, the _____ of another race of beings.” Word bank: reflections, lighthearted, habitations, recovered

    Key: habitations

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 1: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick _____ of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows”

    Key: succession

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 2: “This state of mind preyed upon my health, which had perhaps never entirely _____ from the first shock it had sustained.” Word bank: recovered, improvement, habitations, Victor

    Key: recovered

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What effect does nature have on Victor?

    A. It bores him

    B. It makes him ill

    C. It angers him

    D. It soothes him for a time

    Key: D (It soothes him for a time)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter IX, paragraph 5: "I thought also of my father, and surviving brother: should I by my base desertion leave them exposed and _____ to the malice of the fiend whom I had let loose among them?" Word bank: unprotected, miserable, endeavour, encompassed

    Key: unprotected

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter IX?

    A. ""Do you think, Victor," said he, "that I do not suffer also?"

    B. "No one could love a child more than I loved your brother;" (tears came into his eyes as he spoke;) "but is it not a duty to the survivors,…"

    C. "I shunned the face of man; all sound of joy or complacency was torture to me; solitude was my only consolation—deep, dark, deathlike…"

    D. "This state of mind preyed upon my health, which had perhaps never entirely recovered from the first shock it had sustained."

    Key: D ("This state of mind preyed upon my health, which had perhaps never entirely recovered from the first shock it had sustained.")

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? "Thus not the tenderness of friendship, nor the beauty of earth, nor of heaven, could redeem my soul from woe: the very accents of love were ineffectual." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes "ineffectual" and "friendship", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 13 shapes its tone: "The immense mountains and precipices that overhung me on every side—the sound of the river raging among the rocks, and the dashing of the waterfalls around, spoke of a power mighty as Omnipotence—and I ceased to fear, or to bend before any…" Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes "Omnipotence" and "precipices", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 15 shapes its tone: "The very winds whispered in soothing accents, and maternal nature bade me weep no more." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes "whispered" and "maternal", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter IX, paragraph 4? “Now I could only answer my father with a look of despair, and _____ to hide myself from his view.”

    A. miserable

    B. magnificent

    C. endeavour

    D. improvement

    Key: C (endeavour)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Often, after the rest of the family had retired for the night, I took the boat, and passed many hours upon the water.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “retired” and “family”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 3 shapes its tone: “My father observed with pain the alteration perceptible in my disposition and habits, and endeavoured by arguments deduced from the feelings of his serene conscience and guiltless life, to inspire me with fortitude, and awaken in me the…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “perceptible” and “endeavoured”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and…” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) bears it out: He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere. But “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) complicates it, because here the text shows elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Guilt imagined as hell. The words “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter IX, paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “About this time we retired to our house at Bellerive.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter IX, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “Bellerive” and “retired”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

32. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9)

    A. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

    B. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    C. Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.

    D. Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.

    Key: C (Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.)

33. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter IX, paragraph 13? “I _____ the first part of my journey on horseback.”

    A. performed

    B. endeavour

    C. recovered

    D. miserable

    Key: A (performed)

34. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. The words “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

35. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Psychological insight into grief and guilt. The words “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness…” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1)

    A. Guilt imagined as hell.

    B. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

    C. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

    D. Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.

    Key: A (Guilt imagined as hell.)

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows" (Chapter IX, paragraph 1).

Sample answer: He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere. The words "Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness…" (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 1, analysis 2, synthesis 2
HS Freshman	17, 5, 18, 19, 20, 2, 21, 7, 11, 22, 23, 12, 24, 25, 13, 16	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	3, 26, 5, 7, 6, 17, 2, 21, 23, 12, 22, 14, 13, 25, 27, 15	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 18, 2, 4, 21, 7, 8, 22, 23, 12, 13, 14, 28, 24, 29, 27	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 3, 9, 2, 20, 4, 23, 22, 12, 30, 14, 24, 25, 31, 29, 15	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	8, 11, 20, 32, 12, 22, 23, 28, 25, 30, 14, 13, 15, 29, 31, 27	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	8, 11, 33, 12, 23, 22, 34, 24, 14, 30, 25, 13, 29, 27, 31, 15	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 8, 12, 22, 35, 32, 23, 25, 14, 24, 13, 28, 29, 31, 27, 15	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Junior	17, 2, 12, 22, 23, 36, 32, 25, 28, 24, 14, 13, 31, 29, 15, 27	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	9, 8, 3, 23, 12, 22, 13, 28, 14, 24, 37, 25, 29, 31, 27, 15	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	8, 11, 22, 34, 23, 12, 30, 25, 24, 13, 28, 14, 15, 27, 29, 31	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 6, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "Chapter IX," how does Shelley show despair and the sublime? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter IX, how does Shelley develop the idea of despair and the sublime? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter IX develops the idea of despair and the sublime. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter IX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of despair and the sublime. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter IX suggests about despair and the sublime. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and imagery), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses setting in Chapter IX to complicate the reader's understanding of despair and the sublime. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter IX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of despair and the sublime responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter IX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of despair and the sublime follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter IX and its treatment of despair and the sublime. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and imagery, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter IX as evidence for a larger claim about despair and the sublime in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter IX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of despair and the sublime. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. I had been the author of unalterable evils; and I lived in daily fear, lest the monster whom I had created should perpetrate some new wickedness.

As used in the text, what does the word "perpetrate" most nearly mean?

A. great wickedness

B. perform an act, usually with a negative connotation

C. murder; especially of socially prominent persons

D. losing hope; discouraged

2. Our house was the house of mourning. My father's health was deeply shaken by the horror of the recent events. Elizabeth was sad and desponding; she no longer took delight in her ordinary occupations; all pleasure seemed to her sacrilege toward the dead; eternal woe and tears she then thought was the just tribute she should pay to innocence so blasted and destroyed. She was no longer that happy creature, who in earlier youth wandered with me on the banks of the lake, and talked with ecstasy of our future prospects. The first of those sorrows which are sent to wean us from the earth, had visited her, and its dimming influence quenched her dearest smiles.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter IX"?

A. A privileged childhood and family love

B. The demand for a companion

C. Rejection and the turn to revenge

D. Despair and the sublime

SAT key: 1. B (perform an act, usually with a negative connotation); 2. D (Despair and the sublime)

Lesson 17: Chapter X

Focus: confrontation between creator and creation

Objective: Students will analyze how allusion develops in “Chapter X” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “The encounter and argument between Frankenstein and the Being on the sea of ice, almost approaches, in effect, to the expostulation of Caleb Williams with Falkland.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 3; public domain). Context mini-lesson: Godwin (Mary Shelley's father) wrote Caleb Williams, about a servant persecuted by his master. Who has power in the glacier scene, and how does the creature argue like a wronged servant? Objective: Analyze the confrontation between creator and creation on the Mer de Glace. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3

Teacher only · spoilers

On the glacier Montanvert, the creature approaches. Victor curses it; the creature answers eloquently, reminding Victor of his duties: 'I ought to be thy Adam, but I am rather the fallen angel.' He asks Victor to hear his story, and Victor follows him to a hut.

Background: Milton's Paradise Lost shapes the creature's self-understanding—God and Adam, Satan the outcast.

Significance: The creature's eloquence overturns expectations of a mindless monster and shifts our sympathies.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to nature and nurture because....
Prompt: The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to nature and nurture because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: pollutes — spoils; makes impure; commiserate — to feel or show pity for; inspiriting — encouraging; filling with spirit; diabolically — as a devil; in an evil manner; overlooks — looks down over. “inspiriting”: Origin of “inspirit”: an English formation from in- + spirit.
Words: pollutes: spoils; makes impure · commiserate: to feel or show pity for · inspiriting: encouraging; filling with spirit · diabolically: as a devil; in an evil manner · overlooks: looks down over

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Milton's Paradise Lost shapes the creature's self-understanding—God and Adam, Satan the outcast. The creature's eloquence overturns expectations of a mindless monster and shifts our sympathies. Structure: The creature speaks: the novel's center. Victor's narrative gives way to the creature's for six chapters. Allusion: "I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel": Paradise Lost frames the creature as both Adam and Satan. Characterization: The creature is eloquent, reasoned and grieving, the opposite of what Victor and the reader expect. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "and allowed it to soar from the obscure world to light and joy. The sight of the awful and majestic in nature" (Chapter X, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature tells Victor he was kind and good, misery made him a fiend, and happiness would make him virtuous again. Next, craft. I notice the antithesis of "benevolent and good" against "fiend," and the cause-and-effect turn on "made." The strongest word is "misery": it is the cause he blames for his change, placing responsibility on how he was treated. Then, effect. What argument does the creature make about how he became evil? My answer: The creature argues that he became evil because rejection and misery made him so, not his nature; he demands that Victor, as his maker, take responsibility, which makes us question who the real monster is.

> I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous (Chapter X, paragraph 12)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature tells Victor he was kind and good, misery made him a fiend, and happiness would make him virtuous again. Next, craft. I notice the antithesis of "benevolent and good" against "fiend," and the cause-and-effect turn on "made." The strongest word is "misery": it is the cause he blames for his change, placing responsibility on how he was treated. Then, effect. What argument does the creature make about how he became evil? My answer: The creature argues that he became evil because rejection and misery made him so, not his nature; he demands that Victor, as his maker, take responsibility, which makes us question who the real monster is.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Adam was cherished by his creator; the fallen angel was cast out. The creature says he should be like Adam but is treated like Satan. This connects to responsibility and to nature versus nurture. Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture? Expected: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. (Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.)

> I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel (Chapter X, paragraph 12)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Adam was cherished by his creator; the fallen angel was cast out. The creature says he should be like Adam but is treated like Satan. This connects to responsibility and to nature versus nurture.
Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture?
Expected answer: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. (Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for structure, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confrontation between creator and creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of confrontation between creator and creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. When the text says “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12), it shows this directly. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.
Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about confrontation between creator and creation? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of confrontation between creator and creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. When the text says “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12), it shows this directly. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him? Hold a quick four-corners: do you believe the creature's claim? Students must cite a line.
Anchor question: The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him?
Facilitation: Hold a quick four-corners: do you believe the creature's claim? Students must cite a line.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confrontation between creator and creation? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. ("I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous", Chapter X, paragraph 12). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about confrontation between creator and creation? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. ("I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous", Chapter X, paragraph 12). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how structure shapes confrontation between creator and creation. Key takeaway: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: The creature speaks: the novel's center. Victor's narrative gives way to the creature's for six chapters.
- Allusion: "I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel": Paradise Lost frames the creature as both Adam and Satan.
- Characterization: The creature is eloquent, reasoned and grieving, the opposite of what Victor and the reader expect.

Themes and how they develop

- nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “and allowed it to soar from the obscure world to light and joy. The sight of the awful and majestic in nature” (Chapter X, paragraph 2).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “sources of the Arveiron, which take their rise in a glacier, that with slow pace is advancing down from the summit of” (Chapter X, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.
- “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) The nurture argument in one line.
- “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) Claims a relationship and a duty.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case.
Evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12)
Reasoning: He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
pollutes (verb)	spoils; makes impure	We rise; one wand’ring thought pollutes the day.
commiserate (verb)	to feel or show pity for	Listen to my tale: when you have heard that, abandon or commiserate me, as you shall judge that I deserve.
inspiriting (adjective)	encouraging; filling with spirit	All of soul-inspiriting fled with sleep, and dark melancholy clouded every thought.	“inspiriting”: Origin of “inspirit”: an English formation from in- + spirit. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inspirit#Etymology)
diabolically (adverb)	as a devil; in an evil manner	Begone, vile insect! or rather, stay, that I may trample you to dust! and, oh! that I could, with the extinction of your miserable existence, restore those victims whom you have so diabolically murdered!"

overlooks (verb)	looks down over	For some time I sat upon the rock that overlooks the sea of ice.
implores (verb)	call upon in supplication; entreat	Will no entreaties cause thee to turn a favourable eye upon thy creature, who implores thy goodness and compassion?
illuminate (verb)	make lighter or brighter	The sun is yet high in the heavens; before it descends to hide itself behind yon snowy precipices, and illuminate another world, you will have heard my story, and can decide.	"illuminate": Origin: Latin illūmināt-us. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/illuminate#Etymology)
barricade (verb)	to block off	I stood beside the sources of the Arveiron, which take their rise in a glacier, that with slow pace is advancing down from the summit of the hills, to barricade the valley.	"barricade": Origin: French barricade. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/barricade#Etymology)
interspersed (verb)	place at intervals in or among	The surface is very uneven, rising like the waves of a troubled sea, descending low, and interspersed by rifts that sink deep.	"interspersed": Origin of "intersperse": Latin interspergō. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/intersperse#Etymology)
surmount (verb)	get on top of; deal with successfully	The ascent is precipitous, but the path is cut into continual and short windings, which enable you to surmount the perpendicularity of the mountain.

Discussion questions

1. The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him?
2. Where does allusion appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does Victor meet the creature? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1]
   Look for: On the glacier at Montanvert

2. How does the creature speak? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Eloquently and persuasively
3. Which work does the creature allude to? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Paradise Lost
4. What does the creature ask of Victor? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To listen to his story
5. What is ironic about the creature's speech? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The 'monster' is more reasonable than his creator
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter X" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: On the glacier Montanvert, the creature approaches. Victor curses it; the creature answers eloquently, reminding Victor of his duties: 'I ought to be thy Adam, but I am rather the fallen angel.' He asks Victor to hear his story, and Victor follows him to a hut.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter X"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter X" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "We rise; one wand'ring thought pollutes the day." What does "pollutes" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: pollutes: spoils; makes impure.
10. Reread: "Listen to my tale: when you have heard that, abandon or commiserate me, as you shall judge that I deserve." What does "commiserate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: commiserate: to feel or show pity for.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter X" suggest about confrontation between creator and creation? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The creature's eloquence overturns expectations of a mindless monster and shifts our sympathies.
2. Find one example of allusion in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for references to other books, myths, history or religion.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about confrontation between creator and creation? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: "I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel" (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. On characterization: The creature is eloquent, reasoned and grieving, the opposite of what Victor and the reader expect. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “We rest; a dream has power to poison sleep.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter X”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: On the glacier Montanvert, the creature approaches. Victor curses it; the creature answers eloquently, reminding Victor of his duties: 'I ought to be thy Adam, but I am rather the fallen angel.' He asks Victor to hear his story, and Victor follows him to a hut.
6. How does “Chapter X” build on “Chapter IX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): The nurture argument in one line. On structure: The creature speaks: the novel's center. Victor's narrative gives way to the creature's for six chapters. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Claims a relationship and a duty. On characterization: The creature is eloquent, reasoned and grieving, the opposite of what Victor and the reader expect. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “The creature says, 'I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend.' Do you believe him?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Milton's Paradise Lost shapes the creature's self-understanding—God and Adam, Satan the outcast. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): The nurture argument in one line. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The creature's eloquence overturns expectations of a mindless monster and shifts our sympathies.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Claims a relationship and a duty. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. On characterization: The creature is eloquent, reasoned and grieving, the opposite of what Victor and the reader expect. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter X” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about confrontation between creator and creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): The nurture argument in one line. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter X”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Claims a relationship and a duty. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the allusion in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): The nurture argument in one line. On allusion: "I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel": Paradise Lost frames the creature as both Adam and Satan. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter X” treats confrontation between creator and creation with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Claims a relationship and a duty. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about confrontation between creator and creation? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): The nurture argument in one line. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Useful evidence: “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12): Claims a relationship and a duty. Theme link: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Allusion: look for references to other books, myths, history or religion (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Will no entreaties cause thee to turn a favourable eye upon thy creature, who _____ thy goodness and compassion?” Word bank: commiserate, inspiriting, implores, pollutes

   Key: implores

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 12: “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am _____ the fallen angel”

   Key: rather

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “We rise; one wand’ring thought pollutes the day.”, what does “pollutes” most nearly mean?

   A. spoils; makes impure

   B. unbearable

   C. reject with contempt

   D. natural abilities or qualities

   Key: A (spoils; makes impure)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Where does Victor meet the creature?

   A. On the glacier at Montanvert

   B. In a church

   C. In Geneva

   D. On Walton's ship

   Key: A (On the glacier at Montanvert)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I stood beside the sources of the Arveiron, which take their rise in a glacier, that with slow pace is advancing down from the summit of the hills, to _____ the valley.” Word bank: pollutes, inspiriting, barricade, commiserate

   Key: barricade

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The sun is yet high in the heavens; before it descends to hide itself behind yon snowy precipices, and _____ another world, you will have heard my story, and can decide." Word bank: pollutes, inspiriting, illuminate, commiserate

Key: illuminate

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] What is ironic about the creature's speech?

   A. He agrees with Victor

   B. He is afraid of ice

   C. The 'monster' is more reasonable than his creator

   D. He is silent

   Key: C (The 'monster' is more reasonable than his creator)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 12: "_____, that I am thy creature"

   Key: Remember

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] How does the creature speak?

   A. In grunts

   B. Only in German

   C. Eloquently and persuasively

   D. Not at all

   Key: C (Eloquently and persuasively)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 12: "I was _____ and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous"

    Key: benevolent

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Begone, vile insect! or rather, stay, that I may trample you to dust! and, oh! that I could, with the extinction of your miserable existence, restore those victims whom you have so diabolically murdered!"", what does "diabolically" most nearly mean?

    A. as a devil; in an evil manner

    B. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief

    C. exhaust or get tired through overuse or great strain or stress

    D. an exchange; a giving and receiving

    Key: A (as a devil; in an evil manner)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter X"?

    A. Loss and leaving home

    B. Injustice and the burden of silence

    C. Confrontation between creator and creation

    D. Injustice and exile

    Key: C (Confrontation between creator and creation)

13. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter X"? "I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel": Paradise Lost frames the creature as both Adam and Satan.

    A. Symbolism

    B. Tone / mood

    C. Allusion

    D. Hyperbole

Key: C (Allusion)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter X”? The creature speaks: the novel's center. Victor's narrative gives way to the creature's for six chapters.

    A. Conflict

    B. Structure

    C. Imagery

    D. Theme

    Key: B (Structure)

15. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter X”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. The words “Chapter X” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) bears it out: He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again. But “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) complicates it, because here the text shows claims a relationship and a duty. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “For some time I sat upon the rock that _____ the sea of ice.” Word bank: commiserate, pollutes, overlooks, inspiriting

    Key: overlooks

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 17: “I had hitherto supposed him to be the murderer of my brother, and I eagerly sought a _____ or denial of this opinion.” Word bank: circumstances, confirmation, superhuman, exultation

    Key: confirmation

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter X, paragraph 15? “Cursed (_____ I curse myself) be the hands that formed you!”

    A. community

    B. although

    C. detestation

    D. superhuman

    Key: B (although)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 9: “Wretched devil! you reproach me with your creation; come on, then, that I may extinguish the spark which I so _____ bestowed.”” Word bank: detestation, faintness, superhuman, negligently

    Key: negligently

21. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter X?

    A. “He bounded over the crevices in the ice, among which I had walked with caution; his stature, also, as he approached, seemed to exceed that…”

    B. “As I said this, I suddenly beheld the figure of a man, at some distance, advancing towards me with superhuman speed.”

    C. “I was troubled: a mist came over my eyes, and I felt a faintness seize me; but I was quickly restored by the cold gale of the mountains.”

    D. “I perceived, as the shape came nearer (sight tremendous and abhorred!) that it was the wretch whom I had created.”

    Key: B (“As I said this, I suddenly beheld the figure of a man, at some distance, advancing towards me with superhuman speed.”)

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. The words “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage from Chapter X, paragraph 17 reveal about the character or situation? “As he said this, he led the way across the ice: I followed.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter X, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “followed” and “across”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter X, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “He bounded over the crevices in the ice, among which I had walked with caution; his stature, also, as he approached, seemed to exceed that of man.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter X, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “approached” and “crevices”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter X, paragraph 17 shapes its tone: “I was partly urged by curiosity, and compassion confirmed my resolution.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter X, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “resolution” and “compassion”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The nurture argument in one line. The words “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter X, paragraph 6? “But I scarcely observed this; rage and hatred had at first deprived me of utterance, and I recovered only to overwhelm him with words expressive of furious _____ and contempt.”

    A. detestation

    B. determined

    C. negligently

    D. exultation

    Key: A (detestation)

28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The nurture argument in one line. The words “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter X, paragraph 8 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““All men hate the wretched; how, then, must I be hated, who am miserable beyond all living things!” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter X, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “miserable” and “wretched”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] What does the creature ask of Victor?

    A. To give him money

    B. To fight him

    C. To leave Europe

    D. To listen to his story

    Key: D (To listen to his story)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter X, paragraph 13 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Begone, or let us try our strength in a fight, in which one must fall.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter X, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “strength” and “Begone”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter X, paragraph 6: “As I said this, I suddenly beheld the figure of a man, at some distance, advancing towards me with _____ speed.” Word bank: resolving, superhuman, confirmation, detested

    Key: superhuman

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12)

    A. Revulsion at his labor.

    B. His education; each book shapes him.

    C. The wish to belong.

    D. The nurture argument in one line.

    Key: D (The nurture argument in one line.)

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. The words “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

35. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Which work does the creature allude to?

    A. Paradise Lost

    B. The Odyssey

    C. Robinson Crusoe

    D. Hamlet

    Key: A (Paradise Lost)

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12)

    A. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.

    B. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

    C. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

    D. Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.

    Key: D (Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.)

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Claims a relationship and a duty. The words “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Claim: The creature argues that his evil was made, not born, and the novel gives him the eloquence to make the case. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12).

    Sample answer: He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again. The words “I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend. Make me happy, and I shall again be virtuous” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12)

    A. Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives.

    B. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    D. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    Key: D (Claims a relationship and a duty.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 1, analysis 2, synthesis 2
HS Freshman	17, 1, 8, 18, 4, 19, 20, 11, 12, 21, 22, 23, 14, 24, 25, 26	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	27, 8, 9, 5, 10, 1, 22, 12, 28, 21, 23, 25, 14, 24, 16, 29	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	4, 6, 30, 10, 8, 20, 21, 28, 23, 12, 24, 13, 25, 14, 29, 31	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	11, 20, 32, 30, 22, 23, 21, 28, 12, 13, 14, 24, 25, 16, 29, 15	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	17, 30, 6, 21, 12, 23, 33, 24, 25, 14, 13, 34, 29, 15, 16, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 5
College Freshman	17, 35, 5, 12, 23, 36, 21, 28, 13, 24, 14, 25, 16, 29, 31, 15	recall 3, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	17, 1, 22, 12, 21, 23, 25, 14, 37, 13, 38, 24, 31, 15, 29, 16	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 6, synthesis 4
College Junior	5, 18, 20, 39, 23, 21, 12, 24, 13, 14, 38, 25, 29, 15, 31, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Senior	17, 1, 23, 12, 28, 21, 22, 13, 24, 14, 37, 25, 31, 16, 15, 29	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 5, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	17, 1, 23, 36, 28, 12, 21, 39, 24, 13, 25, 14, 31, 16, 29, 15	recall 2, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter X,” how does Shelley show confrontation between creator and creation? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the allusion you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): In Chapter X, how does Shelley develop the idea of confrontation between creator and creation? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the allusion in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter X develops the idea of confrontation between creator and creation. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter X (where it begins, turns and ends) and its allusion shape the reader's understanding of confrontation between creator and creation. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter X suggests about confrontation between creator and creation. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's allusion and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses allusion in Chapter X to complicate the reader's understanding of confrontation between creator and creation. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter X within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of confrontation between creator and creation responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter X alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of confrontation between creator and creation follows or bends those conventions, using the allusion as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter X and its treatment of confrontation between creator and creation. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's allusion and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter X as evidence for a larger claim about confrontation between creator and creation in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter X as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of confrontation between creator and creation. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. All of soul-inspiriting fled with sleep, and dark melancholy clouded every thought.

   As used in the text, what does the word "inspiriting" most nearly mean?

   A. encouraging; filling with spirit
   B. to block off
   C. get on top of; deal with successfully
   D. place at intervals in or among

2. We rest; a dream has power to poison sleep. We rise; one wand'ring thought pollutes the day. We feel, conceive, or reason; laugh or weep, Embrace fond woe, or cast our cares away; It is the same: for, be it joy or sorrow, The path of its departure still is free. Man's yesterday may ne'er be like his morrow; Nought may endure but mutability!

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter X"?

   A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend
   B. Horror at the moment of creation
   C. Confrontation between creator and creation
   D. Obsession and the discovery of life

SAT key: 1. A (encouraging; filling with spirit); 2. C (Confrontation between creator and creation)

Lesson 18: Chapter XI

Focus: first experiences of the senses

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “Chapter XI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “The result is, this monster, who was at first, according to his own account, but a harmless monster, becomes ferocious and malignant, in consequence of finding all his approaches to human society repelled with injurious violence and offensive marks of disgust.” (Walter Scott (attrib.), novelist and critic, "Remarks on Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus; A Novel," Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2:12 (March 1818), p. 618; public domain). Cause-and-effect chart: log each "approach to human society" in Chapters XI-XVI and the response it meets. Does the evidence support Scott's summary? Objective: Analyze the creature's first encounters with humans and the cause of his change. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3

Content note (alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…aw plainly the clear stream that supplied me with drink, and the trees that shaded me with thei…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Suggested language: “What does this detail add to the scene?”

Teacher only · spoilers

The creature narrates his first days: confusion of senses, cold, hunger, the discovery of fire, and the joy of moonlight and birdsong. Villagers attack him, and he shelters in a hovel beside a cottage.

Background: Philosophers like Locke argued that the mind begins as a 'blank slate' shaped by experience.

Significance: The creature's innocence makes society's violence toward him shocking and central to the nature-nurture debate.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to nature and nurture because.... Content note before we start: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Prompt: What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to nature and nurture because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: debilitated — weakened; canopied — covered overhead like a canopy; incommoded — troubled; inconvenienced; purloined — make off with belongings of others; blackbird — any bird of the family Icteridae whose male is black or predominantly black. "debilitated": Origin of "debilitate": Latin dēbilitō ("to weaken"). "blackbird": Origin: an English formation from black + bird.
Words: debilitated: weakened · canopied: covered overhead like a canopy · incommoded: troubled; inconvenienced · purloined: make off with belongings of others · blackbird: any bird of the family Icteridae whose male is black or predominantly black

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Philosophers like Locke argued that the mind begins as a 'blank slate' shaped by experience. The creature's innocence makes society's violence toward him shocking and central to the nature-nurture debate. Point of view: The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold. Imagery: Sensory discovery (the moon, birdsong, fire) told with the wonder of a newborn. Irony: Fire both warms and burns; "how strange... that the same cause should produce such opposite effects!" foreshadows his own nature. Watch for fire: the Promethean gift: warmth and pain together.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature says it is hard for him to remember the earliest period of his existence. Next, craft. I notice his formal, articulate language, which surprises us after Victor called him a monster. The strongest word is "original": it means first, as if he is describing the dawn of a new being. Then, effect. How does the creature begin telling his own story? My answer: Giving the creature his own voice changes the story; his careful speech shows a thinking, feeling being, which makes Victor's rejection harder to defend.

> It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being (Chapter XI, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature says it is hard for him to remember the earliest period of his existence. Next, craft. I notice his formal, articulate language, which surprises us after Victor called him a monster. The strongest word is "original": it means first, as if he is describing the dawn of a new being. Then, effect. How does the creature begin telling his own story? My answer: Giving the creature his own voice changes the story; his careful speech shows a thinking, feeling being, which makes Victor's rejection harder to defend.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Fire warms and burns: the "same cause" with "opposite effects." It symbolizes knowledge and creation, which can help or hurt. It links to the creature's own double nature. Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture? Expected: He begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. (Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.)

> How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects (Chapter XI, paragraph 6)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Fire warms and burns: the "same cause" with "opposite effects." It symbolizes knowledge and creation, which can help or hurt. It links to the creature's own double nature.
Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture?
Expected answer: He begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. (Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for point of view, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about first experiences of the senses? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of first experiences of the senses. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. When the text says “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.
Task: Annotate the chapter for point of view, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about first experiences of the senses? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of first experiences of the senses. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. When the text says “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful? Ask students to compare the creature's first days with Victor's childhood in Chapter I.
Anchor question: What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful?
Facilitation: Ask students to compare the creature's first days with Victor's childhood in Chapter I.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about first experiences of the senses? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. ("It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being", Chapter XI, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about first experiences of the senses? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. ("It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being", Chapter XI, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how point of view shapes first experiences of the senses. Key takeaway: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Point of view: The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold.
- Imagery: Sensory discovery (the moon, birdsong, fire) told with the wonder of a newborn.
- Irony: Fire both warms and burns; "how strange... that the same cause should produce such opposite effects!" foreshadows his own nature.

Themes and how they develop

- nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

Symbols and motifs

- fire: the Promethean gift: warmth and pain together.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.
- "How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects" (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.
- "some fled, some attacked me" (Chapter XI, paragraph 10) Human violence comes first.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any.
Evidence: "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" (Chapter XI, paragraph 1)
Reasoning: He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
debilitated (adjective)	weakened	He turned on hearing a noise; and, perceiving me, shrieked loudly, and, quitting the hut, ran across the fields with a speed of which his debilitated form hardly appeared capable.	"debilitated": Origin of "debilitate": Latin dēbilitō ("to weaken"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/debilitate#Etymology)
canopied (verb)	covered overhead like a canopy	I began also to observe, with greater accuracy, the forms that surrounded me, and to perceive the boundaries of the radiant roof of light which canopied me.
incommoded (verb)	troubled; inconvenienced	As she walked along, seemingly incommoded by the burden, a young man met her, whose countenance expressed a deeper despondence.
purloined (verb)	make off with belongings of others	I had first, however, provided for my sustenance for that day, by a loaf of coarse bread, which I purloined, and a cup with which I could drink, more conveniently than from my hand, of the pure water which flowed by my retreat.
blackbird (noun)	any bird of the family Icteridae whose male	I found that the sparrow uttered none but harsh notes, whilst those	"blackbird": Origin: an English formation from black + bird. (Liber et Libri origin note, https:// is black or predominantly black	of the blackbird and thrush were sweet and enticing.	en.wiktionary.org/wiki/blackbird#Etymology)

wearying (verb)	exhaust or get tired through overuse or great strain or stress	The light became more and more oppressive to me; and, the heat wearying me as I walked, I sought a place where I could receive shade.
enticed (verb)	tempted; attracted	The silver hair and benevolent countenance of the aged cottager won my reverence, while the gentle manners of the girl enticed my love.
carpeted (verb)	covered as if with a carpet	"Having thus arranged my dwelling, and carpeted it with clean straw, I retired; for I saw the figure of a man at a distance, and I remembered too well my treatment the night before, to trust myself in his power.
relinquish (verb)	to give up	I gave several hours to the serious consideration of this difficulty; but I was obliged to relinquish all attempt to supply it; and, wrapping myself up in my cloak, I struck across the wood towards the setting sun.	"relinquish": From Latin relinquere "to leave behind," from re- "back" + linquere "to leave." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/relinquish)
conjectured (verb)	to believe especially on uncertain or tentative grounds	"The family, after having been thus occupied for a short time, extinguished their lights, and retired, as I conjectured, to rest."	"conjectured": Origin of "conjecture": Latin coniectūra ("a guess"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conjecture#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who narrates this chapter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature
2. What does the creature discover that both warms and burns? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Fire
3. How do villagers react to him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: They attack him
4. Where does he take shelter? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A hovel attached to a cottage
5. What pleases him in nature? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Moonlight and birdsong
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature narrates his first days: confusion of senses, cold, hunger, the discovery of fire, and the joy of moonlight and birdsong. Villagers attack him, and he shelters in a hovel beside a cottage.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "He turned on hearing a noise; and, perceiving me, shrieked loudly, and, quitting the hut, ran across the fields with a speed of which his debilitated form hardly appeared capable." What does "debilitated" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: debilitated: weakened.
10. Reread: "I began also to observe, with greater accuracy, the forms that surrounded me, and to perceive the boundaries of the radiant roof of light which canopied me." What does "canopied" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: canopied: covered overhead like a canopy.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XI" suggest about first experiences of the senses? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The creature's innocence makes society's violence toward him shocking and central to the nature-nurture debate.
2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the imagery in this chapter shape what we understand about first experiences of the senses? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" (Chapter XI, paragraph 1): A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. On imagery: Sensory discovery (the moon, birdsong, fire) told with the wonder of a newborn. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins ““The moon had disappeared from the night, and again, with a lessened form, showed itself, while I still remained in the forest.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The creature narrates his first days: confusion of senses, cold, hunger, the discovery of fire, and the joy of moonlight and birdsong. Villagers attack him, and he shelters in a hovel beside a cottage.
6. How does “Chapter XI” build on “Chapter X”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6): Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10): Human violence comes first. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does the creature learn from fire—both good and painful?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1): A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Philosophers like Locke argued that the mind begins as a 'blank slate' shaped by experience. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6): Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The creature's innocence makes society's violence toward him shocking and central to the nature-nurture debate.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10): Human violence comes first. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1): A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about first experiences of the senses? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6): Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. On point of view: The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10): Human violence comes first. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1): A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6): Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. On point of view: The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XI” treats first experiences of the senses with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10): Human violence comes first. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1): A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about first experiences of the senses? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6): Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Useful evidence: “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10): Human violence comes first. Theme link: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Imagery: sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 6: “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such _____ effects”

   Key: opposite

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I began also to observe, with greater accuracy, the forms that surrounded me, and to perceive the boundaries of the radiant roof of light which canopied me.”, what does “canopied” most nearly mean?

   A. a companion at play

   B. causing or marked by grief or anguish

   C. covered overhead like a canopy

   D. careful and sensible; marked by sound judgment

   Key: C (covered overhead like a canopy)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does the creature discover that both warms and burns?

   A. Iron

   B. Water

   C. Snow

   D. Fire

   Key: D (Fire)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “He turned on hearing a noise; and, perceiving me, shrieked loudly, and, quitting the hut, ran across the fields with a speed of which his debilitated form hardly appeared capable.”, what does “debilitated” most nearly mean?

   A. reject with contempt

   B. thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold

   C. homeless wanderers

   D. weakened

   Key: D (weakened)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Having thus arranged my dwelling, and _____ it with clean straw, I retired; for I saw the figure of a man at a distance, and I remembered too well my treatment the night before, to trust myself in his power.” Word bank: debilitated, incommoded, canopied, carpeted

   Key: carpeted

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Who narrates this chapter?

   A. Elizabeth

   B. Walton

   C. Victor

   D. The creature

   Key: D (The creature)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "As she walked along, seemingly incommoded by the burden, a young man met her, whose countenance expressed a deeper despondence.", what does "incommoded" most nearly mean?

   A. hesitated because of a moral doubt

   B. to call down (curses) on

   C. regard as untrustworthy; regard with suspicion; have no faith or confidence in

   D. troubled; inconvenienced

   Key: D (troubled; inconvenienced)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I found that the sparrow uttered none but harsh notes, whilst those of the _____ and thrush were sweet and enticing." Word bank: debilitated, canopied, blackbird, incommoded

   Key: blackbird

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 1: "It is with _____ difficulty that I remember the original era of my being"

   Key: considerable

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Where does he take shelter?

    A. A castle

    B. A cave in the Alps

    C. A hovel attached to a cottage

    D. A church

    Key: C (A hovel attached to a cottage)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] How do villagers react to him?

    A. They welcome him

    B. They ignore him

    C. They attack him

    D. They worship him

    Key: C (They attack him)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XI"?

    A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

    B. Confidence before danger

    C. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

    D. First experiences of the senses

    Key: D (First experiences of the senses)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. The words "It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being" (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XI”? Sensory discovery (the moon, birdsong, fire) told with the wonder of a newborn.

    A. Alliteration

    B. Imagery

    C. Foreshadowing

    D. Hyperbole

    Key: B (Imagery)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Human violence comes first. The words “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: He begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. The words “Chapter XI” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XI, paragraph 16? “She seemed _____, and went into the garden for some roots and plants, which she placed in water, and then upon the fire.”

    A. therefore

    B. surrounded

    C. covered

    D. pleased

    Key: D (pleased)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What pleases him in nature?

    A. Moonlight and birdsong

    B. Thunder

    C. Machines

    D. Crowded towns

    Key: A (Moonlight and birdsong)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 7: “I tried, _____, to dress my food in the same manner, placing it on the live embers.” Word bank: therefore, occupations, arranging, pleased

    Key: therefore

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The light became more and more oppressive to me; and, the heat _____ me as I walked, I sought a place where I could receive shade.”

    Word bank: wearying, canopied, debilitated, incommoded

    Key: wearying

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I had first, however, provided for my sustenance for that day, by a loaf of coarse bread, which I purloined, and a cup with which I could drink, more conveniently than from my hand, of the pure water which flowed by my…”, what does “purloined” most nearly mean?

    A. move forward, also in the metaphorical sense

    B. make off with belongings of others

    C. slow; tending to delay

    D. seemingly boundless in amount, number, degree, or especially extent

    Key: B (make off with belongings of others)

22. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter XI?

    A. “No distinct ideas occupied my mind; all was confused.”

    B. “I was still cold, when under one of the trees I found a huge cloak, with which I covered myself, and sat down upon the ground.”

    C. “It moved slowly, but it enlightened my path; and I again went out in search of berries.”

    D. “I started up, and beheld a radiant form rise from among the trees.”

    Key: D (“I started up, and beheld a radiant form rise from among the trees.”)

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 7 reveal about the character or situation? “I observed this also, and contrived a fan of branches, which roused the embers when they were nearly extinguished.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “extinguished” and “contrived”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 16 shapes its tone: “The girl met him at the door, helped to relieve him of his burden, and, taking some of the fuel into the cottage, placed it on the fire; then she and the youth went apart into a nook of the cottage, and he showed her a large loaf and a…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “cottage” and “relieve”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. The words “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XI, paragraph 3? “I was still cold, when under one of the trees I found a huge cloak, with which I _____ myself, and sat down upon the ground.”

    A. occupations

    B. uncovered

C. covered

D. started

Key: C (covered)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 17: “One was old, with silver hairs and a _____ beaming with benevolence and love: the younger was slight and graceful in his figure, and his features were moulded with the finest symmetry; yet his eyes and attitude expressed the utmost sadness and despondency.” Word bank: covered, started, employed, countenance

    Key: countenance

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 2: ““It was dark when I awoke; I felt cold also, and half-frightened, as it were _____, finding myself so desolate.” Word bank: inclemency, employed, occupations, instinctively

    Key: instinctively

29. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. The words “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

30. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XI”? The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold.

    A. Structure

    B. Symbolism

    C. Point of view

    D. Metaphor

    Key: C (Point of view)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 3 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “No distinct ideas occupied my mind; all was confused.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “confused” and “distinct”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: ““Night quickly shut in; but, to my extreme wonder, I found that the cottagers had a means of prolonging light by the use of tapers, and was delighted to find that the setting of the sun did not put an end to the pleasure I experienced in…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes “experienced” and “neighbours”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

33. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The silver hair and benevolent countenance of the aged cottager won my reverence, while the gentle manners of the girl _____ my love.” Word bank: enticed, canopied, incommoded, debilitated

    Key: enticed

34. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “One part was open, and by that I had crept in; but now I covered every crevice by which I might be perceived with stones and wood, yet in such a manner that I might move them on occasion to pass out: all the light I enjoyed came through…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “sufficient” and “perceived”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) bears it out: He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them. But “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) complicates it, because here the text shows fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. The words “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1)

    A. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

    B. Benevolence repaid with treachery.

    C. The ending: ambiguous death.

    D. Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

    Key: A (A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.)

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XI, paragraph 17 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “The old man returned to the cottage; and the youth, with tools different from those he had used in the morning, directed his steps across the fields.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XI, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “different” and “returned”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6)
    A. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.
    B. Opens with pride in lineage and status.
    C. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.
    D. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

    Key: A (Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.)

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10)
    A. The ending: ambiguous death.
    B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.
    C. Human violence comes first.
    D. Revulsion at his labor.

    Key: C (Human violence comes first.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 2, 20, 21, 6, 11, 13, 22, 23, 12, 15, 14, 24, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	21, 2, 10, 26, 27, 28, 12, 29, 22, 23, 13, 24, 15, 30, 31, 32	recall 6, inference 5, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	33, 1, 27, 26, 11, 8, 13, 22, 23, 12, 30, 24, 15, 34, 32, 35	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	8, 10, 11, 7, 5, 6, 22, 23, 12, 30, 34, 15, 14, 32, 16, 36	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 19, 26, 12, 22, 37, 23, 14, 24, 30, 34, 15, 31, 32, 35, 38	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	6, 5, 9, 23, 39, 12, 13, 34, 14, 30, 24, 38, 16, 35, 32, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 5
College Sophomore	5, 28, 22, 13, 12, 23, 34, 14, 24, 30, 35, 25, 32, 16, 31, 38	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Junior	27, 19, 40, 23, 13, 22, 12, 30, 24, 14, 34, 38, 35, 32, 31, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 5
College Senior	8, 20, 40, 13, 23, 12, 22, 24, 14, 30, 34, 35, 31, 32, 38, 16	recall 2, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 5

Graduate / PhD	9, 8, 13, 23, 22, 12, 24, 34, 30, 14, 16, 32, 38, 31, 35, 25	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XI,” how does Shelley show first experiences of the senses? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XI, how does Shelley develop the idea of first experiences of the senses? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XI develops the idea of first experiences of the senses. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of first experiences of the senses. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XI suggests about first experiences of the senses. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and imagery), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses point of view in Chapter XI to complicate the reader's understanding of first experiences of the senses. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of first experiences of the senses responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of first experiences of the senses follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XI and its treatment of first experiences of the senses. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and imagery, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XI as evidence for a larger claim about first experiences of the senses in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of first experiences of the senses. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. As she walked along, seemingly incommoded by the burden, a young man met her, whose countenance expressed a deeper despondence.

   As used in the text, what does the word “incommoded” most nearly mean?

   A. covered as if with a carpet

   B. to give up

   C. troubled; inconvenienced

   D. to believe especially on uncertain or tentative grounds

2. “The moon had disappeared from the night, and again, with a lessened form, showed itself, while I still remained in the forest. My sensations had, by this time, become distinct, and my mind received every day additional ideas. My eyes became accustomed to the light, and to perceive objects in their right forms; I distinguished the insect from the herb, and, by degrees, one herb from another. I found that the sparrow uttered none but harsh notes, whilst those of the blackbird and thrush were sweet and enticing.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XI”?

   A. Delay and dread

   B. The first spark of obsession

   C. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

   D. First experiences of the senses

SAT key: 1. C (troubled; inconvenienced); 2. D (First experiences of the senses)

Lesson 19: Chapter XII

Focus: learning compassion by watching

Objective: Students will analyze how characterization develops in "Chapter XII" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Hidden, the creature observes the De Lacey family: the blind old father, Felix and Agatha. Seeing their poverty, he stops stealing their food and secretly gathers firewood for them. He begins to understand speech. Catching sight of his reflection in a pool, he is horrified at his own appearance.

