Grades: Grades 9–12 (scales to graduate via rigor levels). Short story: read whole in one 90-minute lesson (assign longer stories as pre-reading). The scaffolded-support track works from the full text with scaffolds. Weeks: 1. Class days: 2 × 90 minutes (1 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about the end of the Old West?
- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about marriage and change?
- What does The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggest about comedy of expectation?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Stephen Crane was born in Newark, New Jersey, on 1 November 1871, the fourteenth child of a Methodist minister. He worked as a journalist in New York and wrote The Red Badge of Courage (1895), a Civil War story, without having seen war. As a correspondent he survived the sinking of the steamer Commodore off Florida in January 1897, spending some thirty hours in a dinghy, the basis of "The Open Boat." He reported on the Greco-Turkish and Spanish-American wars and died of tuberculosis in Germany on 5 June 1900, aged 28.

Historical and cultural context

By the 1890s the American frontier was closing (the 1890 Census declared it closed), and railroads brought Eastern manners west. Dime stories romanticized gunfighters.

Publication and reception, then and now

Published in McClure's Magazine in February 1898.

Then: Read as a western humour piece.

Now: A parody of the western and a study of the end of the frontier.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Marshal Jack Potter returns by train with his new bride, worried about how the town will take the news. Meanwhile, the drunken gunman Scratchy Wilson is terrorizing the town.

Main themes

- the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.
- civilization versus the Wild West.
- marriage and change.

Why it matters

It shows how a genre (the western) changes with history, and teaches students to recognize parody and anticlimax.

Spoilers · teacher only

Scratchy confronts the unarmed Potter, learns he is married, and walks away: "I s'pose it's all off now."

Marshal Jack Potter rides a Pullman car home to Yellow Sky with his new bride, anxious because he married without telling the town. Meanwhile drunken Scratchy Wilson terrorizes the empty street with revolvers, looking for his old enemy Potter. Scratchy confronts the unarmed marshal, hears he is married, says 'I s'pose it's all off now,' and walks away.

Background: Published in 1898. The railroad and Eastern manners reached the Southwest as the 'frontier' was declared closed (1890 census).

Significance: A parody of the Western showdown; often taught with The Open Boat.

Published in 1898. The railroad and Eastern manners reached the Southwest as the 'frontier' was declared closed (1890 census). A parody of the Western showdown; often taught with The Open Boat. Irony: The story builds to the classic western showdown, and it ends without a shot: Potter is unarmed and Scratchy is defeated by the word "married." Setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out. Characterization: Scratchy, in a flashy shirt from New York, is "a child of the earlier plains" who plays the gunman like a game; Potter is a lawman embarrassed by his own happiness. First, meaning. I read "A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio" slowly and put it in my own words: A newly married couple has boarded the Pullman train at San Antonio, heading west. Next, craft. I notice the plain, almost reporter-like sentence, which treats a wedding trip as an ordinary news item. The strongest word is "married": the marriage is the quiet event that will end the town's gunfight days, so the plain word carries the plot. Then, effect. What does Crane want us to notice about this couple from the start? My answer: Crane opens with something tame and modern, a couple on a fancy train, to show that the tame, settled world from back east is arriving in the West; the old gunfighter will be beaten not by a bullet but by a wife.

Teacher analysis (spoilers)

Literary elements

- Irony: The story builds to the classic western showdown, and it ends without a shot: Potter is unarmed and Scratchy is defeated by the word "married."
- Setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out.
- Characterization: Scratchy, in a flashy shirt from New York, is "a child of the earlier plains" who plays the gunman like a game; Potter is a lawman embarrassed by his own happiness.

Themes and how they develop

- the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

Symbols and motifs

- the funnel-shaped tracks: Scratchy leaves traces that narrow and vanish, like the Old West itself.

Key quotations (checked against the reading text)

- "A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) Opening.
- "I s'pose it's all off now" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) The ending.
- "His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) The image.

