Essential questions

- What does Sweat suggest about endurance and justice?
- What does Sweat suggest about domestic abuse?
- What does Sweat suggest about faith?

Objectives

- Students will cite at least 2 quotations, with locations, to support each written claim about what the text says explicitly and implicitly (scored on the writing-prompt rubric).
- Students will trace one theme across at least 3 sections of the story in the final paper, earning at least 70 of 100 rubric points.
- Students will explain how characters, setting and point of view interact in at least 3 exit tickets, each meeting the claim-evidence-reasoning criteria.
- Students will determine the in-context meaning of taught vocabulary, scoring at least 80% on the vocabulary items of the story quizzes.
- Students will write an argument with a clear claim, reasons and relevant evidence, scoring at least 80% on the unit test's short-answer scoring guides.

Author biography

Zora Neale Hurston was born in Notasulga, Alabama, on 7 January 1891 and grew up in Eatonville, Florida, one of the first incorporated all-Black towns in the United States. She studied at Howard University and at Barnard College under the anthropologist Franz Boas, collected African American folklore in the South and the Caribbean (Mules and Men, 1935), and became a central figure of the Harlem Renaissance. Their Eyes Were Watching God (1937) is her best-known story. She died in poverty in Fort Pierce, Florida, on 28 January 1960; Alice Walker's 1975 essay "In Search of Zora Neale Hurston" led to her rediscovery.

Historical and cultural context

Set in a Florida town in the 1920s; Black washerwomen did white families' laundry.

Publication and reception, then and now

Published in Fire!! (1926), a Harlem Renaissance magazine.

Then: Fire!! had limited circulation.

Now: A classic of Hurston's dialect fiction, domestic violence and justice.

Overview (spoiler-free)

Delia, a washerwoman, has supported her abusive husband Sykes for fifteen years; he tries to drive her out.

Main themes

- oppression and resilience.
- justice.
- work and dignity.

Why it matters

The story discusses domestic violence and moral choice.

Spoilers · teacher only

Sykes puts a rattlesnake in the house to kill her; it bites him, and Delia does not save him.

Content note (domestic abuse, racial slurs in dialogue, snakebite death, alcohol or drugs (mentioned)): Sensitive content: Domestic abuse; racial slurs in dialogue; snakebite death. Preview the story, tell students in advance, and allow a pass on reading aloud. Keep discussion on how the writer uses these elements, not on graphic detail. The text quotes racial slurs in period dialogue: decide in advance that no one reads them aloud, and name why the author records them. This section mentions drinking or a drug (“…m. Nohow he wouldn't risk breakin' out his fangs 'gin yo' skinny laigs." "Naw, now Syke, don'…”). Treat it as period custom or plot detail; name it plainly and don't glamorize it.
Student preview: Heads-up: this story includes domestic abuse; racial slurs in dialogue; snakebite death.
Suggested language: “Why does the writer include this, and what does it make us notice?”

Delia Jones, a washerwoman in Eatonville, Florida, has supported her abusive husband Sykes for fifteen years. Sykes wants her out of the house for his mistress and terrorizes her with a rattlesnake he keeps in a box. One night the snake gets loose; Sykes, in the dark, is bitten. Delia, hearing his cries, does not help, and waits under the Chinaberry tree as he dies.

Background: Published in 1926 in Fire!!, the one-issue Harlem Renaissance magazine edited by Wallace Thurman. Its US copyright term has expired (1926 publication).

Significance: A central Harlem Renaissance story that uses Eatonville dialect and biblical symbolism.

