Essential questions

- What does The Fall of the House of Usher suggest about decay of family and mind?
- What does The Fall of the House of Usher suggest about fear and the imagination?
- What does The Fall of the House of Usher suggest about the double?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Edgar Allan Poe was born in Boston on 19 January 1809 to touring actors; orphaned before he was three, he was raised in Richmond, Virginia, by the merchant John Allan, with whom he later quarrelled bitterly. He attended the University of Virginia, served in the U.S. Army and was dismissed from West Point, then lived by his pen as a poet, critic and magazine editor (the Southern Literary Messenger, Graham's Magazine) in Richmond, Philadelphia and New York. He married his young cousin Virginia Clemm, who died of tuberculosis in 1847. "The Raven" (1845) made him famous but never prosperous. He is credited with inventing the modern detective story ("The Murders in the Rue Morgue," 1841) and argued that a short story should create a single "unity of effect." He died in Baltimore on 7 October 1849; the cause of his death is unknown.

Historical and cultural context

Poe wrote within the Gothic tradition (crumbling mansions, ancient families, premature burial) popularized by English and German writers, but he turned its horrors inward: the decay of a house mirrors the decay of a mind. The 1830s were also a time of fascination with nervous illness and "hypochondriasis."

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in Burton's Gentleman's Magazine (Philadelphia) in September 1839, where Poe was an editor; collected in Tales of the Grotesque and Arabesque (1840).

Then: Contemporary reviewers praised its atmosphere; it was among the tales that built Poe's reputation abroad, especially in France through Charles Baudelaire's translations in the 1850s.

Now: It is considered a masterpiece of Gothic fiction and the clearest example of Poe's "unity of effect," often read psychologically (the house as the mind; Madeline as Roderick's double).

Overview (spoiler-free)

A narrator answers a desperate letter from his boyhood friend Roderick Usher and arrives at a gloomy mansion beside a dark lake. Roderick is ill with nervous terror, and his twin sister Madeline is wasting away.

Main themes

- decay of family and mind: house, family and mind fall together.
- fear and the imagination: Roderick fears fear itself.

- the double: twins, reflections, a house and its image in the lake.

Why it matters

The story shows how setting can carry psychology, a technique used in every horror film; it also opens conversations about isolation and mental illness.

Spoilers · teacher only

Madeline apparently dies and is entombed in a vault; days later, during a storm, she breaks out, falls on Roderick, and both die. The narrator flees as the house splits along its fissure and sinks into the tarn.

Next, craft. I notice three heavy adjectives in a row, all with low, flat sounds. The strongest word is "soundless": it removes even noise, so the world feels dead before he reaches the house. Then, effect. How does the opening phrase create the story's mood? My answer: Poe builds gloom before anything happens, which is his "single effect": the reader is already uneasy at the first sentence.

Lesson 2: The Fall of the House of Usher

Focus: a family and a house collapsing together

Objective: Students will analyze how setting develops in “The Fall of the House of Usher” by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: AP: see the unit standards

Content note (premature burial, gothic dread, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Premature burial; gothic dread. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…erly than to the after-dream of the reveller upon opium—the bitter lapse into every-day life—th…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes premature burial; gothic dread.
Suggested language: “Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?”

Teacher only · spoilers

The narrator answers a letter from his boyhood friend Roderick Usher and visits the gloomy Usher mansion, which has a faint crack running down its front. Roderick suffers from acute senses and dread; his twin Madeline wastes away and is entombed in a vault, apparently dead. Days later, during a storm, she bursts out of her tomb and falls dead on her brother, who dies of terror. The narrator flees as the house splits along the crack and sinks into the tarn.

Background: Published in 1839, the story belongs to the gothic tradition of crumbling mansions and family curses. 'House' means both the building and the family line.

Significance: Its opening paragraph is a famous study in creating mood; the double meaning of 'House' ties setting to theme.

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Published in 1839, the story belongs to the gothic tradition of crumbling mansions and family curses. 'House' means both the building and the family line. Its opening paragraph is a famous study in creating mood; the double meaning of 'House' ties setting to theme. Setting: The house is described like a face: "vacant eye-like windows," decayed stones, a "barely perceptible fissure" running from roof to water. The setting is the story's main character. Imagery: Sound and light are muffled and dim; inside, Roderick's paintings and music (and the poem "The Haunted Palace") repeat the story's own images. Symbolism: The House of Usher means both the building and the family line; when one falls, so does the other. Watch for the fissure: the hairline crack that splits the house at the end: a hidden flaw in the family and in Roderick's mind.