Background: The cottage represents the domestic ideal praised in the Preface.

Significance: The creature's kindness shows his capacity for virtue before rejection hardens him.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to nature and nurture because....
Prompt: What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to nature and nurture because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: exhilarated — filled with energy and excitement; arbiters — people with the power to decide; execration — cursing; expressions of hatred; endeared — made loved or liked; enhanced — increase. "arbiters": Origin of "arbiter": Old French arbitre; earlier Latin arbiter ("a witness"). "execration": Origin: Latin execrātiō.
Words: exhilarated: filled with energy and excitement · arbiters: people with the power to decide · execration: cursing; expressions of hatred · endeared: made loved or liked · enhanced: increase

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The cottage represents the domestic ideal praised in the Preface. The creature's kindness shows his capacity for virtue before rejection hardens him. Characterization: From the hovel, the creature watches the De Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them. Point of view: He observes without being seen, like a reader; we learn about human kindness through his eyes. Imagery: His reflection in the pool: the first time he sees himself as others do. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "The cottagers arose the next morning before the sun. The young woman arranged the cottage, and prepared the food; and" (Chapter XII, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature is terrified to see his own face in a clear pool. Next, craft. I notice he describes horror at himself, the same horror others feel. The strongest word is "terrified": it shows he has learned to judge himself through human eyes. Then, effect. What does the creature learn when he sees his reflection? My answer: Seeing his reflection, he learns he is ugly by human standards; it is the moment despair enters, because he realizes the cottagers will reject him.

> how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool (Chapter XII, paragraph 13)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature is terrified to see his own face in a clear pool. Next, craft. I notice he describes horror at himself, the same horror others feel. The strongest word is "terrified": it shows he has learned to judge himself through human eyes. Then, effect. What does the creature learn when he sees his reflection? My answer: Seeing his reflection, he learns he is ugly by human standards; it is the moment despair enters, because he realizes the cottagers will reject him.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: He stops stealing because it hurts them: empathy and self-control. This connects to nature versus nurture: watching good people teaches him goodness. Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture? Expected: He learns virtue by watching virtue. (Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.)

> when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained (Chapter XII, paragraph 6)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: He stops stealing because it hurts them: empathy and self-control. This connects to nature versus nurture: watching good people teaches him goodness.
Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture?
Expected answer: He learns virtue by watching virtue. (Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about learning compassion by watching? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of learning compassion by watching. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. When the text says "when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained" (Chapter XII, paragraph 6), it shows this directly. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, point of view (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about learning compassion by watching? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of learning compassion by watching. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. When the text says "when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained" (Chapter XII, paragraph 6), it shows this directly. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature? Ask: why does Shelley make the creature learn language from a family rather than a book?
Anchor question: What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature?
Facilitation: Ask: why does Shelley make the creature learn language from a family rather than a book?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about learning compassion by watching? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. ("when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained", Chapter XII, paragraph 6). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about learning compassion by watching? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. ("when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained", Chapter XII, paragraph 6). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how characterization shapes learning compassion by watching. Key takeaway: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: From the hovel, the creature watches the De Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them.
- Point of view: He observes without being seen, like a reader; we learn about human kindness through his eyes.
- Imagery: His reflection in the pool: the first time he sees himself as others do.

Themes and how they develop

- nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “The cottagers arose the next morning before the sun. The young woman arranged the cottage, and prepared the food; and” (Chapter XII, paragraph 2).
- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: “I became fully convinced that I was in reality the monster that I am, I was filled with the bitterest sensations of” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.
- “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.
- “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9) The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for.
Evidence: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6)

Reasoning: When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
exhilarated (verb)	filled with energy and excitement	"These thoughts exhilarated me, and led me to apply with fresh ardour to the acquiring the art of language.
arbiters (noun)	people with the power to decide	I looked upon them as superior beings, who would be the arbiters of my future destiny.	"arbiters": Origin of "arbiter": Old French arbitre; earlier Latin arbiter ("a witness"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/arbiter#Etymology)
execration (noun)	cursing; expressions of hatred	It was as the ass and the lapdog; yet surely the gentle ass whose intentions were affectionate, although his manners were rude, deserved better treatment than blows and execration.	"execration": Origin: Latin execrātiō. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/execration#Etymology)
endeared (verb)	made loved or liked	The gentle manners and beauty of the cottagers greatly endeared them to me: when they were unhappy, I felt depressed; when they rejoiced, I sympathised in their joys.
enhanced (verb)	increase	I saw few human beings beside them; and if any other happened to enter the cottage, their harsh manners and rude gait only enhanced to me the superior accomplishments of my friends.
pronunciation (noun)	the manner in which someone utters a word	Their pronunciation was quick; and the words they uttered, not having any apparent connection with visible objects, I was unable to discover any clue by which I could unravel the mystery of their reference.
cultivating (verb)	foster the growth of	I observed, with pleasure, that he did not go to the forest that day, but spent it in repairing the cottage, and cultivating the garden.
starlight (noun)	the light of the stars	When they had retired to rest, if there was any moon, or the night was starlight, I went into the woods, and	"starlight": Origin: an English formation from star + light. (Liber et Libri origin note, https:// collected my own food and fuel for the cottage.	en.wiktionary.org/wiki/starlight#Etymology)

communicating (verb)	transmit information	I found that these people possessed a method of communicating their experience and feelings to one another by articulate sounds.
tolerable (adjective)	capable of being borne or endured	My organs were indeed harsh, but supple; and although my voice was very unlike the soft music of their tones, yet I pronounced such words as I understood with tolerable ease.	"tolerable": Origin: Middle French tolerable; earlier Latin tolerābilis. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/tolerable#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature?
2. Where does characterization appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Whom does the creature observe? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The De Lacey family
2. Which family member is blind? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The old father
3. Why does the creature stop taking their food? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He realizes they are poor
4. What does the creature see in a clear pool? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: His own frightening reflection
5. What does he begin to learn? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Language
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Hidden, the creature observes the De Lacey family: the blind old father, Felix and Agatha. Seeing their poverty, he stops stealing their food and secretly gathers firewood for them. He begins to understand speech. Catching sight of his reflection in a pool, he is horrified at his own appearance.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““These thoughts exhilarated me, and led me to apply with fresh ardour to the acquiring the art of language.” What does “exhilarated” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: exhilarated: filled with energy and excitement.
10. Reread: “I looked upon them as superior beings, who would be the arbiters of my future destiny.” What does “arbiters” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: arbiters: people with the power to decide.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XII” suggest about learning compassion by watching? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The creature's kindness shows his capacity for virtue before rejection hardens him.
2. Find one example of characterization in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
3. How does the setting in this chapter shape what we understand about learning compassion by watching? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““I remember, the first time that I did this, the young woman, when she opened the door in the morning, appeared greatly astonished on seeing a great pile of wood on the outside.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Hidden, the creature observes the De Lacey family: the blind old father, Felix and Agatha. Seeing their poverty, he stops stealing their food and secretly gathers firewood for them. He begins to understand speech. Catching sight of his reflection in a pool, he is horrified at his own appearance.
6. How does “Chapter XII” build on “Chapter XI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13): Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9): The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. On characterization: From the hovel, the creature watches the De Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does the creature's secret help reveal about his nature?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The cottage represents the domestic ideal praised in the Preface. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13): Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The creature's kindness shows his capacity for virtue before rejection hardens him.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9): The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. On characterization: From the hovel, the creature watches the De Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about learning compassion by watching? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13): Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. On point of view: He observes without being seen, like a reader; we learn about human kindness through his eyes. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9): The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the characterization in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13): Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. On characterization: From the hovel, the creature watches the De

Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how "Chapter XII" treats learning compassion by watching with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: "fire,' 'milk,' 'bread,' and 'wood" (Chapter XII, paragraph 9): The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what "Chapter XIII" will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: "when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained" (Chapter XII, paragraph 6): Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about learning compassion by watching? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: "how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool" (Chapter XII, paragraph 13): Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Useful evidence: "fire,' 'milk,' 'bread,' and 'wood" (Chapter XII, paragraph 9): The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. Theme link: he learns virtue by watching virtue. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Characterization: look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 5: ""A _____ period elapsed before I discovered one of the causes of the uneasiness of this amiable family: it was poverty; and they suffered that evil in a very distressing degree." Word bank: considerable, poignantly, neighbouring, occupations

   Key: considerable

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XII, paragraph 11? "In the day, I believe, he worked sometimes for a _____ farmer, because he often went forth, and did not return until dinner, yet brought no wood with him."

   A. neighbouring
   B. discovered
   C. companion
   D. chiefly

   Key: A (neighbouring)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I saw few human beings beside them; and if any other happened to enter the cottage, their harsh manners and rude gait only _____ to me the superior accomplishments of my friends." Word bank: arbiters, exhilarated, execration, enhanced

   Key: enhanced

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XII, paragraph 3? "Nothing could exceed the love and respect which the younger _____ exhibited towards their venerable companion."

   A. neighbouring
   B. vanished
   C. occupations
   D. cottagers

   Key: D (cottagers)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Which family member is blind?

   A. Agatha
   B. Safie
   C. Felix
   D. The old father

   Key: D (The old father)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line ""These thoughts exhilarated me, and led me to apply with fresh ardour to the acquiring the art of language.", what does "exhilarated" most nearly mean?

   A. to flow in drops
   B. extremely happy
   C. killing large numbers of people
   D. filled with energy and excitement

   Key: D (filled with energy and excitement)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 6: “when I found that in doing this I _____ pain on the cottagers, I abstained”

   Key: inflicted

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why does the creature stop taking their food?

   A. He realizes they are poor

   B. He finds better food

   C. They lock it up

   D. He gets caught

   Key: A (He realizes they are poor)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 14: “Their food, as I afterwards found, was coarse, but it was wholesome; and they procured a _____ of it.” Word bank: companion, poignantly, sufficiency, dispositions

   Key: sufficiency

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “When they had retired to rest, if there was any moon, or the night was _____, I went into the woods, and collected my own food and fuel for the cottage.” Word bank: starlight, exhilarated, execration, arbiters

    Key: starlight

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter XII?

    A. ““I lay on my straw, but I could not sleep.”

    B. “I thought of the occurrences of the day.”

    C. “What chiefly struck me was the gentle manners of these people; and I longed to join them, but dared not.”

    D. ““The cottagers arose the next morning before the sun.”

    Key: A (““I lay on my straw, but I could not sleep.”)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XII”?

    A. Learning compassion by watching

    B. Rejection and the turn to revenge

    C. The author's stated purpose

    D. Horror at the moment of creation

    Key: A (Learning compassion by watching)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 7 reveal about the character or situation? “I found that the youth spent a great part of each day in collecting wood for the family fire; and, during the night, I often took his tools, the use of which I quickly discovered, and brought home firing sufficient for the consumption of…” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “consumption” and “collecting”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 11 shapes its tone: “Early in the morning, before she had risen, he cleared away the snow that obstructed her path to the milk-house, drew water from the well, and brought the wood from the outhouse, where, to his perpetual astonishment, he found his store…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “astonishment” and “replenished”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “I improved, however, sensibly in this science, but not sufficiently to follow up any kind of conversation, although I applied my whole mind to the endeavour: for I easily perceived that, although I eagerly longed to discover myself to the…” Pick two words and explain their effect.
Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “conversation” and “sufficiently”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) bears it out: When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught. But “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) complicates it, because here the text shows self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does the creature see in a clear pool?
    A. A fish
    B. Victor
    C. His own frightening reflection
    D. The moon only

    Key: C (His own frightening reflection)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Their _____ was quick; and the words they uttered, not having any apparent connection with visible objects, I was unable to discover any clue by which I could unravel the mystery of their reference.” Word bank: arbiters, execration, exhilarated, pronunciation
    Key: pronunciation

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Whom does the creature observe?
    A. The Frankensteins
    B. Villagers in Geneva
    C. The De Lacey family
    D. Walton's crew

    Key: C (The De Lacey family)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I looked upon them as superior beings, who would be the arbiters of my future destiny.”, what does “arbiters” most nearly mean?
    A. people with the power to decide
    B. becoming smaller or less

C. never seen before; unequaled

D. lasting a very short time

Key: A (people with the power to decide)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 13: “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a _____ pool”

Key: transparent

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I observed, with pleasure, that he did not go to the forest that day, but spent it in repairing the cottage, and _____ the garden.” Word bank: arbiters, execration, exhilarated, cultivating

Key: cultivating

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 1 shapes its tone: “I thought of the occurrences of the day.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes “occurrences” and “thought”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XII”? He observes without being seen, like a reader; we learn about human kindness through his eyes.

A. Simile

B. Personification

C. Hyperbole

D. Point of view

Key: D (Point of view)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The first words he learns: basic needs and the home. The words “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 4 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I was at first unable to solve these questions; but perpetual attention and time explained to me many appearances which were at first enigmatic.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “appearances” and “attention”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “It was as the ass and the lapdog; yet surely the gentle ass whose intentions were affectionate, although his manners were rude, deserved better treatment than blows and execration.”, what does “execration” most nearly mean?

A. weakened

B. any authorization to pass or go somewhere

C. grow worse

D. cursing; expressions of hatred

Key: D (cursing; expressions of hatred)

28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. The words “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XII”? From the hovel, the creature watches the De Lacey family and learns sympathy: he stops stealing their food when he realizes it hurts them.

A. Tone / mood

B. Characterization

C. Diction / vocabulary

D. Symbolism

Key: B (Characterization)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 15 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “This frequently took place; but a high wind quickly dried the earth, and the season became far more pleasant than it had been.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes “frequently” and “pleasant”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XII”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: He learns virtue by watching virtue. The words “Chapter XII” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does he begin to learn?

A. Swimming

B. Chemistry

C. Language

D. Music

Key: C (Language)

33. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XII, paragraph 1: “What _____ struck me was the gentle manners of these people; and I longed to join them, but dared not.” Word bank: dispositions, chiefly, vanished, occupations

Key: chiefly

34. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. The words “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XII, paragraph 3 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “They performed towards him every little office of affection and duty with gentleness; and he rewarded them by his benevolent smiles.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XII, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “gentleness” and “benevolent”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13)

    A. Revulsion at his labor.

    B. Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.

    C. Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.

    D. Political education; links to Godwin.

    Key: C (Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.)

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6).

    Sample answer: When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught. The words “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9)

    A. The wish to belong.

    B. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    C. The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.

    D. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.

    Key: C (The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6)

    A. Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.

    B. The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.

    C. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

    D. Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

    Key: A (Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. The words “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 4, 22, 10, 13, 11, 12, 23, 24, 25, 26	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	10, 3, 1, 27, 8, 6, 5, 28, 13, 12, 11, 25, 29, 24, 30, 31	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	5, 19, 32, 3, 33, 2, 13, 12, 11, 34, 14, 29, 15, 24, 31, 35	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	18, 3, 32, 8, 20, 17, 12, 11, 13, 25, 29, 15, 23, 30, 35, 26	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	18, 17, 3, 13, 36, 11, 12, 24, 37, 25, 14, 23, 30, 26, 35, 31	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	22, 3, 6, 13, 11, 12, 38, 24, 29, 14, 37, 23, 31, 26, 16, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	3, 18, 11, 34, 12, 13, 23, 14, 29, 24, 25, 26, 16, 35, 30, 31	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	18, 3, 39, 13, 11, 15, 14, 24, 25, 23, 29, 31, 16, 35, 26, 30	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 5
College Senior	33, 21, 12, 13, 11, 24, 14, 29, 25, 23, 15, 16, 31, 35, 26, 30	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 6, synthesis 5
Graduate / PhD	3, 18, 12, 11, 13, 24, 23, 29, 25, 14, 35, 16, 30, 31, 40, 26	recall 2, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XII,” how does Shelley show learning compassion by watching? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the characterization you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XII, how does Shelley develop the idea of learning compassion by watching? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the characterization in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XII develops the idea of learning compassion by watching. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of characterization and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its characterization shape the reader's understanding of learning compassion by watching. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XII suggests about learning compassion by watching. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's characterization and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses characterization in Chapter XII to complicate the reader's understanding of learning compassion by watching. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of learning compassion by watching responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of learning compassion by watching follows or bends those conventions, using the characterization as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XII and its treatment of learning compassion by watching. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's characterization and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XII as evidence for a larger claim about learning compassion by watching in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of learning compassion by watching. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. It was as the ass and the lapdog; yet surely the gentle ass whose intentions were affectionate, although his manners were rude, deserved better treatment than blows and execration.

   As used in the text, what does the word “execration” most nearly mean?

   A. capable of being borne or endured

   B. the light of the stars

   C. cursing; expressions of hatred

   D. transmit information

2. "I remember, the first time that I did this, the young woman, when she opened the door in the morning, appeared greatly astonished on seeing a great pile of wood on the outside. She uttered some words in a loud voice, and the youth joined her, who also expressed surprise. I observed, with pleasure, that he did not go to the forest that day, but spent it in repairing the cottage, and cultivating the garden.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XII"?

A. Reading and identity

B. Grief, prison and return

C. Learning compassion by watching

D. Despair and the sublime

SAT key: 1. C (cursing; expressions of hatred); 2. C (Learning compassion by watching)

Lesson 20: Chapter XIII

Focus: language, knowledge and sorrow

Objective: Students will analyze how allusion develops in “Chapter XIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (Orientalist portrayal): Safie and her father (“the Turk”) are portrayed through European stereotypes about Muslims and the East. Name the stereotype and ask whose view the narrative takes.
Student preview: This chapter uses stereotypes about people from the Middle East. We will look at them critically.
Suggested language: “How is Safie's father described, and by whom? What stereotype is at work?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Spring comes, and Safie, an Arabian woman beloved by Felix, arrives. As Felix teaches her using Volney's 'Ruins of Empires,' the creature learns language and history alongside her. He learns of wealth, rank and injustice, realizes he has no family, money or name, and asks, 'What was I?' Knowledge deepens his misery.

Background: Volney's 'Ruins of Empires' (1791) was a radical history critiquing tyranny and religion; debates about property and rank reflect revolutionary thought after 1789.

Significance: Language opens knowledge and pain together, echoing Victor's own discovery that knowledge can isolate.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because.... Content note before we start: This chapter uses stereotypes about people from the Middle East. We will look at them critically.
Prompt: The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: narrations — stories; accounts of events; recommencing — starting again; dissipates — makes disappear; scatters; degenerating — grow worse; disowned — refused to acknowledge as one's own; rejected. "narrations": Origin of "narration": Middle French narration; earlier Old French narracion. "recommencing": Origin of "recommence": Middle French recommencer; earlier Old French recommencier. "degenerating": Origin of "degenerate": Latin dēgenerātus.
Words: narrations: stories; accounts of events · recommencing: starting again · dissipates: makes disappear; scatters · degenerating: grow worse · disowned: refused to acknowledge as one's own; rejected

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Volney's 'Ruins of Empires' (1791) was a radical history critiquing tyranny and religion; debates about property and rank reflect revolutionary thought after 1789. Language opens knowledge and pain together, echoing Victor's own discovery that knowledge can isolate. Characterization: Learning history and social order, the creature realizes he has no place: no money, family or name. Diction / vocabulary: Abstract nouns (property, wealth, poverty, rank) enter his vocabulary; knowledge brings grief. Structure: Safie arrives and learns French alongside him; her lessons are his. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists. Felix seemed peculiarly happy, and with smiles" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 6).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" slowly and put it in my own words: Listening to Felix teach Safie, the creature hears about property, great wealth and terrible poverty, rank and noble blood. Next, craft. I notice the paired opposites, immense wealth against squalid poverty, which show how unequal society is. The strongest word is "squalid": it means filthy and wretched, a harsh word for the poverty society tolerates. Then, effect. What does the creature learn about human society? My answer: The creature learns that human society values wealth and noble birth, and he has neither; this knowledge makes him feel even more an outcast.

> I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" slowly and put it in my own words: Listening to Felix teach Safie, the creature hears about property, great wealth and terrible poverty, rank and noble blood. Next, craft. I notice the paired opposites, immense wealth against squalid poverty, which show how unequal society is. The strongest word is "squalid": it means filthy and wretched, a harsh word for the poverty society tolerates. Then, effect. What does the creature learn about human society? My answer: The creature learns that human society values wealth and noble birth, and he has neither; this knowledge makes him feel even more an outcast.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: A lichen cannot be scraped off a rock; knowledge clings in the same way. This connects to the theme of knowledge: for Victor and the creature, knowing is irreversible and painful. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. (Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.)

> Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: A lichen cannot be scraped off a rock; knowledge clings in the same way. This connects to the theme of knowledge: for Victor and the creature, knowing is irreversible and painful.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. (Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, diction / vocabulary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about language, knowledge and sorrow? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of language, knowledge and sorrow. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. When the text says “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16), it shows this directly. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, diction / vocabulary (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about language, knowledge and sorrow? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of language, knowledge and sorrow. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. When the text says “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16), it shows this directly. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good? Compare with Victor: does knowledge harm everyone in this book?
Anchor question: The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good?
Facilitation: Compare with Victor: does knowledge harm everyone in this book?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about language, knowledge and sorrow? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. ("I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood", Chapter XIII, paragraph 16). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about language, knowledge and sorrow? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. ("I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood", Chapter XIII, paragraph 16). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes language, knowledge and sorrow. Key takeaway: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Learning history and social order, the creature realizes he has no place: no money, family or name.
- Diction / vocabulary: Abstract nouns (property, wealth, poverty, rank) enter his vocabulary; knowledge brings grief.
- Structure: Safie arrives and learns French alongside him; her lessons are his.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists. Felix seemed peculiarly happy, and with smiles" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 6).

- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: "and heard of none like me. Was I then a monster, a blot upon the earth, from which all men fled, and" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.
- "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) Political education; links to Godwin.
- "And what was I" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17) A question of identity.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion.
Evidence: "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16)
Reasoning: Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
narrations (noun)	stories; accounts of events	"These wonderful narrations inspired me with strange feelings.	"narrations": Origin of "narration": Middle French narration; earlier Old French narracion. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/narration#Etymology)
recommencing (verb)	starting again	Felix replied in a cheerful accent, and the old man was recommencing his music, when someone tapped at the door.	"recommencing": Origin of "recommence": Middle French recommencer; earlier Old French recommencier. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/recommence#Etymology)
dissipates (verb)	makes disappear; scatters	They made many signs which I did not comprehend; but I saw that her presence diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists.
degenerating (verb)	grow worse	I heard of the slothful Asiatics; of the stupendous genius and mental activity of the Grecians; of the wars and	"degenerating": Origin of "degenerate": Latin dēgenerātus. (Liber et Libri origin wonderful virtue of the early Romans—of their subsequent degenerating—of the decline of that mighty empire; of chivalry, Christianity, and kings.	note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/degenerate#Etymology)

disowned (verb)	refused to acknowledge as one's own; rejected	Was I then a monster, a blot upon the earth, from which all men fled, and whom all men disowned?
wondrously (adverb)	extremely well	Her hair of a shining raven black, and curiously braided; her eyes were dark, but gentle, although animated; her features of a regular proportion, and her complexion wondrously fair, each cheek tinged with a lovely pink.
hideously (adverb)	in a hideous manner	I was, besides, endued with a figure hideously deformed and loathsome; I was not even of the same nature as man.
enraptured (verb)	hold spellbound	The old man appeared enraptured, and said some words, which Agatha endeavoured to explain to Safie, and by which he appeared to wish to express that she bestowed on him the greatest delight by her music.
dismount (verb)	to get down from a horse	He assisted her to dismount, and dismissing her guide, conducted her into the cottage.
protectors (noun)	a person who cares for persons or property	Safie was always gay and happy; she and I improved rapidly in the knowledge of language, so that in two months I began to comprehend most of the words uttered by my protectors.

Discussion questions

1. The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good?
2. Where does allusion appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16,

17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who arrives at the cottage? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Safie
2. How does Safie's arrival help the creature? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He learns language as she is taught
3. Which book does Felix read to Safie? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Ruins of Empires
4. What question does the creature ask himself? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: What was I?
5. How does knowledge affect him? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: It increases his sorrow
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Spring comes, and Safie, an Arabian woman beloved by Felix, arrives. As Felix teaches her using Volney's 'Ruins of Empires,' the creature learns language and history alongside her. He learns of wealth, rank and injustice, realizes he has no family, money or name, and asks, 'What was I?' Knowledge deepens his misery.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: ““These wonderful narrations inspired me with strange feelings.” What does “narrations” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: narrations: stories; accounts of events.
10. Reread: “Felix replied in a cheerful accent, and the old man was recommencing his music, when someone tapped at the door.” What does “recommencing” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: recommencing: starting again.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XIII” suggest about language, knowledge and sorrow? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Language opens knowledge and pain together, echoing Victor's own discovery that knowledge can isolate.
2. Find one example of allusion in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for references to other books, myths, history or religion.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about language, knowledge and sorrow? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins ““It was on one of these days, when my cottagers periodically rested from labour—the old man played on his guitar, and the children listened to him—that I observed the countenance…”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Spring comes, and Safie, an Arabian woman beloved by Felix, arrives. As Felix teaches her using Volney's 'Ruins of Empires,' the creature learns language and history alongside her. He learns of wealth, rank and injustice, realizes he has no family, money or name, and asks, 'What was I?' Knowledge…
6. How does “Chapter XIII” build on “Chapter XII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16): Political education; links to Godwin. On structure: Safie arrives and learns French alongside him; her lessons are his. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17): A question of identity. On characterization: Learning history and social order, the creature realizes he has no place: no money, family or name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “The creature wishes he could forget what he learned. Is knowledge always good?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Volney's 'Ruins of Empires' (1791) was a radical history critiquing tyranny and religion; debates about property and rank reflect revolutionary thought after 1789. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16): Political education; links to Godwin. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Language opens knowledge and pain together, echoing Victor's own discovery that knowledge can isolate.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17): A question of identity. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. On characterization: Learning history and social order, the creature realizes he has no place: no money, family or name. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about language, knowledge and sorrow? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16): Political education; links to Godwin. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17): A question of identity. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the allusion in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16): Political education; links to Godwin. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XIII” treats language, knowledge and sorrow with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17): A question of identity. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19): Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about language, knowledge and sorrow? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16): Political education; links to Godwin. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Useful evidence: “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17): A question of identity. Theme link: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Allusion: look for references to other books, myths, history or religion (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XIII, paragraph 7? “When they separated, Felix kissed the hand of the stranger, and said, ‘Good night, sweet Safie.’ He sat up much longer, conversing with his father; and, by the frequent repetition of her name, I conjectured that their lovely guest was the subject of their _____.”

   A. reflections

   B. conversation

   C. cloudless

   D. hasten

   Key: B (conversation)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Felix replied in a cheerful accent, and the old man was recommencing his music, when someone tapped at the door.”, what does “recommencing” most nearly mean?

   A. starting again

   B. encouraging; filling with spirit

   C. spoils; makes impure

   D. the area in which something exists or lives

   Key: A (starting again)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] How does Safie's arrival help the creature?

   A. She feeds him

   B. She brings him chemistry books

C. He learns language as she is taught

D. She befriends him

Key: C (He learns language as she is taught)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Was I then a monster, a blot upon the earth, from which all men fled, and whom all men _____?" Word bank: recommencing, disowned, narrations, dissipates

   Key: disowned

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 20: ""Other lessons were _____ upon me even more deeply." Word bank: impressed, cloudless, nightingale, hasten

   Key: impressed

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 19: "Of what a strange nature is _____! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock"

   Key: knowledge

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The old man appeared _____, and said some words, which Agatha endeavoured to explain to Safie, and by which he appeared to wish to express that she bestowed on him the greatest delight by her music." Word bank: recommencing, enraptured, narrations, dissipates

   Key: enraptured

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I was, besides, endued with a figure _____ deformed and loathsome; I was not even of the same nature as man." Word bank: hideously, dissipates, narrations, recommencing

   Key: hideously

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Her hair of a shining raven black, and curiously braided; her eyes were dark, but gentle, although animated; her features of a regular proportion, and her complexion _____ fair, each cheek tinged with a lovely pink." Word bank: narrations, recommencing, dissipates, wondrously

   Key: wondrously

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line ""These wonderful narrations inspired me with strange feelings.", what does "narrations" most nearly mean?

    A. a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice

    B. stories; accounts of events

    C. not engaged in a gainful occupation

    D. beats; throbs (of the heart)

    Key: B (stories; accounts of events)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Political education; links to Godwin. The words "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter XIII?

    A. “It surprised me, that what before was desert and gloomy should now bloom with the most beautiful flowers and verdure.”

    B. ““I now hasten to the more moving part of my story.”

    C. “I shall relate events, that impressed me with feelings which, from what I had been, have made me what I am.”

    D. ““Spring advanced rapidly; the weather became fine, and the skies cloudless.”

    Key: B (““I now hasten to the more moving part of my story.”)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage from Chapter XIII, paragraph 21 reveal about the character or situation? “No father had watched my infant days, no mother had blessed me with smiles and caresses; or if they had, all my past life was now a blot, a blind vacancy in which I distinguished nothing.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIII, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes “distinguished” and “caresses”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIII, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “It surprised me, that what before was desert and gloomy should now bloom with the most beautiful flowers and verdure.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIII, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “surprised” and “beautiful”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: A question of identity. The words “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XIII, paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Oh, that I had forever remained in my native wood, nor known nor felt beyond the sensations of hunger, thirst, and heat!” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIII, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes “sensations” and “remained”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I heard of the slothful Asiatics; of the stupendous genius and mental activity of the Grecians; of the wars and wonderful virtue of the early Romans—of their subsequent degenerating—of the decline of that mighty empire;…”, what does “degenerating” most nearly mean?

    A. immune to attack; impregnable

    B. grow worse

    C. became ill

    D. amazing things; marvels

Key: B (grow worse)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 16: “I heard of the _____ of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood”
    Key: division

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] How does knowledge affect him?
    A. It increases his sorrow
    B. It makes him content
    C. It makes him rich
    D. It cures his loneliness

    Key: A (It increases his sorrow)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 1: ““I now _____ to the more moving part of my story.” Word bank: question, nightingale, impressed, hasten
    Key: hasten

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Which book does Felix read to Safie?
    A. The Bible
    B. Plutarch's Lives
    C. Paradise Lost
    D. Ruins of Empires

    Key: D (Ruins of Empires)

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIII”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. The words “Chapter XIII” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] What question does the creature ask himself?
    A. Who is Walton?
    B. What was I?
    C. Where is Geneva?
    D. Why is it cold?

    Key: B (What was I?)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. The words “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) bears it out: Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him. But “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) complicates it, because here the text shows simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Who arrives at the cottage?

    A. Elizabeth

    B. Safie

    C. Clerval

    D. Justine

    Key: B (Safie)

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Claim: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16).

    Sample answer: Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him. The words “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XIII, paragraph 8 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““The next morning Felix went out to his work; and, after the usual occupations of Agatha were finished, the Arabian sat at the feet of the old man, and, taking his guitar, played some airs so entrancingly beautiful, that they at once drew…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIII, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “entrancingly” and “occupations”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “They made many signs which I did not comprehend; but I saw that her presence diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists.”, what does “dissipates” most nearly mean?

    A. any bird of the family Icteridae whose male is black or predominantly black

    B. makes disappear; scatters

    C. in an unjust manner

    D. cold, damp harshness

    Key: B (makes disappear; scatters)

30. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. The words “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

31. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16)
    A. The ending: ambiguous death.
    B. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.
    C. The isolation of work.
    D. Political education; links to Godwin.

    Key: D (Political education; links to Godwin.)

32. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XIII"? Abstract nouns (property, wealth, poverty, rank) enter his vocabulary; knowledge brings grief.
    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Plot
    C. Alliteration
    D. Irony

    Key: A (Diction / vocabulary)

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? "And what was I" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17)
    A. Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness.
    B. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.
    C. A question of identity.
    D. Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

    Key: C (A question of identity.)

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Political education; links to Godwin. The words "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	6, 10, 17, 18, 19, 20, 1, 9, 8, 21, 13, 11, 12, 15, 14, 22	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	9, 19, 8, 17, 4, 23, 7, 3, 10, 13, 11, 12, 14, 15, 24, 25	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 2
HS Junior	26, 6, 3, 2, 1, 4, 7, 20, 19, 13, 12, 15, 14, 27, 28, 25	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Senior	29, 17, 23, 19, 18, 9, 5, 12, 11, 30, 13, 15, 14, 16, 28, 25	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 3
AP	29, 20, 2, 18, 17, 10, 12, 31, 13, 14, 32, 15, 28, 16, 25, 24	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 4
College Freshman	26, 20, 29, 2, 19, 5, 30, 31, 13, 12, 14, 15, 22, 16, 25, 28	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 26, 20, 8, 7, 19, 33, 30, 13, 12, 14, 32, 16, 34, 28, 25	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 4
College Junior	21, 20, 10, 2, 8, 4, 17, 13, 12, 11, 15, 14, 28, 16, 25, 22	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 4
College Senior	26, 8, 1, 4, 9, 23, 11, 12, 13, 30, 14, 15, 28, 22, 16, 25	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 4
Graduate / PhD	5, 3, 23, 7, 10, 19, 26, 33, 12, 13, 31, 14, 22, 25, 28, 16	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 1, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XIII,” how does Shelley show language, knowledge and sorrow? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the allusion you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XIII, how does Shelley develop the idea of language, knowledge and sorrow? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the allusion in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XIII develops the idea of language, knowledge and sorrow. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its allusion shape the reader's understanding of language, knowledge and sorrow. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIII suggests about language, knowledge and sorrow. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's allusion and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses allusion in Chapter XIII to complicate the reader's understanding of language, knowledge and sorrow. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of language, knowledge and sorrow responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of language, knowledge and sorrow follows or bends those conventions, using the allusion as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIII and its treatment of language, knowledge and sorrow. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's allusion and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIII as evidence for a larger claim about language, knowledge and sorrow in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of language, knowledge and sorrow. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. They made many signs which I did not comprehend; but I saw that her presence diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists.

   As used in the text, what does the word “dissipates” most nearly mean?

   A. a person who cares for persons or property

   B. makes disappear; scatters

   C. to get down from a horse

   D. hold spellbound

2. “It was on one of these days, when my cottagers periodically rested from labour—the old man played on his guitar, and the children listened to him—that I observed the countenance of Felix was melancholy beyond expression; he sighed frequently; and once his father paused in his music, and I conjectured by his manner that he enquired the cause of his son’s sorrow. Felix replied in a cheerful accent, and the old man was recommencing his music, when someone tapped at the door.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIII”?

   A. Injustice and the burden of silence

   B. Isolation in the north

   C. The first spark of obsession

   D. Language, knowledge and sorrow

SAT key: 1. B (makes disappear; scatters); 2. D (Language, knowledge and sorrow)

Lesson 21: Chapter XIV

Focus: injustice and exile

Objective: Students will analyze how plot develops in "Chapter XIV" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (Orientalist portrayal): The De Lacey story continues the stereotyped portrait of Safie's father; contrast it with Safie's own agency.
Student preview: The chapter continues stereotypes about Safie's father.
Suggested language: "Does Safie fit the stereotype the narrator applies to her father?"

Teacher only · spoilers

The creature learns the De Laceys' history: Felix helped Safie's father, a Turkish merchant, escape unjust execution in Paris; the merchant betrayed them, and the family lost wealth and was exiled. Safie fled to find Felix.

Background: The story reflects prejudices and politics of 18th-century France and attitudes toward the Ottoman world.

Significance: Injustice repeats across the book; the virtuous suffer, and betrayal is common.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because.... Content note before we start: The chapter continues stereotypes about Safie's father.
Prompt: How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: facilitated — made easier; reiterating — repeating; expostulate — to argue earnestly with someone to change their mind; passports — any authorization to pass or go somewhere; noisome — causing or able to cause nausea. “reiterating”: Origin of “reiterate”: Late Latin reiteratus. “expostulate”: From Latin expostulare "to demand urgently, remonstrate," from ex- + postulare "to demand." “noisome”: Origin: an English formation from noy + -some.
Words: facilitated: made easier · reiterating: repeating · expostulate: to argue earnestly with someone to change their mind · passports: any authorization to pass or go somewhere · noisome: causing or able to cause nausea

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The story reflects prejudices and politics of 18th-century France and attitudes toward the Ottoman world. Injustice repeats across the book; the virtuous suffer, and betrayal is common. Structure: An embedded story within the creature's story (the De Laceys and Safie), a third layer of narration. Characterization: Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished. Conflict: Injustice by a state and by a self-interested man. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “the truth of my tale; but at present, as the sun is already far declined, I shall only have time to repeat” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 7).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” slowly and put it in my own words: The creature learns that Safie's father, a Turkish merchant, caused the De Lacey family's ruin. Next, craft. I notice the blunt statement of cause and blame. The strongest word is “ruin”: it sums up how the family lost fortune and home. Then, effect. What does the creature learn about Safie's father? My answer: The De Laceys were ruined for helping someone who betrayed them; the creature learns that even good acts can be repaid with ingratitude.

> The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” slowly and put it in my own words: The creature learns that Safie's father, a Turkish merchant, caused the De Lacey family's ruin. Next, craft. I notice the blunt statement of cause and blame. The strongest word is “ruin”: it sums up how the family lost fortune and home. Then, effect. What does the creature learn about Safie's father? My answer: The De Laceys were ruined for helping someone who betrayed them; the creature learns that even good acts can be repaid with ingratitude.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The family is ruined by the man they helped; ingratitude and injustice. This parallels Justine's trial and prepares the creature's rejection. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: The De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. (Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.)

> Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The family is ruined by the man they helped; ingratitude and injustice. This parallels Justine's trial and prepares the creature's rejection.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: The De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. (Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about injustice and exile? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of injustice and exile. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. When the text says "The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.
Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about injustice and exile? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of injustice and exile. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. When the text says "The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation? Ask why Shelley includes a story within a story here. What does it add?
Anchor question: How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation?
Facilitation: Ask why Shelley includes a story within a story here. What does it add?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about injustice and exile? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. ("The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin", Chapter XIV, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about injustice and exile? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. ("The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin", Chapter XIV, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how structure shapes injustice and exile. Key takeaway: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: An embedded story within the creature's story (the De Laceys and Safie), a third layer of narration.
- Characterization: Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished.
- Conflict: Injustice by a state and by a self-interested man.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “the truth of my tale; but at present, as the sun is already far declined, I shall only have time to repeat” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 7).
- isolation: Almost every narrator ends up alone; solitude is both the cost of ambition and the creature's suffering. In this chapter: “When alone, Safie resolved in her own mind the plan of conduct that” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 19).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) Benevolence repaid with treachery.
- “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial.
- “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15) Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection.
Evidence: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
facilitated (verb)	made easier	His plans were facilitated by the news which arrived from Paris.
reiterating (verb)	repeating	The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her angrily, reiterating his tyrannical mandate.	“reiterating”: Origin of “reiterate”: Late Latin reiteratus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reiterate#Etymology)
expostulate (verb)	to argue earnestly with someone to change their mind	The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her	“expostulate”: From Latin expostulare "to demand urgently, remonstrate," from ex- + postulare "to demand." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), angrily, reiterating his tyrannical mandate.	https://www.etymonline.com/word/expostulate)

passports (noun)	any authorization to pass or go somewhere	Felix had procured passports in the name of his father, sister, and himself.
noisome (adjective)	causing or able to cause nausea	His blind and aged father, and his gentle sister, lay in a noisome dungeon, while he enjoyed the free air, and the society of her whom he loved.	"noisome": Origin: an English formation from noy + -some. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/noisome#Etymology)
affluence (noun)	abundant wealth	He was descended from a good family in France, where he had lived for many years in affluence, respected by his superiors, and beloved by his equals.	"affluence": Origin: Old French affluence; earlier Latin affluentia. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/affluence#Etymology)
mandate (noun)	a document giving an official instruction or command	The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her angrily, reiterating his tyrannical mandate.
spurned (verb)	reject with contempt	The young girl spoke in high and enthusiastic terms of her mother, who, born in freedom, spurned the bondage to which she was now reduced.	"spurned": Origin of "spurn": Old English spurnan ("to strike against"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/spurn#Etymology)
uncontrollable (adjective)	impossible to control	"Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court.
enraged (verb)	put into a rage; make violently angry	"The government of France were greatly enraged at the escape of their victim, and spared no pains to detect and punish his deliverer.	"enraged": Origin of "enrage": Old French enrager. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/enrage#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation?
2. Where does plot appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Why were the De Laceys exiled? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Felix helped a Turkish merchant escape
2. Who betrayed them? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Safie's father
3. Where did these events take place? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Paris
4. How does Safie show courage? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: She travels alone to find Felix
5. What larger pattern does this story show? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The virtuous often suffer injustice
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XIV" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature learns the De Laceys' history: Felix helped Safie's father, a Turkish merchant, escape unjust execution in Paris; the merchant betrayed them, and the family lost wealth and was exiled. Safie fled to find Felix.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XIV"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XIV" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "His plans were facilitated by the news which arrived from Paris." What does "facilitated" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: facilitated: made easier.
10. Reread: "The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her angrily, reiterating his tyrannical mandate." What does "reiterating" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: reiterating: repeating.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XIV" suggest about injustice and exile? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Injustice repeats across the book; the virtuous suffer, and betrayal is common.
2. Find one example of plot in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.

3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about injustice and exile? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3): Benevolence repaid with treachery. On characterization: Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ““The name of the old man was De Lacey.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The creature learns the De Laceys' history: Felix helped Safie's father, a Turkish merchant, escape unjust execution in Paris; the merchant betrayed them, and the family lost wealth and was exiled. Safie fled to find Felix.
6. How does “Chapter XIV” build on “Chapter XIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4): Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. On structure: An embedded story within the creature's story (the De Laceys and Safie), a third layer of narration. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15): Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. On characterization: Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does the De Laceys' story parallel the creature's own situation?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3): Benevolence repaid with treachery. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: The story reflects prejudices and politics of 18th-century France and attitudes toward the Ottoman world. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4): Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "Injustice repeats across the book; the virtuous suffer, and betrayal is common." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15): Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3): Benevolence repaid with treachery. On characterization: Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XIV" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about injustice and exile? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4): Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15): Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3): Benevolence repaid with treachery. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the plot in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4): Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XIV” treats injustice and exile with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15): Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3): Benevolence repaid with treachery. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about injustice and exile? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4): Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Useful evidence: "Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15): Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. Theme link: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Plot: look for key events and the causes linking them (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How does Safie show courage?

   A. She runs a business

   B. She fights soldiers

   C. She becomes a judge

   D. She travels alone to find Felix

   Key: D (She travels alone to find Felix)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 1: ""Some time _____ before I learned the history of my friends." Word bank: ingratitude, determination, implements, elapsed
   Key: elapsed

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Felix had procured passports in the name of his father, sister, and himself.", what does "passports" most nearly mean?

