Essential questions

- What does The Yellow Wallpaper suggest about women and medical authority?
- What does The Yellow Wallpaper suggest about confinement and madness?
- What does The Yellow Wallpaper suggest about voice and silence?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Charlotte Perkins Gilman was born in Hartford, Connecticut, on 3 July 1860, a relative of the Beecher family (Harriet Beecher Stowe was her great-aunt). After the birth of her daughter in 1885 she suffered severe depression and in 1887 was treated by the neurologist S. Weir Mitchell with his "rest cure," which forbade intellectual work; she later said it brought her near breakdown. She separated from her husband, moved to California and became a lecturer and writer on women's economic independence (Women and Economics, 1898) and author of the utopian story Herland (1915). Facing incurable cancer, she ended her life on 17 August 1935.

Historical and cultural context

In the nineteenth century, women with depression or "nervous" illness were often prescribed the "rest cure" of the neurologist S. Weir Mitchell: isolation, bed rest, overfeeding and a ban on intellectual work. Gilman underwent a version of it after the birth of her daughter in 1885. Married women had few legal rights, and doctors (usually men) had great authority over their patients.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in The New England Magazine in January 1892. Gilman later said the editor of The Atlantic, Horace Scudder, rejected it, writing that he could not forgive himself if he made others as miserable as he had made himself.

Then: Many readers read it as a horror story about madness; a Boston doctor protested that it could drive readers insane.

Now: A foundational feminist text, rediscovered in the 1970s (the Feminist Press reissued it in 1973), and a classic of psychological horror and the unreliable narrator.

Overview (spoiler-free)

A young mother, taken by her physician husband John to a rented country house for a "rest cure," keeps a secret journal. She is forbidden to write and confined to a former nursery with hideous yellow wallpaper.

Main themes

- oppression of women.

- mental illness and medical authority.
- imprisonment and freedom.

Why it matters

The story helped change how people thought about depression and women's autonomy, and it remains a powerful study of how silencing someone harms them.

Spoilers · teacher only

She becomes convinced a woman is trapped behind the wallpaper's pattern, and in the end she tears it off, identifies with the trapped woman, and creeps around the room as her husband faints.

Model a close reading of one passage using the written think-aloud below.
First, meaning. I read "John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage" slowly and put it in my own words: The narrator says her husband laughs at her, and adds that one expects that in marriage. Next, craft. I notice the tone is light, but "of course" and "one expects" show she has accepted being dismissed as normal. The strongest word is "laughs": laughing is not cruelty exactly, but it refuses to take her seriously, which is the core problem in the story. Then, effect. What does this line show about the narrator's marriage? My answer: Gilman shows how a husband who controls his wife "for her own good" makes her fears seem silly; the casual tone hides a real lack of power.

> John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5)

Lesson 2: The Yellow Wallpaper

Focus: confinement driving a woman into madness

Objective: Students will analyze how point of view develops in “The Yellow Wallpaper” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: AP: see the unit standards

Content note (postpartum depression and psychosis, controlling marriage, suicidal thoughts, suicide, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Postpartum depression and psychosis; controlling marriage; suicidal thoughts. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…and lots of tonics and things, to say nothing of ale and wine and rare meat. Dear John! He l…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes postpartum depression and psychosis; controlling marriage; suicidal thoughts. Support is available if this is hard to read.
Suggested language: “Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?”
Safe messaging: Discuss the character's despair and what the text does with it; do not dwell on methods. Before the lesson, remind students that support is available and how to reach the counselor. Check in privately with any student who seems affected and follow your school's referral protocol. Share with students: If you or someone you know is struggling or thinking about suicide, call or text 988 (Suicide & Crisis Lifeline, U.S.) or talk with a school counselor today. Let a counselor know in advance that this story is being taught.

Teacher only · spoilers

A woman recovering from what her physician husband John calls a 'temporary nervous depression' after childbirth keeps a secret journal during a summer 'rest cure' in an old mansion. Forbidden to write or work, she is confined to a nursery with barred windows and hideous yellow wallpaper. She comes to see a woman trapped behind its pattern. On the last night she tears the paper off to free her, identifies with her, and creeps around the room; John faints at the sight.

