Lesson 1: Introduction to The Country of the Blind

Objective: Students will explain, in a 3-sentence exit ticket, how one fact about H. G. Wells's life or times connects to perception and truth in “The Country of the Blind”, and will set up a reading journal with a prediction and a question for each of 3 themes (perception and truth, conformity, arrogance).

Author biography

H. G. Wells was born in Bromley, Kent, on 21 September 1866, the son of a shopkeeper and a housekeeper. He was apprenticed to a draper, won a scholarship to study science under T. H. Huxley in London, and became a teacher and journalist. The Time Machine (1895), The Invisible Man (1897) and The War of the Worlds (1898) helped found modern science fiction; he later wrote social stories, a best-selling Outline of History and campaigned for world government. He died in London on 13 August 1946.

Historical and cultural context

The story is set in the Andes of Ecuador, at the height of the age of exploration and empire, when Europeans assumed their own superiority. Wells was interested in evolution and how communities adapt.

Publication and reception, then and now

First published in The Strand Magazine in April 1904; Wells revised it in 1939 with a different ending.

Then: Admired as one of Wells's best stories.

Now: Read as a parable about perception, conformity and cultural arrogance.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Nunez, a mountaineer, falls into a hidden Andean valley where everyone has been blind for generations. He expects to rule, recalling the proverb "In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King."

Main themes

- perception and truth.
- conformity.
- cultural arrogance.

Why it matters

It asks how communities treat difference, and whether "normal" is relative.

Spoilers · teacher only

The villagers think his sight a delusion; to marry the woman he loves he must have his eyes removed. He flees up the mountain, and in the 1904 version lies down content, probably to die.

I read "In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King" slowly and put it in my own words: Nunez recalls the saying that the one-eyed man would be king in a country of the blind. Next, craft. I notice the capital letters, Country and King, which make it sound like a law. The strongest word is "One-eyed": it is a mark of limited sight, yet he assumes even that is superior. Then, effect. What does this proverb reveal about Nunez's attitude? My answer: He comes in assuming he is better than people who are different; Wells uses the line to question who has the true view.

Mountaineer Nunez falls into an isolated Andean valley whose people have been blind for fifteen generations and no longer believe in sight. He expects 'In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King' but is treated as a madman. He falls in love with Medina-saroté; the elders agree to the marriage if his eyes, thought to be diseased, are removed. On the morning of the operation he climbs out of the valley and lies smiling under the stars.

Background: Published in The Strand in 1904; the valley's beliefs satirize how communities enforce their own 'truth'.

Significance: Often paired with Plato's allegory of the cave in discussing perception and conformity.

2. Find one example of irony in this story. What does it reveal that a plain statement would not? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true.
3. How does the setting in this story shape what we understand about the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for where and when events happen and how place shapes action or feeling.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Useful evidence: “In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 19): The proverb. On setting: The isolated valley is a fully adapted world. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “Nunez had an eye for all beautiful things, and it seemed to him that the glow upon the snowfields and glaciers that rose about the valley on every side was the most beautiful…”, why might Wells have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Country of the Blind”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Mountaineer Nunez falls into an isolated Andean valley whose people have been blind for fifteen generations and no longer believe in sight. He expects 'In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King' but is treated as a madman. He falls in love with Medina-saroté; the elders agree to the…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Country of the Blind” set up that the rest of The Country of the Blind will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Useful evidence: “I come from the great world—where men have eyes and see” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 55): His arrogance. Theme link: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Useful evidence: “He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197): His final choice of sight over love. On characterization: Nunez begins arrogant and ends humbled. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is it better to fit in or to keep a truth others reject?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does theme appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with perception and truth? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for statements or moments that connect to the book's big ideas.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Useful evidence: “In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 19): The proverb. Theme link: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Published in The Strand in 1904; the valley's beliefs satirize how communities enforce their own 'truth'. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Key: C (unfamiliar)

