Essential questions

- What does The Cask of Amontillado suggest about revenge and pride?
- What does The Cask of Amontillado suggest about deception?
- What does The Cask of Amontillado suggest about the burden of the past?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Edgar Allan Poe was born in Boston on 19 January 1809 to touring actors; orphaned before he was three, he was raised in Richmond, Virginia, by the merchant John Allan, with whom he later quarrelled bitterly. He attended the University of Virginia, served in the U.S. Army and was dismissed from West Point, then lived by his pen as a poet, critic and magazine editor (the Southern Literary Messenger, Graham's Magazine) in Richmond, Philadelphia and New York. He married his young cousin Virginia Clemm, who died of tuberculosis in 1847. "The Raven" (1845) made him famous but never prosperous. He is credited with inventing the modern detective story ("The Murders in the Rue Morgue," 1841) and argued that a short story should create a single "unity of effect." He died in Baltimore on 7 October 1849; the cause of his death is unknown.

Historical and cultural context

The story is set during carnival in an unnamed Italian city, among aristocrats with family crests and wine cellars that double as catacombs. Poe wrote it in 1846 in the middle of a bitter literary feud with the writers Thomas Dunn English and Hiram Fuller; some scholars read Montresor's revenge as Poe's fantasy of answering his critics.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in Godey's Lady's Book, one of the most popular American magazines, in November 1846.

Then: It received little critical comment at the time; Godey's readers knew Poe mainly as a critic and poet.

Now: It is a classic of revenge fiction and dramatic irony, widely taught in middle and high school, and much debated: why does Montresor tell the story fifty years later, and to whom?

Overview (spoiler-free)

Montresor, insulted by Fortunato, vows revenge. During carnival he lures Fortunato, a proud wine expert, into his family's vaults with the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado sherry.

Main themes

- revenge and pride: Montresor's need for revenge and Fortunato's pride in his palate both drive the plot.
- deception: almost everything Montresor says to Fortunato means something else.
- the burden of the past: the story is told half a century later; is it a boast or a confession?

Why it matters

The story is a model of dramatic irony and of a narrator who manipulates both his victim and the reader; it also raises lasting questions about revenge and justice.

Spoilers · teacher only

Montresor chains the drunken Fortunato in a niche and walls him in alive; fifty years later, he says, no one has disturbed the bones.

Next, craft. I notice the exaggerated number "thousand" and the fact that he never names any injury. The strongest word is "insult": it is a smaller offense than an injury, which makes his vow of revenge seem out of proportion. Then, effect. What does the first sentence tell us about Montresor? My answer: From the first line Montresor is a narrator obsessed with pride and revenge, and he never shows us proof of the wrongs he claims.

Poe published "The Cask of Amontillado" in Godey's Lady's Book in 1846, the year of his bitter public feud with the writer Thomas Dunn English. How might a writer caught up in rivalry and wounded pride shape a story about revenge? Answer: Accept answers such as: Poe understood how insults fester; he shows pride turning into cruelty; the story is about a grudge, and Montresor's "thousand injuries" are never named.

Montresor, vowing revenge for 'a thousand injuries' and an insult from Fortunato, lures the drunken wine connoisseur during carnival into his family catacombs with the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado. Deep in the vaults he chains Fortunato into a niche and walls him in alive. He tells the story fifty years later; no one has disturbed the bones.

Background: The story (1846) is set during carnival in an unnamed Italian city. Its catacombs echo Roman and Parisian ossuaries. Amontillado is a Spanish sherry.

Significance: It is a model of dramatic and verbal irony, from Fortunato's name ('fortunate') to the toast 'to your long life'. It is a Common Core Appendix B exemplar for grades 11–CCR.