Next, craft. I notice "Fear" is capitalized and called a "phantasm," a ghostly figure he expects to fight. The strongest word is "phantasm": it means an illusion or ghost, so his enemy is in his own mind. Then, effect. Why does Roderick fear he will lose life and reason together? My answer: He knows his terror is consuming him; the line predicts that the collapse of his mind and the collapse of the house will happen together.

Literal / recall

1. Why does the narrator visit the House of Usher? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Roderick wrote asking for his company
2. What flaw does the narrator notice in the house's front? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A barely visible crack running down the wall
3. Who is Madeline? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Roderick's twin sister
4. What happens to Madeline that turns out to be terrible? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: She is entombed while still alive
5. What happens to the house at the end? [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: It splits apart and sinks into the tarn
6. Retell the three most important events of "The Fall of the House of Usher" in order, in one sentence each. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: The narrator answers a letter from his boyhood friend Roderick Usher and visits the gloomy Usher mansion, which has a faint crack running down its front. Roderick suffers from acute senses and dread; his twin Madeline wastes away and is entombed in a vault, apparently dead. Days later, during a storm, she bursts out of her tomb and falls dead on her brother, who dies of terror. The narrator flees…
7. Which characters appear or are mentioned in "The Fall of the House of Usher"? Name two and one thing each says or does. [DOK 1 · coldCallWithSupport · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: Names and actions taken from the story; check against the teacher summary.
8. Where and when does "The Fall of the House of Usher" take place? Point to the line that tells you. [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: A place/time detail quoted from the story.
9. Reread: "I regarded her with an utter astonishment not unmingled with dread—and yet I found it impossible to account for such feelings." What does "unmingled" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: unmingled: pure; not mixed with anything else.
10. Reread: "I learned, moreover, at intervals, and through broken and equivocal hints, another singular feature of his mental condition." What does "equivocal" mean here, and what is literally happening in this line? [DOK 1 · turnAndTalk · wait 3 s · AP: unit standards] Look for: equivocal: open to two or more interpretations; or of uncertain nature or significance; or (often) intended to mislead.

Inferential / analytical

1. What does "The Fall of the House of Usher" suggest about a family and a house collapsing together? State the inference and the line that supports it. [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: Its opening paragraph is a famous study in creating mood; the double meaning of 'House' ties setting to theme.
2. Find one example of setting in this story. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.
3. How does the imagery in this story shape what we understand about a family and a house collapsing together? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Look for sensory details (sight, sound, cold, light) and what mood they create.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: "a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction" (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8): Foreshadowing the collapse. On imagery: Sound and light are muffled and dim; inside, Roderick's paintings and music (and the poem "The Haunted Palace") repeat the story's own images. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

4. In the passage that begins “The room in which I found myself was very large and lofty.”, why might Poe have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Fall of the House of Usher”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: The narrator answers a letter from his boyhood friend Roderick Usher and visits the gloomy Usher mansion, which has a faint crack running down its front. Roderick suffers from acute senses and dread; his twin Madeline wastes away and is entombed in a vault, apparently dead. Days later, during a…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Fall of the House of Usher” set up that the rest of The Fall of the House of Usher will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: “I feel that the period will sooner or later arrive when I must abandon life and reason together, in some struggle with the grim phantasm, Fear” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 14): Roderick's prophecy. Theme link: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92): Roderick's confession during the storm. Theme link: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Think of a place that made you uneasy. What details created that feeling?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does symbolism appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with decay of family and mind? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Look for objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8): Foreshadowing the collapse. On symbolism: The House of Usher means both the building and the family line; when one falls, so does the other. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Published in 1839, the story belongs to the gothic tradition of crumbling mansions and family curses. 'House' means both the building and the family line. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: “I feel that the period will sooner or later arrive when I must abandon life and reason together, in some struggle with the grim phantasm, Fear” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 14): Roderick's prophecy. On setting: The house is described like a face: "vacant eye-like windows," decayed stones, a "barely perceptible fissure" running from roof to water. The setting is the story's main character. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “Its opening paragraph is a famous study in creating mood; the double meaning of 'House' ties setting to theme.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Useful evidence: “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92): Roderick's confession during the storm.    C. He wants to buy it