Published in 1926 in Fire!!, the one-issue Harlem Renaissance magazine edited by Wallace Thurman. Its US copyright term has expired (1926 publication). A central Harlem Renaissance story that uses Eatonville dialect and biblical symbolism. Irony: Sykes brings the rattlesnake to kill Delia, who fears snakes, and it kills him instead; his weapon recoils on him. Symbolism: The snake (and the bullwhip Sykes throws on her, which "looks just like a snake") stands for Sykes's cruelty and, biblically, for evil in the home. Dialect: Characters speak rural Black Florida dialect, which Hurston presents with respect; the porch men offer a chorus that condemns Sykes. Watch for sweat: Delia's labor, which pays for the house she claims as her own.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18): Delia. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
4. In the passage that begins “"Thass right, Joe, a watermelon is jes' whut Ah needs tuh cure de eppizudicks," Walter Thomas joined forces with Moseley.”, why might Hurston have chosen these particular words? Pick two and explain their connotations. [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Diction analysis of two words in the anchor passage.
5. What causes the main turn in “Sweat”, and what effect is it likely to have on what follows? [DOK 2 · followUp · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Delia Jones, a washerwoman in Eatonville, Florida, has supported her abusive husband Sykes for fifteen years. Sykes wants her out of the house for his mistress and terrorizes her with a rattlesnake he keeps in a box. One night the snake gets loose; Sykes, in the dark, is bitten. Delia, hearing his…
6. As the opening story, what does “Sweat” set up that the rest of Sweat will need? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A causal or structural link between this and the previous story.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20): Delia's claim. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
7. What can we infer about a character's motives from what they say and do here, as opposed to what they claim? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: An inference about motive supported by a quoted line.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1): The opening. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.
8. The bell-ringer asked: “Is there a point where it is right to stop helping someone who has hurt you?” Now that we have read closely, how would you revise your first answer, and which line changed your mind? [DOK 2 · thinkPairShare · wait 5 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A revised answer anchored in the text.
9. Where does diction / vocabulary appear, and how does it connect this story to the larger concern with endurance and justice? [DOK 3 · followUp · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: Look for precise or unusual word choices and their connotations.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18): Delia. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

10. Background: Published in 1926 in Fire!!, the one-issue Harlem Renaissance magazine edited by Wallace Thurman. Its US copyright term has expired (1926 publication). How does knowing this change the way you read one moment in the story? [DOK 3 · thinkPairShare · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO2] Look for: A specific moment reread in light of the context.

    Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20): Delia's claim. Look for: Student-generated questions at three levels.

Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1): The opening. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

5. Connect this story to domestic abuse: is the link strong or weak so far? What would Hurston need to show next to strengthen it? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A judgment of thematic development across the work.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18): Delia. Theme link: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

6. Is the symbolism in this story effective, or does it feel heavy-handed? Evaluate it as a reader would in a review. [DOK 3 · fourCorners · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: An evaluative judgment with criteria and evidence.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20): Delia's claim. On symbolism: The snake (and the bullwhip Sykes throws on her, which "looks just like a snake") stands for Sykes's cruelty and, biblically, for evil in the home. Credit any position that is supported by quotation and reasoning; push one-sided answers to address the strongest counterpoint.

7. Compare how “Sweat” treats endurance turning to justice with how another text, film or event you know treats a similar idea. What does Sweat see that the other misses? [DOK 4 · socraticCircle · wait 8 s · CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5] Look for: A cross-text synthesis.

   Answer guidance: A defensible line of argument: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Useful evidence: “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1): The opening. 12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 77 reveal about the character or situation? “Dat snake aint goin' no damn wheah till Ah gits ready fuh 'im tuh go.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 77) shows the situation turning on faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words its wording are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 21 reveal about the character or situation? “She seized the iron skillet from the stove and struck a defensive pose, which act surprised him greatly, coming from her.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 21) shows the situation turning on faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “surprised” and “defensive” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze the word choice in “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1). Pick two words and explain what they suggest.

    Sample answer: The opening. The evidence is “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1). This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “o'clock” and “eleven” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect.

15. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Sweat”? Sykes brings the rattlesnake to kill Delia, who fears snakes, and it kills him instead; his weapon recoils on him.

    A. Diction / vocabulary
    B. Irony
    C. Allusion
    D. Simile

    Key: B (Irony)

16. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Delia. The evidence is “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18). This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “sweat” and “pray” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. She tells him "Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it," and sums up fifteen years as "Sweat, sweat, sweat!"; when Sykes's own snake kills him, the story lets her keep what she earned.

17. [mc · recall · DOK 1] Which word completes this sentence from paragraph 40? “But dey squeeze an' grind, squeeze an' grind an' wring tell dey wring every drop uh _____ dat's in 'em out.”

    A. strawberry
    B. commenced
    C. foolishness
    D. pleasure

    Key: D (pleasure)

18. [mc · recall · DOK 1] What does Sykes use to frighten Delia?

