Edition: Reading text: https://en.wikisource.org/wiki/The_New_Negro/Spunk (revision 15188012), cleaned for Liber et Libri.

Grades: Grades 10–12 (scales to graduate via rigor levels). Short story: read whole in one 90-minute lesson (assign longer stories as pre-reading). The scaffolded-support track works from the full text with scaffolds. Weeks: 1. Class days: 2 × 90 minutes (1 chapter lessons plus seminar, test and essay days).

Essential questions

- What does Spunk suggest about courage and cowardice?
- What does Spunk suggest about the supernatural?
- What does Spunk suggest about community gossip?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Zora Neale Hurston was born in Notasulga, Alabama, on 7 January 1891 and grew up in Eatonville, Florida, one of the first incorporated all-Black towns in the United States. She studied at Howard University and at Barnard College under the anthropologist Franz Boas, collected African American folklore in the South and the Caribbean (Mules and Men, 1935), and became a central figure of the Harlem Renaissance. Their Eyes Were Watching God (1937) is her best-known story. She died in poverty in Fort Pierce, Florida, on 28 January 1960; Alice Walker's 1975 essay "In Search of Zora Neale Hurston" led to her rediscovery.

Historical and cultural context

Set in an all-Black Florida town modelled on Eatonville, where Hurston grew up; the story is told through the voices of men on a store porch.

Publication and reception, then and now

Published in Opportunity magazine in June 1925; included in The New Negro (1925).

Then: Won second prize in Opportunity's 1925 literary contest.

Now: A Harlem Renaissance classic of folk voice and community storytelling.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Spunk Banks, the strongest man in town, openly takes Lena from her husband, Joe Kanty, whom the porch men think a coward.

Main themes

- courage and manhood.
- the supernatural.
- community judgment.

Why it matters

It shows how a community's talk shapes reputation.

Spoilers · teacher only

Joe attacks Spunk and is shot; a black bobcat appears, and Spunk dies at the sawmill, saying Joe pushed him.

First, meaning. I read “Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself” slowly and put it in my own words: A villager says he believes Joe pushed Spunk himself. Next, craft. I notice the speech is spelled as heard, "Ah b'leeve," keeping the speaker's voice. The strongest word is “b'leeve”: the spelling shows Hurston's respect for how people really talk. Then, effect. What does this line show about the community's view of the ending? My answer: The community's explanation, a ghost's revenge, becomes the story's verdict; Hurston lets the people tell their own story.

Lesson 2: Spunk

Focus: courage and guilt in a small community

Objective: Students will analyze how diction / vocabulary develops in "Spunk" by writing a claim-evidence-reasoning paragraph that cites at least 2 quotations from the section, and will score at least 80% on the section quiz.

Standards: AP: see the unit standards

Content note (adultery, killing, dialect, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Adultery; killing; dialect. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. This section mentions drinking or a drug ("…the counter near the open pickled pig-feet tub to drink it. Elijah nudged Walter and turned wit…"). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes adultery; killing; dialect.
Suggested language: "Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?"

In an Eatonville store, men watch big Spunk Banks walk off with Lena, wife of timid Joe Kanty. Shamed, Joe attacks Spunk with a razor and is shot dead. A black bobcat haunts Spunk, who believes it is Joe. At the sawmill Spunk is pushed onto the saw and dies, saying Joe pushed him. The town gossips about who will court Lena next.

Background: Published in Opportunity in June 1925 and reprinted in Alain Locke's The New Negro (1925).

Significance: Hurston's early prize-winning story, built around a chorus of community voices.

Mini-lecture (read or adapt the script).
Published in Opportunity in June 1925 and reprinted in Alain Locke's The New Negro (1925). Hurston's early prize-winning story, built around a chorus of community voices. Point of view: Most of the story is told through the talk of men at the village store, especially Elijah Mosely; they act like a Greek chorus, judging and spreading the story, and their opinion of Joe shifts from contempt to respect. Dialect: Hurston, trained as an anthropologist, records the speech of rural Black Florida faithfully, treating it as a rich, expressive language rather than a joke. Supernatural: The black bob-cat that appears after Joe's death, and Spunk's claim that he was pushed at the saw, suggest Joe's spirit returning; Hurston never confirms it. Watch for the black bob-cat: Joe's returning spirit, watching Spunk.

