Grades: Grades 9–12 (accessible text, well suited to the scaffolded-support track; scales to graduate via rigor levels). Short story: read whole in one 90-minute lesson (assign longer stories as pre-reading). The scaffolded-support track works from the full text with scaffolds. Weeks: 1. Class days: 2 × 90 minutes (1 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does The Last Leaf suggest about hope and the will to live?
- What does The Last Leaf suggest about art and sacrifice?
- What does The Last Leaf suggest about friendship?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

O. Henry was the pen name of William Sydney Porter, born on 11 September 1862 in Greensboro, North Carolina. He trained as a pharmacist, moved to Texas, and worked as a draftsman, bank teller and humorous journalist. Convicted of embezzling from the Austin bank where he had worked (he maintained his innocence), he served about three years in the Ohio Penitentiary (1898–1901), where he began publishing stories as O. Henry. In New York he wrote a story a week for the New York World and produced hundreds of tales of ordinary city people, famous for their warmth, wordplay and twist endings. He died in New York on 5 June 1910.

Historical and cultural context

Greenwich Village around 1900 was a cheap neighbourhood of artists; pneumonia was a leading cause of death before antibiotics (penicillin was not used until the 1940s).

Publication and reception, then and now

Collected in The Trimmed Lamp (1907); it may have appeared first in a newspaper.

Then: A popular sentimental tale.

Now: Widely taught for its personification, theme of hope, and twist.

Overview (spoiler-free)

In a Greenwich Village studio, young artist Johnsy falls ill with pneumonia and decides she will die when the last ivy leaf falls from the vine outside.

Main themes

- hope and the will to live.
- sacrifice.
- art and its purpose.

Why it matters

It asks what art is for and how much hope matters in illness.

Spoilers · teacher only

One leaf never falls, and Johnsy recovers; old Behrman, a failed painter, had painted it on the wall during a storm, caught pneumonia and died. It was his masterpiece.

Lesson 2: The Last Leaf

Focus: hope created by an act of sacrifice

Objective: Students will analyze how symbolism develops in "The Last Leaf" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see the unit standards

Content note (illness and death, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Illness and death. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. This section mentions drinking or a drug ("…she can sell the editor man with it, and buy port wine for her sick child, and pork chops for…"). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes illness and death.
Suggested language: "Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?"

In Greenwich Village, young artist Johnsy is dying of pneumonia and believes she will die when the last ivy leaf falls outside her window. Her friend Sue tells their neighbor, the old failed painter Behrman. Through a stormy night one leaf survives, and Johnsy regains her will to live. Then they learn Behrman died of pneumonia after painting the leaf on the wall in the storm: his masterpiece.

Background: Published in 1907. Pneumonia was a leading cause of death in crowded New York tenements before antibiotics.

Significance: It links art, hope and sacrifice through a single symbol.

Then start your writing prompt at your assigned level (HS Sophomore: Analyze how The Last Leaf develops the idea of hope created by an act of sacrifice. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.) Exemplar: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. When the text says "it's Behrman's masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell" (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55), it shows this directly. Behrman, who never painted a masterpiece, paints one leaf, and Sue says "it's Behrman's masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell"; its value is that it saved Johnsy.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21): Her despair. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “At the top of a squatty, three-story brick Sue and Johnsy had their studio.”, why might Henry have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Last Leaf”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: In Greenwich Village, young artist Johnsy is dying of pneumonia and believes she will die when the last ivy leaf falls outside her window. Her friend Sue tells their neighbor, the old failed painter Behrman. Through a stormy night one leaf survives, and Johnsy regains her will to live. Then they…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Last Leaf” set up that the rest of The Last Leaf will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55): The reveal. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4):

Personification. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. The bell-ringer asked: “Can a person's attitude affect whether they get well? What do you think?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with hope and the will to live? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21): Her despair. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Published in 1907. Pneumonia was a leading cause of death in crowded New York tenements before antibiotics. How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): unit standards] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55): The reveal. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Evaluative / synthesis / creative