    A. A whip

    B. A gun

    C. A dog

    D. A rattlesnake

    Key: D (A rattlesnake)

19. [mc · analysis · DOK 3] Which literary element does this describe in “Sweat”? The snake (and the bullwhip Sykes throws on her, which ‘looks just like a snake’) stands for Sykes's cruelty and, biblically, for evil in the home.

    A. Diction / vocabulary

    B. Metaphor

    C. Symbolism

    D. Characterization

    Key: C (Symbolism)

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 32 shapes its tone: “Hot or col', rain or shine, jes ez reg'lar ez de weeks roll roun' Delia carries 'em an' fetches 'em on Sat'day.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “reg'lar” and “fetches” (paragraph 32) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Close reading: how do the diction and syntax of “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20) shape its meaning? Consider a second, competing reading.

    Sample answer: Delia's claim. The evidence is “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20). This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “vittles” and “filled” carry that meaning: they are the charged choices in the line, and changing either would soften the effect. She tells him "Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it," and sums up fifteen years as "Sweat, sweat, sweat!"; when Sykes's own snake kills him, the story lets her keep what she earned.

22. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Complete the quotation from Sweat, paragraph 20: “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with _____ more times than yo' hands is filled it”

    Key: vittles

23. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “In the emotional winds her domestic trials were borne far and wide so that she sang as she drove _____,” Word bank: subsided, retrospection, penniless, homeward

    Key: homeward

24. [fill · recall · DOK 1] Fill in the blank with the vocabulary word that fits: “A _____ indifference to all that he was or did.” Word bank: retrospection, penniless, triumphant, subsided

    Key: triumphant

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 40 shapes its tone: “Dey knows whut dey is doin' while dey is at it, an' hates theirselves fuh it but they keeps on hangin' after huh tell she's empty.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

Sample answer: The words “theirselves” and “hangin'” (paragraph 40) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

26. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 88 shapes its tone: “Perhaps her threat to go to the white folks had frightened Sykes!” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “frightened” and “threat” (paragraph 88) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 65 to the story's treatment of faith: “Taint no use uh you puttin' on airs makin' out lak you skeered uh dat snake—he's gointer stay right heah tell he die.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 65) develops faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “puttin'” and “skeered” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “His box remained by the kitchen door with its screen wire covering.” (paragraph 73), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating faith as central.
28. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Synthesis: trace how justice develops from the opening of “Sweat” to its ending. Use one quotation from each part.
    Sample answer: Near the start, “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18) — Delia. Later, “It was eleven o'clock of a Spring night in Florida” (Sweat, paragraph 1) — The opening. Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival.
29. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 93 shapes its tone: “She sped to the darkness of the yard, slamming the door after her before she thought to set down the lamp.” Pick two words and explain their effect.
    Sample answer: The words “darkness” and “slamming” (paragraph 93) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.
30. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 56 to the story's treatment of faith: “Sykes took her frequently to Winter Park to ‘stomps.’ He still assured her that he was the swellest man in the state.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 56) develops faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “frequently” and “swellest” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Delia and Sykes fought all the time now with no peaceful interludes.” (paragraph 59), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating faith as central.
31. [short · inference · DOK 2 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] What can you infer from this line? “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.
    Sample answer: Delia. The evidence is “Sweat, sweat, sweat! Work and sweat, cry and sweat, pray and sweat” (Sweat, paragraph 18). This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival.
32. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 105 to the story's treatment of faith: “Long before this, Sykes' ability to think had been flattened down to primitive instinct and he leaped—onto the bed.” Use one other moment from the story as well.
    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 105) develops faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “flattened” and “primitive” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “It softened her knees and dried her mouth so that it was a full minute before she could cry out or move.” (paragraph 3), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating faith as central.

33. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 9 to the story's treatment of faith: “She went out into the yard and returned with a galvanized tub and sit it on the washbench.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 9) develops faith: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “galvanized” and “washbench” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “One of them amen-corner Christians—sing, whoop, and shout, then come home and wash white folks clothes on the Sabbath.’” (paragraph 13), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating faith as central.

34. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] In the line “A period of introspection, a space of retrospection, then a mixture of both.”, what does “retrospection” most nearly mean?

    A. not having enough money to pay for necessities

    B. looking back on the past

    C. picks; prefers

    D. wear off or die down

    Key: B (looking back on the past)

35. [short · inference · DOK 2 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] What can you infer from this line? “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20) Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: Delia's claim. The evidence is “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20). This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival.