   D. He is a doctor called to Madeline

   Key: B (Roderick wrote asking for his company)

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92: “We have put her _____ in the tomb”

    Key: living

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 4 reveal about the character or situation? “I say insufferable; for the feeling was unrelieved by any of that half-pleasurable, because poetic, sentiment, with which the mind usually receives even the sternest natural images of the desolate or terrible.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 4) shows the situation turning on decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will

"abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “insufferable” and “pleasurable” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage most clearly show? “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92) Answer in two or three sentences, quoting one word or phrase.

    Sample answer: Roderick's confession during the storm. The evidence is “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92). This develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 19 reveal about the character or situation? “An excited and highly distempered ideality threw a sulphureous lustre over all.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 19) shows the situation turning on decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “distempered” and “sulphureous” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8).

    Sample answer: The narrator notices "a barely perceptible fissure" from roof to ground, and Roderick foresees the day he "must abandon life and reason together"; at the end the fissure widens and house and mind fall at once. The evidence is “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8) — Foreshadowing the collapse. This develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 7 shapes its tone: “There can be no doubt that the consciousness of the rapid increase of my superstition—for why should I not so term it?—served mainly to accelerate the increase itself.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “consciousness” and “superstition” (paragraph 7) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 17 to the story's treatment of decay of family and mind: “The disease of the lady Madeline had long baffled the skill of her physicians.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 17) develops decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “physicians” and “baffled” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “For several days ensuing, her name was unmentioned by either Usher or myself; and during this period I was busied in…” (paragraph 18), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating decay of family and mind as central.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What flaw does the narrator notice in the house's front?

    A. A barely visible crack running down the wall

B. A missing door

C. A broken window

D. A fallen tower

Key: A (A barely visible crack running down the wall)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is Madeline?

A. The housekeeper

B. Roderick's twin sister

C. Roderick's wife

D. The narrator's cousin

Key: B (Roderick's twin sister)

19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8: “a barely _____ fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction”

Key: perceptible

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: Foreshadowing the collapse. The evidence is “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8).

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 20 shapes its tone: “No outlet was observed in any portion of its vast extent, and no torch, or other artificial source of light was discernible; yet a flood of intense rays rolled throughout, and bathed the whole in a ghastly and inappropriate splendor.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “inappropriate” and “discernible” (paragraph 20) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 5 shapes its tone: “Its proprietor, Roderick Usher, had been one of my boon companions in boyhood; but many years had elapsed since our last meeting.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “companions” and “proprietor” (paragraph 5) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 19? “Yet I should fail in any attempt to convey an idea of the exact character of the studies, or of the _____, in which he involved me, or led me the way.”

A. improvisations

B. occupations

C. accordingly

D. reminiscences

Key: B (occupations)

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 74 to the story's treatment of decay of family and mind: “And now, some days of bitter grief having elapsed, an observable change came over the features of the mental disorder of my friend.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 74) develops decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “observable” and “disorder” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The pallor of his countenance had assumed, if possible, a more ghastly hue—but the luminousness of his eye had utterly…” (paragraph 74), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating decay of family and mind as central.

25. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.STR] What happens to Madeline that turns out to be terrible?
A. She is entombed while still alive
B. She runs away
C. She burns the house
D. She marries the narrator
Key: A (She is entombed while still alive)

26. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “He _____ me with trepidation and passed on.” Word bank: unmingled, accosted, despaired, equivocal
Key: accosted

27. [fill · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Complete the quotation from paragraph 12: “For something of this nature I had indeed been prepared, no less by his letter, than by _____ of certain boyish traits, and by conclusions deduced from his peculiar physical conformation and temperament.” Word bank: cataleptical, insoluble, occupations, reminiscences
Key: reminiscences

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 69 shapes its tone: “But, in his disordered fancy, the idea had assumed a more daring character, and trespassed, under certain conditions, upon the kingdom of inorganization.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
Sample answer: The words “inorganization” and “disordered” (paragraph 69) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Synthesis: trace how fear and the imagination develops from the opening of “The Fall of the House of Usher” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.
Sample answer: Near the start, “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8) — Foreshadowing the collapse. Later, “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92) — Roderick's confession during the storm. Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic.