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 2 reveal about the character or situation? “Far overhead, on three sides, vast cliffs of grey-green rock were capped by cliffs of ice; but the glacier stream came not to them but flowed away by the farther slopes, and only now and then huge ice masses fell on the valley side.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 2) shows the situation turning on perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “overhead” and “glacier” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 92 reveal about the character or situation? “Intonation had long replaced expression with them, and touches gesture, and their work with hoe and spade and fork was as free and confident as garden work can be.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 92) shows the situation turning on perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “expression” and “confident” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I come from the great world—where men have eyes and see” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 55) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: His arrogance. The evidence is “I come from the great world—where men have eyes and see” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 55). This develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference.
14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 3 shapes its tone: “These two passed, leaving their effects, and the little community grew in numbers and in understanding, and met and settled social and economic problems that arose.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “understanding” and “community” (paragraph 3) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 100 shapes its tone: “Far away he saw a number of men carrying spades and sticks come out of the street of houses, and advance in a spreading line along the several paths towards him.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “spreading” and “carrying” (paragraph 100) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 66 to the story's treatment of perception and truth: “He said the night—for the blind call their day night—was now far gone, and it behoved every one to go back to sleep.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 66) develops perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “behoved” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “His eyes went from that inaccessible glory to the village and irrigated fields, fast sinking into the twilight, and…” (paragraph 72), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating perception and truth as central.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “They startled him by a _____ movement towards him, each with a hand outstretched.” Word bank: glaciers, cascade, converged, simultaneous
    Key: simultaneous

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 91? “They toiled, but not _____; they had food and clothing sufficient for their needs; they had days and seasons of rest; they made much of music and singing, and there was love among them, and little children.”

    A. pocket

    B. unanticipated

    C. unfamiliar

    D. oppressively

    Key: D (oppressively)

19. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What proverb does Nunez repeat?

    A. Seeing is believing

    B. Love is blind

    C. Pride goes before a fall

    D. In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King

    Key: D (In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King)

20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 19) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The proverb. The evidence is “In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 19). This develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: His final choice of sight over love. The evidence is “He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197). This develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “thought” and “become” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 12 shapes its tone: “He was stiff and weary; he sat down in the shadow of a rock, filled up his flask with water from a spring and drank it down, and remained for a time resting before he went on to the houses.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “remained” and “resting” (paragraph 12) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 146 to the story's treatment of perception and truth: “Very likely, some day, we shall find him as sane as ourselves.’” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 146) develops perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “ourselves” and “likely” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “One might think,’ he said, ‘from the tone you take, that you did not care for my daughter.” (paragraph 161), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating perception and truth as central.

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 61: “There was a pause as if the unseen persons about him tried to _____ his words.” Word bank: noiselessly, civilisation, gesticulated, understand

    Key: understand

25. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Once at a rest-day gathering they sat side by side in the dim _____, and the music was sweet.” Word bank: glaciers, starlight, cascade, converged

    Key: starlight

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 18 to the story's treatment of perception and truth: “But Nunez advanced with the confident steps of a youth who enters upon life.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 18) develops perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “confident” and “advanced” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He heard people shouting, and saw a number of figures gathering together in the middle roadway of the village.” (paragraph 50), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating perception and truth as central.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how conformity develops from the opening of “The Country of the Blind” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Near the start, “In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 19) — The proverb. Later, “He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197), which shows his final choice of sight over love. The valley wants to "cure" his difference.

28. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 3? “They were a simple strain of people at the first, unlettered, only slightly touched with the Spanish _____, but with something of a tradition of the arts of old Peru and of its lost philosophy.”

    A. pocket

    B. civilisation

    C. children

    D. practicable

    Key: B (civilisation)

29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 118 shapes its tone: “He lost his nerve, hurled his spade a yard wide at his antagonist, and whirled about and fled, fairly yelling as he dodged another.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “antagonist” and “whirled” (paragraph 118) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO1] In the line “He had slipped eastward towards the unknown side of the mountain; far below he had struck a steep slope of snow, and ploughed his way down it in the midst of a snow avalanche.”, what does “avalanche” most nearly mean?

    A. a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain

    B. huge slow-moving masses of ice

    C. a falling mass, like a waterfall

    D. came together from different directions

    Key: A (a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain)

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “I come from the great world—where men have eyes and see” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 55) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: His arrogance. The evidence is “I come from the great world—where men have eyes and see” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 55). This develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “world” and

"great" carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Nunez repeats "In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King," but the villagers see him as deluded and want to remove his eyes; finally, on the mountain, "He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote.".

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 138 to the story's treatment of perception and truth: "He went to her one day when she was sitting in the summer moonlight spinning." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 138) develops perception and truth: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words "moonlight" and "spinning" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Sight seemed to her the most poetical of fancies, and she listened to his description of the stars and the mountains…" (paragraph 140), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating perception and truth as central.

33. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line "Over mountains and glaciers; right over above there, half-way to the sun.", what does "glaciers" most nearly mean?

    A. a falling mass, like a waterfall
    B. came together from different directions
    C. huge slow-moving masses of ice
    D. a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain

    Key: C (huge slow-moving masses of ice)

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line "He descended a steep place, and so came to the wall and channel that ran about the valley, near where the latter spouted out its surplus contents into the deeps of the gorge in a thin and wavering thread of cascade.", what does "cascade" most nearly mean?