First, meaning. I read "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself" slowly and put it in my own words: One of the porch-sitters says he believes dead Joe pushed Spunk into the saw. Next, craft. I notice the dialect and the calm tone about a ghost, as if it is common sense. The strongest word is "pushed": it gives the dead man action, which makes Joe's revenge real to the community. Then, effect. Why does the speaker believe Joe pushed Spunk? My answer: The town reads Spunk's death as justice from Joe's spirit; Hurston shows folk belief as the community's way of making sense of violence.

4. In the passage that begins ““ 'Nother thing," cut in one of the men, "Spunk wuz cussin' a blue streak to-day 'cause he 'lowed dat saw wuz wobblin'—almos' got 'im once.”, why might Hurston have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.FIG] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Spunk”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: In an Eatonville store, men watch big Spunk Banks walk off with Lena, wife of timid Joe Kanty. Shamed, Joe attacks Spunk with a razor and is shot dead. A black bobcat haunts Spunk, who believes it is Joe. At the sawmill Spunk is pushed onto the saw and dies, saying Joe pushed him. The town gossips…
6. As the opening story, what does “Spunk” set up that the rest of Spunk will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage. Useful evidence: “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44): The death. Theme link: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.CHR] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage. Useful evidence: “How’s yo’ wife” (Spunk, paragraph 9): The taunt. Theme link: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “What does it mean to have 'spunk'? Is it the same as courage?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · AP-LIT.LAN] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.

9. Where does foreshadowing appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with courage and cowardice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.STR] Look for: Look for hints, warnings or images that point to later events.
   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage. Useful evidence: “Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself” (Spunk, paragraph 54): Community. Theme link: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
10. Background: Published in Opportunity in June 1925 and reprinted in Alain Locke's The New Negro (1925). How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · AP-LIT.SET] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.
    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage.    A. A storekeeper
   B. A big, fearless man who takes Joe's wife
   C. A preacher
   D. Lena's brother

   Key: B (A big, fearless man who takes Joe's wife)

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 25 reveal about the character or situation? “A woman knows her boss an' she answers when he calls.' 'Lena, ain't I yo' husband?' Joe sorter whines out.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 25) shows the situation turning on the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.

The words “answers” and “husband” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

11. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which choice best states a central concern of “Spunk”?

    A. The futile attempt to shut out death

    B. The arrogance and loneliness of seeing differently

    C. A wife's quiet rebellion for a decent home

    D. Courage and guilt in a small community

    Key: D (Courage and guilt in a small community)

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 60 reveal about the character or situation? “The cooling board consisted of three sixteen-inch boards on saw horses, a dingy sheet was his shroud.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 60) shows the situation turning on the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “consisted” and “cooling” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [mc · inference · DOK 2] Which of these passages comes earliest in the story?

    A. “When Tes’ Miller got cut to giblets on that circle-saw, Spunk steps right up and starts ridin’.”

    B. “He rides that log down at saw-mill jus’ like he struts’round wid another man’s wife—jus’ don’t give a kitty.”

    C. “But that’s one thing Ah likes about Spunk Banks—he ain’t skeered of nothin’ on God’s green footstool—nothin'!”

    D. “A giant of a brown-skinned man sauntered up the one street of the Village and out into the palmetto thickets with a small pretty woman…”

    Key: D (“A giant of a brown-skinned man sauntered up the one street of the Village and out into the palmetto thickets with a small pretty woman…”)

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 28 shapes its tone: “Ah bet he's wore out half a dozen Adam's apples since Spunk's been on the job with Lena.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “apples” (paragraph 28) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Spunk”? Most of the story is told through the talk of men at the village store, especially Elijah Mosely; they act like a Greek chorus, judging and spreading the story, and their opinion of Joe shifts from contempt to respect.