36. [mc · recall · DOK 1 · Program outcome: LeL-C3-LIT-1] In the line “She had the memory of his numerous trips to Orlando with all of his wages when he had returned to her penniless, even before the first year had passed.”, what does “penniless” most nearly mean?

    A. picks; prefers

    B. wear off or die down

    C. looking back on the past

    D. not having enough money to pay for necessities

    Key: D (not having enough money to pay for necessities)

37. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Program outcome: LeL-C4-LIT-1] Claim: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. Explain how this evidence supports the claim: “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20).

    Sample answer: She tells him "Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it," and sums up fifteen years as "Sweat, sweat, sweat!"; when Sykes's own snake kills him, the story lets her keep what she earned. The evidence is “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20) — Delia's claim. This develops justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival.

Writing prompts (eleven rigor levels)

Scaffolded support (250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Supported track (work from the passage your teacher selects). In “Sweat,” how does Hurston show endurance turning to justice? Write a paragraph that states your claim, quotes two details from the passage, and explains how each detail supports your idea. Use the symbolism you noticed as one piece of evidence.

HS Freshman (350 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): In Sweat, how does Hurston develop the idea of endurance turning to justice? State a clear claim, support it with two or three quotations, and explain how the symbolism in the story helps build that idea.

HS Sophomore (450 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Analyze how Sweat develops the idea of endurance turning to justice. Make a precise claim, support it with at least three pieces of textual evidence, and explain how the author's use of symbolism and characterization shapes that idea. Address one possible counterclaim.

HS Junior (550 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO3): Analyze how the structure of Sweat (where it begins, turns and ends) and its symbolism shape the reader's understanding of endurance turning to justice. Identify one place where the text leaves matters uncertain and explain how that uncertainty adds to its meaning.

HS Senior (600 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3, CAIE-9695.AO5): Two readers disagree about what Sweat suggests about endurance turning to justice. Lay out two plausible interpretations, weigh the evidence for each (including the story's symbolism and characterization), and argue for the stronger one in a sustained, well-organized essay.

AP (650 words; Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2, CAIE-9695.AO4): Write a literary argument in which you analyze how Zora Neale Hurston uses symbolism in Sweat to complicate the reader's understanding of endurance turning to justice. Develop a defensible thesis, select evidence purposefully, and explain how specific choices of diction and syntax create meaning.

College Freshman (1000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Situate Sweat within its historical and literary context and argue how the story's treatment of endurance turning to justice responds to that context. Engage with at least one secondary perspective (a critic, historian or the author's own statements), integrate quotations smoothly, and cite in MLA style.

College Sophomore (1250 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Read Sweat alongside the conventions of its genre and period. Argue how the story's handling of endurance turning to justice follows or bends those conventions, using the symbolism as evidence, and test your reading against one published critic. Document two secondary sources in MLA.

College Junior (1500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Apply a named critical approach (for example formalist, historicist, feminist, psychoanalytic or ecocritical) to Sweat and its treatment of endurance turning to justice. State your method, show what it reveals in the story's symbolism and characterization, and identify where the text resists it.

College Senior (2000 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop a research argument that reads Sweat as evidence for a larger claim about endurance turning to justice in Sweat. Connect close reading of the story to the whole story, engage at least four scholarly sources, and state precisely where your reading departs from theirs (Chicago style).

Graduate / PhD (2500 words; Cambridge International: see unit standards): Develop an original argument that reads Sweat as a hinge in the story's larger treatment of endurance turning to justice. Position your reading within a named critical conversation (for example formalist, historicist, psychoanalytic, feminist or postcolonial approaches), account for the textual history where relevant, and articulate the stakes of your intervention for scholarship on Sweat.

10. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 93 reveal about the character or situation? “Then, moved by both horror and terror, he spring back toward the door.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 93) shows the situation turning on domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “toward” and “spring” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

11. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 3 reveal about the character or situation? “It softened her knees and dried her mouth so that it was a full minute before she could cry out or move.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 3) shows the situation turning on endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “softened” and “minute” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

12. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 38 reveal about the character or situation? “He useter be so skeered uh losin' huh, she could make him do some parts of a husband's duty.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

    Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 38) shows the situation turning on domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “husband's” and “skeered” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

13. [short · inference · DOK 2] What does this passage from paragraph 59 reveal about the character or situation? “Delia and Sykes fought all the time now with no peaceful interludes.” Answer in two or three sentences with one detail.