    A. a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain
    B. came together from different directions
    C. huge slow-moving masses of ice
    D. a falling mass, like a waterfall

    Key: D (a falling mass, like a waterfall)

35. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Claim: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: "He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote" (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197).

    Sample answer: Nunez repeats "In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King," but the villagers see him as deluded and want to remove his eyes; finally, on the mountain, "He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote.". The evidence is "He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote" (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197), which shows his final choice of sight over love. This develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference.

36. [mc · inference · DOK 2 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] Which choice best states a central concern of "The Country of the Blind"?

    A. Moral worth found among those society rejects
    B. The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently
    C. Human limits in an indifferent nature
    D. The hunter becoming the hunted

    Key: B (The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently)

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Country of the Blind,” how does Wells show the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In The Country of the Blind, how does Wells develop the idea of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how The Country of the Blind develops the idea of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of The Country of the Blind (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what The Country of the Blind suggests about the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how H. G. Wells uses irony in The Country of the Blind to complicate the reader's understanding of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate The Country of the Blind within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read The Country of the Blind alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Country of the Blind and its treatment of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Country of the Blind as evidence for a larger claim about the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently in The Country of the Blind. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Country of the Blind as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of the arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Country of the Blind.

SAT-style questions

1. Over mountains and glaciers; right over above there, half-way to the sun.

   As used in the text, what does the word “glaciers” most nearly mean?

   A. huge slow-moving masses of ice

   B. a very steep cliff

   C. politely, with good manners

   D. the light of the stars

2. Nunez had an eye for all beautiful things, and it seemed to him that the glow upon the snowfields and glaciers that rose about the valley on every side was the most beautiful thing he had ever seen. His eyes went from that inaccessible glory to the village and irrigated fields, fast sinking into the twilight, and suddenly a wave of emotion took him, and he thanked God from the bottom of his heart that the power of sight had been given him.

Which choice best states a central concern of "The Country of the Blind"?

A. The futile attempt to shut out death

B. Greed that grasps more than a person needs

C. The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently

D. The hunter becoming the hunted

SAT key: 1. A (huge slow-moving masses of ice); 2. C (The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently)

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

    Key: curiously

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 116 reveal about the character or situation? “He stopped, and then made a dash to escape from their closing ranks.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 116) shows the situation turning on arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “closing” and “stopped” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 140 reveal about the character or situation? “Sight seemed to her the most poetical of fancies, and she listened to his description of the stars and the mountains and her own sweet white-lit beauty as though it was a guilty indulgence.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 140) shows the situation turning on conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “description” and “indulgence” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. “Far overhead, on three sides, vast cliffs of grey-green rock were capped by cliffs of ice; but the glacier stream came not to them but…”

    B. “Three hundred miles and more from Chimborazo, one hundred from the snows of Cotopaxi, in the wildest wastes of Ecuador's Andes, there lies…”

    C. “In his wallet he had a bar of native silver for which he would not account; he insisted there was none in the valley with something of the…”

    D. “A strange disease had come upon them, and had made all the children born to them there—and indeed, several older children also—blind.”

    Key: B (“Three hundred miles and more from Chimborazo, one hundred from the snows of Cotopaxi, in the wildest wastes of Ecuador's Andes, there lies…”)

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 50 reveal about the character or situation? “He heard people shouting, and saw a number of figures gathering together in the middle roadway of the village.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 50) shows the situation turning on conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “gathering” and “shouting” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 161 shapes its tone: “One might think,’ he said, ‘from the tone you take, that you did not care for my daughter.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “daughter” (paragraph 161) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “In his wallet he had a bar of native silver for which he would not account; he insisted there was none in the valley with something of the insistence of an inexpert liar.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “insistence” and “something” (paragraph 2) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 7 to the story's treatment of conformity: “He came to himself with a dim fancy that he was ill in bed; then realised his position with a mountaineer's intelligence, and worked himself loose and, after a rest or so, out until he saw the stars.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 7) develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “mountaineer's” and “intelligence” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “For a while he lay, gazing blankly at that vast pale cliff towering above, rising moment by moment out of a subsiding…” (paragraph 8), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating conformity as central.

18. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 8 reveal about the character or situation? “For a while he lay, gazing blankly at that vast pale cliff towering above, rising moment by moment out of a subsiding tide of darkness.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 8) shows the situation turning on arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The words “subsiding” and “darkness” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 16 shapes its tone: “When at last, after much shouting and wrath, Nunez crossed the stream by a little bridge, came through a gate in the wall, and approached them, he was sure that they were blind.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “approached” and “shouting” (paragraph 16) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 72 shapes its tone: “His eyes went from that inaccessible glory to the village and irrigated fields, fast sinking into the twilight, and suddenly a wave of emotion took him, and he thanked God from the bottom of his heart that the power of sight had been given…” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “inaccessible” and “irrigated” (paragraph 72) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 95 shapes its tone: “He saw that in some manner he shocked them, and gave up that aspect of the matter altogether, and tried to show them the practical value of sight.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “altogether” and “practical” (paragraph 95) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 3 to the story's treatment of arrogance: “The seeing had become purblind so gradually that they scarcely noted their loss.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 3) develops arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “gradually” and “purblind” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “These two passed, leaving their effects, and the little community grew in numbers and in understanding, and met and…” (paragraph 3), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating arrogance as central.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 142 shapes its tone: “The young men were all angry at the idea of corrupting the race, and one went so far as to revile and strike Nunez.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “corrupting” and “strike” (paragraph 142) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 97 to the story's treatment of arrogance: “He hesitated, and found them all aware that he had snatched up the spade.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 97) develops arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “hesitated” and “snatched” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Far away he saw a number of men carrying spades and sticks come out of the street of houses, and advance in a spreading…” (paragraph 100), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating arrogance as central.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 59 shapes its tone: “His arm, outflung, struck the face of someone else as he went down; he felt the soft impact of features and heard a cry of anger, and for a moment he struggled against a number of hands that clutched him.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “struggled” and “clutched” (paragraph 59) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 133 shapes its tone: “But they insisted on his lying in the dark, and that was a great misery.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “insisted” and “misery” (paragraph 133) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 107 to the story's treatment of conformity: “He looked back at the high and unclimbable wall behind—unclimbable because of its smooth plastering, but withal pierced with many little doors, and at the approaching line of seekers.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 107) develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “unclimbable” and “approaching” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He stopped, and then made a dash to escape from their closing ranks.” (paragraph 116), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating conformity as central.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 90 to the story's treatment of arrogance: “It was, he found, much more difficult to proclaim himself than he had supposed, and in the meantime, while he meditated his coup d'état, he did what he was told and learnt the manners and customs of the Country of the Blind.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 90) develops arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “difficult” and “meditated” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Intonation had long replaced expression with them, and touches gesture, and their work with hoe and spade and fork was…” (paragraph 92), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating arrogance as central.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 177 to the story's treatment of arrogance: “He felt anger, indeed, anger at the dull course of fate, but also sympathy for her lack of understanding—a sympathy near akin to pity.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 177) develops arrogance: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “understanding” and “sympathy” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Far overhead, on three sides, vast cliffs of grey-green rock were capped by cliffs of ice; but the glacier stream came…” (paragraph 2), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating arrogance as central.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 123 to the story's treatment of conformity: “Finally he crawled down to the wall of the Country of the Blind and tried to make terms.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 123) develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words “crawled” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “But they insisted on his lying in the dark, and that was a great misery." (paragraph 133), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating conformity as central.

31. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line "He gripped his spade still tighter, and advanced down the meadows towards the place of habitations, and directly he moved they converged upon him. 'I'll hit them if they touch me,' he swore; 'by Heaven, I will.", what does "converged" most nearly mean?

    B. came together from different directions

    C. a falling mass, like a waterfall

    D. a slide of large masses of snow and ice and mud down a mountain

    Key: B (came together from different directions)

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Connect this passage from paragraph 13 to the story's treatment of conformity: "They were parti-coloured with extraordinary irregularity, smeared with a sort of plaster that was sometimes grey, sometimes drab, sometimes slate-coloured or dark brown; and it was the sight of this wild plastering first brought the word…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 13) develops conformity: the valley wants to "cure" his difference. Its words "extraordinary" and "irregularity" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "When at last, after much shouting and wrath, Nunez crossed the stream by a little bridge, came through a gate in the…" (paragraph 16), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating conformity as central.

Final paper

The Country of the Blind: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how H. G. Wells develops perception and truth across The Country of the Blind. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Country of the Blind and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to conformity.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Country of the Blind. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Country of the Blind finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of arrogance. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.
Organization	15

		Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Wells overturns Nunez's belief that sight makes him superior. The text makes this visible when it says “He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote” (The Country of the Blind, paragraph 197). Nunez repeats "In the Country of the Blind the One-eyed Man is King," but the villagers see him as deluded and want to remove his eyes; finally, on the mountain, "He thought of Medina-saroté, and she had become small and remote.". A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