    A. Imagery

    B. Point of view

    C. Setting

    D. Simile

    Key: B (Point of view)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 45 to the story's treatment of the supernatural: “Ah reckon Joe come back to dare him to marry Lena, or to come out an' fight.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 45) develops the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words “reckon” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Elijah did not answer until they had left the lighted store and were strolling down the dark street.” (paragraph 57), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the supernatural as central.
17. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 2: “A giant of a brown-skinned man _____ up the one street of the Village and out into the palmetto thickets with a small pretty woman clinging lovingly to his arm.” Word bank: carried, suspender, swallowin, sauntered
    Key: sauntered
18. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Spunk, paragraph 44: “Den he claimed _____ pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im”
    Key: somebody
19. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from paragraph 17: “Course that's yo’ fambly _____, but Ah like to see grit in anybody.” Word bank: swallowin, twitching, decent, affairs
    Key: affairs
20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Claim: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44).
    Sample answer: Spunk "claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close," and the speaker says "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself.". The evidence is “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44) — The death. This develops courage and manhood: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.
21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 38 to the story's treatment of the supernatural: “At the general store later on, they all talked of locking him up until the sheriff should come from Orlando, but no one did anything but talk.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 38) develops the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words “anything” and “sheriff” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Jus' like Ah told yo'all right in heah the night Joe wuz kilt.” (paragraph 42), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the supernatural as central.
22. [mc · recall · DOK 1] How does Joe attack Spunk?
    A. With a razor
    B. With his fists
    C. With a knife from the store
    D. With a gun

    Key: A (With a razor)
23. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 32 shapes its tone: “The men in the store heard the sharp report of a pistol somewhere distant in the palmetto thicket and soon Spunk came walking leisurely, with his big black Stetson set at the same rakish angle and Lena clinging to his arm, came walking…" Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words "leisurely" and "somewhere" (paragraph 32) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

24. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in "Spunk"? Hurston, trained as an anthropologist, records the speech of rural Black Florida faithfully, treating it as a rich, expressive language rather than a joke.

    A. Diction / vocabulary

    B. Theme

    C. Personification

    D. Dialect

    Key: D (Dialect)

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 6 shapes its tone: "When Tes' Miller got cut to giblets on that circle-saw, Spunk steps right up and starts ridin'." Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words "giblets" and "starts" (paragraph 6) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how courage and manhood develops from the opening of "Spunk" to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.

    Sample answer: Near the start, "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself" (Spunk, paragraph 54) — Community. Later, "How's yo' wife" (Spunk, paragraph 9) — The taunt. The town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.

27. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze the word choice in "How's yo' wife" (Spunk, paragraph 9). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The taunt. The evidence is "How's yo' wife" (Spunk, paragraph 9). This develops courage and manhood: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 23 to the story's treatment of the supernatural: "He might turn him up an' spank him fur gettin' in the way, but Spunk wouldn't shoot no unarmed man." Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 23) develops the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words "unarmed" and "gettin'" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "He's gonna hide that razor behind the first likely palmetto root an' sneak back home to bed." (paragraph 23), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the supernatural as central.

29. [short · inference · DOK 2 · AP: AP-LIT.CHR] What can you infer from this line? "Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im" (Spunk, paragraph 44) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The death. The evidence is "Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im" (Spunk, paragraph 44). This develops courage and manhood: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 14 to the story's treatment of the supernatural: “One could actually see the pain he was suffering, his eyes, his face, his hands and even the dejected slump of his shoulders.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 14) develops the supernatural: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words “shoulders” and “suffering” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He reached deep down into his trouser pocket and drew out a hollow ground razor, large and shiny, and passed his…” (paragraph 16), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating the supernatural as central.
31. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself” (Spunk, paragraph 54) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: Community. The evidence is “Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself” (Spunk, paragraph 54). This develops courage and manhood: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “b'leeve” and “mahself” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Spunk "claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close," and the speaker says "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself.".
32. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C2-LIT-1] In the line “The men glared at Elijah, accusingly.”, what does “accusingly” most nearly mean?
    A. in a loud, rough, lively way
    B. in a way that suggests someone has done wrong
    C. a worker who operates machines
    D. nervous and easily frightened

    Key: B (in a way that suggests someone has done wrong)
33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Program outcome: LeL-GR-LIT-1] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.
    Sample answer: The death. The evidence is “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44). This develops courage and manhood: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “somebody” and “claimed” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. Spunk "claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close," and the speaker says "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself.".