   A. focused; concentrated (British spelling)

B. any authorization to pass or go somewhere

C. the usage or vocabulary that is characteristic of a specific group of people

D. increase

Key: B (any authorization to pass or go somewhere)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why were the De Laceys exiled?

   A. Felix helped a Turkish merchant escape

   B. They were scientists

   C. They insulted the king

   D. They stole money

   Key: A (Felix helped a Turkish merchant escape)

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The young girl spoke in high and enthusiastic terms of her mother, who, born in freedom, _____ the bondage to which she was now reduced." Word bank: spurned, facilitated, expostulate, reiterating

   Key: spurned

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Who betrayed them?

   A. Agatha

   B. Safie's father

   C. Safie

   D. Victor

   Key: B (Safie's father)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her angrily, reiterating his tyrannical _____." Word bank: expostulate, facilitated, mandate, reiterating

   Key: mandate

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "He was descended from a good family in France, where he had lived for many years in _____, respected by his superiors, and beloved by his equals." Word bank: reiterating, expostulate, facilitated, affluence

   Key: affluence

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "His blind and aged father, and his gentle sister, lay in a _____ dungeon, while he enjoyed the free air, and the society of her whom he loved." Word bank: noisome, reiterating, expostulate, facilitated

   Key: noisome

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XIV, paragraph 10? ""Felix conducted the fugitives through France to Lyons, and across Mont Cenis to Leghorn, where the merchant had decided to wait a favourable _____ of passing into some part of the Turkish dominions."

    A. implements

    B. residence

    C. opportunity

    D. mentioned

    Key: C (opportunity)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XIV"?

    A. Rejection and the turn to revenge

    B. The author's stated purpose

    C. Injustice and exile

    D. Horror at the moment of creation

    Key: C (Injustice and exile)

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which of these passages comes earliest in Chapter XIV?

    A. "Before I depart, I will give them to you, they will prove the truth of my tale; but at present, as the sun is already far declined, I shall…"

    B. "They conversed with one another through the means of an interpreter, and sometimes with the interpretation of looks; and Safie sang to him…"

    C. ""I have copies of these letters; for I found means, during my residence in the hovel, to procure the implements of writing; and the letters…"

    D. ""Felix conducted the fugitives through France to Lyons, and across Mont Cenis to Leghorn, where the merchant had decided to wait a…"

    Key: C (""I have copies of these letters; for I found means, during my residence in the hovel, to procure the implements of writing; and the letters…")

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XIV, paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? "They conversed with one another through the means of an interpreter, and sometimes with the interpretation of looks; and Safie sang to him the divine airs of her native country." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIV, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes "interpretation" and "interpreter", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIV, paragraph 16 shapes its tone: ""Such were the events that preyed on the heart of Felix, and rendered him, when I first saw him, the most miserable of his family." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIV, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes "miserable" and "rendered", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIV, paragraph 19 shapes its tone: "Taking with her some jewels that belonged to her, and a sum of money, she quitted Italy with an attendant, a native of Leghorn, but who understood the common language of Turkey, and departed for Germany." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIV, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes "understood" and "attendant", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin" (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Benevolence repaid with treachery. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 3: “The _____ of Safie had been the cause of their ruin”

    Key: father

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What larger pattern does this story show?

    A. Crime is always punished

    B. The virtuous often suffer injustice

    C. Wealth guarantees happiness

    D. Travel is safe

    Key: B (The virtuous often suffer injustice)

19. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. The words “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIV”? Felix's rescue of Safie's father, the father's betrayal, and the family's exile show virtue punished.

    A. Personification

    B. Tone / mood

    C. Characterization

    D. Alliteration

    Key: C (Characterization)

21. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIV”? An embedded story within the creature's story (the De Laceys and Safie), a third layer of narration.

    A. Structure

    B. Irony

    C. Theme

    D. Imagery

    Key: A (Structure)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3).

    Sample answer: The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) bears it out: The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection. But “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.
24. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 18: “He intended to leave his daughter under the care of a _____ servant, to follow at her leisure with the greater part of his property, which had not yet arrived at Leghorn.” Word bank: implements, condemned, consummation, confidential
    Key: confidential
25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Where did these events take place?
    A. London
    B. Ingolstadt
    C. Constantinople
    D. Paris

    Key: D (Paris)
26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “His plans were facilitated by the news which arrived from Paris.”, what does “facilitated” most nearly mean?
    A. made easier
    B. the ritual placing of a corpse in a grave
    C. returns of an illness after improvement
    D. narcotic consisting of an alcohol solution of opium or any preparation in which opium is the main ingredient

    Key: A (made easier)
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. The words “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.
28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIV, paragraph 15: “Felix soon learned that the _____ Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression”
    Key: treacherous
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XIV, paragraph 6 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “She thanked him in the most ardent terms for his intended services towards her parent; and at the same time she gently deplored her own fate.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIV, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “services” and “intended”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: The De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The words “Chapter XIV” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

31. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment. The words “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XIV, paragraph 20? ““She arrived in safety at a town about twenty leagues from the cottage of De Lacey, when her attendant fell _____ ill.”

    A. opportunity
    B. dangerously
    C. condemned
    D. elapsed

    Key: B (dangerously)

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3)

    A. Guilt imagined as hell.
    B. The argument from isolation.
    C. Benevolence repaid with treachery.
    D. Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.

    Key: C (Benevolence repaid with treachery.)

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “Felix soon learned that the treacherous Turk, for whom he and his family endured such unheard-of oppression” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 15)

    A. Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.
    B. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.
    C. Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.
    D. A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can.

Key: A (Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.)

35. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Benevolence repaid with treachery. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 3, 6, 7, 5, 18, 8, 9, 4, 1, 19, 11, 20, 21, 22, 23	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	24, 4, 1, 3, 25, 8, 26, 18, 11, 13, 12, 15, 20, 14, 23, 27	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	8, 6, 4, 3, 9, 25, 1, 13, 12, 11, 15, 20, 21, 14, 27, 23	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	2, 18, 28, 5, 8, 13, 19, 12, 11, 22, 15, 20, 21, 29, 30, 23	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	5, 9, 24, 11, 12, 13, 19, 31, 15, 21, 22, 14, 20, 30, 29, 23	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 6, synthesis 3
College Freshman	17, 5, 25, 11, 19, 13, 12, 15, 31, 21, 20, 14, 16, 23, 30, 29	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	9, 8, 32, 25, 33, 12, 11, 13, 31, 20, 14, 15, 21, 29, 23, 30	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 3
College Junior	7, 25, 5, 4, 11, 19, 33, 13, 12, 20, 14, 21, 15, 29, 23, 30	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
College Senior	3, 24, 8, 12, 34, 13, 33, 11, 19, 20, 14, 15, 21, 30, 23, 29	recall 3, inference 6, analysis 4, synthesis 3
Graduate / PhD	9, 8, 1, 25, 13, 12, 35, 11, 14, 21, 20, 15, 23, 27, 29, 30	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 4

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XIV,” how does Shelley show injustice and exile? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the plot you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XIV, how does Shelley develop the idea of injustice and exile? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the plot in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XIV develops the idea of injustice and exile. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of plot and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its plot shape the reader's understanding of injustice and exile. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIV suggests about injustice and exile. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's plot and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses plot in Chapter XIV to complicate the reader's understanding of injustice and exile. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of injustice and exile responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of injustice and exile follows or bends those conventions, using the plot as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIV and its treatment of injustice and exile. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's plot and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIV as evidence for a larger claim about injustice and exile in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of injustice and exile. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. The generous nature of Safie was outraged by this command; she attempted to expostulate with her father, but he left her angrily, reiterating his tyrannical mandate.

   As used in the text, what does the word “expostulate” most nearly mean?

   A. reject with contempt

   B. put into a rage; make violently angry

   C. impossible to control

   D. to argue earnestly with someone to change their mind

2. “The name of the old man was De Lacey. He was descended from a good family in France, where he had lived for many years in affluence, respected by his superiors, and beloved by his equals. His son was bred in the service of his country; and Agatha had ranked with ladies of the highest distinction. A few months before my arrival, they had lived in a large and luxurious city, called Paris, surrounded by friends, and possessed of every enjoyment which virtue, refinement of intellect, or taste, accompanied by a moderate fortune, could afford.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XIV"?

A. First experiences of the senses

B. A letter, a secret and the wedding

C. Injustice and exile

D. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

SAT key: 1. D (to argue earnestly with someone to change their mind); 2. C (Injustice and exile)

Lesson 22: Chapter XV

Focus: reading and identity

Objective: Students will analyze how allusion develops in “Chapter XV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “That he should have not only learned to speak, but to read, and, for aught we know, to write -- that he should have become acquainted with Werter, with Plutarch's Lives, and with Paradise Lost, by listening through a hole in a wall, seems as unlikely as that he should have acquired, in the same way, the problems of Euclid, or the art of book-keeping by single and double entry.” (Walter Scott (attrib.), novelist and critic, "Remarks on Frankenstein, or the Modern Prometheus; A Novel," Blackwood's Edinburgh Magazine 2:12 (March 1818), p. 619; public domain). Essay lens: Scott calls the self-education improbable. Argue why Shelley needs the creature to be eloquent anyway (what would the novel lose if he could not speak?). Objective: Analyze how reading (Paradise Lost, Plutarch, Werter) shapes the creature's identity, and the plausibility of his education. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3, RL.11-12.5

Critical voice: “The scene between the Being and the blind De Lacey in the cottage, is one of the most profound and extraordinary instances of pathos that we ever recollect.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 3; public domain). Close reading: why make De Lacey blind? Students explain how blindness lets the creature be judged by his words alone, and what happens when sight returns with Felix. Objective: Analyze the De Lacey scene as the turning point in the creature's hope for acceptance. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3

Content note (suicide (discussed in reading)): The creature reads 'disquisitions upon death and suicide' (in Goethe's Werther). Acknowledge briefly and use the safe-messaging script.
Student preview: Heads-up: this section includes suicide (discussed in reading). Support is available if this is hard to read.
Suggested language: “What does this language show about the speaker?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Let a counselor know in advance that this chapter is being taught.

Teacher only · spoilers

The creature finds Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives and The Sorrows of Young Werther, and reads Victor's laboratory journal, which describes his creation with disgust. He reveals himself to the blind old De Lacey, who is kind, but Felix, Agatha and Safie return, and Felix strikes him and drives him away.

Background: Each book shapes him: Werther teaches feeling, Plutarch virtue and heroism, Milton his place in creation.

Significance: He identifies with both Adam and Satan; the De Laceys' rejection is the turning point from benevolence to rage.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to nature and nurture because.... Content note before we start: Heads-up: this section includes suicide (discussed in reading). Support is available if this is hard to read. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.
Prompt: Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to nature and nurture because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: massacring — killing large numbers of people; undeceiving — showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief; instigate — to urge on; to provoke; unformed — not having form or shape; disquisitions — an elaborate analytical or explanatory essay or discussion. "massacring": Origin of "massacre": possibly Middle French massacre; earlier Old French macacre ("slaughterhouse"). "instigate": Origin: Latin īnstīgātus. "disquisitions": Origin of "disquisition": French disquisition; earlier Latin disquīsītiō ("inquiry").
Words: massacring: killing large numbers of people · undeceiving: showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief · instigate: to urge on; to provoke · unformed: not having form or shape · disquisitions: an elaborate analytical or explanatory essay or discussion

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Each book shapes him: Werther teaches feeling, Plutarch virtue and heroism, Milton his place in creation. He identifies with both Adam and Satan; the De Laceys' rejection is the turning point from benevolence to rage. Allusion: The three books he finds (Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives, The Sorrows of Werter) give him models of a creator, of public virtue and of feeling. Characterization: He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation. Irony: Old De Lacey, blind, welcomes him; the family, seeing him, attacks. Watch for blindness: De Lacey's blindness lets him see the creature truly.

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature finds three books: Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives and The Sorrows of Werther. Next, craft. I notice the list mixes epic poetry, history and a sentimental novel, the education of his heart and mind. The strongest word is "Paradise": it points to Milton's poem of creation and fall, the story he will read as his own. Then, effect. Why do the books the creature finds matter? My answer: The books the creature finds matter because Paradise Lost teaches him to see himself as an abandoned Adam or a fallen Satan; the books give him language for his pain and his rage.

> Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther (Chapter XV, paragraph 3)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature finds three books: Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives and The Sorrows of Werther. Next, craft. I notice the list mixes epic poetry, history and a sentimental novel, the education of his heart and mind. The strongest word is "Paradise": it points to Milton's poem of creation and fall, the story he will read as his own. Then, effect. Why do the books the creature finds matter? My answer: The books the creature finds matter because Paradise Lost teaches him to see himself as an abandoned Adam or a fallen Satan; the books give him language for his pain and his rage.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Adam had Eve and God; the creature has "no link" to anyone. The allusion intensifies isolation and connects to companionship. Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture? Expected: Rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. (Isolation through allusion.)

> Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence (Chapter XV, paragraph 7)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Adam had Eve and God; the creature has "no link" to anyone. The allusion intensifies isolation and connects to companionship.
Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture?
Expected answer: Rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. (Isolation through allusion.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for allusion, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about reading and identity? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of reading and identity. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. When the text says "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

Task: Annotate the chapter for allusion, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about reading and identity? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of reading and identity. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. When the text says "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3), it shows this directly. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan? The blind man scene often moves students strongly. Allow emotion, then ask about Shelley's choice to make him blind.

Anchor question: Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan?

Facilitation: The blind man scene often moves students strongly. Allow emotion, then ask about Shelley's choice to make him blind.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about reading and identity? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. ("Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther", Chapter XV, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about reading and identity? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. ("Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther", Chapter XV, paragraph 3). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how allusion shapes reading and identity. Key takeaway: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Allusion: The three books he finds (Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives, The Sorrows of Werter) give him models of a creator, of public virtue and of feeling.
- Characterization: He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation.
- Irony: Old De Lacey, blind, welcomes him; the family, seeing him, attacks.

Themes and how they develop

- nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

Symbols and motifs

- blindness: De Lacey's blindness lets him see the creature truly.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) His education; each book shapes him.
- "Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence" (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) Isolation through allusion.

- "Hateful day when I received life" (Chapter XV, paragraph 8) The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him.
Evidence: "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3)
Reasoning: Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
massacring (verb)	killing large numbers of people	I read of men concerned in public affairs, governing or massacring their species.	"massacring": Origin of "massacre": possibly Middle French massacre; earlier Old French macacre ("slaughterhouse"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/massacre#Etymology)
undeceiving (verb)	showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief	"The old man paused, and then continued, 'If you will unreservedly confide to me the particulars of your tale, I perhaps may be of use in undeceiving them.
instigate (verb)	to urge on; to provoke	" 'Heaven forbid! even if you were really criminal; for that can only drive you to desperation, and not instigate you to virtue.	"instigate": Origin: Latin īnstīgātus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/instigate#Etymology)
unformed (adjective)	not having form or shape	I sympathised with, and partly understood them, but I was unformed in mind; I was dependent on none, and related to none. 'The path of my departure was free'; and there was none to lament my annihilation.
disquisitions (noun)	an elaborate analytical or explanatory essay or discussion	The disquisitions upon death and suicide were calculated to fill me with wonder.	"disquisitions": Origin of "disquisition": French disquisition; earlier Latin disquīsītiō ("inquiry"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/disquisition#Etymology)
decipher (verb)	convert code into ordinary language	At first I had neglected them; but now that I was able to decipher the characters in which they were	"decipher": Origin: an English formation from de- + cipher. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/decipher#Etymology) written, I began to study them with diligence.

persuades (verb)	win approval or support for	I am blind, and cannot judge of your countenance, but there is something in your words, which persuades me that you are sincere.
deprecate (verb)	express strong disapproval of; deplore	I learned, from the views of social life which it developed, to admire their virtues, and to deprecate the vices of mankind.
antelope (noun)	a fast, graceful animal with horns, like a deer	I could have torn him limb from limb, as the lion rends the antelope.
postponed (verb)	hold back to a later time	I postponed this attempt for some months longer; for the importance attached to its success inspired me with a dread lest I should fail.

Discussion questions

1. Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan?
2. Where does allusion appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Which book is NOT among those he finds? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Robinson Crusoe
2. What document does he discover in his clothing? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor's laboratory journal
3. Which character in Milton does he feel most like? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Satan, the outcast
4. Why does he choose the blind father first? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He cannot judge by appearance

5. What does Felix do when he finds the creature with his father? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Strikes him and drives him away
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XV" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature finds Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives and The Sorrows of Young Werther, and reads Victor's laboratory journal, which describes his creation with disgust. He reveals himself to the blind old De Lacey, who is kind, but Felix, Agatha and Safie return, and Felix strikes him and drives him away.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XV"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XV" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "I read of men concerned in public affairs, governing or massacring their species." What does "massacring" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: massacring: killing large numbers of people.
10. Reread: ""The old man paused, and then continued, 'If you will unreservedly confide to me the particulars of your tale, I perhaps may be of use in undeceiving them." What does "undeceiving" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: undeceiving: showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XV" suggest about reading and identity? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: He identifies with both Adam and Satan; the De Laceys' rejection is the turning point from benevolence to rage.
2. Find one example of allusion in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for references to other books, myths, history or religion.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about reading and identity? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3): His education; each book shapes him. On characterization: He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ""As I read, however, I applied much personally to my own feelings and condition.", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XV", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The creature finds Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives and The Sorrows of Young Werther, and reads Victor's laboratory journal, which describes his creation with disgust. He reveals himself to the blind old De Lacey, who is kind, but Felix, Agatha and Safie return, and Felix strikes him and drives him…

6. How does “Chapter XV” build on “Chapter XIV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7): Isolation through allusion. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. On characterization: He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does the creature compare himself to both Adam and Satan?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3): His education; each book shapes him. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Each book shapes him: Werther teaches feeling, Plutarch virtue and heroism, Milton his place in creation. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7): Isolation through allusion. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “He identifies with both Adam and Satan; the De Laceys' rejection is the turning point from benevolence to rage.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3): His education; each book shapes him. On characterization: He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about reading and identity? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7): Isolation through allusion. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3): His education; each book shapes him. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the allusion in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.9, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7): Isolation through allusion. On allusion: The three books he finds (Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives, The Sorrows of Werter) give him models of a creator, of public virtue and of feeling. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XV” treats reading and identity with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XVI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3): His education; each book shapes him. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about reading and identity? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7): Isolation through allusion. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Useful evidence: “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8): The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. Theme link: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Allusion: look for references to other books, myths, history or religion (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 14: "When his _____ had departed, he took up his guitar, and played several mournful but sweet airs, more sweet and mournful than I had ever heard him play before." Word bank: protectors, discovered, children, benevolence
   Key: children
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "At first I had neglected them; but now that I was able to _____ the characters in which they were written, I began to study them with diligence." Word bank: undeceiving, massacring, decipher, instigate
   Key: decipher
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "" 'Heaven forbid! even if you were really criminal; for that can only drive you to desperation, and not instigate you to virtue.", what does "instigate" most nearly mean?
   A. reflect deeply on a subject
   B. a structure or object that impedes free movement
   C. to urge on; to provoke
   D. an unrestrained expression of emotion

   Key: C (to urge on; to provoke)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I learned, from the views of social life which it developed, to admire their virtues, and to _____ the vices of mankind." Word bank: massacring, undeceiving, instigate, deprecate
   Key: deprecate
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Which character in Milton does he feel most like?
   A. Michael
   B. Eve
   C. Satan, the outcast
   D. Gabriel

   Key: C (Satan, the outcast)
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 7: "Like Adam, I was _____ united by no link to any other being in existence"
   Key: apparently
7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 2: ""As yet I looked upon crime as a distant evil; _____ and generosity were ever present before me, inciting within me a desire to become an actor in the busy scene where so many admirable qualities were called forth and displayed." Word bank: determination, benevolence, conversation, attention
   Key: benevolence
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I read of men concerned in public affairs, governing or massacring their species.", what does "massacring" most nearly mean?
   A. giving as a reason
   B. killing large numbers of people
   C. thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold
   D. brought back to life or strength; revived

   Key: B (killing large numbers of people)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XV, paragraph 13? ""The winter advanced, and an entire _____ of the seasons had taken place since I awoke into life."

   A. discovered

   B. determination

   C. protectors

   D. revolution

   Key: D (revolution)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 16 reveal about the character or situation? ""I knocked. 'Who is there?' said the old man—'Come in.'" Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes "knocked", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? "But, in giving an account of the progress of my intellect, I must not omit a circumstance which occurred in the beginning of the month of August of the same year." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes "circumstance" and "beginning", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: His education; each book shapes him. The words "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XV"?

    A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

    B. The meeting of two ambitious men

    C. Injustice and the burden of silence

    D. Reading and identity

    Key: D (Reading and identity)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XV"? He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation.

    A. Setting

    B. Metaphor

    C. Personification

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 10 shapes its tone: "I cherished hope, it is true; but it vanished, when I beheld my person reflected in water, or my shadow in the moonshine, even as that frail image and that inconstant shade." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “inconstant” and “reflected”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 36 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I struggled vainly for firmness sufficient to answer him, but the effort destroyed all my remaining strength; I sank on the chair, and sobbed aloud.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 36) accurately and quotes “sufficient” and “remaining”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 3: “_____ Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther”

    Key: Paradise

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Why does he choose the blind father first?

    A. He cannot judge by appearance

    B. He is the strongest

    C. He speaks German

    D. He has money

    Key: A (He cannot judge by appearance)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I sympathised with, and partly understood them, but I was unformed in mind; I was dependent on none, and related to none. ‘The path of my departure was free’; and there was none to lament my annihilation.”, what does “unformed” most nearly mean?

    A. a very large seabird of the southern oceans

    B. tempted; attracted

    C. not having form or shape

    D. frightened; made fearful

    Key: C (not having form or shape)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I am blind, and cannot judge of your countenance, but there is something in your words, which _____ me that you are sincere.”

    Word bank: undeceiving, persuades, massacring, instigate

    Key: persuades

21. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What can you infer from this line? “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Isolation through allusion. The words “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 25 shapes its tone: “Rely, therefore, on your hopes; and if these friends are good and amiable, do not despair.’” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 25) accurately and quotes “therefore” and “despair”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “Their happiness was not decreased by the absence of summer.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “decreased” and “happiness”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 22 shapes its tone: ““ ‘No; but I was educated by a French family, and understand that language only.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 22) accurately and quotes “understand” and “language”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. The words “Chapter XV” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] What document does he discover in his clothing?

    A. Victor's laboratory journal

    B. A map

    C. A letter from Elizabeth

    D. A will

    Key: A (Victor's laboratory journal)

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line ““The old man paused, and then continued, ‘If you will unreservedly confide to me the particulars of your tale, I perhaps may be of use in undeceiving them.”, what does “undeceiving” most nearly mean?

    A. huge slow-moving masses of ice

    B. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief

    C. someone who listens attentively

    D. speeches or remarks of high praise

    Key: B (showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief)

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] What does Felix do when he finds the creature with his father?

    A. Strikes him and drives him away

    B. Calls for a doctor

C. Shakes his hand

D. Invites him to dinner

Key: A (Strikes him and drives him away)

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 8: “Hateful day when I _____ life”

Key: received

30. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XV”? The three books he finds (Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives, The Sorrows of Werter) give him models of a creator, of public virtue and of feeling.

A. Allusion

B. Plot

C. Hyperbole

D. Symbolism

Key: A (Allusion)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 32 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “I thank you, and accept your generous offer.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 32) accurately and quotes “generous” and “accept”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The _____ upon death and suicide were calculated to fill me with wonder.” Word bank: disquisitions, instigate, massacring, undeceiving

Key: disquisitions

33. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XV, paragraph 15? “The fresh air revived me, and, with renewed _____, I approached the door of their cottage.”

A. thoughts

B. revolved

C. determination

D. conversation

Key: C (determination)

34. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. The words “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Isolation through allusion. The words “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XV, paragraph 10? “Increase of knowledge only _____ to me more clearly what a wretched outcast I was.”

    A. revolved

    B. discovered

    C. meantime

    D. sympathised

    Key: B (discovered)

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 14 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “At first his countenance was illuminated with pleasure, but, as he continued, thoughtfulness and sadness succeeded; at length, laying aside the instrument, he sat absorbed in reflection.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “thoughtfulness” and “countenance”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Connect this passage from Chapter XV, paragraph 13 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “My attention, at this time, was solely directed towards my plan of introducing myself into the cottage of my protectors.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XV, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “introducing” and “protectors”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: His education; each book shapes him. The words “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.9] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) bears it out: Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly. But “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) complicates it, because this detail (isolation through allusion) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8)

    A. The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence.

    B. Victor's fear of consequences.

    C. The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.

    D. Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance.

    Key: C (The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.)

42. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.9] Which book is NOT among those he finds?

    A. Plutarch's Lives

    B. The Sorrows of Young Werther

    C. Paradise Lost

    D. Robinson Crusoe

    Key: D (Robinson Crusoe)

43. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 12: “But my chief delights were the sight of the flowers, the birds, and all the gay apparel of summer; when those deserted me, I turned with more _____ towards the cottagers.” Word bank: realise, revolved, benevolence, attention

    Key: attention

44. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.9] What does this passage most clearly show? “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3)

    A. His education; each book shapes him.

    B. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

    C. (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.

    D. Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.

    Key: A (His education; each book shapes him.)

45. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.9] Claim: The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3).

    Sample answer: Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly. The words “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 9, inference 4, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	6, 9, 4, 17, 18, 19, 20, 2, 13, 10, 11, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	26, 27, 7, 9, 28, 19, 29, 5, 11, 13, 10, 22, 30, 15, 16, 31	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2

HS Junior	32, 18, 8, 2, 27, 33, 5, 10, 13, 11, 34, 22, 30, 23, 16, 35	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	1, 18, 2, 36, 29, 11, 10, 21, 13, 22, 34, 30, 23, 37, 38, 31	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	4, 8, 18, 32, 13, 11, 21, 23, 15, 14, 34, 22, 39, 40, 37, 25	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	7, 32, 33, 10, 11, 41, 13, 23, 14, 22, 15, 30, 25, 31, 38, 16	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	19, 28, 32, 2, 42, 13, 23, 34, 15, 24, 31, 37, 25, 39, 38, 35	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Junior	43, 18, 32, 42, 13, 24, 34, 14, 23, 15, 25, 16, 38, 31, 40, 37	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	4, 32, 42, 44, 14, 22, 15, 30, 23, 24, 16, 37, 25, 40, 38, 31	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	7, 32, 42, 13, 15, 45, 14, 24, 30, 38, 31, 37, 16, 25, 40, 35	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 7

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XV,” how does Shelley show reading and identity? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the allusion you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XV, how does Shelley develop the idea of reading and identity? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the allusion in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.9, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XV develops the idea of reading and identity. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of allusion and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its allusion shape the reader's understanding of reading and identity. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XV suggests about reading and identity. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's allusion and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses allusion in Chapter XV to complicate the reader's understanding of reading and identity. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of reading and identity responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of reading and identity follows or bends those conventions, using the allusion as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XV and its treatment of reading and identity. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's allusion and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XV as evidence for a larger claim about reading and identity in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of reading and identity. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. “ ‘Heaven forbid! even if you were really criminal; for that can only drive you to desperation, and not instigate you to virtue.

   As used in the text, what does the word “instigate” most nearly mean?

   A. to urge on; to provoke

   B. hold back to a later time

   C. express strong disapproval of; deplore

   D. a fast, graceful animal with horns, like a deer

2. “As I read, however, I applied much personally to my own feelings and condition. I found myself similar, yet at the same time strangely unlike to the beings concerning whom I read, and to whose conversation I was a listener. I sympathised with, and partly understood them, but I was unformed in mind; I was dependent on none, and related to none. ‘The path of my departure was free’; and there was none to lament my annihilation.

> My person was hideous, and my stature gigantic? What did this mean? Who was I? What was I? Whence did I come? What was my destination? These questions continually recurred, but I was unable to solve them.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XV"?

A. First experiences of the senses

B. Rejection and the turn to revenge

C. Reading and identity

D. Ambition and the hunger for discovery

SAT key: 1. A (to urge on; to provoke); 2. C (Reading and identity)

Lesson 23: Chapter XVI

Focus: rejection and the turn to revenge

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XVI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “Treat a person ill, and he will become wicked. Requite affection with scorn;—let one being be selected, for whatever cause, as the refuse of his kind—divide him, a social being, from society, and you impose upon him the irresistible obligations—malevolence and selfishness.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 2; public domain). Claim-evidence-reasoning: Percy Shelley calls this "the direct moral of the book." Students test it against the creature's burning of the cottage in Chapter XVI and decide whether it excuses him. Objective: Determine the novel's central theme as the creature turns to revenge. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.2

Content note (murder of a child): The creature recounts strangling William. Keep discussion on responsibility and rejection, not the act itself.
Student preview: The creature describes killing a child.
Suggested language: “What does the creature say led him to this point? Do you accept his account?”

Teacher only · spoilers

The De Laceys abandon the cottage. Enraged, the creature burns it and heads for Geneva, guided by Victor's journal. He saves a drowning girl but is shot. Near Geneva he meets William, learns he is a Frankenstein, kills him, and plants the portrait on the sleeping Justine.

Background: This chapter retells Chapter VII's events from the other side—a key structural mirror.

Significance: His turn to violence complicates sympathy: rejection explains but does not excuse his crimes.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to nature and nurture because.... Content note before we start: The creature describes killing a child.
Prompt: Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to nature and nurture because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: imprecate — to call down (curses) on; bedewed — wet with drops, as of dew or tears; underwood — small trees and bushes growing under taller trees; sanguinary — accompanied by bloodshed; epithets — a defamatory or abusive word or phrase. "imprecate": Origin: Latin imprecātus. "bedewed": Origin of "bedew": an English formation from be- + dew. "sanguinary": Origin: Latin sanguinārius.
Words: imprecate: to call down (curses) on · bedewed: wet with drops, as of dew or tears · underwood: small trees and bushes growing under taller trees · sanguinary: accompanied by bloodshed · epithets: a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
This chapter retells Chapter VII's events from the other side—a key structural mirror. His turn to violence complicates sympathy: rejection explains but does not excuse his crimes. Characterization: The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein. Allusion: "I, like the arch-fiend, bore a hell within me": Satan again. Irony: He saves a drowning girl and is shot for it. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "The sun rose; I heard the voices of men, and knew that it" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 4).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live" slowly and put it in my own words: After the cottagers drive him away, the creature curses his creator and asks why he was given life. Next, craft. I notice the repeated "cursed," and the rhetorical question that shows his despair. The strongest word is "Cursed": the word turns grief into rage. Then, effect. Why does the creature curse Victor so violently? My answer: His rejection by the cottagers turns him to revenge; he blames Victor for creating him and abandoning him.

> Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live" slowly and put it in my own words: After the cottagers drive him away, the creature curses his creator and asks why he was given life. Next, craft. I notice the repeated "cursed," and the rhetorical question that shows his despair. The strongest word is "Cursed": the word turns grief into rage. Then, effect. Why does the creature curse Victor so violently? My answer: His rejection by the cottagers turns him to revenge; he blames Victor for creating him and abandoning him.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The arch-fiend is Satan; the hell is within. This shows his suffering is now part of him, linking to nurture: what was done to him becomes who he is. Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture? Expected: Repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. (Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.)

> I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The arch-fiend is Satan; the hell is within. This shows his suffering is now part of him, linking to nurture: what was done to him becomes who he is.
Ask: How does this line connect to nature and nurture?
Expected answer: Repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. (Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about rejection and the turn to revenge? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of rejection and the turn to revenge. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. When the text says “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20), it shows this directly. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, allusion (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about rejection and the turn to revenge? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of rejection and the turn to revenge. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. When the text says “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20), it shows this directly. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine? Push past "it's not his fault": does the novel excuse William's murder? How can we hold both sympathy and judgment?
Anchor question: Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine?
Facilitation: Push past "it's not his fault": does the novel excuse William's murder? How can we hold both sympathy and judgment?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about rejection and the turn to revenge? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. ("This was then the reward of my benevolence", Chapter XVI, paragraph 20). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about rejection and the turn to revenge? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. ("This was then the reward of my benevolence", Chapter XVI, paragraph 20). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes rejection and the turn to revenge. Key takeaway: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein.
- Allusion: "I, like the arch-fiend, bore a hell within me": Satan again.
- Irony: He saves a drowning girl and is shot for it.

Themes and how they develop

- nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "The sun rose; I heard the voices of men, and knew that it" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 4).

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "or the prospect of the sun setting behind the stupendous mountains of Jura" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 24).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) Anguish and accusation.
- "I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) Milton's Satan: the hell is internal.
- "This was then the reward of my benevolence" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice.
Evidence: "This was then the reward of my benevolence" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20)
Reasoning: After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
imprecate (verb)	to call down (curses) on	Oh, earth! how often did I imprecate curses on the cause of my being!	"imprecate": Origin: Latin imprecātus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/imprecate#Etymology)
bedewed (verb)	wet with drops, as of dew or tears	Soft tears again bedewed my cheeks, and I even raised my humid eyes with thankfulness towards the blessed sun which bestowed such joy upon me.	"bedewed": Origin of "bedew": an English formation from be- + dew. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/bedew#Etymology)
underwood (noun)	small trees and bushes growing under taller trees	Accordingly I hid myself in some thick underwood, determining to devote the ensuing hours to reflection on my situation.
sanguinary (adjective)	accompanied by bloodshed	Thanks to the lessons of Felix and the sanguinary laws of man, I had learned now to work mischief.	"sanguinary": Origin: Latin sanguinārius. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/sanguinary#Etymology)
epithets (noun)	a defamatory or abusive word or phrase	"The child still struggled, and loaded me with epithets which carried despair to my heart; I grasped his throat to silence him, and in a moment he lay dead at my feet.

enkindled (verb)	cause to start burning	The nearer I approached to your habitation, the more deeply did I feel the spirit of revenge enkindled in my heart.
imparting (verb)	transmit (knowledge or skills)	Here, I thought, is one of those whose joy-imparting smiles are bestowed on all but me.	"imparting": Origin of "impart": Middle French impartir; earlier Late Latin impartiō. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/impart#Etymology)
meditate (verb)	reflect deeply on a subject	"It was evening when I arrived, and I retired to a hiding-place among the fields that surround it, to meditate in what manner I should apply to you.
exclamations (noun)	an abrupt excited utterance	I only wonder that at that moment, instead of venting my sensations in exclamations and agony, I did not rush among mankind, and perish in the attempt to destroy them.

Discussion questions

1. Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does the creature travel after the De Laceys leave? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Toward Geneva
2. What does the family do after the encounter? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Abandon the cottage
3. What does the creature do to the cottage? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Burns it
4. What happens after he saves a drowning girl? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He is shot

5. Why does he kill William? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He learns the boy is a Frankenstein
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XVI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The De Laceys abandon the cottage. Enraged, the creature burns it and heads for Geneva, guided by Victor's journal. He saves a drowning girl but is shot. Near Geneva he meets William, learns he is a Frankenstein, kills him, and plants the portrait on the sleeping Justine.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XVI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XVI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "Oh, earth! how often did I imprecate curses on the cause of my being!" What does "imprecate" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: imprecate: to call down (curses) on.
10. Reread: "Soft tears again bedewed my cheeks, and I even raised my humid eyes with thankfulness towards the blessed sun which bestowed such joy upon me." What does "bedewed" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: bedewed: wet with drops, as of dew or tears.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XVI" suggest about rejection and the turn to revenge? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: His turn to violence complicates sympathy: rejection explains but does not excuse his crimes.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about rejection and the turn to revenge? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: "Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1): Anguish and accusation. On characterization: The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins ""The sun rose; I heard the voices of men, and knew that it was impossible to return to my retreat during that day.", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XVI", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The De Laceys abandon the cottage. Enraged, the creature burns it and heads for Geneva, guided by Victor's journal. He saves a drowning girl but is shot. Near Geneva he meets William, learns he is a Frankenstein, kills him, and plants the portrait on the sleeping Justine.

6. How does “Chapter XVI” build on “Chapter XV”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2): Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20): Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. On characterization: The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Does the creature's suffering excuse what he does to William and Justine?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1): Anguish and accusation. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: This chapter retells Chapter VII's events from the other side—a key structural mirror. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2): Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “His turn to violence complicates sympathy: rejection explains but does not excuse his crimes.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20): Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1): Anguish and accusation. On characterization: The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about rejection and the turn to revenge? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2): Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20): Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1): Anguish and accusation. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2): Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. On irony: He saves a drowning girl and is shot for it. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XVI” treats rejection and the turn to revenge with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20): Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XVII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1): Anguish and accusation. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about rejection and the turn to revenge? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2): Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Useful evidence: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20): Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. Theme link: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The nearer I approached to your habitation, the more deeply did I feel the spirit of revenge _____ in my heart.” Word bank: imprecate, underwood, bedewed, enkindled

Key: enkindled

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does the creature do to the cottage?

   A. Burns it

   B. Lives in it with them

   C. Repairs it

   D. Sells it

   Key: A (Burns it)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""It was evening when I arrived, and I retired to a hiding-place among the fields that surround it, to _____ in what manner I should apply to you." Word bank: imprecate, underwood, bedewed, meditate

   Key: meditate

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Why does he kill William?

   A. For food

   B. He learns the boy is a Frankenstein

   C. William attacked him

   D. By accident

   Key: B (He learns the boy is a Frankenstein)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Oh, earth! how often did I imprecate curses on the cause of my being!", what does "imprecate" most nearly mean?

   A. to block off

   B. someone who listens attentively

   C. giving as a reason

   D. to call down (curses) on

   Key: D (to call down (curses) on)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""The child still struggled, and loaded me with _____ which carried despair to my heart; I grasped his throat to silence him, and in a moment he lay dead at my feet." Word bank: bedewed, underwood, imprecate, epithets

   Key: epithets

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does the family do after the encounter?

   A. Abandon the cottage

   B. Search for him to apologize

   C. Hire guards

   D. Move into Geneva

   Key: A (Abandon the cottage)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Soft tears again bedewed my cheeks, and I even raised my humid eyes with thankfulness towards the blessed sun which bestowed such joy upon me.", what does "bedewed" most nearly mean?

   A. oriented toward home

   B. a person who cares for persons or property

C. wet with drops, as of dew or tears

D. ties or bonds that hold things together

Key: C (wet with drops, as of dew or tears)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What happens after he saves a drowning girl?

   A. He is thanked

   B. He is adopted

   C. He is hired

   D. He is shot

   Key: D (He is shot)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Thanks to the lessons of Felix and the sanguinary laws of man, I had learned now to work mischief.”, what does “sanguinary” most nearly mean?

    A. stories; accounts of events

    B. set free

    C. turning aside; straying

    D. accompanied by bloodshed

    Key: D (accompanied by bloodshed)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Anguish and accusation. The words “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. The words “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVI”?

    A. Isolation in the north

    B. Rejection and the turn to revenge

    C. Grief, prison and return

    D. Confidence before danger

    Key: B (Rejection and the turn to revenge)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. The words “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVI”? "I, like the arch-fiend, bore a hell within me": Satan again.

    A. Allusion

    B. Plot

    C. Theme

D. Simile

Key: A (Allusion)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVI”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: Repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. The words “Chapter XVI” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVI, paragraph 10? ““ ‘It is _____ useless,’ replied Felix; ‘we can never again inhabit your cottage.”
A. preceding
B. conversation
C. combustibles
D. utterly

Key: D (utterly)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 3: ““But this was a luxury of _____ that could not endure; I became fatigued with excess of bodily exertion, and sank on the damp grass in the sick impotence of despair.” Word bank: sensation, cottagers, gesticulations, conversation
Key: sensation

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Accordingly I hid myself in some thick underwood, determining to devote the ensuing hours to reflection on my situation.”, what does “underwood” most nearly mean?
A. looks down over
B. visit again
C. small trees and bushes growing under taller trees
D. going on board a ship to start a voyage

Key: C (small trees and bushes growing under taller trees)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 20: “This was then the reward of my _____”
Key: benevolence

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 7: “That hour passed, the sun mounted high in the heavens, but the _____ did not appear.” Word bank: representations, insupportable, cottagers, companion
Key: cottagers

22. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “There was none among the myriads of men that existed who would pity or assist me; and should I feel kindness towards my enemies?” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “kindness” and “myriads”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

23. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 13 reveal about the character or situation? “I lighted the dry branch of a tree, and danced with fury around the devoted cottage, my eyes still fixed on the western horizon, the edge of which the moon nearly touched.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “horizon” and “cottage”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVI”? The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein.

    A. Characterization

    B. Simile

    C. Metaphor

    D. Personification

    Key: A (Characterization)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “The inside of the cottage was dark, and I heard no motion; I cannot describe the agony of this suspense.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “describe” and “suspense”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 12 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: ““I continued for the remainder of the day in my hovel in a state of utter and stupid despair.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “remainder” and “continued”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 1: “Cursed, cursed _____! Why did I live”

    Key: creator

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 2: “I, like the _____, bore a hell within me”

    Key: archfiend

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVI, paragraph 12? “As night advanced, I placed a variety of _____ around the cottage; and, after having destroyed every vestige of cultivation in the garden, I waited with forced impatience until the moon had sunk to commence my operations.”

    A. protectors

    B. possession

    C. combustibles

    D. recover

Key: C (combustibles)

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Where does the creature travel after the De Laceys leave?

    A. To London

    B. To Ingolstadt

    C. To the North Pole

    D. Toward Geneva

    Key: D (Toward Geneva)

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Here, I thought, is one of those whose joy-_____ smiles are bestowed on all but me.” Word bank: imprecate, underwood, bedewed, imparting

    Key: imparting

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVI, paragraph 11: “I never saw any of the _____ of De Lacey more.” Word bank: conducted, recover, utterly, family

    Key: family

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 15 shapes its tone: “At length the thought of you crossed my mind.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes “thought” and “crossed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

34. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 16 shapes its tone: “From you only could I hope for succour, although towards you I felt no sentiment but that of hatred.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “sentiment” and “although”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Anguish and accusation. The words “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) bears it out: After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will. But “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) complicates it, because this detail (anguish and accusation) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 19 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “She continued her course along the precipitous sides of the river, when suddenly her foot slipped, and she fell into the rapid stream.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes “precipitous” and “continued”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 6 shapes its tone: ““These thoughts calmed me, and in the afternoon I sank into a profound sleep; but the fever of my blood did not allow me to be visited by peaceful dreams.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “afternoon” and “peaceful”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 10 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “The life of my father is in the greatest danger, owing to the dreadful circumstance that I have related.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “circumstance” and “greatest”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

40. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Claim: The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20).

    Sample answer: After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will. The words “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

41. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVI, paragraph 5? “But I did not believe my errors to be irretrievable; and, after much consideration, I resolved to return to the cottage, seek the old man, and by my _____ win him to my party.”