1. A critic might argue: “It links art, hope and sacrifice through a single symbol.” How far do you agree? Take a stand and defend it with two lines from the story. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: A defended position with evidence and one counterpoint.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4): Personification. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the symbolism in this story effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55): The reveal. On symbolism: The leaf stands for life and hope. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “The Last Leaf” treats hope created by an act of sacrifice with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does The Last Leaf see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4): Personification. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

8. As the final story, does this ending resolve hope and the will to live? Argue whether the ending is earned. [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: A prediction or judgment justified with textual clues.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21): Her despair. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

9. Design a one-paragraph modern adaptation of this story (setting, characters, conflict). What must stay the same for it to still be about hope created by an act of sacrifice? [DOK 4 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: A creative transfer that keeps the core idea.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55): The reveal. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. What question would you most like to ask O. Henry about this story, and what answer do you think the text itself gives? [DOK 4 · studentGenerated · wait 8 s · ICC-WC-1.5] Look for: A student-generated question answered from evidence.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Useful evidence: "whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony" (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4): Personification. Theme link: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

Annotation focus

- Symbolism: look for objects, places or actions that stand for larger ideas (anchor passage in the We do segment)
- Also notice Irony: gaps between what characters expect or say and what is true
- Also notice Characterization: what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them

10. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: "They had met at the table d'hote of an Eighth street 'Delmonico's,' and found their tastes in art, chicory salad and bishop sleeves so _____ that the joint studio resulted." Word bank: serrated, swaggered, congenial, zephyrs

    Key: congenial

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 32 reveal about the character or situation? "Vy do you allow dot silly, pusiness to come in der prain of her?" Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 32) shows the situation turning on hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words "pusiness" are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? "it's Behrman's masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell" (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The reveal. The evidence is "it's Behrman's masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell" (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55). This develops sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? "Suppose a collector with a bill for paints, paper and canvas should, in traversing this route, suddenly meet himself coming back, without a cent having been paid on account!" Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 1) shows the situation turning on hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words "traversing" and "collector" are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 35 shapes its tone: "Sue pulled the shade down to the window-sill, and motioned Behrman into the other room." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words "motioned" and "pulled" (paragraph 35) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral.

That weight points the reader to hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 43 shapes its tone: “The lonesomest thing in all the world is a soul when it is making ready to go on its mysterious, far journey.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “lonesomest” and “mysterious” (paragraph 43) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 48 to the story's treatment of hope and the will to live: “You may bring me a little broth now, and some milk with a little port in it, and—no; bring me a handmirror first; and then pack some pillows about me, and I will sit up and watch you cook.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 48) develops hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “handmirror” and “pillows” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “There is no hope for him; but he goes to the hospital to-day to be made more comfortable.” (paragraph 52), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating hope and the will to live as central.
17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 7? “Your _____ lady has made up her mind that she’s not going to get well.”
    A. bedclothes
    B. finished
    C. drawing
    D. little

    Key: D (little)
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Pneumonia was not what you would call a _____ old gentleman.” Word bank: serrated, swaggered, chivalric, zephyrs
    Key: chivalric
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Last Leaf, paragraph 55: “it’s Behrman’s _____—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell”
    Key: masterpiece
20. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Her despair. The evidence is “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21). This develops sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's.
21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55).
    Sample answer: Behrman, who never painted a masterpiece, paints one leaf, and Sue says "it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell"; its value is that it saved Johnsy. The evidence is “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55) — The reveal. This develops sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's.
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

Sample answer: Personification. The evidence is “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4). This develops sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words “doctors” and “stalked” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 14 shapes its tone: “She arranged her board and began a pen-and-ink drawing to illustrate a magazine story.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “illustrate” and “magazine” (paragraph 14) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

24. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Who is Behrman?