Model claim-evidence-reasoning

Claim: The marriage ends the Wild West.
Evidence: “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90)
Reasoning: Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage ends the Wild West. Useful evidence: “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2): Opening. On setting: The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “The bride was not pretty, nor was she very young.”, why might Crane have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Marshal Jack Potter rides a Pullman car home to Yellow Sky with his new bride, anxious because he married without telling the town. Meanwhile drunken Scratchy Wilson terrorizes the empty street with revolvers, looking for his old enemy Potter. Scratchy confronts the unarmed marshal, hears he is…
6. As the opening story, what does “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky” set up that the rest of The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage ends the Wild West. Useful evidence: “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88): The ending. Theme link: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage ends the Wild West. Useful evidence: “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90): The image. On characterization: Scratchy, in a flashy shirt from New York, is "a child of the earlier plains" who plays the gunman like a game; Potter is a lawman embarrassed by his own happiness. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “How do big life changes, like marriage, change how others see us?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does characterization appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with the end of the Old West? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for what characters say, do and think, and how others react to them.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: The marriage ends the Wild West. Useful evidence: “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2): Opening. 10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The ending. The evidence is “I s'pose it's all off now” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88). This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What can you infer from this line? “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Opening. The evidence is “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2). This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 27 reveal about the character or situation? “It was a heavy and muscle-bound business, as that of a man shoeing his first horse.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 27) shows the situation turning on the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “business” and “shoeing” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 1 reveal about the character or situation? “Vast flats of green grass, dull-hued spaces of mesquite and cactus, little groups of frame houses, woods of light and tender trees, all were sweeping into the east, sweeping over the horizon, a precipice.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 1) shows the situation turning on the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “precipice” and “mesquite” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 30 shapes its tone: “He took the bag from the negro, and bade his wife cling to his arm.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words its wording (paragraph 30) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 10 shapes its tone: “On other occasions he bullied them with skill in ways that did not make it exactly plain to them that they were being bullied.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “occasions” and “bullied” (paragraph 10) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 31 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “The fresh-cut bank of the Rio Grande circled near the town, and there could be seen beyond it a great, plum-colored plain of mesquite.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 31) develops the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “mesquite” and “circled” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The new-comer leaned gracefully upon the bar, and recited many tales with the confidence of a bard who has come upon a…” (paragraph 32), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the end of the Old West as central.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2: “A newly _____ pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio”
    Key: married
18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What is Scratchy Wilson doing when the train arrives?
    A. Drunkenly shooting up the town
    B. Sleeping
    C. Working in the saloon
    D. Waiting to greet Potter

    Key: A (Drunkenly shooting up the town)
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The second weapon was aimed at the _____'s chest.” Word bank: bridegroom, narrowly, dutifully, epithets
    Key: bridegroom
20. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How is Potter traveling home?
    A. In a Pullman train car
    B. By stagecoach
    C. On horseback
    D. On foot

    Key: A (In a Pullman train car)
21. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 31 shapes its tone: “One was a drummer who talked a great deal and rapidly; three were Texans who did not care to talk at that time; and two were Mexican sheep-herders who did not talk as a general practice in the ‘Weary Gentleman’ saloon.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “practice” and “drummer” (paragraph 31) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
22. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Why does Scratchy end the fight?
    A. He learns Potter is married
    B. The sheriff arrives

C. He runs out of bullets

D. Potter shoots him

Key: A (He learns Potter is married)

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “The patronage, entwined with the ordinary _____, was not plain to them.” Word bank: dutifully, epithets, deference, narrowly

Key: deference

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 20 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “If the citizens could dream of his prospective arrival with his bride, they would parade the band at the station and escort them, amid cheers and laughing congratulations, to his adobe home.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 20) develops the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “congratulations” and “prospective” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Once within that safe citadel he could issue some sort of a vocal bulletin, and then not go among the citizens until…” (paragraph 21), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the end of the Old West as central.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 37 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: “It means, my friend,’ he answered, as he came into the saloon, ‘that for the next two hours this town won't be a health resort.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 37) develops the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “answered” and “saloon” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The drummer seemed to be swayed between the interest of a foreigner and a perception of personal danger.” (paragraph 42), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the end of the Old West as central.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Claim: The marriage ends the Wild West. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90).

Sample answer: Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading. The evidence is “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) — The image. This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 14 shapes its tone: “A passenger, noting this play, grew excessively sardonic, and winked at himself in one of the numerous mirrors.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “excessively” and “passenger” (paragraph 14) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

Sample answer: Opening. The evidence is “A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2). This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “boarded” and “married” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Synthesis: trace how the closing of the frontier develops from the opening of "The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky" to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Near the start, "A newly married pair had boarded this coach at San Antonio" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 2) — Opening. Later, "His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90) — The image. Marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 17 to the story's treatment of the end of the Old West: "He was now bringing his bride before an innocent and unsuspecting community." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 17) develops the end of the Old West: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words "unsuspecting" and "community" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "At San Antonio he was like a man hidden in the dark." (paragraph 18), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the end of the Old West as central.