It is a model of dramatic and verbal irony, from Fortunato's name ('fortunate') to the toast 'to your long life'. It is a Common Core Appendix B exemplar for grades 11–CCR. Irony: Dramatic irony saturates the dialogue: Fortunato says he will not die of a cough, and Montresor answers "True—true"; Fortunato makes the Masonic sign and Montresor shows a trowel. Setting: The descent from carnival into damp catacombs lined with bones moves from life to death; the nitre on the walls is both a pretext and an image of the grave. Characterization: Montresor is cold, patient and articulate; Fortunato's pride ("Luchesi cannot tell Amontillado from Sherry") and drunkenness make him easy to lead. Watch for the family crest: a foot crushing a serpent whose fangs are in the heel, with the motto "Nemo me impune lacessit" (No one attacks me with impunity): revenge as inherited identity.

I notice the repeated word "punish" and the legal-sounding phrase, which make revenge sound like a rule he has worked out. The strongest word is "impunity": it means freedom from consequences, so he is planning a perfect crime, not an outburst. Then, effect. What does Montresor mean by punishing "with impunity"? My answer: By punishing "with impunity," Montresor means taking revenge without being caught or punished himself; the line warns us that the friendly talk and the wine are part of a cold plan.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1) His philosophy of revenge.

- “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony.
- “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83) Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand.
Evidence: “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41)
Reasoning: When Fortunato toasts "the buried that repose around us," Montresor replies "And I to your long life," knowing he is about to bury him; the reader hears the double meaning Fortunato misses.

Focus sets by rigor level: Scaffolded support: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 11, 12, 13, 14, 21, 22; HS Freshman: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 12, 13, 14, 15, 22, 23, 24; HS Sophomore: 1, 2, 3, 4, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 23, 24, 25; HS Junior: 1, 2, 3, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 24, 25, 26, 27; HS Senior: 1, 2, 3, 15, 16, 17, 18, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29; AP: 1, 2, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Freshman: 1, 2, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 27, 28, 29, 30; College Sophomore: 1, 2, 11, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 28, 29, 30; College Junior: 1, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 29, 30; College Senior: 1, 11, 12, 13, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30; Graduate / PhD: 1, 11, 12, 13, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28

Literal / recall

1. What reason does Montresor give for his revenge? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A thousand injuries and then an insult
2. How does Montresor lure Fortunato into the vaults? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: With the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado
3. What is Fortunato wearing? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A jester's motley costume with a cap and bells
4. What is Montresor's family motto about? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: No one attacks me with impunity
5. How long ago did the events take place, as Montresor tells it? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Fifty years
6. Retell the three most important events of "The Cask of Amontillado" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Montresor, vowing revenge for 'a thousand injuries' and an insult from Fortunato, lures the drunken wine connoisseur during carnival into his family catacombs with the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado. Deep in the vaults he chains Fortunato into a niche and walls him in alive. He tells the story fifty years later; no one has disturbed the bones.
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "The Cask of Amontillado"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Names and actions taken from the story; check against the teacher summary.