    A. Johnsy's doctor

    B. Sue's father

    C. An old painter who has never painted his masterpiece

    D. The landlord

    Key: C (An old painter who has never painted his masterpiece)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 9 shapes its tone: “Has she anything on her mind worth thinking about twice—a man, for instance?” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “instance” and “thinking” (paragraph 9) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of hope and the will to live: “She told him of Johnsy’s fancy, and how she feared she would, indeed, light and fragile as a leaf herself, float away when her slight hold upon the world grew weaker.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 30) develops hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “herself” and “fragile” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Sue found Behrman smelling strongly of juniper berries in his dimly lighted den below.” (paragraph 30), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating hope and the will to live as central.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 23 to the story's treatment of hope and the will to live: “I want to see the last one fall before it gets dark.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 23) develops hope and the will to live: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “before” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Besides, I don’t want you to keep looking at those silly ivy leaves.” (paragraph 26), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating hope and the will to live as central.

28. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “Over on the east side this _____ strode boldly, smiting his victims by scores, but his feet trod slowly through the maze of the narrow and moss-grown ‘places.’” Word bank: swaggered, ravager, serrated, zephyrs

    Key: ravager

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 32? “No, I vill not bose as a model for your fool hermit-_____.”

    A. eighteenth

    B. imaginings

    C. pictures

    Key: D (dunderhead)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how sacrifice develops from the opening of “The Last Leaf” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Near the start, “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21) — Her despair. Later, “whom the doctors called Pneumonia, stalked about the colony” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 4) — Personification. Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's.

31. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “The Last Leaf”?

    A. Courage and guilt in a small community

    B. Greed that grasps more than a person needs

    C. A boy's romantic quest ending in disillusion

    D. Hope created by an act of sacrifice

    Key: D (Hope created by an act of sacrifice)

32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Her despair. The evidence is “When the last one falls I must go, too” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 21). This develops sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words “falls” and “must” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Behrman, who never painted a masterpiece, paints one leaf, and Sue says "it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell"; its value is that it saved Johnsy.

33. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] Which literary element does this describe in “The Last Leaf”? Pneumonia is ‘Mr. Pneumonia,’ a cold stranger with an icy finger.

    A. Personification

    B. Theme

    C. Plot

    D. Hyperbole

    Key: A (Personification)

34. Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Last Leaf,” how does Henry show hope created by an act of sacrifice? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the symbolism you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): In The Last Leaf, how does Henry develop the idea of hope created by an act of sacrifice? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the symbolism in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Analyze how The Last Leaf develops the idea of hope created by an act of sacrifice. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and irony shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of The Last Leaf (where it begins, turns and ends) and its symbolism shape the reader's understanding of hope created by an act of sacrifice. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what The Last Leaf suggests about hope created by an act of sacrifice. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's symbolism and irony), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how O. Henry uses symbolism in The Last Leaf to complicate the reader's understanding of hope created by an act of sacrifice. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.3, ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.1): Situate The Last Leaf within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of hope created by an act of sacrifice responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Read The Last Leaf alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of hope created by an act of sacrifice follows or bends those conventions, using the symbolism as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Last Leaf and its treatment of hope created by an act of sacrifice. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's symbolism and irony, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Last Leaf as evidence for a larger claim about hope created by an act of sacrifice in The Last Leaf. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Last Leaf as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of hope created by an act of sacrifice. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Last Leaf.

SAT-style questions

   As used in the text, what does the word “serrated” most nearly mean?

   A. relating to the gallant, protective code of knights

   B. with anxious care for someone

   C. spoke about something with scorn

2. At the top of a squatty, three-story brick Sue and Johnsy had their studio. “Johnsy” was familiar for Joanna. One was from Maine; the other from California. They had met at the table d’hote of an Eighth street “Delmonico’s,” and found their tastes in art, chicory salad and bishop sleeves so congenial that the joint studio resulted.

Which choice best states a central concern of "The Last Leaf"?

B. Waking into a changed nation

C. A story told to protect a livelihood

SAT key: 1. D (having a jagged, saw-toothed edge); 2. D (Hope created by an act of sacrifice)

The Last Leaf: end test · 90 minutes · 18 questions per rigor version (multiple choice, fill in the blank, short answer). The class rigor level picks the version; student auto-adjust applies.

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

    C. themselves

    Key: B (finished)

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. "Your little lady has made up her mind that she's not going to get well."
    B. "Has she anything on her mind worth thinking about twice—a man, for instance?"
    C. "This way people have of lining-up on the side of the undertaker makes the entire pharmacopeia look silly."
    D. "One morning the busy doctor invited Sue into the hallway with a shaggy, gray eyebrow."