31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of "I s'pose it's all off now" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: The ending. The evidence is "I s'pose it's all off now" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 88). This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words "s'pose" and "it's" carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading.

    C. Courage and guilt in a small community
    D. The closing of the frontier

    Key: D (The closing of the frontier)

34. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Analyze the word choice in "His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The image. The evidence is "His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand" (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90). This develops the closing of the frontier: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words "funnel" and "shaped" carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

35. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] In the line “The traitor to the feelings of Yellow Sky narrowly watched the speeding landscape. ‘We're nearly there,’ he said.”, what does “narrowly” most nearly mean?

    A. closely; carefully

    B. a defamatory or abusive word or phrase

    C. someone who offers opposition

    D. out of a sense of duty; in a dutiful manner

    Key: A (closely; carefully)

36. [mc · analysis · DOK 3 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] Which literary element does this describe in “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”? The Pullman car, with its plush and its condescending porter, brings Eastern manners into the West; Yellow Sky is a town where the old ritual still plays out.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky,” how does Crane show the closing of the frontier? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the irony you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, how does Crane develop the idea of the closing of the frontier? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the irony in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky develops the idea of the closing of the frontier. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of irony and setting shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky (where it begins, turns and ends) and its irony shape the reader's understanding of the closing of the frontier. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky suggests about the closing of the frontier. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's irony and setting), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay. Distinguish what is directly stated from what is really meant.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Stephen Crane uses irony in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky to complicate the reader's understanding of the closing of the frontier. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of the closing of the frontier responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of the closing of the frontier follows or bends those conventions, using the irony as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky and its treatment of the closing of the frontier. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's irony and setting, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky as evidence for a larger claim about the closing of the frontier in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of the closing of the frontier. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky.

SAT-style questions

1. The traitor to the feelings of Yellow Sky narrowly watched the speeding landscape. "We're nearly there," he said.

   As used in the text, what does the word “narrowly” most nearly mean?

   A. closely; carefully

   B. a man who has recently been married

   C. be greater in scope or size than some standard

   D. a courteous expression (by word or deed) of esteem or regard

2. The bride was not pretty, nor was she very young. She wore a dress of blue cashmere, with small reservations of velvet here and there and with steel buttons abounding. She continually twisted her head to regard her puff sleeves, very stiff, straight, and high. They embarrassed her. It was quite apparent that she had cooked, and that she expected to cook, dutifully. The blushes caused by the careless scrutiny of some passengers as she had entered the car were strange to see upon this plain, under-class countenance, which was drawn in placid, almost emotionless lines.

   Which choice best states a central concern of “The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky”?

   C. A woman's brief taste of freedom

   D. A story so convincing it becomes real

SAT key: 1. A (closely; carefully); 2. B (The closing of the frontier)

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. "To the minds of the pair, their surroundings reflected the glory of their marriage that morning in San Antonio."
    B. "On other occasions he bullied them with skill in ways that did not make it exactly plain to them that they were being bullied."
    C. "This was the environment of their new estate, and the man's face in particular beamed with an elation that made him appear ridiculous to…"
    D. "This individual at times surveyed them from afar with an amused and superior grin."

    Key: A ("To the minds of the pair, their surroundings reflected the glory of their marriage that morning in San Antonio.")