8. Where and when does “The Cask of Amontillado” take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the story.
9. Reread: “The drops of moisture trickle among the bones.” What does “trickle” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: trickle: to flow in drops.
10. Reread: “In this respect I did not differ from him materially: I was skilful in the Italian vintages myself, and bought largely whenever I could.” What does “materially” mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: materially: to any significant degree; substantially.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does “The Cask of Amontillado” suggest about revenge carried out with perfect control? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: It is a model of dramatic and verbal irony, from Fortunato's name ('fortunate') to the toast 'to your long life'. It is a Common Core Appendix B exemplar for grades 11–CCR.
2. Find one example of irony in this story. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the setting in this story shape what we understand about revenge carried out with perfect control? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1): His philosophy of revenge. On setting: The descent from carnival into damp catacombs lined with bones moves from life to death; the nitre on the walls is both a pretext and an image of the grave. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The thousand injuries of Fortunato I had borne as I best could; but when he ventured upon insult, I vowed revenge.”, why might Poe have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Cask of Amontillado”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: Montresor, vowing revenge for 'a thousand injuries' and an insult from Fortunato, lures the drunken wine connoisseur during carnival into his family catacombs with the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado. Deep in the vaults he chains Fortunato into a niche and walls him in alive. He tells the…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Cask of Amontillado” set up that the rest of The Cask of Amontillado will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41): Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. Theme link: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83): Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. On characterization: Montresor is cold, patient and articulate; Fortunato's pride ("Luchesi cannot tell Amontillado from Sherry") and drunkenness make him easy to lead. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Have you ever felt someone deserved to be paid back? What is the difference between justice and revenge?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with revenge and pride? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1): His philosophy of revenge. On characterization: Montresor is cold, patient and articulate; Fortunato's pride ("Luchesi cannot tell Amontillado from Sherry") and drunkenness make him easy to lead. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: The story (1846) is set during carnival in an unnamed Italian city. Its catacombs echo Roman and Parisian ossuaries. Amontillado is a Spanish sherry. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41): Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. On setting: The descent from carnival into damp catacombs lined with bones moves from life to death; the nitre on the walls is both a pretext and an image of the grave. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “It is a model of dramatic and verbal irony, from Fortunato's name ('fortunate') to the toast 'to your long life'. It is a Common Core Appendix B exemplar for grades 11–CCR.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83): Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. Theme link: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

2. Which character in this story acts most wisely, and which least? Judge them by a standard you name. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR, AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: An evaluation using an explicit criterion and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1): His philosophy of revenge. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
3. Rewrite one moment of “The Cask of Amontillado” from the point of view of a different character. What does the new angle reveal or hide about revenge carried out with perfect control? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN, AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: A creative product with a rationale tied to the text.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41): Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. Theme link: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. Write three questions of your own about “The Cask of Amontillado”: one recall, one “why/how”, and one “should/what if”. Trade with a partner and answer theirs. [DOK 3 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83): Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. Theme link: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
5. Connect this story to deception: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Poe need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1): His philosophy of revenge. Theme link: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
6. Is the irony in this story effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN, AP-LIT.NAR] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Useful evidence: “I drink," he said, "to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41): Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. On irony: Dramatic irony saturates the dialogue: Fortunato says he will not die of a cough, and Montresor answers "True—true"; Fortunato makes the Masonic sign and Montresor shows a trowel. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “The Cask of Amontillado” treats revenge carried out with perfect control with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does The Cask of Amontillado see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand.    C. By challenging him to a duel

   D. By asking for medical help

   Key: A (With the promise of a rare cask of Amontillado)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41: “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the _____ that repose around us”

    Key: buried

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 75 reveal about the character or situation? “Throwing them aside, I soon uncovered a quantity of building stone and mortar.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 75) shows the situation turning on revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “uncovered” and “building” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83) Answer in two or three sentences, quoting one word or phrase.

    Sample answer: Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. The evidence is “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83). This develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “I continued, as was my wont, to smile in his face, and he did not perceive that my smile now was at the thought of his immolation.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 2) shows the situation turning on revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “immolation” and “continued” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 78 shapes its tone: “But now there came from out the niche a low laugh that erected the hairs upon my head.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “erected” (paragraph 78) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41).
    Sample answer: When Fortunato toasts "the buried that repose around us," Montresor replies "And I to your long life," knowing he is about to bury him; the reader hears the double meaning Fortunato misses. The evidence is “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) — Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. This develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how revenge and pride develops from the opening of “The Cask of Amontillado” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.
    Sample answer: Near the start, “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1), which shows his philosophy of revenge. Later, “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83) — Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What reason does Montresor give for his revenge?
    A. A lost duel
    B. A thousand injuries and then an insult
    C. A broken engagement
    D. A stolen inheritance