    Key: D ("One morning the busy doctor invited Sue into the hallway with a shaggy, gray eyebrow.")

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 26 reveal about the character or situation? "Besides, I don't want you to keep looking at those silly ivy leaves." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 26) shows the situation turning on art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words “looking” and “leaves” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 11 reveal about the character or situation? “If you will get her to ask one question about the new winter styles in cloak sleeves I will promise you a one-in-five chance for her, instead of one in ten.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 11) shows the situation turning on friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words “question” and “promise” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 52 reveal about the character or situation? “There is no hope for him; but he goes to the hospital to-day to be made more comfortable.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 52) shows the situation turning on art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words “comfortable” and “hospital” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 47 shapes its tone: “And then she called to Sue, who was stirring her chicken broth over the gas stove.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “stirring” and “chicken” (paragraph 47) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 30 shapes its tone: “Sue found Behrman smelling strongly of juniper berries in his dimly lighted den below.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “smelling” and “strongly” (paragraph 30) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 32 to the story's treatment of friendship: “Is dere people in de world mit der foolishness to die because leafs dey drop off from a confounded vine?” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 32) develops friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “foolishness” and “confounded” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Vy do you allow dot silly, pusiness to come in der prain of her?” (paragraph 32), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating friendship as central.

18. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 22 shapes its tone: “Why, that’s almost as good a chance as we have in New York when we ride on the street cars or walk past a new building.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “building” and “street” (paragraph 22) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 33 shapes its tone: “Very well, Mr. Behrman, if you do not care to pose for me, you needn’t.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words its wording (paragraph 33) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 2 shapes its tone: “Then they imported some pewter mugs and a chafing dish or two from Sixth avenue, and became a ‘colony.’” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “imported” and “chafing” (paragraph 2) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 44 to the story's treatment of art and sacrifice: “The day wore away, and even through the twilight they could see the lone ivy leaf clinging to its stem against the wall.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 44) develops art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “clinging” and “twilight” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “And then she called to Sue, who was stirring her chicken broth over the gas stove.” (paragraph 47), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating art and sacrifice as central.

22. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 41 reveal about the character or situation? “It will fall to-day, and I shall die at the same time.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 41) shows the situation turning on friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The words its wording are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 36 to the story's treatment of art and sacrifice: “Behrman, in his old blue shirt, took his seat as the hermit-miner on an upturned kettle for a rock.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 36) develops art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “upturned” and “kettle” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “It will fall to-day, and I shall die at the same time.” (paragraph 41), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating art and sacrifice as central.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 27 shapes its tone: “I want to turn loose my hold on everything, and go sailing down, down, just like one of those poor, tired leaves.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “everything” and “sailing” (paragraph 27) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of art and sacrifice: “I will do all that science, so far as it may filter through my efforts, can accomplish.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 11) develops art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “accomplish” and “efforts” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “If you will get her to ask one question about the new winter styles in cloak sleeves I will promise you a one-in-five…” (paragraph 11), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating art and sacrifice as central.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 15 to the story's treatment of art and sacrifice: “As Sue was sketching a pair of elegant horseshow riding trousers and a monocle on the figure of the hero, an Idaho cowboy, she heard a low sound, several times repeated.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 15) develops art and sacrifice: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “sketching” and “horseshow” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Why, that’s almost as good a chance as we have in New York when we ride on the street cars or walk past a new building.” (paragraph 22), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating art and sacrifice as central.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1] In the line “Then she swaggered into Johnsy’s room with her drawing board, whistling ragtime.”, what does “swaggered” most nearly mean?