    A. representations

    B. conversation

    C. sensation

    D. protectors

    Key: A (representations)

42. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XVI, paragraph 21 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: ““For some weeks I led a miserable life in the woods, endeavouring to cure the wound which I had received." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVI, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes "endeavouring" and "miserable", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

43. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? "This was then the reward of my benevolence" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20)

A. Revulsion at his labor.

B. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

C. Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.

D. Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

Key: D (Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.)

44. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. The words "I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me" (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 18, 19, 6, 2, 20, 5, 21, 13, 11, 22, 23, 15, 24, 25, 26	recall 8, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	27, 28, 29, 9, 30, 1, 31, 32, 23, 13, 22, 33, 34, 24, 35, 36	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 21, 2, 18, 32, 22, 23, 12, 11, 13, 34, 24, 33, 25, 26, 37	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	6, 2, 9, 27, 12, 13, 11, 22, 23, 25, 38, 24, 15, 39, 26, 36	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	27, 7, 21, 30, 23, 13, 11, 34, 15, 38, 33, 40, 37, 26, 16, 39	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	28, 1, 41, 13, 11, 22, 12, 15, 33, 24, 38, 25, 42, 39, 16, 37	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	6, 8, 1, 43, 23, 22, 25, 34, 38, 24, 15, 37, 39, 36, 44, 16	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	18, 10, 6, 30, 7, 25, 33, 14, 24, 34, 26, 36, 37, 42, 16, 39	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	32, 6, 30, 43, 38, 24, 33, 25, 15, 34, 26, 36, 16, 42, 39, 37	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	9, 6, 1, 30, 15, 34, 24, 33, 37, 42, 26, 35, 36, 44, 39, 16	recall 4, inference 0, analysis 4, synthesis 8

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVI,” how does Shelley show rejection and the turn to revenge? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XVI, how does Shelley develop the idea of rejection and the turn to revenge? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XVI develops the idea of rejection and the turn to revenge. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of rejection and the turn to revenge. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVI suggests about rejection and the turn to revenge. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses irony in Chapter XVI to complicate the reader's understanding of rejection and the turn to revenge. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of rejection and the turn to revenge responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of rejection and the turn to revenge follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVI and its treatment of rejection and the turn to revenge. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVI as evidence for a larger claim about rejection and the turn to revenge in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of rejection and the turn to revenge. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Accordingly I hid myself in some thick underwood, determining to devote the ensuing hours to reflection on my situation.

   As used in the text, what does the word "underwood" most nearly mean?

   A. small trees and bushes growing under taller trees

   B. reflect deeply on a subject

   C. transmit (knowledge or skills)

   D. an abrupt excited utterance

2. "The sun rose; I heard the voices of men, and knew that it was impossible to return to my retreat during that day. Accordingly I hid myself in some thick underwood, determining to devote the ensuing hours to reflection on my situation.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XVI"?

   A. Rejection and the turn to revenge

   B. Obsession and the discovery of life

   C. Delay and dread

   D. First experiences of the senses

SAT key: 1. A (small trees and bushes growing under taller trees); 2. A (Rejection and the turn to revenge)

Lesson 24: Chapter XVII

Focus: the demand for a companion

Objective: Students will analyze how theme develops in "Chapter XVII" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.2, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

The creature demands a female companion as wretched as himself, promising to withdraw to South America. Moved and afraid, Victor agrees.

Background: Debates on whether humans have natural rights to companionship and happiness echo Enlightenment philosophy.

Significance: This bargain is the hinge of the plot; Victor's later choice will decide everyone's fate.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because....
Prompt: Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: insurmountable — impossible to overcome; concede — to grant; to give; trifled — treated lightly; toyed with; interchange — an exchange; a giving and receiving; narrated — told (a story). "concede": Origin: Old French conceder; earlier Latin concēdō ("give way"). "trifled": Origin of "trifle": possibly Old French trufle ("mockery"). "interchange": Origin: Old French entrechange.
Words: insurmountable: impossible to overcome · concede: to grant; to give · trifled: treated lightly; toyed with · interchange: an exchange; a giving and receiving · narrated: told (a story)

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Debates on whether humans have natural rights to companionship and happiness echo Enlightenment philosophy. This bargain is the hinge of the plot; Victor's later choice will decide everyone's fate. Characterization: The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity. Conflict: Creator versus creation, argument versus revulsion. Diction / vocabulary: "Chain of existence": he wants to belong to the social web. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "fare. We shall make our bed of dried leaves; the sun will shine on us as on man, and will ripen our" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 9).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature demands that Victor create a female companion who can share his feelings. Next, craft. I notice his formal, reasoned request, which sounds like an argument for justice. The strongest word is "sympathies": it shows his need is for emotional connection. Then, effect. What does the creature demand from Victor? My answer: He wants companionship to end his loneliness; the demand puts Victor's responsibility to his creation at the center.

> You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being" slowly and put it in my own words: The creature demands that Victor create a female companion who can share his feelings. Next, craft. I notice his formal, reasoned request, which sounds like an argument for justice. The strongest word is "sympathies": it shows his need is for emotional connection. Then, effect. What does the creature demand from Victor? My answer: He wants companionship to end his loneliness; the demand puts Victor's responsibility to his creation at the center.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The "chain of existence" is a web of relationships; "excluded" shows he is outside it. Connects to companionship. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: The plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. (The wish to belong.)

> I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The "chain of existence" is a web of relationships; "excluded" shows he is outside it. Connects to companionship.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: The plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. (The wish to belong.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, conflict (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the demand for a companion? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of the demand for a companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of theme and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. When the text says "If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14), it shows this directly. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, conflict (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the demand for a companion? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of the demand for a companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of theme and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. When the text says "If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14), it shows this directly. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider? Debate: should Victor agree? Require students to weigh the risks Victor names.
Anchor question: Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider?
Facilitation: Debate: should Victor agree? Require students to weigh the risks Victor names.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the demand for a companion? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. ("If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion", Chapter XVII, paragraph 14). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the demand for a companion? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. ("If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion", Chapter XVII, paragraph 14). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes the demand for a companion. Key takeaway: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity.
- Conflict: Creator versus creation, argument versus revulsion.
- Diction / vocabulary: "Chain of existence": he wants to belong to the social web.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "fare. We shall make our bed of dried leaves; the sun will shine on us as on man, and will ripen our" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 9).

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "any change in my sentiments. I saw him descend the mountain with greater speed than the flight of an eagle, and quickly" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 18).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.
- "If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) The argument from isolation.
- "I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) The wish to belong.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need.
Evidence: "If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion" (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14)
Reasoning: He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
insurmountable (adjective)	impossible to overcome	But that cannot be; the human senses are insurmountable barriers to our union.
concede (verb)	to grant; to give	This you alone can do; and I demand it of you as a right which you must not refuse to concede."	"concede": Origin: Old French conceder; earlier Latin concēdō ("give way"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/concede#Etymology)
trifled (verb)	treated lightly; toyed with	I must not be trifled with: and I demand an answer.	"trifled": Origin of "trifle": possibly Old French trufle ("mockery"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/trifle#Etymology)
interchange (noun)	an exchange; a giving and receiving	"You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being.	"interchange": Origin: Old French entrechange. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/interchange#Etymology)

narrated (verb)	told (a story)	The latter part of his tale had kindled anew in me the anger that had died away while he narrated his peaceful life among the cottagers, and, as he said this, I could no longer suppress the rage that burned within me.
barriers (noun)	a structure or object that impedes free movement	But that cannot be; the human senses are insurmountable barriers to our union.	"barriers": Origin of "barrier": Anglo-Norman barrere. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/barrier#Etymology)
persevere (verb)	be persistent, refuse to stop	How can you, who long for the love and sympathy of man, persevere in this exile?
possessing (verb)	having	His power and threats were not omitted in my calculations: a creature who could exist in the ice-caves of the glaciers, and hide himself from pursuit among the ridges of inaccessible precipices, was a being possessing faculties it would be vain to cope with.
solemnity (noun)	a trait of dignified seriousness	The stars shone at intervals, as the clouds passed from over them; the dark pines rose before me, and every here and there a broken tree lay on the ground: it was a scene of wonderful solemnity, and stirred strange thoughts within me.	"solemnity": Origin: Old French solemnite; earlier Latin sollemnitās. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/solemnity#Etymology)
compassion (noun)	a deep awareness of and sympathy for another's suffering	Pitiless as you have been towards me, I now see compassion in your eyes; let me seize the favourable moment, and persuade you to promise what I so ardently desire."

Discussion questions

1. Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider?
2. Where does theme appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15,

16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What does the creature demand? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A female companion
2. Where does he promise to go? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The wilds of South America
3. Why does Victor agree? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He feels compassion and fear
4. What theme does the request highlight? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The need for companionship
5. What kind of moment is this in the plot? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A turning point bargain
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XVII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature demands a female companion as wretched as himself, promising to withdraw to South America. Moved and afraid, Victor agrees.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XVII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XVII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “But that cannot be; the human senses are insurmountable barriers to our union.” What does “insurmountable” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: insurmountable: impossible to overcome.
10. Reread: “This you alone can do; and I demand it of you as a right which you must not refuse to concede.”” What does “concede” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: concede: to grant; to give.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XVII” suggest about the demand for a companion? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: This bargain is the hinge of the plot; Victor's later choice will decide everyone's fate.
2. Find one example of theme in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
3. How does the characterization in this chapter shape what we understand about the demand for a companion? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. On characterization: The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins ““You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XVII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: The creature demands a female companion as wretched as himself, promising to withdraw to South America. Moved and afraid, Victor agrees.
6. How does “Chapter XVII” build on “Chapter XVI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The argument from isolation. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The wish to belong. On characterization: The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is the creature's request fair? What risks does Victor consider?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does conflict appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. On conflict: Creator versus creation, argument versus revulsion. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Debates on whether humans have natural rights to companionship and happiness echo Enlightenment philosophy. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter?

[DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The argument from isolation. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “This bargain is the hinge of the plot; Victor's later choice will decide everyone's fate.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The wish to belong. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. On characterization: The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the demand for a companion? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The argument from isolation. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The wish to belong. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the theme in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The argument from isolation. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “Chapter XVII” treats the demand for a companion with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The wish to belong. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XVIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2): "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the demand for a companion? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The argument from isolation. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need. Useful evidence: “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14): The wish to belong. Theme link: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Theme: look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them
- Also notice Conflict: the forces, people or desires pulling against each other

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The latter part of his tale had kindled anew in me the anger that had died away while he _____ his peaceful life among the cottagers, and, as he said this, I could no longer suppress the rage that burned within me.” Word bank: concede, trifled, narrated, insurmountable

   Key: narrated

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His power and threats were not omitted in my calculations: a creature who could exist in the ice-caves of the glaciers, and hide himself from pursuit among the ridges of inaccessible precipices, was a being _____ faculties it would be vain to cope with.” Word bank: possessing, trifled, insurmountable, concede

   Key: possessing

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] What does the creature demand?

   A. To live in Geneva

   B. Money

   C. Victor's death

   D. A female companion

   Key: D (A female companion)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVII, paragraph 6? “A fiendish rage animated him as he said this; his face was wrinkled into _____ too horrible for human eyes to behold; but presently he calmed himself and proceeded—”

   A. expectation

   B. contortions

   C. neighbourhood

   D. unutterable

Key: B (contortions)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVII, paragraph 11? ""How inconstant are your feelings! but a moment ago you were moved by my _____, and why do you again harden yourself to my complaints?"

   A. undulations

   B. wickedness

   C. representations

   D. harmless

   Key: C (representations)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] What theme does the request highlight?

   A. Wealth

   B. Religion

   C. The need for companionship

   D. Love of fame

   Key: C (The need for companionship)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 14: "I shall feel the _____ of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded"

   Key: affections

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 13: ""You swear," I said, "to be harmless; but have you not already shown a degree of malice that should _____ make me distrust you?" Word bank: benevolence, reasonably, representations, harmless

   Key: reasonably

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] Where does he promise to go?

   A. Italy

   B. London

   C. The North Pole

   D. The wilds of South America

   Key: D (The wilds of South America)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I must not be trifled with: and I demand an answer.", what does "trifled" most nearly mean?

    A. treated lightly; toyed with

    B. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality

    C. doubt concerning two or more possible alternatives or courses of action

    D. surrounded

    Key: A (treated lightly; toyed with)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 20 reveal about the character or situation? "These were wild and miserable thoughts; but I cannot describe to you how the eternal twinkling of the stars weighed upon me, and how I listened to every blast of wind, as if it were a dull ugly siroc on its way to consume me." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “twinkling” and “miserable”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What can you infer from this line? “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. The words “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? “But I was bewildered, perplexed, and unable to arrange my ideas sufficiently to understand the full extent of his proposition.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes “sufficiently” and “proposition”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The wish to belong. The words “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 21 shapes its tone: “Yet even thus I loved them to adoration; and to save them, I resolved to dedicate myself to my most abhorred task.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes “adoration” and “dedicate”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature's demand rests on the novel's claim that companionship is a basic need.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) bears it out: He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging. But “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) complicates it, because this detail (the wish to belong) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] Why does Victor agree?
    A. Elizabeth asks him
    B. He feels compassion and fear
    C. He is curious

D. He is bribed

Key: B (He feels compassion and fear)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] What kind of moment is this in the plot?

A. An ending

B. A flashback only

C. A turning point bargain

D. A comic interlude

Key: C (A turning point bargain)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 1: “The being finished speaking, and fixed his looks upon me in _____ of a reply.” Word bank: expectation, sympathy, passions, replied
Key: expectation

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “But that cannot be; the human senses are insurmountable _____ to our union.” Word bank: trifled, barriers, concede, insurmountable
Key: barriers

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “How can you, who long for the love and sympathy of man, _____ in this exile?” Word bank: concede, persevere, trifled, insurmountable
Key: persevere

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 14: “If I have no ties and no _____, hatred and vice must be my portion”
Key: affections

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “But I now indulge in dreams of bliss that cannot be realised.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “realised” and “indulge”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVII”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: The plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. The words “Chapter XVII” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “This you alone can do; and I demand it of you as a right which you must not refuse to concede.””, what does “concede” most nearly mean?

A. to grant; to give

B. lingered; hung about

C. holds (attention)

D. causing great grief or ruin

Key: A (to grant; to give)

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Connect this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “I swear to you, by the earth which I inhabit, and by you that made me, that, with the companion you bestow, I will quit the neighbourhood of man, and dwell as it may chance, in the most savage of places.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “neighbourhood” and “companion”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVII, paragraph 18? “I saw him descend the mountain with greater speed than the flight of an eagle, and quickly lost among the _____ of the sea of ice.”

    A. unutterable

    B. contortions

    C. reasonably

    D. undulations

    Key: D (undulations)

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “This passion is detrimental to me; for you do not reflect that you are the cause of its excess.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “detrimental” and “reflect”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Connect this passage from Chapter XVII, paragraph 13 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “May not even this be a feint that will increase your triumph by affording a wider scope for your revenge.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVII, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “affording” and “increase”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVII, paragraph 7: “Our lives will not be happy, but they will be _____, and free from the misery I now feel.” Word bank: wickedness, harmless, sympathy, expectation
    Key: harmless

31. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What can you infer from this line? “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The argument from isolation. The words “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

32. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVII”? Creator versus creation, argument versus revulsion.

    A. Irony

B. Hyperbole

C. Conflict

D. Personification

Key: C (Conflict)

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food. The words “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

34. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVII”?

    A. The demand for a companion

    B. Confrontation between creator and creation

    C. Confidence before danger

    D. A privileged childhood and family love

    Key: A (The demand for a companion)

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 2)

    A. The ending: ambiguous death.

    B. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

    C. "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.

    D. Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.

    Key: C ("Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.)

36. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVII”? The creature demands a female companion and argues like a lawyer; Victor wavers between horror and pity.

    A. Personification

    B. Theme

    C. Hyperbole

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14)

    A. The wish to belong.

    B. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

    C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

D. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

Key: A (The wish to belong.)

38. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “But that cannot be; the human senses are insurmountable barriers to our union.”, what does “insurmountable” most nearly mean?

A. impossible to overcome

B. treated lightly; toyed with

C. an exchange; a giving and receiving

D. to grant; to give

Key: A (impossible to overcome)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14)

A. Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter.

B. Human violence comes first.

C. Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

D. The argument from isolation.

Key: D (The argument from isolation.)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The argument from isolation. The words “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 6, 18, 19, 1, 20, 21, 2, 4, 22, 11, 13, 23, 14, 15, 24	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	5, 2, 25, 10, 6, 21, 3, 19, 4, 11, 13, 14, 23, 15, 26, 24	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	10, 5, 27, 19, 9, 22, 4, 6, 13, 11, 28, 15, 23, 14, 29, 16	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	17, 3, 9, 27, 20, 19, 30, 13, 11, 28, 14, 23, 15, 24, 29, 26	recall 7, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	3, 10, 21, 9, 7, 31, 13, 32, 15, 28, 14, 23, 26, 33, 29, 16	recall 5, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	20, 10, 9, 3, 19, 34, 13, 31, 15, 28, 23, 14, 16, 33, 29, 26	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	27, 22, 21, 25, 7, 13, 35, 11, 15, 23, 14, 28, 36, 26, 16, 29	recall 5, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 3
College Junior	4, 1, 5, 21, 13, 31, 37, 11, 35, 23, 15, 28, 36, 29, 26, 16	recall 4, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 3
College Senior		recall 5, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 4

	30, 38, 10, 25, 8, 13, 39, 11, 14, 23, 15, 28, 24, 16, 26, 29
Graduate / PhD	7, 1, 38, 10, 11, 13, 37, 32, 15, 23, 28, 29, 33, 16, 26, 40	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 5

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.2, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVII,” how does Shelley show the demand for a companion? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the theme you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.2, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XVII, how does Shelley develop the idea of the demand for a companion? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the theme in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.2, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XVII develops the idea of the demand for a companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of theme and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its theme shape the reader's understanding of the demand for a companion. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVII suggests about the demand for a companion. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's theme and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses theme in Chapter XVII to complicate the reader's understanding of the demand for a companion. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the demand for a companion responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the demand for a companion follows or bends those conventions, using the theme as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVII and its treatment of the demand for a companion. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's theme and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVII as evidence for a larger claim about the demand for a companion in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the demand for a companion. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. I must not be trifled with: and I demand an answer.

   As used in the text, what does the word “trifled” most nearly mean?

   A. a trait of dignified seriousness

   B. treated lightly; toyed with

   C. a deep awareness of and sympathy for another's suffering

   D. having

2. “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being. This you alone can do; and I demand it of you as a right which you must not refuse to concede.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVII”?

   A. Confrontation between creator and creation

   B. The wedding night and its catastrophe

   C. The demand for a companion

   D. Isolation in the north

SAT key: 1. B (treated lightly; toyed with); 2. C (The demand for a companion)

Lesson 25: Chapter XVIII

Focus: delay and dread

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter XVIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…as I gazed on the cloudless blue sky, I seemed to drink in a tranquillity to which I had long b…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Suggested language: “What does this detail add to the scene?”

Teacher only · spoilers

Back in Geneva, Victor delays. His father asks whether he loves another; Victor agrees to marry Elizabeth after a trip to England, where he will secretly do his work. He travels with Clerval through Germany and down the Rhine.

Background: The Rhine was celebrated for picturesque castles and vineyards in Romantic travel writing.

Significance: Clerval's joy in nature contrasts with Victor's dread, heightening tension.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because.... Content note before we start: This section mentions drinking or a drug.
Prompt: How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: eradicating — removing completely; enfranchised — set free; overhangs — sticks out over; hangs over; sedulous — careful and persistent; meandering — winding; following a curving course. “overhangs”: Origin of “overhang”: an English formation from over- + hang.
Words: eradicating: removing completely · enfranchised: set free · overhangs: sticks out over; hangs over · sedulous: careful and persistent · meandering: winding; following a curving course

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
The Rhine was celebrated for picturesque castles and vineyards in Romantic travel writing. Clerval's joy in nature contrasts with Victor's dread, heightening tension. Conflict: Victor delays: fear of the creature's revenge against disgust at the work, while his father presses for marriage to Elizabeth. Characterization: Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery. Tone / mood: Dread pervades even beauty. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "waves, silent and listless. But the fresh air and bright sun seldom failed to restore me to some degree of composure; and" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "the "very poetry of nature" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor praises Clerval, borrowing a phrase about his friend's sensitive, imaginative spirit. Next, craft. I notice the warm, borrowed quotation, which shows how Victor treasures Clerval. The strongest word is "poetry": it captures Clerval's joy and feeling for beauty. Then, effect. Why does Victor quote praise of Clerval as "the very poetry of nature"? My answer: Clerval represents the happiness Victor has lost; his praise makes Clerval's later death more painful.

> the "very poetry of nature (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "the "very poetry of nature" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor praises Clerval, borrowing a phrase about his friend's sensitive, imaginative spirit. Next, craft. I notice the warm, borrowed quotation, which shows how Victor treasures Clerval. The strongest word is "poetry": it captures Clerval's joy and feeling for beauty. Then, effect. Why does Victor quote praise of Clerval as "the very poetry of nature"? My answer: Clerval represents the happiness Victor has lost; his praise makes Clerval's later death more painful.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Disappointed fiend" shows he expects revenge; "repugnance" (disgust) shows why he cannot work. Link: his secret keeps him from sharing the burden, so even beside Clerval he is alone. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. (Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.)

> I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Disappointed fiend" shows he expects revenge; "repugnance" (disgust) shows why he cannot work. Link: his secret keeps him from sharing the burden, so even beside Clerval he is alone.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. (Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for conflict, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about delay and dread? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of delay and dread. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. When the text says “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature."

Task: Annotate the chapter for conflict, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about delay and dread? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of delay and dread. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. When the text says “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1), it shows this directly. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point? Compare Victor's isolation to the creature's: which is chosen?

Anchor question: How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point?

Facilitation: Compare Victor's isolation to the creature's: which is chosen?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)

Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).

Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about delay and dread? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. (“I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me”, Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about delay and dread? Support it with one short quotation.

Answer: Model answer: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. (“I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me”, Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how conflict shapes delay and dread. Key takeaway: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Conflict: Victor delays: fear of the creature's revenge against disgust at the work, while his father presses for marriage to Elizabeth.
- Characterization: Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery.
- Tone / mood: Dread pervades even beauty.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “waves, silent and listless. But the fresh air and bright sun seldom failed to restore me to some degree of composure; and” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “the most perfect solitude. I passed whole days on the lake alone in a little boat, watching the clouds, and listening to” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.
- “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) Clerval's character; he loves nature directly.
- “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13) The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him.
Evidence: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1)

Reasoning: He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
eradicating (verb)	removing completely	My father saw this change with pleasure, and he turned his thoughts towards the best method of eradicating the remains of my melancholy, which every now and then would return by fits, and with a devouring blackness overcast the approaching sunshine.
enfranchised (verb)	set free	For myself, there was one reward I promised myself from my detested toils—one consolation for my unparalleled sufferings; it was the prospect of that day when, enfranchised from my miserable slavery, I might claim Elizabeth, and forget the past in my union with her.
overhangs (verb)	sticks out over; hangs over	Look at that castle which overhangs yon precipice; and that also on the island, almost concealed amongst the foliage of those lovely trees; and now that group of labourers coming from among their vines; and that village half hid in the recess of the mountain.	“overhangs”: Origin of “overhang”: an English formation from over- + hang. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/overhang#Etymology)
sedulous (adjective)	careful and persistent	It had been her care which provided me a companion in Clerval—and yet a man is blind to a thousand minute circumstances, which call forth a woman’s sedulous attention.
meandering (adjective)	winding; following a curving course	In one spot you view rugged hills, ruined castles overlooking tremendous precipices, with the dark Rhine rushing beneath; and, on the sudden turn of a promontory, flourishing vineyards, with green sloping banks, and a meandering river, and populous towns occupy the scene.
consoles (verb)	comforts in a time of sadness	No, it is not thus; your form so divinely wrought, and beaming with beauty, has decayed, but your spirit still visits and consoles your unhappy friend.	“consoles”: From Latin consolari "to comfort," from com- (intensive) + solari "to comfort." (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/console)

dilatory (adjective)	slow; tending to delay	The latter method of obtaining the desired intelligence was dilatory and unsatisfactory: besides, I had an insurmountable aversion to the idea of engaging myself in my loathsome task in my father's house, while in habits of familiar intercourse with those I loved.	"dilatory": Origin: Old French dilatoire; earlier Latin dīlātōrius. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/dilatory#Etymology)
inroads (noun)	an encroachment or intrusion	My journey had been my own suggestion, and Elizabeth, therefore, acquiesced: but she was filled with disquiet at the idea of my suffering, away from her, the inroads of misery and grief.	"inroads": Origin of "inroad": an English formation from in + road. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inroad#Etymology)
unexampled (adjective)	never seen before; unequaled	Pardon this gush of sorrow; these ineffectual words are but a slight tribute to the unexampled worth of Henry, but they soothe my heart, overflowing with the anguish which his remembrance creates.
variegated (adjective)	varied in color or appearance	This part of the Rhine, indeed, presents a singularly variegated landscape.

Discussion questions

1. How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Why does Victor travel to England? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To create the female in secret
2. Who travels with him? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Clerval
3. What river do they travel along? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The Rhine

4. What does Victor's father want to know? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Whether Victor loves someone else
5. How is Clerval described in this chapter? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Joyful and alive to nature
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XVIII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Back in Geneva, Victor delays. His father asks whether he loves another; Victor agrees to marry Elizabeth after a trip to England, where he will secretly do his work. He travels with Clerval through Germany and down the Rhine.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XVIII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XVIII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "My father saw this change with pleasure, and he turned his thoughts towards the best method of eradicating the remains of my melancholy, which every now and then would return by fits, and with a devouring blackness…" What does "eradicating" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: eradicating: removing completely.
10. Reread: "For myself, there was one reward I promised myself from my detested toils—one consolation for my unparalleled sufferings; it was the prospect of that day when, enfranchised from my miserable slavery, I might claim…" What does "enfranchised" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: enfranchised: set free.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XVIII" suggest about delay and dread? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Clerval's joy in nature contrasts with Victor's dread, heightening tension.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the setting in this chapter shape what we understand about delay and dread? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: "I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1): Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "To England, therefore, I was bound, and it was understood that my union with Elizabeth should take place immediately on my return.", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.

5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XVIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Back in Geneva, Victor delays. His father asks whether he loves another; Victor agrees to marry Elizabeth after a trip to England, where he will secretly do his work. He travels with Clerval through Germany and down the Rhine.
6. How does “Chapter XVIII” build on “Chapter XVII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19): Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13): The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. On characterization: Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Clerval's attitude toward nature differ from Victor's at this point?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1): Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. On characterization: Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The Rhine was celebrated for picturesque castles and vineyards in Romantic travel writing. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19): Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Clerval's joy in nature contrasts with Victor's dread, heightening tension.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13): The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1): Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. On characterization: Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XVIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about delay and dread? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19): Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XVIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13): The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me”

(Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1): Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19): Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XVIII” treats delay and dread with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13): The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XIX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1): Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about delay and dread? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19): Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Useful evidence: “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13): The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. Theme link: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Setting: where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 5? ““I confess, my son, that I have always looked forward to your marriage with our dear _____ as the tie of our domestic comfort, and the stay of my declining years.”

   A. engagement

   B. experience

   C. Elizabeth

   D. confidence

   Key: C (Elizabeth)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor's father want to know?

   A. Whether he is ill

   B. Where the creature is

   C. If he needs money

   D. Whether Victor loves someone else

   Key: D (Whether Victor loves someone else)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “For myself, there was one reward I promised myself from my detested toils—one consolation for my unparalleled sufferings; it was the prospect of that day when, enfranchised from my miserable slavery, I might claim…”, what does “enfranchised” most nearly mean?

   A. move forward, also in the metaphorical sense

   B. cause fear in

   C. a deep awareness of and sympathy for another's suffering

   D. set free

   Key: D (set free)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “No, it is not thus; your form so divinely wrought, and beaming with beauty, has decayed, but your spirit still visits and _____ your unhappy friend.” Word bank: enfranchised, eradicating, overhangs, consoles

   Key: consoles

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “My journey had been my own suggestion, and Elizabeth, therefore, acquiesced: but she was filled with disquiet at the idea of my suffering, away from her, the _____ of misery and grief.” Word bank: enfranchised, inroads, overhangs, eradicating

   Key: inroads

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "My father saw this change with pleasure, and he turned his thoughts towards the best method of eradicating the remains of my melancholy, which every now and then would return by fits, and with a devouring blackness…", what does "eradicating" most nearly mean?

   A. stories; accounts of events

   B. a feeling of evil to come

   C. being very thin

   D. removing completely

   Key: D (removing completely)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How is Clerval described in this chapter?

   A. Angry

   B. Ill

   C. Gloomy

   D. Joyful and alive to nature

   Key: D (Joyful and alive to nature)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 8: "I was bound by a solemn promise, which I had not yet _____, and dared not break; or, if I did, what manifold miseries might not impend over me and my devoted family!" Word bank: fulfilled, experience, solemnisation, Reserve

   Key: fulfilled

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "In one spot you view rugged hills, ruined castles overlooking tremendous precipices, with the dark Rhine rushing beneath; and, on the sudden turn of a promontory, flourishing vineyards, with green sloping banks, and a _____ river, and populous towns occupy…" Word bank: meandering, eradicating, overhangs, enfranchised

   Key: meandering

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "It had been her care which provided me a companion in Clerval—and yet a man is blind to a thousand minute circumstances, which call forth a woman's sedulous attention.", what does "sedulous" most nearly mean?

    A. losing hope; discouraged

    B. something that tempts or attracts

    C. careful and persistent

    D. having

    Key: C (careful and persistent)

11. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 7? "You are younger; yet I do not suppose, _____ as you are of a competent fortune, that an early marriage would at all interfere with any future plans of honour and utility that you may have formed."

    A. assuredly

    B. endeavoured

    C. possessed

    D. expectation

    Key: C (possessed)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? “If I were alone, would he not at times force his abhorred presence on me, to remind me of my task, or to contemplate its progress?” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “contemplate” and “presence”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “For some time I was lost in conjecture as to the cause of this; but yesterday an idea struck me, and if it is well founded, I conjure you to avow it.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “conjecture” and “yesterday”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “You were attached to each other from your earliest infancy; you studied together, and appeared, in dispositions and tastes, entirely suited to one another.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 5) accurately and quotes “dispositions” and “together”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 16 shapes its tone: “Alas, how great was the contrast between us!” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “contrast” and “between”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) bears it out: He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.". But “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) complicates it, because here the text shows clerval's character; he loves nature directly. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The latter method of obtaining the desired intelligence was _____ and unsatisfactory: besides, I had an insurmountable aversion to the idea of engaging myself in my loathsome task in my father’s house, while in habits of familiar intercourse with those I…” Word bank: enfranchised, eradicating, overhangs, dilatory
    Key: dilatory

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 11? “One paternal kind _____ he had taken to ensure my having a companion.”

    A. unhappy

    B. addressed

    C. experience

    D. precaution

    Key: D (precaution)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Why does Victor travel to England?

    A. To meet Walton

    B. To create the female in secret

    C. To visit his mother

    D. To study law

    Key: B (To create the female in secret)

20. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 2: “It was after my return from one of these rambles, that my father, calling me aside, thus _____ me:—” Word bank: possessed, engagement, addressed, considering

    Key: addressed

21. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. The words “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 11 shapes its tone: “Without previously communicating with me, he had, in concert with Elizabeth, arranged that Clerval should join me at Strasbourg.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “communicating” and “previously”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “But it is this gloom which appears to have taken so strong a hold of your mind, that I wish to dissipate.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes “dissipate” and “appears”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 16 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “I, a miserable wretch, haunted by a curse that shut up every avenue to enjoyment.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “enjoyment” and “miserable”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1: “I feared the vengeance of the _____ fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me”

    Key: disappointed

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What river do they travel along?

    A. The Rhine

    B. The Seine

    C. The Danube

    D. The Thames

    Key: A (The Rhine)

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 24 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The banks of the Thames presented a new scene; they were flat, but fertile, and almost every town was marked by the remembrance of some story.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 24) accurately and quotes “remembrance” and “presented”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13: “I was the slave of my _____”

    Key: creature

29. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 6: “My future hopes and prospects are entirely bound up in the _____ of our union.”” Word bank: confidence, possessed, endeavoured, expectation

    Key: expectation

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Look at that castle which overhangs yon precipice; and that also on the island, almost concealed amongst the foliage of those lovely trees; and now that group of labourers coming from among their vines; and that village…”, what does “overhangs” most nearly mean?

    A. teachers

    B. fallen as a duty (on someone)

    C. sticks out over; hangs over

    D. lingered; hung about

    Key: C (sticks out over; hangs over)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XVIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. The words “Chapter XVIII” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.".

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 7 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““The expression of your sentiments of this subject, my dear

Victor, gives me more pleasure than I have for some time experienced." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes "experienced" and "sentiments", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in "I was the slave of my creature" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. The words "I was the slave of my creature" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

34. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter XVIII"? Clerval, a lover of nature and poetry, contrasts with Victor's misery.

A. Metaphor

B. Diction / vocabulary

C. Simile

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XVIII, paragraph 8 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "I listened to my father in silence, and remained for some time incapable of offering any reply." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes "incapable" and "remained", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Who travels with him?

A. Clerval

B. Justine

C. Elizabeth

D. Ernest

Key: A (Clerval)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? "I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me" (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1)

A. Revulsion at his labor.

B. The wish to belong.

C. The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.

D. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

Key: D (Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.)

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13)

    A. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

    B. The ending: ambiguous death.

    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    D. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

    Key: D (The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XVIII”?

    A. Confrontation between creator and creation

    B. Delay and dread

    C. Learning compassion by watching

    D. Confidence before danger

    Key: B (Delay and dread)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. The words “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.".

41. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Victor's delay comes from a conflict between fear and revulsion, and it hands the creature power over him. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1).

    Sample answer: He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.". The words “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

42. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. The words “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

43. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVIII”? Victor delays: fear of the creature's revenge against disgust at the work, while his father presses for marriage to Elizabeth.

    A. Conflict

    B. Foreshadowing

    C. Plot

    D. Structure

Key: A (Conflict)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 17, 10, 18, 19, 8, 20, 2, 6, 12, 21, 13, 14, 22, 23, 24	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	25, 26, 2, 7, 9, 8, 6, 4, 21, 12, 13, 23, 14, 15, 24, 27	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	19, 28, 9, 10, 1, 29, 30, 21, 12, 13, 23, 14, 15, 22, 31, 16	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	11, 19, 29, 6, 1, 9, 12, 13, 21, 23, 22, 14, 15, 16, 32, 24	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	1, 30, 4, 9, 19, 12, 14, 33, 34, 15, 22, 24, 35, 27, 32, 16	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Freshman	9, 1, 36, 4, 37, 38, 12, 23, 22, 15, 14, 35, 16, 27, 24, 32	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 5
College Sophomore	6, 5, 9, 19, 39, 38, 15, 23, 14, 22, 24, 35, 40, 27, 16, 32	recall 4, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Junior	19, 6, 9, 4, 36, 14, 41, 15, 22, 23, 34, 35, 27, 32, 16, 24	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 6, synthesis 5
College Senior	25, 9, 19, 36, 10, 33, 14, 23, 34, 15, 22, 35, 27, 32, 24, 16	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 6, synthesis 5
Graduate / PhD	19, 9, 4, 36, 38, 21, 12, 42, 43, 23, 22, 27, 32, 24, 35, 16	recall 4, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 5

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XVIII,” how does Shelley show delay and dread? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XVIII, how does Shelley develop the idea of delay and dread? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XVIII develops the idea of delay and dread. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XVIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of delay and dread. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XVIII suggests about delay and dread. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter XVIII to complicate the reader's understanding of delay and dread. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XVIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of delay and dread responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XVIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of delay and dread follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XVIII and its treatment of delay and dread. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XVIII as evidence for a larger claim about delay and dread in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XVIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of delay and dread. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Look at that castle which overhangs yon precipice; and that also on the island, almost concealed amongst the foliage of those lovely trees; and now that group of labourers coming from among their vines; and that village half hid in the recess of the mountain.

   As used in the text, what does the word “overhangs” most nearly mean?

   A. sticks out over; hangs over

   B. varied in color or appearance

   C. never seen before; unequaled

   D. an encroachment or intrusion

2. To England, therefore, I was bound, and it was understood that my union with Elizabeth should take place immediately on my return. My father's age rendered him extremely averse to delay. For myself, there was one reward I promised myself from my detested toils—one consolation for my unparalleled sufferings; it was the prospect of that day when, enfranchised from my miserable slavery, I might claim Elizabeth, and forget the past in my union with her.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XVIII"?

A. Confrontation between creator and creation

B. Delay and dread

C. Confidence before danger

D. Reading and identity

SAT key: 1. A (sticks out over; hangs over); 2. B (Delay and dread)

Lesson 26: Chapter XIX

Focus: isolation in the north

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in "Chapter XIX" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

In London, Oxford and later Scotland, Victor gathers knowledge, then leaves Clerval and goes alone to a remote Orkney island to build the female creature, working in misery.

Background: Oxford's association with the English Civil War and the poet-patriot John Hampden is mentioned.

Significance: The bleak island mirrors Victor's isolation and moral desolation.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Why does Victor choose such a desolate place? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because....
Prompt: Why does Victor choose such a desolate place?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: expedite — to speed up; to hasten; roarings — loud, deep sounds; debasing — degrading; lowering in dignity; oatmeal — meal made from ground oats; scraggy — being very thin. "expedite": Origin: Latin expedītus ("unimpeded"). "roarings": Origin of "roaring": an English formation from roar + -ing. "debasing": Origin of "debase": an English formation from de- + base. "oatmeal": Origin: an English formation from oat + meal.
Words: expedite: to speed up; to hasten · roarings: loud, deep sounds · debasing: degrading; lowering in dignity · oatmeal: meal made from ground oats · scraggy: being very thin

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Oxford's association with the English Civil War and the poet-patriot John Hampden is mentioned. The bleak island mirrors Victor's isolation and moral desolation. Setting: The remote Orkneys: bleak and barren, matching his work and mind. Imagery: "I am a blasted tree": recalling the lightning-struck oak. Characterization: Victor works with sickened heart, unable to share his burden. Watch for sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "and I, although I abhorred society, wished to view again mountains and streams, and all the wondrous works with which Nature adorns" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 4).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "my heart often sickened at the work of my hands" slowly and put it in my own words: Alone on a remote Orkney island, Victor says his heart often sickened at the work of his hands. Next, craft. I notice the physical reaction, a sickened heart, to moral horror at what his hands are doing. The strongest word is "sickened": it shows disgust rising in him as he repeats the act that ruined his life. Then, effect. Why does Victor's heart sicken as he builds the female creature? My answer: Victor now knows what his science can cause; his growing revulsion leads to his decision to destroy the female, which will bring the creature's revenge on Clerval and Elizabeth.

> my heart often sickened at the work of my hands (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "my heart often sickened at the work of my hands" slowly and put it in my own words: Alone on a remote Orkney island, Victor says his heart often sickened at the work of his hands. Next, craft. I notice the physical reaction, a sickened heart, to moral horror at what his hands are doing. The strongest word is "sickened": it shows disgust rising in him as he repeats the act that ruined his life. Then, effect. Why does Victor's heart sicken as he builds the female creature? My answer: Victor now knows what his science can cause; his growing revulsion leads to his decision to destroy the female, which will bring the creature's revenge on Clerval and Elizabeth.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The blasted tree was destroyed by lightning; Victor is destroyed by his discovery. Symbol from Chapter II returns. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. (Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.)

> I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The blasted tree was destroyed by lightning; Victor is destroyed by his discovery. Symbol from Chapter II returns.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. (Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for setting, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about isolation in the north? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of isolation in the north. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. When the text says "my heart often sickened at the work of my hands" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.
Task: Annotate the chapter for setting, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about isolation in the north? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of isolation in the north. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. When the text says "my heart often sickened at the work of my hands" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21), it shows this directly. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why does Victor choose such a desolate place? Ask whether Victor has changed since Chapter IV. What evidence shows growth or its lack?
Anchor question: Why does Victor choose such a desolate place?
Facilitation: Ask whether Victor has changed since Chapter IV. What evidence shows growth or its lack?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about isolation in the north? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. ("my heart often sickened at the work of my hands", Chapter XIX, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about isolation in the north? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. ("my heart often sickened at the work of my hands", Chapter XIX, paragraph 21). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how setting shapes isolation in the north. Key takeaway: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Setting: The remote Orkneys: bleak and barren, matching his work and mind.
- Imagery: "I am a blasted tree": recalling the lightning-struck oak.
- Characterization: Victor works with sickened heart, unable to share his burden.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

Symbols and motifs

- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “and I, although I abhorred society, wished to view again mountains and streams, and all the wondrous works with which Nature adorns” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 4).
- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: “for some time, and I feared the effects of the daemon’s disappointment. He might remain in Switzerland, and wreak his vengeance on” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 13).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.
- “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) Revulsion at his labor.
- “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20) The isolation of work.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences.
Evidence: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21)
Reasoning: He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
expedite (verb)	to speed up; to hasten	Sometimes I thought that the fiend followed me, and might expedite my remissness by murdering my companion.	"expedite": Origin: Latin expedītus ("unimpeded"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/expedite#Etymology)
roarings (noun)	loud, deep sounds	Its fair lakes reflect a blue and gentle sky; and, when troubled by the winds, their tumult is but as the play of a lively infant, when compared to the roarings of the giant ocean.	"roarings": Origin of "roaring": an English formation from roar + -ing. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/roaring#Etymology)
debasing (adjective)	degrading; lowering in dignity	For a moment my soul was elevated from its debasing and miserable fears, to contemplate the divine ideas of liberty and self-sacrifice, of which these sights were the monuments and the remembrancers.	"debasing": Origin of "debase": an English formation from de- + base. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/debase#Etymology)
oatmeal (noun)	meal made from ground oats	The soil was barren, scarcely affording pasture for a few miserable cows, and oatmeal for its inhabitants, which consisted of five persons, whose gaunt and scraggy limbs gave tokens of their miserable fare.	"oatmeal": Origin: an English formation from oat + meal. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/oatmeal#Etymology)
scraggy (adjective)	being very thin	The soil was barren, scarcely affording pasture for a few miserable cows, and oatmeal for its inhabitants, which consisted of five persons, whose gaunt and scraggy limbs gave tokens of their miserable fare.
engages (verb)	holds (attention)	His feelings are forever on the stretch; and when he begins to sink into repose, he finds himself obliged to quit that on which he rests in pleasure for something new, which again engages his attention, and which also he forsakes for other novelties.
intermixed (verb)	combine into one	I looked towards its completion with a tremulous and eager hope, which I dared not trust myself to question, but which was intermixed with obscure forebodings of evil, that made my heart sicken in my bosom.
highlands (noun)	hilly or mountainous country	I packed up my chemical instruments, and the materials I had collected, resolving to finish my labours in some obscure nook in the northern highlands of Scotland.

forsakes (verb)	gives up; abandons	His feelings are forever on the stretch; and when he begins to sink into repose, he finds himself obliged to quit that on which he rests in pleasure for something new, which again engages his attention, and which also he forsakes for other novelties.
remonstrate (verb)	argue in protest or opposition	Henry wished to dissuade me; but, seeing me bent on this plan, ceased to remonstrate.