Background: Gilman (1892) based it on her own treatment by S. Weir Mitchell, whose 'rest cure' forbade intellectual work. She said she wrote it to save people from being driven crazy.

Significance: A foundational feminist text and a Gale Short Stories for Students (vol. 1) selection.

First, meaning. I read "There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me" slowly and put it in my own words: She insists that the wallpaper holds secrets and that she alone can see them. Next, craft. I notice the claim is private and proud, using "nobody... but me," which cuts her off from everyone else. The strongest word is "nobody": it makes her knowledge feel special but also lonely, the sign of a mind being shut in. Then, effect. What does the narrator mean when she says only she knows the things in the paper? My answer: When she says only she knows the things in the paper, the narrator means her isolation has turned the wallpaper into her private world; what she sees there is really her own trapped situation, which no one around her will acknowledge.

6. Retell the three most important events of “The Yellow Wallpaper” in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A woman recovering from what her physician husband John calls a 'temporary nervous depression' after childbirth keeps a secret journal during a summer 'rest cure' in an old mansion. Forbidden to write or work, she is confined to a nursery with barred windows and hideous yellow wallpaper. She comes to see a woman trapped behind its pattern. On the last night she tears the paper off to free her,…
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in “The Yellow Wallpaper”? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Names and actions taken from the story; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does “The Yellow Wallpaper” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the story.
9. Reread: “Then the floor is scratched and gouged and splintered, the plaster itself is dug out here and there, and this great heavy bed, which is all we found in the room, looks as if it had been through the wars.” What does “splintered” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: splintered: broken into sharp pieces.
10. Reread: “Personally I believe that congenial work, with excitement and change, would do me good.” What does “congenial” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: congenial: pleasant and well suited.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “The Yellow Wallpaper” suggest about confinement driving a woman into madness? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A foundational feminist text and a Gale Short Stories for Students (vol. 1) selection.
2. Find one example of point of view in this story. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: Look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know.
3. How does the symbolism in this story shape what we understand about confinement driving a woman into madness? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Look for objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5): Irony. On symbolism: The wallpaper's pattern becomes bars; the woman behind it is the narrator herself and all women confined. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Then the floor is scratched and gouged and splintered, the plaster itself is dug out here and there, and this great heavy bed, which is all we found in the room, looks as if it…”, why might Gilman have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Yellow Wallpaper”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A woman recovering from what her physician husband John calls a 'temporary nervous depression' after childbirth keeps a secret journal during a summer 'rest cure' in an old mansion. Forbidden to write or work, she is confined to a nursery with barred windows and hideous yellow wallpaper. She comes…

6. As the opening story, what does “The Yellow Wallpaper” set up that the rest of The Yellow Wallpaper will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120): Obsession begins. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257): Her "freedom." Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How would you feel if you were not allowed to do the things that keep you yourself?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does imagery appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with women and medical authority? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5): Irony. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Gilman (1892) based it on her own treatment by S. Weir Mitchell, whose 'rest cure' forbade intellectual work. She said she wrote it to save people from being driven crazy. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120): Obsession begins. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “A foundational feminist text and a Gale Short Stories for Students (vol. 1) selection.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257): Her "freedom." Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this story acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR, AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5): Irony. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “The Yellow Wallpaper” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about confinement driving a woman into madness? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN, AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120): Obsession begins. On point of view: Secret journal entries: the reader sees the narrator's mind deteriorate in real time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “The Yellow Wallpaper”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257): Her "freedom." Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this story to confinement and madness: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Gilman need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5): Irony. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the point of view in this story effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN, AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120): Obsession begins. On point of view: Secret journal entries: the reader sees the narrator's mind deteriorate in real time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. Compare how “The Yellow Wallpaper” treats confinement driving a woman into madness with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does The Yellow Wallpaper see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257): Her "freedom." Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. As the final story, does this ending resolve women and medical authority? Argue whether the ending is earned. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN, AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5): Irony. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this story (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about confinement driving a woman into madness? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120): Obsession begins. Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. What question would you most like to ask Charlotte Perkins Gilman about this story, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Useful evidence: “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257): Her "freedom." Theme link: she is infantilized in a nursery. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Point of view: look for who is telling the story and what that narrator can and cannot know (anchor passage in the We do segment)

   Key: things
3. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In the daytime it is _____ and perplexing.” Word bank: tiresome, provoking, splintered, congenial
   Key: tiresome

4. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 69? “I _____ what a kindly wink the knobs of our big old bureau used to have, and there was one chair that always seemed like a strong friend.”