    A. walked or behaved in a boastful, arrogant way

    B. having a jagged, saw-toothed edge

    C. having or showing no mercy

    D. soft, gentle breezes

    Key: A (walked or behaved in a boastful, arrogant way)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 7 to the story's treatment of friendship: “This way people have of lining-up on the side of the undertaker makes the entire pharmacopeia look silly.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 7) develops friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words “pharmacopeia” and “undertaker” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Has she anything on her mind worth thinking about twice—a man, for instance?” (paragraph 9), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating friendship as central.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 34 to the story's treatment of friendship: “Gott! dis is not any blace in which one so goot as Miss Yohnsy shall lie sick.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 34) develops friendship: Behrman gives his life for Johnsy's. Its words its wording carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Sue pulled the shade down to the window-sill, and motioned Behrman into the other room.” (paragraph 35), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating friendship as central.

30. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C4-LIT-1] In the line “A mite of a little woman with blood thinned by California zephyrs was hardly fair game for the red-fisted, short-breathed old duffer.”, what does “zephyrs” most nearly mean?

    A. soft, gentle breezes

    B. having or showing no mercy

    C. walked or behaved in a boastful, arrogant way

    D. having a jagged, saw-toothed edge

    Key: A (soft, gentle breezes)

Final paper

The Last Leaf: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how O. Henry develops hope and the will to live across The Last Leaf. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Last Leaf and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to art and sacrifice.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Last Leaf. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Last Leaf finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of friendship. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.
Organization	15

		Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Behrman's leaf proves that true art serves people. The text makes this visible when it says “it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell” (The Last Leaf, paragraph 55). Behrman, who never painted a masterpiece, paints one leaf, and Sue says "it’s Behrman’s masterpiece—he painted it there the night that the last leaf fell"; its value is that it saved Johnsy. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.

Essay assignments

Essay: Hope and the will to live

Scaffolded support (600 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what The Last Leaf teaches about hope and the will to live. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how O. Henry develops hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how O. Henry develops hope and the will to live across The Last Leaf. Trace the idea through at least three parts of the story and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of The Last Leaf (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of hope and the will to live. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how O. Henry's choices in The Last Leaf (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of hope and the will to live, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.4, ICC-WC-1.7): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places The Last Leaf's treatment of hope and the will to live in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf that reads the story against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on hope and the will to live in The Last Leaf, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Scaffolded support (600 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Supported track: write a five-paragraph essay explaining what The Last Leaf teaches about friendship. Use at least three quotations from passages your teacher selects from different parts of the book.

HS Freshman (800 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a multi-paragraph essay explaining how O. Henry develops friendship in The Last Leaf. Use evidence from the beginning, middle and end of the book.

HS Sophomore (1000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write an argumentative essay analyzing how O. Henry develops friendship across The Last Leaf. Trace the idea through at least three parts of the story and address a counterclaim.

HS Junior (1100 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write an analytical essay on how the structure of The Last Leaf (its order, turns and ending) shapes the meaning of friendship. Discuss at least one place where the book leaves the question open.

HS Senior (1200 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a sustained argument comparing two interpretations of friendship in The Last Leaf. Weigh the evidence for each and defend the stronger reading in a mature, well-organized essay.

AP (1300 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a literary argument: develop a defensible thesis about how O. Henry's choices in The Last Leaf (a recurring element, structure and narration) shape a complex understanding of friendship, weigh at least one competing reading, and sustain commentary on well-chosen evidence. Do not merely summarize.

College Freshman (1600 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5, ICC-WC-1.4, ICC-WC-1.7): Write a researched essay (4–6 pages) that places The Last Leaf's treatment of friendship in its historical context, using at least two scholarly sources.

College Sophomore (2200 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a contextual essay (6–8 pages) on friendship in The Last Leaf that reads the story against its genre and period and engages two published critics. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Junior (2800 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a theoretically informed essay (8–10 pages) on friendship in The Last Leaf. Name your critical method, apply it closely, and acknowledge its limits. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

College Senior (4000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a research paper (12–15 pages) with an original argument about friendship in The Last Leaf, engaging at least four scholarly sources in Chicago style. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.

Graduate / PhD (6000 words; Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): see unit standards): Write a seminar paper (15–20 pages) that intervenes in the critical conversation on friendship in The Last Leaf, engaging the relevant scholarship and textual history. At this level students write ONE of the unit's essays (choose one theme), not all five.