Discussion questions

1. Why does Victor choose such a desolate place?
2. Where does setting appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does Victor work on the second creature? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A remote island in the Orkneys
2. Who does he leave behind? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Clerval
3. What is Victor's mood while working? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Miserable and filled with dread
4. Which English city prompts thoughts of history? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Oxford
5. What does the desolate setting mirror? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor's inner isolation
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XIX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: In London, Oxford and later Scotland, Victor gathers knowledge, then leaves Clerval and goes alone to a remote Orkney island to build the female creature, working in misery.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XIX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XIX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.

9. Reread: “Sometimes I thought that the fiend followed me, and might expedite my remissness by murdering my companion.” What does “expedite” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: expedite: to speed up; to hasten.
10. Reread: “Its fair lakes reflect a blue and gentle sky; and, when troubled by the winds, their tumult is but as the play of a lively infant, when compared to the roarings of the giant ocean.” What does “roarings” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: roarings: loud, deep sounds.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XIX” suggest about isolation in the north? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The bleak island mirrors Victor's isolation and moral desolation.
2. Find one example of setting in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the tone / mood in this chapter shape what we understand about isolation in the north? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8): Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “We had arrived in England at the beginning of October, and it was now February.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XIX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: In London, Oxford and later Scotland, Victor gathers knowledge, then leaves Clerval and goes alone to a remote Orkney island to build the female creature, working in misery.
6. How does “Chapter XIX” build on “Chapter XVIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21): Revulsion at his labor. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20): The isolation of work. On characterization: Victor works with sickened heart, unable to share his burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: "Why does Victor choose such a desolate place?" Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: "I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8): Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Oxford's association with the English Civil War and the poet-patriot John Hampden is mentioned. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: "my heart often sickened at the work of my hands" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21): Revulsion at his labor. On setting: The remote Orkneys: bleak and barren, matching his work and mind. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: "The bleak island mirrors Victor's isolation and moral desolation." How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: "In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20): The isolation of work. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: "I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8): Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. On characterization: Victor works with sickened heart, unable to share his burden. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of "Chapter XIX" from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about isolation in the north? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21): Revulsion at his labor. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XIX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20): The isolation of work. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8): Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the setting in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21): Revulsion at his labor. On setting: The remote Orkneys: bleak and barren, matching his work and mind. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XIX” treats isolation in the north with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20): The isolation of work. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XX” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8): Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about isolation in the north? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21): Revulsion at his labor. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Useful evidence: “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20): The isolation of work. Theme link: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Setting: look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 20: “In this _____ I devoted the morning to labour”

   Key: retreat

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Where does Victor work on the second creature?

   A. Edinburgh University

   B. London

   C. A remote island in the Orkneys

   D. Oxford

   Key: C (A remote island in the Orkneys)

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Who does he leave behind?

   A. Walton

   B. Elizabeth

   C. Clerval

   D. His father

   Key: C (Clerval)

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] What is Victor's mood while working?

   A. Miserable and filled with dread

   B. Peaceful

   C. Excited

   D. Hopeful

   Key: A (Miserable and filled with dread)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “For a moment my soul was elevated from its debasing and miserable fears, to contemplate the divine ideas of liberty and self-sacrifice, of which these sights were the monuments and the remembrancers.”, what does “debasing” most nearly mean?

   A. a heavy rain

   B. dutifully complying with the commands or instructions of those in authority

   C. small hollows in the cheeks, seen when smiling

   D. degrading; lowering in dignity

   Key: D (degrading; lowering in dignity)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Sometimes I thought that the fiend followed me, and might expedite my remissness by murdering my companion.”, what does “expedite” most nearly mean?

   A. reflect deeply on a subject

   B. removing completely

   C. make sense of; assign a meaning to

   D. to speed up; to hasten

   Key: D (to speed up; to hasten)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does the desolate setting mirror?

   A. Victor's inner isolation

   B. Elizabeth's beauty

   C. Clerval's happiness

   D. The creature's joy

   Key: A (Victor's inner isolation)

8. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “His feelings are forever on the stretch; and when he begins to sink into repose, he finds himself obliged to quit that on which he rests in pleasure for something new, which again _____ his attention, and which also he forsakes for other novelties.” Word bank: expedite, debasing, engages, roarings

   Key: engages

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I packed up my chemical instruments, and the materials I had collected, resolving to finish my labours in some obscure nook in the northern _____ of Scotland.” Word bank: expedite, roarings, highlands, debasing

   Key: highlands

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 8: “I am a _____ tree; the bolt has entered my soul”

    Key: blasted

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I looked towards its completion with a tremulous and eager hope, which I dared not trust myself to question, but which was _____ with obscure forebodings of evil, that made my heart sicken in my bosom.” Word bank: debasing, intermixed, roarings, expedite

    Key: intermixed

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIX”?

    A. The wedding night and its catastrophe

    B. The meeting of two ambitious men

    C. Isolation in the north

    D. Loss and leaving home

    Key: C (Isolation in the north)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Revulsion at his labor. The words “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The isolation of work. The words “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

    A. Creation and responsibility

    B. The costs of unchecked ambition

    C. Isolation and the need for companionship

    D. Nature versus nurture

    Key: A (Creation and responsibility)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. The words “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 21: “my heart often _____ at the work of my hands”

    Key: sickened

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Its fair lakes reflect a blue and gentle sky; and, when troubled by the winds, their tumult is but as the play of a lively infant, when compared to the roarings of the giant ocean.”, what does “roarings” most nearly mean?

    A. loud, deep sounds

    B. unbearable

C. take in, also metaphorically

D. win approval or support for

Key: A (loud, deep sounds)

19. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. The words “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

20. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIX”? The remote Orkneys: bleak and barren, matching his work and mind.

A. Metaphor

B. Setting

C. Structure

D. Simile

Key: B (Setting)

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIX”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: Making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. The words “Chapter XIX” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 7: “The memory of that _____ king, and his companions, the amiable Falkland, the insolent Goring, his queen, and son, gave a peculiar interest to every part of the city, which they might be supposed to have inhabited.” Word bank: Westmorland, determined, gratification, unfortunate
Key: unfortunate

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 3: “I tried to conceal this as much as possible, that I might not debar him from the pleasures natural to one, who was entering on a new scene of life, undisturbed by any care or bitter _____.” Word bank: gratification, recollection, unfortunate, received
Key: recollection

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIX, paragraph 1: “London was our present point of rest; we _____ to remain several months in this wonderful and celebrated city.” Word bank: unfortunate, gratification, uninteresting, determined
Key: determined

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Which English city prompts thoughts of history?

A. Bristol

B. Manchester

C. Oxford

D. Bath

Key: C (Oxford)

26. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? “Clerval desired the intercourse of the men of genius and talent who flourished at this time; but this was with me a secondary object; I was principally occupied with the means of obtaining the information necessary for the completion of my…” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes “distinguished” and “philosophers”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

27. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 10 reveal about the character or situation? “The latter name made me tremble, when pronounced by Henry; and I hastened to quit Matlock, with which that terrible scene was thus associated.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 10) accurately and quotes “associated” and “pronounced”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

28. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIX”? "I am a blasted tree": recalling the lightning-struck oak.
    A. Plot
    B. Point of view
    C. Imagery
    D. Foreshadowing

    Key: C (Imagery)

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 11 shapes its tone: “I could now almost fancy myself among the Swiss mountains.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “mountains” and “myself”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 19 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The thatch had fallen in, the walls were unplastered, and the door was off its hinges.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes “unplastered” and “thatch”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.
    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) bears it out: He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late. But “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20) complicates it, because this detail (the isolation of work) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XIX, paragraph 11? “From Derby, still journeying northward, we passed two months in Cumberland and _____.”

    A. inquisitive

    B. pursuing

    C. Westmorland

    D. determined

    Key: C (Westmorland)

33. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The soil was barren, scarcely affording pasture for a few miserable cows, and oatmeal for its inhabitants, which consisted of five persons, whose gaunt and _____ limbs gave tokens of their miserable fare.” Word bank: roarings, debasing, scraggy, expedite

    Key: scraggy

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XIX, paragraph 4? “Clerval eagerly desired to accept this _____; and I, although I abhorred society, wished to view again mountains and streams, and all the wondrous works with which Nature adorns her chosen dwelling-places.”

    A. determined

    B. pursuing

    C. collected

    D. invitation

    Key: D (invitation)

35. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “If this journey had taken place during my days of study and happiness, it would have afforded me inexpressible pleasure.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “inexpressible” and “happiness”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 17 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “Having parted from my friend, I determined to visit some remote spot of Scotland, and finish my work in solitude.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “determined” and “Scotland”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 14 shapes its tone: “Clerval did not like it so well as Oxford: for the antiquity of the latter city was more pleasing to him.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “antiquity” and “pleasing”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 3 shapes its tone: “His design was to visit India, in the belief that he had in his knowledge of its various languages, and in the views he had taken of its society, the means of materially assisting the progress of European colonisation and trade.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “colonisation” and “materially”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 4 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “He mentioned the beauties of his native country, and asked us if those were not sufficient allurements to induce us to prolong our journey as far north as Perth, where he resided.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “allurements” and “sufficient”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Revulsion at his labor. The words “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20)

    A. A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science.

    B. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

    C. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.

    D. The isolation of work.

    Key: D (The isolation of work.)

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Claim: Victor's second act of creation is joyless because he now sees its consequences. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21).

    Sample answer: He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late. The words “my heart often sickened at the work of my hands” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

43. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XIX, paragraph 7 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The colleges are ancient and picturesque; the streets are almost magnificent; and the lovely Isis, which flows beside it through meadows of exquisite verdure, is spread forth into a placid expanse of waters, which reflects its majestic…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XIX, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes "picturesque" and "magnificent", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last.

44. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? "I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul" (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8)

    A. Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.

    B. The ending: ambiguous death.

    C. Human violence comes first.

    D. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

    Key: A (Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	9, 4, 10, 17, 11, 18, 8, 5, 2, 12, 19, 13, 15, 14, 20, 21	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	22, 9, 23, 24, 7, 25, 4, 13, 26, 27, 12, 28, 15, 29, 30, 31	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	17, 32, 33, 34, 25, 19, 27, 26, 13, 12, 29, 20, 35, 15, 31, 36	recall 5, inference 5, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	5, 2, 9, 10, 18, 19, 26, 27, 12, 37, 35, 38, 29, 30, 39, 40	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	33, 8, 32, 13, 26, 27, 12, 28, 15, 35, 38, 20, 39, 31, 21, 36	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	9, 22, 8, 12, 41, 19, 27, 35, 28, 42, 38, 15, 30, 21, 43, 39	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	4, 1, 8, 41, 12, 44, 38, 37, 42, 29, 35, 43, 31, 30, 39, 36	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Junior	11, 1, 2, 12, 26, 15, 35, 28, 29, 14, 31, 21, 36, 30, 39, 43	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	18, 33, 8, 12, 15, 37, 38, 14, 20, 31, 36, 43, 30, 39, 16, 21	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 7
Graduate / PhD	8, 11, 12, 20, 38, 37, 28, 35, 42, 15, 36, 39, 31, 21, 43, 30	recall 2, inference 1, analysis 7, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XIX,” how does Shelley show isolation in the north? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XIX, how does Shelley develop the idea of isolation in the north? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XIX develops the idea of isolation in the north. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and tone / mood shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XIX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of isolation in the north. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XIX suggests about isolation in the north. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's setting and tone / mood), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses setting in Chapter XIX to complicate the reader's understanding of isolation in the north. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XIX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of isolation in the north responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XIX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of isolation in the north follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XIX and its treatment of isolation in the north. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's setting and tone / mood, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XIX as evidence for a larger claim about isolation in the north in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XIX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of isolation in the north. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. For a moment my soul was elevated from its debasing and miserable fears, to contemplate the divine ideas of liberty and self-sacrifice, of which these sights were the monuments and the remembrancers.

   As used in the text, what does the word “debasing” most nearly mean?

   A. degrading; lowering in dignity

   B. gives up; abandons

   C. argue in protest or opposition

   D. hilly or mountainous country

2. We had arrived in England at the beginning of October, and it was now February. We accordingly determined to commence our journey towards the north at the expiration of another month. In this expedition we did not intend to follow the great road to Edinburgh, but to visit Windsor, Oxford, Matlock, and the Cumberland lakes, resolving to arrive at the completion of this tour about the end of July. I packed up my chemical instruments, and the materials I had collected, resolving to finish my labours in some obscure nook in the northern highlands of Scotland.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIX”?

   A. Learning compassion by watching

   B. Isolation in the north

   C. The final reckoning

   D. Despair and the sublime

SAT key: 1. A (degrading; lowering in dignity); 2. B (Isolation in the north)

Lesson 27: Chapter XX

Focus: destroying the companion

Objective: Students will analyze how conflict develops in “Chapter XX” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Fearing a 'race of devils,' Victor tears apart the half-finished female while the creature watches. The creature vows: 'I shall be with you on your wedding-night.' Victor rows out to sea to dump the remains, drifts, and lands in Ireland, where he is arrested for a murder.

Background: Fears of uncontrolled reproduction reflect debates sparked by Malthus on population.

Significance: Victor's choice can be read as moral courage or as a second abandonment—a rich debate topic.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides. Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because....
Prompt: Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides.
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: specked — dotted; spotted; wiliness — cunning; craftiness; slenderly — only slightly; poorly; debility — the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age); buffeted — struck again and again. “specked”: Origin: an English formation from speck + -ed. “slenderly”: Origin: an English formation from slender + -ly. “debility”: Origin: Old French debilité; earlier Latin dēbilitās (“weakness”).
Words: specked: dotted; spotted · wiliness: cunning; craftiness · slenderly: only slightly; poorly · debility: the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age) · buffeted: struck again and again

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Fears of uncontrolled reproduction reflect debates sparked by Malthus on population. Victor's choice can be read as moral courage or as a second abandonment—a rich debate topic. Conflict: Victor destroys the female in front of the creature; the creature vows revenge. Foreshadowing: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands. Characterization: Victor reasons about future generations (a "race of devils") for the first time, and acts. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "I sat one evening in my laboratory; the sun had set, and the moon was just rising from the sea" (Chapter XX, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor imagines that the creatures' children could produce a race of devils on the earth. Next, craft. I notice the image of a whole "race" propagating, which turns one private act into a danger for humanity. The strongest word is "devils": it shows he sees the creatures as evil by nature, not shaped by treatment. Then, effect. Why does Victor decide to destroy the female creature? My answer: He destroys the female to protect future generations, but his fear also shows he still refuses to see the creature as a person; the choice brings the creature's vow to be with him on his wedding night.

> a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth (Chapter XX, paragraph 2)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth" slowly and put it in my own words: Victor imagines that the creatures' children could produce a race of devils on the earth. Next, craft. I notice the image of a whole "race" propagating, which turns one private act into a danger for humanity. The strongest word is "devils": it shows he sees the creatures as evil by nature, not shaped by treatment. Then, effect. Why does Victor decide to destroy the female creature? My answer: He destroys the female to protect future generations, but his fear also shows he still refuses to see the creature as a person; the choice brings the creature's vow to be with him on his wedding night.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Look at the craft: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? (The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.)

> I shall be with you on your wedding night (Chapter XX, paragraph 15)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Look at the craft: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? (The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)

Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).

Annotate the chapter for conflict, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about destroying the companion? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of destroying the companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. When the text says “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night."

Task: Annotate the chapter for conflict, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about destroying the companion? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of destroying the companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)

Exemplar: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. When the text says “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2), it shows this directly. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night."

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)

Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.

Anchor question: Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides. Debate whether destroying the female was right. Many students switch sides; ask what changed their mind.

Anchor question: Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides.

Facilitation: Debate whether destroying the female was right. Many students switch sides; ask what changed their mind.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about destroying the companion? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. ("a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth", Chapter XX, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about destroying the companion? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. ("a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth", Chapter XX, paragraph 2). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how conflict shapes destroying the companion. Key takeaway: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Conflict: Victor destroys the female in front of the creature; the creature vows revenge.
- Foreshadowing: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands.
- Characterization: Victor reasons about future generations (a "race of devils") for the first time, and acts.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "I sat one evening in my laboratory; the sun had set, and the moon was just rising from the sea" (Chapter XX, paragraph 1).
- naming the creature: Victor never names his creation; the words he uses (wretch, daemon, fiend, monster) show his rejection and shape the reader's view. In this chapter: "was engaged in the same manner, and had created a fiend whose unparalleled barbarity had desolated my heart, and filled it forever" (Chapter XX, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth" (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) Victor's fear of consequences.
- "I shall be with you on your wedding night" (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.
- "Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension" (Chapter XX, paragraph 11) The creature reverses the master-slave relationship.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise.
Evidence: "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth" (Chapter XX, paragraph 2)
Reasoning: He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night."

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
specked (verb)	dotted; spotted	A few fishing vessels alone specked the water, and now and then the gentle breeze wafted the sound of voices, as the fishermen called to one another.	"specked": Origin: an English formation from speck + -ed. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/specked#Etymology)
wiliness (noun)	cunning; craftiness	I will watch with the wiliness of a snake, that I may sting with its venom.
slenderly (adverb)	only slightly; poorly	I had no compass with me, and was so slenderly acquainted with the geography of this part of the world, that the sun was of little benefit to me.	"slenderly": Origin: an English formation from slender + -ly. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/slenderly#Etymology)
debility (noun)	the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age)	As I was in a state of extreme debility, I resolved to sail directly towards the town, as a place where I could most easily procure nourishment.	"debility": Origin: Old French debilité; earlier Latin dēbilitās ("weakness"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/debility#Etymology)
buffeted (verb)	struck again and again	I might be driven into the wide Atlantic, and feel all the tortures of starvation, or be swallowed up in the immeasurable waters that roared and buffeted around me.

irresolution (noun)	doubt concerning two or more possible alternatives or courses of action	"The hour of my irresolution is past, and the period of your power is arrived.	"irresolution": Origin: probably Middle French irresolution. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/irresolution#Etymology)
construed (verb)	make sense of; assign a meaning to	I was ready to sink from fatigue and hunger; but, being surrounded by a crowd, I thought it politic to rouse all my strength, that no physical debility might be construed into apprehension or conscious guilt.
mutable (adjective)	capable of or tending to change in form or quality or nature	How mutable are our feelings, and how strange is that clinging love we have of life even in the excess of misery!
loitered (verb)	lingered; hung about	Yes, he had followed me in my travels; he had loitered in forests, hid himself in caves, or taken refuge in wide and desert heaths; and he now came to mark my progress, and claim the fulfilment of my promise.
conjured (verb)	summon into action or bring into existence, often as if by magic	I walked up and down my room hastily and perturbed, while my imagination conjured up a thousand images to torment and sting me.	"conjured": Origin of "conjure": Old French conjurer; earlier Latin coniūrō ("to swear together"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/conjure#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides.
2. Where does conflict appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Why does Victor destroy the female? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He fears a race of devils
2. What does the creature threaten? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To be with Victor on his wedding night
3. Where does Victor land after drifting at sea? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Ireland
4. What happens when he lands? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He is arrested for murder
5. How might readers view his decision? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: As courage or as another abandonment
6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XX” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Fearing a 'race of devils,' Victor tears apart the half-finished female while the creature watches. The creature vows: 'I shall be with you on your wedding-night.' Victor rows out to sea to dump the remains, drifts, and lands in Ireland, where he is arrested for a murder.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XX”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XX” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “A few fishing vessels alone specked the water, and now and then the gentle breeze wafted the sound of voices, as the fishermen called to one another.” What does “specked” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: specked: dotted; spotted.
10. Reread: “I will watch with the wiliness of a snake, that I may sting with its venom.” What does “wiliness” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: wiliness: cunning; craftiness.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XX” suggest about destroying the companion? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Victor's choice can be read as moral courage or as a second abandonment—a rich debate topic.
2. Find one example of conflict in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other.
3. How does the foreshadowing in this chapter shape what we understand about destroying the companion? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2): Victor's fear of consequences. On foreshadowing: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “I trembled, and my heart failed within me; when, on looking up, I saw, by the light of the moon, the daemon at the casement.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XX”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Fearing a 'race of devils,' Victor tears apart the half-finished female while the creature watches. The creature vows: 'I shall be with you on your wedding-night.' Victor rows out to sea to dump the remains, drifts, and lands in Ireland, where he is arrested for a murder.
6. How does “Chapter XX” build on “Chapter XIX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15): The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11): The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. On characterization: Victor reasons about future generations (a "race of devils") for the first time, and acts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Was destroying the female the right choice? Argue both sides.” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the costs of unchecked ambition? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2): Victor's fear of consequences. On characterization: Victor reasons about future generations (a "race of devils") for the first time, and acts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Fears of uncontrolled reproduction reflect debates sparked by Malthus on population. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15): The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Victor's choice can be read as moral courage or as a second abandonment—a rich debate topic.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11): The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2): Victor's fear of consequences. On characterization: Victor reasons about future generations (a "race of devils") for the first time, and acts. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XX” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about destroying the companion? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15): The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XX”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11): The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to creation and responsibility: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2): Victor's fear of consequences. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the conflict in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15): The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. On conflict: Victor destroys the female in front of the creature; the creature vows revenge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XX” treats destroying the companion with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11): The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. Predict what “Chapter XXI” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2): Victor's fear of consequences. On foreshadowing: "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about destroying the companion? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15): The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Useful evidence: “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11): The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. Theme link: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal? Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Conflict: look for the forces, people or desires pulling against each other (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Foreshadowing: hints, warnings or images that point to later events
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I will watch with the wiliness of a snake, that I may sting with its venom.", what does "wiliness" most nearly mean?

   A. cunning; craftiness

   B. turning aside; straying

   C. instruments that make distant objects look closer

   D. treated lightly; toyed with

   Key: A (cunning; craftiness)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "A few fishing vessels alone specked the water, and now and then the gentle breeze wafted the sound of voices, as the fishermen called to one another.", what does "specked" most nearly mean?

   A. dotted; spotted

   B. upsets; disturbs

   C. to flow in drops

   D. the usage or vocabulary that is characteristic of a specific group of people

   Key: A (dotted; spotted)

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I was ready to sink from fatigue and hunger; but, being surrounded by a crowd, I thought it politic to rouse all my strength, that no physical debility might be _____ into apprehension or conscious guilt." Word bank: construed, wiliness, slenderly, specked

   Key: construed

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 11: "Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my _____"

   Key: condescension

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What happens when he lands?

   A. He marries

   B. He is arrested for murder

   C. He meets Walton

   D. He is welcomed

   Key: B (He is arrested for murder)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why does Victor destroy the female?

   A. He fears a race of devils

   B. The creature asks him

   C. He runs out of materials

   D. She is finished and dangerous

   Key: A (He fears a race of devils)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] How might readers view his decision?

   A. As courage or as another abandonment

   B. As unimportant

   C. As accidental

   D. As purely comic

   Key: A (As courage or as another abandonment)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "As I was in a state of extreme debility, I resolved to sail directly towards the town, as a place where I could most easily procure nourishment.", what does "debility" most nearly mean?

   A. the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age)

   B. transmit (knowledge or skills)

   C. a feeling of evil to come

   D. a small, agile mountain goat

   Key: A (the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age))

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] What does the creature threaten?

   A. To burn Geneva

   B. To kill Walton

   C. To leave forever

   D. To be with Victor on his wedding night

   Key: D (To be with Victor on his wedding night)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I had no compass with me, and was so slenderly acquainted with the geography of this part of the world, that the sun was of little benefit to me.", what does "slenderly" most nearly mean?

    A. only slightly; poorly

    B. a small, agile mountain goat

    C. covered overhead like a canopy

    D. a means to an end; not necessarily a principled or ethical one

    Key: A (only slightly; poorly)

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I might be driven into the wide Atlantic, and feel all the tortures of starvation, or be swallowed up in the immeasurable waters that roared and _____ around me." Word bank: buffeted, specked, slenderly, wiliness

    Key: buffeted

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? "I shall be with you on your wedding night" (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. The words “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XX”?

    A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

    B. Destroying the companion

    C. Loss and leaving home

    D. Confidence before danger

    Key: B (Destroying the companion)

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands.

    A. Foreshadowing

    B. Simile

    C. Symbolism

    D. Setting

    Key: A (Foreshadowing)

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? Victor destroys the female in front of the creature; the creature vows revenge.

    A. Tone / mood

    B. Hyperbole

    C. Setting

    D. Conflict

    Key: D (Conflict)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) bears it out: He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.". But “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11) complicates it, because here the text shows the creature reverses the master-slave relationship. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “How _____ are our feelings, and how strange is that clinging love we have of life even in the excess of misery!” Word bank: mutable, slenderly, wiliness, specked

    Key: mutable

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 2: “a race of devils would be _____ upon the earth”

    Key: propagated

19. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?

    A. Isolation and the need for companionship

B. Nature versus nurture

C. The costs of unchecked ambition

D. Creation and responsibility

Key: D (Creation and responsibility)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XX, paragraph 4? "As I looked on him, his _____ expressed the utmost extent of malice and treachery."

A. wickedness

B. reflection

C. destroyed

D. countenance

Key: D (countenance)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 1: "As I sat, a train of _____ occurred to me, which led me to consider the effects of what I was now doing." Word bank: uninterrupted, reflection, countenance, wickedness

Key: reflection

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XX, paragraph 20? "I had been awake the whole of the _____ night, my nerves were agitated, and my eyes inflamed by watching and misery."

A. Presently

B. oppression

C. feelings

D. preceding

Key: D (preceding)

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ""The hour of my _____ is past, and the period of your power is arrived." Word bank: irresolution, slenderly, wiliness, specked

Key: irresolution

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 8: "_____ I heard the sound of footsteps along the passage; the door opened, and the wretch whom I dreaded appeared." Word bank: Presently, wickedness, abhorrence, uninterrupted

Key: Presently

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? "Three years before I was engaged in the same manner, and had created a fiend whose unparalleled barbarity had desolated my heart, and filled it forever with the bitterest remorse." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes "unparalleled" and "bitterest", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

26. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 21 reveal about the character or situation? "He said that he was wearing away his time fruitlessly where he was; that letters from the friends he had formed in London desired his return to complete the negotiation they had entered into for his Indian enterprise." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes “fruitlessly” and “negotiation”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XX”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. The words “Chapter XX” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.".

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XX, paragraph 19: “The night passed away, and the sun rose from the ocean; my _____ became calmer, if it may be called calmness when the violence of rage sinks into the depths of despair.” Word bank: dispositions, feelings, preceding, abhorrence
    Key: feelings

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Where does Victor land after drifting at sea?
    A. Ireland
    B. Norway
    C. France
    D. Iceland

    Key: A (Ireland)

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XX, paragraph 10? “I do break my promise; never will I create another like yourself, equal in deformity and _____.””
    A. resolution
    B. destroyed
    C. wickedness
    D. existence

    Key: C (wickedness)

31. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 22 shapes its tone: “I paused to collect myself, and then entered the chamber.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 22) accurately and quotes “collect” and “chamber”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

32. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 24 shapes its tone: “The scene was perfectly solitary: a few boats were returning towards land, but I sailed away from them.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 24) accurately and quotes “perfectly” and “returning”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 8 shapes its tone: “Shutting the door, he approached me, and said, in a smothered voice—” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “approached” and “smothered”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: ““Maybe you are come to a place that will not prove much to your taste; but you will not be consulted as to your quarters, I promise you.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 30) accurately and quotes “consulted” and “quarters”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 26 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “But these gave place to a heavy swell: I felt sick, and hardly able to hold the rudder, when suddenly I saw a line of high land towards the south.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 26) accurately and quotes “suddenly” and “towards”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

36. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 4 shapes its tone: “I thought with a sensation of madness on my promise of creating another like to him, and trembling with passion, tore to pieces the thing on which I was engaged.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes “sensation” and “trembling”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 14 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““Devil, cease; and do not poison the air with these sounds of malice.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “poison” and “sounds”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

38. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15)

A. Ingratitude repays virtue; the word "treacherous" carries the creature's (and the narrative's) judgment.

B. Shot after a rescue; bitter irony.

C. "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity.

D. The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.

Key: D (The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself.)

39. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. The words “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Victor's fear of consequences. The words “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.".

41. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.3] Connect this passage from Chapter XX, paragraph 19 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “I left the house, the horrid scene of the last night's contention, and walked on the beach of the sea, which I almost regarded as an insuperable barrier between me and my fellow-creatures; nay, a wish that such should prove the fact stole…” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XX, paragraph 19) accurately and quotes “insuperable” and “contention”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

42. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. The words “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.".

43. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What does this passage most clearly show? “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11)

    A. Political education; links to Godwin.

    B. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

    C. The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.

    D. The creature reverses the master-slave relationship.

    Key: D (The creature reverses the master-slave relationship.)

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16

		recall 11, inference 2, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	4, 9, 1, 6, 7, 17, 3, 18, 11, 5, 13, 12, 19, 15, 14, 16	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	20, 21, 22, 23, 10, 18, 6, 24, 13, 25, 26, 14, 15, 19, 16, 27	recall 8, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	11, 7, 28, 20, 29, 30, 26, 13, 25, 12, 14, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35	recall 6, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	28, 1, 11, 24, 6, 17, 13, 25, 26, 31, 36, 33, 15, 27, 37, 34	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	11, 23, 6, 13, 38, 26, 25, 15, 14, 31, 39, 36, 27, 40, 41, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	11, 17, 8, 26, 13, 25, 12, 33, 19, 15, 36, 32, 37, 41, 27, 35	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	11, 29, 23, 25, 13, 33, 36, 14, 32, 19, 34, 42, 37, 16, 35, 27	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Junior	17, 4, 6, 13, 25, 15, 31, 19, 36, 32, 41, 27, 37, 16, 42, 35	recall 3, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	28, 11, 13, 25, 36, 15, 39, 33, 14, 19, 16, 34, 41, 35, 27, 37	recall 2, inference 2, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	10, 11, 23, 43, 32, 31, 33, 15, 19, 34, 42, 37, 16, 27, 35, 41	recall 3, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 7

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XX,” how does Shelley show destroying the companion? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the conflict you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XX, how does Shelley develop the idea of destroying the companion? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the conflict in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.3, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XX develops the idea of destroying the companion. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of conflict and foreshadowing shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XX (where it begins, turns and ends) and its conflict shape the reader's understanding of destroying the companion. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XX suggests about destroying the companion. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's conflict and foreshadowing), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses conflict in Chapter XX to complicate the reader's understanding of destroying the companion. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XX within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of destroying the companion responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XX alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of destroying the companion follows or bends those conventions, using the conflict as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XX and its treatment of destroying the companion. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's conflict and foreshadowing, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XX as evidence for a larger claim about destroying the companion in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XX as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of destroying the companion. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. I had no compass with me, and was so slenderly acquainted with the geography of this part of the world, that the sun was of little benefit to me.

   As used in the text, what does the word “slenderly” most nearly mean?

   A. only slightly; poorly

   B. lingered; hung about

   C. summon into action or bring into existence, often as if by magic

   D. capable of or tending to change in form or quality or nature

2. I trembled, and my heart failed within me; when, on looking up, I saw, by the light of the moon, the daemon at the casement. A ghastly grin wrinkled his lips as he gazed on me, where I sat fulfilling the task which he had allotted to me. Yes, he had followed me in my travels; he had loitered in forests, hid himself in caves, or taken refuge in wide and desert heaths; and he now came to mark my progress, and claim the fulfilment of my promise.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XX"?

A. The meeting of two ambitious men

B. The first death and growing guilt

C. Destroying the companion

D. The wedding night and its catastrophe

SAT key: 1. A (only slightly; poorly); 2. C (Destroying the companion)

Lesson 28: Chapter XXI

Focus: grief, prison and return

Objective: Students will analyze how irony develops in “Chapter XXI” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Content note (alcohol or drugs (mentioned), implied suicide or suicidal thoughts): This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…custom of taking every night a small quantity of laudanum; for it was by means of this drug only…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it. This lesson mentions suicide or self-harm. Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol.
Student preview: This lesson includes Victor's suicidal thoughts.
Suggested language: “What does this detail add to the scene?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Let a counselor know in advance that this chapter is being taught.

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor discovers the murdered man is Clerval. He falls into fever in prison for two months. Mr. Kirwin, the magistrate, is kind; his father arrives; Victor is acquitted and they return home.

Background: Grand juries and assizes were standard in British and Irish courts.

Significance: Clerval's death destroys the last emblem of Victor's healthy past.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because.... Content note before we start: This section mentions drinking or a drug. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.
Prompt: How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor calls himself the cause.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: turnkeys — jailers who keep the keys; gaolers — jailers (British spelling); vexations — annoyances; worries; retrospect — contemplation of things past; hangman — an executioner who hangs the condemned person. "turnkeys": Origin of "turnkey": an English formation from turn + key. "retrospect": Origin: Latin retrōspectum.
Words: turnkeys: jailers who keep the keys · gaolers: jailers (British spelling) · vexations: annoyances; worries · retrospect: contemplation of things past · hangman: an executioner who hangs the condemned person

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Grand juries and assizes were standard in British and Irish courts. Clerval's death destroys the last emblem of Victor's healthy past. Plot: Victor lands in Ireland, is accused of murder, and sees Clerval's body. Irony: Victor is accused of a murder he did cause indirectly. Characterization: Mr. Kirwin's kindness; Victor's collapse. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "His companions came up to assist him; and, by the light of their lantern, they found that he had fallen on the" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 2).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured" slowly and put it in my own words: Accused of Clerval's murder and shown his friend's body, Victor says his body could no longer endure his agonies. Next, craft. I notice he describes his collapse in physical terms, his "human frame" breaking. The strongest word is "agonies": it means extreme suffering of body and mind together. Then, effect. Why does Victor's body give way after Clerval's murder? My answer: Clerval's death, caused by Victor's own creation, breaks him; he falls into a fever for two months, showing how guilt and grief now destroy him physically.

> The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured" slowly and put it in my own words: Accused of Clerval's murder and shown his friend's body, Victor says his body could no longer endure his agonies. Next, craft. I notice he describes his collapse in physical terms, his "human frame" breaking. The strongest word is "agonies": it means extreme suffering of body and mind together. Then, effect. Why does Victor's body give way after Clerval's murder? My answer: Clerval's death, caused by Victor's own creation, breaks him; he falls into a fever for two months, showing how guilt and grief now destroy him physically.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Murderous machinations" means his plots; he admits causing the death. This connects to responsibility. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Victor calls himself the cause. (Self-blame.)

> Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Murderous machinations" means his plots; he admits causing the death. This connects to responsibility.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Victor calls himself the cause. (Self-blame.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for plot, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about grief, prison and return? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of grief, prison and return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. When the text says “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9), it shows this directly. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.
Task: Annotate the chapter for plot, irony (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about grief, prison and return? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of grief, prison and return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. When the text says “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9), it shows this directly. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's? Ask why Shelley has Victor accused of this particular murder.
Anchor question: How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's?
Facilitation: Ask why Shelley has Victor accused of this particular murder.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about grief, prison and return? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. ("Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life", Chapter XXI, paragraph 9). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about grief, prison and return? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. ("Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life", Chapter XXI, paragraph 9). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how plot shapes grief, prison and return. Key takeaway: Victor calls himself the cause.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Plot: Victor lands in Ireland, is accused of murder, and sees Clerval's body.
- Irony: Victor is accused of a murder he did cause indirectly.
- Characterization: Mr. Kirwin's kindness; Victor's collapse.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "His companions came up to assist him; and, by the light of their lantern, they found that he had fallen on the" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 2).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "devouring maladie du pays, to see once more the blue lake and rapid Rhône, that had been so dear to me in" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 46).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) Self-blame.

- "The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness.
- "Why did I not die" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12) Despair.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words.
Evidence: "Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9)
Reasoning: He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
turnkeys (noun)	jailers who keep the keys	But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon.	"turnkeys": Origin of "turnkey": an English formation from turn + key. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/turnkey#Etymology)
gaolers (noun)	jailers (British spelling)	But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon.
vexations (noun)	annoyances; worries	My father was enraptured on finding me freed from the vexations of a criminal charge, that I was again allowed to breathe the fresh atmosphere, and permitted to return to my native country.
retrospect (noun)	contemplation of things past	Kirwin said this, notwithstanding the agitation I endured on this retrospect of my sufferings, I also felt considerable surprise at the knowledge he seemed to possess concerning me.	"retrospect": Origin: Latin retrōspectum. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/retrospect#Etymology)
hangman (noun)	an executioner who hangs the condemned person	Who could be interested in the fate of a murderer, but the hangman who would gain his fee?
liberated (verb)	set free	The grand jury rejected the bill, on its being proved that I was on the Orkney Islands at the hour the body of my friend was found; and a fortnight after my removal I was liberated from prison.

residing (verb)	make one's home in a particular place or community	I repassed, in my memory, my whole life; my quiet happiness while residing with my family in Geneva, the death of my mother, and my departure for Ingolstadt.	“residing”: Origin of “reside”: Old French resider; earlier Latin resideō (“remain behind”). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/reside#Etymology)
laudanum (noun)	narcotic consisting of an alcohol solution of opium or any preparation in which opium is the main ingredient	Ever since my recovery from the fever, I had been in the custom of taking every night a small quantity of laudanum; for it was by means of this drug only that I was enabled to gain the rest necessary for the preservation of life.
apothecary (noun)	a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice	They put it into a bed, and rubbed it; and Daniel went to the town for an apothecary, but life was quite gone.
shocking (adjective)	very upsetting	“I fear that this place is very shocking to you; can I do anything to make you more comfortable?”

Discussion questions

1. How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's?
2. Where does irony appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with creation and responsibility?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who is the murdered man? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Henry Clerval
2. How long does Victor lie ill in prison? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: About two months

3. Who is kind to Victor in Ireland? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Mr. Kirwin
4. Who comes to bring Victor home? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: His father
5. What is ironic about Victor being accused? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He is guilty in a sense, though innocent of the act
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXI" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor discovers the murdered man is Clerval. He falls into fever in prison for two months. Mr. Kirwin, the magistrate, is kind; his father arrives; Victor is acquitted and they return home.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXI"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXI" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon." What does "turnkeys" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: turnkeys: jailers who keep the keys.
10. Reread: "But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon." What does "gaolers" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: gaolers: jailers (British spelling).

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XXI" suggest about grief, prison and return? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Clerval's death destroys the last emblem of Victor's healthy past.
2. Find one example of irony in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the plot in this chapter shape what we understand about grief, prison and return? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for key events and the causes linking them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: "Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life" (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9): Self-blame. On plot: Victor lands in Ireland, is accused of murder, and sees Clerval's body. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "Another woman confirmed the account of the fishermen having brought the body into her house; it was not cold.", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.

5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXI”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor discovers the murdered man is Clerval. He falls into fever in prison for two months. Mr. Kirwin, the magistrate, is kind; his father arrives; Victor is acquitted and they return home.
6. How does “Chapter XXI” build on “Chapter XX”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10): Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12): Despair. On characterization: Mr. Kirwin's kindness; Victor's collapse. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does Clerval's death affect Victor differently from William's?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does tone / mood appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with creation and responsibility? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Look for word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9): Self-blame. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Grand juries and assizes were standard in British and Irish courts. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10): Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Clerval's death destroys the last emblem of Victor's healthy past.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12): Despair. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9): Self-blame. On characterization: Mr. Kirwin's kindness; Victor's collapse. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXI” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about grief, prison and return? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10): Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXI”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12): Despair. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to isolation and the need for companionship: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9): Self-blame. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the irony in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10): Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. On irony: Victor is accused of a murder he did cause indirectly. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXI” treats grief, prison and return with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12): Despair. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9): Self-blame. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about grief, prison and return? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10): Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Useful evidence: “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12): Despair. Theme link: Victor calls himself the cause. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Irony: look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Plot: key events and the causes linking them
- Also notice Tone / mood: word choices that reveal the narrator's attitude or the scene's feeling

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXI, paragraph 14? “She was a hired nurse, the wife of one of the turnkeys, and her countenance expressed all those bad qualities which often _____ that class.”
   A. supposition
   B. physician

C. appeared

D. characterise

Key: D (characterise)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 9: “Have my murderous _____ deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life”

Key: machinations

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Who comes to bring Victor home?

A. Walton

B. His father

C. Elizabeth

D. Ernest

Key: B (His father)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 10: “The human frame could no longer _____ the agonies that I endured”

Key: support

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon.”, what does “turnkeys” most nearly mean?

A. sticks out over; hangs over

B. jailers who keep the keys

C. any authorization to pass or go somewhere

D. any bird of the family Icteridae whose male is black or predominantly black

Key: B (jailers who keep the keys)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What is ironic about Victor being accused?

A. He is guilty in a sense, though innocent of the act

B. He was in Geneva

C. He likes jail

D. He confesses

Key: A (He is guilty in a sense, though innocent of the act)

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The grand jury rejected the bill, on its being proved that I was on the Orkney Islands at the hour the body of my friend was found; and a fortnight after my removal I was _____ from prison.” Word bank: gaolers, vexations, liberated, turnkeys

Key: liberated

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Who is kind to Victor in Ireland?

A. Mr. Kirwin

B. Krempe

C. Safie

D. Felix

Key: A (Mr. Kirwin)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Who could be interested in the fate of a murderer, but the _____ who would gain his fee?” Word bank: hangman, turnkeys, vexations, gaolers
   Key: hangman

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 18: “I turned with loathing from the woman who could utter so _____ a speech to a person just saved, on the very edge of death; but I felt languid, and unable to reflect on all that had passed.” Word bank: unfeeling, physician, supposition, appeared
    Key: unfeeling

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 21 reveal about the character or situation? “At one time I considered whether I should not declare myself guilty, and suffer the penalty of the law, less innocent than poor Justine had been.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 21) accurately and quotes “considered” and “innocent”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXI”?
    A. The meeting of two ambitious men
    B. Grief, prison and return
    C. Language, knowledge and sorrow
    D. Despair and the sublime

    Key: B (Grief, prison and return)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? “He looked upon me, however, with some degree of severity: and then, turning towards my conductors, he asked who appeared as witnesses on this occasion.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 1) accurately and quotes “conductors” and “witnesses”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Victor calls himself the cause.
    A. Nature versus nurture
    B. Isolation and the need for companionship
    C. The costs of unchecked ambition
    D. Creation and responsibility

    Key: D (Creation and responsibility)

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 25 shapes its tone: ““That is my least concern: I am, by a course of strange events, become the most miserable of mortals.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 25) accurately and quotes “miserable” and “mortals”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor calls himself the cause.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXI”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Victor calls himself the cause: victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. The words “Chapter XXI” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXI, paragraph 2? “Their first _____ was, that it was the corpse of some person who had been drowned, and was thrown on shore by the waves; but, on examination, they found that the clothes were not wet, and even that the body was not then cold.”