   A. wonderfully

   B. school

   C. whitewashed

   D. remember

   Key: D (remember)

5. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the narrator's husband's job?

   A. Minister

   B. Physician

   C. Banker

   D. Lawyer

   Key: B (Physician)

6. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 55: “Then he took me in his arms and called me a blessed little goose, and said he would go down cellar if I wished, and have it _____ into the bargain.”

   Word bank: ancestral, brother, immovable, whitewashed

   Key: whitewashed

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does the story end?

   A. She escapes

   B. John faints and she creeps over him

   A. straight

   B. another

   C. enthusiastic

   D. remember

   Key: B (another)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 184 reveal about the character or situation? “Sometimes I think there are a great many women behind, and sometimes only one, and she crawls around fast, and her crawling shakes it all over.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 184) shows the situation turning on confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “sometimes” and “crawling” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 71 reveal about the character or situation? “I suppose when this was used as a playroom they had to take the nursery things out, and no wonder!” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 71) shows the situation turning on confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “playroom” and “suppose” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Obsession begins. The evidence is “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120). This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery.
13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?
    A. “My brother is also a physician, and also of high standing, and he says the same thing.”
    B. “IT is very seldom that mere ordinary people like John and myself secure ancestral halls for the summer.”
    C. “He has no patience with faith, an intense horror of superstition, and he scoffs openly at any talk of things not to be felt and seen and…”
    D. “I sometimes fancy that in my condition if I had less opposition and more society and stimulus—but John says the very worst thing I can do…”

    Key: B (“IT is very seldom that mere ordinary people like John and myself secure ancestral halls for the summer.”)
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 17 shapes its tone: “I sometimes fancy that in my condition if I had less opposition and more society and stimulus—but John says the very worst thing I can do is to think about my condition, and I confess it always makes me feel bad.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “opposition” and “sometimes” (paragraph 17) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
    Sample answer: Her "freedom.". The evidence is “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257). This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “last” and “out” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 143 to the story's treatment of confinement and madness: “The outside pattern is a florid arabesque, reminding one of a fungus.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 143) develops confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “arabesque” and “reminding” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The outside pattern, I mean, and the woman behind it is as plain as can be.” (paragraph 149), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating confinement and madness as central.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is the narrator forbidden to do?

    A. Leave the country

    B. See her baby at all

    C. Eat meat

    D. Work and write

    Key: D (Work and write)

18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 95: "I lie here on this great _____ bed—it is nailed down, I believe—and follow that pattern about by the hour." Word bank: immovable, whitewashed, another, enthusiastic

    Key: immovable

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In which room is the narrator kept?

    A. The library

    B. An upstairs nursery with barred windows

    C. The parlor

    D. The cellar

    Key: B (An upstairs nursery with barred windows)

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 203 shapes its tone: "And I heard him ask Jennie a lot of professional questions about me." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words "professional" and "questions" (paragraph 203) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 98 shapes its tone: "Looked at in one way, each breadth stands alone, the bloated curves and flourishes—a kind of 'debased Romanesque' with delirium tremens—go waddling up and down in isolated columns of fatuity." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words "flourishes" and "isolated" (paragraph 98) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 1: "IT is very seldom that mere ordinary people like John and myself secure _____ halls for the summer." Word bank: straight, immovable, ancestral, school

    Key: ancestral

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 58 to the story's treatment of confinement and madness: "I'm really getting quite fond of the big room, all but that horrid paper." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 58) develops confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words "getting" and "really" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "I think sometimes that if I were only well enough to write a little it would relieve the press of ideas and rest me." (paragraph 61), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating confinement and madness as central.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 123 shapes its tone: "And it is like a woman stooping down and creeping about behind that pattern." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “stooping” and “creeping” (paragraph 123) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

25. [short · inference · DOK 2 · AP: AP-LIT.CHR] What can you infer from this line? “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Irony. The evidence is “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5). This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Claim: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120).