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze the word choice in “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.
Sample answer: Roderick's confession during the storm. The evidence is “We have put her living in the tomb” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 92). This develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “living” and “tomb” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 72 to the story's treatment of decay of family and mind: “At the request of Usher, I personally aided him in the arrangements for the temporary entombment.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 72) develops decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “arrangements” and “personally” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Its immense weight caused an unusually sharp grating sound, as it moved upon its hinges.” (paragraph 72), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating decay of family and mind as central.

32. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Fall of the House of Usher”?

    A. Love and rivalry destroyed by racial violence
    B. The closing of the frontier
    C. A family and a house collapsing together
    D. Wishes that defy fate

    Key: C (A family and a house collapsing together)

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of decay of family and mind: “Yet the character of his face had been at all times remarkable.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 11) develops decay of family and mind: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “remarkable” and “character” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The now ghastly pallor of the skin, and the now miraculous lustre of the eye, above all things startled and even awed…” (paragraph 11), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating decay of family and mind as central.

34. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Which literary element does this describe in “The Fall of the House of Usher”? Sound and light are muffled and dim; inside, Roderick's paintings and music (and the poem ‘The Haunted Palace’) repeat the story's own images.

    A. Characterization
    B. Hyperbole
    C. Imagery
    D. Point of view

    Key: C (Imagery)

35. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Foreshadowing the collapse. The evidence is “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8). This develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “perceptible” and “direction” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. The narrator notices "a barely perceptible fissure" from roof to ground, and Roderick foresees the day he "must abandon life and reason together"; at the end the fissure widens and house and mind fall at once.

36. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Program outcome: LeL-GR-LIT-1] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I feel that the period will sooner or later arrive when I must abandon life and reason together, in some struggle with the grim phantasm, Fear" (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 14) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Roderick's prophecy. The evidence is "I feel that the period will sooner or later arrive when I must abandon life and reason together, in some struggle with the grim phantasm,…" (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 14). This develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words "phantasm" and "struggle" carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. The narrator notices "a barely perceptible fissure" from roof to ground, and Roderick foresees the day he "must abandon life and reason together"; at the end the fissure widens and house and mind fall at once.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In "The Fall of the House of Usher," how does Poe show a family and a house collapsing together? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the setting you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In The Fall of the House of Usher, how does Poe develop the idea of a family and a house collapsing together? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the setting in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how The Fall of the House of Usher develops the idea of a family and a house collapsing together. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of setting and imagery shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Fall of the House of Usher (where it begins, turns and ends) and its setting shape the reader's understanding of a family and a house collapsing together. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Fall of the House of Usher suggests about a family and a house collapsing together. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's setting and imagery), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.SET, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Edgar Allan Poe uses setting in The Fall of the House of Usher to complicate the reader's understanding of a family and a house collapsing together. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate The Fall of the House of Usher within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of a family and a house collapsing together responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read The Fall of the House of Usher alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of a family and a house collapsing together follows or bends those conventions, using the setting as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Fall of the House of Usher and its treatment of a family and a house collapsing together. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's setting and imagery, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Fall of the House of Usher as evidence for a larger claim about a family and a house collapsing together in The Fall of the House of Usher. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Fall of the House of Usher as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of a family and a house collapsing together. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Fall of the House of Usher.

SAT-style questions

1. It was, he said, a constitutional and a family evil, and one for which he despaired to find a remedy—a mere nervous affection, he immediately added, which would undoubtedly soon pass off.

   As used in the text, what does the word "despaired" most nearly mean?