    A. afterwards

    B. gentleman

    C. supposition

    D. accustomed

    Key: C (supposition)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Ever since my recovery from the fever, I had been in the custom of taking every night a small quantity of _____; for it was by means of this drug only that I was enabled to gain the rest necessary for the preservation of life.” Word bank: laudanum, turnkeys, vexations, gaolers

    Key: laudanum

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXI, paragraph 21? “I was overcome by gloom and misery, and often reflected I had better seek death than desire to remain in a world which to me was replete with _____.”

    A. gentleman

    B. proceeding

    C. wretchedness

    D. unfavourable

    Key: C (wretchedness)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “My father was enraptured on finding me freed from the vexations of a criminal charge, that I was again allowed to breathe the fresh atmosphere, and permitted to return to my native country.”, what does “vexations” most nearly mean?

    A. capture; being taken by force

    B. dark underground prison cells

    C. told (a story)

    D. annoyances; worries

    Key: D (annoyances; worries)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I repassed, in my memory, my whole life; my quiet happiness while _____ with my family in Geneva, the death of my mother, and my departure for Ingolstadt.” Word bank: residing, vexations, turnkeys, gaolers

    Key: residing

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 1: “I was soon _____ into the presence of the magistrate, an old benevolent man, with calm and mild manners.” Word bank: indifference, unfeeling, afterwards, introduced

    Key: introduced

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 28 shapes its tone: “I found several letters, and, among others, one which I discovered from its commencement to be from your father.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 28) accurately and quotes “commencement” and “discovered”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “They instantly carried it to the cottage of an old woman near the spot, and endeavoured, but in vain, to restore it to life.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “endeavoured” and “instantly”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor calls himself the cause.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 39 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “My father calmed me with assurances of their welfare, and endeavoured, by dwelling on these subjects so interesting to my heart, to raise my desponding spirits; but he soon felt that a prison cannot be the abode of cheerfulness.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 39) accurately and quotes “cheerfulness” and “interesting”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor calls himself the cause.

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Kirwin said this, notwithstanding the agitation I endured on this retrospect of my sufferings, I also felt considerable surprise at the knowledge he seemed to possess concerning me.”, what does “retrospect” most nearly mean?

    A. a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

    B. interlace by or as if by weaving

    C. beat fast and hard (of the heart)

    D. contemplation of things past

    Key: D (contemplation of things past)

27. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Self-blame. The words “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 33 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “He could not help regarding my exclamation as a presumption of my guilt, and said, in rather a severe tone—” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 33) accurately and quotes “presumption” and “exclamation”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor calls himself the cause.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “But I was doomed to live; and, in two months, found myself as awaking from a dream, in a prison, stretched on a wretched bed, surrounded by gaolers, turnkeys, bolts, and all the miserable apparatus of a dungeon.”, what does “gaolers” most nearly mean?

    A. made loved or liked

    B. to grant; to give

    C. wild, impossible dreams or fantasies

    D. jailers (British spelling)

    Key: D (jailers (British spelling))

30. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXI, paragraph 8: “This idea was probably _____ by the extreme agitation I had exhibited when the mode of the murder had been described.”

    Word bank: characterise, indifference, introduced, suggested

    Key: suggested

31. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXI”? Victor lands in Ireland, is accused of murder, and sees Clerval's body.

    A. Theme

    B. Alliteration

    C. Tone / mood

    D. Plot

    Key: D (Plot)

32. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXI”? Victor is accused of a murder he did cause indirectly.

    A. Irony

    B. Metaphor

    C. Allusion

    D. Symbolism

    Key: A (Irony)

33. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 8 shapes its tone: “I was accordingly conducted, by the magistrate and several other persons, to the inn.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 8) accurately and quotes “accordingly” and “magistrate”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Self-blame. The words “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life”

(Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

35. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] Who is the murdered man?

    A. William

    B. Henry Clerval

    C. Felix

    D. Mr. Kirwin

    Key: B (Henry Clerval)

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] How long does Victor lie ill in prison?

    A. One day

    B. About two months

    C. Five years

    D. One week

    Key: B (About two months)

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) bears it out: He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause. But “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12) complicates it, because this detail (despair) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “The whole series of my life appeared to me as a dream; I sometimes doubted if indeed it were all true, for it never presented itself to my mind with the force of reality.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes “presented” and “sometimes”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor calls himself the cause.

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXI, paragraph 14 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “The lines of her face were hard and rude, like that of persons accustomed to see without sympathising in sights of misery.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXI, paragraph 14) accurately and quotes “sympathising” and “accustomed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor calls himself the cause.

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10)

    A. Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.

    B. Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness.

C. A question of identity.

D. Political education; links to Godwin.

Key: B (Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness.)

41. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. The words “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Claim: Clerval's murder makes Victor admit his responsibility in his own words. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9).

    Sample answer: He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause. The words “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause.

43. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Victor's grief and guilt break his body and he falls into a long illness. The words “The human frame could no longer support the agonies that I endured” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

44. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Despair. The words “Why did I not die” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	8, 17, 18, 3, 19, 20, 2, 21, 22, 12, 13, 11, 23, 24, 15, 25	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	26, 21, 2, 17, 20, 9, 22, 12, 27, 11, 13, 23, 24, 14, 25, 28	recall 7, inference 4, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	1, 29, 10, 8, 30, 19, 18, 11, 12, 13, 31, 32, 23, 33, 16, 34	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	35, 36, 1, 7, 21, 27, 11, 13, 12, 14, 24, 15, 32, 16, 37, 38	recall 5, inference 4, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	9, 19, 4, 12, 11, 13, 32, 33, 31, 24, 15, 34, 16, 39, 37, 25	recall 3, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 5
College Freshman	9, 26, 18, 13, 11, 27, 40, 33, 14, 31, 24, 32, 25, 16, 37, 28	recall 3, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	2, 7, 41, 11, 12, 13, 32, 24, 14, 31, 15, 39, 16, 37, 38, 25	recall 2, inference 4, analysis 5, synthesis 5

College Junior	22, 36, 9, 35, 12, 23, 42, 32, 33, 15, 16, 25, 39, 43, 38, 37	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	17, 9, 7, 35, 23, 44, 31, 24, 32, 33, 39, 16, 38, 25, 28, 37	recall 4, inference 0, analysis 6, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	26, 9, 7, 35, 32, 15, 31, 44, 23, 24, 16, 25, 38, 39, 37, 28	recall 4, inference 0, analysis 6, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXI,” how does Shelley show grief, prison and return? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XXI, how does Shelley develop the idea of grief, prison and return? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XXI develops the idea of grief, prison and return. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and plot shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXI (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of grief, prison and return. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXI suggests about grief, prison and return. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's irony and plot), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses irony in Chapter XXI to complicate the reader's understanding of grief, prison and return. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXI within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of grief, prison and return responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXI alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of grief, prison and return follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXI and its treatment of grief, prison and return. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's irony and plot, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXI as evidence for a larger claim about grief, prison and return in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXI as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of grief, prison and return. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. My father was enraptured on finding me freed from the vexations of a criminal charge, that I was again allowed to breathe the fresh atmosphere, and permitted to return to my native country.

   As used in the text, what does the word “vexations” most nearly mean?

   A. a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice

   B. annoyances; worries

   C. very upsetting

   D. narcotic consisting of an alcohol solution of opium or any preparation in which opium is the main ingredient

2. Another woman confirmed the account of the fishermen having brought the body into her house; it was not cold. They put it into a bed, and rubbed it; and Daniel went to the town for an apothecary, but life was quite gone.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXI”?

   A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

   B. Grief, prison and return

   C. A privileged childhood and family love

   D. Injustice and exile

SAT key: 1. B (annoyances; worries); 2. B (Grief, prison and return)

Lesson 29: Chapter XXII

Focus: a letter, a secret and the wedding

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter XXII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Teacher only · spoilers

Victor recovers in Paris with his father, who takes his claim that he murdered William, Justine and Clerval as delirium. Elizabeth writes asking whether he loves someone else; Victor answers that he has one dreadful secret, which he will confide to her the day after their marriage. Remembering the creature's threat (“I shall be with you on your wedding-night”), he assumes he himself is the target and carries pistols and a dagger. Back in Geneva the wedding is fixed; after the ceremony the couple sail across the lake to spend the night at Evian, and the chapter ends as they near the shore at sunset.

Background: Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; the Frankensteins regain some of Elizabeth's inheritance.

Significance: Dramatic irony: readers can see that the threat may be aimed at Elizabeth, while Victor thinks only of his own danger.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

> 0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
> Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
> Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to isolation and companionship because....
> Prompt: Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him?
> Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to isolation and companionship because…
> Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

> 8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
> Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
> Today's words: overtaxed — strained by asking too much of; unchained — set free from chains; released; obliterate — to erase completely; centred — focused; concentrated (British spelling); futility — uselessness as a consequence of having no practical result. “overtaxed”: Origin of “overtax”: an English formation from over- + tax.
> Words: overtaxed: strained by asking too much of · unchained: set free from chains; released · obliterate: to erase completely · centred: focused; concentrated (British spelling) · futility: uselessness as a consequence of having no practical result

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; the Frankensteins regain some of Elizabeth's inheritance. Dramatic irony: readers can see that the threat may be aimed at Elizabeth, while Victor thinks only of his own danger. Characterization: Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret." Foreshadowing: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth. Irony: The wedding is a step toward the catastrophe. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “I am not mad,” I cried energetically; “the sun and the heavens, who have viewed my operations, can bear witness” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read “Do you not love another” slowly and put it in my own words: Seeing Victor's gloom, his father asks if he hesitates to marry Elizabeth because he loves someone else. Next, craft. I notice the gentle, puzzled question, which shows the father guessing at the wrong cause. The strongest word is “love”: the father can only imagine an ordinary reason for his son's misery. Then, effect. Why does Victor's father ask whether he loves another woman? My answer: Victor's secret makes his family misread him; his silence protects no one, and the wedding the father hopes will heal him is the night the creature will strike.

> Do you not love another (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read “Do you not love another” slowly and put it in my own words: Seeing Victor's gloom, his father asks if he hesitates to marry Elizabeth because he loves someone else. Next, craft. I notice the gentle, puzzled question, which shows the father guessing at the wrong cause. The strongest word is “love”: the father can only imagine an ordinary reason for his son's misery. Then, effect. Why does Victor's father ask whether he loves another woman? My answer: Victor's secret makes his family misread him; his silence protects no one, and the wedding the father hopes will heal him is the night the creature will strike.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Look at the craft: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth. Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship? Expected: Secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. (Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.)

> I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Look at the craft: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth.
Ask: How does this line connect to isolation and companionship?
Expected answer: Secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. (Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for characterization, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a letter, a secret and the wedding? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. When the text says “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6), it shows this directly. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.
Task: Annotate the chapter for characterization, foreshadowing (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about a letter, a secret and the wedding? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. When the text says “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6), it shows this directly. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him? Ask: would telling the truth have saved Elizabeth?
Anchor question: Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him?
Facilitation: Ask: would telling the truth have saved Elizabeth?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a letter, a secret and the wedding? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. ("I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations", Chapter XXII, paragraph 6). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about a letter, a secret and the wedding? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. ("I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations", Chapter XXII, paragraph 6). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
Today we saw how characterization shapes a letter, a secret and the wedding. Key takeaway: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Characterization: Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret."
- Foreshadowing: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth.
- Irony: The wedding is a step toward the catastrophe.

Themes and how they develop

- isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "I am not mad," I cried energetically; "the sun and the heavens, who have viewed my operations, can bear witness" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: "had ever been since my journey to the sea of ice" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 8).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "Do you not love another" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) Elizabeth's honest question.
- "I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

- "I shall be with you on your wedding night" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29) Repetition of the threat.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable.
Evidence: "I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6)
Reasoning: He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
overtaxed (verb)	strained by asking too much of	I soon found that I had overtaxed my strength, and that I must repose before I could continue my journey.	"overtaxed": Origin of "overtax": an English formation from over- + tax. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/overtax#Etymology)
unchained (verb)	set free from chains; released	I had unchained an enemy among them, whose joy it was to shed their blood, and to revel in their groans.
obliterate (verb)	to erase completely	He wished as much as possible to obliterate the memory of the scenes that had taken place in Ireland, and never alluded to them, or suffered me to speak of my misfortunes.
centred (verb)	focused; concentrated (British spelling)	I said, "little happiness remains for us on earth; yet all that I may one day enjoy is centred in you.
futility (noun)	uselessness as a consequence of having no practical result	Sometimes he thought that I felt deeply the degradation of being obliged to answer a charge of murder, and he endeavoured to prove to me the futility of pride.
penniless (adjective)	not having enough money to pay for necessities	Alas! what freedom? such as the peasant enjoys when his family have been massacred before his eyes, his cottage burnt, his lands laid waste, and he is turned adrift, homeless, penniless, and alone, but free.
conduce (verb)	be conducive to	I resolved, therefore, that if my immediate union with my cousin would conduce either to hers or my father's happiness, my adversary's designs against my life should not retard it a single hour.

menaces (noun)	something that is a source of danger	My destruction might indeed arrive a few months sooner; but if my torturer should suspect that I postponed it, influenced by his menaces, he would surely find other, and perhaps more dreadful means of revenge.	"menaces": Origin of "menace": Old French manace; earlier Late Latin minācia ("threat"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/menace#Etymology)
overjoyed (adjective)	extremely happy	My father was in the meantime overjoyed, and, in the bustle of preparation, only recognised in the melancholy of his niece the diffidence of a bride.
inmates (noun)	people living in the same house	But, besides, I could not bring myself to disclose a secret which would fill my hearer with consternation, and make fear and unnatural horror the inmates of his breast.	"inmates": Origin of "inmate": probably in (adj., "inside") + mate; possibly influenced by inn. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inmate#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Who travels with Victor to Paris and cares for him there? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: His father
2. What does Victor promise to tell Elizabeth the day after the wedding? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: His dreadful secret
3. Whom does Victor believe the creature will attack on the wedding night? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Himself

4. How do Victor and Elizabeth travel after the ceremony? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: By boat across the lake to Evian
5. What does Victor carry to protect himself? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Pistols and a dagger
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXII" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Victor recovers in Paris with his father, who takes his claim that he murdered William, Justine and Clerval as delirium. Elizabeth writes asking whether he loves someone else; Victor answers that he has one dreadful secret, which he will confide to her the day after their marriage. Remembering the creature's threat ("I shall be with you on your wedding-night"), he assumes he himself is the target…
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "Chapter XXII"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "Chapter XXII" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: "I soon found that I had overtaxed my strength, and that I must repose before I could continue my journey." What does "overtaxed" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: overtaxed: strained by asking too much of.
10. Reread: "I had unchained an enemy among them, whose joy it was to shed their blood, and to revel in their groans." What does "unchained" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: unchained: set free from chains; released.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "Chapter XXII" suggest about a letter, a secret and the wedding? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Dramatic irony: readers can see that the threat may be aimed at Elizabeth, while Victor thinks only of his own danger.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about a letter, a secret and the wedding? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: "Do you not love another" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth's honest question. On irony: The wedding is a step toward the catastrophe. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins "My father yielded at length to my desire to avoid society, and strove by various arguments to banish my despair.", why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in "Chapter XXII", and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Victor recovers in Paris with his father, who takes his claim that he murdered William, Justine and Clerval as delirium. Elizabeth writes asking whether he loves someone else; Victor answers that he has one dreadful secret, which he will confide to her the day after their marriage. Remembering the…

6. How does “Chapter XXII” build on “Chapter XXI”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6): Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29): Repetition of the threat. On characterization: Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Why does Victor misread the creature's threat, and what does that reveal about him?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with isolation and the need for companionship? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth's honest question. On characterization: Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; the Frankensteins regain some of Elizabeth's inheritance. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6): Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Dramatic irony: readers can see that the threat may be aimed at Elizabeth, while Victor thinks only of his own danger.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29): Repetition of the threat. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth's honest question. On characterization: Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about a letter, a secret and the wedding? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6): Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29): Repetition of the threat. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to nature versus nurture: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth's honest question. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6): Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. On foreshadowing: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXII” treats a letter, a secret and the wedding with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29): Repetition of the threat. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXIII” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14): Elizabeth's honest question. On foreshadowing: He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about a letter, a secret and the wedding? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6): Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Useful evidence: “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29): Repetition of the threat. Theme link: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Whom does Victor believe the creature will attack on the wedding night?
   A. Elizabeth
   B. Himself

C. Ernest

D. His father

Key: B (Himself)

2. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I said, “little happiness remains for us on earth; yet all that I may one day enjoy is centred in you.”, what does “centred” most nearly mean?

   A. a companion at play

   B. cold, damp harshness

   C. focused; concentrated (British spelling)

   D. having

   Key: C (focused; concentrated (British spelling))

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I resolved, therefore, that if my immediate union with my cousin would _____ either to hers or my father’s happiness, my adversary’s designs against my life should not retard it a single hour.” Word bank: conduce, obliterate, overtaxed, unchained

   Key: conduce

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Sometimes he thought that I felt deeply the degradation of being obliged to answer a charge of murder, and he endeavoured to prove to me the _____ of pride.” Word bank: overtaxed, futility, obliterate, unchained

   Key: futility

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor promise to tell Elizabeth the day after the wedding?

   A. Where he hid the journal

   B. Why he left Ingolstadt

   C. The name of a rival

   D. His dreadful secret

   Key: D (His dreadful secret)

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I had unchained an enemy among them, whose joy it was to shed their blood, and to revel in their groans.”, what does “unchained” most nearly mean?

   A. filled with energy and excitement

   B. very upsetting

   C. a trait of dignified seriousness

   D. set free from chains; released

   Key: D (set free from chains; released)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor carry to protect himself?

   A. A sword

   B. A letter of safe conduct

   C. Nothing

   D. Pistols and a dagger

   Key: D (Pistols and a dagger)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “He wished as much as possible to obliterate the memory of the scenes that had taken place in Ireland, and never alluded to them, or suffered me to speak of my misfortunes.”, what does “obliterate” most nearly mean?

   A. to call down (curses) on

   B. cold and unkind

   C. unbearable

   D. to erase completely

   Key: D (to erase completely)

9. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 13: “If you really say this, my _____ are answered, and all my doubts satisfied.” Word bank: Switzerland, transported, questions, consciousness
   Key: questions

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 3: “Human beings, their _____ and passions, would indeed be degraded if such a wretch as I felt pride.” Word bank: miserable, feelings, tranquillity, infatuation
    Key: feelings

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 27 reveal about the character or situation? “Let the day therefore be fixed; and on it I will consecrate myself, in life or death, to the happiness of my cousin.”” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 27) accurately and quotes “consecrate” and “therefore”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “Justine, poor unhappy Justine, was as innocent as I, and she suffered the same charge; she died for it; and I am the cause of this—I murdered her.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 3) accurately and quotes “murdered” and “suffered”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Elizabeth's honest question. The words “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 32 shapes its tone: “It was agreed that, immediately after our union, we should proceed to Villa Lavenza, and spend our first days of happiness beside the beautiful lake near which it stood.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 32) accurately and quotes “immediately” and “beautiful”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 15 shapes its tone: “I confess to you, my friend, that I love you, and that in my airy dreams of futurity you have been my constant friend and companion." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes "companion" and "futurity", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to "Chapter XXII". Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. The words "Chapter XXII" (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Who travels with Victor to Paris and cares for him there?

    A. His father

    B. Elizabeth

    C. Walton

    D. Clerval

    Key: A (His father)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 29: "I shall be with you on your _____ night"

    Key: wedding

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Alas! what freedom? such as the peasant enjoys when his family have been massacred before his eyes, his cottage burnt, his lands laid waste, and he is turned adrift, homeless, _____, and alone, but free." Word bank: overtaxed, penniless, obliterate, unchained

    Key: penniless

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 11 shapes its tone: ""It gave me the greatest pleasure to receive a letter from my uncle dated at Paris; you are no longer at a formidable distance, and I may hope to see you in less than a fortnight." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes "formidable" and "fortnight", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 23 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: "I neither spoke, nor looked at anyone, but sat motionless, bewildered by the multitude of miseries that overcame me." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 23) accurately and quotes "motionless" and "bewildered", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

22. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXII, paragraph 25? “Soon after my arrival, my father spoke of my _____ marriage with Elizabeth.”

    A. occasioned

    B. unfortunate

    C. immediate

    D. miserable

    Key: C (immediate)

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXII, paragraph 9? “A few days before we left Paris on our way to _____, I received the following letter from Elizabeth:—”

    A. occasioned

    B. Switzerland

    C. transported

    D. questions

    Key: B (Switzerland)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How do Victor and Elizabeth travel after the ceremony?

    A. By ship to England

    B. By boat across the lake to Evian

    C. By coach to Paris

    D. On foot to Chamounix

    Key: B (By boat across the lake to Evian)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 31 shapes its tone: “As the period fixed for our marriage drew nearer, whether from cowardice or a prophetic feeling, I felt my heart sink within me.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 31) accurately and quotes “cowardice” and “prophetic”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) bears it out: He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in. But “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) complicates it, because this detail (elizabeth's honest question) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 39 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “But her temper was fluctuating; joy for a few instants shone in her eyes, but it continually gave place to distraction and reverie.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 39) accurately and quotes “continually” and “fluctuating”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “My destruction might indeed arrive a few months sooner; but if my torturer should suspect that I postponed it, influenced by his _____, he would surely find other, and perhaps more dreadful means of revenge.” Word bank: menaces, unchained, overtaxed, obliterate

    Key: menaces

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 16 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ““Do not let this letter disturb you; do not answer tomorrow, or the next day, or even until you come, if it will give you pain.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “tomorrow” and “disturb”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXII, paragraph 37 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “Ah! if you knew what I have suffered, and what I may yet endure, you would endeavour to let me taste the quiet and freedom from despair, that this one day at least permits me to enjoy.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXII, paragraph 37) accurately and quotes “endeavour” and “suffered”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

31. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXII, paragraph 15? “Be happy, my friend; and if you obey me in this one request, remain satisfied that nothing on earth will have the power to interrupt my _____.”

    A. questions

    B. infatuation

    C. tranquillity

    D. occasioned

    Key: C (tranquillity)

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXII, paragraph 23: “Memory brought madness with it; and when I thought of what had passed, a real insanity possessed me; sometimes I was furious, and burnt with rage; sometimes low and _____.” Word bank: Switzerland, questions, disinterested, despondent

    Key: despondent

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29)

    A. Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.

    B. Repetition of the threat.

    C. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

    D. Victor's fear of consequences.

Key: B (Repetition of the threat.)

34. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXII”? He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth.

    A. Tone / mood

    B. Theme

    C. Foreshadowing

    D. Simile

    Key: C (Foreshadowing)

35. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Repetition of the threat. The words “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

36. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXII”? Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret."

    A. Symbolism

    B. Hyperbole

    C. Characterization

    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: C (Characterization)

37. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. The words “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

38. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Elizabeth's honest question. The words “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage most clearly show? “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6)

    A. Guilt imagined as hell.

    B. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

    C. Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.

    D. His education; each book shapes him.

Key: B (Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.)

40. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I soon found that I had overtaxed my strength, and that I must repose before I could continue my journey.”, what does “overtaxed” most nearly mean?

    A. to erase completely

    B. strained by asking too much of

    C. set free from chains; released

    D. focused; concentrated (British spelling)

    Key: B (strained by asking too much of)

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXII”?

    A. Despair and the sublime

    B. A privileged childhood and family love

    C. Obsession and the discovery of life

    D. A letter, a secret and the wedding

    Key: D (A letter, a secret and the wedding)

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6).

    Sample answer: He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in. The words “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	17, 4, 10, 7, 5, 3, 2, 18, 19, 11, 13, 12, 14, 15, 20, 21	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	18, 17, 22, 6, 8, 23, 24, 5, 4, 12, 11, 15, 14, 25, 26, 27	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	1, 23, 17, 8, 28, 9, 4, 12, 11, 13, 20, 15, 25, 14, 29, 30	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	4, 8, 31, 32, 23, 24, 11, 13, 12, 20, 14, 25, 15, 26, 27, 30	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	6, 24, 10, 4, 11, 12, 33, 25, 20, 15, 34, 14, 26, 30, 29, 21	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	8, 24, 4, 19, 17, 5, 11, 25, 20, 35, 15, 14, 29, 16, 21, 26	recall 6, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	22, 6, 4, 19, 17, 20, 14, 36, 15, 37, 21, 29, 27, 38, 30, 26	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 4, synthesis 7
College Junior	2, 4, 19, 17, 5, 39, 20, 15, 14, 35, 26, 38, 21, 30, 29, 16	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Senior	40, 4, 17, 18, 39, 34, 15, 20, 14, 25, 30, 21, 29, 26, 27, 38	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 6
Graduate / PhD	31, 4, 19, 17, 7, 41, 25, 14, 15, 42, 38, 30, 26, 27, 21, 29	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 4, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXII,” how does Shelley show a letter, a secret and the wedding? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XXII, how does Shelley develop the idea of a letter, a secret and the wedding? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XXII develops the idea of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXII suggests about a letter, a secret and the wedding. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter XXII to complicate the reader's understanding of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of a letter, a secret and the wedding responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of a letter, a secret and the wedding follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXII and its treatment of a letter, a secret and the wedding. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXII as evidence for a larger claim about a letter, a secret and the wedding in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of a letter, a secret and the wedding. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. He wished as much as possible to obliterate the memory of the scenes that had taken place in Ireland, and never alluded to them, or suffered me to speak of my misfortunes.

   As used in the text, what does the word "obliterate" most nearly mean?

   A. to erase completely

   B. people living in the same house

   C. extremely happy

   D. something that is a source of danger

2. My father yielded at length to my desire to avoid society, and strove by various arguments to banish my despair. Sometimes he thought that I felt deeply the degradation of being obliged to answer a charge of murder, and he endeavoured to prove to me the futility of pride.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXII"?

   A. Injustice and exile

   B. The wedding night and its catastrophe

   C. A letter, a secret and the wedding

   D. First experiences of the senses

SAT key: 1. A (to erase completely); 2. C (A letter, a secret and the wedding)

Lesson 30: Chapter XXIII

Focus: the wedding night and its catastrophe

Objective: Students will analyze how foreshadowing develops in “Chapter XXIII” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “After the death of Elizabeth, the story, like a stream which grows at once more rapid and profound as it proceeds, assumes an irresistible solemnity, and the magnificent energy and swiftness of a tempest.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 4; public domain). Craft focus: mark how sentence length and chapter speed change after Elizabeth's death. Does the "tempest" image fit? Objective: Analyze pacing and structure in the catastrophe of the wedding night. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.5

Content note (murder, grief, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Elizabeth is murdered on her wedding night and Victor's father dies of grief. Allow students space; do not ask for vivid description. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…head whirled round, my steps were like those of a drunken man, I fell at last in a state of utter…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: This chapter includes a murder and a death from grief.
Suggested language: “How does loss change Victor's purpose?”

Teacher only · spoilers

At the inn at Evian, Victor, pistol in hand, sends Elizabeth to bed while he searches the house; he then hears her scream and finds her murdered. He sees the creature grinning at the window and fires, but it escapes into the lake. Victor returns to Geneva, where his father dies of grief within days. Victor is confined for months as a madman; on release he tells his story to a Genevan magistrate, who listens with half-belief but doubts anything can be done, and Victor vows to pursue the creature himself.

Background: Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; after Victor's release his family's affairs are settled and he leaves Geneva for good.

Significance: The catastrophe Victor never foresaw shows how completely his self-absorption has blinded him; his loss turns him into the creature's pursuer.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to creation and responsibility because.... Content note before we start: This chapter includes a murder and a death from grief.
Prompt: How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to creation and responsibility because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor becomes the pursuer.

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: deviating — turning aside; straying; inspecting — looking at closely; examining; intimidated — frightened; made fearful; seizure — capture; being taken by force; auditor — someone who listens attentively.
"deviating": Origin of "deviate": Late Latin dēviātus. "inspecting": Origin of "inspect": Latin inspectum.
"intimidated": Origin of "intimidate": Medieval Latin intimidātus; earlier Latin intimidō ("to intimidate").
"auditor": Origin: Anglo-Norman auditour; earlier Latin audītor ("hearer").
Words: deviating: turning aside; straying · inspecting: looking at closely; examining · intimidated: frightened; made fearful · seizure: capture; being taken by force · auditor: someone who listens attentively

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; after Victor's release his family's affairs are settled and he leaves Geneva for good. The catastrophe Victor never foresaw shows how completely his self-absorption has blinded him; his loss turns him into the creature's pursuer. Plot: Elizabeth's murder on the wedding night; the creature at the window; the father's death. Imagery: Elizabeth "thrown across the bed"; the creature's grin. Characterization: Victor dedicates himself to revenge. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: "for a short time on the shore, enjoying the transitory light, and then retired to the inn, and contemplated the lovely scene" (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife" slowly and put it in my own words: At the window, the creature grins and points with his fiendish finger at the body of Victor's wife. Next, craft. I notice the alliteration "fiendish finger," which makes the gesture feel like mockery. The strongest word is "fiendish": the word shows how Victor now sees the creature: as a demon, not a being. Then, effect. What does the creature's gesture at the window mean? My answer: The creature's gesture at the window, pointing at Elizabeth's corpse, means triumph and accusation at once: he kept his promise to be with Victor on his wedding night, and Victor becomes a hunter bent on revenge.

> with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife" slowly and put it in my own words: At the window, the creature grins and points with his fiendish finger at the body of Victor's wife. Next, craft. I notice the alliteration "fiendish finger," which makes the gesture feel like mockery. The strongest word is "fiendish": the word shows how Victor now sees the creature: as a demon, not a being. Then, effect. What does the creature's gesture at the window mean? My answer: The creature's gesture at the window, pointing at Elizabeth's corpse, means triumph and accusation at once: he kept his promise to be with Victor on his wedding night, and Victor becomes a hunter bent on revenge.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: "Lifeless" recalls the lifeless matter of creation: Victor's work turned into death. Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility? Expected: Victor becomes the pursuer. (Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.)

> She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: "Lifeless" recalls the lifeless matter of creation: Victor's work turned into death.
Ask: How does this line connect to creation and responsibility?
Expected answer: Victor becomes the pursuer. (Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for plot, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the wedding night and its catastrophe? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. When the text says “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14), it shows this directly. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.
Task: Annotate the chapter for plot, imagery (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the wedding night and its catastrophe? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. When the text says “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14), it shows this directly. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter? Ask: who is the monster now?
Anchor question: How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter?
Facilitation: Ask: who is the monster now?

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the wedding night and its catastrophe? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. (“A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness”, Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the wedding night and its catastrophe? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. (“A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness”, Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how plot shapes the wedding night and its catastrophe. Key takeaway: Victor becomes the pursuer.

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Plot: Elizabeth's murder on the wedding night; the creature at the window; the father's death.
- Imagery: Elizabeth "thrown across the bed"; the creature's grin.
- Characterization: Victor dedicates himself to revenge.

Themes and how they develop

- creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “for a short time on the shore, enjoying the transitory light, and then retired to the inn, and contemplated the lovely scene” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “inn, and contemplated the lovely scene of waters, woods, and mountains, obscured in darkness, yet still displaying their black outlines” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.
- “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) Mocking accusation.
- “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles.
Evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14)
Reasoning: He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
deviating (verb)	turning aside; straying	I now related my history, briefly, but with firmness and precision, marking the dates with accuracy, and never deviating into invective or exclamation.	"deviating": Origin of "deviate": Late Latin dēviātus. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/deviate#Etymology)
inspecting (verb)	looking at closely; examining	She left me, and I continued some time walking up and down the passages of the house, and inspecting every corner that might afford a retreat to my adversary.	"inspecting": Origin of "inspect": Latin inspectum. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/inspect#Etymology)
intimidated (verb)	frightened; made fearful	As I spoke, rage sparkled in my eyes; the magistrate was intimidated: —"You are mistaken," said he, "I will exert myself; and if it is in my power to seize the monster, be assured that he shall suffer punishment proportionate to his crimes.	"intimidated": Origin of "intimidate": Medieval Latin intimidātus; earlier Latin intimidō ("to intimidate"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/intimidate#Etymology)
seizure (noun)	capture; being taken by force	When I had concluded my narration, I said, "This is the being whom I accuse, and for whose seizure and punishment I call upon you to exert your whole power.
auditor (noun)	someone who listens attentively	This address caused a considerable change in the physiognomy of my own auditor.	"auditor": Origin: Anglo-Norman auditour; earlier Latin audītor ("hearer"). (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/auditor#Etymology)
tingling (verb)	prickling or stinging slightly	As I heard it, the whole truth rushed into my mind, my arms dropped, the motion of every muscle and fibre was suspended; I could feel the blood trickling in my veins, and tingling in the extremities of my limbs.
intervened (verb)	get involved, so as to alter or hinder an action, or through force or threat of force	But I discovered no trace of him, and was beginning to conjecture that some fortunate chance had intervened to prevent the execution of his menaces; when suddenly I heard a shrill and dreadful scream.

torrents (noun)	a heavy rain	There were no horses to be procured, and I must return by the lake; but the wind was unfavourable, and the rain fell in torrents.	"torrents": Origin of "torrent": French torrent; earlier Latin torrentem. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/torrent#Etymology)
quieted (verb)	calmed	My manner, as I thus addressed him, was impressive, but calm; I had formed in my own heart a resolution to pursue my destroyer to death; and this purpose quieted my agony, and for an interval reconciled me to life.
cherished (verb)	be fond of; be attached to	I rushed towards her, and embraced her with ardour; but the deadly languor and coldness of the limbs told me, that what I now held in my arms had ceased to be the Elizabeth whom I had loved and cherished.

Discussion questions

1. How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter?
2. Where does foreshadowing appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with nature versus nurture?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. Where does Elizabeth's murder take place? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: At the inn at Evian
2. What does Victor see at the window after finding Elizabeth? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: The creature, grinning
3. How does Victor's father die? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Of grief, soon after the news
4. What happens to Victor after his father's death? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He is confined as a madman for months
5. How does the Genevan magistrate respond to Victor's story? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: With half-belief, doubting anything can be done

6. Retell the three most important events of “Chapter XXIII” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: At the inn at Evian, Victor, pistol in hand, sends Elizabeth to bed while he searches the house; he then hears her scream and finds her murdered. He sees the creature grinning at the window and fires, but it escapes into the lake. Victor returns to Geneva, where his father dies of grief within days. Victor is confined for months as a madman; on release he tells his story to a Genevan magistrate,…
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXIII”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXIII” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “I now related my history, briefly, but with firmness and precision, marking the dates with accuracy, and never deviating into invective or exclamation.” What does “deviating” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: deviating: turning aside; straying.
10. Reread: “She left me, and I continued some time walking up and down the passages of the house, and inspecting every corner that might afford a retreat to my adversary.” What does “inspecting” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: inspecting: looking at closely; examining.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXIII” suggest about the wedding night and its catastrophe? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The catastrophe Victor never foresaw shows how completely his self-absorption has blinded him; his loss turns him into the creature's pursuer.
2. Find one example of foreshadowing in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
3. How does the irony in this chapter shape what we understand about the wedding night and its catastrophe? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8): Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “She left me, and I continued some time walking up and down the passages of the house, and inspecting every corner that might afford a retreat to my adversary.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXIII”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: At the inn at Evian, Victor, pistol in hand, sends Elizabeth to bed while he searches the house; he then hears her scream and finds her murdered. He sees the creature grinning at the window and fires, but it escapes into the lake. Victor returns to Geneva, where his father dies of grief within…

6. How does “Chapter XXIII” build on “Chapter XXII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10): Mocking accusation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14): Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. On characterization: Victor dedicates himself to revenge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How does the wedding-night catastrophe change Victor from creator to hunter?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with nature versus nurture? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8): Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. On characterization: Victor dedicates himself to revenge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Weddings in this social class involved property arrangements; after Victor's release his family's affairs are settled and he leaves Geneva for good. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10): Mocking accusation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The catastrophe Victor never foresaw shows how completely his self-absorption has blinded him; his loss turns him into the creature's pursuer.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14): Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8): Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. On characterization: Victor dedicates himself to revenge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXIII” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the wedding night and its catastrophe? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10): Mocking accusation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXIII”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14): Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this chapter to the sublime power of nature: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8): Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the foreshadowing in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10): Mocking accusation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXIII” treats the wedding night and its catastrophe with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14): Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. Predict what “Chapter XXIV” will bring, using two clues from this chapter. After reading, evaluate your prediction. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8): Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the wedding night and its catastrophe? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10): Mocking accusation. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Useful evidence: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14): Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. Theme link: Victor becomes the pursuer. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Foreshadowing: look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What does Victor see at the window after finding Elizabeth?

   A. Clerval's ghost

   B. The creature, grinning

   C. His father

   D. A magistrate

   Key: B (The creature, grinning)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "But I discovered no trace of him, and was beginning to conjecture that some fortunate chance had _____ to prevent the execution of his menaces; when suddenly I heard a shrill and dreadful scream." Word bank: intimidated, intervened, deviating, inspecting

   Key: intervened

3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 13: "I was _____ in a cloud of wonder and horror." Word bank: resolved, disappeared, bewildered, obscured

   Key: bewildered

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "As I heard it, the whole truth rushed into my mind, my arms dropped, the motion of every muscle and fibre was suspended; I could feel the blood trickling in my veins, and _____ in the extremities of my limbs." Word bank: tingling, intimidated, inspecting, deviating

   Key: tingling

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] What happens to Victor after his father's death?

   A. He is confined as a madman for months

   B. He marries again

   C. He is tried for murder

   D. He sails to the Arctic at once

   Key: A (He is confined as a madman for months)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 1: "It was eight o'clock when we landed; we walked for a short time on the shore, enjoying the transitory light, and then retired to the inn, and _____ the lovely scene of waters, woods, and mountains, obscured in darkness, yet still displaying their black outlines." Word bank: horrors, contemplated, awakened, obscured

   Key: contemplated

7. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8: "She was there, lifeless and _____, thrown across the bed"

   Key: inanimate

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 15? "My own strength is _____; and I must tell, in a few words, what remains of my hideous narration."

   A. exhausted

   B. incredulous

   C. awakened

   D. possessed

   Key: A (exhausted)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 22? “The magistrate appeared at first perfectly _____, but as I continued he became more attentive and interested; I saw him sometimes shudder with horror, at others a lively surprise, unmingled with disbelief, was painted on his countenance.”

   A. incredulous

   B. directions

   C. resolved

   D. dreadful

   Key: A (incredulous)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10: “with his _____ finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife”

    Key: fiendish

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What can you infer from this line? “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Mocking accusation. The words “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16 reveal about the character or situation? “I see him now, excellent and venerable old man! his eyes wandered in vacancy, for they had lost their charm and their delight—his Elizabeth, his more than daughter, whom he doted on with all that affection which a man feels, who in the…” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 16) accurately and quotes “affections” and “earnestly”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] What does this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “The moon had reached her summit in the heavens, and was beginning to descend; the clouds swept across it swifter than the flight of the vulture, and dimmed her rays, while the lake reflected the scene of the busy heavens, rendered still…” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “reflected” and “beginning”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 11 shapes its tone: “The report of the pistol brought a crowd into the room.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 11) accurately and quotes “brought” and “pistol”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 4 shapes its tone: “Elizabeth observed my agitation for some time in timid and fearful silence; but there was something in my glance which communicated terror to her, and trembling she asked, “What is it that agitates you, my dear Victor?” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 4) accurately and quotes "communicated" and "Elizabeth", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor becomes the pursuer.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 27 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: ""That cannot be; but all that I can say will be of little avail." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 27) accurately and quotes "little" and "cannot", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor becomes the pursuer.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] How does the Genevan magistrate respond to Victor's story?

    A. With half-belief, doubting anything can be done

    B. By arresting Victor

    C. With laughter

    D. With full belief and action

    Key: A (With half-belief, doubting anything can be done)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.5] Where does Elizabeth's murder take place?

    A. In Paris

    B. On the boat

    C. In Geneva

    D. At the inn at Evian

    Key: D (At the inn at Evian)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "As I spoke, rage sparkled in my eyes; the magistrate was intimidated: —"You are mistaken," said he, "I will exert myself; and if it is in my power to seize the monster, be assured that he shall suffer punishment…", what does "intimidated" most nearly mean?

    A. frightened; made fearful

    B. being very thin

    C. teachers

    D. perform an act, usually with a negative connotation

    Key: A (frightened; made fearful)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "When I had concluded my narration, I said, "This is the being whom I accuse, and for whose seizure and punishment I call upon you to exert your whole power.", what does "seizure" most nearly mean?

    A. the state of being excommunicated

    B. not having form or shape

    C. brought back to life or strength; revived

    D. capture; being taken by force

    Key: D (capture; being taken by force)

21. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “She left me, and I continued some time walking up and down the passages of the house, and inspecting every corner that might afford a retreat to my adversary.”, what does “inspecting” most nearly mean?

    A. the state of being weak in health or body (especially from old age)

    B. looking at closely; examining

    C. to predict; to be a sign of

    D. strained by asking too much of

    Key: B (looking at closely; examining)

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 20 shapes its tone: “The magistrate listened to me with attention and kindness:—“Be assured, sir,” said he, “no pains or exertions on my part shall be spared to discover the villain.”” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 20) accurately and quotes “magistrate” and “attention”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 17 shapes its tone: “Sometimes, indeed, I dreamt that I wandered in flowery meadows and pleasant vales with the friends of my youth; but I awoke, and found myself in a dungeon.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 17) accurately and quotes “Sometimes” and “pleasant”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor becomes the pursuer.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 29 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “Cease; you know not what it is you say.”” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 29) accurately and quotes its key words, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor becomes the pursuer.

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “There were no horses to be procured, and I must return by the lake; but the wind was unfavourable, and the rain fell in _____.” Word bank: intimidated, deviating, torrents, inspecting

    Key: torrents

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future _____”

    Key: happiness

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 11? “I pointed to the spot where he had _____, and we followed the track with boats; nets were cast, but in vain.”

    A. possessed

    B. disappeared

C. interval

D. directions

Key: B (disappeared)

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “This address caused a considerable change in the physiognomy of my own _____.” Word bank: auditor, intimidated, deviating, inspecting

    Key: auditor

29. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Victor becomes the pursuer.

    A. Creation and responsibility

    B. Nature versus nurture

    C. The costs of unchecked ambition

    D. Isolation and the need for companionship

    Key: A (Creation and responsibility)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) bears it out: He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance. But “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) complicates it, because this detail (mocking accusation) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Mocking accusation. The words “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

32. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 17: “_____ followed, but by degrees I gained a clear conception of my miseries and situation, and was then released from my prison.” Word bank: horrors, wretchedness, possessed, Melancholy

    Key: Melancholy

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 15 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “But why should I dwell upon the incidents that followed this last overwhelming event?” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 15) accurately and quotes “overwhelming” and “incidents”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor becomes the pursuer.