    Sample answer: Early, she remarks that "John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage"; forbidden to work, she fixes on the paper ("There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me") and finally claims "I've got out at last," freedom found only in madness. The evidence is “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120) — Obsession begins. This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 36 to the story's treatment of confinement and madness: “The color is repellant, almost revolting; a smouldering, unclean yellow, strangely faded by the slow-turning sunlight.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 36) develops confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “smouldering” and “strangely” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He knows there is no reason to suffer, and that satisfies him.” (paragraph 44), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating confinement and madness as central.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Synthesis: trace how oppression of women develops from the opening of “The Yellow Wallpaper” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Near the start, “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5) — Irony. Later, “I've got out at last” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 257) — Her "freedom.". She is infantilized in a nursery.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] In the line “It must be very humiliating to be caught creeping by daylight!”, what does “humiliating” most nearly mean?

    A. broken into sharp pieces
    B. making one feel ashamed and foolish
    C. pleasant and well suited
    D. annoying, irritating

    Key: B (making one feel ashamed and foolish)

30. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.NAR] Which literary element does this describe in “The Yellow Wallpaper”? Secret journal entries: the reader sees the narrator's mind deteriorate in real time.

    A. Imagery
    B. Point of view
    C. Foreshadowing
    D. Allusion

    Key: B (Point of view)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 164 to the story's treatment of confinement and madness: “I had no intention of telling him it was because of the wall paper—he would make fun of me.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 164) develops confinement and madness: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “intention” and “telling” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Now we have had a week of fog and rain, and whether the windows are open or not the smell is here.” (paragraph 170), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating confinement and madness as central.

32. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] Which literary element does this describe in “The Yellow Wallpaper”? The wallpaper's pattern becomes bars; the woman behind it is the narrator herself and all women confined.

    A. Hyperbole
    B. Foreshadowing
    C. Symbolism
    D. Personification

    Key: C (Symbolism)

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Obsession begins. The evidence is “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120). This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “things” and “nobody” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Early, she remarks that "John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage"; forbidden to work, she fixes on the paper ("There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me") and finally claims "I've got out at last," freedom found only in madness.

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C4-LIT-1] In the line “But in the places where it isn't faded, and where the sun is just so, I can see a strange, provoking, formless sort of figure, that seems to sulk about behind that silly and conspicuous front design.”, what does “provoking” most nearly mean?

    A. annoying, irritating
    B. broken into sharp pieces
    C. pleasant and well suited
    D. making one feel ashamed and foolish

    Key: A (annoying, irritating)

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Program outcome: LeL-C4-LIT-1] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Irony. The evidence is “John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 5). This develops oppression of women: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “marriage” and “expects” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Early, she remarks that "John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage"; forbidden to work, she fixes on the paper ("There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me") and finally claims "I've got out at last," freedom found only in madness.

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-GR-LIT-1] In the line “Then the floor is scratched and gouged and splintered, the plaster itself is dug out here and there, and this great heavy bed, which is all we found in the room, looks as if it had been through the wars.”, what does “splintered” most nearly mean?

    A. annoying, irritating

    B. pleasant and well suited

    C. making one feel ashamed and foolish

    D. broken into sharp pieces

    Key: D (broken into sharp pieces)

37. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · Program outcome: LeL-GR-LIT-1] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Yellow Wallpaper”?

