Grades: Grades 9–12 (scales to graduate via rigor levels). Short story: read whole in one 90-minute lesson (assign longer stories as pre-reading). The scaffolded-support track works from the full text with scaffolds. Weeks: 1. Class days: 2 × 90 minutes (1 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about the end of the Old West?
- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about marriage and change?
- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about comedy of expectation?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Lesson 1: Introduction to The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky

Objective: Students will explain, in a 3-sentence exit ticket, how one fact about Stephen Crane's life or times connects to the end of the Old West in “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”, and will set up a reading journal with a prediction and a question for each of 3 themes (the end of the Old West, marriage and change, comedy of expectation).

Author biography

Stephen Crane was born in Newark, New Jersey, on 1 November 1871, the fourteenth child of a Methodist minister. He worked as a journalist in New York and wrote The Red Badge of Courage (1895), a Civil War story, without having seen war. As a correspondent he survived the sinking of the steamer Commodore off Florida in January 1897, spending some thirty hours in a dinghy, the basis of "The Open Boat." He reported on the Greco-Turkish and Spanish-American wars and died of tuberculosis in Germany on 5 June 1900, aged 28.

Historical and cultural context

By the 1890s the American frontier was closing (the 1890 Census declared it closed), and railroads brought Eastern manners west. Dime stories romanticized gunfighters.

Publication and reception, then and now

Published in McClure's Magazine in February 1898.

Then: Read as a western humour piece.

Now: A parody of the western and a study of the end of the frontier.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Marshal Jack Potter returns by train with his new bride, worried about how the town will take the news. Meanwhile, the drunken gunman Scratchy Wilson is terrorizing the town.

Main themes

- the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
- civilization versus the Wild West.
- marriage and change.

Why it matters

It shows how a genre (the western) changes with history, and teaches students to recognize parody and anticlimax.

Spoilers · teacher only

Scratchy confronts the unarmed Potter, learns he is married, and walks away: "I s'pose it's all off now."

Irony: The story builds to the classic western showdown, and it ends without a shot: Potter is unarmed and Scratchy is defeated by the word "married." Setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out. Characterization: Scratchy, in a flashy shirt from New York, is "a child of the earlier plains" who plays the gunman like a game; Potter is a lawman embarrassed by his own happiness. First, meaning. I read "A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio" slowly and put it in my own words: A newly married couple has boarded the Pullman train at San Antonio, heading west. Next, craft. I notice the plain, almost reporter-like sentence, which treats a wedding trip as an ordinary news item. The strongest word is "married": the marriage is the quiet event that will end the town's gunfight days, so the plain word carries the plot. Then, effect. What does Crane want us to notice about this couple from the start? My answer: Crane opens with something tame and modern, a couple on a fancy train, to show that the tame, settled world from back east is arriving in the West; the old gunfighter will be beaten not by a bullet but by a wife.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Irony: The story builds to the classic western showdown, and it ends without a shot: Potter is unarmed and Scratchy is defeated by the word "married."
- Setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out.
- Characterization: Scratchy, in a flashy shirt from New York, is "a child of the earlier plains" who plays the gunman like a game; Potter is a lawman embarrassed by his own happiness.

Themes and how they develop

- the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

Symbols and motifs

- the funnel-shaped tracks: Scratchy leaves traces that narrow and vanish, like the Old West itself.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) Opening.
- "I s'pose it's all off now" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) The ending.
- "His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) The image.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The marriage ends the Wild West.
Evidence: “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90)

[DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.1] Look for: epithets: a defamatory or abusive word or phrase.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky" suggest about the closing of the frontier? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.2, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.2] Look for: A parody of the Western showdown; often taught with The Open Boat.

2. Find one example of irony in this story. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · RL.9-10.1, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.6] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the setting in this story shape what we understand about the closing of the frontier? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · RL.9-10.3, SL.9-10.1, RL.11-12.3] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage ends the Wild West. Useful evidence: “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2): Opening. On setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The bride was not pretty, nor was she very young.”, why might Crane have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. 11. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.1] What can you infer from this line? “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The ending. The words “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.
12. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.1] What does this passage from paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “And then after a while we'll go forward to the diner and get a big layout.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 6) accurately and quotes “forward” and “layout”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.1] What does this passage from paragraph 36 reveal about the character or situation? “"Say," said he, mystified, "what is this?" His three companions made the introductory gesture of eloquent speech, but the young man at the door forestalled them.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 36) accurately and quotes “introductory” and “forestalled”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It then states the inference in one sentence and backs it with that detail.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 56 shapes its tone: “One man made three gestures at the barkeeper, and the latter, moving like a ghost, handed him a glass and a bottle.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 56) accurately and quotes “barkeeper” and “gestures”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 62 shapes its tone: “Presently they heard from a distance the sound of a shot, followed by three wild yowls.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 62) accurately and quotes “Presently” and “followed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Synthesis: trace how the closing of the frontier develops from the opening of “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.
    Sample answer: Marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

17. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “It could only be _____ by the burning of the new hotel.” Word bank: narrowly, exceeded, epithets, dutifully

    D. He is wanted by the law

    Key: A (He married without telling the town)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 27? “It was a heavy and muscle-bound _____, as that of a man shoeing his first horse.”
    A. appearance
    B. occasions
    C. whirling
    D. business

    Key: D (business)

20. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · RL.9-10.1] Is Potter armed when he meets Scratchy?
    A. Yes, with a rifle
    B. He has a knife
    C. No, he has no gun
    D. Yes, with two pistols

    Key: C (No, he has no gun)