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIII”. Use one quotation from each.
    Sample answer: Victor becomes the pursuer: total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. The words “Chapter XXIII” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.
35. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIII”? Elizabeth "thrown across the bed"; the creature's grin.
    A. Imagery
    B. Point of view
    C. Irony
    D. Hyperbole

    Key: A (Imagery)
36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.5] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIII, paragraph 13 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “The death of William, the execution of Justine, the murder of Clerval, and lastly of my wife; even at that moment I knew not that my only remaining friends were safe from the malignity of the fiend; my father even now might be writhing…” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 13) accurately and quotes “malignity” and “execution”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor becomes the pursuer.
37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.5] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIII”?
    A. The wedding night and its catastrophe
    B. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation
    C. The first death and growing guilt
    D. The first spark of obsession

    Key: A (The wedding night and its catastrophe)
38. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. The words “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.
39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. The words “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.
40. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Claim: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14).

Sample answer: He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance. The words “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 6, 10, 17, 7, 18, 19, 20, 21, 11, 12, 13, 22, 23, 14, 24	recall 9, inference 3, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	2, 25, 7, 18, 26, 6, 27, 8, 28, 12, 13, 29, 22, 14, 30, 31	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	18, 9, 6, 8, 2, 7, 1, 11, 13, 12, 23, 22, 15, 29, 24, 30	recall 7, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	32, 8, 10, 17, 27, 25, 12, 11, 13, 29, 15, 22, 14, 16, 33, 34	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP	18, 10, 26, 1, 13, 23, 29, 35, 15, 14, 16, 36, 33, 31, 24, 30	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Freshman	25, 20, 6, 18, 12, 11, 37, 15, 29, 14, 38, 23, 16, 30, 36, 39	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Sophomore	19, 17, 28, 4, 18, 23, 14, 15, 29, 22, 24, 16, 33, 30, 34, 39	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Junior	2, 8, 28, 18, 1, 15, 22, 29, 14, 23, 36, 34, 30, 39, 16, 24	recall 5, inference 0, analysis 5, synthesis 6
College Senior	21, 28, 4, 18, 37, 23, 14, 15, 29, 22, 40, 24, 36, 30, 16, 33	recall 4, inference 1, analysis 6, synthesis 5
Graduate / PhD	28, 4, 18, 1, 12, 13, 29, 14, 23, 35, 22, 36, 24, 16, 30, 33	recall 4, inference 2, analysis 5, synthesis 5

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXIII,” how does Shelley show the wedding night and its catastrophe? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the foreshadowing you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XXIII, how does Shelley develop the idea of the wedding night and its catastrophe? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the foreshadowing in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.5, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XXIII develops the idea of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of foreshadowing and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXIII (where it begins, turns and ends) and its foreshadowing shape the reader's understanding of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXIII suggests about the wedding night and its catastrophe. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's foreshadowing and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses foreshadowing in Chapter XXIII to complicate the reader's understanding of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXIII within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the wedding night and its catastrophe responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXIII alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the wedding night and its catastrophe follows or bends those conventions, using the foreshadowing as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXIII and its treatment of the wedding night and its catastrophe. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's foreshadowing and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXIII as evidence for a larger claim about the wedding night and its catastrophe in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXIII as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the wedding night and its catastrophe. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. As I spoke, rage sparkled in my eyes; the magistrate was intimidated:—"You are mistaken," said he, "I will exert myself; and if it is in my power to seize the monster, be assured that he shall suffer punishment proportionate to his crimes.

   As used in the text, what does the word "intimidated" most nearly mean?

   A. frightened; made fearful

B. calmed

C. be fond of; be attached to

D. a heavy rain

2. She left me, and I continued some time walking up and down the passages of the house, and inspecting every corner that might afford a retreat to my adversary. But I discovered no trace of him, and was beginning to conjecture that some fortunate chance had intervened to prevent the execution of his menaces; when suddenly I heard a shrill and dreadful scream. It came from the room into which Elizabeth had retired. As I heard it, the whole truth rushed into my mind, my arms dropped, the motion of every muscle and fibre was suspended; I could feel the blood trickling in my veins, and tingling in the extremities of my limbs. This state lasted but for an instant; the scream was repeated, and I rushed into the room.

Which choice best states a central concern of "Chapter XXIII"?

A. Loneliness and the desire for a friend

B. First experiences of the senses

C. Delay and dread

D. The wedding night and its catastrophe

SAT key: 1. A (frightened; made fearful); 2. D (The wedding night and its catastrophe)

Lesson 31: Chapter XXIV

Focus: the final reckoning

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “Chapter XXIV” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Common Core RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1, L.9-10.4

Critical voice: “The scene in the cabin of Walton's ship—the more than mortal enthusiasm and grandeur of the Being's speech over the dead body of his victim—is an exhibition of intellectual and imaginative power, which we think the reader will acknowledge has seldom been surpassed.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 5; public domain). Exit ticket: name one rhetorical move in the creature's last speech that earns Shelley's "grandeur." Objective: Evaluate the creature's final speech as the novel's climax. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3

Content note (suicide (planned self-destruction), the word “abortion”, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): The creature vows to destroy himself on a funeral pyre, and calls himself “an abortion” (meaning a failed or monstrous creation). Use the safe-messaging script; the word is not on the vocabulary list. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…me in my work. Let the cursed and hellish monster drink deep of agony; let him feel the despair…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: The ending includes a character planning to end his own life. Support is available if this is hard to read.
Suggested language: “What does the creature's final speech claim about responsibility?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Let a counselor know in advance that this chapter is being taught.

Teacher only · spoilers

Walton resumes writing. The ice traps the ship; the crew demands to turn south, and Walton yields. Victor dies. The creature appears over his body, mourns, condemns himself, and vows to destroy himself on a funeral pyre before vanishing into darkness.

Background: Walton's choice to return is a moral decision, contrasting with Victor's refusal to stop.

Significance: The ending lets Walton learn the lesson, while the creature's final speech gives him the last eloquent word.

Lesson plan and lecture script (90 minutes)

0–8 min · Bell-ringer · You do (8 min)
Students write to the bell-ringer, then pair-share.
Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it? Write for five minutes. Starters: I think... because... / This connects to ambition and knowledge because.... Content note before we start: The ending includes a character planning to end his own life. Support is available if this is hard to read. If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today.
Prompt: Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it?
Sentence starters: I think… because… · This connects to ambition and knowledge because…
Strong response: A strong response takes a position and anticipates this: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition."

8–18 min · Vocabulary with etymology notes · I do (10 min)
Five key words in context, with verified word histories.
Today's words: curdles — thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold; disencumbered — freed from a burden; execrate — to curse; to hate; congeal — to thicken or freeze (here, with horror); glimmers — shines faintly. “curdles”: Frequentative of curd (v.) "to form curds"; English, not from Latin cura. “execrate”: Origin: Latin exsecrārī.
Words: curdles: thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold · disencumbered: freed from a burden · execrate: to curse; to hate · congeal: to thicken or freeze (here, with horror) · glimmers: shines faintly

18–28 min · Background and context · I do (10 min)
Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Walton's choice to return is a moral decision, contrasting with Victor's refusal to stop. The ending lets Walton learn the lesson, while the creature's final speech gives him the last eloquent word. Structure: The frame closes: Walton's letters resume; the creature appears over Victor's body. Characterization: The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred. Setting: The Arctic ice traps the ship; the crew demands return. Watch for light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “to execute this dear revenge, will I again behold the sun, and tread the green herbage of earth, which otherwise should vanish” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 5).

28–40 min · I do: modeled close reading · I do (12 min)
Model the close reading of the anchor quotation using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition" slowly and put it in my own words: Dying, Victor tells Walton to seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition. Next, craft. I notice the calm, moral tone of a dying man, a sharp change from his fevered story. The strongest word is "ambition": it names the fault that drove him to create life and destroy his family. Then, effect. What final advice does Victor give Walton, and does he mean it? My answer: Victor warns against ambition, yet in the next breath admits another man may succeed where he failed; his mixed message leaves Walton, who turns his ship home, to choose wisely where Victor could not.

> Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57)

Think-aloud: First, meaning. I read "Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition" slowly and put it in my own words: Dying, Victor tells Walton to seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition. Next, craft. I notice the calm, moral tone of a dying man, a sharp change from his fevered story. The strongest word is "ambition": it names the fault that drove him to create life and destroy his family. Then, effect. What final advice does Victor give Walton, and does he mean it? My answer: Victor warns against ambition, yet in the next breath admits another man may succeed where he failed; his mixed message leaves Walton, who turns his ship home, to choose wisely where Victor could not.

40–55 min · We do: guided annotation · We do (15 min)
Guided analysis of a second quotation; expected answers given.
Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest? Expected: The ending is open: we don't see the creature die. The darkness echoes the novel's theme of the unknown. Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge? Expected: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." (The ending: ambiguous death.)

> He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75)

Ask: What words in this line stand out, and what do they suggest?
Expected answer: The ending is open: we don't see the creature die. The darkness echoes the novel's theme of the unknown.
Ask: How does this line connect to ambition and knowledge?
Expected answer: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." (The ending: ambiguous death.)

55–70 min · You do: independent annotation · You do (15 min)
Independent annotation and a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph (exemplar given).
Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the final reckoning? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of the final reckoning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. When the text says "He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75), it shows this directly. Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.
Task: Annotate the chapter for structure, characterization (three marks with a margin note each), then write one claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph: what does this chapter suggest about the final reckoning? Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of the final reckoning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.)
Exemplar: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. When the text says "He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance" (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75), it shows this directly. Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

70–80 min · Discussion · We do (10 min)
Structured discussion from the 30 tiered questions, with facilitation notes.
Anchor question: Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it? Ask: does Walton learn the lesson? Point to his decision to turn back.
Anchor question: Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it?
Facilitation: Ask: does Walton learn the lesson? Point to his decision to turn back.

80–87 min · Exit ticket / chapter quiz · You do (7 min)
Chapter quiz in the app and an exit ticket (answer given).
Chapter quiz in the app, then: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the final reckoning? Support it with one short quotation. Model answer: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. ("He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance", Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.
Exit ticket: In one sentence, what does this chapter suggest about the final reckoning? Support it with one short quotation.
Answer: Model answer: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. ("He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance", Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75). Accept any defensible claim backed by a quotation from the chapter; the answer key for the quiz is in the Quiz section.

> 87–90 min · Closure · I do (3 min)
> Summarize the lesson and preview the next reading.
> Today we saw how structure shapes the final reckoning. Key takeaway: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition."

Total: 90 minutes.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Structure: The frame closes: Walton's letters resume; the creature appears over Victor's body.
- Characterization: The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred.
- Setting: The Arctic ice traps the ship; the crew demands return.

Themes and how they develop

- ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition."

Symbols and motifs

- light and fire: Light stands for knowledge and fire for its double edge: warmth and burning. Victor seeks the "light" of discovery; the creature discovers fire and is burned by it. In this chapter: “to execute this dear revenge, will I again behold the sun, and tread the green herbage of earth, which otherwise should vanish” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 5).
- sublime nature: Mountains, glaciers, storms and lakes reflect and sometimes soothe the characters' feelings; the sublime is both comfort and terror. In this chapter: “laugh. It rung on my ears long and heavily; the mountains reechoed it, and I felt as if all hell surrounded me” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 7).

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) Victor's lesson; partly retracted.
- “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) The ending: ambiguous death.
- “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74) The creature's longing for release.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief.
Evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75)
Reasoning: Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

Vocabulary with etymology notes

Word	Definition (in this sentence)	In context	Word history
curdles (verb)	thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold	You have read this strange and terrific story, Margaret; and do you not feel your blood congeal with horror, like that which even now curdles mine?	"curdles": Frequentative of curd (v.) "to form curds"; English, not from Latin cura. (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/curdle)
disencumbered (verb)	freed from a burden	But this was not the time for delay: I disencumbered the dogs of their dead companion, gave them a plentiful portion of food; and, after an hour's rest, which was absolutely necessary, and yet which was bitterly irksome to me, I continued my route.
execrate (verb)	to curse; to hate	Why do you not execrate the rustic who sought to destroy the saviour of his child?	"execrate": Origin: Latin exsecrārī. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/execrate#Etymology)
congeal (verb)	to thicken or freeze (here, with horror)	You have read this strange and terrific story, Margaret; and do you not feel your blood congeal with horror, like that which even now curdles mine?
glimmers (verb)	shines faintly	Frankenstein has daily declined in health: a feverish fire still glimmers in his eyes; but he is exhausted, and, when suddenly roused to any exertion, he speedily sinks again into apparent lifelessness.
scaring (adjective)	frightening	I approached this tremendous being; I dared not again raise my eyes to his face, there was something so scaring and unearthly in his ugliness.	"scaring": Origin of "scare": Middle English sker. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/scare#Etymology)
tardily (adverb)	slowly; late	You will find near this place, if you follow not too tardily, a dead hare; eat, and be refreshed.	"tardily": tardy + -ly; tardy is from Old French tardif, from Latin tardus "slow." (Not from ardere "to burn.") (Online Etymology Dictionary (hand-checked note), https://www.etymonline.com/word/tardy)
participated (verb)	shared with others	When I first sought it, it was the love of virtue, the feelings of happiness and affection with which my whole being	"participated": Origin of "participate": Latin participātus. (Liber et Libri origin

		overflowed, that I wished to be participated.	note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/participate#Etymology)
strenuously (adverb)	in a strenuous manner; strongly or vigorously	I spoke; I told them to retire, and consider of what had been said: that I would not lead them farther north, if they strenuously desired the contrary; but that I hoped that, with reflection, their courage would return.
lessening (verb)	making smaller or less	The work was soon finished: in a few minutes a tumultuous sea rolled between me and my enemy, and I was left drifting on a scattered piece of ice, that was continually lessening, and thus preparing for me a hideous death.	"lessening": Origin of "lessen": an English formation from less + -en. (Liber et Libri origin note, https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/lessen#Etymology)

Discussion questions

1. Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it?
2. Where does point of view appear in this chapter, and what effect does it have? Point to one passage.
3. How does this chapter connect to the book's larger concern with the sublime power of nature?

Classroom discussion questions (30, tiered)

Wait time after every question (3 s for DOK 1, 5 s for DOK 2, 8 to 10 s for DOK 3 and 4); think-pair-share on DOK 3 and 4; answer each response with a follow-up probe; close with student-generated questions. Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What do Walton's crew demand? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: To turn back south
2. How does Walton respond? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He agrees to return
3. What happens to Victor? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: He dies on the ship
4. What does the creature plan to do? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Destroy himself on a funeral pyre
5. Whose voice ends the story? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Walton's, recording the creature's departure
6. Retell the three most important events of "Chapter XXIV" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Walton resumes writing. The ice traps the ship; the crew demands to turn south, and Walton yields. Victor dies. The creature appears over his body, mourns, condemns himself, and vows to destroy himself on a funeral pyre before vanishing into darkness.

7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “Chapter XXIV”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: Names and actions taken from the chapter; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “Chapter XXIV” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the chapter.
9. Reread: “You have read this strange and terrific story, Margaret; and do you not feel your blood congeal with horror, like that which even now curdles mine?” What does “curdles” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: curdles: thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold.
10. Reread: “But this was not the time for delay: I disencumbered the dogs of their dead companion, gave them a plentiful portion of food; and, after an hour’s rest, which was absolutely necessary, and yet which was bitterly irksome…” What does “disencumbered” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: disencumbered: freed from a burden.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “Chapter XXIV” suggest about the final reckoning? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: The ending lets Walton learn the lesson, while the creature's final speech gives him the last eloquent word.
2. Find one example of point of view in this chapter. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the theme in this chapter shape what we understand about the final reckoning? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57): Victor's lesson; partly retracted. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “What his feelings were whom I pursued I cannot know.”, why might Shelley have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.4, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.4] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Chapter XXIV”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Walton resumes writing. The ice traps the ship; the crew demands to turn south, and Walton yields. Victor dies. The creature appears over his body, mourns, condemns himself, and vows to destroy himself on a funeral pyre before vanishing into darkness.
6. How does “Chapter XXIV” build on “Chapter XXIII”? Name one link of cause and effect. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous chapter.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75): The ending: ambiguous death. On structure: The frame closes: Walton's letters resume; the creature appears over Victor's body. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74): The creature's longing for release. On characterization: The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Does Walton learn from Victor? What evidence shows it?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does irony appear, and how does it connect this chapter to the larger concern with the sublime power of nature? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57): Victor's lesson; partly retracted. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Walton's choice to return is a moral decision, contrasting with Victor's refusal to stop. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the chapter? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75): The ending: ambiguous death. On setting: The Arctic ice traps the ship; the crew demands return. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “The ending lets Walton learn the lesson, while the creature's final speech gives him the last eloquent word.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the chapter. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74): The creature's longing for release. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this chapter acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57): Victor's lesson; partly retracted. On characterization: The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “Chapter XXIV” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about the final reckoning? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75): The ending: ambiguous death. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “Chapter XXIV”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74): The creature's longing for release. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this chapter to the costs of unchecked ambition: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Shelley need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57): Victor's lesson; partly retracted. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the point of view in this chapter effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.6, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75): The ending: ambiguous death. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Chapter XXIV” treats the final reckoning with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Frankenstein see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74): The creature's longing for release. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. As the final chapter, does this ending resolve the sublime power of nature? Argue whether the ending is earned. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.5, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57): Victor's lesson; partly retracted. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this chapter (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about the final reckoning? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75): The ending: ambiguous death. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Mary Shelley about this chapter, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Useful evidence: “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74): The creature's longing for release. Theme link: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition." Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Theme: statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true

Chapter quiz: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75: "He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in _____ and distance"
   Key: darkness
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57: "Seek happiness in _____, and avoid ambition"
   Key: tranquillity
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 25: "You took me on board when my vigour was exhausted, and I should soon have sunk under my multiplied hardships into a death which I still dread—for my task is _____." Word bank: distorted, stretched, unfulfilled, adjuration
   Key: unfulfilled
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I approached this tremendous being; I dared not again raise my eyes to his face, there was something so _____ and unearthly in his ugliness." Word bank: execrate, disencumbered, curdles, scaring
   Key: scaring
5. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "When I first sought it, it was the love of virtue, the feelings of happiness and affection with which my whole being overflowed, that I wished to be _____." Word bank: execrate, disencumbered, curdles, participated
   Key: participated
6. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74: "I shall die, and what I now feel be no _____ felt"
   Key: longer
7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "But this was not the time for delay: I disencumbered the dogs of their dead companion, gave them a plentiful portion of food; and, after an hour's rest, which was absolutely necessary, and yet which was bitterly irksome…", what does "disencumbered" most nearly mean?
   A. summon into action or bring into existence, often as if by magic
   B. to block off
   C. uselessness as a consequence of having no practical result
   D. freed from a burden
   Key: D (freed from a burden)
8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 18? "Some weeks before this period I had procured a sledge and dogs, and thus traversed the snows with _____ speed."
   A. situation
   B. apparition
   C. inconceivable
   D. adjuration
   Key: C (inconceivable)
9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What happens to Victor?
   A. He returns to Geneva
   B. He kills the creature
   C. He dies on the ship

D. He marries again

Key: C (He dies on the ship)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] How does Walton respond?

A. He leaves the ship

B. He punishes them

C. He refuses

D. He agrees to return

Key: D (He agrees to return)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 34 reveal about the character or situation? “On every point of general literature he displays unbounded knowledge, and a quick and piercing apprehension.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 34) accurately and quotes “apprehension” and “literature”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “I provided myself with a sum of money, together with a few jewels which had belonged to my mother, and departed.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 2) accurately and quotes “together” and “provided”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Victor's lesson; partly retracted. The words “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 42 shapes its tone: “He endeavours to fill me with hope; and talks as if life were a possession which he valued.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 42) accurately and quotes “possession” and “endeavours”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 37 shapes its tone: ““I thank you, Walton,” he said, “for your kind intentions towards so miserable a wretch; but when you speak of new ties, and fresh affections, think you that any can replace those who are gone?” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 37) accurately and quotes “affections” and “intentions”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “A gigantic monster, they said, had arrived the night before, armed with a gun and many pistols; putting to flight the inhabitants of a solitary cottage, through fear of his terrific appearance." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 18) accurately and quotes "inhabitants" and "appearance", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "Frankenstein has daily declined in health: a feverish fire still _____ in his eyes; but he is exhausted, and, when suddenly roused to any exertion, he speedily sinks again into apparent lifelessness." Word bank: curdles, disencumbered, execrate, glimmers

    Key: glimmers

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "Why do you not execrate the rustic who sought to destroy the saviour of his child?", what does "execrate" most nearly mean?

    A. turning aside; straying

    B. capable of being borne or endured

    C. to curse; to hate

    D. going on board a ship to start a voyage

    Key: C (to curse; to hate)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What does the creature plan to do?

    A. Destroy himself on a funeral pyre

    B. Rule the Arctic

    C. Go to London

    D. Create a mate

    Key: A (Destroy himself on a funeral pyre)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Whose voice ends the story?

    A. Elizabeth's

    B. Victor's

    C. Walton's, recording the creature's departure

    D. Clerval's

    Key: C (Walton's, recording the creature's departure)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 1: "My present _____ was one in which all voluntary thought was swallowed up and lost." Word bank: distinguished, difficulty, unfulfilled, situation

    Key: situation

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 7 shapes its tone: "Surely in that moment I should have been possessed by frenzy, and have destroyed my miserable existence, but that my vow was heard, and that I was reserved for vengeance." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 7) accurately and quotes "destroyed" and "existence", saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of nature versus nurture: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 50 to the story's treatment of the sublime power of nature: “They retired, and I turned towards my friend; but he was sunk in languor, and almost deprived of life.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 50) accurately and quotes “deprived” and “retired”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the sublime power of nature and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the sublime power of nature: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 6? “I had begun my _____ with solemnity, and an awe which almost assured me that the shades of my murdered friends heard and approved my devotion; but the furies possessed me as I concluded, and rage choked my utterance.”
    A. population
    B. inconceivable
    C. adjuration
    D. difficulty

    Key: C (adjuration)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 33? “Oh, no! the only joy that he can now know will be when he composes his _____ spirit to peace and death.”
    A. departed
    B. situation
    C. apparition
    D. shattered

    Key: D (shattered)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “You have read this strange and terrific story, Margaret; and do you not feel your blood congeal with horror, like that which even now curdles mine?”, what does “congeal” most nearly mean?
    A. to thicken or freeze (here, with horror)
    B. incapable of being passed
    C. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality
    D. made easier

    Key: A (to thicken or freeze (here, with horror))

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “O blessed sleep! often, when most miserable, I sank to repose, and my dreams lulled me even to rapture.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “miserable” and “blessed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of creation and responsibility: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 26 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “And do I dare to ask of you to undertake my pilgrimage, to endure the hardships that I have undergone?” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 26) accurately and quotes “pilgrimage” and “undertake”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) bears it out: Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open. But “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74) complicates it, because here the text shows the creature's longing for release. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.6] What do Walton's crew demand?

    A. To find the creature

    B. More pay

    C. To land in Russia

    D. To turn back south

    Key: D (To turn back south)

31. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 11: “I followed, when I could, the courses of the rivers; but the daemon generally avoided these, as it was here that the _____ of the country chiefly collected.” Word bank: population, inequalities, treachery, miseries

    Key: population

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". The words “Chapter XXIV” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.6] Connect this passage from Chapter XXIV, paragraph 60 to the story's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship: “In the meantime he told me, that my friend had certainly not many hours to live.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 60) accurately and quotes “certainly” and “meantime”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to isolation and the need for companionship and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of isolation and the need for companionship: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

34. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What can you infer from this line? “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The ending: ambiguous death. The words “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

35. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57)
    A. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.
    B. The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel.
    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.
    D. Revulsion at his labor.

    Key: A (Victor's lesson; partly retracted.)

36. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred.
    A. Personification
    B. Alliteration
    C. Allusion
    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74)
    A. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.
    B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.
    C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.
    D. The creature's longing for release.

    Key: D (The creature's longing for release.)

38. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You will find near this place, if you follow not too _____, a dead hare; eat, and be refreshed.” Word bank: curdles, execrate, disencumbered, tardily

    Key: tardily

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIV”?
    A. The wedding night and its catastrophe
    B. The first spark of obsession
    C. The final reckoning
    D. First experiences of the senses

    Key: C (The final reckoning)

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.6] What does this passage most clearly show? “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75)
    A. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.
    B. The ending: ambiguous death.
    C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.
    D. Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.

Key: B (The ending: ambiguous death.)

41. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Victor's lesson; partly retracted. The words “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The creature's longing for release. The words “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

43. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.6] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? The frame closes: Walton's letters resume; the creature appears over Victor's body.

    A. Tone / mood

    B. Irony

    C. Structure

    D. Diction / vocabulary

    Key: C (Structure)

44. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The ending: ambiguous death. The words “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16	recall 10, inference 3, analysis 2, synthesis 1
HS Freshman	3, 17, 18, 19, 9, 5, 8, 20, 21, 2, 11, 12, 22, 15, 14, 23	recall 10, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 1
HS Sophomore	7, 24, 17, 3, 25, 26, 20, 18, 9, 11, 12, 27, 15, 22, 28, 29	recall 9, inference 2, analysis 3, synthesis 2
HS Junior	19, 5, 9, 6, 10, 30, 31, 3, 11, 12, 27, 22, 15, 14, 32, 23	recall 8, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 2
HS Senior	30, 9, 24, 4, 17, 20, 11, 13, 12, 14, 22, 15, 27, 33, 32, 16	recall 6, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 3
AP

	30, 25, 5, 17, 34, 12, 35, 14, 22, 15, 27, 36, 29, 28, 23, 16	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 5, synthesis 4
College Freshman	17, 24, 3, 30, 11, 35, 37, 14, 27, 15, 22, 32, 23, 28, 33, 16	recall 4, inference 3, analysis 4, synthesis 5
College Sophomore	26, 38, 17, 30, 39, 40, 15, 14, 27, 22, 33, 23, 28, 41, 16, 29	recall 4, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Junior	30, 19, 17, 10, 3, 39, 27, 22, 14, 15, 28, 41, 23, 29, 16, 33	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 4, synthesis 6
College Senior	25, 17, 4, 30, 10, 39, 11, 14, 15, 22, 42, 16, 29, 33, 23, 28	recall 5, inference 2, analysis 4, synthesis 5
Graduate / PhD	38, 17, 30, 10, 20, 12, 43, 15, 14, 22, 29, 16, 33, 44, 28, 23	recall 5, inference 1, analysis 4, synthesis 6

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Chapter XXIV,” how does Shelley show the final reckoning? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): In Chapter XXIV, how does Shelley develop the idea of the final reckoning? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the chapter helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.6, W.9-10.1): Analyze how Chapter XXIV develops the idea of the final reckoning. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and theme shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1): Analyze how the structure of Chapter XXIV (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of the final reckoning. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Two readers disagree about what Chapter XXIV suggests about the final reckoning. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the chapter's point of view and theme), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Mary Shelley uses point of view in Chapter XXIV to complicate the reader's understanding of the final reckoning. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate Chapter XXIV within its historical and literary context and argue how the chapter's treatment of the final reckoning responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read Chapter XXIV alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the chapter's handling of the final reckoning follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Chapter XXIV and its treatment of the final reckoning. State your method, show what it reveals in the chapter's point of view and theme, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Chapter XXIV as evidence for a larger claim about the final reckoning in Frankenstein. Connect close reading of the chapter to the whole novel, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Chapter XXIV as a hinge in the novel's larger treatment of the final reckoning. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Frankenstein.

SAT-style questions

1. Why do you not execrate the rustic who sought to destroy the saviour of his child?

   As used in the text, what does the word “execrate” most nearly mean?

   A. making smaller or less

   B. to curse; to hate

   C. in a strenuous manner; strongly or vigorously

   D. shared with others

2. What his feelings were whom I pursued I cannot know. Sometimes, indeed, he left marks in writing on the barks of the trees, or cut in stone, that guided me, and instigated my fury. “My reign is not yet over,” (these words were legible in one of these inscriptions;) “you live, and my power is complete. Follow me; I seek the everlasting ices of the north, where you will feel the misery of cold and frost, to which I am impassive. You will find near this place, if you follow not too tardily, a dead hare; eat, and be refreshed. Come on, my enemy; we have yet to wrestle for our lives; but many hard and miserable hours must you endure until that period shall arrive.”

   Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIV”?

   A. Reading and identity

   B. A privileged childhood and family love

   C. Horror at the moment of creation

   D. The final reckoning

SAT key: 1. B (to curse; to hate); 2. D (The final reckoning)

Unit test

Frankenstein: unit test · 90 minutes · 50 questions per rigor version (multiple choice, fill in the blank, short answer). The class rigor level picks the version; student auto-adjust applies.

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

Unit test: item bank (all eleven rigor versions)

1. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 15: “And now, once again, I bid my _____ progeny go forth and prosper”
   Key: hideous
2. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I see them still; the very room, the dark _____, the closed shutters, with the moonlight struggling through, and the sense I had that the glassy lake and white high Alps were beyond.” Word bank: parquet, invocations, retrospection, platitude
   Key: parquet
3. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Who proposed that each guest write a ghost story?
   A. Victor Frankenstein
   B. Shelley's father
   C. Robert Walton
   D. Lord Byron
   Key: D (Lord Byron)
4. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He was forever _____ me to obtain literary reputation, which even on my own part I cared for then, though since I have become infinitely indifferent to it.” Word bank: platitude, retrospection, inciting, invocations
   Key: inciting
5. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Perhaps a corpse would be reanimated; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.”, what does “galvanism” most nearly mean?
   A. electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles
   B. make sense of; assign a meaning to
   C. becoming smaller or less
   D. pure; not mixed with anything else
   Key: A (electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles)
6. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] How did the central image of the novel come to Shelley?
   A. In a vivid waking vision as she lay in bed

B. From a newspaper story

C. In a letter from a friend

D. While reading a play

Key: A (In a vivid waking vision as she lay in bed)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] What does Shelley call her book?

A. Her little ghost

B. Her hideous progeny

C. Her Prometheus

D. Her summer diary

Key: B (Her hideous progeny)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "The dissecting room and the slaughterhouse furnished many of my materials; and often did my human nature turn with loathing from my occupation, whilst, still urged on by an eagerness which perpetually increased, I…", what does "slaughterhouse" most nearly mean?

A. fallen as a duty (on someone)

B. a building where animals are killed for meat

C. sticks out over; hangs over

D. slow; tending to delay

Key: B (a building where animals are killed for meat)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Where does Victor gather materials?

A. The forest

B. The market

C. Charnel houses and dissecting rooms

D. A church garden

Key: C (Charnel houses and dissecting rooms)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "In a thousand ways he smoothed for me the path of knowledge, and made the most _____ enquiries clear and facile to my apprehension." Word bank: charnel, slaughterhouse, abstruse, procrastinate

Key: abstruse

11. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The silver hair and benevolent countenance of the aged cottager won my reverence, while the gentle manners of the girl _____ my love." Word bank: enticed, canopied, incommoded, debilitated

Key: enticed

12. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I had first, however, provided for my sustenance for that day, by a loaf of coarse bread, which I purloined, and a cup with which I could drink, more conveniently than from my hand, of the pure water which flowed by my…", what does "purloined" most nearly mean?

A. move forward, also in the metaphorical sense

B. make off with belongings of others

C. slow; tending to delay

D. seemingly boundless in amount, number, degree, or especially extent

Key: B (make off with belongings of others)

13. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] What pleases him in nature?

    A. Moonlight and birdsong

    B. Thunder

    C. Machines

    D. Crowded towns

    Key: A (Moonlight and birdsong)

14. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 16: "I heard of the _____ of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood"

    Key: division

15. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] How does knowledge affect him?

    A. It increases his sorrow

    B. It makes him content

    C. It makes him rich

    D. It cures his loneliness

    Key: A (It increases his sorrow)

16. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "They made many signs which I did not comprehend; but I saw that her presence diffused gladness through the cottage, dispelling their sorrow as the sun dissipates the morning mists.", what does "dissipates" most nearly mean?

    A. any bird of the family Icteridae whose male is black or predominantly black

    B. makes disappear; scatters

    C. in an unjust manner

    D. cold, damp harshness

    Key: B (makes disappear; scatters)

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.2] What question does the creature ask himself?

    A. Who is Walton?

    B. What was I?

    C. Where is Geneva?

    D. Why is it cold?

    Key: B (What was I?)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Who arrives at the cottage?

    A. Elizabeth

    B. Safie

    C. Clerval

    D. Justine

    Key: B (Safie)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I heard of the slothful Asiatics; of the stupendous genius and mental activity of the Grecians; of the wars and wonderful virtue of the early Romans—of their subsequent degenerating—of the decline of that mighty empire;…", what does "degenerating" most nearly mean?

    A. immune to attack; impregnable

    B. grow worse

C. became ill

D. amazing things; marvels

Key: B (grow worse)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Which book does Felix read to Safie?

A. The Bible

B. Plutarch's Lives

C. Paradise Lost

D. Ruins of Empires

Key: D (Ruins of Empires)

21. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "The _____ upon death and suicide were calculated to fill me with wonder." Word bank: disquisitions, instigate, massacring, undeceiving

Key: disquisitions

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 8: "Hateful day when I _____ life"

Key: received

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why does he choose the blind father first?

A. He cannot judge by appearance

B. He is the strongest

C. He speaks German

D. He has money

Key: A (He cannot judge by appearance)

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Which book is NOT among those he finds?

A. The Sorrows of Young Werther

B. Robinson Crusoe

C. Paradise Lost

D. Plutarch's Lives

Key: B (Robinson Crusoe)

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line "I sympathised with, and partly understood them, but I was unformed in mind; I was dependent on none, and related to none. 'The path of my departure was free'; and there was none to lament my annihilation.", what does "unformed" most nearly mean?

A. a very large seabird of the southern oceans

B. tempted; attracted

C. not having form or shape

D. frightened; made fearful

Key: C (not having form or shape)

26. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line ""The old man paused, and then continued, 'If you will unreservedly confide to me the particulars of your tale, I perhaps may be of use in undeceiving them.", what does "undeceiving" most nearly mean?

A. huge slow-moving masses of ice

B. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief

C. someone who listens attentively

D. speeches or remarks of high praise

Key: B (showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief)

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “I am blind, and cannot judge of your countenance, but there is something in your words, which _____ me that you are sincere.”
Word bank: undeceiving, persuades, massacring, instigate
Key: persuades

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 3: “_____ Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther”
Key: Paradise

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] What document does he discover in his clothing?

A. Victor's laboratory journal

B. A map

C. A letter from Elizabeth

D. A will

Key: A (Victor's laboratory journal)

30. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. The words “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

31. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…” (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

32. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. The words “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

33. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “looked upon Elizabeth as mine —mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11)

A. A question of identity.

B. Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.

C. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

D. Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.

Key: B (Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness.)

34. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. The words “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

35. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. The words “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10)

    A. The creature's longing for release.

    B. Human violence comes first.

    C. The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.

    D. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

    Key: B (Human violence comes first.)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17)

    A. The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before.

    B. His education; each book shapes him.

    C. A question of identity.

    D. Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge.

    Key: C (A question of identity.)

38. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Isolation through allusion. The words “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14)

    A. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

    B. (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.

    C. Claims a relationship and a duty.

    D. The wish to belong.

    Key: D (The wish to belong.)

40. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. The words “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

41. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “In this retreat I devoted the morning to labour” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 20)

    A. The isolation of work.

    B. Psychological insight into grief and guilt.

    C. Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.

    D. Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility.

    Key: A (The isolation of work.)

42. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. The words “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

43. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret. The words “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

44. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XI”? The creature narrates his first days: confused senses, light and dark, hunger and cold.

    A. Structure

    B. Symbolism

    C. Point of view

    D. Metaphor

    Key: C (Point of view)

45. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Claim: For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16).
    Sample answer: Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him. The words “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

46. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job. The words “Hateful day when I received life” (Chapter XV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words.

47. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XV”? The three books he finds (Paradise Lost, Plutarch's Lives, The Sorrows of Werter) give him models of a creator, of public virtue and of feeling.

    A. Allusion

    B. Plot

    C. Hyperbole

    D. Symbolism

    Key: A (Allusion)

48. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. The words “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

49. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “For the creature, knowledge brings not power but a painful awareness of exclusion.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) bears it out: Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him. But “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) complicates it, because here the text shows simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

50. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XV”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: Rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. The words “Chapter XV” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

51. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Blank and dreary on retrospection I call them; they were not so to me then.”, what does “retrospection” most nearly mean?

    A. showing someone the truth; freeing from a false belief

B. looking back on the past

C. to give up

D. lasting a very short time

Key: B (looking back on the past)

52. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Perhaps a corpse would be _____; galvanism had given token of such things: perhaps the component parts of a creature might be manufactured, brought together, and endued with vital warmth.” Word bank: retrospection, platitude, invocations, reanimated

Key: reanimated

53. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.3] Why does Victor make the being gigantic?

A. By accident

B. To frighten enemies

C. The small parts were hard to work with

D. To make it strong for labor

Key: C (The small parts were hard to work with)

54. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Winter, spring, and summer passed away during my labours; but I did not watch the blossom or the expanding leaves—sights which before always yielded me supreme delight—so deeply was I _____ in my occupation.” Word bank: slaughterhouse, charnel, engrossed, procrastinate

Key: engrossed

55. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XI, paragraph 1: “It is with _____ difficulty that I remember the original era of my being”

Key: considerable

56. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: ““Having thus arranged my dwelling, and _____ it with clean straw, I retired; for I saw the figure of a man at a distance, and I remembered too well my treatment the night before, to trust myself in his power.” Word bank: debilitated, incommoded, canopied, carpeted

Key: carpeted

57. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Was I then a monster, a blot upon the earth, from which all men fled, and whom all men _____?” Word bank: recommencing, disowned, narrations, dissipates

Key: disowned

58. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] How does Safie's arrival help the creature?

A. She feeds him

B. She brings him chemistry books

C. He learns language as she is taught

D. She befriends him

Key: C (He learns language as she is taught)

59. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “Felix replied in a cheerful accent, and the old man was recommencing his music, when someone tapped at the door.”, what does “recommencing” most nearly mean?

    A. starting again

    B. encouraging; filling with spirit

    C. spoils; makes impure

    D. the area in which something exists or lives

    Key: A (starting again)

60. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The old man appeared _____, and said some words, which Agatha endeavoured to explain to Safie, and by which he appeared to wish to express that she bestowed on him the greatest delight by her music.” Word bank: recommencing, enraptured, narrations, dissipates

    Key: enraptured

61. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “‘ ‘Heaven forbid! even if you were really criminal; for that can only drive you to desperation, and not instigate you to virtue.”, what does “instigate” most nearly mean?

    A. reflect deeply on a subject

    B. a structure or object that impedes free movement

    C. to urge on; to provoke

    D. an unrestrained expression of emotion

    Key: C (to urge on; to provoke)

62. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “I read of men concerned in public affairs, governing or massacring their species.”, what does “massacring” most nearly mean?

    A. giving as a reason

    B. killing large numbers of people

    C. thickens with horror (of blood); turns cold

    D. brought back to life or strength; revived

    Key: B (killing large numbers of people)

63. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Which character in Milton does he feel most like?

    A. Michael

    B. Eve

    C. Satan, the outcast

    D. Gabriel

    Key: C (Satan, the outcast)

64. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6)

    A. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

    B. Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.

    C. Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.

    D. An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.

Key: D (An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger.)

65. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. The words “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

66. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering. The words “the first misfortune of my life occurred” (Chapter III, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

67. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Benevolence repaid with treachery. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

68. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. The words “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

69. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Victor's fear of consequences. The words “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

70. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Self-blame. The words “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

71. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. The words “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

72. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Claim: The Preface tries to make a shocking story respectable by grounding it in science and morality. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1).

    Sample answer: By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…” (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

73. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter IV”? Victor appears ruined but eloquent; Walton instantly loves him. Watch Victor's warning speech, which is a teacher's speech.

    A. Allusion

    B. Irony

    C. Hyperbole

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

74. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Guilt imagined as hell. The words “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

75. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIII”? Abstract nouns (property, wealth, poverty, rank) enter his vocabulary; knowledge brings grief.

    A. Diction / vocabulary

    B. Setting

    C. Alliteration

    D. Conflict

    Key: A (Diction / vocabulary)

76. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.3] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XV”? He identifies with both Adam and Satan, and reads Victor's journal about his own creation.

    A. Setting

    B. Metaphor

    C. Personification

    D. Characterization

    Key: D (Characterization)

77. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Political education; links to Godwin. The words “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

78. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Isolation through allusion. The words “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: rejection is based on sight; the blind man alone judges him by his words. Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly.

79. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The illustrious poets also, annoyed by the platitude of prose, speedily relinquished their uncongenial task.”, what does “platitude” most nearly mean?

    A. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality

    B. be fond of; be attached to

    C. stories; accounts of events

    D. take in, also metaphorically

    Key: A (dullness; a lack of freshness or originality)

80. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XIII, paragraph 19: “Of what a strange nature is _____! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock”

    Key: knowledge

81. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “At first I had neglected them; but now that I was able to _____ the characters in which they were written, I began to study them with diligence.” Word bank: undeceiving, massacring, decipher, instigate

    Key: decipher

82. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from Chapter XV, paragraph 7: “Like Adam, I was _____ united by no link to any other being in existence”

    Key: apparently

83. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image. The words “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

84. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Satiate" (fully satisfy) and "ardent" reveal appetite-like ambition. Use for a claim about the dangers of curiosity. The words “I shall satiate my ardent curiosity with the sight of a part of the world never before visited” (Letter I, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

85. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. The words “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

86. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “My swelling heart involuntarily pours itself out thus” (Letter III, paragraph 5)

    A. Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel.

    B. Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.

    C. Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay.

D. The wish to belong.

Key: B (Walton admits his feelings run away with him, a trait he shares with Victor.)

87. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Elizabeth is presented as a gift; useful for discussions of how women are treated in the novel. The words “I have a pretty present for my Victor” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

88. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. The words “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

89. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “fire,’ ‘milk,’ ‘bread,’ and ‘wood” (Chapter XII, paragraph 9)

A. The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.

B. Justine was pressured by her confessor; evidence about injustice and power.

C. Repetition of the threat.

D. Victor's fear of consequences.

Key: A (The first words he learns: basic needs and the home.)

90. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Anguish and accusation. The words “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

91. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. The words “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

92. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Elizabeth's honest question. The words “Do you not love another” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

93. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.3] What can you infer from this line? “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
Sample answer: Victor's lesson; partly retracted. The words “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

94. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter IV”? Letter IV turns the frame: Walton meets Victor and becomes the listener. From here the story nests: Walton tells Victor's story, which will contain the creature's.