    A. A girl choosing nature over a stranger's approval

    B. Courage and guilt in a small community

    C. A reversal that punishes a change of heart

    D. Confinement driving a woman into madness

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Yellow Wallpaper,” how does Gilman show confinement driving a woman into madness? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the point of view you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In The Yellow Wallpaper, how does Gilman develop the idea of confinement driving a woman into madness? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the point of view in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how The Yellow Wallpaper develops the idea of confinement driving a woman into madness. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of point of view and symbolism shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Yellow Wallpaper (where it begins, turns and ends) and its point of view shape the reader's understanding of confinement driving a woman into madness. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Yellow Wallpaper suggests about confinement driving a woman into madness. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's point of view and symbolism), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.NAR, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Charlotte Perkins Gilman uses point of view in The Yellow Wallpaper to complicate the reader's understanding of confinement driving a woman into madness. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate The Yellow Wallpaper within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of confinement driving a woman into madness responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read The Yellow Wallpaper alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of confinement driving a woman into madness follows or bends those conventions, using the point of view as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Yellow Wallpaper and its treatment of confinement driving a woman into madness. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's point of view and symbolism, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Yellow Wallpaper as evidence for a larger claim about confinement driving a woman into madness in The Yellow Wallpaper. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Yellow Wallpaper as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of confinement driving a woman into madness. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Yellow Wallpaper.

SAT-style questions

1. Then the floor is scratched and gouged and splintered, the plaster itself is dug out here and there, and this great heavy bed, which is all we found in the room, looks as if it had been through the wars.

   As used in the text, what does the word "splintered" most nearly mean?

   A. so lacking in interest as to cause mental weariness
   B. making one feel ashamed and foolish
   C. annoying, irritating
   D. broken into sharp pieces

2. Then the floor is scratched and gouged and splintered, the plaster itself is dug out here and there, and this great heavy bed, which is all we found in the room, looks as if it had been through the wars.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "The Yellow Wallpaper"?

   A. Love and rivalry destroyed by racial violence
   B. Harlem as promised refuge and trap
   C. Confinement driving a woman into madness
   D. The cost of wanting to seem richer than you are

SAT key: 1. D (broken into sharp pieces); 2. C (Confinement driving a woman into madness)

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

   Key: A (entertain)

2. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 20: “I never saw such a garden—large and shady, full of box-_____ paths, and lined with long grape-covered arbors with seats under them.” Word bank: whitewashed, bordered, wonderfully, entertain

   Key: bordered

3. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 60? “There is a _____ shaded lane that runs down there from the house.”

   A. enthusiastic

   B. ancestral

   C. whitewashed

   D. beautiful

   Key: D (beautiful)

4. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 76: “She is a perfect, an _____ housekeeper, and hopes for no better profession.” Word bank: enthusiastic, school, entertain, wonderfully

   Key: enthusiastic

5. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 33: “The paint and paper look as if a boys' _____ had used it.” Word bank: school, remember, brother, influence

   Key: school

6. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 11? “My brother is also a _____, and also of high standing, and he says the same thing.”

   A. remember

B. brother

C. influence

D. physician

Key: D (physician)

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 85? “I had a friend who was in his hands once, and she says he is just like John and my _____, only more so!”

   A. immovable

   B. influence

    Key: D (wonderfully)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “He has no patience with faith, an intense horror of superstition, and he scoffs openly at any talk of things not to be felt and seen and put down in figures.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 6) shows the situation turning on women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “superstition” and “patience” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 149 reveal about the character or situation? “The outside pattern, I mean, and the woman behind it is as plain as can be.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 149) shows the situation turning on voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “outside” and “pattern” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 44 reveal about the character or situation? “He knows there is no reason to suffer, and that satisfies him.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 44) shows the situation turning on voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery.