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 18 shapes its tone: “At San Antonio he was like a man hidden in the dark.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 18) accurately and quotes “Antonio” and “hidden”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Connect this passage from paragraph 28 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “Presently the two engines and their long string of coaches rushed into the station of Yellow Sky.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 28) accurately and quotes “Presently” and “engines”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the end of the Old West and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
23. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from paragraph 17: “He was now bringing his bride before an innocent and _____ community.” Word bank: appearance, unsuspecting, Gentleman, occasions
    Key: unsuspecting
24. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] Complete the quotation from paragraph 31: “There were six men at the bar of the "Weary _____" saloon.” Word bank: convenient, astonished, Gentleman, perceived
    Key: Gentleman
25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.1] Claim: The marriage ends the Wild West. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90).
    Sample answer: Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading. The words “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Connect this passage from paragraph 66 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “At sight of the dog, the man paused and raised his revolver humorously.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 66) accurately and quotes “humorously” and “revolver”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the end of the Old West and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze the word choice in “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: The image. The words “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · L.9-10.4] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “To evince surprise at her husband's statement was part of her wifely amiability.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 12) accurately and quotes “amiability” and “statement”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It explains the tone those words create (for example, whether they make the moment tense, ironic or tender) and why the author chose them. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Connect this passage from paragraph 31 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “The barkeeper's dog lay on the board walk that crossed in front of the door.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 31) accurately and quotes “barkeeper's” and “crossed”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the end of the Old West and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

30. [short · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.1] What can you infer from this line? “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening. The words “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Connect this passage from paragraph 71 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “As necessity bade him, he paused for breath or to reload his revolvers.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: A model answer paraphrases the passage (paragraph 71) accurately and quotes “necessity” and “revolvers”, saying what those words show about the speaker or situation at that moment. It links the passage to the end of the Old West and to one other named moment in the story. The unit's reading of the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The traitor to the feelings of Yellow Sky narrowly watched the speeding landscape. "We're nearly there," he said.”, what does “narrowly” most nearly mean?

    A. closely; carefully

    B. a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

    C. someone who offers opposition

    D. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner

    Key: A (closely; carefully)

33. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.1] Which literary element does this describe in “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”? The story builds to the classic western showdown, and it ends without a shot: Potter is unarmed and Scratchy is defeated by the word "married."

    A. Tone / mood

    B. Point of view

    C. Irony

    D. Allusion

    Key: C (Irony)

34. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The ending. The words “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · RL.9-10.1] Evaluate this claim about the story: “The marriage ends the Wild West.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive only in part. In support, “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) bears it out: Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading. But “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) complicates it, because this detail (opening) gives the reader a second explanation to weigh against the claim's reading. So the claim holds only once it is qualified: it explains much of the story, but it has to account for that passage too, which it does not do on its own.

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “It was quite apparent that she had cooked, and that she expected to cook, dutifully.”, what does “dutifully” most nearly mean?

    A. a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

    B. someone who offers opposition

    C. closely; carefully

    D. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner

    Key: D (out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner)

37. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · L.9-10.4] In the line “The name of Jack Potter, his ancient antagonist, entered his mind, and he concluded that it would be a glad thing if he should go to Potter's house and by bombardment induce him to come out and fight.”, what does “antagonist” most nearly mean?

    A. a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

    B. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner

    C. someone who offers opposition

    D. closely; carefully

    Key: C (someone who offers opposition)

38. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · RL.9-10.1] Which literary element does this describe in “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”? The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out.

    A. Personification

    B. Setting

    C. Theme

    D. Point of view

    Key: B (Setting)

39. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · L.9-10.4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Opening. The words “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) are the evidence: their wording makes this point in the text itself. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

40. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · RL.9-10.1] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”?

    A. Enemies reconciled too late

B. Racial pride destroying love

C. Courage and guilt in a small community

D. The closing of the frontier

Key: D (The closing of the frontier)

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.1, W.9-10.1): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky,” how does Crane show the closing of the frontier? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.1, W.9-10.1): In The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, how does Crane develop the idea of the closing of the frontier? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Common Core: RL.9-10.1, W.9-10.1): Analyze how The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky develops the idea of the closing of the frontier. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.5, RL.11-12.1, W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.9): Analyze how the structure of The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of the closing of the frontier. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1, RL.11-12.9): Two readers disagree about what The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggests about the closing of the frontier. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Common Core: RL.11-12.6, W.11-12.1): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Stephen Crane uses irony in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky to complicate the reader's understanding of the closing of the frontier. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Situate The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of the closing of the frontier responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Read The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of the closing of the frontier follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky and its treatment of the closing of the frontier. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky as evidence for a larger claim about the closing of the frontier in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Common Core: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of the closing of the frontier. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky.

SAT-style questions

1. The traitor to the feelings of Yellow Sky narrowly watched the speeding landscape. "We're nearly there," he said.

   As used in the text, what does the word “narrowly” most nearly mean?

   A. closely; carefully

   B. a man who has recently been married

C. be greater in scope or size than some standard

D. a courteous expression (by word or deed) of esteem or regard

2. The bride was not pretty, nor was she very young. She wore a dress of blue cashmere, with small reservations of velvet here and there and with steel buttons abounding. She continually twisted her head to regard her puff sleeves, very stiff, straight, and high. They embarrassed her. It was quite apparent that she had cooked, and that she expected to cook, dutifully. The blushes caused by the careless scrutiny of some passengers as she had entered the car were strange to see upon this plain, under-class countenance, which was drawn in placid, almost emotionless lines.

Which choice best states a central concern of "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky"?

A. Brotherhood against an indifferent sea

B. The closing of the frontier

C. A woman's brief taste of freedom

D. A story so convincing it becomes real

SAT key: 1. A (closely; carefully); 2. B (The closing of the frontier)

Final paper

The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Stephen Crane develops the end of the Old West across The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to marriage and change.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of comedy of expectation. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words

Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.
Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.