Sample answer: The passage (paragraph 59) shows the situation turning on endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The words “interludes” and “peaceful” are the proof, because they show how the moment looks to the people in it. They suggest more than the narrator states outright.

14. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 6 shapes its tone: “That's how come Ah done it.’ He slapped his leg with his hand and almost rolled on the ground in his mirth.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “slapped” and “almost” (paragraph 6) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

15. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 61 shapes its tone: “She wondered, but started to go on into the house without speaking, even though he was standing in the kitchen door and she must either stoop under his arm or ask him to move.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “standing” and “wondered” (paragraph 61) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

16. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 52 shapes its tone: “The men returned soon after they left, and held their watermelon feast.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “watermelon” and “returned” (paragraph 52) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

17. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 73 shapes its tone: “His box remained by the kitchen door with its screen wire covering.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “covering” and “remained” (paragraph 73) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

18. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 16 to the story's treatment of domestic abuse: “Anyhow, Ah done promised Gawd and a couple of other men, Ah aint gointer have it in mah house.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 16) develops domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “promised” and “gointer” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “She seized the iron skillet from the stove and struck a defensive pose, which act surprised him greatly, coming from…” (paragraph 21), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating domestic abuse as central.

19. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 24 shapes its tone: “He did not say where he had gone, but she knew too well.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words its wording (paragraph 24) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

20. [short · analysis · DOK 3] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 101 shapes its tone: “Inside, Sykes heard nothing until he knocked a pot lid off the stove while trying to reach the match safe in the dark.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “knocked” and “nothing” (paragraph 101) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

21. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 47 to the story's treatment of endurance and justice: “Merchant snapped down the blade of his jack-knife and moved toward the store door.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 47) develops endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “snapped” and “toward” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “The men returned soon after they left, and held their watermelon feast.” (paragraph 52), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating endurance and justice as central.

22. [short · synthesis · DOK 4] Connect this passage from paragraph 91 to the story's treatment of endurance and justice: “Nobody but a woman could tell how she knew this even before she struck the match.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 91) develops endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “struck” and “before” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Then, moved by both horror and terror, he spring back toward the door.” (paragraph 93), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating endurance and justice as central.

23. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 73 to the story's treatment of domestic abuse: “She stood for a long time in the doorway in a red fury that grew bloodier for every second that she regarded the creature that was her torment.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 73) develops domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “regarded” and “creature” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Dat snake aint goin' no damn wheah till Ah gits ready fuh 'im tuh go.” (paragraph 77), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating domestic abuse as central.

24. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 81 to the story's treatment of domestic abuse: “Ah'm goin' tuh de white folks bout you, mah young man, de very nex' time you lay yo' han's on me.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 81) develops domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words its wording carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Perhaps her threat to go to the white folks had frightened Sykes!” (paragraph 88), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating domestic abuse as central.

25. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 13 shapes its tone: “One of them amen-corner Christians—sing, whoop, and shout, then come home and wash white folks clothes on the Sabbath.’” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words “clothes” and “corner” (paragraph 13) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral.

That weight points the reader to endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

26. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 37 to the story's treatment of endurance and justice: “Did Ah tell yuh 'bout him come sidlin' roun' mah wife—bringin' her a basket uh pee-cans outa his yard fuh a present?” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 37) develops endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “bringin'” and “sidlin'” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “He useter be so skeered uh losin' huh, she could make him do some parts of a husband's duty.” (paragraph 38), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating endurance and justice as central.

27. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO3] Connect this passage from paragraph 98 to the story's treatment of endurance and justice: “He hurried to the kitchen door, but hung outside there some minutes before he entered, and stood some minutes more inside before he closed it after him.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 98) develops endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “minutes” and “outside” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Inside, Sykes heard nothing until he knocked a pot lid off the stove while trying to reach the match safe in the dark.” (paragraph 101), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating endurance and justice as central.

28. [short · analysis · DOK 3 · Cambridge International: CAIE-9695.AO2] Analyze how the word choice in this passage from paragraph 78 shapes its tone: “Lay 'roun' wid dat 'oman all yuh wants tuh, but gwan 'way fum me an' mah house.” Pick two words and explain their effect.