   A. abandon hope; give up hope; lose heart
   B. approached and spoken to
   C. closely; carefully
   D. hate coupled with disgust

2. The room in which I found myself was very large and lofty. The windows were long, narrow, and pointed, and at so vast a distance from the black oaken floor as to be altogether inaccessible from within. Feeble gleams of encrimsoned light made their way through the trellissed panes, and served to render sufficiently distinct the more prominent objects around; the eye, however, struggled in vain to reach the remoter angles of the chamber, or the recesses of the vaulted and fretted ceiling. Dark draperies hung upon the walls. The general furniture was profuse, comfortless, antique, and tattered. Many books and musical instruments lay scattered about, but failed to give any vitality to the scene. I felt that I breathed an atmosphere of sorrow. An air of stern, deep, and irredeemable gloom hung over and pervaded all.

   Which choice best states a central concern of "The Fall of the House of Usher"?

   A. A boy's romantic quest ending in disillusion
   B. A family and a house collapsing together
   C. Superstition used against a credulous man
   D. A reversal that punishes a change of heart

SAT key: 1. A (abandon hope; give up hope; lose heart); 2. B (A family and a house collapsing together)

   Key: exaggeration

7. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 4? “There was an iciness, a sinking, a sickening of the heart—an unredeemed dreariness of thought which no goading of the _____ could torture into aught of the sublime.”

   A. insoluble

   B. imagination

   C. difficulty

   D. experiment

   Key: B (imagination)

8. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 7? “Such, I have long known, is the _____ law of all sentiments having terror as a basis.”

   A. paradoxical

   B. experiment

   C. importunate

   D. expression

   Key: A (paradoxical)

9. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 11? “The silken hair, too, had been suffered to grow all unheeded, and as, in its wild gossamer texture, it floated rather than fell about the face, I could not, even with effort, connect its Arabesque _____ with any idea of simple humanity.”

   A. cataleptical

   B. imagination

   C. experiment

   D. expression

   Key: D (expression)

10. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 17? “A settled apathy, a gradual wasting away of the person, and frequent although transient affections of a partially _____ character, were the unusual diagnosis.”

    A. cataleptical

    B. difficulty

    C. importunate

    D. occupations

    Key: A (cataleptical)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? “The now ghastly pallor of the skin, and the now miraculous lustre of the eye, above all things startled and even awed me.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 11) shows the situation turning on fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “miraculous” and “startled” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “Although, as boys, we had been even intimate associates, yet I really knew little of my friend.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 6) shows the situation turning on the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “associates” and “intimate” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 72 reveal about the character or situation? “Its immense weight caused an unusually sharp grating sound, as it moved upon its hinges.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 72) shows the situation turning on fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “unusually” and “immense” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 21 reveal about the character or situation? “The verses, which were entitled ‘The Haunted Palace,’ ran very nearly, if not accurately, thus:” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 21) shows the situation turning on the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The words “accurately” and “entitled” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

15. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. “I say insufferable; for the feeling was unrelieved by any of that half-pleasurable, because poetic, sentiment, with which the mind usually…”

    B. “I know not how it was—but, with the first glimpse of the building, a sense of insufferable gloom pervaded my spirit.”

    C. “What was it—I paused to think—what was it that so unnerved me in the contemplation of the House of Usher?”

    D. “There was an iciness, a sinking, a sickening of the heart—an unredeemed dreariness of thought which no goading of the imagination could…”

    Key: B (“I know not how it was—but, with the first glimpse of the building, a sense of insufferable gloom pervaded my spirit.”)