    Key: B (A thousand injuries and then an insult)
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 69: “It was in vain that Fortunato, uplifting his dull torch, _____ to pry into the depth of the recess.” Word bank: endeavored, understood, horizontally, seconds
    Key: endeavored
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He _____ me with excessive warmth, for he had been drinking much.” Word bank: trickle, accosted, explicit, materially
    Key: accosted
20. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1: “I must not only punish, but punish with _____”
    Key: impunity
21. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) Answer in two or three sentences, quoting one word or phrase.
    Sample answer: Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. The evidence is “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41).
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 25 shapes its tone: “I passed down a long and winding staircase, requesting him to be cautious as he followed.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “requesting” and “staircase” (paragraph 25) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 89 shapes its tone: “I thrust a torch through the remaining aperture and let it fall within.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “remaining” and “aperture” (paragraph 89) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 71 to the story's treatment of revenge and pride: “From one of these depended a short chain, from the other a padlock.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 71) develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “depended” and “padlock” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “In an instant he had reached the extremity of the niche, and finding his progress arrested by the rock, stood stupidly…” (paragraph 71), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating revenge and pride as central.
25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 2: “It must be _____, that neither by word nor deed had I given Fortunato cause to doubt my good will.” Word bank: catacombs, flambeaux, understood, seconds
    Key: understood
26. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “You are rich, respected, _____, beloved; you are happy, as once I was.” Word bank: explicit, admired, materially, trickle
    Key: admired
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 68 to the story's treatment of revenge and pride: “From the fourth side the bones had been thrown down, and lay promiscuously upon the earth, forming at one point a mound of some size.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 68) develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “promiscuously” and “forming” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “It seemed to have been constructed for no especial use within itself, but formed merely the interval between two of the…” (paragraph 68), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating revenge and pride as central.
28. [short · inference · DOK 2 · AP: AP-LIT.CHR] What can you infer from this line? “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. The evidence is “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41).
29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 47 shapes its tone: “A huge human foot d'or, in a field azure; the foot crushes a serpent rampant whose fangs are imbedded in the heel.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “imbedded” and “serpent” (paragraph 47) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 68? “At the most remote end of the crypt there _____ another less spacious.”

    A. farther

    B. gesticulation

    C. knocked

    D. appeared

    Key: D (appeared)

31. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze the word choice in “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: Fortunato's last plea; Montresor echoes it mockingly. The evidence is “For the love of God, Montresor” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 83). This develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “love” and “the” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Evaluate this claim about the story: “Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand.” Is it fully persuasive? Argue with evidence, including a passage that complicates it.

    Sample answer: The claim is persuasive in part. “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) supports it: When Fortunato toasts "the buried that repose around us," Montresor replies "And I to your long life," knowing he is about to bury him; the reader hears the double meaning Fortunato misses. But “I must not only punish, but punish with impunity” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 1) complicates it: the line (his philosophy of revenge) shows the same issue from another side, and its “not” marks a limit or reversal the claim passes over. Weighing the two passages, the claim survives, but only once it admits the tension the second passage creates.

33. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.NAR] Which literary element does this describe in “The Cask of Amontillado”? Dramatic this device saturates the dialogue: Fortunato says he will not die of a cough, and Montresor answers ‘True—true’; Fortunato makes the Masonic sign and Montresor shows a trowel.

    A. Allusion

    B. Structure

    C. Irony

    D. Imagery

    Key: C (Irony)

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line “The drops of moisture trickle among the bones.”, what does “trickle” most nearly mean?

    A. by good fortune

    B. to flow in drops

    C. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

    D. to any significant degree; substantially

    Key: B (to flow in drops)

35. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Which literary element does this describe in “The Cask of Amontillado”? The descent from carnival into damp catacombs lined with bones moves from life to death; the nitre on the walls is both a pretext and an image of the grave.

    A. Hyperbole

B. Allusion

C. Diction / vocabulary

D. Setting

Key: D (Setting)

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] In the line “I had told them that I should not return until the morning, and had given them explicit orders not to stir from the house.”, what does “explicit” most nearly mean?

A. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

B. to flow in drops

C. to any significant degree; substantially

D. by good fortune

Key: A (precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication)

37. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] In the line “In this respect I did not differ from him materially: I was skilful in the Italian vintages myself, and bought largely whenever I could.”, what does “materially” most nearly mean?

A. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

B. to any significant degree; substantially

C. by good fortune

D. to flow in drops

Key: B (to any significant degree; substantially)

38. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] In the line “I said to him—‘My dear Fortunato, you are luckily met.”, what does “luckily” most nearly mean?

A. to flow in drops

B. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

C. to any significant degree; substantially

D. by good fortune

Key: D (by good fortune)

39. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Cask of Amontillado”?

A. The hunter becoming the hunted

B. Revenge carried out with perfect control

C. Science that poisons love

D. Racial pride destroying love

Key: B (Revenge carried out with perfect control)

40. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Fortunato's toast; the reply "And I to your long life" is pure irony. The evidence is “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41). This develops revenge and pride: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time.

The words “repose” and “around” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. When Fortunato toasts "the buried that repose around us," Montresor replies "And I to your long life," knowing he is about to bury him; the reader hears the double meaning Fortunato misses.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Cask of Amontillado,” how does Poe show revenge carried out with perfect control? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In The Cask of Amontillado, how does Poe develop the idea of revenge carried out with perfect control? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how The Cask of Amontillado develops the idea of revenge carried out with perfect control. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Cask of Amontillado (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of revenge carried out with perfect control. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Cask of Amontillado suggests about revenge carried out with perfect control. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.NAR, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Edgar Allan Poe uses irony in The Cask of Amontillado to complicate the reader's understanding of revenge carried out with perfect control. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate The Cask of Amontillado within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of revenge carried out with perfect control responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read The Cask of Amontillado alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of revenge carried out with perfect control follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Cask of Amontillado and its treatment of revenge carried out with perfect control. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Cask of Amontillado as evidence for a larger claim about revenge carried out with perfect control in The Cask of Amontillado. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Cask of Amontillado as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of revenge carried out with perfect control. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Cask of Amontillado.

SAT-style questions

1. I had told them that I should not return until the morning, and had given them explicit orders not to stir from the house.

As used in the text, what does the word "explicit" most nearly mean?

A. exemption from punishment or loss

B. precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication

C. feel admiration for

D. wear off or die down

2. The thousand injuries of Fortunato I had borne as I best could; but when he ventured upon insult, I vowed revenge. You, who so well know the nature of my soul, will not suppose, however, that I gave utterance to a threat. At length I would be avenged; this was a point definitively settled—but the very definitiveness with which it was resolved, precluded the idea of risk. I must not only punish, but punish with impunity. A wrong is unredressed when retribution overtakes its redresser. It is equally unredressed when the avenger fails to make himself felt as such to him who has done the wrong.

Which choice best states a central concern of "The Cask of Amontillado"?

A. The loss of faith in human goodness

B. A girl's first encounter with death across the class line

C. A crime that backfires

D. Revenge carried out with perfect control

SAT key: 1. B (precisely and clearly expressed or readily observable; leaving nothing to implication); 2. D (Revenge carried out with perfect control)

   Key: engagement

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 68? “Within the wall thus exposed by the _____ of the bones, we perceived a still interior recess, in depth about four feet, in width three, in height six or seven.”

    A. displacing

    B. busied

    C. appeared

    D. flambeaux

    Key: A (displacing)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 68 reveal about the character or situation? “It seemed to have been constructed for no especial use within itself, but formed merely the interval between two of the colossal supports of the roof of the catacombs, and was backed by one of their circumscribing walls of solid granite.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 68) shows the situation turning on deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “circumscribing” and “constructed” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. “It must be understood, that neither by word nor deed had I given Fortunato cause to doubt my good will.”

    B. “You were not to be found, and I was fearful of losing a bargain.’”

    C. “I continued, as was my wont, to smile in his face, and he did not perceive that my smile now was at the thought of his immolation.”

    D. “And yet some fools will have it that his taste is a match for your own.”

    Key: A (“It must be understood, that neither by word nor deed had I given Fortunato cause to doubt my good will.”)