A. Structure

B. Theme

C. Simile

D. Tone / mood

Key: A (Structure)

95. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: Victor treats science as a spirit controlling him, shifting responsibility. The words “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

96. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IV”? Victor interrupts his story to address Walton directly: "Learn from me." The older Victor judges the younger.

A. Tone / mood

B. Point of view

C. Metaphor

D. Personification

Key: B (Point of view)

97. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Claim: The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1).
Sample answer: He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them. The words “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

98. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XI”? Sensory discovery (the moon, birdsong, fire) told with the wonder of a newborn.

A. Alliteration

B. Imagery

C. Foreshadowing

D. Hyperbole

Key: B (Imagery)

99. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.2] Claim: Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2).
Sample answer: He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.". The words “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

100. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Introduction”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. The words “Introduction” (Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

101. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) bears it out: By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make. But “Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos” (Introduction, paragraph 9) complicates it, because here the text shows shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

102. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature begins as an innocent who meets violence before he commits any.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) bears it out: He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them. But “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) complicates it, because here the text shows fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

103. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XIII”. Use one quotation from each.

    Sample answer: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. The words “Chapter XIII” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

104. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature's rejection by the De Laceys proves that appearance, not character, condemns him.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) bears it out: Old De Lacey, who is blind, responds kindly to his words, but the family sees him and attacks; the scene shows that only someone who cannot see him can judge him fairly. But “Like Adam, I was apparently united by no link to any other being in existence” (Chapter XV, paragraph 7) complicates it, because this detail (isolation through allusion) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

105. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.11-12.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 11: "I saw the pale student of _____ arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together"

    Key: unhallowed

106. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · RL.11-12.4] Complete the quotation from Introduction, paragraph 9: "_____, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos"

    Key: Invention

107. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.11-12.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "I was, besides, endued with a figure _____ deformed and loathsome; I was not even of the same nature as man." Word bank: hideously, dissipates, narrations, recommencing

    Key: hideously

108. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.11-12.4] In the line ""These wonderful narrations inspired me with strange feelings.", what does "narrations" most nearly mean?

    A. a person who prepared and sold medicines and gave medical advice

    B. stories; accounts of events

    C. not engaged in a gainful occupation

    D. beats; throbs (of the heart)

    Key: B (stories; accounts of events)

109. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.11-12.1] What does Felix do when he finds the creature with his father?

    A. Strikes him and drives him away

    B. Calls for a doctor

    C. Shakes his hand

    D. Invites him to dinner

    Key: A (Strikes him and drives him away)

110. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. The words "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

111. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "promised impossibilities, and performed nothing" (Chapter III, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. The words "promised impossibilities, and performed nothing" (Chapter III, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

112. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Political education; links to Godwin. The words "I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

113. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Hateful day when I received life" (Chapter XV, paragraph 8)

    A. Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face.

    B. A newborn's memory; invites sympathy.

C. The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.

D. Waldman's contrast between old and modern science.

Key: C (The creature curses his own birth, echoing Job.)

114. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The argument from isolation. The words “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

115. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXIV”?

A. First experiences of the senses

B. Rejection and the turn to revenge

C. The meeting of two ambitious men

D. The final reckoning

Key: D (The final reckoning)

116. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Preface”? The 1818 Preface is defensive and reasonable. It insists the event is "not of impossible occurrence" and that the book is moral. The tone tells us what readers of 1818 might object to: impiety and absurdity.

A. Personification

B. Tone / mood

C. Conflict

D. Simile

Key: B (Tone / mood)

117. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account. The words “I passed the summer of 1816 in the environs of Geneva” (Preface, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed.

118. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter II”? Victor repeatedly calls natural philosophy his "fate" and narrates with hindsight; the lightning-blasted oak predicts his ruin.

A. Foreshadowing

B. Tone / mood

C. Setting

D. Alliteration

Key: A (Foreshadowing)

119. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Atmospheric recognition scene; the creature as shadow and double. The words “I perceived in the gloom a figure which stole from behind a clump of trees near me” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

120. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? The thunderstorm over the Alps is sublime and reveals the creature by lightning.

A. Theme

B. Point of view

C. Structure

D. Setting

Key: D (Setting)

121. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: After the executions, Victor's guilt paralyzes him rather than moving him to act. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1).

Sample answer: He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere. The words “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness…” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt.

122. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? Victor destroys the female in front of the creature; the creature vows revenge.

A. Tone / mood

B. Hyperbole

C. Setting

D. Conflict

Key: D (Conflict)

123. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?

A. Isolation and the need for companionship

B. Nature versus nurture

C. The costs of unchecked ambition

D. Creation and responsibility

Key: D (Creation and responsibility)

124. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The creature's longing for release. The words “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

125. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. The words “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock" (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden. Learning of "rank, descent, and noble blood" leads him straight to "And what was I?", because society's categories leave no place for him.

126. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.11-12.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "One which would speak to the mysterious fears of our nature, and awaken thrilling horror—one to make the reader dread to look round, to curdle the blood, and quicken the _____ of the heart." Word bank: retrospection, platitude, invocations, beatings

    Key: beatings

127. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last. The words "I became the same happy creature who, a few years ago, loved and beloved by all, had no sorrow or care" (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

128. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? "the never-dying worm alive in my bosom" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29)

    A. The ending: ambiguous death.

    B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

    C. Total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge.

    D. The isolation of work.

    Key: B (Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.)

129. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Which literary element does this describe in "Introduction"? Shelley speaks in her own voice, thirteen years later, as an author looking back. She shapes a legend about herself: a shy young woman among famous poets who cannot think of a story until a vision comes. Ask students what she gains by…

    A. Personification

    B. Point of view

    C. Diction / vocabulary

    D. Irony

    Key: B (Point of view)

130. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in "Chapter II"? Curious and solitary, he reads outdated alchemists (Cornelius Agrippa, Paracelsus, Albertus Magnus) and is not corrected well: his father calls Agrippa "sad trash" without explaining why.

    A. Hyperbole

    B. Allusion

    C. Characterization

    D. Alliteration

    Key: C (Characterization)

131. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor's motive for creating life is the desire to be honored, not to care for what he creates. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8).

Sample answer: He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need. The words “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped.

132. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter IX”? The valley of Chamounix and Mont Blanc: the sublime landscape calms but cannot cure him.

A. Conflict

B. Setting

C. Theme

D. Foreshadowing

Key: B (Setting)

133. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XX”? "I shall be with you on your wedding-night" is a threat Victor misunderstands.

A. Foreshadowing

B. Simile

C. Symbolism

D. Setting

Key: A (Foreshadowing)

134. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? The frame closes: Walton's letters resume; the creature appears over Victor's body.

A. Point of view

B. Structure

C. Alliteration

D. Simile

Key: B (Structure)

135. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. The words “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give. By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make.

136. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) bears it out: Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will. But “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) complicates it, because here the text shows "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

137. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this. The words “My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

138. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. The words “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

139. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15)

A. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

B. The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim.

C. Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.

D. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

Key: C (Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.)

140. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Introduction”?

A. Delay and dread

B. Confrontation between creator and creation

C. Language, knowledge and sorrow

D. The origin of the novel and the idea of creation

Key: D (The origin of the novel and the idea of creation)

141. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I was seized by remorse and the sense of guilt, which hurried me away to a hell of intense tortures” (Chapter IX, paragraph 1)

A. Guilt imagined as hell.

B. Narrated with hindsight; sets a pattern of suffering.

C. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

D. Restoration that the reader suspects cannot last.

Key: A (Guilt imagined as hell.)

142. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19)

A. Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty.

B. "Necessary": sympathy as a need like food.

C. The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.

D. Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.

Key: D (Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.)

143. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74)

A. Places the book in real time and place; compare with the 1831 Introduction's fuller account.

B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

D. The creature's longing for release.

Key: D (The creature's longing for release.)

144. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75)

A. Confession to his father, dismissed as madness.

B. The ending: ambiguous death.

C. The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts.

D. Elizabeth's letter opens with domestic affection, recalling the Preface's stated aim.

Key: B (The ending: ambiguous death.)

145. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: An allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. The words “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature.

146. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter II”? Walton confesses loneliness: he has "no friend." His self-education (from his uncle's travel books) makes him intense but unbalanced.

A. Characterization

B. Alliteration

C. Theme

D. Imagery

Key: A (Characterization)

147. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32).

Sample answer: By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson. The words “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting…” (Letter IV, paragraph 32) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

148. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor describes his obsession as fate, which lets him avoid blame for his choices. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7).

Sample answer: Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will. The words “Natural philosophy is the genius that has regulated my fate” (Chapter II, paragraph 7) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession.

149. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “the first misfortune of my life occurred”

A. Chapter V

B. Chapter III

C. Chapter VI

D. Chapter XVIII

Key: B (Chapter III)

150. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows”

A. Chapter II

B. Chapter X

C. Chapter IX

D. Chapter XXII

Key: C (Chapter IX)

151. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther”

A. Chapter XIV

B. Letter I

C. Chapter XV

D. Chapter XVII

Key: C (Chapter XV)

152. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XVI”? The creature's turn: he burns the cottage, swears war on humanity, and kills William when the boy names Frankenstein.

A. Setting

B. Characterization

C. Symbolism

D. Alliteration

Key: B (Characterization)

153. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of impossible occurrence” (Preface, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: A careful double negative: not "possible," only "not impossible." Evidence that the book presents itself as grounded in real science. The words “The event on which this fiction is founded, has been supposed, by Dr. Darwin, and some of the physiological writers of Germany, as not of…” (Preface, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

154. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: A rhetorical question the novel answers: nature, death and conscience can. The words “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

155. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor frames his whole story as a warning against the kind of ambition Walton shows.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32) bears it out: By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson. But “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) complicates it, because here the text shows ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

156. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The novel's warning stated outright. The words “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

157. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Elizabeth sees what Victor hides; his guilt shows on his face. The words “There is an expression of despair, and sometimes of revenge, in your countenance, that makes me tremble” (Chapter IX, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the sublime: nature offers temporary relief from guilt. He describes "the dead calmness of inaction and certainty" as the most painful state of mind, and his remorse becomes "a hell of intense tortures"; suffering replaces confession, so guilt leads nowhere.

158. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. The words “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

159. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how nature and nurture develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XI”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: He begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. The words “Chapter XI” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

160. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Anguish and accusation. The words “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

161. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The creature's violence is a response to repeated cruelty, though it is still his choice.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) bears it out: After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will. But “Cursed, cursed creator! Why did I live” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 1) complicates it, because this detail (anguish and accusation) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

162. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Destroying the female is the first time Victor thinks about consequences, but it also breaks his promise.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) bears it out: He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.". But “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension" (Chapter XX, paragraph 11) complicates it, because here the text shows the creature reverses the master-slave relationship. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

163. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? "Invention, it must be humbly admitted, does not consist in creating out of void, but out of chaos" (Introduction, paragraph 9)

A. Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.

B. Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment.

C. The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX.

D. His education; each book shapes him.

Key: A (Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.)

164. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? "My dear Victor, do not waste your time upon this; it is sad trash" (Chapter II, paragraph 7)

A. Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.

B. Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it.

C. Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation.

D. The creature reverses the master-slave relationship.

Key: A (Dismissal without explanation; Victor later blames this.)

165. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge" (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The novel's warning stated outright. The words "Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge" (Chapter IV, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

166. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness of inaction and certainty which follows" (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Psychological insight into grief and guilt. The words "Nothing is more painful to the human mind, than, after the feelings have been worked up by a quick succession of events, the dead calmness…" (Chapter IX, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

167. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects" (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature. The words "How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects" (Chapter XI, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

168. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? "Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch's Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther" (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: His education; each book shapes him. The words “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

169. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XXII”?

A. Despair and the sublime

B. A privileged childhood and family love

C. Obsession and the discovery of life

D. A letter, a secret and the wedding

Key: D (A letter, a secret and the wedding)

170. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Shelley frames her novel as a creation that, unlike Victor's, is accepted and sent out with care. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15).

Sample answer: By calling the book her "hideous progeny" she uses the language of parenthood; wishing it to "prosper" is exactly the blessing the creature never receives, so the frame sets up the novel's test of what makers owe what they make. The words “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Shelley calls the book her "hideous progeny" and sends it out into the world, as Victor does his creature; but unlike Victor she wishes it to "prosper." The author models the care the character fails to give.

171. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor abandons his creation at the moment it reaches for him, so the creature's later violence begins in neglect. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3).

Sample answer: The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out. The words “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

172. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

A. Nature versus nurture

B. The costs of unchecked ambition

C. Isolation and the need for companionship

D. Creation and responsibility

Key: D (Creation and responsibility)

173. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Human violence comes first. The words “some fled, some attacked me” (Chapter XI, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight.

174. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XIII”? Learning history and social order, the creature realizes he has no place: no money, family or name.

A. Simile

B. Irony

C. Theme

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

175. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: The De Lacey history shows that even good people suffer injustice, preparing the creature, and the reader, for his own rejection. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3).
Sample answer: The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one.

176. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor's secrecy leaves Elizabeth vulnerable. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6).
Sample answer: He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in. The words “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth.

177. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75).
Sample answer: Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open. The words “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.".

178. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIV”? The creature's final speech mixes grief and self-hatred.

A. Personification

B. Alliteration

C. Allusion

D. Characterization

Key: D (Characterization)

179. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
Sample answer: Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter. The words “I have no friend, Margaret” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

180. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how isolation and companionship develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter II”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: The desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. The words “Letter II” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

181. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Ambiguity ("shape of a man") makes the creature's humanity a question from his first appearance. The words “a being which had the shape of a man, but apparently of gigantic stature” (Letter IV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

182. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Desire for glory, not care; evidence of selfish motives. The words “A new species would bless me as its creator and source” (Chapter IV, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor fantasizes that "a new species would bless me as its creator," revealing the wish to be worshipped. He imagines a new species that "would bless me as its creator," which centers his own glory; nothing in his plans considers what the being will need.

183. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: A newborn's memory; invites sympathy. The words “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being” (Chapter XI, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he begins innocent; humans attack him on sight. He remembers "considerable difficulty" in understanding his first sensations, a newborn's helplessness, and the villagers' response to his approach is that "some fled, some attacked me," so hostility comes from them.

184. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The key threat; Victor assumes it targets himself. The words “I shall be with you on your wedding night” (Chapter XX, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.".

185. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Victor's lesson; partly retracted. The words “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

186. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “The ending leaves the reader to judge, with Victor's lesson undercut by his doubt and the creature's grief.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) bears it out: Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open. But “I shall die, and what I now feel be no longer felt” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 74) complicates it, because here the text shows the creature's longing for release. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

187. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Shelley presents herself as a parent of the book. Use this to connect author and character: both make something "hideous," but only one blesses it. The words “And now, once again, I bid my hideous progeny go forth and prosper” (Introduction, paragraph 15) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

188. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I became myself capable of bestowing animation upon lifeless matter” (Chapter IV, paragraph 4)

A. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

B. Political education; links to Godwin.

C. The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.

D. Clerval's character; he loves nature directly.

Key: C (The discovery itself, told without explanation; Victor withholds the secret.)

189. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Learn from me, if not by my precepts, at least by my example, how dangerous is the acquirement of knowledge” (Chapter IV, paragraph 6)

A. The novel's warning stated outright.

B. Claims a relationship and a duty.

C. Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed.

D. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

Key: A (The novel's warning stated outright.)

190. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “How strange, I thought, that the same cause should produce such opposite effects” (Chapter XI, paragraph 6)

A. Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.

B. Opens with pride in lineage and status.

C. The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing.

D. The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld.

Key: A (Fire's double nature; symbol for knowledge and for the creature.)

191. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I heard of the division of property, of immense wealth and squalid poverty; of rank, descent, and noble blood” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 16)

    A. The ending: ambiguous death.

    B. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.

    C. The isolation of work.

    D. Political education; links to Godwin.

    Key: D (Political education; links to Godwin.)

192. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XIII”?

    A. Despair and the sublime

    B. Language, knowledge and sorrow

    C. The first death and growing guilt

    D. Confrontation between creator and creation

    Key: B (Language, knowledge and sorrow)

193. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Seek happiness in tranquillity, and avoid ambition” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57)

    A. Victor's lesson; partly retracted.

    B. The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel.

    C. "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris.

    D. Revulsion at his labor.

    Key: A (Victor's lesson; partly retracted.)

194. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: A question of identity. The words “And what was I” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 17) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: "Of what a strange nature is knowledge!": knowledge as a burden.

195. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXII”? He prepares to defend himself, not Elizabeth.

    A. Tone / mood

    B. Theme

    C. Foreshadowing

    D. Simile

    Key: C (Foreshadowing)

196. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Walton's loneliness introduces the novel's central human need, which the creature will later voice most powerfully.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) bears it out: His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages. But “I shall kill no albatross” (Letter II, paragraph 6) complicates it, because here the text shows an allusion that promises he will not offend against nature; readers who know Coleridge sense danger. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

197. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The creature will ask for exactly this. Evidence that the need for companionship is universal in the novel. The words “I desire the company of a man who could sympathise with me; whose eyes would reply to mine” (Letter II, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the desire for a sympathetic friend is the thread connecting Walton, Victor and the creature. His wish for someone whose "eyes would reply to mine" names the sympathy every major character lacks, so the novel ties ambition to isolation from its first pages.

198. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter III”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: The "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. The words “Letter III” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

199. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Walton's certainty sets up the novel's warning about human will.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man” (Letter III, paragraph 4) bears it out: Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does. But “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

200. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: "Crown" suggests royal triumph; the promise reads as hubris. The words “success shall crown my endeavours” (Letter III, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the "determined heart and resolved will of man" sounds heroic but is the attitude the novel interrogates. Asking "What can stop the determined heart and resolved will of man?" assumes nothing can; the rest of the book, beginning with the ice that traps his ship, shows that something always does.

201. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Victor concludes guilt from appearance, as others will judge the creature. The words “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation. He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret.

202. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Evaluate this claim about the chapter: “Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) bears it out: He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret. But “William is dead” (Chapter VII, paragraph 4) complicates it, because here the text shows blunt, short sentence in the father's letter. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the chapter, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

203. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak. The words “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul” (Chapter XIX, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: making a second being makes him think about consequences, at last. He says his "heart often sickened at the work of my hands," a sharp contrast to the rapture of the first creation, which shows responsibility arriving too late.

204. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Self-blame. The words “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life” (Chapter XXI, paragraph 9) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor calls himself the cause. He asks whether his "murderous machinations" have killed Henry, naming his own schemes as the cause.

205. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIV”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". The words “Chapter XXIV” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 57) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

206. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.11-12.4] In the line “I felt that blank incapability of invention which is the greatest misery of authorship, when dull Nothing replies to our anxious invocations.”, what does “invocations” most nearly mean?

A. calls or appeals for help or inspiration

B. looking back on the past

C. dullness; a lack of freshness or originality

D. electricity produced by chemical action, used in early experiments on muscles

Key: A (calls or appeals for help or inspiration)

207. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.1] What can you infer from this line? “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned. The words “Of what a strange nature is knowledge! It clings to the mind, when it has once seized on it, like a lichen on the rock” (Chapter XIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

208. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “Paradise Lost, a volume of Plutarch’s Lives, and the Sorrows of Werther” (Chapter XV, paragraph 3)

A. His education; each book shapes him.

B. Short and plain amid his long sentences: the emotional core of the letter.

C. (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity.

D. Shelley's theory of creativity: you build from existing materials, as Victor builds from old bones. Good evidence for a claim about the novel's self-awareness.

Key: A (His education; each book shapes him.)

209. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together”

A. Chapter XVI

B. Introduction

C. Chapter XIV

D. Chapter XVII

Key: B (Introduction)

210. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter II”? "the land of mist and snow" and the albatross come from Coleridge's The Rime of the Ancient Mariner, a poem about a man who commits a crime against nature and must tell his story. Walton's joke sets up Victor as a mariner-like teller.

A. Theme

B. Allusion

C. Setting

D. Structure

Key: B (Allusion)

211. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The heart of Victor's ambition: more than anyone before. The words “more, far more, will I achieve” (Chapter III, paragraph 17) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further.

212. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “It was on a dreary night of November, that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils”

A. Chapter VI

B. Chapter XIX

C. Chapter XIII

D. Chapter V

Key: D (Chapter V)

213. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: The creature's first gesture is reaching; Victor's response is flight. Key evidence that the creature is abandoned before it acts. The words “one hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me, but I escaped” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment.

214. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: The master has become the slave; a reversal the creature will state aloud in Chapter XX. The words “I was the slave of my creature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others.

215. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXII”? Elizabeth's letter asks if he loves another; Victor hints at a "dreadful secret."

A. Symbolism

B. Hyperbole

C. Characterization

D. Diction / vocabulary

Key: C (Characterization)

216. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil forebodings” (Letter I, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
Sample answer: The first sentence already contains a warning (his sister's "evil forebodings"). Strong evidence for foreshadowing. The words “You will rejoice to hear that no disaster has accompanied the commencement of an enterprise which you have regarded with such evil…” (Letter I, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first. His dream of a land "never before visited" and his heart that glows with enthusiasm use the same fevered vocabulary Victor will use about creating life, which invites readers to compare the two men.

217. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how ambition and knowledge develops from an earlier chapter to “Letter IV”. Use one quotation from each.
Sample answer: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. The words “Letter IV” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

218. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
Sample answer: "Divine" means to discover by intuition and also suggests godlike power. The words “The world was to me a secret which I desired to divine” (Chapter II, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: the desire to learn "the secrets of heaven and earth" begins as wonder and becomes obsession. Calling natural philosophy "the genius that has regulated my fate" makes science an outside force, and he blames his father's careless "sad trash" for not stopping him; readers can see a man explaining away his own will.

219. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Milton allusion; the creature casts Victor as a God who failed. The words “I ought to be thy Adam; but I am rather the fallen angel” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument. He says, "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend," placing the cause of his violence in his treatment, and asks Victor to "make me happy" so that he may be "virtuous" again.

220. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Moral reasoning; strong evidence of his goodness. The words “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

221. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Benevolence repaid with treachery. The words “The father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

222. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Felix's sense of justice; it echoes Justine's trial. The words “Felix had accidentally been present at the trial; his horror and indignation were uncontrollable, when he heard the decision of the court” (Chapter XIV, paragraph 4) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the De Laceys, poor and exiled, still have each other; the creature has no one. The family's ruin comes from helping the man whose daughter Felix loves, since "the father of Safie had been the cause of their ruin"; goodness here is no protection.

223. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Fear and disgust pull against each other: the source of his delay. The words “I feared the vengeance of the disappointed fiend, yet I was unable to overcome my repugnance to the task which was enjoined me” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.".

224. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Clerval's character; he loves nature directly. The words “the “very poetry of nature” (Chapter XVIII, paragraph 19) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Victor feels "an insurmountable barrier" between himself and others. He fears "the vengeance of the disappointed fiend" but cannot overcome his "repugnance to the task," and so he drifts; by his own admission he becomes "the slave of my creature.".

225. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Victor's fear of consequences. The words “a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth” (Chapter XX, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?. He fears "a race of devils would be propagated upon the earth," thinking of future people, yet he does it in front of the creature, who answers "I shall be with you on your wedding-night.".

226. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Mocking accusation. The words “with his fiendish finger he pointed towards the corpse of my wife” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 10) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

227. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The ending: ambiguous death. The words “He was soon borne away by the waves, and lost in darkness and distance” (Chapter XXIV, paragraph 75) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor's final advice: "Seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition.". Victor advises "seek happiness in tranquillity and avoid ambition" yet adds that another may succeed; the creature disappears into "darkness and distance," leaving judgment open.

228. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Chapter XV”?

A. Ambition and the hunger for discovery

B. The wedding night and its catastrophe

C. Despair and the sublime

D. Reading and identity

Key: D (Reading and identity)

229. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter VII”? William's murder (told in a letter), Victor's return to Geneva, the glimpse of the creature in the storm, and Justine's arrest.

A. Symbolism

B. Metaphor

C. Plot

D. Alliteration

Key: C (Plot)

230. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “William is dead”

A. Chapter XXI

B. Chapter VII

C. Introduction

D. Chapter XVI

Key: B (Chapter VII)

231. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “It is with considerable difficulty that I remember the original era of my being”

A. Chapter II

B. Chapter XI

C. Letter III

D. Chapter III

Key: B (Chapter XI)

232. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Shot after a rescue; bitter irony. The words “This was then the reward of my benevolence” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 20) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance.

233. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? Victor calls himself the cause.

A. The costs of unchecked ambition

B. Isolation and the need for companionship

C. Nature versus nurture

D. Creation and responsibility

Key: D (Creation and responsibility)

234. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed”

A. Chapter XXIII

B. Chapter XX

C. Chapter XXII

D. Chapter XI

Key: A (Chapter XXIII)

235. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.1] Which literary element does this describe in “Chapter XXIII”? Elizabeth's murder on the wedding night; the creature at the window; the father's death.

A. Diction / vocabulary

B. Hyperbole

C. Plot

D. Irony

Key: C (Plot)

236. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The stated moral purpose. Students can test whether the plot actually shows this, or shows what happens when domestic affection is withheld. The words “the amiableness of domestic affection, and the excellence of universal virtue” (Preface, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The Preface claims the story shows "the amiableness of domestic affection"; keep this phrase on the board. The novel will test it: domestic love is shown, then destroyed. By citing Dr. Darwin and German physiologists it claims the event is "not of impossible occurrence," and by naming domestic affection and virtue as its aims it answers the charge that a horror story is immoral.

237. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: (The 1831 text prints "drank.") Victor calls ambition a drug ("intoxicating draught") and madness. Evidence for the novel's view of obsessive curiosity. The words “Unhappy man! Do you share my madness? Have you drank also of the intoxicating draught” (Letter IV, paragraph 25) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit. By calling Walton's desire an "intoxicating draught" and hoping it will not be "a serpent to sting you," Victor links the pursuit of knowledge to addiction and to the biblical Fall, so everything he tells next is offered as a lesson.

238. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Opens with pride in lineage and status. The words “I am by birth a Genevese; and my family is one of the most distinguished of that republic” (Chapter I, paragraph 1) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty. He describes himself as the center of his parents' devotion and treats Elizabeth as his "present," showing that he received care as his due; when he refuses any care to his own creation, the contrast exposes his failure.

239. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter VIII”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. The words “Chapter VIII” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 22) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act. He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action.

240. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Self-horror learned from others' standards of beauty. The words “how was I terrified, when I viewed myself in a transparent pool” (Chapter XII, paragraph 13) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue. When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught.

241. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Milton's Satan: the hell is internal. The words “I, like the archfiend, bore a hell within me” (Chapter XVI, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: repeated cruelty turns his benevolence into vengeance. After he saves a girl and is shot, he asks bitterly whether "this was then the reward of my benevolence," and soon he bears "a hell within me"; the novel traces how injustice breeds hatred while still making him kill William by his own will.

242. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The argument from isolation. The words “If I have no ties and no affections, hatred and vice must be my portion” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love. He calls sympathy "necessary for my being" and warns that without "ties" and "affections" he must turn to "hatred and vice," linking moral life to belonging.

243. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Confession to his father, dismissed as madness. The words “I am the assassin of those most innocent victims; they died by my machinations” (Chapter XXII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: secrets poison his relationship with Elizabeth. He confesses only in riddles ("I am the assassin") and fixates on the creature's threat to himself, so the one person who loves him never learns the danger she is in.

244. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.11-12.2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I saw the pale student of unhallowed arts kneeling beside the thing he had put together” (Introduction, paragraph 11)

A. Metaphor tying his ruin to the blasted oak.

B. Simile for knowledge that cannot be unlearned.

C. "Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.

D. Repetition of the threat.

Key: C ("Unhallowed" means unholy, and "thing" refuses the creation a name. Students can use this to argue that the novel judges the act of creation as a transgression from its first image.)

245. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Religious, heightened language for exploration; compare later with Victor's rapture. The words “I feel my heart glow with an enthusiasm which elevates me to heaven” (Letter I, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Walton dreams of "a part of the world never before visited." The novel begins with a second Victor before we meet the first.

246. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Which literary element does this describe in “Letter III”? Brief and confident; exclamations replace doubt. The shortness itself contrasts with the dangers implied.

A. Simile

B. Alliteration

C. Tone / mood

D. Structure

Key: C (Tone / mood)

247. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting you, as mine has been” (Letter IV, paragraph 32). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The serpent alludes to Eden: knowledge as temptation and fall. Strong for a theme claim. The words “You seek for knowledge and wisdom, as I once did; and I ardently hope that the gratification of your wishes may not be a serpent to sting…” (Letter IV, paragraph 32) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Victor recognizes himself in Walton and warns him; the story becomes a cautionary tale told for a listener's benefit.

248. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Possessive language; evidence for a claim about Victor's self-centeredness. The words “looked upon Elizabeth as mine—mine to protect, love, and cherish” (Chapter I, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: The parents' "deep consciousness of what they owed towards the being to which they had given life" is the novel's standard of parental duty.

249. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] In this chapter, which theme does the following most directly develop? The first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

A. Creation and responsibility

B. The costs of unchecked ambition

C. Isolation and the need for companionship

D. Nature versus nurture

Key: A (Creation and responsibility)

250. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor's silence after recognizing the creature makes him complicit in the injustice that follows. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29).

Sample answer: He decides that "nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child," so he is certain who did it, yet he lets Justine be accused rather than reveal his secret. The words “Nothing in human shape could have destroyed that fair child” (Chapter VII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the first death caused (indirectly) by Victor's creation.

251. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Biblical image of hell (Isaiah, Mark): remorse as eternal torment. The words “the never-dying worm alive in my bosom” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 29) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

252. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Victor turns Justine's tragedy into a story about his own pain, which shows his self-absorption. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine" (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11).

Sample answer: He claims "the tortures of the accused did not equal mine," even though she is the one executed, so his remorse becomes another form of self-focus rather than action. The words “The tortures of the accused did not equal mine” (Chapter VIII, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: guilt without action: Victor feels remorse but does not act.

253. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Claims a relationship and a duty. The words “Remember, that I am thy creature” (Chapter X, paragraph 12) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: "I was benevolent and good; misery made me a fiend": the novel's clearest statement of the argument.

254. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: The creature develops compassion through observation, proving the capacity for goodness Victor never gave him credit for. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6).

Sample answer: When he realizes that stealing "inflicted pain on the cottagers," he "abstained," choosing others' welfare over his own hunger without being taught. The words “when I found that in doing this I inflicted pain on the cottagers, I abstained” (Chapter XII, paragraph 6) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops nature and nurture: he learns virtue by watching virtue.

255. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “You must create a female for me, with whom I can live in the interchange of those sympathies necessary for my being”

A. Chapter XVIII

B. Chapter X

C. Chapter XVII

D. Chapter IV

Key: C (Chapter XVII)

256. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The wish to belong. The words “I shall feel the affections of a sensitive being, and become linked to the chain of existence and events, from which I am now excluded” (Chapter XVII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: the plea for a companion is the novel's most direct statement of the need for love.

257. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “I am a blasted tree; the bolt has entered my soul”

A. Chapter II

B. Chapter XIX

C. Chapter VI

D. Chapter XVIII

Key: B (Chapter XIX)

258. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.4] Analyze the word choice in “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: The creature reverses the master-slave relationship. The words “Slave, I before reasoned with you, but you have proved yourself unworthy of my condescension” (Chapter XX, paragraph 11) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: is destroying the female responsible or another betrayal?.

259. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.5] Quote identification: in which section does this passage appear? “Have my murderous machinations deprived you also, my dearest Henry, of life”

A. Letter III

B. Chapter XXI

C. Chapter XVII

D. Chapter III

Key: B (Chapter XXI)

260. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.11-12.2] Claim: Elizabeth's murder strips Victor of everything the creature lost, making creator and creation doubles. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14).

Sample answer: He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance. The words “A fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer.

261. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Waldman's contrast between old and modern science. The words “promised impossibilities, and performed nothing” (Chapter III, paragraph 16) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops ambition and knowledge: Waldman says modern scientists "penetrate into the recesses of nature"; Victor answers with a vow to go further. Right after his mother's death he hears Waldman praise modern science and vows "more, far more, will I achieve," showing ambition rushing to fill the space left by loss.

262. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: The turn from ambition to revulsion in one sentence. The words “the beauty of the dream vanished, and breathless horror and disgust filled my heart” (Chapter V, paragraph 3) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: the moment of birth is the moment of abandonment. The creature's "hand was stretched out, seemingly to detain me," a gesture of need, and Victor simply "escaped"; the word "seemingly" shows he does not know what it wants and does not stay to find out.

263. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Victor names his work "selfish": a rare admission and strong evidence. The words “A selfish pursuit had cramped and narrowed me, until your gentleness and affection warmed and opened my senses” (Chapter VI, paragraph 21) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops isolation and companionship: Clerval shows what companionship gives: Victor says a selfish pursuit had "cramped and narrowed" him. Victor credits Clerval's "gentleness and affection" for curing what a "selfish pursuit" had done, so he knows what care is; he has simply not given it to his creation.

264. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Echoes the "lifeless matter" of creation. The words “She was there, lifeless and inanimate, thrown across the bed” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 8) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

265. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.11-12.2] Synthesis: trace how creation and responsibility develops from an earlier chapter to “Chapter XXIII”. Use one quotation from each.

Sample answer: Victor becomes the pursuer: total despair; in the next chapter it becomes a vow of revenge. The words “Chapter XXIII” (Chapter XXIII, paragraph 14) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops creation and responsibility: Victor becomes the pursuer. He says "a fiend had snatched from me every hope of future happiness," the same hopeless isolation the creature described, and like the creature he turns to vengeance.

Rigor version	Items (in order)	Mix
Scaffolded support	1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50	recall 29, inference 12, analysis 6, synthesis 3
HS Freshman	51, 2, 52, 1, 6, 7, 3, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 16, 58, 18, 17, 59, 60, 22, 26, 61, 21, 24, 62, 63, 29, 30, 64, 65, 66, 34, 36, 37, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 42, 72, 73, 74, 44, 75, 76, 47, 46, 48, 77, 78	recall 26, inference 12, analysis 9, synthesis 3
HS Sophomore	79, 1, 6, 3, 5, 2, 7, 16, 20, 80, 18, 14, 59, 27, 81, 28, 62, 24, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 33, 87, 88, 36, 89, 37, 68, 90, 91, 92, 71, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 45, 46, 76, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 50	recall 19, inference 16, analysis 9, synthesis 6
HS Junior	3, 6, 105, 5, 51, 106, 107, 17, 16, 108, 19, 82, 28, 61, 109, 29, 30, 64, 85, 65, 33, 110, 111, 36, 112, 37, 38, 113, 114, 39, 70, 115, 116, 117, 118, 95, 119, 120, 121, 98, 76, 122, 123, 124, 100, 101, 125, 103, 50, 104	recall 16, inference 16, analysis 12, synthesis 6
HS Senior	106, 52, 3, 126, 6, 58, 60, 108, 107, 18, 59, 61, 24, 62, 82, 25, 64, 85, 33, 34, 127, 128, 36, 89, 37, 67, 113, 39, 129, 130, 43, 131, 119, 132, 97, 45, 76, 123, 133, 134, 135, 48, 136, 137, 138, 102, 103, 50, 78, 104	recall 16, inference 12, analysis 12, synthesis 10
AP	79, 52, 3, 57, 107, 15, 24, 22, 29, 83, 139, 140, 88, 141, 36, 37, 142, 113, 93, 143, 144, 117, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 119, 120, 150, 97, 45, 47, 151, 152, 123, 134, 153, 154, 155, 137, 156, 157, 158, 159, 103, 78, 160, 161, 162	recall 9, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 13
College Freshman	126, 52, 3, 7, 17, 108, 62, 63, 109, 163, 140, 164, 165, 141, 166, 167, 37, 168, 38, 92, 169, 170, 72, 145, 147, 95, 43, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 46, 176, 124, 177, 178, 48, 179, 180, 181, 182, 138, 183, 77, 125, 104, 184, 185, 186	recall 9, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 13
College Sophomore	52, 4, 51, 58, 63, 26, 83, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 142, 168, 38, 113, 193, 129, 42, 145, 147, 130, 148, 172, 120, 173, 194, 175, 76, 47, 195, 124, 177, 179, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 138, 157, 183, 104, 160, 203, 204, 205	recall 6, inference 12, analysis 16, synthesis 16
College Junior

	126, 206, 16, 60, 61, 25, 163, 187, 188, 192, 191, 207, 113, 208, 38, 209, 72, 117, 210, 145, 211, 212, 213, 74, 173, 97, 47, 214, 133, 176, 215, 100, 216, 198, 217, 218, 137, 156, 219, 158, 220, 221, 222, 160, 223, 224, 225, 226, 205, 227	recall 6, inference 9, analysis 16, synthesis 19
College Senior	4, 2, 25, 163, 139, 188, 192, 142, 37, 113, 228, 93, 209, 72, 145, 147, 211, 131, 229, 230, 74, 231, 173, 45, 151, 232, 233, 234, 235, 100, 236, 179, 197, 237, 238, 156, 239, 219, 158, 240, 222, 221, 78, 241, 160, 242, 224, 204, 243, 205	recall 3, inference 9, analysis 17, synthesis 21
Graduate / PhD	81, 244, 163, 112, 192, 168, 38, 129, 117, 245, 246, 247, 248, 148, 249, 229, 250, 251, 252, 253, 97, 254, 194, 46, 255, 256, 214, 257, 258, 133, 233, 259, 260, 178, 135, 153, 216, 197, 154, 238, 261, 182, 262, 263, 157, 125, 223, 224, 264, 265	recall 1, inference 6, analysis 27, synthesis 16

Final paper

Frankenstein: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Mary Shelley develops the costs of unchecked ambition across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in Frankenstein and argue how its meaning changes over the novel and why that change matters to creation and responsibility.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in Frankenstein. Argue whether the novel judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether Frankenstein finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of isolation and the need for companionship. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 6 quotations from at least three sections, from the beginning, middle and end. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the chapter and paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.
Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.

Critical voice: "Frightful must it be; for supremely frightful would be the effect of any human endeavour to mock the stupendous mechanism of the Creator of the world." (Mary Shelley, author (Introduction to the revised edition, 1831), Frankenstein; or, The Modern Prometheus (London: Colburn and Bentley, 1831), Author's Introduction, Introduction, the waking-dream paragraph; public domain). Thesis test: does the 1831 author frame ambition as blasphemy, and does the 1818 novel itself make that judgment? Students weigh the author's later frame against Walton's last letters (outside source for HS Senior and up; this introduction is not in the 1818 text). Objective: Final paper Prompt 1: trace the costs of unchecked ambition and argue what the ending suggests. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.2, W.11-12.1, W.11-12.9

Critical voice: “Nor are the crimes and malevolence of the single Being, though indeed withering and tremendous, the offspring of any unaccountable propensity to evil, but flow irresistibly from certain causes fully adequate to their production. They are the children, as it were, of Necessity and Human Nature.” (Percy Bysshe Shelley, poet, "On 'Frankenstein'" (written c.1817; pub. The Athenaeum, 10 Nov 1832), in The Prose Works of Percy Bysshe Shelley (1880), paragraph 2; public domain). Counter-argument starter: use Shelley as the "society made him" reading, then answer the strongest objection (the murders of William and Elizabeth) from the Creature's own words in the last chapter. Objective: Final paper Prompts 3 and 4: judge a character and weigh whether the novel endorses or criticizes its society's treatment of the isolated. Standards: Common Core RL.11-12.3, W.11-12.1, W.11-12.9

Essay assignments

Essay: The costs of unchecked ambition

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Frankenstein teaches about the costs of unchecked ambition. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Mary Shelley develops the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Mary Shelley develops the costs of unchecked ambition across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Frankenstein (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of the costs of unchecked ambition. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mary Shelley's choices in Frankenstein (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of the costs of unchecked ambition, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Frankenstein's treatment of the costs of unchecked ambition in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on the costs of unchecked ambition in Frankenstein, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Creation and responsibility

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Frankenstein teaches about creation and responsibility. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Mary Shelley develops creation and responsibility in Frankenstein. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Mary Shelley develops creation and responsibility across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Frankenstein (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of creation and responsibility. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of creation and responsibility in Frankenstein. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mary Shelley's choices in Frankenstein (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of creation and responsibility, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Frankenstein's treatment of creation and responsibility in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on creation and responsibility in Frankenstein that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on creation and responsibility in Frankenstein. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about creation and responsibility in Frankenstein, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on creation and responsibility in Frankenstein, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Isolation and the need for companionship

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Frankenstein teaches about isolation and the need for companionship. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Mary Shelley develops isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Mary Shelley develops isolation and the need for companionship across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Frankenstein (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of isolation and the need for companionship. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mary Shelley's choices in Frankenstein (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of isolation and the need for companionship, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Frankenstein's treatment of isolation and the need for companionship in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on isolation and the need for companionship in Frankenstein, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: Nature versus nurture

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Frankenstein teaches about nature versus nurture. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Mary Shelley develops nature versus nurture in Frankenstein. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Mary Shelley develops nature versus nurture across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Frankenstein (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of nature versus nurture. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of nature versus nurture in Frankenstein. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mary Shelley's choices in Frankenstein (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of nature versus nurture, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Frankenstein's treatment of nature versus nurture in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on nature versus nurture in Frankenstein that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on nature versus nurture in Frankenstein. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about nature versus nurture in Frankenstein, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on nature versus nurture in Frankenstein, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Essay: The sublime power of nature

Scaffolded support (600 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what Frankenstein teaches about the sublime power of nature. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how Mary Shelley develops the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Common Core: W.9-10.1, RL.9-10.2): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how Mary Shelley develops the sublime power of nature across Frankenstein. Trace the idea through at least three chapters and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.5): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of Frankenstein (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of the sublime power of nature. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Common Core: W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.2): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how Mary Shelley's choices in Frankenstein (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of the sublime power of nature, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places Frankenstein's treatment of the sublime power of nature in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein that reads the novel against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on the sublime power of nature in Frankenstein, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Rubric: Claim · Evidence · Analysis · Organization · Conventions

Original Liber et Libri curriculum. Quotations from the public-domain text. Vocabulary definitions are modern and contextual (curated; based on Princeton WordNet 3.0). Word histories appear only where verified: short origin notes in our own words, with the facts (language, form, meaning) checked against the Online Etymology Dictionary or Wiktionary; no dictionary text is reproduced, and unverified ones are left out. AP and Cambridge entries are our own summaries with links, not College Board or Cambridge text; ICC-WC and LeL IDs are Liber et Libri labels. Included with every curriculum purchase and with Classroom Pro.

Built from curriculum-v5.9.1 (5eecac2).