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 31 reveal about the character or situation? "THE California Express on the Southern Railway was due at Yellow Sky in twenty-one minutes." Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 31) shows the situation turning on comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “minutes” and “twenty” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 18 reveal about the character or situation? “At San Antonio he was like a man hidden in the dark.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 18) shows the situation turning on marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “hidden” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 12 reveal about the character or situation? “To evince surprise at her husband's statement was part of her wifely amiability.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 12) shows the situation turning on comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “amiability” and “statement” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
15. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 32 reveal about the character or situation? “The new-comer leaned gracefully upon the bar, and recited many tales with the confidence of a bard who has come upon a new field.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 32) shows the situation turning on marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The words “confidence” and “gracefully” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.
16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 31 shapes its tone: “They exactly resembled the grass mats used to represent lawns on the stage.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “represent” and “resembled” (paragraph 31) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
17. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 28 shapes its tone: “Presently the two engines and their long string of coaches rushed into the station of Yellow Sky.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “engines” and “coaches” (paragraph 28) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 30 to the story's treatment of marriage and change: “He laughed, and groaned as he laughed, when he noted the first effect of his marital bliss upon Yellow Sky.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 30) develops marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “marital” and “groaned” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “THE California Express on the Southern Railway was due at Yellow Sky in twenty-one minutes.” (paragraph 31), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating marriage and change as central.
19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 18 shapes its tone: “But the hour of Yellow Sky, the hour of daylight, was approaching.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “approaching” and “daylight” (paragraph 18) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 21 shapes its tone: “Once within that safe citadel he could issue some sort of a vocal bulletin, and then not go among the citizens until they had time to wear off a little of their enthusiasm.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “enthusiasm” and “citizens” (paragraph 21) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 46 to the story's treatment of comedy of expectation: “He's dead sure to shoot at it, and a bullet may come through.’” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 46) develops comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “through” and “bullet” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Vast flats of green grass, dull-hued spaces of mesquite and cactus, little groups of frame houses, woods of light and…” (paragraph 1), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating comedy of expectation as central.
22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 42 shapes its tone: “The drummer seemed to be swayed between the interest of a foreigner and a perception of personal danger.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “perception” and “foreigner” (paragraph 42) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 9 shapes its tone: “At one end a bronze figure sturdily held a support for a separated chamber, and at convenient places on the ceiling were frescoes in olive and silver.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “convenient” and “separated” (paragraph 9) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 10 to the story's treatment of comedy of expectation: “This was the environment of their new estate, and the man's face in particular beamed with an elation that made him appear ridiculous to the negro porter.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 10) develops comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “environment” and “ridiculous” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “On other occasions he bullied them with skill in ways that did not make it exactly plain to them that they were being…” (paragraph 10), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating comedy of expectation as central.
25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 27 to the story's treatment of comedy of expectation: “He held a brush in his hand and, with all his airy superiority gone, he brushed Potter's new clothes as the latter slowly turned this way and that way.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 27) develops comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words “superiority” and “clothes” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “It was a heavy and muscle-bound business, as that of a man shoeing his first horse." (paragraph 27), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating comedy of expectation as central.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 29 to the story's treatment of comedy of expectation: "When the train had halted, the porter alighted first and placed in position a little temporary step." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 29) develops comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words "temporary" and "position" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "He took the bag from the negro, and bade his wife cling to his arm." (paragraph 30), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating comedy of expectation as central.
27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 16 shapes its tone: "Occasionally he was even rather absent-minded and far-away when the bride leaned forward and addressed him." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words "addressed" and "forward" (paragraph 16) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 16 to the story's treatment of marriage and change: "The train was approaching it at an angle, and the apex was Yellow Sky." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 16) develops marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words "approaching" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Occasionally he was even rather absent-minded and far-away when the bride leaned forward and addressed him." (paragraph 16), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating marriage and change as central.
29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 10 to the story's treatment of marriage and change: "He oppressed them, but of this oppression they had small knowledge, and they speedily forgot that infrequently a number of travelers covered them with stares of derisive enjoyment." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 10) develops marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words "infrequently" and "oppression" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "To evince surprise at her husband's statement was part of her wifely amiability." (paragraph 12), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating marriage and change as central.
30. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 34 shapes its tone: "He cried: 'Scratchy Wilson's drunk, and has turned loose with both hands.' The two Mexicans at once set down their glasses and faded out of the rear entrance of the saloon." Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words "entrance" and "glasses" (paragraph 34) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to comedy of expectation: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 31 to the story's treatment of marriage and change: "His head was on his paws, and he glanced drowsily here and there with the constant vigilance of a dog that is kicked on occasion." Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 31) develops marriage and change: marriage, domesticity and the railroad replace the gunfight. Its words "vigilance" and "occasion" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "They exactly resembled the grass mats used to represent lawns on the stage." (paragraph 31), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating marriage and change as central.

Final paper

The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Stephen Crane develops the end of the Old West across The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to marriage and change.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of comedy of expectation. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Summary only.

Organization	15	Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: The marriage ends the Wild West. The text makes this visible when it says “His feet made funnel-shaped tracks in the heavy sand” (The Bride Comes to Yellow Sky, paragraph 90). Scratchy says "I s'pose it's all off now," and walks away, his "funnel-shaped tracks" fading. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