    Sample answer: The words its wording (paragraph 78) make the tone heavy and deliberate rather than neutral. That weight points the reader to endurance and justice: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. The author chooses them so the moment feels significant instead of passing.

29. [short · synthesis · DOK 4 · Dual Credit (Indiana College Core): ICC-WC-1.5] Connect this passage from paragraph 26 to the story's treatment of domestic abuse: “Sometime or ruther, Sykes, like everybody else, is gointer reap his sowing.’ After that she was able to build a spiritual earthworks against her husband.” Use one other moment from the story as well.

    Sample answer: This passage (paragraph 26) develops domestic abuse: Sykes reaps what he sows; the story asks whether Delia's choice not to help is justice, revenge or survival. Its words “earthworks” and “spiritual” carry that idea into this moment. The same concern returns in “Hot or col', rain or shine, jes ez reg'lar ez de weeks roll roun' Delia carries 'em an' fetches 'em on Sat'day.” (paragraph 32), so the two passages read as a pattern, not a single moment. Together they show the story treating domestic abuse as central.

Final paper

Sweat: final paper (formal literary analysis). Choose one prompt.

1. Analyze how Zora Neale Hurston develops endurance and justice across Sweat. Trace the idea through at least three moments (beginning, middle and end) and argue what the ending finally suggests.
2. Choose one recurring symbol, image or motif in Sweat and argue how its meaning changes over the story and why that change matters to domestic abuse.
3. Analyze a central character's choices in Sweat. Argue whether the story judges that character, and how its structure or point of view shapes your answer.
4. Two readers disagree about whether Sweat finally endorses or criticizes its society's view of faith. Weigh both readings and argue for one, answering the strongest objection.

Length: Scaffolded support 500-700 words; HS Freshman 700-900 words; HS Sophomore 900-1,100 words; HS Junior 1,000-1,300 words; HS Senior 1,200-1,500 words; AP 1,300-1,600 words; College Freshman 1,500-2,000 words; College Sophomore 2,000-2,500 words; College Junior 2,500-3,000 words; College Senior 3,000-4,000 words; Graduate / PhD 4,000-6,000 words Evidence requirement: at least 4 quotations from at least two parts of the story. Quote the reading text exactly and cite the paragraph (MLA style). HS Senior and above: one scholarly or historical source; College Sophomore and above: two, cited in MLA.

Criterion	Points	Descriptor	Exemplary	Proficient	Developing	Beginning
Thesis	20	A specific, arguable claim that answers the prompt and organizes the paper.	Specific, arguable and precise; it organizes every section.	Clear and arguable, but broad in places.	States a topic or a summary more than an argument.	Missing, or restates the prompt.
Evidence	25	Well-chosen, accurately quoted and cited passages from across the work, meeting the evidence requirement.	Accurate, well-chosen quotations from across the work, all cited; meets the requirement.	Accurate and cited, but clustered in one part of the work.	Too few quotations, or some inaccurate or uncited.	Little or no quoted evidence.
Analysis	30	Explains how language, structure and literary elements create meaning; goes beyond summary.	Explains how specific words, structure and devices create meaning; weighs a competing reading.	Explains the evidence, with some close reading.	Mostly summary; the link to the claim is asserted, not shown.	Summary only.
Organization	15

		Logical progression, clear topic sentences and transitions; introduction and conclusion frame the argument.	Each paragraph advances the argument; transitions show logic.	Logical order with minor jumps.	Order is loose; paragraphs repeat or drift.	No discernible structure.
Style and conventions	10	Formal academic voice, present tense for literature, correct grammar and MLA format.	Formal, precise, present tense; MLA format; virtually error-free.	Formal with a few errors that do not obscure meaning.	Informal or error-prone in ways that distract.	Errors obscure meaning.

Exemplar paragraph: Delia's labor gives her a moral claim to the home that Sykes tries to take. The text makes this visible when it says “Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it” (Sweat, paragraph 20). She tells him "Mah tub of suds is filled yo' belly with vittles more times than yo' hands is filled it," and sums up fifteen years as "Sweat, sweat, sweat!"; when Sykes's own snake kills him, the story lets her keep what she earned. A full paper would carry this reading through the beginning, middle and end, and answer the strongest competing reading.