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 18 shapes its tone: “For several days ensuing, her name was unmentioned by either Usher or myself; and during this period I was busied in earnest endeavors to alleviate the melancholy of my friend.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “unmentioned” and “melancholy” (paragraph 18) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 69 shapes its tone: “The result was discoverable, he added, in that silent, yet importunate and terrible influence which for centuries had moulded the destinies of his family, and which made him what I now saw him—what he was.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “discoverable” and “importunate” (paragraph 69) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 21 to the story's treatment of fear and the imagination: “It was, perhaps, the narrow limits to which he thus confined himself upon the guitar, which gave birth, in great measure, to the fantastic character of his performances.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 21) develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “performances” and “fantastic” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The verses, which were entitled ‘The Haunted Palace,’ ran very nearly, if not accurately, thus:” (paragraph 21), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating fear and the imagination as central.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 19 shapes its tone: “By the utter simplicity, by the nakedness of his designs, he arrested and overawed attention.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “simplicity” and “attention” (paragraph 19) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 11 shapes its tone: “Surely, man had never before so terribly altered, in so brief a period, as had Roderick Usher!” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “terribly” and “altered” (paragraph 11) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 69 to the story's treatment of fear and the imagination: “The belief, however, was connected (as I have previously hinted) with the gray stones of the home of his forefathers.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 69) develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “forefathers” and “previously” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The result was discoverable, he added, in that silent, yet importunate and terrible influence which for centuries had…” (paragraph 69), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating fear and the imagination as central.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 74 shapes its tone: “The pallor of his countenance had assumed, if possible, a more ghastly hue—but the luminousness of his eye had utterly gone out.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “luminousness” and “countenance” (paragraph 74) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “In the manner of my friend I was at once struck with an incoherence—an inconsistency; and I soon found this to arise from a series of feeble and futile struggles to overcome an habitual trepidancy—an excessive nervous agitation." Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words "inconsistency" and "incoherence" (paragraph 12) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of fear and the imagination: "A glance, however, at his countenance, convinced me of his perfect sincerity." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 11) develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words "countenance" and "sincerity" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Surely, man had never before so terribly altered, in so brief a period, as had Roderick Usher!" (paragraph 11), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating fear and the imagination as central.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 5 to the story's treatment of fear and the imagination: "The writer spoke of acute bodily illness—of a mental disorder which oppressed him—and of an earnest desire to see me, as his best, and indeed his only personal friend, with a view of attempting, by the cheerfulness of my society, some…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 5) develops fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words "cheerfulness" and "alleviation" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Although, as boys, we had been even intimate associates, yet I really knew little of my friend." (paragraph 6), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating fear and the imagination as central.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 4 shapes its tone: "What was it—I paused to think—what was it that so unnerved me in the contemplation of the House of Usher?" Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words "contemplation" and "unnerved" (paragraph 4) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to fear and the imagination: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 4 to the story's treatment of the double: "I was forced to fall back upon the unsatisfactory conclusion, that while, beyond doubt, there are combinations of very simple natural objects which have the power of thus affecting us, still the analysis of this power lies among…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 4) develops the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words "considerations" and "unsatisfactory" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Its proprietor, Roderick Usher, had been one of my boon companions in boyhood; but many years had elapsed since our…" (paragraph 5), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the double as central.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 19 to the story's treatment of the double: "I shall ever bear about me a memory of the many solemn hours I thus spent alone with the master of the House of Usher." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 19) develops the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words "memory" and "solemn" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “An excited and highly distempered ideality threw a sulphureous lustre over all.” (paragraph 19), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the double as central.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 20 to the story's treatment of the double: “A small picture presented the interior of an immensely long and rectangular vault or tunnel, with low walls, smooth, white, and without interruption or device.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 20) develops the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “interruption” and “rectangular” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “No outlet was observed in any portion of its vast extent, and no torch, or other artificial source of light was…” (paragraph 20), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the double as central.

30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 73 shapes its tone: “Our glances, however, rested not long upon the dead—for we could not regard her unawed.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “glances” and “however” (paragraph 73) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 74 to the story's treatment of the double: “There were times, indeed, when I thought his unceasingly agitated mind was laboring with some oppressive secret, to divulge which he struggled for the necessary courage.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 74) develops the double: Roderick says he will "abandon life and reason together" in a struggle with fear; the story makes the reader share the narrator's growing panic. Its words “unceasingly” and “oppressive” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “I say insufferable; for the feeling was unrelieved by any of that half-pleasurable, because poetic, sentiment, with…” (paragraph 4), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the double as central.

Final paper

The Fall of the House of Usher: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Edgar Allan Poe develops decay of family and mind across The Fall of the House of Usher. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Fall of the House of Usher and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to fear and the imagination.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Fall of the House of Usher. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Fall of the House of Usher finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of the double. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.

Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Poe uses the house as a mirror of Roderick's mind, so its collapse completes his. The text makes this visible when it says “a barely perceptible fissure, which, extending from the roof of the building in front, made its way down the wall in a zigzag direction” (The Fall of the House of Usher, paragraph 8). The narrator notices "a barely perceptible fissure" from roof to ground, and Roderick foresees the day he "must abandon life and reason together"; at the end the fissure widens and house and mind fall at once. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