The words “satisfies” and “suffer” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 115 reveal about the character or situation? “He says no one but myself can help me out of it, that I must use my will and self-control and not let my silly fancies run away with me.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 115) shows the situation turning on women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The words “control” and “fancies” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 31 shapes its tone: “He said we came here solely on my account, that I was to have perfect rest and all the air I could get.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “perfect” and “account” (paragraph 31) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 78 shapes its tone: “There is one that commands the road, a lovely, shaded, winding road, and one that just looks off over the country.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “commands” and “winding” (paragraph 78) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
17. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 170 shapes its tone: “Now we have had a week of fog and rain, and whether the windows are open or not the smell is here.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “whether” and “windows” (paragraph 170) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 211 to the story's treatment of voice and silence: “As soon as it was moonlight, and that poor thing began to crawl and shake the pattern, I got up and ran to help her.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 211) develops voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “moonlight” and “pattern” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He has no patience with faith, an intense horror of superstition, and he scoffs openly at any talk of things not to be…” (paragraph 6), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating voice and silence as central.
19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 192 shapes its tone: “I see her in that long shaded lane, creeping up and down.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “creeping” and “shaded” (paragraph 192) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 139 shapes its tone: “Can you not trust me as a physician when I tell you so?’” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “physician” (paragraph 139) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 197 to the story's treatment of women and medical authority: “I often wonder if I could see her out of all the windows at once.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 197) develops women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “windows” and “wonder” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “And I heard him ask Jennie a lot of professional questions about me.” (paragraph 203), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating women and medical authority as central.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 52 shapes its tone: “He said that after the wall paper was changed it would be the heavy bedstead, and then the barred windows, and then that gate at the head of the stairs, and so on.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “bedstead” and “windows” (paragraph 52) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 67 to the story's treatment of women and medical authority: “There is one place where two breadths didn't match, and the eyes go all up and down the line, one a little higher than the other.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 67) develops women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “breadths” and “higher” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “I suppose when this was used as a playroom they had to take the nursery things out, and no wonder!” (paragraph 71), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating women and medical authority as central.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 24 to the story's treatment of voice and silence: “I even said so to John one moonlight evening, but he said what I felt was a draught, and shut the window.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 24) develops voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “moonlight” and “evening” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He said we came here solely on my account, that I was to have perfect rest and all the air I could get.” (paragraph 31), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating voice and silence as central.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 109 to the story's treatment of voice and silence: “John says I mustn't lose my strength, and has me take cod-liver oil and lots of tonics and things, to say nothing of ale and wine and rare meat.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 109) develops voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “strength” and “mustn't” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He says no one but myself can help me out of it, that I must use my will and self-control and not let my silly fancies…” (paragraph 115), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating voice and silence as central.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 157 shapes its tone: “He seems very queer sometimes, and even Jennie has an inexplicable look.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “inexplicable” and “sometimes” (paragraph 157) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 61 shapes its tone: “I think sometimes that if I were only well enough to write a little it would relieve the press of ideas and rest me.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “sometimes” and “relieve” (paragraph 61) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 90 to the story's treatment of women and medical authority: “John is kept in town very often by serious cases, and Jennie is good and lets me alone when I want her to.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 90) develops women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “serious” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Looked at in one way, each breadth stands alone, the bloated curves and flourishes—a kind of ‘debased Romanesque’ with…” (paragraph 98), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating women and medical authority as central.
29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] In the line “Personally I believe that congenial work, with excitement and change, would do me good.”, what does “congenial” most nearly mean?
    A. pleasant and well suited
    B. annoying, irritating
    C. broken into sharp pieces
    D. making one feel ashamed and foolish

    Key: A (pleasant and well suited)
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 179 to the story's treatment of women and medical authority: “The only thing I can think of that it is like is the color of the paper—a yellow smell!” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 179) develops women and medical authority: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “yellow” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Sometimes I think there are a great many women behind, and sometimes only one, and she crawls around fast, and her…” (paragraph 184), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating women and medical authority as central.
31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 131 to the story's treatment of voice and silence: “I thought it was a good time to talk, so I told him that I really was not gaining here, and that I wished he would take me away.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 131) develops voice and silence: she is infantilized in a nursery. Its words “thought” and “gaining” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Can you not trust me as a physician when I tell you so?’” (paragraph 139), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating voice and silence as central.

Final paper

The Yellow Wallpaper: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Charlotte Perkins Gilman develops women and medical authority across The Yellow Wallpaper. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Yellow Wallpaper and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to confinement and madness.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Yellow Wallpaper. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Yellow Wallpaper finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of voice and silence. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words

Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.

Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: The narrator's madness is a response to her confinement. The text makes this visible when it says “There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me” (The Yellow Wallpaper, paragraph 120). Early, she remarks that "John laughs at me, of course, but one expects that in marriage"; forbidden to work, she fixes on the paper ("There are things in that paper that nobody knows but me") and finally claims "I’ve got out at last," freedom found only in madness. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