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; AP: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Spunk,” how does Hurston show courage and guilt in a small community? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the diction / vocabulary you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; AP: see unit standards): In Spunk, how does Hurston develop the idea of courage and guilt in a small community? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the diction / vocabulary in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how Spunk develops the idea of courage and guilt in a small community. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of diction / vocabulary and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; AP: see unit standards): Analyze how the structure of Spunk (where it begins, turns and ends) and its diction / vocabulary shape the reader's understanding of courage and guilt in a small community. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; AP: see unit standards): Two readers disagree about what Spunk suggests about courage and guilt in a small community. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's diction / vocabulary and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; AP: AP-LIT.FIG, AP-LIT.LAN): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Zora Neale Hurston uses diction / vocabulary in Spunk to complicate the reader's understanding of courage and guilt in a small community. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; AP: see unit standards): Situate Spunk within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of courage and guilt in a small community responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; AP: see unit standards): Read Spunk alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of courage and guilt in a small community follows or bends those conventions, using the diction / vocabulary as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; AP: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Spunk and its treatment of courage and guilt in a small community. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's diction / vocabulary and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Spunk as evidence for a larger claim about courage and guilt in a small community in Spunk. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; AP: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Spunk as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of courage and guilt in a small community. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Spunk.

Short-answer scoring guides

Scaffolded support and HS Freshman (2 points): correct answer in a complete sentence with a detail from the text. HS Sophomore to HS Senior (3 points): claim, one accurate quotation, one sentence of explanation. AP to College Sophomore (4 points): precise claim, two embedded quotations, commentary on word choice or structure, link to theme. College Junior to Graduate (5 points): nuanced thesis, close reading of two passages, synthesis across sections, a competing reading answered. Each item lists a sample answer; partial credit is described in the app.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 6 reveal about the character or situation? “But that’s one thing Ah likes about Spunk Banks—he ain’t skeered of nothin’ on God’s green footstool—nothin'!” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 6) shows the situation turning on courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “footstool” and “nothin'” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 42 reveal about the character or situation? “Jus' like Ah told yo'all right in heah the night Joe wuz kilt.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 42) shows the situation turning on community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death.

The words “yo'all” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 30 reveal about the character or situation? “Spunk took Lena's arm and walked off jus' like nothin' ain't happened and he stood there gazin' after them till they was outa sight.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 30) shows the situation turning on courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “happened” and “nothin'” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

15. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 16 reveal about the character or situation? “He reached deep down into his trouser pocket and drew out a hollow ground razor, large and shiny, and passed his moistened thumb back and forth over the edge.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 16) shows the situation turning on community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The words “moistened” and “reached” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 44 shapes its tone: “Well, night befo' las' was the fust night Spunk an' Lena moved together an' jus' as they was goin' to bed, a big black bob-cat, black all over, you hear me, black, walked round and round that house and howled like forty, and when Spunk got…” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “together” and “howled” (paragraph 44) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 14 shapes its tone: “He knew that the men lounging in the general store had seen her, moreover, he knew that the men knew he knew.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “moreover” and “lounging” (paragraph 14) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 28 to the story's treatment of community gossip: “Lena looked up at him with her eyes so full of love that they wuz runnin' over, an' Spunk seen it an' Joe seen it too, and his lip started to tremblin' and his Adam's apple was galloping up and down his neck like a race horse.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 28) develops community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words “galloping” and “tremblin'” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Spunk took Lena's arm and walked off jus' like nothin' ain't happened and he stood there gazin' after them till they…” (paragraph 30), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating community gossip as central.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 57 shapes its tone: “Elijah did not answer until they had left the lighted store and were strolling down the dark street.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “strolling” and “lighted” (paragraph 57) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 37 shapes its tone: “Take him up an' plant him in 'Stoney lonesome,'' Spunk said in a careless voice.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “lonesome” and “careless” (paragraph 37) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 11 to the story's treatment of community gossip: “Joe started and all but dropped the bottle he held in his hands.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 11) develops community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words “dropped” and “started” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He knew that the men lounging in the general store had seen her, moreover, he knew that the men knew he knew.” (paragraph 14), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating community gossip as central.

22. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 25 shapes its tone: “If Joe was a passle of wile cats Spunk would tackle the job just the same.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “passle” and “tackle” (paragraph 25) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

23. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 18 shapes its tone: “Joe Kanty laid down a nickel and stumbled out into the street.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “stumbled” and “street” (paragraph 18) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

24. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 23 shapes its tone: “He’s gonna hide that razor behind the first likely palmetto root an’ sneak back home to bed.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “palmetto” and “likely” (paragraph 23) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

25. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 59 to the story's treatment of courage and cowardice: “Everyone in the village was there, even old Jeff Kanty, Joe's father, who a few hours before would have been afraid to come within ten feet of him, stood leering triumphantly down upon the fallen giant as if his fingers had been the teeth…" Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 59) develops courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words "triumphantly" and "fingers" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "The cooling board consisted of three sixteen-inch boards on saw horses, a dingy sheet was his shroud." (paragraph 60), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating courage and cowardice as central.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 34 to the story's treatment of community gossip: "He sent Lena home and led the men back to Joe—Joe crumpled and limp with his right hand still clutching his razor." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 34) develops community gossip: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words "clutching" and "crumpled" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Take him up an' plant him in 'Stoney lonesome,'' Spunk said in a careless voice." (paragraph 37), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating community gossip as central.

27. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · AP: AP-LIT.FIG] In the line "Tell yuh the truth, Ah'm a lil bit skittish.", what does "skittish" most nearly mean?

A. nervous and easily frightened

B. in a loud, rough, lively way

C. a worker who operates machines

D. in a way that suggests someone has done wrong

Key: A (nervous and easily frightened)

28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · AP: AP-LIT.LAN] Connect this passage from paragraph 24 to the story's treatment of courage and cowardice: "What did Spunk say?' Walter broke in—'Ah like him fine but 'tain't right the way he carries on wid Lena Kanty, jus' cause Joe's timid 'bout fightin'." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 24) develops courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness; Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words "fightin'" and "carries" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "A woman knows her boss an' she answers when he calls.' 'Lena, ain't I yo' husband?' Joe sorter whines out." (paragraph 25), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating courage and cowardice as central.

29. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line "The men laughed boisterously behind Joe's back as they watched him shamble woodward.", what does "boisterously" most nearly mean?

A. nervous and easily frightened

B. in a way that suggests someone has done wrong

C. a worker who operates machines

D. in a loud, rough, lively way

Key: D (in a loud, rough, lively way)

30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Connect this passage from paragraph 25 to the story's treatment of courage and cowardice: "Then Spunk reaches out an' takes hold of her arm an' says: 'Lena, youse mine." Use one other moment from the story as well.

Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 25) develops courage and cowardice: the town measures men by physical boldness;

Joe, mocked as timid, proves his courage by attacking Spunk with a razor, and perhaps again after death. Its words "reaches" carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in "Ah bet he's wore out half a dozen Adam's apples since Spunk's been on the job with Lena." (paragraph 28), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating courage and cowardice as central.

31. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C4-LIT-1] In the line "The machinist come, looked it over an' said it wuz alright.", what does "machinist" most nearly mean?

    A. in a loud, rough, lively way

    B. nervous and easily frightened

    C. in a way that suggests someone has done wrong

    D. a worker who operates machines

    Key: D (a worker who operates machines)

Final paper

Spunk: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Zora Neale Hurston develops courage and cowardice across Spunk. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in Spunk and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to the supernatural.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in Spunk. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether Spunk finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of community gossip. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.
Organization	15

		Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Hurston leaves the supernatural open but shows the community's belief in Joe's courage. The text makes this visible when it says “Den he claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close to 'im” (Spunk, paragraph 44). Spunk "claimed somebody pushed 'im but 'twant nobody close," and the speaker says "Ah b'leeve Joe pushed 'im mahself.". A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