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 29 reveal about the character or situation? “He turned towards me, and looked into my eyes with two filmy orbs that distilled the rheum of intoxication.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 29) shows the situation turning on the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “intoxication” and “distilled” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 79 reveal about the character or situation? “We will have many a rich laugh about it at the palazzo—he! he! he!—over our wine—he! he! he!’” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 79) shows the situation turning on the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The words “palazzo” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 68 shapes its tone: “Its walls had been lined with human remains, piled to the vault overhead, in the fashion of the great catacombs of Paris.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “catacombs” and “overhead” (paragraph 68) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 71 shapes its tone: “In an instant he had reached the extremity of the niche, and finding his progress arrested by the rock, stood stupidly bewildered.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “bewildered” and “extremity” (paragraph 71) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 78 to the story's treatment of deception: “I had finished a portion of the last and the eleventh; there remained but a single stone to be fitted and plastered in.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 78) develops deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “plastered” and “eleventh” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “We will have many a rich laugh about it at the palazzo—he! he! he!—over our wine—he! he! he!’” (paragraph 79), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating deception as central.

18. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 67 shapes its tone: “We passed through a range of low arches, descended, passed on, and descending again, arrived at a deep crypt, in which the foulness of the air caused our flambeaux rather to glow than flame.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “descending” and “descended” (paragraph 67) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 77 shapes its tone: “Asuccession of loud and shrill screams, bursting suddenly from the throat of the chained form, seemed to thrust me violently back.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “violently” and “bursting” (paragraph 77) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 15 shapes its tone: “And yet some fools will have it that his taste is a match for your own.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words its wording (paragraph 15) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 23 to the story's treatment of the burden of the past: “Putting on a mask of black silk, and drawing a roquelaire closely about my person, I suffered him to hurry me to my palazzo.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 23) develops the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “roquelaire” and “suffered” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “I passed down a long and winding staircase, requesting him to be cautious as he followed.” (paragraph 25), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the burden of the past as central.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 77 to the story's treatment of the burden of the past: “I placed my hand upon the solid fabric of the catacombs, and felt satisfied.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 77) develops the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “catacombs” and “satisfied” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “But now there came from out the niche a low laugh that erected the hairs upon my head.” (paragraph 78), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the burden of the past as central.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 72 to the story's treatment of the burden of the past: “But I must first render you all the little attentions in my power.’” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 72) develops the burden of the past: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “attentions” and “little” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Throwing them aside, I soon uncovered a quantity of building stone and mortar.” (paragraph 75), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the burden of the past as central.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 26 to the story's treatment of deception: “The gait of my friend was unsteady, and the bells upon his cap jingled as he strode.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 26) develops deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “unsteady” and “jingled” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He turned towards me, and looked into my eyes with two filmy orbs that distilled the rheum of intoxication.” (paragraph 29), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating deception as central.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 51 to the story's treatment of deception: “I paused again, and this time I made bold to seize Fortunato by an arm above the elbow.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 51) develops deception: Montresor's rules for revenge ("I must not only punish but punish with impunity") show a man who has thought this through for a long time. Its words “paused” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “We passed through a range of low arches, descended, passed on, and descending again, arrived at a deep crypt, in which…” (paragraph 67), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating deception as central.

Final paper

The Cask of Amontillado: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Edgar Allan Poe develops revenge and pride across The Cask of Amontillado. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Cask of Amontillado and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to deception.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Cask of Amontillado. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Cask of Amontillado finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of the burden of the past. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.
Organization	15

		Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Montresor's revenge depends on irony: he tells Fortunato the truth in words that Fortunato cannot understand. The text makes this visible when it says “I drink,’ he said, ‘to the buried that repose around us” (The Cask of Amontillado, paragraph 41). When Fortunato toasts "the buried that repose around us," Montresor replies "And I to your long life," knowing he is about to bury him; the reader hears the double meaning Fortunato misses. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
